In the final round of the EAIAW tournament, Cortland State (12-3) upset UConn (15-3-1) 5-2. The standings of the tourney were as follows: (1)Cortland State (2)UConn (3)UMass (4)Harvard.

★ Field hockey

continued from page 16

Stevens, Stron, and Coughlin. With a fierce flick that sent the ball into the upper right corner, Caples gave UMass the advantage over UConn. Pam Ross had the last chance for the Huskies. She came through and the game went into the second stroke-off.

This time UMass faltered and UConn didn't. Misses by Coughlin and Stevens for the Minutewomen opened the door for the third-seeded Huskies as Ross played hero again with her shot to the lower right corner of the net, past the sprawled Shea. 2-1 Connecticut.

"Hey, there had to be a winner and a loser," Hixon said, "This team's a young team. UConn's a bit more experienced than us and it showed."

★ UM over Crusaders

continued from page 16

attempts for 106 yards and two touchdowns. "Kevin (Jackson) and Jimmy (Ryan) lined up wide and just went for the endzone. Jimmy had double-coverage and Kevin had single, so I went to Kevin."

The pass was floated perfectly and Jackson, who had made his first reception as a UMass player earlier, came up with a diving catch for the touchdown, with a Crusader defender on his back.

"The pass was right there," Jackson said. "Dean (Pecevich) led me perfectly. There was no way I was going to drop that ball."

In what was possibly the hardest hitting game of the season, Holy Cross contained UMass tailback Garry Pearson to just (just?) 98 yards on 23 carries. UMass fullback Brian Heyworth rushed 12 times for 60 yards.

Holy Cross opened the scoring at 4:27 of the second quarter when tailback Mark Covington scored from one yard out on fourth down, after the UMass defense had held on three previous attempts inside the five. Holy Cross kicker Mike Oden missed the extra point, and UMass took a 7-6 lead five minutes later when Pecevich found Ryan over the middle for a 32-yard touchdown pass and UMass kicker Herb Newland added the point after.

With just 51 seconds left in the second quarter, Newland kicked a 32-yard field goal to send UMass into the locker room with a 10-6 lead at the half.

The teams played a scoreless third quarter, as Oden missed field goal attempts of 47 and 28 yards. Holy Cross took the lead early in the fourth quarter when Covington, who had just eight yards on nine attempts, ran in his second touchdown from four yards out. Crusader quarterback Dave Boisture, who threw for 222 yards (22-for48) led Holy Cross downfield for the go-ahead touchdown, the key play being an 18-yard completion to Brian Kelly on fourth down and 15. Holy Cross head coach Neil Wheelright had seen enough of Oden and replaced him with Matt Michaud, who added the extra point for a 13-10 Holy Cross lead with 13 minutes to play.

The stage was set for underclassmen heroics, and Pecevich and Jackson responded. After their go-ahead touchdown, the UMass defense sprang back to life and made sure Holy Cross did not pull off a last-second win as they did last year against the Minutemen at Alumni Stadium. Boisture's last desperation pass on fourth down sailed out of bounds and UMass held.

"We knew we had to win this game for Timmy (Fontaine)," Pecevich said later, as UMass trainers worked on a bruised thigh Pecevich received late in the game. "I'm just gald we did."

MINUTEMAN NOTEBOOK:

Pickett delivered the game ball to Fontaine at Cooley-Dickinson Hospital in Northampton Saturday night. Fontaine, who is expected to be hospitalized for another two weeks with a bruised kidney and a cracked vertebra, took his first solid food since the injury Saturday. "He was very pleased with the game ball," Pickett said yesterday. "Tim listened to the game on the radio. He's much better now; he's getting around on his own." Pecevich was named the game's MVP and was given the Dr. Edward Anderson Memorial Award, a trophy whose size amazed the UMass quarterback. Pecevich was especially pleased to start his first college game in Worcester, where he was born. "A lot of my relatives were here for the game," Pecevich said. "Both of my parents are from Worcester." Pecevich's uncle Tom Early was mayor of Worcester a few years back...Pearson, normally a quiet guy, was all over a referee after a late hit on Pecevich. "The guy (the ref) didn't even throw a flag," Pearson said. "We've already lost one quarterback; there's just no way that the refs should allow all those late hits. There's just too many helmets flying around out there."...UMass cornerback Dwayne Lopes had an interception Saturday and played an overall excellent game. Lopes had to leave the game with a bruised shoulder in the fourth quarter, but should be ready for next week's game against New Hampshire.

UM in regionals

Despite the 1-3 performance at the Rutgers Invitational this past weekend, the UMass women's volleyball team has been seeded fifth in the Eastern Regionals. For more details see Maureen Sullivan's story in Wednesday's Collegian.

Join Us For Monday Night Football

Time Out

2 TV's

37 N. Pleasant
256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn, Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$

CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos

MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM

Photographic Posters

Classics by the Great Photographers of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries

Open Tues-Sat 10-5:30

Pratt Gallery — 37 So. Pleasant St. — Amherst, MA 01002

NEW!

"Do-it-yourself"
Copy a one-hour cassette in less than 2 minutes.

Make a Copy of your Favorite Cassette For Only *99¢

*Price includes the copy cassette and the Copying Service! Guaranteed perfect monaural copies, every time.

What can you copy?
The potential uses for cassette copies are endless. Here are just a few of the most common applications:
meetings, sermons, sales messages, weddings, interviews, talking letters, family events, relaxations, exercises, word-processing data, and computer programs.

This coupon is redeemable for one (1) cassette copy of your original cassette for only 99¢. Any additional copies of your original cassette are at the prices below. Simply bring your original cassette and this coupon with you. The copy cassette and the copying service are included in one price.

Your Original Cassette Length	Regular Price Per Copy	High-Speed Copying Time
30 minute	$2.19	1 minute
60 minute	$2.89	2 minutes
90 minute	$3.79	3 minutes
120 minute	$4.79	4 minutes

REZOUND CASSETTE COPYING CENTERS

Retailer Redemption Procedure: When cashing this coupon, please circle the copy cassette size and initial it at the time of purchase. Then anytime after the date of this promotion, send us your coupons for redemption. We will replace each coupon with a fresh cassette and invoice you at seventy cents ($.70) each regardless of cassette size. Send to: 1401-B West River Road North, Mpls., MN 55411

This Coupon Expires 11/15/80

Available Exclusively at:
the University Store
Campus Center
Univ. of Mass.

Form 1380

Sports

BU takes Conference title

Minutemen tip Crusaders, 17-13

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

WORCESTER—It was about a half hour after the University of Massachusetts football team had come from behind to defeat Holy Cross 17-13, that UMass head coach Bob Pickett asked the media to step outside of the locker room for a few minutes.

The door was shut and the team had a talk.

For the first time in four years UMass would not have a Yankee Conference title. Boston University settled that when they defeated the University of Connecticut in Storrs, 28-24 in the last 15 seconds.

But a cheer went up in the UMass locker room anyway. The game ball was voted to Tim Fontaine, the UMass quarterback who was injured last week against UConn, so a cheer went up.

There weren't enough game balls to go around Saturday at Fitton Field, after sophomore Dean Pecevich, playing in place of Fontaine, hit freshman Kevin Jackson with a 37-yard touchdown pass with 8:06 left to play that put the Minutemen on top to stay.

"It wasn't a good offensive game for us," Pickett said. "But we had enough to win."

UMass (6-2) had enough to win because of the ol' cliche, the big play. The winning touchdown itself was set up by a fake punt, which UMass linebacker Pete DiTommaso took on fourth down and went around the left end for a 14 yard gain and a first down. Three plays later Pecevich hit Jackson with the touchdown pass.

"We said if we got the field position to use it (the fake punt), we would," Pickett said. "Last week we ran the same play against UConn and fell just short of the first down, but this week it worked."

They had the field position, and DiTommaso, who had lined up the protector for punter Ray Larnard, got the ball.

"Nervous?" Pete DiTommaso asked. "Are you kidding? I'm not a runner. I just took the ball and looked for the first down."

After a personal foul pushed the ball back to the Holy Cross 37 yard line, Pecevich and Jackson teamed up.

"It was a streak play," explained Pecevich, who completed seven of 12

turn to page 15

Staff photo by Scott Burke

UMass third in EAIAW

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

With 28 seconds remaining, Moira Buckly scored for the University of Connecticut, lifting the Huskies to a 2-1 victory over the University of Massachusetts women's soccer team. Tara Buckley was credited with an assist on the winning tally. UMass met UConn in the semi-final round of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women tournament, held Saturday in Burlington, VT.

In a case of turnabout fair play, the Minutewomen fell to defeat at the hands of a team they bested earlier in the season by the identical score, 2-1. The loss to the Huskies ended all hopes of a first place finish in the tournament.

The Minutewomen scored first on a goal by sophomore forward Nancy Feldman with an assist by Nina Holstrom. UMass held this vicarious 1-0 lead until UConn's Lori McKay scored unassisted, tying the game at 1-1. The two teams were deadlocked for about 66 minutes until Buckley's goal. Huskie goaltender Mary Lou Breen had five saves while Kelly Tuller stopped six for UMass.

Having lost to UConn, the Minutewomen then played Harvard in the consolation round of the tournament. UConn advanced to the finals.

turn to page 15

Sue Caples is set for the pass during Friday's game against URI. (Staff photo by Lisa Mead)

Overtime stroke-offs kill UM Nationals bid

By CLAY BORGLUND
Collegian Staff

Let it be known that the UMass women's field hockey team never quit. Sure, they fell short of their EAIAW pre-tournament expectations finishing a dissappointing fourth, but they never once threw in the towel.

The odyssey of this lost weekend for the women began of Friday. Following the trend of earlier games in which number one, thre, and four all advanced with wins (UNH, UConn, and Springfield, UMass trounced number seven

The odyssey of this lost weekend for the women began on Friday. Following the trend of earlier games in which the number one, three, and four seeds all advanced with wins (UNH, UConn, and Springfield), UMass trounced number seven UR14-0 in a very one-sided mismatch.

That set the stage for Saturday's semi-final contest against the University of Connecticut, eventual winners of the championship. Played under the semi-adequate lights at Springfield's Benedum Field, it turned out to be a classic confrontation.

With both teams hustling to the hilt, action on the field continually had the crowd of 800 up and down out of their seats. Then at the 10:25 mark of the half, a perfectly executed corner gave UMass a 1-0 lead which held up for the remainder of the first thirty-five minutes.

Tish Stevens started the play with a centering pass from the penalty mark. Chris Coughlin stopped the ball with her hand, and Sue Caples blasted in a shot from 15 yards out.

UMass goalie, Patty Shea, kept the score at 1 0 with several outstanding stops in net. At least three were sure goals if not for the five-star saves she pulled off.

The second half was a killer for the Minutewomen. UConn could only muster two shots on net during the final thirty-five minutes, but one of those found its way home on a very questionable play to knot the score at one apiece.

Tallied by Joanne Poirier of the Huskies at the 19:12 mark, it was a high shot from the right side that ended up in the top corner of the UMass goal. It looked like a dangerous play because of its height.

"I definitely thought it was a dangerous play," coach Pam Hixon said, "it was right up in her face."

Another opion came from a referee waiting for the next game in the press box. "I think it might have gone of a UMass stick which made it take off. That's the only way I can see it being allowed."

No matter what happened on the shot, it stood. Overtime loomed for the two teams as Judy Strong's last second scoring bid was steered out-of-bounds by UConn goalie Lyn Kotler.

"I thought it was a rotten call," Hixon said, "but you can't take it back."

At the end of the two non-sudden death overtimes, the teams were still tied 1-1, so the outcome of the game was to be decided by five-shot stroke-offs.

The stroke-offs pitted each goalie against five different opposing shooters, alternately teeing up from the penalty shot line just a scant seven yards in front of the goal.

Coughlin was the first UMass shooter, and her attempt was blocked by UConn's Kotler. the UConn and UMass shooter then traded off three goals apiece until Denise Smith of the Huskies rang the right post with her shot, which evened up the stroke-off at three apiece with still one shooter to go for each team.

Sue Caples was the Minutewomen's fifth shooter, following Carol Proculska,

turn to page 15

JV's win, varsity places fourth in New Englands

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts' men's junior varsity cross country team ran to a first place victory in the JV division of the New England Championships this weekend while the varsity placed fourth out of 33 teams.

Paul Beaulieu's 13th place (24:45) led the UMass varsity to its fourth place finish. Dan Fitch's first place time (25:41) gave UMass its sweep of the first four places in the JV division.

Out of 33 New England schools, Providence College proved to be number one by accumulating only 31 points followed by the University of Connecticut (104), Boston College (134), UMass (154), Bates (188), and Northeastern (197).

"The meet was an accurate reflection of the team's running this year because in one meet, two or three of the runners will run their best and in the next meet they'll run their worst," head coach Ken O'Brien said.

Also running well for UMass were Mike Doiron, Kevin Corcoran, Frank Prial, and Chris Omeltchenko.

"Beaulieu and Prial ran excellent races that were their best of the year," O'Brien said.

Saturday November 15 will be the National Qualifying meet at Franklin Park, Boston where only the top three teams and top four individuals go on to Nationals. "We'll have to develop an ability to regulate their consistency as individuals or as a team in order for us to do well this weekend," O'Brien said.

VOLUME 9 ISSUE 11 NOVEMBER 10, 1980

NUMMO

DICK GREGORY: 'SHOCKING'

photo by Bobby Davis

by Gary Lee

Listening to Dick Gregory speak is like listening to a minister, a professor, a comedian, a local informant and your father all at once. He walks around the stage, talking softly, then shouting in anger, cracking jokes, asking questions, scolding the audience, and all the while spewing forth information which makes the listner take notice. He is indeed a fascinating person.

Dick Gregory is an honest and intelligent man who speaks his mind, a mind that is extremely perceptive. He is also a talented comedian-author who has fasted to dramatize the plight of disadvantaged people throughout the world, ran across the country twice, written books on conspiracies in the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King, and been harrassed by the intelligence agencies.

Dick Gregory does not believe everything he reads or hears. He critically analyses everything; does his homework(something he implored the crowd at the SUB to do), and tunes in to the God Force which he says is within each of us. He has used this to write a short story, to try to deal with everything Borther Richard had to say the other night: The 'election', The KKK, the Nobel 'Peace' Prize, the Superpowers vs. Islam, etc... What I will do is what Dicksaid to do, ask some questions.

WHO, told Carter that he was going to lose when the polls showed a close race?

WHY: did Carter break down and cry upon hearing the news?

WHY: did Carter concede at 9:30 p.m. Eastern time when the polls were still open in parts of the country?

WHY: is everyone talking conservative trend exemplified by a Reagan landslide when 48 percent of those eligible did not vote?

WHY: is there an electoral college when the popular vote is supposed to portray the wishes of the people?

HOW: can the electoral college show a Reagan landslide (489 to 49) when Reagan only got 10 percent more popular votes?

WHY: does the press keep harping on the fact that Reagan is 69 years old; if he's not sick?

WHY: on election night did Walter Concrete (As Gil-Scott Heron calls him) call George Bush "...the next president of the U.S."?

WHY: isn't anyone talking about the interest (approx. $390 million) accumulating from the $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets?

WHY: has the U.S. never denied any of the Iranian allegations while adamantly refusing to apologize or cede to the demands of terrorists?

WHY:...during the aborted rescue mission...did the U.S. Army leave its disabled equipment intact along with a notebook containing the names of U.S. sympathizers and key personnel which has presumably been executed?

WHY: have the U.S. and U.S.S.R. continued to ship arms either directly or indirectly to Iran and Iraq despite their (U.S. & Soviet) claims of neutrality?

WHY: do the U.S. and U.S.S.R. have everyone fighting their battles around the world if they are such brutal enemies?

WHY: doesn't a "law and order" crackdown ever...do anything substantial about 'organized' crime?

WHY: doesn't the U.S. recognize the Palestinian Liberation Organization but very much recognize the Ku Klux Klan's 'right' to exist?

WHY: can't people at institutions of higher learning leave their doors unlocked when they go out?

turn to page 2

PLEASE FOLD HERE

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BLACK HOMECOMING WEEK
November 9 - 16

Sunday, November 9
PARADE AND RALLY
from Amherst Common to New Africa House
Refreshments and rededication at the New Africa House.
Assemble at Amherst Common at 12:00 noon.

Monday, November 10
OPENING DINNER & SLIDE SHOW
Catered by Sister Yvonne
Malcolm X Center, 7:00 p.m., $1.00 donation

Tuesday, November 11
BLACK POETRY & MUSIC
By UJAMAA & Co.
Hampden Theater, 7:00 p.m.

Wednesday, November 12
ORGANIZATIONAL GATHERING & MOVIE
No Vietnamese Ever Called Me a Nigger
Malcolm X Center, 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, November 13
BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT
NOPE Gym, 5:30 p.m.
ROLLERSKATING PARTY
Buses leaving from NOPE Gym for USA in Chicopee at 9:00 p.m.

Friday, November 14
Ahora presents in concert
RAY BARRETTO & His Orchestra
Student Union Ballroom, 8:00 p.m.

Saturday, November 15
PARTY
Time and Place to be announced

Sunday, November 16
TALENT SHOW
Hampden Theater, 7:30 p.m.

"We are here together to learn to open ourselves to each other and the world." -Lance Wallace

BMCP Committee Meetings
News Letter
Wednesday 12 5:00pm
Public Affairs
Wednesday 12 6:00pm
Internal Affairs
Wednesday 12 7:00pm
All meetings 402 SUB

DRUMMING

Drumming classes are now being offered by Pablo Landrum from New York City. Mondays from 5-8 p.m. $10.00 includes beg. and int. playing, notation, and cultural context of the music. More information: contact Joe Parz 353-5009. Don't wait; classes have already started.

NUMMO is the magic power of the spoken and written word. With each word translated, the speaker's power is increased. Water is necessary for the existance of all life forces on earth.

"OPRESSION"

The Prophet Muhammad
(Peace And Blessing Be Upon Him)

Instructed His Followers
To Correct Injustice
And Wrongdoing With Force.
But That Was Not Possible
For Them At That Time Due To
And If That Was Not Possible
To At Least Hate It In Their Hearts

NUMMO NEWS STAFF MEETING
MONDAY 7:30pm
NEW AFRICA HOUSE
ROOM 103
STAFF AND INTERESTED MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNITY PLEASE ATTEND.

HAIR

Latees Muhammed will be the new barber and hair stylist at New Africa House, every Thursday from 10:00 to 7:00.

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Artwork and photography are now being accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to:
DRUM
115 New Africa House
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003

no later than November 20, 1980

Come accept the invitation and SHARE YOUR MIND with the world. All contributions become property of DRUM

Five College Black Studies will present a seminar on "The Significance of the Cuban Revolution for Black America." The speaker, Robert Chrisman, is publisher of The Black Scholar and president of the Black World Foundation, an organization he co-founded in 1969. Mr. Chrisman is also co-editor of Contemporary Black Thought, Black Scholar from Black Scholar, and Pan Africanism. A frequent visitor to Cuba, he has written many articles on developments in that country and their significance for black Americans and other Third World peoples.

The seminar will take place on Tuesday, November 11 at 8:00 p.m. in Webster Hall Lounge, Hampshire College. The Five College community and public are welcome. A reception will follow the lecture.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

THE STRUGGLE IN CONGO (ZAIRE)

AMHERST. On Tuesday, November 18 at the University of Massachusetts, a forum in support of the Congolese liberation struggle at the Mass. Five College Area will be held in the Campus Center, Room 804 at 7:30 p.m. Serge Mukendi, the U.S. representative of the Congolese National Liberation Front (F.L.N.C.) will speak on the fight of the people of the Congo (Zaire) against U.S.-led imperialism and the brutal dictatorship of Mobutu Sese Seko. A $2.00 donation will be requested at the door. Childcare will be provided.

This forum is presented by the John Brown Anti-Klan Committee, the Center for Racial Justice, Black Men's Support Commission Project, the International Human Rights Coalition and other organizations.

For more information contact:

John Brown Anti-Klan Committee
Box 782
Amherst, MA 01002
586-8435

Mokubung Nkomo
Center for Racial Studies
Southwest Residential Center, Moore House
UMass, Amherst, MA. 545-1550

PALESTINIAN "SOLIDARY" COMMITTEE MEETING

EVERYONE IS ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND FOR SOLIDARITY TO THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE'S STRUGGLE FOR SELF-DETERMINATION.

WED. NOV. 12 at 5:00 p.m.

See the Announcement Section in Wednesday's COLLEGIAN for the meeting room number

DICK GREGORY

continued from page 2

WHY: is it that of the "twenty most admired blacks" (according to EBONY and JET magazines) fourteen are either entertainers or athletes?

WHY: do four of the most bizarre personalities of the past two decades (The Harrises of the Symbionese Liberation Army, Jim Jones of Guyana, and Charles Manson) just happen to come from Indiannapolis, Indiana, home of the Eli Lilly Drug Company??

WHY: is it that American auto companies rant and rave about the influx of Japanese imports but they don't suggest quotas to deal with the massive imports from Germany (Mercedes, Volkswagens, Audi and BMW)??

The list of questions could go on forever. The reader probably has his/her own. One can suggest any number of answers for the questions asked here. Dick Gregory did have some answers: the CIA, ignorance, racism, sexism, greed, evil. What he emphasized, though, is that we all ask questions and research answers; not just sit back passively and accept all the crap that's thrown at us. Dick does his homework and doesn't care what people, the authorities, or recognized institutions think of him. "It will be a cold day in hell when truth has to be validated by ignorance!" he says.

The essential message of Gregory's speech last week was that, "there is a twenty-four hour trick being played on us...we're being manipulated," and in order to combat this manipulation we've got to take care of our bodies, be careful of what we put into it, listen to the God-Force within us and tune into the universal order. Then and only then will we realize that "simplicity not complexity will bring us answers."

Dick Gregory last spoke at UMass in November of 1978. Only a week or so later there was an attempt on his life which, though it failed to get him, took the life of a good friend of his. The culprits have never been apprehended. Dick has documents to prove that the FBI sought to "neutralize" him since 1968. For this reason he has taken out a $100 million lawsuit against the U.S. intelligence agency.

I applaud his efforts and wish him well in his quest to throw down the funk for the punks of America. An now its time for us to "do our homework."

Lt. Col Frederick Gregory, the single black astronaut in NASA, honored us with his presence during "open house" at New Africa House (photo by Barron Roland)

VIOLENT ATTACKS ON BLACKS CONTINUE

Police brutality struck in Brooklyn, N.Y., Oct. 17 when two Black youths were killed by two New York City police. More than 1000 angry Blacks and Latinos rallied to demand prosecution of the cops.

The police violence occurred as the wave of racism across the country continued. In Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 23 a bomb that was set to explode outside a Black church was found and detonated by police. In Chattanooga, Tenn., a shotgun attack by white men on a group of Black teenagers Oct. 24 left one youth in the hospital.

In Boston, meanwhile, white students at South Boston High returned to classes after a 2-week boycott that was inspired by racist anti-"busing" forces in Boston. The boycott was called to demand the installation of metal detectors in the school after violence started by white students erupted. The boycott ended without the metal detectors, however, as white students slowly returned to classes.

In the Brooklyn incident, residents of the Bushwick and Williamsburg neighborhoods, led by the Black United Front, are demanding the suspension and prosecution on murder charges of the two white plainclothes policemen involved in the deaths of two Black youths and serious injuries to three others.

The youths, Ricky Lewis, 24, and Kenneth Gamble, 18, were shot after the car in which they and four others were riding crashed during a high-speed chase by the police.

Eyewitnesses have said that Gamble was shot four times while surrendering with his hands in the air and Lewis was shot while sitting in the car immediately after it crashed. Although police, who did not identify themselves, said the youths were shooting at them, no guns were found by police in or near the car. Police chased the youths on the pretest of intervening in an earlier alleged gunfight at a social club.

"At the time of the crash arrests could have been made," said one eyewitness. "But there was not time taken out to make an arrest. They didn't have a chance."

"We have to start organizing, uniting," Dave Walker of the Black United Front told a rally a few days after the killing. "You've got to remember something," he continued. "They've [the police] got a bullet for each of us.....We're putting them on notice. We're not going to take any more police murders of our Black people."

In Birmingham, a bomb was placed at the front door of the Galilee Baptist Church in a Black neighborhood Oct. 23. The only thing preventing the bomb from exploding was a faulty timing device, according to press reports.

In 1963, four young Black girls were killed when a powerful bomb exploded during Sunday services at a Black Baptist church in Birmingham.

In Chattanooga, meanwhile, police have a description of a white man who shot at a group of 10-15 Black youths who were walking home from high school. The man among a group of white men who pulled up behind the youths in a pickup truck and started shouting racial epithets before shooting. One of the youth was injured and treated in a local hospital.

These attacks on Blacks have taken place against the backdrop of continuing police inability to solve the murders of Blacks in Buffalo and Atlanta. The arrest in Tampa, Fla., Oct 28 of the Klan member Joseph Paul Franklin, a suspect in the sniper murders of more than 12 Blacks across the country and the shooting of civil rights figure Vernon Jordan, has not allayed the concern of Blacks for the growth of racial violence.

Six Black males have been murdered in Buffalo in the last month. Four of them were shot by what eyewitnesses described as a young white with a .22 caliber gun. Federal authorities have dispatched high-ranking Justice department officials to Buffalo to give the impression of conducting a "vigorous" investigation and to pacify Buffalo's angry Black community.

In Atlanta, 10 Black youths, all kidnapped in the last 15 months , have been found murdered. Four others remain missing as local Blacks press city officials to step up the 11th hour investigation.

A psychic who spent a few days in Atlanta "assisting" the city in its search returned to her Nutley, N.J., home Oct. 28, her "mission" a failure. While in Atlanta, psychic Dorothy Allison tried to deflect the racism behind the murders by claiming the killer was Black.

F.E.
The Guardian

NEWSBRIEFS:

Black Investigator Probes Police-Klan Connection:

Harrisburg, PA.--(NBNS)--A black inspector, Michael Bowles, is looking into allegations of Ku Klux Klan affiliations with members of the Harrisburg police department.

Bowles is investigating whether any Harrisburg police officers are members of the Klan and whether Klan medallions have been sold by officers while in uniform.

The investigation, being conducted by state and city human relations commissions, started when a white police officer allegedly sold a KKK medallion to a black city employee.

Allegations that white officers used racial slurs in the presence of black officers; that there was racist graffitti in the men's room of the police department, and that black officers have received supposedly humorous printed matter containing racial epithets are also being probed.

Mayor Paul E. Doutrieh, Jr. stated that any officers associated with the Klan would be fired, however, city public safety director. William A. Hewitt, has said it would be improper to interfere with an officer's personal life.

R. Duran

MOBILE, Ala.--A federal judge ordered a new trial in a civil rights challenge to Mobile's at-largemethod of electing its city commissioners.

The city had asked for dismissal of the suit brought several years ago by a group of blacks seeking to do away with the at-large elections. U.S. District Court Judge Virgil Pittman, in ordering a new trial, denied the city's request.

On April 22, a divided U.S. Supreme Court found no proof of intent by the city to discriminate.

FAMILY INCOME RISES

WASHINGTON, Oct.. 22 (AP)--The median income of American families rose 11.6 percent last year, but inflation eroded all but a fraction of the gain, the Census Bureau said today.

The median family income was $19,684 in 1979 as against $17,640 the previous year, but inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, rose by 11.3 percent, the bureau said. That left an increase in spending power of only 0.3 percent.

The Census Bureau said 28.7 percent of the families had incomes below $12,500 a year and 65.4 percent had incomes under $25,000.

More than 25 million Americans, 11.6 percent of the population, were below the poverty level in 1979. The number living in poverty, defined as an annual income below $7,412 for a nonfarm family of four, rose slightly from 1978.

The number of poor elderly people living in poverty rose from 3.2 million in 1978 to 3.6 million last year.

The report said there were no significant changes in 1979 in the relative incomes of white, black and Hispanic families. Whites had a median income of $20,520; blacks, $11,650, and Hispanic families, $14,320.

ATLANTA--A youngster whose body was discovered beside a riverbank ➡ ' was identified yesterday as Aaron Jackson, Jr., 9, the 15th black child to be found dead or reported missing in Atlanta since July 1979.

After a preliminary examination, associate medical examiner Dr. John Feegel called the boy's death "very reminiscent of some of the other" children's deaths, but said he would not yet make an official ruling on the cause of death.

A medical technicial who attended the body when it was found along the banks of the South River said there appeared to be abrasions on the boy's neck, indicating possible strangulation.

Four of 10 other black children found dead the past 15 months in Atlanta were asphyxiated, three by strangulation, officials.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said there were no suspects in the Jackson case and said he has made an official request for the FBI to join the investigation.

SOUTH AFRICA:
Attracting U.S. tourists

The South African Tourist Corporation is launching a U.S. ad blitz this November, spending close to $500,000 for a 6-month propaganda campaign to promote vacation trips by Americans to the apartheid state.

More than 50 percent of the ads will appear in newspapers in 30 major metropolitan areas and will "expose South African tourist values" to approximately 36 million readers, according to an official of the tourist corporation.

The ads will stress the country's "variety and value." In addition to the newspaper ads, the propaganda will appear on TV in 84 cities as well as in eight national consumer magazines and eight travel journals. In the ads, there will be no mention of the country's apartheid policies.

Mines Kill 7 in South-West Africa

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa, Nov. 5 (Reuters)--Seven blacks died in two land mine explosions yesterday in Ovamboland, northern South-West Africa, a local government official said today. Fourteen blacks have been killed by mines this week in Ovamboland, where guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization have been fighting South African rule.

60,000 CAMBODIANS GET RICE AID

Bangkok--Some 60,000 peasants from flood-stricken Cambodia received desperately needed rice Oct. 2 where Vietnamese tanks pressed against the Thai-Cambodian border and rival factions fought.

In what one Red Cross worker called the "biggest distribution ever" at the Nong Chan border "land bridge" between Thailand and Cambodia, a total of more than 20,000 ox-carts were loaded with rice by the International Committee of the Red Cross Oct.1 and Oct.2.

The last high figure of handouts at Nong Chan, 160 miles northeast of Bangkok, was in mid-September with 5,200 oxpulled carts taking on a single 100-kilogram (220-pound) bag of rice. Officials figure that each bag will feed 3.2 people.

SOUTH KOREA to OFFER RELIEF AID for REFUGEES

Seoul--South Korea has decided to donate 500,000 U.S. dollars worth of motor vehicles to help Thailand in caring for Indochinese refugees, the Foreign Ministry announced.

A spokesman said that the donations include 13 water tank lorries and one bus plus spare parts which will b e shipped to Thailand as soon as they are supplied by local auto makers.

He said that the humanitarian decision was in response to U.N.Secretary Genèral Kurt Waldheim's earlier appeal to the world for relief aid to ease the plight of Indo chinese refugees.

The spokesman said that the Seoul government last year also provided 5 million dollars of relief aid for Indochinese refugees accommodated in Thailand, Indonesia and the Phillippines.

---

5 South African Soldiers Held in Black Boy's Death

POTCHEFSTROOM, South Africa, Nov. 7 (AP)--Five white South African soldiers have been arrested in the fatal shooting of a 9-year-old black child and the wounding of another youngster, the police here said today.

Col. J.A. DuPreez, of the criminal investigation department in western Transvaal Province, said the servicemen would be charged with murder and attempted murder. They are to appear in court Monday in the town of Bloemhof.

Colonel DuPreez said that seven servicemen in two cars pulled up alongside a group of black students yesterday and taunted them. One of the soldiers allegedly fired four shots at the children, killing Petrus Makwaba and seriously woulding Chrisjan Thibe, 13.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF — Type Setters

CURTIS HAYNES — Editor in Chief — LORRAINE COX
CARLOS VALDEZ — Editor Eco Latino — VIONSI RODRIGUEZ
GERTRUDIS GARCIA — Editor Eco Latino — THENA COOPER
RICHARD MEI — Editor Asian Affairs
CARL YATES — Graphics Editor
BARRON ROLAND — Photo Editor

Eco Latino

Struggle in Vieques

By Aida Ball

Vieques is a little island located east of Puerto Rico. It had plenty of fertile soil and a well developed cattle and agricultural economy. In 1941 the United States Navy expropriated 77 percent of these lands using them for war practices. Since that moment the people of Vieques continue to fight for the recovery of their land and their peace.

Out of this struggle comes Angel Rodriquez Cristobal whose assassination took place one year ago, November 11, 1979, in a federal prison in Tallahassee, Florida. Angel Rodriquez Cristobal was born in Ciales, Puerto Rico and was sub-secretary of the Socialist League, and a tireless revolutionary for the independence and socialism of Puerto Rico. He was always present in the fishermen's protests where he had several confrontations with marines.

On May 19, 1979 he was arrested in Bahia de la Chiva, Vieques, together with a large group of independent fighters and fishermen for "invading" Puerto Rican ground that the U.S. Navy uses for their war practices. Following his arrest he was sentenced to 6 months in jail; there he was assassinated a month later in a solitary cell.

This repressive action was answered three weeks later when a Puerto Rican guerrilla ambushed a marine bus and executed 2 marines and wounded 10.

A year after his death the "Patria Libre" Committee remembers the exemplary life of this Puerto Rican who always fulfilled his patriotic duty.

Remembering him we firmly protest all the injustices and repressive acts that U.S. Imperialism has perpetrated to our country. We materialize this protest by divulging the colonial situation of Puerto Rico and specifically asserting our solidarity with the fishermen of Vieques' military island by writing important pages in the history of our resistance.

Talk and slide show about the island of Vieques (Puerto Rico), Tuesday Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m., Campus Center 917.

Reagan y America Latina

Con la eleccion de Ronald Reagan a la presidencia de los E.U. la politica de este pais para con America Latina habia seguramente de sufrir cambios.tacticos. Esto se deduce de las declaraciones hechas por Roger Fontaine, miembro de Instituto Americano de Empresas y uno de los principales colaboradores de Reagan. Durante una conferencia de prensa celebrado antes de las elecciones Fontaine declaro que las dictaduras militares en el Hemisferio seran alentadas en "base sostenida y consistente" para que restablezcan el gabierno democratico.

No obstante una de las principales diferencias entre la administracion de Carter y la de Reagan es que esta ultima dependera menos en la utilizacion de advertencias publicas y mas en persuacion privada. Refiriendose a la politica de "derechos humanos"; Fontaine dijo que esta no empezo con Jimmy Carter ni termina con Jimmy Carter. Tambien declaro que el extremismo de derecha e izquierada debe ser confrontado por medio del desarrollo de fuerzas de seguridad bien disciplinadas y bien adiestrados y sugirio que Estados Unidos aumente sus programas de adiestramiento de estas fuerzas. Esta estrategia, de acuerdo a Fontaine, permitio a Venezuela sofocar una insurreccion izquierdista a principios de la decada de 1960 y establecer una de las democracias mas estables en el hemisferio.

Abundando sobre otros temas Fontaine:

--Reafirmo la opocision del campo de Reagan a un paquete de ayuda economica de $75 millones que la administracion del presidente Carter aprovo para el gobierno revolucionario de Nicaragua.

--Dijo que los E.U. debe acelerar su ayuda a los naciones amigas en el Caribe que confrontan problemas economicos. En especifico menciono el caso de Republica Dominicana, Trinidad, Barbados y el recien electo gobierno de Jamaica.

--Pidio una revision de la politica de los E.U. hacia Bolivia. La administracion de Carter se ha desasociado del regimen militar de Bolivia pero Fontaine, senalando que las tres elecciones recientes no han puesto fin a la polarizacion politica en Bolivia, pregunto; "Que hace uno, tener otra eleccion?"

English translation

With the election of Ronald Reaganto the presidency , the United States policy towards Latin America will most surely suffer tactical changes. This can be deducted from declarations made by Roger Fontaine, member of the American enterprise Institute and one of Reagan's principal colaborators in international usses. During a press conference celebrated before the elections, Fontaine declared that the military dictatorships in the Hemisphere will be encouraged on a "consistent and sustained basis" to re-establish democratic governments.

Nevertheless, one of the major differences between Reagan's and Carter's administration is that Reagan's administration will depend less on public warnings and more on private persuasion. Referring to the "Human Rights policy" Fontaine declared that this policy "did not start with Carter nor ends with Carter". He must be confronted with "well trained and disciplined security forces," and suggested that the U.S. would increase its training programs of such forces. This strategy, according to Fontaine, allowed Venezuela to repress left-wing insurrection in the early 60s and establish one of the most "stable democracies in the Hemisphere".

Addressing other topics, Fontaine:

--reaffirmed Reagan's opposition to U.S. economic aid to Nicaragua. In particular to the $75 million aid granted by Carter's administration to the Nicaraguan government.

--said that the U.S. must accelerate its aid to friendly nations in the Caribbean who have ecnomic problems. In spec ific he mentioned Santo Domingo, Trinidad, Barbados and the recently elected government of Jamaica.

--asked for a revision of U.S. policy towards Bolivia. Carter's administration disassociated itself from the military Junta but if the last three elections have not ended with political polarization "What is one supposed to do, hold another election?" concluded Fontaine.

Israeli Arms for Dictatorships

Tel Aviv, Israel--The Viceminister of defense, Mordechai Zippori, declared that the U.S. decision of allowing Israel to sell Israeli warplanes to Latin American nations could signify a great contribution to the economy and security of the Jewish state. Zippori told reporters that the decision "will open new horizons to the Israeli military industry and therefore is of the utmost significance".

The Washington originated news obtained front page headings in the Israeli press, and the armed forces radio said, that is the sale of warplanes to Latin America materializes Israel could pocket hundreds of millions of dollars.

TEATRO HISPANO

EL GRUPO DE TEATRO
ACTORES UNIDOS
PRESENTA
UNA BUENISIMA OBRA
DEL CONOCIDO AUTOR
Y DIRECTOR PUERTORRIQUENO
– PEDRO SANTALIZ
TITULADA
"LAS SOMBRAS DEL CHISME"

ALSO A FOLKLORIC DANCE PRESENTATION BY GROUP
CIDALES

ASISTE HISPANO
SON NUESTRAS ACTIVIDADES
...APOYALAS Y PASEMOS
UN BUEN RATO JUNTOS..."AHORA"

Organizacion hispana estudiantil AHORA

JUEVES NOV. 13
8:00 P.M.
HAMPDEN THEATER
SOUTHWEST U. MASS, AMHERST

HISPANIC THEATER

RAY BARRETTO
FRIDAY NOV. 14
9:00 P.M.
S.U.B.
"Caribbean Cultural Events"

Bertha Claude Garcia: Head of Psychiatry at Havana Mental Hospital

Mental Health in Cuba

By Zulma Nazario & Lynne Furey

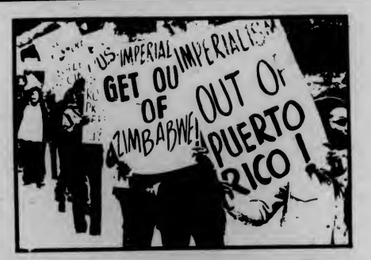
In room 312 of New Africa House we participated in a lecture/discussion by Cuban Psychiatrist, Bertha Claude Garcia and her translator.

Dr. Garcia began by providing us with some pre-revolution conditions of the mental health system and the overall health situation in Cuba before the Revolution in 1959. Diseases such as polyomelitis, tuberculosis, yellow fever and chronic malnutrition were prevalent. Infant mortality was ten children per day. These health conditions required immediate attention and so it was not until 1965 that a mental health system was instituted. Today, one hundred per cent of the health care for the society is in the hands of the government and is completely free.

Dr. Bertha Claude Garcia explained that the mental health system in Cuba does not follow any prescribed school of thought of psychiatry. But she was very clear in exposing their opposition to psychoanalysis, which she described as subjective, idealistic and mechanistic. It is used as a method of exploitation as it becomes eternal and dependent. Besides this, psychotherapy cannot be used for the masses. "No queremos esa transferencia erotica". "We do not want that erotic transference." What is needed in Cuba, is cured neurotics returning to the society and their normal life as soon as possible.

The mental health doctors are organized in teams and they meet to discuss the case of each patient. Patients are encouraged to work in the hospital in work therapy programs while others are sent to work outside with the community. All are paid a salary. Prevention of mental health problems is a primary objective in the program. The Committees for the Defense of the Revolution, teachers, social workers all work together to detect problems during their initial stages. Other mediums which contribute to the prevention of mental disorder are television, radio, conferences, lectures and so on. The use of drugs as therapy is not encouraged by the system, and patients commonly express their dislike for such treatment. Techniques which work to socialize the patient in as least possible time are practiced. Music, dance, craftwork, gardening and other group or individual activities are more common and productive.

The Cuban Mental Health System as all other of Cuba's revolutionary instituuions and organizations correspond to the immediate needs of the society. International influences, regardless of political philosophy, are adopted whenever they best meet these needs.



Rally for Puerto Rico

Support Independence for Puerto Rico!
Denounce the repression against the Independence Movement
U.S. Navy out of Vieques

November 13, 1980
12:15 p.m.
In front of the Student Union

Rally sponsored by: Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Committee, Patria Libre, Palestinian Solidarity Committee, and other organizations.

Asian Affairs

Japan to Build Defenses?

reprinted from Asian Week

Tokyo--Entering the 36th year since its surrender that ended World War II, Japan is grappling again with a military question: how far to go in building defense in a world full of confrontation?

Japan's long postwar commitment to pacifism has been jolted recently by Soviet moves in the Asian region, by the Afghanistan intervetion and by U.S. pressure to spend more military purposes.

Therefore, the Japanese are rethinking and debating the country's embargo on weapons exports, its ban on the possession of nuclear weapons and the 1946 constitution, drafted by U.S. occupation leaders, which prohibits a large military force and declares that the Japanese people must forever renounce war as a sovereign right of the nation.

Some military authorities, both in Tokyo and Washington contend that Japan should spend more, as a member of the Western alliance, on its own defense. They note that European members of NATO spend about three percent of GNP on defense and the U.S. about five percent.

The Self-Defense Agency in Japan is enjoying a rare concession from the Finance Ministry: tentative approval of a 9.7 percent increase in defense budget for the fiscal year beginning next April.

The present limit on the increase is 7.5 percent, whereas the boost would raise spending from 10 to 11 billion dollars. It would also put defense outlays at 0.91 percent of Japan's gross national product, edging up the arbitrary limit of less than 1.0 percent of GNP set by the cabinet in 1976.

A five-year buying program which may be speeded up to four years including C-130 transport planes, P-3C anti-submarine patrol craft, F-15 fighters and guided missile-equipped destroyers.

"We are far behind in weapons procurement, purchase of new facilities and research and development spending," said Masamichi Inoki, former president of the National Defense Academy and one of the nation's foremost expert's on defense.

"It would take a 15 to 20 percent increase in the budget to attain the goal sought by the United States," he said. Despite restrictions, Japan is already the world's eighth largest spender for military purposes.

However, half the defense budget for the 250,000-member, all volunteer Self Defense Force, formed in 1954 from National Police Reserves, goes for personnel costs. It is commonly acknolwedged that there is not enough money to buy ammunition for training exercise, let alone to meet an enemy attack.

A U.S. official said, "the Japanese are obviously very concerned about having Soviet troops on their doorstep, but we were also very impressed that for the first time the defense paper outlined the nation's defense needs in terms of Japan's responsibilities in the global community." He said the government's decision to double its assistance to developing nations in the next five years is another indication that Japan, which imports almost all of its oil and much of its food and raw materials, is taking a more active role in global politics.

The defense paper cited the stationing of Soviet ground troops on three northern coastal islands claimed by both Japan and Russia and the deployment of Soviet backfire strategic bombers and SS-20 mobile intermediate-range balistic missiles in the Far East as steps to gain military superiority in the area.

Polls show that almost 90 percent of the Japanese population feel the defense force should exist and a growing minority favors increased spending on defense. Many however, are troubled by displays of new confidence by pro-defense factions.

"In the U.S., democratic roots run deep, but in Japan, a defense buildup could easily lead to a revival of nationalism, militarism or imperial rule," said Chisato Tatebayashi, member of the Cnetral Executive Committee of the Japan Socialist Party(JSP).

The JSP, the nation's top opposition party, advocates dissolution of the U.S.-Japan Security Pact and demilitarized neutrality. Even Inoki, a leading proponent of greater defense spending warned that it would be disastrous if Japan, now a military dwarf, tried to become a military giant. He said, "Japan must keep in mnd that its only task is to protect its own territorial sea and air space, something which at present it cannot do."

UNITY
銀結
UNIDAD

Asian- Pacific and Third World Unity

The concept that Asian/Pacific people and other Black, Raza, and Native Americans are "Third World" came from the strong realization that as people of color in the U.S., our native lands have been dominated, colonized, and exploited by imperialist powers, and as we minorities in this country, we have also faced particular oppression. This identification with oppressed people all around the world, showed the commonality of our struggles, and brought out the unity we shaed as oppressed nationalities here.

This month commemorated a historic struggle waged by Third World students which started students across the nation to demand opening up the institutions to minority people. It was in 1968, that Asian, Black, Chicano and Native American students led a massive walkout from classes at SF State, closing down the school for the semester. Due to this struggle,and many others following special programs were granted for more minorities into the schools.

We see that the history of Third World people in America has been a common thread running through the whole construction of the U.S. economy. We have been lynched, not allowed families and land. These common acts of oppression have continued today, with such issues as police brutality, the forced sterilization of women, and the dispersal of our communities.

However, we also share a common experience of resistence to our oppression. And as we learn more from each other, our common fight against national oppression will grow, and become one movement of all nationalities.

Talking Yellow, But Sleeping White

A complex issue that has been largely ignored, denied or suppressed publicly in the Asian-American community is the phenomenon of "talking yellow, but sleeping white."

This phenomenon basically refers to the situation of voicing strong ethnic-racial concerns on one hand, but having white lovers or mates on the other by Asian-American men and women. A similar phenomenon in the Afrikan-American community has received much press and criticism for years, however in the Asian-American community it has been generally repressed in terms of public dialogue.

The near silence on this issue would appear to the outside observer as though this issue was non-controversial, but in reality the sincerity and committment of the "offenders" to civil rights and betterment of the Asian-American community is often questioned in private conversations. The "offender" may be accused of suffering from self negation or guilt. Frank dialogue is needed on this issue, not only with Asians, but with other third world people as well.

Henry Jung

COP TRIAL SHIFTED

Special to NUMMO

Miami

A U.S. District Court judge has moved the trial of an ex-cop charged in the beating death of Black man Arthur McDuffie from Miami to Atlanta.

Judge William Hoeveler, in language which seemed to anticipate the verdict, stated that Miami jurors could be "influenced by the specter of a similar thing (to the May rebellion) happening in our community" if they acquitted ex-cop Charles Veverka.

To date, Veverka is the only policeman indicted on federal charges stemming from the murder of McDuffie. The acquittal in state court of five police officers charged in the killing triggered the Miami rebellion.

A spokesperson for the Citizens Coalition for Racial Justice (CCRJ) called Judge Hoeveler's move "an attempt to defuse the struggle against police brutality. The government wants to take the case out of Miami where people are aware of the facts, and where there is an organized movement for justice. In Atlanta there won't be that kind of pressure from the community.

"Although we think Veverka is guilty, we see him being used as a fall guy," the CCRJ spokesperson continued. "None of the other participants in the murder have been indicted. Veverka is being tried simply to make it appear as if something is being done. It is a farce. In a way he is being punished for his testimony against his fellow police officers in the state trial."

Veverka was the first officer to reach McDuffie after a high-speed chase. He was granted immunity from state prosecution in exchange for his testimony that police had beaten McDuffie with fists, nightsticks and flashlights, and had then attempted to cover up the murder by faking a motorcycle accident.

In related news, the Dade County Grand Jury has refused to indict Dade County police officer Karl Robbins for the shotgun killing of Haitian minister LaFontant Bien-Aime. Bien-Aime was killed by the white cop on the second night of the May rebellion. Robbins originally alleged that he found the minister looting, then changed his story to say that Bien-Aime attempted to run him down with his van. The Bien-Aime family has explained that the minister was on his way to pick up members of his church to bring them to services. Rev. Gerard Jean Juste, director of the Haitain Refugee Center, Inc., says that "Rev. Bien-Aime committed only one crime, he was Black."

In response to the grand jury inaction , a delegation of Haitian leaders, members of the CCRJ, the National Lawyers Guild, the United Black Front and others confronted Leon Juste, director of the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Justice Department. The delegation stated that the failure to indict Robbins was but another example of the racism entrenched in the Dade County justice system.

Ray Greenwood

letters to the editor

Zionism is Reactionary

In the COLLEGIAN Friday,7th, there was a letter written by Mr. Lon Golden responding to Taleb Bizri's article, "Zionism is Racism", that was trying to tell us that Zionism is good and Taleb and the Arab world are a bunch of racist, antirevolutionary, mad imperialists who are out to get the destruction of Jesus. Golden makes "a beautiful exact history" of the Arab countries. It seems as if his history books are "Time", "Look" and "Soldier of Fortune".

Golden then masochistically lashes out at himself and other Jews, saying that they have been the most persecuted people in the last 2,000 years. He says that Zionism is a national liberation and self-determination movement, and that it is committed to the freedom and equality of all people.

If this is so, then how come historically and presently all the positions of Israel have been very reactionary ones and never in the defense of the self-determination of any country, and less of the Palestinian people? This is corroborated by every stand Israel has taken in the United Nations, the expansionist war they carry against the Palestinian people and the Israeli interventions in Africa and Latin America.

Taleb, contrary to what this Mr. Golden says, does not fear human freedom,and is working for the freedom and equality of all people on earth, especially his primary interest-the Palestinians.

Zionism is a reactionary movement and is not in the interest of any poeple, especially the Jewish poeple. Being anti-zionism, doesn't mean anti-semitism, and also being in support of the palestinians' struggle for self-determination and their national rights, does not mean anti-Jewish.

Zionists, responding to the expansionist capitalists and the authoritarian social-imperialists are the forces responsible for not putting an end to the war between the Palestinians and the Israelis. The people are the ones suffering the deaths and destruction of this war. The sisters and brothers of Israel and Palestine have suffered a great deal through too many years now.

It is time for them to stand and rise against their oppressors and bring peace to that beautiful area of the world. We, the Third World People, will keep the struggle for the end of authoritarianism and Imperialism.

Miguel Puxada

Mr Ron Winrow
50 Union Street
Northampton Mass
01060

Dear Sir,

I would like to introduce myself and explain the purpose of this letter. My name is Ron Winrow, 32 years old, and I am presently an inmate at Northampton Correctional faculty. I am writing this letter as an agent of appeal for correspondence and friendship with the hope you will be kind enough to pass my name on to a few sisters and brothers at your campus. All my so called friends, associates, family and relatives here turned their backs on me. Therefore, I receive no mail. In an attempt ot escape the interman prison of lost hope I desperately write to you in hopes you will pass my name and address on to a few brothers and sisters there. I hope to reaquaint myself with the outside world and to become associated in a meaningful relationship in strength and understanding of others. My interest are writing, reading, horseback riding, to site a few. I admire intelligent, compassionate, understanding people. I am oppressively lonely. I seriously hope you will accept my letter with your purest understanding and deepest consideration. I wish to thank you in advance for any concern you may show to me.

Have a good day,
Yours in Blackness,
Bro Ron Winrow

Dear Editor,

I am writing you this little note because I feel that you should know that I, and my friends, really look forward to seeing, and reading, NUMMO NEWS, on Mondays. NUMMO is the best paper in the valley. KEEP THE FAITH, AND SPREAD THE WORD.

AN ENTHUSIED READER

Follow Tuesday's schedule today

If today is Tuesday, this must be UMass

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue # 50 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Wednesday, November 12, 1980

Contract disputes plague UMass

MSP members picket Whitmore

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts Society of Professors took to the streets Monday in a demonstration of anger at the slow pace of contract negotiations.

After walking around the Whitmore Administration Building, an estimated 250 picketers walked up the Whitmore entrance ramp and into the building, shouting "We want a contract, We want it now."

Yelling "Negotiations have stagnated," MSP President Peter D'Arico said the administration bargaining team lacks authority to make on-the-spot bargaining decisions.

The approximately 1200 member bargaining unit has worked without a contract since June 30. After more than four months of negotiations, the unresolved issues that continue to separate the sides are layoff language, librarian issues, and wages, said D'Arico.

"There's no way we can go with the same procedure," he said. "I don't trust in the good faith of the administration to continue substantive negotiations after a contract has been signed."

Lynn Seymour, MSP spokesperson, said the ad-hoc crisis committee was responsible for organizing Monday's job action.

She said the crisis committee has received the results of a membership survey, similar to the one circulated by the University Staff Association (USA). The USA survey led to last Wednesday's sickout, which union officials claim was instrumental in reaching their contract agreement on Monday.

Even though picketers carried signs that read "Koffler makes me sick" and "No contract, No second semester", Seymour indicated that the MSP survey will show that union members "probably won't indicate a desire to sickout or strike."

Seymour said possible future job actions include direct grading—the withholding of grades from administration records, a teach-in—similar to the one held in the Campus Center during the MSP's last contract negotiations, and a public debate between D'Arico and principal admi. istration officials.

A vote at today's general membership meeting will determine what job actions the union is willing to undertake.

Members of the MSP participating in Monday afternoon's picket, circled Whitmore and then proceeded inside to call attention to their contract demands. (Staff photo by Bill Lewis)

Staff association reaches accord

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

University Staff Association (USA) officials announced Monday that they reached a tentative accord with administration officials in their five-month old contract dispute. The USA represents the 1260 technicians and clerical workers on campus.

USA vice president Penny Schwartz said Friday's marathon bargaining session produced substantial changes in contract language and wage proposals. She said a final settlement will result only if the general membership agrees with the new contract proposal.

She said the new proposal for a three-year contract calls for a wage increase equal to the statewide "Alliance," which signed earlier this year. The "Alliance" is a coalition of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, and the Service Employees International Union. Until Friday, the administration had refused to make this offer.

Other provisions in the proposal include new language prohibiting sexual harrassment and limiting employee transfers.

The proposal includes a phase out of the dual pay system. Until now, any employee hired after July 1, 1978 received less money for doing the same as someone hired before that date. The proposal states that each new employee must work for 36 months before he/she is eligible to receive the higher pay scale.

turn to page 14

Williams College tries to cool racial tensions

Cross burning sparks discussion

Associated Press

WILLIAMSTOWN ——— Morning classes were canceled yesterday at Williams College as administrators tried to cool racial tension from a Halloween crossburning.

More than 1,400 of the college's 1,900 students jammed Chapin Hall and overflowed into an adjoining building for a student-faculty discussion.

It ranged from criticism of the college's investments in South Africa to discussion of threatening phone calls and letters received by some black students and college President John W. Chandler.

Acting Dean Chris Roosenraad said the FBI was called in Saturday, after Chandler and Rev. Muhammed Kenyatta, a black senior and Philadelphia minister, received "very offensive and racist" letters postmarked from Cleveland and signed "KKK."

The names of both men were mentoned in news reports of a student rally held last week to protest the cross-burning.

Security for the school's 130 black students was tightened over the weekend after one reported he had received anonymous phone calls, Roosenraad said.

Several other black students say they have received threatening letters and phone calls. Last Wednesday, the Black Student Union library was ransacked.

Authorities have no leads on who burned the cross outside a dormitory or who is responsible for the racial threats. Roosenraad said he doubts there is an organized conspiracy against blacks.

"We feel we have two separate situations. We feel that a few persons on campus picked up on (the cross-burning)," Roosenraad said.

He said the descriptions of the cross-burners indicate they were younger than college students; information mentioned in letters and phone calls indicated an inside knowledge of the college.

More than 1,000 Williams College students circle the green at the Williamstown, MA college last Monday to protest a cross burning at the campus on the previous Saturday.

Several white students said Tuesday's discussion helped promote racial awareness.

"It (the cross-burning) had a silver lining," said Geoff Mamlet, a sophomore from Santa Barbara, Calif. "I'm sorry it took such a shocking thing to get this discussion started, but the discussion was very positive."

Ellen Chandler, a white sophomore from Laconia, N.H., said "most of the white students had never really talked with black students."

A black student, John Coleman of New York City, said the racial incidents have filled blacks here with "anger and concern."

"The discussion may help people realize that blacks have been treated with some insensitivity," said Coleman.

Darrell McWhorter, student government president and a black from Cincinnati, noted, "This is the first time there has been a concerted effort to get some sort of black-white discussion going."

In the early 1970s, Williams College increased the number of minority students from the 30 enrolled in 1969.

see related story on page 5

World and national news

Baker predicts conservatism

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sen. Howard Baker says he expects Ronald Reagan's "conservative mandate" to lead to Senate approval of sharply increased defense spending, lower taxes and constitutional amendments to permit prayer in schools and to ban most abortions.

Baker, the Tennessee Republican slated to be the Senate's majority leader in the 97th Congress, said he'll support legislation to permit the federal government to pay nonunion wages on government housing projects and to lower the minimum wage for teenagers. He predicted the Senate will adopt them.

Despite this, Baker, in an interview with The Associated Press, predicted that the "biggest surprise" offered by Reagan's White House and by the Senate's new Republican majority will be the degree to which they work to protect "the legitimate rights of labor."

Once elected majority leader, Baker said, he hopes to "change the nature of the Senate," concentrating its attention on policymaking and oversight of government functions and leaving the day-to-day administration of the government to the executive branch.

Here are Baker's comment's on specific legislative proposals:

—An anti-abortion amendment: "I assume there will be a proposal for such an amendment and that President Reagan will support it. I would expect that Senator (Strom) Thurmond as chairman of the Judiciary Committee would support it and I would say that its chances of passage in the Senate would be good."

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. is expected to be Majority Leader of the next senate session. (AP Laserphoto)

—School prayer amendment: I have consistently supported a voluntary school prayer amendment.

—The DAvis-Bacon Act: Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, incoming chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, has called for repeal of those parts of the act which require that union wages and work rules be observed in all federally funded housing projects.

Iraq reportedly shopping for Soviet arms

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq's vice premier arrived in Moscow on yesterday reportedly shopping for Soviet arms. Iran claimed to have pushed Iraqi troops back in one sector of the oil refining center of Abadan and also asked for clarification of a peace proposal made by non-aligned nations.

The two Persian Gulf oil-rich nations — whose exports have been halted by the war — reported fighting along much of the 300-mile-long border front. Iran claimed it killed 80 Iraqis and Iraq said it killed 117 Iranians.

In Washington, the Congressional Budget Office said if the war should result in the closing of the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow passageway from the Persian Gulf to the sea, then the U.S. economy could plunge into a recession worse than the one last spring.

Iraqi Vice Premier Tarek Aziz arrived in Moscow on his second visit to the Soviet Union since the war began Sept. 22. Kuwaiti newspapers said he would be seeking arms, ammunition and spare parts under the Iraqi-Soviet friendship treaty.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein told a news conference in Baghdad on Monday the Soviet Union and France "are in the the first category (of friends) here." But he dodged a question about whether the two countries had fulfilled arms contracts.

Hussein said Iraqi forces — already as far as 50 miles inside Iran — would continue to march on the oilfields of Khuzistan province in southwestern Iran if Iran did not recognize Iraq's pre-1975 sovereignty over the Shatt al-Arab. The waterway separates the two countries and is Iraq's only sea outlet.

Iraq has said it will stop its advance and begin negotiations if Iran recognizes Iraq's sovereignty over the Shatt al-Arab.

Iraq pressed its assault on Iran's major refining city of Abadan. Iraq said 41 Iranian troops were killed in fighting south of Abadan, 76 north and east of the city. Iraq claimed four Iranian jets downed.

U.S. replies to Iran's terms

Associated Press

ALGIERS, Algeria — Deputy U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher gave Algerian officials a face-to-face explanation yesterday of the U.S. reply to Iran's terms for releasing the 52 American hostages.

At the same time, the Carter administration appeared to have launched a new effort to open indirect negotiations with Iran for their release.

Informed sources said Abdelkrim Gheraib, Algeria's ambassador to Iran, took part in the discussions at the Algiers zoo, during which Christopher gave a detailed explanation of the text of the formal U.S. reply.

Christopher delivered the U.S. note to Iran to the Algerians on his arrival Monday. Gheraib was expected to fly to Tehran shortly to submit the U.S. note and Christopher's verbal explanation of it.

In Tehran, Ahmad Azizi, deputy adviser to Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, said in a telephone interview from Beirut that "I don't know the exact time we will receive it but probably tomorrow." He said the U.S. reply would be delivered by an Algerian official in Tehran but did not elaborate.

Yesterday's talks here came at a private luncheon given by Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia for Christopher and his high-level delegation in a closely-guarded restaurant at the Algiers zoo, 15 miles outside of the capital, lasting nearly four hours.

Algeria, which represents Iranian interests in Washington, has been acting as intermediary between the two governments in efforts to arrange the release of the hostages, held captive 374 days.

Christopher was expected to return to the U.S. after meeting with Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, but it was not known when that meeting would take place.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 323 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Come talk with:
George Espers
Associated Press
Correspondent and former Saigon Bureau Chief
and
J. Walter Green
Associated Press
New England Photo Director
about their careers and the American press on Wed., Nov 12 at 8 p.m. in CC Room 903
(Sponsored by the Collegian)

come to Plumbley's off the common
'The 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championship!
Come enjoy great English Pub Beer at Special Low Prices!
Prizes and good English Pub fun!
all proceeds to Muscular Dystrophy
Wed., Nov. 5, 12, 19
7 PM
1980 Dart Championships

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Adult Entertainment
Majestic Cinema
84 Cottage St
(Rte 141)
Easthampton, MA
Tel 527-2346
NOV. 12 - 18
Weekend Fantasy 7:30
Hot Wives 9:00
under 21 not admitted
Mat. Thurs & Fri 1:30

Read the Collegian

International Students' Day Bazaar food-crafts-entertainment
WED. NOV. 12
10AM-5PM
Scott Gym
Smith College
Proceeds benefit Foreign Scholarship Students

Valley Light Opera presents Gilberts & Sullivan's
"The Gondoliers"
Nov. 7, 8, 14, 15 8:15 p.m.
Nov. 9 2:15 p.m.
$5.00 Adults
$2.50 Students & Senior Citizens
Amherst Regional High School
Triangle Street, Amherst
Tickets at the Jones Library in Amherst
Nov 3-14 9 a.m.-5 p.m. and at the door
All Seats Reserved
For more information please call 549-2800

UMass Ski Club
TONIGHT!!
Mandatory Meeting
Bartlett Auditorium 8:00
All Must Attend

Group to study pass/fail option

By CARINE RAVOSA
Collegian Correspondent

The Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate has formed a task group to study the student sentiment of a proposed change in the pass/fail option by the Policy Committee of the Faculty Senate. The group will also lobby for the protection of the pass/fail option as it is in use now.

The goal of the task force is to inform students of the proposed change and to give them an opportunity to voice their opinion against it.

On April 17, the Academic Matters Council of the Faculty Senate endorsed the recommendations of the Policy Committee to change the pass/fail option. The proposed change would limit the grade of P (pass) to those who achieve a grade of C or better in the course. Those students earning a C/D, D or F, would recieve the respective grade on their academic record.

The Student Senate will distribute petitions expressing discontent with the proposed change today in front of the Student Union, and petitions will be circulated among faculty through task force members.

The Academic Matters Council asked for a response on this matter from the Student Senate, which on November 5, unanimously endorsed the current pass/fail option.

According to a Student Senate policy statement, some faculty members believe that taking courses pass/fail is detrimental to students because some graduate schools and employers look down on grades not recorded in the traditional grading system, since they do not reflect the level of achievement as accurately as grades of A, B and C.

Paul Jennings, Secretary of the Faculty Senate, said other faculty members feel that the students have not been using the pass/fail option for the reasons intended since its inception,—to give students the opportunity to be adventuresome in choosing their courses.

They believe that some students have been using the pass/fail option in classes which they would take anyway, Jennings said.

In addition, some faculty have the opinion that changing the passing grade from a D to a C would raise the academic standards, because a C is usually considered average, said Jennings.

Dr. Harry Schumer, Chairman of the Academic Matters Council, said the pass/fail option has been abused, especially in the sequential courses.

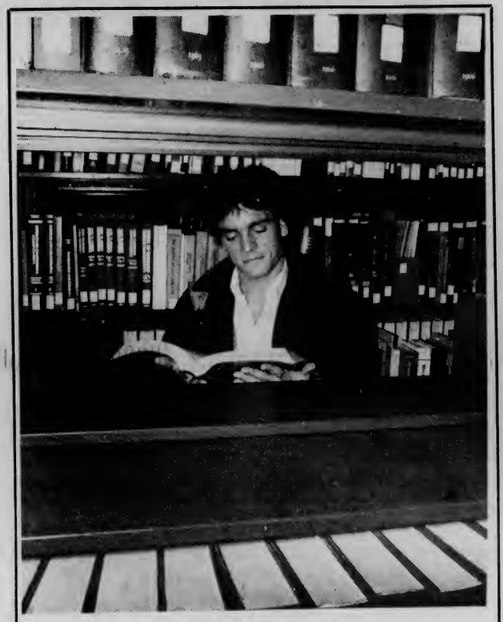
This use has created a morale problem within the students and the faculty because the students are usually not wholehearted in their studies in the pass/fail courses, he said.

"If a student takes a course pass/fail, the majority of the students academic efforts will be in the courses not being taken pass/fail. That's what I mean when I say it's being abused. These students tend to score at the lower end of the distribution scale," said Schumer.

In a survey conducted by SCERA last spring, 60 percent of students surveyed said the pass/fail option was their highest priority out of nine academic issues.

The Undergraduate Student Senate does not support the change in the pass/fail option because, "The proposed change will hinder students from experimenting outside of their majors by taking only those courses in which they know they will do well."

In the Student Senate Policy Statement, it is suggested that the current pass/fail option eases the burden of a heavy course load. According to the statement, this in effect would limit the full utilization of the diverse academic resources the University offers.



Hitting the books

Bill Wisentaner hits the books at Goddell Library.
(Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Fate of the 'Annie Hauler' still uncertain

By LAUREL HANSCOM
Collegian Staff

Students going Christmas shopping at the Hampshire Mall this semester may have to rely on the services of the PVTA bus system instead of the familiar Annie Hauler bus.

The Annie Hauler is a freebus for UMass students which has been in operation since the mall's inception in 1978.

It carries approximately 750 students to and from the mall during the week and 600 on Saturdays, but according to mall manager Ted Cosmos, this service may be cut very soon.

Cosmos said this past Saturday the Annie Hauler was taken off the road because "the bus has serious mechanical problems." He said he felt that it was unsafe and worried about it breaking down.

Cosmos said a decision whether the freebus service will be discontinued will be made within a week to ten days.

A spokeswoman for the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority commented that she "doesn't anticipate any problems now that the freebus has stopped because they (the PVTA) run every 15 minutes (on weekdays)." She has not heard anything in regard to increasing bus service in the area on Saturdays or to accommodate Christmas shopping demands.

Students wishing to get to the mall can take the Amherst-Northampton PVTA route.

Response to the bus cancellation varied among mall employees. John Swift, manager of Anderson Little explained, "We don't really cater to the college age that much. If it benefits us at all, it's because it brings more people in and out of the mall, whether they buy anything or not. The bus hasn't brought much business to us."

An assistant manager from one of the clothing stores in the mall said "the mall has made it a point in its marketing strategy to market to the residents of this area instead of the students because they are not here during the summer and we can't count on their business year round. I don't know if we're going to find a decrease in sales because the Annie Hauler has stopped. If people want to get down here, they'll find a way."

However, a Tagway Shoes employee pointed out that, "the PVTA stops out by the highway to pick people up and if you are a girl waiting out there alone at night, it can be pretty scary."

An assistant manager of a clothing store said that it is obvious the bus cancellation will hurt their business. "The fact that it (the bus) is here, even if they (students) aren't going for anything special, is a plus. Students will take a ride down and buy something. But if the bus isn't running, then people will just stay home and think they can do without going shopping. Sixty percent of our business is students, and a lot of students don't have cars."

Barbara Cotsordis, manager of the Weathervane, said, "It will decrease our business considerably. This is a junior fashion store and most of our business is towards college students.

'Operation ID' attempts to reduce theft on campus

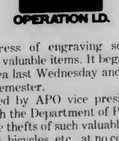
By TRACY O'CONNER
Collegian Correspondent

In an effort to reduce the incident of theft on campus, the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity is sponsoring an Operation Identification Project at the University of Massachusetts.

Operation I.D. is the process of engraving social-security or license numbers on valuable items. It began in the Southwest Residential Area last Wednesday and will continue until the end of the semester.

Operation I.D. was arranged by APO vice president Steve Pisini in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety at UMass to prevent the thefts of such valuables as calculators, televisions, stereos, bicycles, etc., at no cost to the University, Pisini said.

The operation, said Pisini, consists of three steps. The first is to mark valuables with an electric pen in an obvious area. Next, record all the information down in case of theft. The third step is to display a sticker on your door that states your valuables are engraved.



"Universities that have instituted the Operation have shown a significant reduction in theft," Pisini said, "and this University already uses it in the administration buildings."

Operation I.D. will continue on Tuesday and Wednesday nights in Southwest until approximately December 12, Pisini said.

Next semester, Pisini said, the fraternity will expand the operation to all residential areas on campus.

Operation Identification was started in 1971 by community crime prevention programs and has been adopted by the majority of campus agencies in the country, said Pisini.

The reason for the operation's success, Pisini said, is the low resale value of engraved material on the illegal market.

Insurance reform coalition seeks interns

A Boston-based group concerned with fighting the rising costs of auto insurance is seeking student interns to work across the state during the spring semester.

CAIR, the Coalition for Auto Insurance Reform, hoping to recruit 10 to 12 interns from the University of Massachusetts is comprised of citizens, professionals, and interested groups who are concerned with educating the public with the hopes of correcting the growing problems of auto theft and car insurance fraud in Massachusetts and the resulting rise in auto insurance cost.

Bil Kickim, a member of CAIR, said they intend to form a number of regional groups across Massachusetts

The primary function of the interns will be to organize and educate other students concerning the CAIR message, he said.

"Students involved will organize their own pilot CAIR groups within the college community and will utilize available media outlets to explain the problems which exist and generate student awareness and participation in solving these problems," Kickim said.

Those students who are interested in this part-time internship which involves more field work than office or administrative work, should contact the Office of Internships located in the Curry Hicks building.

Chick and Gary—teamwork?

Chick Corea and Gary Burton
Fine Arts Center
November 6

By MICHAEL KENDRICK
Collegian Correspondent

Chick Corea and Gary Burton gave a very interesting though mixed performance at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall last Thursday night. Appearing before a full house, they played duets on vibes and piano that managed to show the weaknesses and talents of both men, while pleasing an eager audience at the same time.

The concert opened to a Chick Corea introduction, soon followed by Gary Burton on vibraphone. Burton took the first solo, and within one chorus, built up his energy level to a very high gear (I thought this was going to be a "mellow" show). Corea took the next solo, and unfortunately, undid all of the hard work of the vibist. His improvisation had no energy at all in it, and his licks started nowhere, and ended in the same place.

The next three compositions were "Mirror Mirror," "Song for Gail," and "Bud Powell." As in the opener, they all featured Burton, who continued to play very interesting and complex improvisations. It quickly became apparent on the pianist's solos that he was not up for the performance at all, as he continued to undo all of his partner's successes. Corea appeared to be aware of his shortcomings, and he stayed in the background for most of the soloing space, where he did manage to give a quite tasteful and helpful accompaniment. The performance definitely belonged to Burton, as he literally stole, and saved the show.

Despite some great soloing by Burton, and helpful comping by Corea, the first four numbers pointed out a few weaknesses of this fine musical team. Though these compositions were taken at mostly breakneck tempos, a lack of bass and drumset kept the music from having any real rhythmic drive. With two such percussive instruments, this should not have been a problem. Corea did a pretty good job of breaking away from static rhythms, but Burton's style is so smooth that he was no help at all. The lack of any sort of legitimate bass line was most definitely the fault of both men. Corea did make an attept to walk with his left hand, though his hand appeared to be too weak to come through properly. Burton, on the other hand made no attempt whatsoever to fill in the desperately needed bass lines.

Having presented the "straight ahead" portion of the concert, the two performers proceed to perform six totally composed selections from Corea's "Suite of Children's Songs." A strong influence of Bela Bartok, and Robert Schumann was apparent, though the music bore Corea's distinct stamp. Here, where sparse chords and simple textures are a must, the piano-vibraphone combination proved to be absolutely perfect. It is rare that any music is ever this beautiful. This section of the concert was followed by "Senor Mouse", another Corea composition that featured more Burton at breakneck tempos (They should have been arrested for speeding, it was that fast!).

The second half of the concert opened to a Gary Burton solo. Performing Steve Swallow's "Your Pal" and "Hello Ballenos", his performance suffered from a very one dimensional tone and approach (mostly scalar runs). This was a very good, though not great solo. Corea then came out, and proceeded to fall flat on his face. His lines were incomplete, and made little sense. He skittered from idea to idea, and could find nothing of interest to play. He finally pulled it together halfway through to a very nice ending, but much too late to save the piece, let alone his performance for the evening.

The performance closed on another straight ahead duet, that again featured Burton. The great excitement of the first half really did not carry over to the second, as their format started to wear a little thin. Though Burton is a fine musician, he was unable to carry either the night or Corea, who had no business whatsoever playing so poorly. Overall, it was a very good, though not memorable show, and definitely not up to the standards of this team.

Chick Corea (above) appeared with Gary Burton before a full house at the Fine Arts Center last Thursday.

The rusty nail Inn

Tonight
MARTIAN HIGHWAY
25c Drafts all night
no cover

Saturday, Nov. 15
JONATHAN EDWARDS

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

MAKE YOUR RESERVATION BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Don't miss out on the highest quality and fastest turnaround offered anywhere.

Make a reservation now for your thesis or end of semester papers, and don't get left out in the last-minute rush.

call WORDPRO, Inc.
256-6736

Word Processing - Phototypesetting
OCR Scanning
Typing - Copying

Wednesday
Jim Plunkett
PUB MUG NIGHT
25¢ Beers-Pub Mugs
•Oldies•Trivia Contests
9 til 1
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Add experience to your degree.

You've changed a lot of opinions since you entered college. You know a degree may be the door-opener for a future career. But, you know a degree is no guarantee.

Today's job market demands more than a degree. Corporations look for "take charge" attitudes in their new executives.

So get a head start on your peers. They'll be competing with you for the best jobs later on.

Army ROTC provides a head start in leadership and management experience. With Army ROTC, you don't just read about it. You do it.

It's not too late to take charge. You can accomplish four years' work in two years.

To add experience to your degree contact

CPT PATRICK MERRYMAN
5452321/2322

Army ROTC. Learn what it takes to lead.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents

The CANADIAN BRASS
featuring
ROBERT J. LURTSEMA
Host of "Morning Pro Musica" narrating "HORNSMOKE" - a fantasy of the Old West by Peter Schickele (a.k.a. P.D.Q. Bach)

Wednesday, November 12, 1980 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted through Monday, Nov. 10 (413-545-2511)
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

Black Affairs

About a hundred Haitian refugeeswave as journalists arrive on the island of Cayo Lobos, 25 miles North of Cuba in the Bahamas. The Haitians have been stranded on the small island for about a month after being forced to land on the island. (AP Laserphoto)

Food for thought

Black Homecoming was the emphasis of an article I recently wrote in the Black Affairs section of the Collegian. One perception the article addressed was an understanding of Black homecoming history as it evolved at UMass. The development of this event in the mid-70's, displayed a strong sense of unity and cultural value that has continued to be a tradition at UMass.

The second emphasis evaluated the problems associated with Black homecoming. Within the brief span of this event (1976-present), it has had a history of communications and structural problems. The final message of the article, placed a challenge of creating a positive image for Black homecoming and future expectations to the present leaders.

While Black homecoming festivities are still in progress, there are some signs that a new image with old traditional features have surfaced to restore Black homecoming.

One example was the Black homecoming Parade on Sunday. The importance of this parade is based on two notions. First, the last time the community marched, was during the Fall of 1975. The reason for this even was the discriminating procedures of the Campus Center in student and staff hiring. The result was increased hiring of Black and Hispanic personnel, a new director, and an increase in financial resources for our community programs.

But the march on Sunday produced another strength for our community. Its initial influence provided a new sense of unity to group members and observers.

Another emphasis was the strong determination to uphold the Black homecoming tradition. A third recognition addressed the issue that has destroyed Black homecoming in the past—"community and organization." In the past, problems related to slow planning and apathy have caused confusion and delays among community members. Although the original date of homecoming was changed it did not hinder the performance of this week's events. Instead it has brought out a new personnel, to examine what their organizations are about. It also allowed old personnel to affiliate with this new effort to revitalize Homecoming for our new era (the 80's). Previously, a program having food would generally bring out the population regardless of its intend. However, the dinner held at the Malcolm X Center on Monday, having poetry reading, slide show, and messages from speakers, generated a tremendous interest within the body, and gave an insight of what Homecoming means. The high intensity exuberated by those in attendance, combined with the pleasures of Yvonne's catering, provided a stronger network for community building and acknowledgement of the Brothers and Sisters who made the 1980 Black Homecoming week a reality.

In conclusion, the dedication of the Afrikan Society appeal for unity, was one of the strongest messages given to our community for the new era. Although, this is a small step in correcting past mistakes, the efforts should not go in vain. Thus, the weight has to shift to the community, because it is there that the struggles for future programming such as Homecoming, Kwanza, and Black History must continue.

Earl Brown

Williams holds talk

WILLIAMSTOWN (AP) — Some 1,400 of the nation's most elite college students jammed into a meeting at Williams College on Tuesday, drawn to a discussion called in hopes of cooling racial tensions on the campus.

The gathering at the college, which has increased its black enrollment from 30 to 130 within a decade, was prompted by a Halloween weekend cross-burning and a series of racial threats.

The talk was long overdue, some black students said.

"This is the first time there has been a concerted effort to get some sort of black-white discussion going," said Darrell McWhorter, of Cincinnati, a black who is student government president.

Ellen Chandler, a white sophomore from Laconia, N.H., said some "white students had never really talked with black students."

A black student, John Coleman of New York City, said recent racial incidents have filled blacks with "anger and concern."

"The discussion may help people realize that blacks have been treated with some insensitivity," said Coleman.

College administrators called off morning classes for the student-faculty discussion, which drew all but about 500 of Williams' students. The students packed Chapin Hall, and some were forced into an adjoining building.

The talk ranged from criticism of the college's investments in companies doing business in South Africa to threatening phone calls and letters received by some black students and college President John W. Chandler.

Williams, which dominates life in this predominantly white town of 4,300 in northwestern Massachusetts, counts among its alumni New York Yankees owne George Steinbrenner, Boston Mayor Kevin White and Arthur Levitt, chairman of the American Stock Exchange.

Education for S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Compulsory education for black younsters, who number about 8 million, will be introduced for the first time in South Africa next year, Education Minister Ferdie Hartzenberg announced Tuesday.

The mandatory schooling will be phased in over a period of years, starting in six selected black townships on Jan. 1, the government said.

The introduction of the mandatory schooling is seen as the latest concession by Prime Minister P.W. Botha to the country's 22 million non-white majority.

Botha has told his fellow whites, who number about 4.5 million, that they must "adapt or die" and has announced a program of "new dispensation" for non-whites that eases the segregationist policy of apartheid.

Hartzenberg said the program will begin in the segregated black townships of Mamelodi, Atteridgeville and Saulsville around the capital of Pretoria and outside Krugersdorp, Potchefstroom and Orkney in Transvaal Province.

Education is now compulsory only for the white, Asian and mixed race or "colored" children, who are required to complete high school or attend school until they are 16.

Black children who voluntarily attend school receive what is generally regarded as an inferior education. Government education spending amounts to the equivalent of $800 a year per white child compared to $100 a year for blacks.

Announcements

Coffeehouse

The Third World Women's Center invites all women to attend a coffeehouse Sunday, Nov. 16 at 1 p.m., Malcolm X Center, Southwest.

"Come with poetry, a song, a skit, dance or just come to watch."

Refreshments will be served

Concert

UPC/Duke Ellington Series presents Sonny Rollins in concert, Saturday Nov. 15 at 8 p.m., FAC Concert Hall. Tickets are on sale at FAC Box Office. UMass students, $3.50, $3, $2.50 and General Public $7, $6, and $5.

Fashion

Brothers and Sisters: Do you need your hair cut, trimmed, shaped or styled? Available and qualified, contact Marlene E. Duncan. (Listed in the Student Directory)

Drumming

Drumming classes are now being offered by Pablo Landrum from New York City. Mondays from 5-8 p.m. $10.00 includes beg. and int. playing, notation, and cultural context of the music. More information: contact Joe Platz 353-5009. Don't wait; classes have already started.

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine.

Address your submissions to:

DRUM
115 New Africa House
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003

no later than November 20, 1980

BMCP

BMCP Committee Meetings: News Letter Wednesday 12 5:00 pm News & Public Affairs Wednesday 12 6:00 pm Finance Wednesday 12 7:00 pm All meetings 402 SUB

Black Affairs needs your Support

LUTHER

YOU DIDN'T DO YOUR HISTORY HOMEWORK?
10-3
NO, I DIDN'T READ THAT CHAPTER!
WHY NOT, MARY FRANCES?
EVERYBODY KNOWS HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF, OREO...
...I'LL HEAR ABOUT IT IN CURRENT EVENTS!
BRANDON JR.

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Homecoming Events

November 12: Organizational gathering and movie "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me a Nigger", Malcolm X Center, 7:30 p.m.

November 13: Rollerskating Party: Buses leave from New Africa House for the USA Roller Skating Rink in Chicopee at 9 p.m.

November 14: UPC/Duke Ellington Committee and Ahora present Ray Barreto and his orchestra in concert. Student Union Ballroom, 8 p.m.

November 15: Basketball tournament 10:30-5:30. Boyden Gym.

November 16: Fashion and Talent show, Hampden Theatre, 7:30 p.m.

Interns Go Places!
Application Deadline
Friday, November 14th!
Call or stop by the Office of Internships
16 Curry Hicks 545-0727 to Attend an Introductory Meeting.

Thorogood's thoroughly good

George Thorogood and the Destroyers
Rusty Nail
November 6

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Almost six days later, my ears are still ringing. But in addition to ringing with the dull droneoe ears are also ringing with the catchy blues sound of George Thorogood and the (Delaware) Destroyers.

When Thorogood and company left the stage, the full extent of the aural damage became evident to the sold-out throng in attendance. But instead of seeking quiet surroundings, the crowd cried out for more, and the Destroyers returned to play two more of their favorite tunes.

The show, to say the least, was impressive. Often called "the master of the slide guitar," Thorogood played the blues like few others can. His stage presence is awesome, and he controls the house. Exchanging barbs with members of the audience and cracking witty jokes, Thorogood keeps the tempo of the show up. And the music never gives up, with a hard driving beat and piercing sound.

Backed by a saxophone player, bassist Billy Blough and drummer Jeff Simon, the Destroyers (once called the Delaware Destroyers, after their native state) provided a fine accompaniment to Thorogood's talents.

The band played material from all three of their albums, including the entire first side from their second and most popular effort, Move it on Over. In addition to the title cut, the band also played the Destroyers' favorites "Who do you Love," "The Sky is Crying," and "Cocaine Blues," which drove the crowd into a wild frenzy.

"Madison Blues," "So Much Trouble," and "One Bourbon, One Scotch and One Beer," were also played, the latter with the crowd joining in with an off-key, drunken sing-along.

Thorogood sang his blues hard, with his raspy voice punching out from the music, but always in tune. And whenever he could get away with it, he substituted "Massachusetts," "Sunderland," or "The Rusty Nail" in place of locations in his songs.

The Destroyers are no strangers to New England, having gotten their start in blues bars in Cambridge and the Boston area. And their record company the obscure Rounder Records, is also from the Boston area. Thorogood and the Destroyers have stuck with Rounder, even though it is a small, relatively unknown company, which mainly features small-time country and blues acts in its catalog.

Sticking with Rounder has probably cost Thorogood and the Destroyers much of the noteriety they deserve. Without the backing and resources of a large label, the band has not received the exposure and hype needed to make a band's name a household word. It's not that the Destroyers aren't good enough, for they are, it's simply a matter of promotion.

But then, if the Destroyers were really big and famous, people wouldn't be able to see them in the small bars and clubs where they now perform. And, one must suspect, the Destroyers' magic would somehow be lost in a large arena. For the type of act they are, for the music they play, and to feel the magnetic personality of George Thorogood, the Destroyers must be seen in a small club. So perhaps, in staying with Rounder Records, they know what they're doing.

Today's Collegian produced by:
Jim Kane — Assistant Managing Editor
Carol Rosenberg, Gayle Young, Rhonda King — Layout Technicians
Nancy Nutile — Copy Editor
Jay Brightman — Head Photo Technician
Mary Kinneavy, Jane Wolfson, Liz Kantounis, Pam Dissinger, Michele Bedard, Edie Eppich. — Ad Layout, Composing Room

silverscope
Natural Cuisine
*fresh baked: quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso
COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.89/lb.
*Wine, Imported Beer, Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st. amherst
Mon-Sat 9 AM Midnight Sun 11 AM Midnight

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
in cooperation with the University Student Activities Office, presents
SONNY ROLLINS
Saturday
November 15, 1980
8 PM
A Duke Ellington Series Concert
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F noon - 4 pm). Phone reservations accepted through Th., Nov. 13. (413-545-2511)
$7, 6, 5 General Public
$6, 5, 4 Senior Citizens
$3.50, 3, 2.50 Umass Students

Ladies Night Out
CASTAWAY LOUNGE
ALL MALE REVIEW SHOW
Direct from Boston
Butch Cassidy
&
The Sundance Kid
Tues. Nov. 18 & Tues. Dec. 9
8 - 11 PM
Reservations Recommended
$3 Cover
Rt. 5 & 10 Whately
Tel 665-8731
Ladies Night Out

SENIORS
You Should Be Shot!!!
Index Yearbook
Portraits for February graduates, Stockbridge seniors, and any senior who may be away from campus next semester.
November 12-25
Campus Center Room 178
MWF 9-5 TTh 12-9
Call 545-2874 for your appointment
MAKE IT EARLY

THE ORIGINAL
POOR DICK'S PARTY
presented by
PI KAPPA ALPHA
at
POOR RICHARDS
Thursday Nov. 13 8 pm - 1 am
Beat the Clock Drinks
35c Drafts $1 Pos ID Req'd
TTKA
PIKE

TACO VILLA
Wholesome
Inexpensive
Refreshing
Change
Downtown Amherst
N. Pleasant
Fri - Sat 11-2 am
Sun-Thurs 11-1

PREPARE FOR
MCAT·LSAT·GMAT
SAT·DAT·GRE
Our 42nd Year
• Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
• Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
• Complete TEST-A-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
• Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
• Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
• Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by research-ers expert in their field.
• Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Call Days, Eves & Weekends
in Amherst
253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782

The University of New Hampshire Study Abroad in AUSTRIA
at the University of SALZBURG
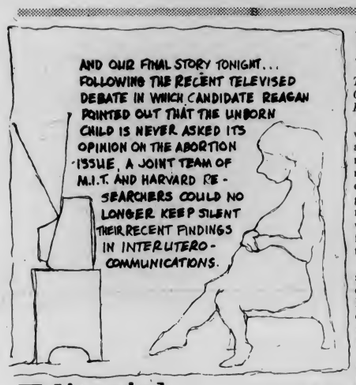
• Open to students in all major fields.
• Requirements: two years of college German and good scholastic standing.
For Information
Director: UNH Salzburg Program
Murkland Hall/AMLL-German
University of New Hampshire
Durham, New Hampshire 03824
Tel: (603) 862-1218

The GREAT SKI SNATCH
$500000
worth of top name
Winter Clothing & Ski Equipment
* Parkas
* Vests
* Sweaters
* Hats
* Gloves
* etc.
* X-Country
* Downhill
* Skis
* Boots
* Bindings
* Poles
All at Incredible Savings
Nov 19-22
at the SUB

The Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration presents
EXPRESSIVE THERAPIES:
An Exploration Through Film

Editorial/Opinion



AND OUR FINAL STORY TONIGHT... FOLLOWING THE RECENT TELEVISED DEBATE IN WHICH CANDIDATE REAGAN POINTED OUT THAT THE UNBORN CHILD IS NEVER ASKED ITS OPINION ON THE ABORTION ISSUE, A JOINT TEAM OF M.I.T. AND HARVARD RE-SEARCHERS COULD NO LONGER KEEP SILENT THEIR RECENT FINDINGS IN INTERUTERO-COMMUNICATIONS.

Editorial

Financial aid

One of the benefactors of the growth of the U.S. economy up until the mid-1960's were private and public institutions of higher education. The University of Massachusetts, along with the rest of the state college system, rode this wave of affluence and continued to grow until the mid-1970's when the nation's economy fell into a deep recession. At that time, the financial base of the state college system began to contract, by the combined effect of level funding and inflation, leaving its massive institutional structure to function on more inadequate monetary support each year.

While the educational services available to students here, predominantly from the middle and lower classes, erode under fiscal diminuation, the cost of these services rise in near proportion to the decrease in the amount of financial assistance available to help pay for them.

Blunt evidence of this trend was handed down to approximately 5,000 students last week in the form of a letter stating that funds promised by the Federal Office of Education to the University's Financial Aid Services would be an average of $300 less for each student than expected.

Many students who have already taken out federally guaranteed bank loans to the maximum allowed by law, and were counting on their work study positions to make up part of the remaining cost of tuition and living expenses, must now find part-time work outside the University. Indications are clear that there will not be enough.

The overall effect of this trend is to cut the number of students able to afford to attend the University from the bottom of the income scale; to allow it to continue to its logical conclusion would be to make a farce of designating this as a public University, since only the relatively rich will be able to attend. Yet the cry of the middle class taxpayer is cut, cut, cut.

Writing a letter? READ THIS!
Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.
All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Laws limit abortion rights

This is the first in a two part series on abortion by the Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom. Part two will appear on next Wednesday.

In 1973, the highest court in this nation deemed that a woman has a right to decide whether or not she would bear a child. Furthermore, if the decision was made to terminate the pregnancy, the health of the woman was paramount, so only licensed physicians could perform the procedure. During the first 28 weeks of pregnancy, the government was given the right to regulate nothing in regard to this decision except those criterian that ensure a woman's health. After this period, regulations limiting the form and availability of abortion are legal except where the health of the woman is at stake.

In the Spring of 1980, the Senate and the House significantly obstructed poor women's right to make this decision by passing the Hyde Amendment. No longer will Medicaid pay for safe abortions, and the states are not compelled to either. In Massachusetts this leaves women who cannot afford to go to licensed physicians two alternatives: give birth or seek our illegal abortions.

It is important to note the primary issues here: (1) Women are mandated by law the right to choose abortion, hence the courts have already deemed that the moral and ethical questions are a woman's to decide, and (2) It is a select group of women who are being denied this right based on their economic situation.

Clearly, abortion is an issue subject to much debate. The moral and economic, the religous and political issues need to be weighed out. But the final decision whether or not to terminate the pregnancy based on this deliberation must be in the hands of the woman. States who forbid the apprpriation of funds for abortion are circumventing their responsibility to the poor.

Denying funding has denied poor women this constitutional right. Some 250,000 to 300,000 women in the last year alone were denied abortions as a result of the Hyde Amendment. It is also estimated that without Medicaid funding there will be 125 to 250 deaths per year due to illegal or self induced abortions, as well as 12,500 to 25,000 serious medical cases requiring hospitalization.

An additional result of the Hyde Amendment has been the dramatic increase in the number of sterilizations performed; a service for which the government is willing to pay 90 percent of the cost. Third World women are the target of this abuse. Sterilization abuse situations range from being asked to give consent to the procedure while you are in labor, to being told that your welfare grant will be cut off if you are not sterilized, to being used as unknowing guinnea pigs in recently revealed sterilization programs carried out in the 60's, mainly in the south. Hence, the decisions you are given as a poor woman in this state, are pregnancy, sterilization or go elsewhere.

These attacks are just the beginning for all women. Although Third World and poor women are the target of this latest round of restrictions, the use of Right-to-Life language in the Hyde amendment lays the groundwork for further restrictions that will ultimately take away all women's right to choose.

The latest attacks take on the form of limitaing accessability to birth control and sex education in the public schools, as weel as to abortion, and to supportive social services such as day care. All this helps to force women back into the traditional roles of housewife and mother and also forces women out of the job market, out of political activitiy and economic battles. And for those woman who will remain in the work force, as a means of survival for their families and themselves, these attacks serve to increase the double duting of holding a job and running a family at the same time.

If you support women's right to choose, and believe the government has the reasponsibility to provide federal funding to guarantee that right you may:
--Sign the petition
--Talk to your legislators, friends, relatives, etc.
--Take an active role in the fight to ensure women's democratic right to choose.

Ms. Reva Gluick, Ms. Ellie Baglie, for the Coalition for Equal Rights and reproductive Freedom

OUT OF A POLL OF FIFTY FETAL PARTICIPANTS IN THE TESTING AT HARVARD COMMUNITY HEALTH CLINIC, 35 TRUSTED THE MOTHER TO MAKE THE BEST DECISION, 10 CHOSE TO RESERVE COMMENT UNTIL AFTER ELECTION RESULTS WERE TALLIED, AND 5 INDICATED STRONG DESIRES TO BE RELEASED FROM THE WOMB TO THE STREETS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO PAINT THIS DEMON RAY-GUN.

Letters

Writer disputes "hands-off" argument

Dear Editor:
In response to Beth Avenia's letter (Collegian, 11/7), I must make a few comments. First of all, I am not anti-woman, and I do not align myself with any political figure or group. I did not vote for Reagan. I believe in the rights of all people—and I recognize the incontrovertible evidence that a human fetus is in fact human, is nothing else, can be nothing else but human, and is therefore entitled to the Constitutional protection of its right to live. There is no such thing as a "right" to an abortion—abortion is a legally protected privilege. Because the government chosses the expedient route of "tolerance" toward abortion does not change the presence of the right to live.

I resent very much the assumption that because I am a male, I don't ever have to confront the dilemma of an unwanted pregnancy. It also does not follow that I must be rich and callous in order to have time to write.

Understand that when I compare abortion in America with slavery or with the killing of millions in Nazi Germany, I use the comparisons to illustrate social wrongs which share a common denominator: the assumption that the slave, the Jew or the fetus (or any other inconvenient social group) is less human than the people imposing the policies governing them. Beth Avenia states that I may "have the right to treat the fetus as a person if I want to," but adds that it is objectionable that I expect the law to protect the life of that fetus.

This "hands-off" argumentation is continually used to protect the privileges of self-interest groups in America, but when self-interest bends the Constitution's basic precepts (as "legal" abortion does), then that breach must be recognized and exposed. If under the Constitution we do not responsibly enforce the rights we have accepted as law for all people, then we are allowing a social, legal and moral wrong to occur. All law is based on some moral code, whether it be an expedient moral code or a more universal moral code.

I do not support forced sterilization, I do not believe that because rich people might get abortions anyway that abortion should therefore be free for anybody, or that abortion is okay for the rich. My opposition to abortion comes from a recognition that if anybody has a right to anything, they must first be alive. If the right to be alive is not protected under our legal system, then all other "rights" are arbitrary and empty. If this perspective is indeed "warped," it is so only in reflection against the beholder's own views.

Steve Masse
Amherst

Fishwrapper!

To the Editor:
In regard to the articles appearing in Friday's Collegian concerning a speaker that appeared in the student ballroom Thursday night, I would like to voice my objections.

Sometimes I find it very difficult to understand the objectives of this newspaper. Do you really think it is necessary to print the unbelievable garbage that any degenerate moron who walks off the street chooses to spew forth? Dick Gregory says that the U.S. presidential election held last Tuesday was rigged by the CIA. Dick Gregory says that the CIA will kill Ronald Reagan within the year. It's unbelievable that such a twisted mind could get nine hundred people to attend his lecture. It's even more unbelievable that the Collegian assumes that the general UMass population wants to read about it.

Last Friday's Collegian contained similar front page craziness. Some idiotic feminist speaker warning everyone to "watch out" for Reagan and the "New Right." Monday's Collegian contains similar trash. An article appearing on the front page compares Reagan with Adolf Hitler.

I realize that sometimes the UMass community's opinions run utterly contrary to the rest of the country, as evidenced by Tuesday's elections. And I realize that nothing that goes on in this community should be taken seriously, but let's try to be realistic for a change. This paper has consistently catered to the radical activist sector of the community while alienating the general population. My friends, who are all seniors now, have had enough of "NUMMO" and "Malcolm X" and "SCERA" and the rest of the dream world this paper has subjected them to for three and a half years, consequently they won't even consider reading this "trash" any more.

One more thing, if you "activists" are looking for something to be concerned with, may I suggest a small article that appeared in the "Dick Gregory" issue—an article concerning the arrest of a UMass Iranian student for illegally purchasing machineguns.

You probably won't print this letter because it is supportive of this country, and it doesn't contain obscenities. I question the wisdom of a country that allows its enemies to run around loose and plot against its people and, *$-$-&- Collegian, you've lost another reader.

Charles F. Field
Cliffside Apts.

Arts in review

Records

Bob Welch lost at sea

Bob Welch
Man Overboard (Capitol)

By ROB HUFFMAN
Collegian Staff

I try to treat my stereo well. But those darn components just don't seem to understand that I have to listen to this stuff to review it. Like the other day I got the new Bob Welch album...

"Ya know, Robbie," my turntable growled, sounding more cynical than usual, "the worst thing about a group like Fleetwood Mac is that not only do they allow a scrawny Farrah Fawcet clone like Stevie Nicks to traipse around in see-through dresses, but they also produce such talentless offspring as Bob Welch."

"Really, man;" my receiver joined in, "You don't need a Ph.D. in gynecology to tell that this guy's a real douche bag!"

"He's only written one good song in his life, and he's already gotten away wit

"He s only written one good song in his life, and he's already gotten away with two versions of it," my speakers chimed almost simultaneously; undoubtedly referring to Bob's popular attemp to become David Gates, "Sentimental Lady."

"Aw c'mon guys," I urged in Mr. Welch's behalf. "While I confess that the blatant sexual dominance theme of his French Kiss LP was pretty offensive, there are some decent tunes on his new record."

"Like what?" my tape deck challenged.

"Well, for instance, the first two minutes of "Nightmare" are tolerable, and "The Girl Can't Stop" has its moments. And Carter's production job is pretty hip considering the material."

"Yeah, well I think that the pseudo-Perry Mason theatrics of the string section are inexcusable," my receiver commenting this time.

"Okay, I confess. Every time I listen to this new Bob Welch album, Man Overboard, I keep waiting for the music to start. And it's true that I regret that my first name is Robert due to Mr. Welch's very existence. Saxaphonist Marty Jourard (from The Motels) almost saves this record, but every time he starts to really cook, Bob pipes up with another inane chorus or another ridiculous, contrived verse. Nonetheless, "Those Days

Bob Welch

Are Gone" works as a nostalgic car/love song with a spongy Grateful Dead feel to it. Ultimately however, no one describes my feelings better than Bob himself:

"And I'm bored over you,
I'm bored over me.
I'm overboard
Way overboard
Man overboard,
Man Overboard
I'm falling overboard,
Well, I'm so bored."

Critic's Cum—0.8

Polyrock's creative Electropop

Numan is Electroslop

GARY NUMAN
Telekon (Atco)

By STEVE WINNIMAN
Collegian Staff

When work normally performed by humans is done by machines, a fairly predictable result ensues. The product comes out standardized—acceptable but ultimately soulless, devoid of that particular "human touch." This is especially evident in electronic pop music, where the human touch—individual styles of manipulating instruments is replaced by synthesized, standardized sounds, usually devoid of real feelings. Still, this genre can produce some truly interesting, innovative music, such as Polyrock, as well as stilted, stupid excesses like Telekon.

Polyrock, the self-titled debut album for this New York sextet, shows what can be done with a proper approach to electronic sound. This band looks at their machines—synthesizer, bass machine, and various electronics—as true instruments rather than just noisemaking machines. As such, the sound comes accross in a far more personal way than that of most electronic bands. It also helps that the band contains conventional instruments, guitars, keyboards, violin, and drums, which combine with the electronics to produce a far more original, interesting sound than other electronic bands. Polyrock truly sounds like music, rather than factory noises.

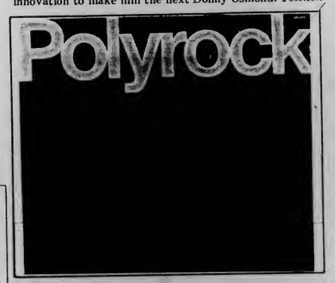
Polyrock consists of Billy and Tommy Robertson, on guitar and vocals, and guitar, violin, and electronics, respectively; Lenny Aaron, keyboards; Curt Cosentine, bass machine and synthesizer; Joseph Yannace, drums, vocals. In additions, producer Philip Glass contributes and Catherine Oblasney, percussion and occasionally some piano. The result is a rich heavily-orchestrated sound that approaches baroqueness while avoiding dullness. Over a drumbeat so rigid it could be a rhythm machine, Polyrock lays layers of electronics, then guitars, and finally vocals, creating an overall effect that is both rich and tuneful.

Despite their good points, Polyrock is still marred by the sterility of the electronic genre. No matter how adeptly played, a synthesizer is still a machine rather than an instrument, and is therefore reluctant to yield truly personal sounds. Polyrock's vocals help make up for this, though, and at their best, on cuts like "Romantic Me," "Green for Go," and "Sound Alarm" they can be quite refreshing to listen to. Polyrock has recently generated a lot of good press, and it would not be surprising to see them eventually lead the pack in electronic pop music.

Not so for Gary Numan. With Telekon, his second album, Numan demonstrates enough energy, talent and innovation to make him the next Donny Osmond. Telekon is as predictable as a clock, and about as interesting.

Gary Numan started out several years ago with Tubeway Army, a fairly conventional new wave band. Eventually, Numan became the focal point of the group, and broke it up after two albums. Since then, he has put out two bland, soulless albums (Telekon and The Pleasure Principle) one hit single ("Cars") and for some unfathomable reason, became a star. Why? Your guess is a good as mine.

In Telekon, Numan revels in his self-assumed image of a cole, emotionless spaceman character. In "This Wreckage" he sings,"And what if God's dead/we must have done something wrong/this dark facade ends/We're independent from someone." It's all such a laugh. In reality, Numan is merely a 22-year-old snotnose who's probably amused that it's taking his fans so long to get the joke. For sure, a truly detached personality would not and could not spend his life performing for audiences. He'd just sit alone in his room. Which is what ol' Gary ought to do.



Steve Forbert

'Orbit's' off its course

Steve Forbert
Little Stevie Orbit (Nemperor)

By DAVE DOLNY
Collegian Correspondent

Nemperor Records has just released Steve Forberts' third album: Little Stevie Orbit. Technically, this is a high lity work from this popular blues-folk oriented musi cian. However, the artisitic content of Little Stevie Orbit is not nearly as satisfying as its technical production.

The major emphasis of this album is placed on Forbert's vocals, but his style is not relegated to any particular musical category. In this album, Forbert rocks it up a bit, mellows out, sings the blues, and introduces bluegrass elements all in one disc. It takes a certain amount of talent to put all of these factors together, but one has to ask: "Does all this diversity result in a good record?" The pro blem with Little Stevie Orbit is that it does not.

Since its styles are so varied, it just can't appeal to a specific audience. It won't attract heavy metal fans likely to go wild over Black Sabbath or Zepplin, new wavers preferring Elvis Costello and the Ramones, or Country and Western fans who favor artists such as Kenny Rogers and Charlie Daniels. This album is perplexing in that it satisfies no one. People with a particular musical preference tend to buy records focused on their particular taste, not an album that might only touch upon it. Forbert has been quoted as saying "A record is only an indication of where someone is at a particular time." Judging from the cuts on Little Stevie Orbit, I don't know where Forbert is right now. I wonder if he knows.

Specifically, if they eliminated "Lucky" and "Rain," two snoozers, from the second side and substituted "Get Well Soon" and "Lucky Lou" from the first side, then we would have a good light rock album. However, the rest of the songs on the album, such as "A Visitor" with its spacey lyrics, "Lucky" with its polka-like instrumentals, and the dramatic "One More Glass of Beer," can only hope to con fuse the listener with their sudden changes in mood.

This album fulfills no one mood. Nevertheless, if you are one of those individuals who appreciates a musicians background and diversity, then you won't be disappointed with Forbert's latest effort. But if you normally like music to create a certain mood or style, then wait until this one is in the $2.00 cutout bins.

In Forbert's words, "this is me folks...take it or leave it." I'd leave it.

Stevie Wonder—Hotter Than July

Stevie Wonder
Hotter Than July (Motown)

By JON OLTSIK
Collegian Correspondent

Hotter Than July is the latest in the long series of brilliant albums by a true American genius, Steveland Judkins Morris (also known as Stevie Wonder).

After producing last year's soundtrack album, The Secret Life Of Plants, Stevie had many extra musical compositions which did not fit into the general concept of that album. Hotter Than July is the product of Mr. Wonder's productivity. The album itself is Stevie's first single album since fullfillingness First Finale in 1974. With a total of more than 45 minutes of music, Stevie has filled this album with as much material as is technically possible without sacrificing any sound quality.

The mood of this album is upbeat and funky as the title Hotter Than July suggests. The first side opens with "Did I Hear You Say" and "All I Do," which carry the powerful musical magic reminiscent of some of Stevie's past triumphs such as "Superstition" and "Sir Duke." Stevie follows these two up-tempo tunes with his beautiful, "Rocket Love," a ballad in the tradition of Wonder greats such as "Knocks Me Off My Feet," and "You Are The Sunshine Of My Life." The album quickly picks up again with "I Ain't Gonna Stand For It," followed by "As If You Read My Mind."

Side two opens with "Master Blaster (Jammin')" a song already popular because of its Reggae beat, but which also embraces the establishment of the nation of Zimbabwe: "Peace has come to Zimbabwe/Third World's right on the one/Now's the time for celebration/'Cause we've only just begun." The upbeat pace is continued with "Do Like You," and "Cash In Your Face," followed by the mellow ballad "Lately."

Stevie Wonder

Both the last song on side two, "Happy Birthday," and the inner sleeve of this album are dedicated to the memory of a great man and leader, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. "Happy Birthday" is a salute to January 15, 1980 which would have been Dr. King's 52nd birthday. In "Happy Birthday" Stevie poetically reminds us of the life of the leader: "And we all know everything/That he stood for time will bring/For in peace our hearts will sing/Thanks to Martin Luther King." The album sleev bears a photograph of Dr. King on one side and a haunting reminder of the chaos of the 1960's he faced on the other. The sleeve is dedicated to the campaign to make Jan. 15 a national holiday, to pay tribute to the achievements of this great American.

This album displays Wonder's creativity and musical versatility as well as his beautiful personality. Stevie's career, now in its twentieth year shows no sign of a let down. Hotter Than July is an album which (as expected) is further proof of the limitless well of talent of Stevie Wonder.

Critic's cum.—3.75!!!!

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and Columbia Artists present
The ACADEMY of SAINT MARTIN in the FIELDS
WORLD'S MOST RECORDED CHAMBER ORCHESTRA
Friday, Nov 14 8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Wed. Nov. 12 (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students
Partial funding provided by Andry Montgomery Ltd of London

Thayer School of Engineering
Dartmouth College
Recruiting for Masters and Doctoral Candidates in the following areas: biomedical engineering electrical engineering environmental engineering solid mechanics & mechanical design fluid mechanics metallurgy and materials science radiophysics and space research system simulation and policy design cold regions science and engineering
Fellowships and Research Assistantships available.
Interviews from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesday, November 12, Placement Service, Goodell Building.

Grad Student Employees Union Meeting
Deciding the future of the organization. Establishing a relationship with Grad Senate.
Nov. 12 Wed. Lunch Hour 12-1 pm
Campus Center 902

Cranes & Eatons Stationary
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

THE WOK
Chinese Home Style Cooking
COMPLETE TAKE-OUT MENU
AMPLE PARKING
LUNCHEON & DINNER SPECIALS
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
MON. - THURS 11:30 AM - 10 PM • FRI. & SAT. 11:30 AM TO 12:00 PM
SUN. & HOLIDAYS 1 PM TO 10 PM • LUNCHEONS 11:30 AM - 3 PM
EXCEPT HOLIDAYS
48 RUSSELL ST. HADLEY
Call 586-1202
Second Anniversary Dinner Specials
Available on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday 3:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m.
SPECIAL
All Dinners come with a beer, wine or bar drink
$4.75
1. Beef w/Mixed veg. & (2) Fried Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
2. Chicken w/Mixed Veg & (2) Terriyaki Beef & Roast Pork Fried Rice
3. Shrimp w/Mixed Veg. & (1) Egg Roll & Roast Pork Fried Rice
4. Scallop w/Mixed Veg & (4) Chicken Fingers & Roast Pork Fried Rice
5. Sweet & Sour Chicken & Roast pork Fried Rice
6. Sweet & Sour Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
7. Sweet & Sour Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice
Moo Shi Dishes (Szechuan Hot)
8. Moo Shi Chicken & Roast Pork Fried Rice
9. Moo Shi Pork & Roast Pork Fried Rice
10. Moo Shi Shrimp & Roast Pork Fried Rice

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot Amherst Colonial Shops 549-1409
39¢ a day*.
—based on a full year's tanning program
Saturday Sunspot Special (Nov. 15th) 1 Free Visit & Free Gift with this ad

charlie's
good food & drink
LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST
3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!
All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75
Specials after Happy Hour
SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles
MON. Canadian Night .99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts
TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles
WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps
THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week
We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet
Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room
We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board
Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly
1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

UPC/Duke Ellington & AHORA
present

Ray Barretto
and his orchestra

with guest artists:
The Jimenez Brothers Band

November 14, 1980
Student Union Ballroom

Tickets:
$5.00 UMass Student with valid I.D.
6.00 General Public

No Bottles, Cans or Smoking

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610

62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

DISCOUNT PHOTO FINISHING

Archer Kent

Prices Effective Nov 12 through Nov 16

Right Guard Roll-On regular or unscented 99c 1.5 oz

Jontue Cologne Spray 1 oz $4.50

WINDMERE. Styling Dryer 1250 watt $8.88

GIFT IDEAS

The Hot Brush by Shetland $5.99 #6001

Brut Gift Set 3.5 splashon lotion 2.5 oz deodorant stick $1.99

LIQUID NOXZEMA. SKIN CREAM 93c 6 oz.

Clairol Clair-Mist regular or unscented 59c 4 oz.

Telfa Sterile Pads 2x3 10 count 66c

Excedrin 225 count $3.99

Cover Girl Pressed Powder all shades $1.24

Trident all flavors 5 sticks 2 pkgs 29c

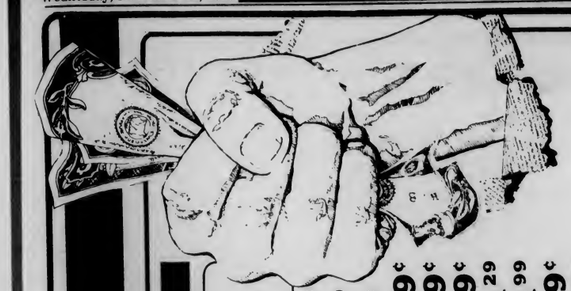
191 North Pleasant St.
Amherst. Ma 01002
253-9249

Quantity Rights Reserved

Louis FINE FOODS
76 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MASS.



Be Kind To Your Budget!

Grocery Specials!

Laundry Detergent CHEER 1 ST OFF 49¢ LABEL 49 OZ BOX $1.49

Delta Towels JUMBO ROLL FOR 289¢

Tomato Sauce	SWEET LIFE 8 OZ	49¢
Cooking Sauce	ALL VAR 15½ OZ JAR	99¢
Soap Pads	SOS 15CT PKG	79¢
Dish Detergent	PLAN LIVE LIQUID 32 OZ BTL	$1.39
Dial Soap	REGULAR SIZE, ALL VAR 3 3½ OZ BARS	89¢
Panty Liner	NEW FREEDOM, ANY DAY 36CT PKG	$1.89
Fabric Softener	DOWNY 60 OZ JUG	$1.99
Cold Tablets	ALKA SELTZER PLUS 36CT PKG	$1.29
Shaving Cartridge	GILLETTE ATRA, SENSOR, SENSOR EXCEL 5 CT PKG	$2.19
Dog Food	RECIPE ALL VAR 3 14½ OZ CANS	89¢
Tomato Juice	SWEET LIFE 32 OZ BTL	49¢
Cocoa Mix	SWISS MISS REG. MINI-MARSH 8 OZ ENVELOPES	$1.19
Cake Mixes	BETTY CROCKER, DUNCAN HINES 18½ OZ PKG	69¢
Bread Mixes	PILLSBURY ALL VAR 14½ OZ PKG	99¢
Pop Tarts	KELLOGG'S ALL VAR 11 OZ PKG	69¢
Fruit Drinks	HI-C ALL VAR 46 OZ CAN	59¢
Syrup	VERMONT MAID 24 OZ BTL	$1.29
White Tuna	STARKIST SOLID PACK 7 OZ CAN	$1.99
Clam Chowder	MANHATTAN STYLE 15 OZ CAN	69¢
Curly Lasagna	RONZONI 16 OZ PKG	69¢

Custom Cut Cheese Specials

Brie De Meaux $3.99 LB (REG 4.99)

Dairy Specials

HOOD 1% Low Fat Milk $1.49 GAL JUG

Promise Margarine QTRS 1 LB PKG 69¢

Hood Nuform Yogurt 2 8 OZ CUPS 89¢

Apple Juice ½ GAL CTN $1.19

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES
NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Specials Effective Mon.-Sat. Nov. 10-15

COUPON LOUIS — LOUIS VALID NOV. 10-15 — PILLSBURY Pie Crust Mix 13 OZ PKG 9¢ — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE EXCLUSIVE OF CIGARETTES & TOBACCO

COUPON LOUIS — LOUIS VALID NOV. 10-15 — SOFT WAVE Bathroom Tissue 2 ROLL PKG 29¢ — WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE EXCLUSIVE OF CIGARETTES & TOBACCO

Meat Specials!

PERDUE Chicken Breasts	SPLIT-NO BACKBONE	$1.29 LB
USDA CHOICE Chuck Roast	BONE-LESS	$1.89 LB
GEM MISS FANCY Smoked Shoulders	EXTRA LEAN SHORT SHANK 4-6 LBS AVG	$1.19 LB

Stock Your Freezer With Primal Cuts And Save. You buy the whole piece and we will cut and package it for you

USDA CHOICE Whole Tenderloins $3.99 LB

BE KIND TO YOUR BUDGET!

USDA CHOICE SHOULDER CLOD London Broil		$2.29 LB
GEM OUR DELI Sliced Bologna	1 LB PKG	$1.29
GEM OUR DELI Sliced Salami	1 LB PKG	$1.39
LEAN CHUCK Stew Beef		$1.93 LB
LEAN Ground Beef	5 LB PKG OR MORE $1.65 LB	$1.69 LB

We Are Now Taking Orders For Fresh Native Glen Shaw Turkeys Raised Locally in Pelham.

FRESH FLORIDA Green Beans 59¢ LB

Wexford 59¢

SWEET & JUICY FLORIDA Tangerines		99¢ DOZ
CALIFORNIA Emperor Grapes		69¢ LB
FRESH Native Carrots	1 LB PKGS	3 $1
CANADIAN Waxed Turnips		15¢ LB

Frozen Foods

MINUTE MAID Orange Juice	12 OZ CAN	89¢
Morton Donuts	JELLY OR GLAZED 8 PKG	69¢
Combination Vegetables	NEW BIRDSEYE BLUE RIBBON 10 OZ PKG	69¢
Fried Clams	HOWARD JOHNSON 1 OZ BOX	$1.09
4 Fish Fillets	MRS. PAUL'S CRUNCHY LITE BATTER 9 OZ PKG	$1.29
La Pizzeria Cheese Pizza	12½ OZ PKG	$1.29
Pepperidge Farms Cake	ROLL'S MORT ALL VAR 14 OZ BOX	$1.29
Ice Cream Sandwiches	SEALTEST 1/2 GAL CTN	$1.59

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ABSOLUTELY FREE

Kitten, female & 7 lbs kitty food 1-339-4224 aft 5

AUDIO

Discount Stereo Equipment: Campus Sounds has everyday sale prices on over 100 top brands-all fully guaranteed!-Will beat any competitor's price! Call Eric @ 546-1147 (try again after 11 p.m.)

Pig Nose 30/60 great shape $190 negotiable John 549-1666 evenings

Sansui 881 Receiver 65 watts per chanel full features cost $550 new 2 yrs ago asking 250 549-1307

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

1971 Satelite 318, asking 250 call after 9:00 665-7753

Immediate Sale - Ford Galaxie 500 needs work first $150 before 11AM Ric 549-0118

1975 Vega G.T. Stnd, 27 mpg, 2 bbl carb, body good, undercoated, AM/FM stereo, new wide oval tires & snows, other extras—$500.00 or BO 638-3279 after 5

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA syste·m mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Bands wanted for battle of the bands prize $$ contact Brett House now Dan 6-9533 Sandy 6-6287 Doug 6-6234

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Mag Wheels 14x6 for most GM cars call Phil 546-6675

Hockey Equipment: Goalie stick and catch gloves; shoulder and chest pads take all for $60 Keith 665-4914

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price 665-7545

Rossignol CM; 195 cm, brand new - never mounted, retailed at $225, asking $175, call Jim after 7:00 pm 546-5214

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Springsteen Ticket Dec 11 6-5591 anytime Providence

Ski Bindings for sale Look N-77 brand new, int. exp. $50. 6-5808

Springsteen Tickets 12/12 Hartford 546-9568

FOUND

Keys near FAC 11/3 call 6-9292

Women's Salem High class ring please call Michael 546-1133

Found: Sum of money on the north side of campus. Identify. Call 5-2008 G. Peterson

GIFTS

Victorinox Genuine Swiss Army Knives 30% off SASE for prices to Nichols Pharmacy 274 Wahconah St Pittsfield Mass 01201

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Houseworker 2-3 hours/week, Sunderland, references required 665-4920

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Lost keys—Sat nite wall across from Thoreau Reward 6-7451

Gold S Chain double bracelet Means alot to me. Reward call Jennifer 6-3201

I left a Constitutional Law book in Hasbrouck 134. If you found it please call Chris at 323-7168. I need it desperately.

Radio Shack calculator Mon Nov 3 Eng E brown case call 665-4315

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. . anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. , .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Up for a late night pizza and beer? Come to CHARLIE'S. Pizza served Daily 9-1. Ask about our golden club card which entitles you to a free drink per day. Card cost is $5.00 per month

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse & Photo Co-op Tickets 3/$1

Looking for something fun, tired of the same old thing, come to Lambda's Scavenger Hunt! All women welcome at 8:00 PM on Thursday 11/13 for fun, prizes, drinks, munchies - 389 No. Pleasant St 5-0939 for rides

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Moving? We will sublet your two bedroom apt. will pay sublet fee! Please call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Unimassity of Versachusetts T-shirts! Printed both sides with falling library brick logo on back! Only $5.00 call 546-5930 for details!

Kit--Those first five minutes were good--but not as good as all the others!. .Booma! You're the N.S.C.B.B.I--Emery

Vive La Crumb! Very crumbly signed, a 20 year old hot tamale

To the gorgeous white male who loses gym shorts—Whers did they go?

To the male who lives in Cance from Bolton Mass I met you in N Hampton I think you're great! Would like to get to know you. Please respond! the Girl from the West

Happy Birthday to my sister Mary Wolcott have the happiest Love Jenny

Linguisa, Lubner, Hisa, Gasbar, Grossmano Happy B (V)-Day! Let's eat and celebrate! You're the Best Love, S. H. and Bam

Fletch: Happy 20th! Thanx for being you Love C.S.

In a rut? We'll be out of it soon. Get those stalkin' pins on and Slam Dunk

Undergraduate Political Science Association bring lunch and talk to the Profs about election 80 Thursday Nov. 13 6th floor lounge, Thompson, noon. Coffee provided Everyone invited

The Science Fiction Society is having a meeting Nov 13 at 7:00 see our NEW Library/Office Rm 161 CC for info

Want a pisa Lisa? Go for it its her Birthday - Sue and Annie

C. C. no dust just lack of contact. Let's talk

Flute and oboe duet seeks Fren ch horn and clarinet for orchestration in discrete wind ensembles. Bassooner the better! P.O. Box O FAC

Happy Belated Birthday "Little Boy" love little wiede

Rae Ann - Happy Birthday from your neighbor and friend - love Jeffery

Congratulations to Lisa Sheehan, Arts Editor for the 1981 INDEX - Sorry for leaving you off the first list, Lisa. Good Luck!

ROOM WANTED

Needed room house or apt near bus next semester Rob 665-4181

Male senior looking for own room in house or apartment for Spring semester 546-8187

2-4 bedroom house or apt for Spring sem call eve 568-8847

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0510 evenings prefer women

Own room in four bedroom Swiss Village apt $122. includes utilities call Patrick 253-9476 after 9

Own room in 3 bdrm apt spring semester $85/mo bus rte 665-7743

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or countrry music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom sublet Cliffside available w/option call 665-2891 $220 inclusive

Sublet Wanted 1 or 2 bedroom apt or house on bus rte near Campus starting Jan 1 or Feb 1 please call Jane 253-5370 or Andrea 546-7626

One single room newly rennovated house $175 center of town call Scott 253-2600

Apt for Spring Jan-Aug bus, AC, pool 255+ 665-4254

TRAVEL

Florida—The Great Getaway for Spring Break and January Term under $200 round trip jet 256-6704

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

Country Living at its finest. Utilities included 10 minutes from Amherst Whately Inn 665-3044

Apartment wanted for Spring 2 or 3 bdrm on bus rt call 6-6083 or 6-6141 we offer bribes

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

Looking for vacant apartment will take over January 1st please call 6-7441

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

WHAT ARE YOUR WORDS WORTH?

Your reports, manuscripts, letters and resumes; your thesis or dissertation—in whatever form, in almost any language—your words are worth the scrupulous, professional attention of Words-worth.

- Double-spaced text from $.95 a page.
- Justified resumes from $3.50 a page.
- Telephone dictation line.
- Overnight rush jobs.

WORDS-WORTH

High quality computerized typing at an amazingly affordable price. Your words are worth it.

37 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
(413) 549-1303

The UMass Music Theater Guild presents:
The Broadway Musical

Final Week

"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs., Fri., Sat., Nov. 13, 14, 15

All Performances 8 P.M. — Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium — Gen. Admission $3.00

Tickets on sale at the Bowker Box Office 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Monday-Friday, or call in your phone reservation Telephone 545-0783
Presented in cooperation with the Fine Arts Council

ANG FOR THE RAND
THIS SOUNDS LIKE THE MOST REASONABLE APARTMENT SO FAR! AND YOU SAY IT'S O.K. TO SMOKE, DRINK, PARTY, ETC.?
SURE! ANYTHING GOES, HERE.
AND IF YOU MOVE IN, YOU'D SHARE THIS BEDROOM.
WOW, I'VE FINALLY FOUND A NICE GROUP OF PEOPLE
CINDY DOWNING
OH SHIT...
BY THE WAY, ARE YOU INTO SHEEP?

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

SO WHAT IF TODD'S NOT BUILT LIKE SOMEONE FROM THE ACHI? WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE?
HE STILL A PERSON Y'KNOW!
OH CHET! I'M JUST GIVING YOU SHIT BECAUSE I THINK YOU GO A LITTLE TOO FAR.
IF TODD GOD IS GODD..
I LIKE TODD, TOO, BUT YOU'RE A TODD-HEAD!
I AM NOT A TODD-HEAD! THAT'S TOO BIGOTS A TERM FOR ME!
THEN GO AHEAD AND ADMIT IT!
THEN GO UTOPIA
THEN WHAT ARE YOU?
AN APOSTLE!
IS HEAVEN

Under the Influence — M. Joyce

HEY FINN, THIS GUY KEEPS BOTHERING ME! WILL YOU PUT YOUR ARM AROUND ME?
SURE!
THAT'S RIGHT! HE'S MY BOYFRIEND! AND IF YOU DON'T TAKE OFF RIGHT NOW HE'LL GET REALLY PISSED!

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau

OKAY, LET'S GET DOWN TO CASES, DR. DAN. WHAT EXACTLY IS A "MELLOW MORTGAGE"?
A MELLOW MORTGAGE IS A SWEET DEAL, MARK.
THAT MEANS A LONG-TERM AGREEMENT WITH A LOW INTEREST RATE AND A SMALL DOWN PAYMENT. IT'S NOT EASY GETTING THESE TERMS, BUT ONCE YOU DO, YOU'RE ON YOUR WAY!
IN MY BOOK, I SHARE MY SECRETS, THE AMAZING TECHNIQUES WHICH CAN PARLAY A MERE $1000 INVESTMENT INTO A SPRAWLING, MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR EMPIRE IN A MATTER OF DAYS!
AND ALL YOU WANT IS $12.95? THAT HARDLY SEEMS FAIR.
IT'S AN INCREDIBLE OFFER, ISN'T IT?
GBTrudeau

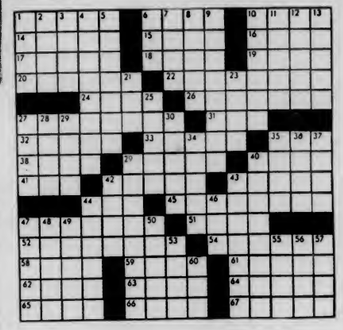
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 ---- ale: Water
6 Weapon thrust
10 Small duck
14 On the level
15 Sunken missile shelter
16 Muscle condition
17 Degrade
18 Slovenly one: Informal
19 Common shrub
20 Spreads here and there
22 Prepared for production: 2 words
24 Balustrade
26 Makes happy
27 Declared positively
31 Pigmented liquid
32 ----- for sound
33 Virteous mineral
35 Crow's cry
38 Hematite and bauxite
39 Ruthless one
40 Whetstone
41 Was in first place
42 Biblical region
43 ----- Regions
44 Deface
45 Starlike
47 Started again
51 "You don't say!"
52 Supply with authority
54 Gadgets
58 Thoroughfare
59 Run
61 Din
62 La femme
63 Plenty: Archaic
64 All: Musical direction
65 Hind part
66 Change the decor
67 Range animal

DOWN
1 "Too bad!"
2 Liability
3 Stabilizing agent
4 Prolonged sufferings
5 Ship's officer
6 Sel. Serv. Sys.
7 Incline
8 Knocked for ----
9 Songbird
10 Trait
11 Morose spells
12 Follow as a consequence
13 Bewails
21 Simile: Abbr.
23 Miss Horne
25 River in Hades
27 Hooky, GI style
28 Detonate
29 Mr. Allen
30 Dribs and -----
34 Declaim
35 Beverage
36 Med. course
37 Had reality
39 Record destroyer
40 Delays signing: 2 words
42 Identical
43 Grief utterances
44 Serious crime
46 Encourage
47 More uncommon
48 Fr. students' milieu
49 Milan's La -----
50 Girl's name
53 Walked over
55 Small amount
56 Bone: Prefix
57 Biblical mountain
6u Pair

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved

S	M	I	L	E		B	O	S		D	A	T	E
H	O	N	O	R		M	O	D	E		E	D	O	M
I	N	T	R	A		O	R	E	A	L	A	D	E
F	A	N	C		O	B	S	T	L	E		P	I	E
	U	M	A	M		S	E	A	T	O	P
E	S	T	A	B	L	I	S	H		D	O	M
R	I	A		A	D	D		F	O	I	L
L	O	P		S	A	L	A	L		K	N	I	T
T	E	N	O	N		L	E	F	T	O	R	S	H	A
			D	O	E		G	E	O	D	U	C	K
P	A	S	S	A	N	T		L	E	V	I	S
A	L	P		S	T	O	L	E		S	T	O	O	P
S	L	O	P	A	N		U	S	E	R
S	O	R	A		E	S	H	E		T	U	N	E	S
E	V	E	D		E	T	E	S		S	E	Y	O	N



D.C. Men

LUNCH
Cheeseburger
Liver and Onions

DINNER
Roast Beef/Gravy
Franks with Rolls

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Chow Mein/
Dry Noodles
Golden Burgers

BASICS DINNER
Barley-Soybean Casserole
Cod Florentine

STUDENTS BEWARE!

Many people claim to be paying top prices for class rings, old gold, sterling, etc.

BUT THEY AREN'T
So--Before You Sell--See me at

WENDY'S

Twice a week, every week at:
UMass Campus Center Concourse
Approved by UMass Board of Governors

P.S. I Pay Cash!

RESUME

NAME:	Paper House
ADDRESS:	65 University Drive, Amherst (next to Bell's Pizza)
PHONE:	549-5656
OBJECTIVE:	We will print the best resume for you on the best paper (w/matching paper and envelopes.)
EXPERIENCE:	We produce hundreds of high quality resumes that get jobs.
OTHER INTERESTS:	Typing, graphics, copies (1 to 10,000 or more) of newsletters, posters, etc., notebooks, chartpak, and a tremendous paper selection.

NOW AT
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

★contract

continued from page 1

Other provisions include language restricting involuntary transfers, and layoffs. The employees also received increased tuition waivers, seniority extension for grant-funded employees, and new language on vacancies and promotions.

USA president Lynn Washburn said there were "significant gains in contract language."

Washburn indicated she is pleased with the verbal agreement, but said the final language has yet to be put on paper. The union and administration bargaining teams meet this Friday in an attempt to finalize the agreement.

The union negotiators "will recommend a favorable decision by the union members on a ratification vote," said Washburn. But, she added, "we won't accept (the proposal) unless we are getting the same wage increase as other state employees."

Massachusetts Society of Professors members march up ramp toward entrance of Whitmore Administration Building during demonstration Monday. (Staff photo by Bill Lewis)

TOP PRIORITY #1

10% DISCOUNT for all UMass students, on all entrees everynight! Just present your valid student I.D.

Top of the Campus Restaurant

For Reservations call - 549-6000 X639

come to Plumbley's of the common

The 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championship!

Come enjoy great English Pub Beer at Special Low Prices!

Prizes and good English Pub fun! all proceeds to Muscular Dystrophy

Wed., Nov. 5, 12, 19 7 PM

Hitchcock's

PSYCHO

Nov. 13 — C.C.A.

5, 7, 9, 11 $1

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS MOLSON GOLDEN IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to compare the taste of our Labatt's with the brew of our friendly competitor.
See what you think.
We, like most other Canadians, prefer a bottle of Labatt's Beer over a Golden.
If we didn't, we'd likely be drinking Molson® instead—and we certainly wouldn't be running this ad.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

PS. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

© Labatt Importers, Inc., Amherst, N.Y. 1980

amc THEATRES TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN with AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE 50 RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00

...the man you thought you knew. JESUS G
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15

THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE R
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 1:45

FADE TO R
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15

Dinner and Movie only $5.50
Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad. (Sun-Thur only)

FREE! SHOPPERS SHOW
Thursdays at 1:00 P.M.
Nov. 13 DOM DeLUISE HOT STUFF PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.

GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00

CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK THE AWAKENING R
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15

JILL CLAYBURGH LOVE MY TURN R
Mon (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30

ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.

MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS

CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY

Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.

BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	Seiberling	25.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seib.	28.95	S60x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	G78x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	H78x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. Wt.	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E. Tax & Sales Tax.

RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

VISA OR MASTER CHARGE OPEN 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3 586-2544

Pointer Sisters harmonious trio

The Pointers Sisters
Stage West, Hartford
November 6

"The only disappointing note of the whole show was its brevity..."

By JOANNE LAWRENCE
Collegian Staff

Performing a mixture of classic soul, modern rock and bebop jazz, The Pointer Sisters danced and sang their way into the hearts of a small, but exceptionally receptive crowd here last Thursday night.

Opening with "We Got the Power," a cut from their latest LP, Special the harmonious trio set the stage for an evening of high-energy music and a fine mixture of their earlier tunes to compliment their new, more rock-oriented material.

After performing the title cut "Special," the Sisters took the audience back with them to the early seventies with a cover of Lee Dorsey's "Yes We Can," their first hit single, and "Salt Peanuts," a snappy, fast-paced song that has always been a favorite among their fans.

The Pointers did a modified adaptation of Bruce Springsteen's "Fire," from their Energy album, then Anita, Ruth and June (minus Bonnie) gave us the new "He's So Evil," before going back to another earlier hit, "(She's Got) The Fever," from Priority.

Next came an open invitation to dance with "He's So Shy," the current hit single.

The only disapointing note of the whole show was its brevity; with a concert lasting only 50 minutes, it seemed that just when you got off your feet and going you were cut short waiting to hear and see so much more.

The Pointer Sisters—Anita, Ruth and June performed before a receptive audience last Thursday night at Stage West in Hartford. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Space Invaders

OFFICIAL T-SHIRT

WHITE ON BLACK ONLY
S-M-L-XL Quality 50-50 Silk Screened by hand
Send Check Cash Money Order
$5.95 + .75 Shipping and Handling
WIZ KIDS
P.O. Box 3074, Brewster, MA 02631

A GREAT XMAS PRESENT
PROMPT DELIVERY
DISTRIBUTOR INQUIRIES WELCOME

American Graffiti

Thur., Nov. 13th
7, 9, & 11 pm, $1.00
Mahar Auditorium
presented by the
U.M.S. Parachute Club

THE $79 FACE LIFT. REG: $89

(Before) ($79 Later)

With Bausch & Lomb Soflens Contacts, you do something nice for your eyes and give your whole face a lift.

Now you can finally switch from glasses to famous Bausch & Lomb Soflens® Contacts at a beautiful low price. Of course we carry all major brands including the new "Astigmatics".

Don't change your face. Change to contacts.

Save $10
ON ANY FRAME OVER $25
WITH ANY COMPLETE EYEGLASS PURCHASE
NOT VALID IN CONJUNCTION WITH ANY OTHER DISCOUNT OR SPECIAL OFFER
EXPIRES DEC 15th 1980

American Vision Centers
HAMPSHIRE MALL, Hadley · 584-7958

WE HONOR AMERICAN EXPRESS AND ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS

TIPS
ON PRE-REGISTRATION

1020 Changing Your Major
1022 Continuing Education Courses
1009 Credit Load
1409 Finding or Changing Your Academic Advisor
1029 Five College Courses
2031 Graduation Requirements
1027 Incompletes
1032 The Pass/Fail Option
1033 The Repeat Option
1005 Who is Your Academic Dean

545-1540
Request Tape by Number
The Taped Information Phone Service - 227 Whitmore

BARSELOTTI'S
Whoop & Holler Night
nine till closing
16 oz. Knick & Shot $1.25
Downtown Amherst

ALL RSO GROUPS
AN EXTENSION FOR BUDGET RATIONALES HAS BEEN GRANTED.
THEY ARE NOW DUE WITH BUDGET REQUESTS NO LATER THAN MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17 AT 5:00 IN THE STUDENT SENATE OFFICE 420 STUDENT UNION.

Sports

Minutemen show depth in win

By STEPHEN FREKER
Collegian Staff

It's just not supposed to happen this way.

When a team is beset by injuries to several key players, and reserves are called upon to fill in, the whole game plan usually suffers. If a new and untested quarterback steps in, for instance, the change is accompanied by bad snaps from center, missed handoffs, hesitant passes and overall leadership problems.

The stage was set for this situation to occur last week against UConn and this past Saturday at Holy Cross. In recent weeks, several key offensive performers for the Minutemen have been hit with injuries which have ended their 1980 playing seasons. Senior quarterback Tim Fontaine took a hard hit in the UConn victory and received a cracked vertebrae and bruised kidneys. All-Yankee Conference center Fred Read was lost in the same game with a broken ankle. Flanker Mike Stone got banged-up in the BU catastrophe two weeks ago and is also gone for the season.

Most teams would be in tough shape if they lost the backbone of their offense, the center and quarterback, both at the same time. The offense could lose some of its fluidity as the backs got used to someone new feeding them their handoffs and the receivers got accustomed to a different passer.

It is a tribute to the UMass coaching staff and, of course, the players involved, that the team has adjusted so well to the influx of new faces.

Dean Pecevich, a sophomore from Bristol, Connecticut, stepped in as field leader when Fontaine left the UConn game. He performed admirably for three and a half quarters. There was a definite change in style, but the offense didn't sputter and stall as might be expected when a new quarterback comes in cold off the bench. He didn't throw many passes, but he directed a well-balanced ground game en route to the 39-21 Minutemen win.

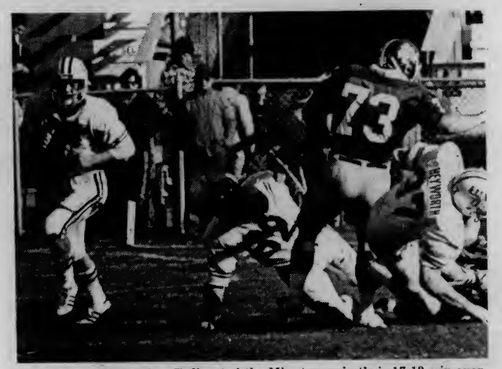
Pecevich's performance in the Connecticut game was simply a harbinger of his standout efforts against the Crusaders of Holy Cross Saturday. In that game, before a large contingent of friends and relatives, he took control of the offense and showed great field discipline and leadership in directing his team to the 17-13 victory.

"We were expecting Dean to play well," Jeffy Gordon, a junior guard who has blocked well since winning a starting job this year, said. "We've worked hard all week and he showed he can do the job. He's a good clutch player."

The Crusader defense didn't make it easy for Pecevich. He was hammered several times by blitzing linebackers, twice by 6'6" 250 lb. Paul Matasavage (no kidding, that's his name).

"This has to be the hardest-hitting game so far," Scott LaFond, the other offensive guard who buried a couple of Holy Cross tackles while trap-blocking for Brian Heyworth, commented. "Their defense was really quick and tough to block."

When Pecevich passed (7 for 12, 106 yds., 2 TDs), his favorite target was split end Kevin Jackson. Jackson has been playing quite a bit all season and got the starting nod last week against UConn, filling in for the injured Stone. The freshman from Mansfield had two big receptions against the Crusaders, his second of the game being the 37-yard game-winning touchdown in the fourth quarter. The catch was a beauty as Pecevich led Jackson perfectly into the end zone, right on the money.



Dean Pecevich (number 7) directed the Minutemen in their 17-13 win over Holy Cross. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

"I was a little nervous before the game," Jackson, whose first quarter snag was his first of the year, said. "But after that first one, the rest was easy."

Victor Pizzotti, who's been punishing opponent's special teams' players all season, also had an important job to fill. It was an unfortunate coincidence losing Fontaine and Read at the same time, but Pizzotti's been working with Pecevich all year and the junior center stepped in and did the job.

"I might have made a few mistakes early in the game," Pizzotti said. "But I got more confident later and having Dean to take the snaps helped out a lot."

The Yankee Conference crown's been decided, with BU beating UConn for the title, but there's still one more league game this week against a tough New Hampshire team. With a good win now under their belts, these not-so-new faces will be ready.

Mike, was it so long ago?

Editor's note: this is the first of a two-part series. Read part two in tomorrow's Collegian.

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

Happy anniversary, Mike Flanagan.

It has been one year since Mike Flanagan of the Baltimore Orioles won the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the American League.

Flanagan, a former University of Massachusetts pitcher, blazed to a 23-9 record in the 1979 season, while compiling a 3.08 earned run average (fourth best in the A.L.). The big lefty (5-11, 185 pounds) struck out 190 batters and hurled 16 complete games and five shutouts to lead the Orioles to the A.L. championship. He then won a game in both the Championship series against the California Angels and the World Series versus the eventual World-Champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

Quite an impressive record for someone who has been in the Birds' regular pitching rotation since only 1977.

The 28-year-old Manchester, N.H. native did drop to a 16-13 record this season and his ERA was up to 4.12. But he fanned 128 hitters, issued just 71 walks and tossed 12 complete games including two shutouts.

And the desire and determination that his father, Ed Flanagan, taught him during his high school years is certainly still present.

"I used to tell Mike it didn't matter what you did last season, because you had to prove yourself again this year," Ed Flanagan said in a recent telephone interview. "It's the ups and downs you know, that's what baseball is all about."

Mike followed in his father's footsteps. Ed was a pitcher in the Red Sox' organization before he developed trouble with his elbow. Although Ed never made it to the major leagues as his son has, he feels the experience helped him.

"At first," Ed said, "I thought they (Ed's minor league seasons) were wasted years, but then I realized I could pass the knowledge I had gained onto Mike. It helped me in giving advice to him.

"Even when Mike won a game, I'd always try to pick out the spot he needed to work on," Ed continued. "And I was misunderstood (by others) alot because of it."

Mike was picked by the Houston Astros in the 15th round of the 1971 free-agent draft, but didn't sign because he had an arm problem and wanted to take advantage of the scholarship UMass was offering him.

"The Astros drafted him out of high school, but he was experiencing arm troubles so they were offering him virtually nothing," UMass baseball coach Dick Bergquist said. "I had faith in him; we offered him a scholarship and he took it over the Astros' offer."

Mike Flanagan when he was playing baseball at this university. (Photo courtesy of Sports Information Office)

While at UMass (1972-73), Flanagan, under the direction of Bergquist, turned more heads than a long tennis volley. In his two seasons here, after recovering from the arm soreness, he built up a 12-1 record for the then UMass Redmen. He struck out 123 and walked only 41, while building an excellent 1.20 ERA.

"The biggest thing we worked on with Mike was to get him healthy. He was hurting emotionally, too, at the time. He had a problem that needed rest," Bergquist said. "He still credits us with helping him overcome his arm problems.

"Once he came around, though, it wasn't unusual to see 10 to 15 scouts at one game he was pitching," Bergquist said. "They followed him closely since high school; especially in his sophomore year here, he was really well-scouted."

The young southpaw was then drafted by the Orioles in 1973 in the seventh round, after completing two years at UMass. He spent the next two years in the minors and then was called up and down throughout the next two seasons before he became as permanent a fixture in Baltimore's pitching rotation as 'Fort' Whitmore is here on campus.

"I was a little nervous for him because you never know when someone signs in the pros just how far he'll go; it's never a shoo-in," Bergquist said. "But, I was very pleased for him. It was very gratifying for me to see him make it big."

Minutewomen get fifth seed for Easterns

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

In this season of long-days, many matches and night-and-day performances, the women's volleyball team chalked up several firsts along the way. Southern Connecticut State College, Springfield College, the University of Rhode Island and Cortland State University fell to the Minutewomen for the first time; Southern and Cortland ended up on the short end of a three-match series.

Based on these wins and close losses to top Eastern teams like Rutgers University and Princeton University, UMass was given another first---this weekend at Southern Connecticut in New Haven, UMass will participate in its first Eastern Regional Championship. The fifth-seeded Minutewomen face fourth-seeded University of New Haven, Thursday night, top-ranked Delaware Friday morning and eigth-seeded Ithaca College Friday afternoon. Seeds will then be given based on the teams' records in pool play for the quarterfinals Friday night.

The other teams in the eight-team list are second-seeded Southern, third-seeded Edinboro State College, sixth-ranked Cortland and seventh-seeded Catholic University.

"The strength of our schedule got us in," UMass Coach Elaine Marasco said, "we played the strongest schedule in Division Two. We played every strong team in the East except the University of Pittsburgh."

UMass got the seed despite going 1-3 in the Rutgers Invitational last weekend, beating only Hofstra University to give themselves a 26-26 record for the regular season.

"I've been very pleased with the way we've played, and I'm very excited about this weekend," Marasco said.

"We had a set of goals for this year. Beating Southern was one. Beating Springfield was another. Getting into the Easterns was the last. And we did it---we accomplished our goals," she said.

With the varsity heading to New Haven, the JVs finished their season last weekend, finishing second in the UMass JV Invitational at Boyden Gym. They beat Endicott Junior College 15-9, 15-6, while losing to Springfield College 15-8, 10-15, 3-15 and 6-15, 6-15. Mount Holyoke College did not appear. The Invitatioal gave UMass a final record of 12-4.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 61 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Thursday, November 13, 1980

Faculty plans action in event of no contract

By DEBORAH ASBRAND
Collegian Staff

The Massachusetts Society of Professors yesterday outlined three measures of action they plan to implement to speed up their contract negotiations, including witholding student grades and conducting a one-day educational conference.

The faculty union held the general membership meeting to determine what future actions they wanted to undertake.

The union will hold a one-day educational conference early in December at which faculty issues involving contract negotiations will be discussed, said union president Peter D'Errico after yesterday's closed session ended.

The union also will begin planning a process for direct grading in the event there is still no contract by the end of the semester, D'Errico said. The direct grading process, last used by the union in 1978, will withhold students' grades from the administration, but will not prevent students from obtaining their grades.

> "The faculty bargaining team has decided that it will meet with the administrative team only when there is an agenda indicating that significant discussion on key issues will take place."–Peter D'Errico, MSP president

The third measure announced yesterday was the decision by the faculty's bargaining team members to refrain from further negotiations with the administration until an agenda for the meetings is established.

"The faculty bargaining team has decided that it will meet with the administrative team only when there is an agenda indicating that significant discussion on key issues will take place," D'Errico said.

"The team no longer wants to spend upwards of six hours waiting while the administrative team is in caucus," he said.

As a result of the strong show of support at Monday's picket, the bargaining team feels the faculty is with them, D'Errico said.

An estimated 250 picketers circled the Whitmore administration building on Monday before proceeding inside to protest the slow pace of negotiations.

Regents urge hike

Guzzi recommends University budget increase

By THOMAS S. BROWN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — The new Massachusetts Board of Regents, following the recommendation of temporary chancellor Paul Guzzi, endorsed a 6.8 percent budget increase yesterday for the state colleges and universities.

However, the proposed fiscal 1982 spending plan of $362 million does not include any money for faculty and staff pay raises in future contracts. At the University of Massachusetts alone, officials estimate the next round of pay hikes could add $23 million to expenses.

Guzzi said the budget figure represented a 5.1 percent increase to take care of inflation in existing programs and an additional 1.7 percent to provide for new programs.

He told the regents that the several existing boards of trustees had asked for spending hikes amounting to 21.6 percent but the requests had been trimmed. He hinted that the $362 million figure might be trimmed by the King administration or the legislature still further because of the voters' approval of Proposition 2½ rollback in property taxes.

"For all of state government, the ramifications of last Tuesday's election still have not been felt or determined or decided," comented Guzzi, one of Gov. Edward J. King's chief advisers.

In laying out the budget to the regents, Guzzi and his aides avoided giving any campus-by-campus breakdown of how the money would be spent. He noted that the new state law creating the regents lets them make that final decision, and those allocations would be decided after the legislature approves an overall appropriation.

The new budget procedure calls for consolidating 130 existing accounts, several for each campus, into nine accounts for the entire system. About 90 percent of the money would go to the "operations" account, and the rest would be split among smaller funds, including accounts for scholarships, work-study grants, alumni fundraising, library books and disadvantaged students.

One of the new accounts is for the Regents themselves - a $2.1 million administrative item. Guzzi pointed out that the various boards and agencies that the Regents replaced had been spending about $3.6 million a year.

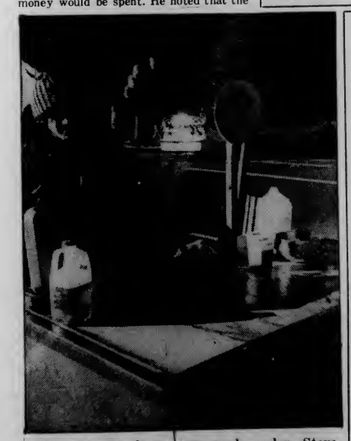
The budget outline was approved on a voice vote with almost no debate. However, Regent George Hazzard wondered why the budget projected hefty increases in energy spending, an approach that he said "almost compels wastefullness."

Robert Feldman, a budget aide, said most campuses already have cut energy use 30 to 40 percent in the last two years, and further cuts are unlikely without expensive construction projects. He said the estimated hikes in energy expenses vary by campus but average about 15 percent.

In addition, the Regents named five college officials to help chief administrator Paul Guzzi run the state campus system until a permanent chancellor and staff are selected next year.

The five all serve existing educational boards that are being phased bout by the new regents set-up.

Jim Keith, a Stockbridge freshman, learns to climb trees near Central as part of his "Principles of Arbiculture" class. With the recent high winds and forecasts of snow flurries, Jim and most UMass students are heading indoors for their high adventures. (Staff photo by Samuel Pettengill)



Even as the days grow much cooler, Steve Satell keeps his Falafel stand open for business in downtown Amherst. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Tuition and fee increases subject of meeting tonight

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

In an effort to educate students about the causes of proposed tuition and fee hikes, an ad-hoc committee on tuition and fee increases will sponsor a "Town Meeting" on the subject at 8 tonight in 104 Thompson Hall.

"The meeting will be an instructional, educational meeting for students who don't know what's going on in regards to tuition and fee hikes," said Chip Nealy, a member of the ad-hoc group and the Undergraduate Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee.

Breakdown of which fees are going up and the explanation of the increases will be offered at the meeting, as well as possible alternatives to charging more money for services, Nealy said.

In the past few weeks, the administration has proposed as much as a total of $523 increase in fees for next year. Some of the proposed increases include the Residence Hall Fee, slated for a $162 increase; Boarding Halls, $101; Health Services, $5; and the Athletic Fee, $5.

Rents and Fees Chairperson Bob Cleary said the increases could be even higher if the University assumes the cost of employees' fringe benefits, which has been proposed by the school's Board of Trustees and the state legislature. As of now, the state government pays the costs of the benefits, such as sick pay, vacation pay and group insurance. But the legislature has ordered individual accounts, or trust funds, to begin paying the costs themselves. If this happens, Cleary said, fee increases will be substantially higher than expected, with residence halls going up $214; Boarding Halls, $211; Health Services, $41; Athletics $8; in addition to further increase in other trust fund fees. The Student Activities fee will rise $7 and the Campus Center fee will go up $32.50 under the proposal.

"In the past the benefits have been paid by the state. Now they want the trust funds to pay for them, which would place the burden from the state to the students," Cleary said. "The legislature and Gov. (Edward) King are putting pressure on the trustees and (UMass) President (David C.) Kanpp to implement it. We're the only state public institution that has not done this yet."

Larry Kocot, a member of the rents and fees committee, said a soon-to-be-filed lawsuit may help provide some relief from the fee hikes. The suit, against the Residence Halls System and the UMass Building Authority, would seek to change the way the two handle money.

According to the bond agreement drawn up when the buildings were built, all fee increases must be approved by the UMBA. But, Kocot said, the authority hasn't met in more than a year and couldn't have approved the hike. The suit would seek to have either the agreement changed or have more than $2 million being held in UMBA reserve accounts to be released for repairs to buildings, thus avoiding the fee hike, Kocot said.

World and national news

Algerians deliver US reply to Iran

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Algerian envoys acting as intermediaries for the United States delivered the U.S. reply yesterday to Iran's terms for releasing the 52 American hostages.

U.S. negotiators, who flew home after passing the note, said they were uncertain of their next step.

In Tehran, an official in the office of Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai said, "The government has received America's letter." In a telephone interview from Beirut, Ahmed Azizi said a Cabinet meeting had been scheduled to discuss the reply but he did not know when it would begin.

Tehran Radio broadcasts during the day made no mention of the U.S. reply being received. There was a report the Iranian regime planned to publish the text of the note today or tomorrow, but that was not officially confirmed.

Ayatollah Mohamed Beheshti, head of the Islamic Republican Party and president of the Iranian Supreme Court, said Iran's parliament, the Majlis, would have to consider how Iran might proceed "if one or two of the conditions set by Iran for the liberation of the American detainees cannot be legally fulfilled by the United States," the official Algerian news agency reported from Tehran.

In a meeting 11 days ago, the Iranian Parliament approved four demands outlined six weeks earlier by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's revolutionary leader. The demands are: return of the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi; cancellation of American claims against Iran; a pledge of non-intervention in Iranian affairs and unfreezing of some $8 billion of Iranian assets in U.S. banks.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, who gave the Algerians the U.S. reply and a lengthy oral explanation of it in a 30-hour visit to Algiers, told reporters on his return to Washington: "Where we go from here will depend on the reaction of the Iranians." Christopher carried with him a pledge of non-interference and an explanation of U.S. legal difficulties in meeting other demands.

In Algiers, official sources said the U.S. note was delivered to Tehran by Abdelkrim Gheraib and Redha Malek, Algeria's ambassadors to Tehran and Washington respectively.

"Now it's up to the Iranians," said one of the officials, adding that he could not predict how long it would take for Iran to study the American response and react to it.

Making the best of a difficult situation, Fred Thompson, 15, with paddles, and Mike Bethel, 8, navigate a small rubber raft between stalled cars on a downtown street in Key West, Fla. The city was hit with a record 23.1 inches of rainfall in 24 hours Tuesday. (AP Laserphoto)

Reagan aides propose cuts up to 6 percent for fiscal '81

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advisers to President-elect Ronald Reagan have drawn a list of possible government cutbacks totaling nearly 6 percent of the 1981 federal budget, a principal aide to Reagan disclosed yesterday.

The areas where the cuts would be made were not disclosed, although it was indicated that none would be made in the defense budget.

Edwin Meese III, who is directing the Reagan transition into the White House, said a spending control task force drew up the list so that Reagan could fulfill a campaign pledge to cut the budget by 2 percent.

Democrats on the House Budget Committee challenged Reagan to honor that promise by voting Tuesday to set a budget ceiling that would force the president-elect to cut spending by $17 billion, or about 2½ percent, from the current budget drafted by the committee's staff.

The committee action would reduce the budget from $648.7 billion to $631.7 billion and reduce the projected deficit from $38.4 billion to $25 billion.

A budget reduction of 6 percent in 1981 would equal nearly $39 billion, enough to wipe out the entire deficit.

One of Reagan's top campaign pledges was to trim federal spending by 2 percent by eliminating fraud, waste, abuse and mismanagement from the budget.

Asked how the new president would accomplish that goal, Meese said a special task force already had targeted areas relating to "specific tightening up, specific cutting of administration overhead rather than cutting of whole programs, although "some minor programs" may be eliminated altogether.

"The list actually is much more than 2 percent. As a matter of fact, the list would probably account for nearly 6 percent of the budget," said Meese.

Legislature alters procedures for voting on pay raises

BOSTON — The Massachusetts Legislature approved a constitutional amendment barring members from collecting pay hikes in the same term they are voted last night after stripping the measure of a proviso limiting bonus pay for leadership.

The 109-72 vote came after hours of debate in which the House leadership carried the ball against any restrictions in legislative prerogatives.

The Legislature has always been a "whipping boy" for reporters and the governor, said Speaker Thomas W. McGee, DLynn. But "we have big, broad shoulders, and we can take it."

The House and Senate, meeting in a constitutional convention, rejected proposed amendments giving voters the right to pass on bond issues, limiting the length of legislative sessions and abolishing the Executive Council.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 331 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Digest

Associated Press

Bahamian's force Haitians out

CAYO LOBOS, Bahamas — Bahamian police officers swinging nightsticks stormed this tiny island yesterday to force 102 marooned Haitians onto a Bahamian boat for the trip back to their impoverished homeland.

Although reporters left by helicopter before the evacuation was complete, Joe Edwards of the Bahamas News Bureau in Nassau said "I'm sure they will make sure that there are no Haitians left on the island, then proceed directly for Haiti."

It was the second attempt to remove the Haitians, who have been on the island for 40 days.

Bahamian authorities tried to convince the weakened Haitians to leave peacefully, but the castaways replied that they would rather die than return to Haiti.

A dinghy then arrived carrying nine police officers who were armed with semi-automatic weapons. The Haitians were sitting in a circle with arms linked, refusing to budge.

Globe columnist fined for refusing to reveal source

BOSTON — A Boston Globe columnist, who refused to name an alleged eyewitness to a murder, was fined $500 for criminal contempt yesterday by a judge who said courtroom justice takes priority over claims of media freedom.

"The court does not recognize a constitutional right to refuse to give the identity of a confidential source," said Suffolk Superior Judge Herbert Abrams.

"It is outweighed by the compelling need to know whether a defendent is guilty of a crime."

Abrams' ruling against Mike Barnicle followed brief testimony by the columnist who said he would endanger lives if he revealed the source of material for a March 15 column on the murder of John D. Fitzpatrick, 16. He was stabbed to death March 8 in Boston's Charlestown neighborhood.

That column described the teenager's death in the words of an eyewitness. Neither the source nor the assailant were identified in the story.

The district attorney's office subpoenaed Barnicle to learn the identity of the witness in connection with the trial of Matthew McDonald, who has been charged with the first degree murder of Fitzpatrick.

THE ORIGINAL
POOR DICK'S PARTY
presented by
PI KAPPA ALPHA
at
POOR RICHARDS
Thursday Nov. 13 8 pm - 1 am
Beat the Clock Drinks
35c Drafts $1 Pos ID Req'd
TTKA
PIKE

WMUA
presents
MEMPHIS ROCKABILLY BAND
and
MARTIAN HIGHWAY
Thursday, November 13th
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Student Union Ballroom, UMass
$2.50 in Advance $3.00 at Door
(benefit for Amherst Alternative Youth Program)

the Hungry U
Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal
Thursday Night Pizza Special
Half Price Pitcher of Beer with purchase of any large pizza
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

the rusty nail Inn
Tonight
THE CARDIAC KIDS
no cover 25c drafts
Saturday Nov 15
JONATHAN
EDWARDS
Special Guest
Jeanne French
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

Financial Aid Director explains cut to senate

By MARK WELCH
and KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

In addressing the Undergraduate Student Senate last night, Director of Financial Aid Ed Apodaca told students that low income families are being affected most by the recent Financial Aid cuts at the University of Massachusetts.

"People are under the impression that financial aid is intended for low-income families. As it stands now, the majority of aid is going to middle-income and high-income families," said Apodaca.

Apodaca referred to the 1980 Higher Education Act, passed into law last October, and the classification of income as the main reason behind this situation.

"Presently, the amount of equitable income for a family — income invested in a house or land for example, is not being taken into consideration in allocating funds to students," explained Apodaca. Consequently, a low-income family who would not normally have a house or land investment is being considered on a comparable level to a middle or high income family.

The act Apodaca referred to succeeded in increasing the percentage of students who qualified for aid but, he said, funding has not increased to augment this.

'Most campuses have been faced with a 10 percent reduction in funds while the eligibility of their student body increased by 40 to 50 percent," Apodaca said.

Apodaca said that the financial aid cuts were due to an over-commitment by the Financial Aid office. The office anticipated an additional $6 million in Federal aid over the $37 million it received.

Apodaca will participate in a trip to Washington, D.C. this weekend, along with about 40 students, to lobby against the present financial aid situation for low-income families and increased Federal financial aid support.

In other business, the Senate urged student participation in tomorrow night's town meeting on the proposed tuition and fee increases. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. in Thompson 104.

Veteran journalists offer advice to students

George Espers

By JONATHAN DEAN
Collegian Correspondent

Two veteran journalists from the Associated Press spoke last night to about 40 University of Massachusetts students on some of the many do's and don'ts of newswriting and photography.

George Espers, the recipient of AP's Annual Top Performance Award in 1975, for his coverage of Saigon during the Vietnam war, decries such things as journalistic overstatement (over-dramatization) and vague language in news stories.

Quoting from the late media critic H.L. Mencken, Espers talked about "bow-wow language", saying it is typified by news stories describing the weather as "adverse," when the more common word "bad" would be both to-the-point and comparatively unpretentious.

J. Walter Green, AP New England Photo Director, presented a slide slow contrasting the proper and improper ways to do sports, political and "every day life" press photography.

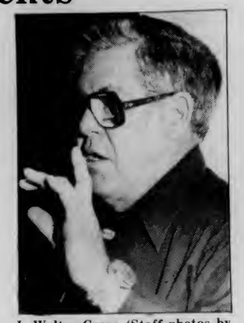
Green said that a clear pictorial representation of the agony of sport is the goal to be achieved by the sports photographer, and that all press photos should aim for "simplicity and impact."

Green also showed a movie about the AP's newest innovation in pictures—the electronic darkroom. By means of a computer which codes and stores every detail of a photograph, copies can be made which retain the clarity of the original. This was never before possible, he said.

In their closing remarks, Espers and Green reflected on the time they spent behind the battle lines—Green as an Army combat photographer during World War II, and Espers as a newsman covering Vietnam and Cambodia in the late 60's and early 70's.

"Despite all my fears, and butterflies in my stomach, I thought being a war correspondent was the most important transcending experience of my life,' Espers said.

Green, a man of pictures, not words, laid it out with photographic simplicity, saying "It's not fun out there."



J. Walter Green (Staff photos by Scott Burke)

Three women discuss female role in military

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

A six-year veteran of the Air Force, who served as a jet engine mechanic, told a group of about 20 people in the basement of the Unitarian Church of Northampton last night that women in the United States are "better off" than women in many other parts of the world.

Pat Daly, a student at Smith College and member of a panel discussion on women in the military, sponsored by the Northampton Draft Counseling Center said, "I have travelled a great deal (through the military). The women's lot in the United State is a lot better than it is in a lot of other parts of the world."

Daly, who described herself as a feminist, was joined in the discussion by former Army nurse Sally Surgen and former Marine officer's candidate Sybil Smith.

All three agreed their experience in the military was worthwhile and said the decision to join is a personal one.

"I certainly don't regret it," said Smith, who, in 1962 refused her officer's commission because, she said, the Marines had misrepresented themselves to her.

Smith, a 1960 graduate of the University of Massachusetts, said she had thought she would be able to choose any military job she wanted upon finishing officer's school. Instead, she said, "I could be a typist, a cleark or a gopher.

"Why should I waste three years of my life if all they care about is shining your shoes?" she said.

Daly, who was discharged August 26, 1980 said the military has changed for women. Smith agreed. "I never could have had your job," she said.

While serving, Saly was physically assaulted, she said, but because of the alienation which might have resulted and the possibility of further harrassment, she did not report the incident through official channels.

To handle the situation, Daly said, she "theatened the guy with the better half of a fork wrench."

Smith and Daly described a six week basic training program. Both agreed the objective of this session is teamwork.

"You really don't know what teamwork is until you're in this situation," Smith said.

Daly said a mentality exists for women which says, "If I blow it, who else will carry the flag? You have to be twice as good to get half as far," she said.

"Fortunately, it's easy," Smith responded.

One of the most difficult aspects of the military, Smith said, is dealing with orders.

"Anyone who outranks you has the right to give you orders and you do not have the right to question them," she said.

Smith and Surgen said they never considered the military benefits before enlisting. Surgen puts her $195-a-month benefit payment towards the cost of receiving a Bachelor's degree in nursing.

Daly said without the $311 per month she receives she would not be at Smith where she studies Political Science and Anthropology.

The discussion was the second in a series designed to inform people of their options concerning the military, said Barbara Snoek, organizer.

Snoek said it was difficult to "find women who were willing to talk."

Food Science tests may offer world hunger remedy

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Collegian Correspondent

Extensive research is presently being conducted at the University of Massachusetts to build a foundation which may eventually solve the world food crisis.

Professor Fergus Clydesdale of the Food Science Department, along with Joyce Johnson, a graduate student, have been conducting tests for the past year looking into the effects of the color red on a person's perception of sweetness.

The tests, which are the first in the field, use colors to determine if appearance of food could be altered in a way to make it acceptable to the general public.

Although the immediate use of this information could decrease a soft drink's calorie level by replacing sweetener with color, this is only a short term use of the work presently being done at the University, said Clydesdale.

The important use of the information lies in the future, he said. The world, set on the threshold of a food crisis, needs a way of feeding the expected excess of people.

One solution to the food problem could lie in the farming of bacteria, Clydesdale suggested. The problem then arises how to make this new food source palatable.

"You just can't hand someone a white goop and expect them to eat it," he said.

Throughout history the color of food has been an indicator of freshness and ripeness.

"This is the lesson of nature. When a fruit turns red it is at its peak of ripeness and sweetness," said Clydesdale.

Using the color red, Clydesdale and Johnson have found a subject's perception of sweetness was altered as much as 40 percent.

Subtleties, such as the subject's mood and time of day of the tests, have all influenced the results, Johnson said. Therefore, the tests must be done at different times of day, over a long period of time before any real conclusion can be drawn, she said.

Even though these experiments have turned into long arduous tasks for the researchers, the work is only laying the foundation for other studies.

In the future, the results of this test can be added to others regarding form and texture, to produce an acceptable and nutritious alternative to the present diminishing supply of natural foods, Clydesdale said.

The goal is to prevent worldwide shortages such as those that exist in China and the Soviet Union today, he said.

Professor Fergus Clydesdale of the Food Science and Nutrition Dept. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Meditation teacher Mother Girija Sarasati talks to a packed house yesterday in the Campus Center. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Swami awakens inner powers

By CHUCK KILFOYE
Collegian Staff

Over 40 students and faculty members attended a lecture featuring Swami Girija Saraswati, one of the world's foremost teachers of Siddha meditation in the Campus Center yesterday.

Siddha means spiritual perfection, said Saraswati, who is one of only five American women to ever be admitted into the Saraswati order of monks, the oldest order in Indian originating around the 8th century A.D.

"We are not a religion," said Saraswati. "The job of Siddha is to get people in touch with their inner Self."

"We are not a religion," said Saraswati. "The job of Siddha is to get people in touch with their inner Self."

"The mind never stops working, we really need to give it a rest, meditation is this rest. Meditation is a state of pure awareness, it is very blissful. When we tap it, it becomes strength, intelligence and power to act. It knows no boundaries," said Saraswati.

In 1970 Saraswati, then a graduate student in anthropology at the University of Michigan, travelled to Bombay, Indian, to study under Swami Muktananda, the world renowned master of meditation.

She lived in the Swami's ashram, a household for students of meditation, for four years and then returned to Michigan to establish Muktananda's first ashram in the West.

"I felt there ought to be more to life," said Saraswati. "I travelled to India because I had heard that Swami Muktananda was a great master, it took me a few months to catch up with him."

Linking meditation with physics, the Swami said that all things are made of conscious energy. This energy exists in a latent form in everyone. When it is awakened, it can be very beneficial, she said.

"Many times people find they can cure a chronic illness through meditation," said Saraswati. "It is the best way to deal with stress. I know one person who raised his I.Q. 25 points through meditation."

"Siddha meditation is a path to unleash your tensions," said Saraswati.

Sailors set sails for dance, romance 'On the Town'

By KATHERINE STONE
Collegian correspondent

Take three sailors, put them in New York City for a day, add a touch of romance, and a spark of music and what have you got?. On The Town, a Leonard Bernstein musical currently at Bowker Auditorium tonight through Sat. at 8 p.m., produced by the UMass Music Theatre Guild.

On The Town begins with three sailors on leave in the Big Apple for 24 hours. While deciding how to spend their time, and what sights to see, Gabey (David Steinhorn) becomes infatuated with a poster of Ivy Smith, Miss Turnstiles of the month (Miriam Sandler). The three sailors decide to search for this beauty abd encounter other women during their search.

Ozzie (Bill Collura) meets an anthropologist in a museum, and Chip (Joseph A. Marcoux) falls for a taxi driver. Gabey finally meets up with the irresistable Ivy Smith, after she is detained by her voice teacher and the couples decide to meet at Times Square.

Several outstanding performances were given in this production, especially, those of Ozzie and Claire deLoone (Elizabeth Walsh). Each had an immense amount of energy throughout every scene and created convincing, believable characters.

The Emcee (Stephen White) also gave a superb performance with a great sense of comic timing and succeeded in presenting a throughly entertaining character.

The show also had scintillating dance numbers, choreographed by Joseph Rich. The various dance arrangements were performed extremely well by the group of dancers. In particular, Miriam Sandler seemed to have a natural agility and the grace required to perform the various complicated ballet movements.

Although the production was staged cleverly during individual scenes, a consitency from scene to scene was needed. The props and scenery were ineptly moved around and detracted from the coherence of the show.

The scenery also needs work. It just appeared to serve a utilitarian purpose rather than adding any ambiance to the show. Things looked as if they were pasted together at the last minute.

The costumes, on the other hand, did just the opposite. They added distinction to several small characters in the show and were well thought out for the main characters.

On The Town, however, does have a lot of talent and obvious amount of time was put inot it. It is a worthwhile way of spending a delightful evening.

Ozzie (Billy Collura), Gabey (David Steinhorn), and Chip (Joseph A. Marcoux) are three sailors on leave in the Big Apple, in Leonard Bernstein's musical "On The Town". The final performances are tonight, Friday and Saturday. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

BARSELOTTIS
Downtown Amherst
THURSDAY SPECIAL
$1.00 Off on any name Pitcher of Beer
with this coupon
Don't forget our Friday Happy Hour with Free Whole Wheat Pizza

MUSIC GALLERY
featuring
distinctive electric & acoustic guitars, amps & sound equipment
Special Reg Tag Sale:
All tagged items 40% off
open Tue-Fri 10:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
Rt. 9 Hadley
586-6228

RESUME
NAME: Paper House
ADDRESS: 65 University Drive, Amherst (next to Bell's Pizza)
PHONE: 549-5656
OBJECTIVE: We will print the best resume for you on the best paper (w/matching paper and envelopes.)
EXPERIENCE: We produce hundreds of high quality resumes that get jobs.
OTHER INTERESTS: Typing, graphics, copies (1 to 10,000 or more) of newsletters, posters, etc., notebooks, chartpak, and a tremendous paper selection.

SENIORS
You Should Be Shot!!!
Index Yearbook
Portraits for February graduates, Stockbridge seniors, and any senior who may be away from campus next semester.
November 12-25
Campus Center Room 178
MWF 9-5 TTh 12-9
Call 545-2874 for your appointment
MAKE IT EARLY

Ye Curling Iron
Hair Cutting and Styling
Special on Perms 20% off
We do our best to make you look your best
Come see us. No appointment necessary.
257 Maple St.
Holyoke, Mass.
(413) 536-3153

College awareness day reaches minorities

By KATHLEEN HOWLEY
Collegian Staff

High school students were welcomed to the University of Massachusetts yesterday by Dr. Frederick Preston, associate Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs, at College Awareness Day, an outreach program designed to familiarize minority students from Springfield, Worchester and Boston with collegiate life.

The program, held at the Campus Center, was attended by 47 students from four Springfield high schools. A College Awareness Day also held November 5 for students from Boston high schools, and one is planned for November 19 for Worchester students.

The coordinator for the program, Jaun Caban, assistant dean of admissions, estimated there was a slight increase in attendance this year, despite the fact that this is the first year the program has been limited to high school seniors.

"We find quite a bit of interest on the part of the students," he said. "They get information on academic programs, special minority students programs, admission requirements, and more."

The program uses student guides from the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students (CCEBS), the Engineering Minority Students Program and the Bilingual Collegiate Program (BCP). Tours are conducted through the Library, the Fine Arts Center and selected dormitories and classrooms. The costs for the program, which includes tranportation and a lunch at Franklin Dining Commons, is financed through the Admissions Office.

Jennifer Kirby, 17, from Classical High School in Springfield said she is interested in the Computer Science program at UMass.

"I know more about the University," she said, "and I think it's helpful for people to see the campus before they decide to come here."

Michelle Dawkins, 16, also from Classical High School, said this is her second year in the program.

"I still want to go to college," she said, "but I haven't decided if I'll go to UMass."

Both Dawkins and Kirby though the Dining Common's food "could be better," but said it was better than the food at Classical High School. They thought the dormitory rooms in the Southwest Residential area were "too small" but said they would like to live there.

Antonio Thomas, a guide from the Engineering Minority Students Program, thought the College Awareness Day was "an excellent program."

"I think it should be continued," he said, "But with more time to see the campus, and maybe a warmer climate."

He said the high school students like UMass, especially Southwest, but noticed the lack of minorities on campus.

"The program needs more representation of students from each minority program," he said.

Pretrial hearing set for Rusty Nail brawl

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

A pretrial conference has been set for the seven people arrested after a brawl out in the parking lot at the Rusty Nail night club in Sunderlan last Saturday.

Sunderland police chief Charles W. Smiarowski said that the seven people are to appear for the pretrial conference on November 24 at the Franklin County Courthouse in Greenfield.

The defendents who were arrested shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday, are David J. Gaw and Richard K. Gaw both of Springfield, and Paul T. Gallagher of Westfield, who were charged with assault and battery on a police officer and with being disorderly persons. Michael Linnon of Springfield, David A. Springer of Southampton, Jeffery Ellis of Westfield and Debra Canton of Hatfield were all charged with being disorderly persons.

The brawl, which erupted as the club was closing took nearly a half hour to bring under control, Smiarowski said. Nearly 35 people were involved in the fracas including 10 employees of the Rusty Nail.

Smiarowski was the only person who suffered injuries that required medical attention. He injured his knees and arms during the light, but said that he was treated and released from a local hospital.

New treatment may relieve sickle cell anemia pain

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — The agonizing pain that is one of sickle cell anemia's worst side effects may be prevented by a new form of treatment that slightly changes the chemical makeup of the victims' blood, doctors have found.

The treatment is not a cure for sickle cell anemia, but the researchers say it appears to be a relatively simple way to free victims of their most painful symptoms.

So far, however, they have tested the new treatment on only three patients and the doctors stress that more studies are needed to ensure the safety and effectiveness of the treatment before it is widely used.

Doctors developed the new method, which involves using medicine and diet to lower sodium levels in the victims' blood, at two Harvard-affiliated hospitals in Boston. Their research was published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Sickle cell anemia affects between 30,000 and 60,000 Americans, and virtualy all the victims are black.

The disease, which is transmitted genetically, causes red blood cells to be crescent shaped instead of round. A painful sickle cell "crisis" occurs when the tiny blood vesels called capillaries become clogged with these malformed blood cells.

The new treatment, tested by doctors at Beth Israel and Brigham and Women's hospitals, lowers sodium levels in the blood about 10 percent.

Sundance, a two-month-old puppy owned by junior science major Susan Grady, receives a chuck under the chin from his master on the grass near the campus pond. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Resignation of Bowdoin Pres. perplexing to all

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — Students at Bowdoin College remained in the dark yesterday about administrative conflicts that led to the resignation of President Willard F. Enteman.

"The general impression is that nobody knows what's going on here," said a student at the campus newspaper, the Bowdoin Orient The student, who didn't want to be identified, said the reasons for Enteman's departure were not clear.

The Portland Press Herald said differences with trustees over budget matters, faculty tenure and program emphasis were factors leading to the president's resignation. The Boston Globe cited Enteman's insistence that women be allowed to join fraternities and his support of pay raises for faculty members.

The Globe also said Enteman's resignation was part of an agreement in which his two "key antagonists," trustee Vincent Welch and C. Warren Ring, vice president for development, were also stepping down.

Ring said he was not aware of such an agreement and said the report characterizing him as antagonistic to Enteman was "highly inaccurate." But the vice president, who has been at Bowdoin for 19 years, would not comment on whether he intends to resign, saying it was a "personal decision" that would be considered by Nov. 22.

The GREAT SKI SNATCH
$500000
worth of top name
Winter Clothing & Ski Equipment
* Parkas * X-Country
* Vests * Downhill
* Sweaters * Skis
* Hats * Boots
* Gloves * Bindings
* etc. * Poles
All at Incredible Savings
UMass Ski Club
Nov 19-22
at the SUB

CHINESE KITCHEN
Fast Food Restaurant
興旺樓
99c Luncheon Specials
Take Out Orders Call:
(413) 586-8220/586-8221
150 King Street, Northampton, Mass.

TOP PRIORITY #8
TEMPTING LUNCHES EVERYDAY!
Special Salads, Omelettes, Hearty Sandwiches, Chili, Quiche, and more!
For Reservations call - 549-6000 X63!

Thursday
LIVE ENTERTAINMENT
with
TWO WAY STREET
9 til 1
2.00 cover charge
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

The Slits, one of the original English new-wave bands, will appear Thursday at Rahar's in Northampton. Since starting out as a hard-core punk band, the Slits have modified their stance to a progressive, neo-reggae sound. Their show in Boston last Saturday was well received, so this promises to be a good one.

Club Listings

Barselotti's, North Pleasant St., Amherst—Drinks served daily.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9, Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all Happy Hours and chicken wings daily 4-6.

The Hatch, Student Union, UMass—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 3-6 p.m.; Rock 'n' Reggae disco every Tues. with Jim McDee of WMUA; Crazy George's and 60's rock and trivia every Fri.; Nov. 13, Hooligan, Free; Nov. 14, The Stompers, $4; Nov. 15, Martian Highway, $2.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight, pitchers of beer half price with purchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview Cafe, Sunderland Rd., Amherst—Thurs. is Penny Nite, every third drink; Fri., smorgasbord; Happy Hour every day 4-6 p.m.

The Pub, 15 East Pleasant St., Amherst—Tues. 2 for 1 nite; Wed. Pub Mug Nite w/Jim Plunkett; Fri & Sat., disco; Sun., oldies.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco, drinks nightly. Tues. 25 cent drafts; Wed., 50 cent drinks; Thurs. Beat the Clock prices; Fri. & Sat., Happy Hours, 8-10 p.m.

QR, Rte. 9, Hadley—Nov. 14, The Elevators, cover charge.

Rusty Nail, Rte. 47, Sunderland—Nov. 13, Cardiac Kids, Free; Nov. 14, Night Bear, $2; Nov. 15, Jonathan Edwards, $5.50 at door; Nov. 16, Martian Highway. Coming Nov. 18, The Buzzcocks, $5 at the door.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton—Nov. 13, Greenwich Three; Nov. 14, 2 for 1 Happy Hour 4-6 p.m., DJ W-Be-Bop with music from 50's & 60's; Nov. 18, Lynne Meryl Trio; Nov. 19, Roger Salloom.

Ladies Night Out CASTAWAY LOUNGE Ladies Night Out

ALL MALE REVIEW SHOW

Direct from

Boston

Butch Cassidy

&

The Sundance Kid

Tues. Nov. 18 & Tues. Dec. 9

8 - 11 PM

Reservations Recommended

$3 Cover

Ladies Night Out — Rt. 5 & 10 Whately Tel 665-8731 — Ladies Night Out

Hitchcock's

PSYCHO

Nov. 13 — C.C.A.

5, 7, 9, 11 $1

50c — Mon-Sat 10-5 — Next to the Hatch 50c

Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley

50c off any album

on any Saturday in November

with this coupon

(excluding in store specials)

"Your Student-Run Record Store"

coupon

50c coupon 50c

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

and the UMass Arts Council present

THE FELD BALLET

FRIDAY, NOV. 21	8 PM
SATURDAY, NOV. 22	8 PM
SUNDAY, NOV. 23	3 PM

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted until Wednesday Nov. 19 (413-545-2511) for all performances.

$8, 7, 6 General Public

$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens

$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

Partial support provided by NE Foundation for the Arts, Mass. Council on the Arts & Humanities, & National Endowmenr for the Arts.

Add experience to your degree.

It's unfortunate. Many college graduates don't find meaningful employment in their chosen career fields.

For others Army ROTC provides an edge. The margin of difference. Most call it "leadership ability". It's the special skill that all civilian employers seek.

If meaningful employment after college looks doubtful for you, look into Army ROTC. Find opportunities for leadership and management experience. Full-time or part-time.

You can complete 2 years of ROTC in 6 weeks this summer, and add experience to your degree. Contact

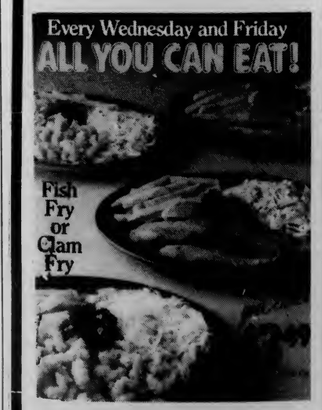
CPT PATRICK MERRYMAN

5452321/2322

Army ROTC. Learn what it takes to lead.

Every Wednesday and Friday

ALL YOU CAN EAT!



Howard Johnsons

Rt. 9, Hadley

An Open Letter to Chancellor Koffler

In recent weeks, the students of the university have been informed of the proposed tuition and fee hikes. When all these increases are added together the total approaches $540. This represents an increase of over 15 percent. We feel these increases are more than we can afford. We feel that you, as Chancellor, realizing how detrimental these increases will be to the University, should show a commitment to fighting these increases.

In the past, you have stressed the importance of public higher education in a state that holds its educational institutions as its most valuable major resource. Public higher education should serve as an alternative to private institutions, especially for minorities and others who cannot afford their cost. UMass and all the other Massachusetts state schools give individuals from middle and lower income families the chance to further their education. Yet, if you support the $500 plus increase in tution and fees, you are defeating the purpose of public higher education. A university that costs more than $4000 to attend will not be affordable by the very people it is supposed to serve most.

On October 24, you received a memo from President Knapp, asking you to consider a $75 tuition hike. You said "the increase is not unreasonable". But, coupled with the other costs that the students may have to absorb in school year '81-'82, this increase is unreasonable.

We base our opinion upon the very rationale that the Board of Trustees uses. This rationale takes into account the Disposable Income Index (the amount of money people have available to spend after taxes), comparative costs of similar institutions, and Financial Aid.

Disposable income rose by 13.3 percent in 1979. Yet, the Consumer Price Index (the amount of money people have to spend to buy a given marketbasket of goods), has risen between 11.3 and 13.3 percent at the same time. So, the real Disposable Income (the amount of post-tax income people have available to spend after accounting for inflation and price increases) for 1979 is at best a small fraction of the original amount.

According to Knapp's memo, UMass tuition is the highest when compared to smaller institutions in Massachusetts. Total costs (including tuition and mandatory fees) are also the highest when compared to similar schools in Massachusetts. Nationwide, UMass costs are "midrange" among comparable institutions.

Financial aid increases to offset tuition hikes are, in Knapp's own words "uncertain". He said, "We should not anticipate offsetting tuition increases across the board with increases in financial aid".

Thus, by the Trustees own criteria, a tuition increase is very unreasonable. And, it doesn't end there; Knapp, in his memo "suggests a tuition level for school year '82-'83 which approaches $1,000."

We feel that you and your staff should represent the students in the following ways;

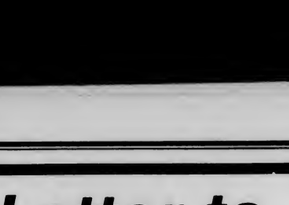
1. No tuition increases.
2. There should be an exploration of alternatives to fee increases and the increases in the trust funds should not be passed on to students.
3. Pressing for increased financial aid.

Clearly the increases are more than most students can afford and we will not put up with them. As Chancellor, you should be at the forefront of this fight, and to further this end, we invite you to come to our town meeting this Thursday, November 13, Thompson 104 at 8:00 pm.

Sincerely,

Pan Hellenic Council
SouthWest Assembly
Undergraduate Student Senate
Radical Student Union
Student United for Public Education
Commuter Collective

NEW!



"Do-it-yourself"

Copy a one-hour cassette in less than 2 minutes.

Make a Copy of your Favorite Cassette For Only *99¢

*Price includes the copy cassette and the Copying Service! Guaranteed perfect monaural copies, every time.

What can you copy?

The potential uses for cassette copies are endless. Here are just a few of the most common applications:

meetings, sermons, sales messages, weddings, interviews, talking letters, family events, relaxations, exercises, word-processing data, and computer programs.

This coupon is redeemable for one (1) cassette copy of your original cassette for only 99c. Any additional copies of your original cassette are at the prices below. Simply bring your original cassette and this coupon with you. The copy cassette and the copying service are included in one price.

Your Original Cassette Length	Regular Price Per Copy	High-Speed Copying Time
30 minute	$2.19	1 minute
60 minute	$2.89	2 minutes
90 minute	$3.79	3 minutes
120 minute	$4.79	4 minutes

REZOUND CASSETTE COPYING CENTERS

Retailer Redemption Procedure: When cashing this coupon, please circle the copy cassette size and initial it at the time of purchase. Then anytime after the date of this promotion, send us your coupons for redemption. We will replace each coupon with a fresh cassette and invoice you at seventy cents ($.70) each regardless of cassette size. Send to: 1401-B West River Road North, Mpls., MN 55411

This Coupon Expires 11/15/80

Available Exclusively at:

the University Campus Center Univ. of Mass. Store

Form 1380

American Graffiti

Thur., Nov. 13th

7, 9, & 11 pm, $1.00

Mahar Auditorium

presented by the

U.M.S. Parachute Club

DISCO ON DOWN TO...

Rt. 9 Amherst

Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE

Thursday Special

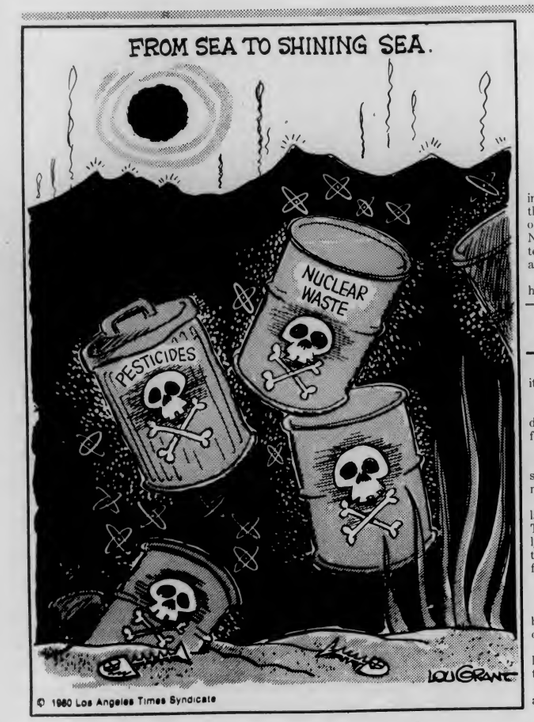
Beat The Clock

8-9 50c — 9-10 75c

All Drinks — 10-closing $1.00 — All Drinks

Fri. & Sat. HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m

Editorial/Opinion



Cash Flow in the swamp

I was moseying through the Hampshire Mall last week, in awe over the new roller rink which was built to obstruct the view of the Disney Worldesque Cinema, when I overheard a father and his son talking across a cafe table. Now such a bland scene would not ordinarily draw my attention, even though I am most unusually nosey. But try as I might, I could not resist their peculiar conversation.

"Daddy, why is the land so flat and so cheap around here?"

Steve Masse

"Well, son—that's because it's always wet. Remember it's still a swamp."

"It looks like good land."

"Don't let looks deceive you, as they've done to many developers around here. If it were good for anything but farming, there would have been buildings on it years ago."

"Then why are they building on it now?"

"They don't know any better. There's a drought, you see. But this isn't really land. What you're looking at is a mirage. Just consider it very dirty water."

I don't remember whether my noise was a cough or a laugh,.but whatever I did just then caught their attention. They both turned to me with daggers in their eyes. I quickly shot my gaze away, pretending to be preoccupied with the overhead skating derby. My ploy did no good. The father got out of his wrought iron chair and accosted me.

"You looking for something?" he asked.

"No—I was just sort of caught up in your conversation."

"So what about it?" He was more curious than belligerent, though I figured I may as well sleaze my way out with cautious remarks, to protect my nose.

"Well, I thought you were complaining about the mall here," I said. "I used to work here, and the job helped me through a year of school."

"You wouldn't understand then," he practically apologized. "You're prejudiced in favor of this unreality."

"But it's great for the economy of our area!" I pressed.

"Right. Joe works in K-Mart and spends all his money in Steiger's. Josephine works in Steiger's and spends all her money in K-Mart."

"What's wrong with that?"

"Give me ten dollars."

"Why?"

"Just give me ten dollars for a moment," he insisted, holding out a hand.

I gave him the ten dollars. He walked over to the table where his boy sat, still sucking on his cola straw and trying to look nonchalant, though I detected a slight frown line knit between his young brows. The man gave the boy the ten dollar bill.

"What are you—" I stammered, but stopped out of curiosity. I only hoped they were not going to try panhandling me. I would be very embarrassed if I had to cry robbery, especially after I voluntarily gave the money. So like the boy who cried wolf in a crowded theater, I stood silently by to watch the results.

"Please go pay that man ten dollars for his service," the man said. The boy withdrew the straw from his mouth, and reluctantly approached me with the bill jutting far out from his fingertips. It looked as if he didn't want to touch my hand in the transaction.

"Well—what does that prove?" I asked.

"You just spent ten dollars for something at the mall. I collected the money, paid my help, and in turn the help came to your store to buy your service. Such is your economy here, in a nutshell."

"Then what you are saying is figurative," I said. "Only outside money can prime the economic pump in this closed-circuit system!"

"Right," he declared with satisfaction. "The money comes from outside and stops here. There's not enough cash to go everywhere, is there? So something's got to give. It can not last. It's a mirage, it is not real."

The man turned away rather suddenly. I stood confused with the ten dollar bill clutched in my sweaty palm, and watched him hurry with his son on their way. Before they got out of sight, I called. "Hey, where are you going?" This was just beginning to get interesting!"

"We're going roller skating—where else?"

And then they disappeared into the skating rink.

Steve Masse is a Collegian commentator

Karen Silkwood dies examining improprieties

Karen Silkwood: 1946-1974.

Someone killed Karen Silkwood, but how many of us actually realize the significance of her life, or the frightening implications of her death.

She was born in 1946, the daughter of Bill and Merle Silkwood. Karen, as did most women at her age, grew up, went to school, and married young. However, after seven years of marriage, she divorced her husband (with him taking custody of the children), and followed up on her education in science.

Lisa Palty and Jim Murphy

Karen obtained a job as a laboratory assistant at the Kerr McGee plutonium plant, just outside of Oklahoma City. She truly believed in the assets of nuclear power—until she began to realize the dangers of plutonium, and Kerr McGee's "laissez faire" approach to security and employee safety. Karen became critical of the company, and subsequently joined the union (Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers) International, OCAW). Within two years she was elected to its steering committee.

Soon after this, Silkwood was introduced to OCAW occupational safety expert Steve Wodka. She told him about Kerr McGee's improprieties, and subsequent coverups. Her allegations, however, lacked a foundation of hard evidence. It was with this in mind that Wodka was able to convince Karen to try and gather some.

Over the course of the next month, she did just that, and soon had enough evidence to blow the lid off of Kerr McGee. However, word leaked out to Kerr McGee during the course of that month, and they began to make life tough for Karen. At one point, she was internally contaminated with plutonium on three consecutive days. In addition, her apartment was found to have been generously filled with the radioactive element (one particle, the size of a speck of dust, can cause lung cancer. One pound dissipated over the earth could stricken the entire world's population). The highest concentrations were found on her toilet seat and in her food. Still, Karen Silkwood persisted.

On November 13, 1974, Karen called Wodka and made plans to meet him, Drew Stephens, and New York Times reporter Dave Burnham at a Holiday Inn in Oklahoma City. She never got there. She was later found dead in her Honda Civic, which had smashed into a culvert on highway 74. The highway patrol, after an autopsy, ruled that she had fallen asleep at the wheel (a blood test had revealed alcohol and a sedative in her bloodstream). End of story.

Not quite.

Fact: The file that Silkwood was carrying was picked up after the accident by a highway patrolman, who put it back into the car. That file disappeared. Kerr McGee employees were twice seen at the garage to which the wreckage was taken.

Fact: The alcohol content in Karen's bloodstream registered at less than .35 percent, and eight out of nine doctors claimed that she hadn't enough sedative in her to cause her to fall asleep at the wheel.

Fact: When a right-handed person falls asleep at the wheel, she or he will swerve to the right. Silkwood, who was right-handed, skidded off to the left, and drove for 100 yards along the shoulder, "...as if someone were trying to keep her off the road..." to quote an FBI agent's report.

Fact: Karen Silkwood's car had a fresh dent in the rear that could not be explained by her hitting the culvert.

These facts, as well as others, were put into an FBI report by agent Larry Olsen who asked for permission to further investigate the matter. Permission was denied twice. Even his suspicions of a plutonium smuggling ring fell upon deaf ears. Olsen was told to drop the case, and to mention it to no one. However, Olsen did tell someone...journalist Jaque Srouji. For a long time afterward, the Silkwood case was thrown all over Washington D.C. by various journalists and politicians—among them, Kitty Tucker, then the D.C. legislative coordinator for NOW (National Organization of Women), and Rep. John Dingell of Illinois. As a result, the case was subsequently thrown back by the FBI, the Justice Department, the U.S. Attorney General's office, and other governmental institutions.

The key seemed to be the missing folder. Just what did it contain that would make someone go to great pains to ensure that it would not be delivered? People who have looked closely into the matter (mainly Larry Olsen) have concluded that Karen Silkwood had information that detailed a plutonium black market that involved both Kerr McGee and the Federal Government. AEC records showed that Kerr McGee was missing anywhere from 40 to 120 pounds of plutonium. The corporation claimed that most of it had been shipped to the military installation at Haniford, Washington for 'special projects'; however, it was soon found that there were no such special projects. Karen Silkwood's file supposedly contained evidence pertaining to where the missing plutonium was actually going. To this day, the FBI, the CIA and the Justice Department all deny both the existance of such information, and journalists access to any related information (the latter being a supposed matter of national security).

On November 5, 1976, Kitty Tucker and the Supporters of Silkwood (SOS) filed a punitive damage suit on the behalf of Karen's parents. They charged Kerr McGee with violating Silkwood's civil rights, and conducting a cover-up. The ensuing court case was repeatedly stalled, and all of the people involved with the plaintiffs—SOS, Karen's parents, and others—were repeatedly harassed by both the FBI and Kerr McGee. However, early this year the case came to a close. The court awarded Karen's parents 10.5 million dollars. The ruling has been appealed.

As much as it seems that a victory has been won, there is still no one to hold accountable for Karen Silkwood's death. The FBI, Kerr McGee, and all of the other official agencies involved still ignore the demands for investigation. In this alone, the frightening implications mentioned before really hit home. Are the agencies of our government really in league with the nuclear industry? Are we all absolute subjects to p..ything and everything that theydo? Who killed Karen Silkwood?!

The industry and the government both quietly tell us to forget. We say DON'T. We urge everyone who reads this to go to the SCANN (Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide) table today, the sixth anniversary of the murder of Karen Silkwood, get an armband, and wear it for the day—not to mourn Karen's death, but to pay homage to her life, and to let them know that we won't forget.

Lisa Palty and Jim Murphy for Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide

Sterilization and abortion denial

This is 2nd in a three part series regarding women's reproductive rights.

The cutting of federal and state funds for abortions, informed consent laws, forced and involuntary sterilizations and the bombing of planned parenthood clinics by pro-life groups, all point to the same thing: women's reproductive rights, the freedom for a woman to control her own body, the most fundamental of all rights for women, is increasingly coming under attack.

In order to understand these attacks, especially on poor and minority women, we need to examine the relationship between the current cuthacks in abortion and the increase in sterilization abuse.

Linda Cohen, Karen Carmichael and Peter Brown

With the growth of the New Right in general, and the passage of the Hyde Amendment in particular, the federal government has effectively absolved itself of all responsibility to guarantee reproductive freedom for America's poor and minority women. Last July, the Supreme Court reaffirmed its 1973 decision that a women has a constitutional right to choose to have an abortion. However, by upholding the Hyde Amendment, the court determined that the federal government is no longer under any obligation to guarantee this right for poor women by further funding Medicaid abortions, leaving the decision of funding to individual states. All but six states including Massachusetts quickly axed Medicaid funded abortions.

Although the federal government will not absorb any portion of the cost of a Medicaid abortion, the government willingly pays for 90 percent of the cost of medicaid sterilizations. In our society where sex education, birth control and child care are often unavailable and extremely inadequate, where abortions are cost prohibitive, it becomes clear that sterilization is the only recourse for millions of American women.

Ultimately, we must question whether the rise of female sterilization by 350 percent between 1970 and 1975 (two and a half times the rate of male sterilization) is the reslt of a free choice.

Government funded sterilizations amount to genocide among low income women. For example, sterilization of Puerto Rican women is 35 percent; among Native American women it's 25 percent; of Black women of childbearing age, 24 percent have been sterilized, and 37 percent of poor white women in the same age group have been sterilized.

How is it that among these groups of women there is such a startingly high percentage of sterilization? Many are threatened with the loss of medical services or welfare benefits to their families if they refuse to be sterilized. Others are falsely led to believe that sterilization is reversible or told that it is medically necessary. Frequently, sterilization is the condition for an abortion, or a woman may be asked to give her consent while she is in labor. Still others are misled into signing consent forms which are in languages not their own. All these abuses are frequently practiced in many U.S. clinics and hospitals despite federal laws against them.

Consequently, we can distinctly see that cutbacks in abortion and increases in sterilization are two sides of the same coin. The brunt of this campaign is aimed at poor and minority women and their families—a racist and class biased attack.

Linda Cohen, Karen Carmichael and Peter Brown for Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRANT HANCHE, Managing Editor, JEF FREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager, JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager, ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor, RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors, JANE JaVIRGILIO, Women's Editor, JIM MORAN, Arts Editor, KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor, DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors, PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, EDI LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors, BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager, JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor, NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor, LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor, MARY KINNEAVY Associate Arts Editor, JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor, SAN CY SETTILE, Associate Photo Editor

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager, VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager, MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N LESTRI, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333 220

Letters

Hatch bouncers unnecessarily violent

To the Editor:

On Tuesday night, November 4, after Reagan's Presidential victory, a disturbing incident took place in the Hatch at UMass.

I was seated at the back of the bar near the glass windows with nine other people, at three tables. At about 11:15 p.m., just after the bar called for last orders, a woman of our own party broke her album by smashing it against a table. When a bouncer asked up to pick up the remains of the disc, we reluctantly complied since only one person had actually broken the said record. A man who did not break an album was singled out by a bouncer, being told to either pick up the pieces or leave. When he showed unwillingness to do so, another bouncer arrived on the scene. As the man was being pushed by the first bouncer, he asked not to be touched and to be left alone so that he could finish his beer. At that point, the first bouncer grabbed his shirt from the front, and while being pushed to the floor, the second bouncer joined in.

A security guard intervened and we were escorted out of the Hatch, after been refused the names of the bouncers. As we were checking the neck-wound of the assaulted and trying to calm him, three bouncers appeared outside and aggressive demanded our opinion. The Campus Police arrived, having been called at the request of the injured person. Charges of assault and battery are being carried out against the two bouncers.

The role of the bouncer is to prevent violence and to eject those who are aggressive. This was not the case with these particular bouncers; the first actually incited violence and the second joined in, it seemed, just for the fun of it. We are sure that if we had been of the same "type" as the bouncers such violence would never have occurred. We are also sure that if it had been more in our character to obey the bouncers without questioning their decision, none of this would have happened. We feel that one should be able to express oneself in any way short of violence and not have to worry about physical action as a result.

We sincerely hope that this kind of incident is not repeated. We also hope that these two individuals are justly repremanded in court.

Beth Nathanson
Orchard Hill

Cautious of the outreached hand

To the Editor:

The November 4 issue of the Collegian carried a very thoughtful letter written by Mr. Taleb Bizri. Mr. Bizri acknowledged with some sympathy the motives which lead many Jewish persons to embrace Zionism. He seemed to understand that these motives do not spring from a desire to deprive other people of their rights. Rather they express the belief that the seeds of anti-semitism are deeply rooted in the Western world and that Jews will always be vulnerable and exposed to them. He therefore urges Jewish people of good will to join with other progressive peoples in the struggle against racism. Not far away in Palestine but here in Europe and America.

It is no small concession for a Palestinian to offer to make common cause with a Jew. I realize that and am flattered. But history is perverse and fraught with bitter irony. For we Western Jews are white, and half of us are male. Would it were otherwise, but it is as a white male that I must answer Mr. Bizri.

I find myself in the curious position of loving the enemy, as an American poet has so aptly put it. There is much that is decent and good in the old world, the white world, the first world. I would not happily give it up. It is fashionable just now for progressive persons to heap scorn and abuse on this world and on its symbol, the white male. Even certain sorts of white males do it, the more fools they. I listen quietly. I take it in. What I'm hearing is a very simple refrain which goes: up with me and down with you.

Not being brave nor given to futile and heroic gestures, I will likely accept your invitation. But it will not be with the enthusiasm you might like. I do not covet Palestine, and you, I suspect, have no intense desire to do battle with the antisemites.

Tory Smith
Amherst

SUNSPOT

The year-round tan.

Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six-session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)

All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.

The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1409

39¢ a day*.

*based on a full year's tanning program

Saturday Sunspot Special (Nov. 15th) 1 Free Visit & Free Gift with this ad

There's no place like home, and we make it easy to get there.
TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer convenient express service to Boston, New York, and many other points.

TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES

MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.

The Energy Saver

For Information, Schedules and Prices, contact: Springfield Bus
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

TIPS
ON PRE-REGISTRATION

1020 Changing Your Major
1022 Continuing Education Courses
1009 Credit Load
1409 Finding or Changing Your Academic Advisor
1029 Five College Courses
2031 Graduation Requirements
1027 Incompletes
1032 The Pass/Fail Option
1033 The Repeat Option
1005 Who is Your Academic Dean

545-1540
Request Tape by Number
The Taped Information Phone Service - 227 Whitmore

BUYERS OF PRECIOUS METALS
GOLD – SILVER – JEWELRY – FLATWARE

WE WILL PAY CASH ON THE SPOT FOR YOUR UNWANTED

GOLD and SILVER, etc.

This Size Approx. $125.00

18 K
This Size Approx. $65.00

WANTED GOLD CLASS RINGS and WEDDING RINGS

This Size Approx. $65.00

PAY 10% EXTRA FOR GOLD CLASS RINGS and WEDDING BANDS

14 K
This Size Approx. $35.00

3 days only Thurs, Fri, & Sat
Oct. 9, 10, 11 10 am to 6 pm

Howard Johnsons Motor Lodge
401 Russell Street Route 9
Hadley-Amherst

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY... SATURDAY, NOV. 15
BLOUSES, DRESSES, & SKIRTS over 1,000 pieces to choose from.

priced elsewhere from ~~12.95-60.~~
here, regularly ~~7.50-24.95~~
SAT. ONLY 20% deduct from ticket price at cash register!

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Notices

This Sunday the Jewish Commungity of Amherst and UMass Hillel will sponsor a "Zionism Under Fire; Valid Criticism, attack on Jewish Statehood, or yet another anti-Jewish Tactic?" Professor David Landes of Harvard University, author of several books and former President of American Professors for Peace in the Middle East, will speak.

Following this panelists Donna Devine from Smith College, Haim Gunner of UMass, and Leonard Glick of Hampshire College will speak on "Can There be a Just Peace for Israelis and Palestinians?" Why and How did Jews Come to Palestine and Israel?" and "Is Anti-Zionism a Code-Word for Anti-Jewish Attitudes?", respectively.

Held in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union, the brunch begins at 11:00 with a small fee for food. The program will begin at 11:45 and is free.

Umass students concerned about financial aid have an opportunity to be heard. Letters from students are needed to be delivered to Washington, D.C., in the lobbying effort for more financial aid Nov. 16-18. For more information, stop by the table in the Campus Center or call 546-9734.

Today's paper was produced by the following soon-to-be flunkouts:

Assistant Managing Editor — Ed Levine
Copy Editors — Maureen McManus and Jim Moran
Layout Technician — Bret Willden
Darkroom Technician — Scott Burke
Ad Layout Technician — Jay Brightman (who's he?)
Composing Room — Danny Guidera, Donna Levine
Pam Dissinger, Michele Bedard, Ria Koning

Watergate tape researchers fined for overcharging U.S.

BOSTON (AP) — A prominent research firm that analyzed the infamous 18½-minute gap on the Watergate tapes was fined $706,000 Wednesday for overcharging the federal government over a six-year period.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter J. Skinner also imposed fines of $20,000 each on two officers of Bolt, Beranek and Newman and six-month suspended sentences for their alleged role in juggling books and altering documents to get a higher price from the government.

* COFFEE HOUSE ****
To Benefit Amherst Childrens Home
Donation $1.00
FRIDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1980
8-11 p.m.
at Delta Chi Fraternity
Fraternity/Sorority Park
Music, Refreshments, Entertainment
Sponsored by KKG & ΛX

LESBIAN/GAY DISCO
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15 9PM-2AM
CCA
2 DOLLARS ADMISSION
SPONSORED BY THE PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE

WAKE UP!

DELICIOUS INTRODUCTORY OFFER

BURGER KING Make it Special™

Buy one sausage & egg biscuit, get another sausage & egg biscuit FREE with this coupon. Breakfast served until 10:30 a.m. Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer. Void where prohibited by law. This offer expires 11/23/80 Good only at participating restaurants in: Springfield, W. Springfield, Chicopee, Hadley, Northampton and Enfield.

New Biscuit Breakfast

Burger King—Reg U.S. Pat. & TM Off. © 1980 Burger King Corporation

PRESERVATION HALL JAZZ BAND with KID THOMAS
THE EFFECT UPON THE AUDIENCE IS DEVASTATING

One Performance Only
Sunday, November 16 7:30 PM
Springfield Symphony Hall
Seats: $9.50 $8.50 $7.50
Tickets at THE CENTER Box Office, 1277 Main St., all TICKETRON OUTLETS, or PHONECHARGE (413) 787-6600
A Springfield Attractions Inc. Presentation

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Thursday Nov. 13th
HOOLIGAN
FREE
In Association with UPC Productions

Friday, Nov. 14th
THE STOMPERS
From Boston

$3.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Saturday, Nov. 15th
To Be Announced

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Sansui 881 Receiver 65 watts per chanel full features cost $550 new 2 yrs ago asking 250 549-1307

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Cougar good condition best offer over $450 call Jim 549-6321

Capri 1976 standard, black, 39000 miles, very good condition, new batteries and brakes, no rust, must sell-leaving the country $2580 Carlos 584-4185 (Hadley)

1971 Satelite 318, asking 250 call after 9:00 665-7753

1975 Vega G.T. Stnd, 27 mpg, 2 bbl carb, body good, undercoated, AM/FM stereo, new wide oval tires & snows, other extras—$500.00 or BO 1-628-3279 after 5

1965 Mustang body and interior clean, no rust PS AT $2700 546-6103

1965 Lincoln Cont new parts for engine rebuild clean interior extras $500 firm 413-665-2667 evenings

'67 Impala conv excellent running condition 750.00 call Jack 527-3975

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a hardprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

DISC JOCKEY

Want a Succesful Party! Hire Professional Disc Jockeys!! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Mov.. , must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Wristwatches; namebrands $110-160 retail ½ price 665-7545

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Ski Bindings for sale Look N-77 brand new, int. exp. $50. 6-5808

Ski Boots mens 7½ (womens 8½) Nordica Hurricane flo boots. Only used half a season $100 or BO call Donna 549-1869

Weimaraner Pups AKC registered, from a long line of champs in show, obedience and field trial 1-413-339-6688

Epiphone Guitar 6 string acoustic excellent condition $125.00 or BO 546-9474

Boa Constrictor 10 months old 30 inches healthy $85 15 gallon aquarium both $125 price negotiable good Xmas present? Brad 546-5530

Arthur Ashe Comp 3 Tennis Racket brand new, unstrung $50 call Bill 549-1470

Springsteen Tickets available for information call 546-5567, ask for Brian

FOUND

Keys near FAC 11/3 call 6-9292

Pearl and Diamond Bracelet found near Sylvan parking lots. Identify it and its yours else impoverished findee will sell call 6-6688 Dave

Male dog black/Brown 1½? yrs old found on Rt 9 Belchertown no collar beautiful and well behaved needs home 256-0594

GIFTS

Victorinox Genuine Swiss Army Knives 30% off SASE for prices to Nichols Pharmacy 274 Wahconah St Pittsfield Mass 01201

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MA Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Houseworker 2-3 hours/week, Sunderland, references required 665-4920

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis Speed reading Rm 909 Campus Center Nov 12, 13 at 7 PM all welcome KR Morse 532-5703

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Nova Owners I hitched back to Boston on Friday Oct. 10 I left a brown and tan reversible jacket in your car call 6-7470

Radio Shack calculator Mon Nov 3 Eng E brown case call 665-4315

Lost blue datebook and phone book very important please call 256-6191 if found or return to Collegian - Chris

Gold and black wedding band lost 11/6 great sentimental valuel Reward! Please call Hazel 546-6708

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Up for a late night pizza and beer? Come to CHARLIE'S. Pizza served Daily 9-1. Ask about our golden club card which entitles you to a free drink per day. Card cost is $5.00 per month

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse & Photo Co-op Tickets 3/$1

Looking for something fun, tired of the same old thing, come to Lambda's Scavenger Hunt! All women welcome at 8:00 PM on Thursday 11/13 for fun, prizes, drinks, munchies - 389 No. Pleasant St 5-0939 for rides

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Moving? We will sublet your two bedroom apt. will pay sublet fee! Please call 546-8443 or 546-8434

The Science Fiction Society is having a meeting Nov 13 at 7:00 see our NEW Library/Office Rm 161 CC for info

C. C. no dust just lack of contact. Let's talk

Kinky Minky It's your Birthday! Have a great day! Love, the four of us

Hey Delta Chi - Thanks George for finding me a ride, thanks Steve for the ride, and Scott. . .HITCH! - Little Red Riding Hood

To Pam, Diane and the Field Hockey Team you're the greatest. Thanks for being so nice—your man in the press box

Guys of 22nd floor of JA Thanks for your help Friday night when I needed it You're a good floor Robert Lady - You hide like a child but you're still a woman to me. I'll miss you.

Butter Rum!! Nathaniël Today is your day and Someday will be soon. Love EEP

Coffee House Friday November 14 8-11 pm Entertainment, refreshments at Delta Chi Donation $1.00 for charity Sponsores KKG & VX

Little Buckaroo - Its sure nice to have you back. I actually missed you 1-4-3 Jude

Pinhead, You are the "real" zippy—Zippy

Joanie - Happy 29th Birthday from all your PPB kids - Love, Paul, Sarah, Carl & Carolyn

Male Operators—Thanks for the night time chats. WRLM ACO

SUE—Flying in a bus? I believe it now. Thanx Harry

Do'n be scared Don't be nervous ENG CO 3 is inservice

The UMass Bahai Club will participate in the candlelight prayer vigil for the martyrdom of their beloved fellow believers in Iran, on Saturday November 15. from 5:30 to 6:00 P.M. on the north end of the Amherst Common

RIDE WANTED

To Buffalo NY or thereabouts share expenses Peter 545-0850

Ride wanted to Albany Friday 11-14 will share $ call Deb at 549-1683 after 5:00

Two persons looking to obtain ride to UMaine, Orono Nov 21 call 549-5193

ROOM WANTED

Male senior looking for own room in house or apartment for Spring semester 546-8187

2-4 bedroom house or apt for Spring sem call eve 568-8847

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Sarcastic Simpleton for OWN ROOM puffton, $122/mo. 549-1879

1 bdrm in 3 bdrm apt w/2 males No Amherst, bus route 549-5663 5-6 PM

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Tutor Needed. in Masterpieces of Western Literature course call 546-8094

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

SHITTER & TUMA

Shitter & Tuma Happy Belated Birthday Love Spunky & Dicky

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

Sublet Wanted 1 or 2 bedroom apt or house on bus rte near Campus starting Jan 1 or Feb 1 please call Jane 253-5370 or Andrea 546-7626

One single room newly rennovated house $175 center of town call Scott 253-2600

Apt for Spring Jan-Aug bus, AC, pool 255+ 665-4254

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

2 Judges needed from Orchard Hill for SGA. Applications available 103 Dickinson. Must attend meeting this Sunday at 9 PM in Dickinson 545-2680

WANTED TO RENT

Apartment wanted for Spring 2 or 3 bdrm on bus rt call 6-6083 or 6-6141 we offer bribes

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

Looking for vacant apartment will take over January 1st please call 6-7441

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

One bedroom available immediately in 2 bedroom apt. $125 month 549-2877

CAUSE

Commonwealth Association of United Students for Education
(A Committee of the SGA)

Do YOU want a Voice in how higher Education in Massachusetts is run?

WE are the consumers! But as of March 1, 1981, we may not have a voice!
Help C.A.U.S.E. defend your right to be represented on the Board of Regents. CAUSE (formerly MSSA), will hold a meeting in the Campus Center, Room 905, on Thursday (11/13/80) at 4:00 P.M.
Please attend. . .when dealing with politicians, NUMBERS ARE IMPORTANT.

The UMass Music Theater Guild
presents:
The Broadway Musical

Final Week

"ON THE TOWN"
Music by Leonard Bernstein

Thurs., Fri., Sat., Nov. 13, 14, 15

All Performances 8 P.M. — Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium — Gen. Admission $3.00

Tickets on sale at the Bowker Box Office 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Monday-Friday, or call in your phone reservation Telephone 545-0783
Presented in cooperation with the Fine Arts Council

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

DR. DAN, I WONDER IF YOU COULD EXPLAIN TO OUR LISTENERS WHAT "GENTRIFICATION" MEANS...
FOR SURE. IT WORKS LIKE THIS: A DEVELOPER BUYS A DILAPIDATED HOUSE IN A DEPRESSED NEIGHBORHOOD.
HE FIXES IT UP AND RESELLS IT TO A YOUNG, MIDDLE-CLASS COUPLE. THIS ENCOURAGES OTHER "GENTRY" TO BUY INTO THE NEIGHBORHOOD. AND BEFORE LONG, A FANTASTIC REAL ESTATE MARKET BOOMS WHERE NONE EXISTED BEFORE!!
AND WHAT HAPPENS TO THE LOW INCOME TENANTS WHO ARE DISPLACED? DOES ANYONE CARE?
SURE, WE DO. THESE PEOPLE ARE VERY IMPORTANT TO THE WHOLE PROCESS!
THEY ARE?
OF COURSE. THEY MOVE ON TO DEVALUE OTHER PROPERTIES. WITHOUT THEM, THE WHOLE SYSTEM FALLS APART.
11-13
GBTrudeau

ONE FOR THE ROAD
BOY I'VE REALLY BLOWN IT... I'M IN DEBT, I'M ALMOST BROKE.
WHAT A HORRIBLE WAY TO SPEND THE DAY. I FEEL AWFUL if I HAVE NOTHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO.
BOO! HI FIG! I SAW YOU SITTING HERE SO I THOUGHT TO SUPRISE YOU WITH ICE CREAM!
GUESS SHE LIKES ICE CREAM MORE THAN I THOUGHT.
CHUCK DRUMMOND

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Makes leather
5 Consider the matter
10 Paper quantity
14 Got off a horse
15 Raja's wife
16 Drunken cry
17 Forest product: 2 words
19 Swerve
20 Keep well contained: 2 words
21 Esau's descendants
23 Witticisms
25 French river
26 No longer used
30 Lure into danger
34 Not easily thrilled
35 "The Good Earth" heroine
37 ---- Park, N.Y.
38 Free electron
39 "You ------ my acal"
42 --- and don'ts
43 Chinese money
45 French summers
46 German president
48 Flogging strips
50 Breathes
52 Cheers
54 Exceeded the limit
55 Leave one's country
59 Make jagged
63 Knob
64 Dishwasher: Slang: 2 words
66 Ceases to live
67 Artist's stand
68 Golf course unit
69 Metal strip
70 Snow vehicles
71 Mirth

DOWN

1 Funeral bugle call
2 "It's a Sin to Tell - -"
3 Ms. Foch
4 -- ------ Fire: Electrical glow
5 ------ et quirante: Gambling game
6 Chinese dynasty
7 Arrow poison
8 In want
9 Petroleum product
10 Renaissance
11 Newt: Archaic
12 Top-notch
13 Medical corpsmen: Informal
19 Color
22 The human race
24 Staunch
26 Death notices
27 Expand
28 More sensible
29 Man's name
31 Golf's ----- Cup
32 Venerate
33 Annoyances
36 Building recesses
40 Molds differently
41 Be assured
44 Greatest
47 Bridge activity
49 Equal footing
51 Slops
53 Commit theft
56 Concludes 56 Drudge
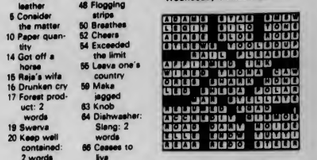
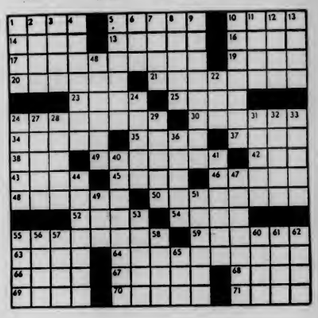
57 Notion
58 Repose
60 Wicked
61 Hawaiian goose
62 Evergreen
65 Color

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved





Under the Influence M. Joyce

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Fried Fish Squares/
Tartar Sauce
Hot Corned Beef
on Rye

DINNER
Chicken Cacciatore
Baked Ham/Raisin Sauce
Fruit Plate with Pumpkin Bread
International Cheese Buffet

BASICS LUNCH
Garden Medley Casserole
Fried Fish Squares/
Tartar Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Garbanzo Cheese Loaf
Chicken Cacciatore
International Cheese Buffet

AFSCME

Local 1776
AFL-CIO

Chapter Meetings Next Week Wednesday 11-19-80

Please Plan to Attend!

The Great Ski Snatch

$500,000
worth of top name
Winter Clothing and Ski Equipment
Prices This Low Should Be Outlawed
Nov. 19 - 22 W, T, F { High NOON til 10 p.m.
Happy B.D. BAT S 10 a.m.-5 p.m.
at the UMass Student Union Ballroom

Sigma Alpha Mu

The only co-ed fraternity on campus invites all University men & women to an Informal Open Rush Party Nov. 12 & 13 at 8:00 pm Free Refreshments 395 N. Pleasant St. 253-9987

amc THEATRES
TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN with AMC CARD $2.25 EXCEPT ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED THRU LITE SHOW $1.75 THRU LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON GAT'S SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00
R

the man you thought you knew | JESUS
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15
G

THE STUNT MAN — PETER O'TOOLE
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 1:45
R

FADE TO
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15
R

Dinner and Movie only $5.50
Have your choice of 5 different meals at the Pewter Pot Rest. in the Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Sun-Thur only)

FREE! SHOPPERS SHOW
Thursdays at 1:00 P.M.
Nov. 13 DOM DeLUISE in HOT STUFF
PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 — MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS

GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00
R

CHARLTON HESTON SUSANNAH YORK in THE AWAKENING
Mon (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:15
R

JILL CLAYBURGH in It's My Turn
Mon (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:30
Tue-Thur (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
R

ANTHONY HOPKINS in THE ELEPHANT MAN
Mon (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:00-9:30
Tue-Thur (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Mon-Tue) 2:00
PG

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

live wire
by Jim Moran

...HEY BABE, TAKE A WALK ON THE WILD SIDES — Sides One Two three and Four, with the double-album Lou Reed Diaries, an anthology of Lou's best material, from 1967-80, including stuff from his Velvet Underground daze. That'll be out on the Artista label Nov. 19...Also in preparation for release is the new one by The Outlaws, also set for Nov. 19...VIRGINAL ANGUISH — The New York office of Virgin Records shut down its operations last month, and will be handling all import activity between a small office in New Jersey and its main London headquarters on Portobello Road. Meanwhile, it was learned yesterday that through a business agreement, all major distribution of Virgin will be handled through the Robert Stigwood Organization (RSO). Already on the market through RSO is the new XTC and last summer's Martha and the Muffins LP...ON SKIDS ROW — The Scotish new wave band, The Skids, whose two previous albums (Scared to Dance and Days of Europa) didn't sell well here, have an import out — as mentioned here about a month ago. It's called "Absolute Game" A Virgin spokesman said it will not be released in America. "Too weak" was the reason given. The spokesman also said the remix of Europa (which caused quite a stir beeause of its alleged Nazi-leaning cover) was not well received by the company. Interestingly, they liked the first version better...DAVID JOHANSEN has an album in the works, with a new band, which is due for release in Feburary. ...REST IN PEACE — Far atop a snow-capped mountain in Battle Creek, Michigan, Crackle, Pop and the Board of Directors of Kelloggs Inc. met to pay their final respects to Snap, who died of exposure while filming the next Rice Krispies commercial in Switzerland. The next day, a representative of the William Morris Agency was seen in Amherst planning a rock festival in his memory. More, as this sad tale unfolds.

LOCAL CALLS — Tonight at Rahar's is the hot, all-female group The Slits. These gals are rumored to sound a lot like Public Image, so this should be a good gig. Opening for The Slits is the local band (of promoters) The Scientific Americans...Also tonight, at The Hatch it's Hooligan. Tomorrow night at The Hatch will be Boston's Bunratty Boys, The Stompers. On Saturday, Martian Highway is the featured act...At Stage West tonight will be Dire Straits. And don't forget The Buzzcocks on Tuesday at the Nail! Later!!!

Study says drinking may prevent heart disease

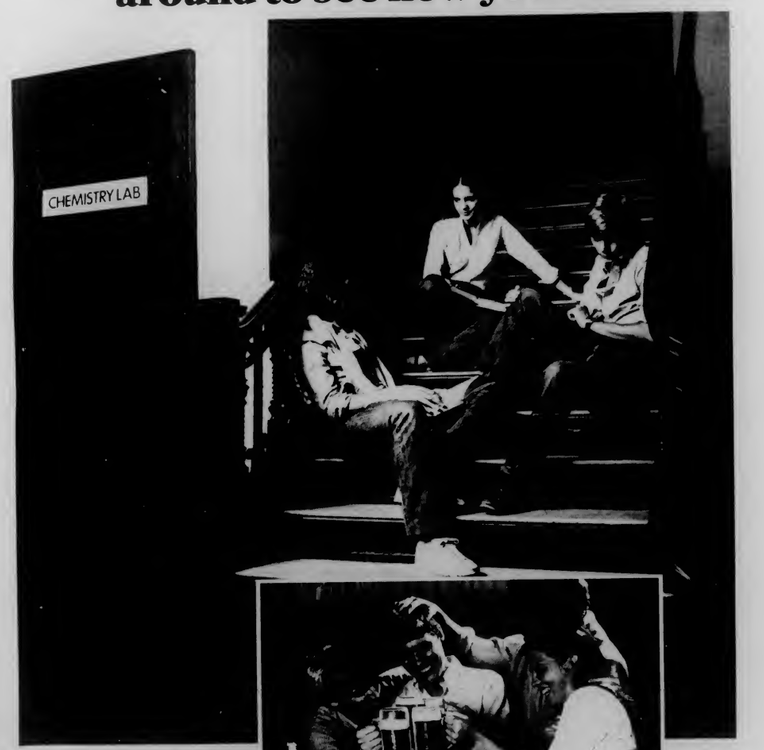
BOSTON (AP) — A study of doctors who run in marathons provides new evidence that moderated drinking may help prevent heart disease.

Earlier studies have shown that people have higher than usual blood levels of high density lipoprotein cholesterol, or HDL-C, fats that help protect people against heart disease.

In the new study, published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine, the researchers found that among the marathon runners, those who drank alcohol had higher levels of HDL-C.

"King:
A Filmed Record, Birmingham to Memphis"
November, 13
Thursday, 8-11 PM
Thompson 102

Friends wish you luck on a big exam. Good friends stick around to see how you did.



They say they were just hanging around killing time and by the way, "How did you do?" You tell them a celebration is in order and that you're buying the beer. "Look," one of them says, "If you did that well, buy us something special." Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.

Dive into the "deep"

How would you like to spend Christmas vacation diving in Florida or the Caribbean, and earn University credit for it? Project DEEP, Inc. is again offering accredited courses to warm water locations during Intercession.

Dive operations for three diving courses will be supervised by Project DEEP; geared toward safety and instruction. Course Director this year is Tom Ryan, assisted by Mary Ann Ryan and Dave Stillman as well as instructors from the Boston area. Henry Keatts, professor of zoology at Suffolk County Community College in Long Island, N.Y. and Kate VanderBosch, teaching assistant and Ph.D. candidate in Botany at UMass will be responsible for course material for the Coral Reef Biology course.

Project DEEP Extension courses are open to all certified divers, whether or not they are a UMass student. Anyone interested in enrolling in a course who is not certified would need to sign up for Project DEEP's precourse training session to be held evenings Dec. 8-11 and Sat. Dec. 13, to permit certification upon arrival at the course site.

Meeting for those interested Thursday, Dec.4 at 6:30 p.m., Rm. 10, Curry Hicks. For further information contact Mary Ann Ryan, Project DEEP, Inc. P.O. Box 415, Northampton, MA 01061 or (413) 584-0456.

★Basketball

continued from page 16

"Let's face it, we are in the entertainment business," said league Commissioner Leland Byrd, who was one of the original designers of the Eastern 8. "We think it (the mascot) adds a little different dimension to our league."

This year marks the league entrance of the University of Rhode Island, which replaces Villanova in the Eastern 8. Other league members include Duquesne, George Washington, Pittsburgh, Rutgers, St. Bonaventure, and West Virginia.

Due to a planning oversight, yesterday's Eastern 8 conference coincided with the Provident Savings Classic (formerly the Colonial Classic) conference in Boston. UMass, which along with Boston College, Holy Cross and Boston University, plays in the Christmas holiday tournament, sent assistant coach Bob Rachal to the Provident Savings Classic conference.

—A full UMass basketball preview will appear in Tuesday's Collegian, while a capsule section preview of the entire Eastern 8 conference will follow sometime next week.

JV's fall to UConn

By SHARON PANNOZZO
Collegian Staff

The UMass j.v. football team suffered its second consecutive defeat, losing to the University of Connecticut sub-varsity squad 32-7. UMass' record is now 1-3, with one game remaining to be played.

The Minutemen's only score came on their first possession of the game. Harold Chaney plowed his way into the endzone from the six yard-line. The TD was set up by a 15-yard pass from quarterback Mark Tabor to tight-end Gary Freker and a 20-yard completion to wide receiver John Jeffries. John Ferrigno split the uprights for the extra point.

In the second quarter, Bill McLaughlin recovered a UConn fumble. McLaughlin forced the loose ball, sacking the Huskie QB.

UMass rolled up a lot of yardage on the ground, with Chaney, a 255lb. fullback running inside. This was not enough to counter the potent aerial attack of the Huskies. UConn had two TD's by way of the air, two on the ground, and another on a spectacular 55 yard punt return.

The Huskies missed three extra-point attempts. UMass' Scott Croce cleanly blocked the attempt following the first score, UConn fumbled on a two-point conversion attempt, and Scott Gookind knocked awa another two-point attempt.

Mark Tabor started at quarterback for the Minutemen and was replaced by Tom Sweeney at the start of the second half. Jimm Twigg and Freker were key targets in the Umass passing game.

On special teams, Len Montague and Mike Garofoli played well for the Minutemen.

Notices

The U.M. Parachute Club will hold a First Jump Course on Thur. Nov. 13, 7pm in Campus Sport Center Rm. 902. Ground training and jumping will be done on Saturday. Please bring your I.D. and $75 to the class.

Trainers EMT/Red Cross needed. Contact IM office at 5-2693.

ALL RSO GROUPS
AN EXTENSION FOR BUDGET RATIONALES HAS BEEN GRANTED.
THEY ARE NOW DUE WITH BUDGET REQUESTS NO LATER THAN MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17 AT 5:00 IN THE STUDENT SENATE OFFICE 420 STUDENT UNION.

The Rusty Nail
in association with ConComm Productions
present
IRS Recording Artists
BUZZCOCKS
with The Paper Dolls
at the Rusty Nail
Rt. 47, Sunderland
Tuesday November 18th
Tickets: $4.50 Advance, $5.00 Door
Available at:
Main St. Records, Northampton
For The Record, Amherst
Belmont Records, Springfield

Great Gifts - Great Prices
Great Fall
Housewares Sale
20% - 50% OFF
selected
Jars - Crocks - Bowls - T-pots
Bamboo Blinds - Grass Mats - Totes
Also Many
Clothing and Gift Specials
Open 10 am - 6 pm
use the new BUS STOP out front
Great Gifts - Great Prices
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
CHECK THESE PRICES
Busch ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Miller ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Molson's ..... 2.99 six/10.99 case
WINE
Donelli Lambrusco... 1.99/750 ml 3.99/1.5 liter
Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine..... 2.99/1.5 liter
Liebfraumilch..... 1.99/23 oz.
Tosca Soave, Valpolicella..... 3.59/68 oz
ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

Sports

Mike, was it so long ago?

[Editor's note: this is the second in a two-part series on Mike Flanagan, former Mass. baseball player, who is now with theBaltimore Orioles.]

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

"Well, I was happy for him, it was something he always wanted to do, Ed Flanagan said of his son's signing with Earl Weaver's contingent (Baltimore Orioles). "But, at the same time I wanted him to have something to fall back on. I was relieved that he got in two years at UMass."

Mike was also a fine hitter in college. His .320 batting average with six homeruns and 29 runs batted in -in two years made him one of the squad's best hitters. He still holds the record as the only player in UMass history to hit three consecutive homers in one game.

Flanagan was named to the All-New England and All-Yankee Conference teams in his sophmore year, and will probably some day be named to Howard Cosell's All-World squad ala the Patriot's Russ Francis.

Although Flanagan took a back seat to the Orioles' one-two punch of Steve Stone (25-7) and Scott Mcgregor (20-8), he certainly is still considered one of the premier left-handed starters in the major leagues.

Flanagan is dead serious on the baseball diamond, undoubtedly a quality inherited from his dad, but is a comedian in the clubhouse. No, not the stand-up, wild-and-crazy-guy type, but the laid back type waiting for the right moment to sound off.

"He gets it from his mother; she has quite a sense of humor. I'm more serious," Ed Flanagan said. "But, he doesn't do it to be noticed. He's kind of a quiet funny."

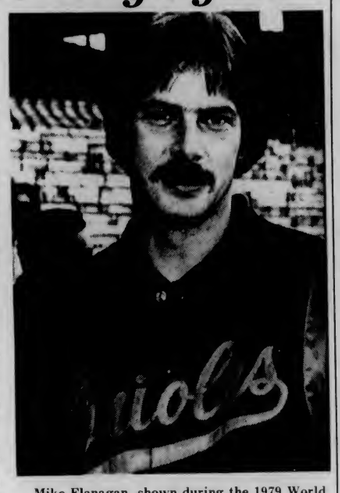
Mike keeps the Orioles' clubhouse in good humor nowadays as he did in the Redmen dugout here at UMass seven years ago.

"He always had a few quips for everyone," chuckled Bergquist. "He wasn't a shout-holler type guy, but he always had something to say."

Flanagan's dry New England sense of humor has continued to flourish in Baltimore. In a recent issue of The Sporting News, his teamate, Ken Singleton, was quoted as saying, "Mike is sort of sneaky crazy like the guys of Saturday Night Live. He's calm and invisible and lays back and, then, for about 10 seconds, he's hilarious."

It was reported that Flanagan has invented nicknames for most of the guys involved with the club. Orioles' scout Jim Russo is "Inspector Rousseau;" Tony Soliata is "Tony Obsoleta;" Sammy Stewart is "Son of Sam Stewart;" ex-Oriole Don Stanhouse was "Stan the Man Unusual;" and three-time Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer is "Cy Old."

Flanagan, who is the second oldest in a family of four (he has an older brother, Tim, and two younger sisters, Kathy and Elaine), is certainly one of the most famous athletes ever to play at UMass. His name is mentioned in the same breath as Julius Erving, Greg Landry and Jeff Reardon, another former UMass pitcher who also has made it into the major leagues as a pitcher (with the Mets).



Mike Flanagan, shown during the 1979 World Series when his Baltimore Orioles fell to the Pittsburgh Pirates 4 games to 3. (AP Laserphoto)

Flanagan; who also played basketball his first year here, chose to concentrate on baseball after he had a confrontation with "Dr. J." At a certain hoop practice late in his freshman year, Flanagan, exhibiting great form and grace, pulled up with a jumper from the foul-line. The form was great, the follow-through super, but the ball was promptly batted to the opposite end of the court by the big hand of none other than Julius "Dr. J" Erving. Flanagan often kids, "I knew then it was time to go out and work on my slider."

In just four years as a professional, Flanagan, who resides in, oddly enough, Amherst, N.H. in the off season with his wife, Kathy, has made the A.L. All-Star team, become a 20-game winner, pitched in the World Series and captured a Cy Young Award.

Not a bad record for a kid out of UMass who had a sore arm. So, from all of us here at UMass, keep up the good work, Mike, (But take iteasy on the Sox.)

Eastern 8 sets plans

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — University of Massachusetts head basketball coach Ray Wilson didn't learn anything he didn't already know yesterday afternoon at an Eastern Athletic Association (Eastern 8) conference held at the Providence Civic Center.

In a pre-season poll, UMass has been selected by the Eastern 8 basketball coaches to finish last in the highly competitive league.

Rutgers University, which returns four of last year's five starters, is expected to finish first in the five-year-old basketball league.

UMass, which joined the Eastern 8 in 1976, finished winless in 10 league games last year while it struggled through a 2-24 season.

This year UMass will play 13 Eastern 8 league games.

The Eastern 8 includes three teams (Rutgers, St. Bonaventure, and Pittsburgh) which have been listed in most pre-season top-25 polls.

Wilson, in his second year, is faced with the task of playing these teams with a young and inexperienced UMass squad which has just three lettermen returning, two who saw considerable action (guard Tom Witkos and forward Dan Wright).

"Let's just say I'm cautiously optimistic," Wilson said yesterday. "I wish I could say we'd go 24-2, but, of course, I can't."

Yesterday's conference was followed by a series of meetings with member school athletic directors and sports information directors to discuss television coverage, rule changes, officiating, and league publicity.

The league will begin a game-of-the-week television series in January on an expanded network of stations throughout the Northeast. The Mizlou Television Network (New York) will carry nine regular season games plus the semi-finals and final round games. The network consists of five member stations and six tentative television markets, including Springfield (probably Channel 40).

League officials said the expanded network will reach 22 percent of the nation's households.

The UMass-Duquesne game, at the Curry Hicks Cage on Feb. 7, will be televised.

The league yesterday introduced the nation's first college conference mascot, the Eastern 8 "Hoopster Rooster," a spin-off of the San Diego Padres baseball team's Chicken mascot. The mascot will appear on all televised games and at several promotional events at member schools.

turn to page 15

Newell, Marceno win trips to New Englands

This year's Third Annual UMass Table Tennis Championships once again proved to ba a smashing success. Over 50 "ping-pong" enthusiasts tested their skills at the tourney held last Saturday at NOPE gym.

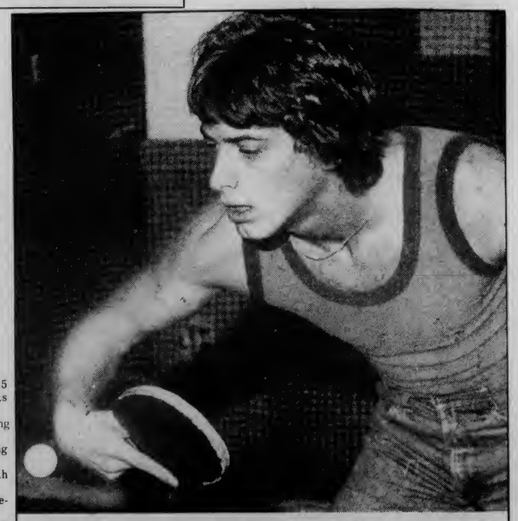
"This year's draw was the strongest competition thatUMass has ever seen," said Steve Marceno, tournament director.

In the men's singles division, UMass sophmore Oliver Newell from Waltham smashed and looped (heavy topspin) his way to victory in the four-game final against defending champ Marceno.

Marceno played hard in the first game defeating Newell 21-12 but couldn't keep up the pace and dropped the next game 23-21 after being ahead 20-18. Newell then began playing more consistently and took the third and fourth games 21-19, 21-17 respectively.

Newell and Marceno (top two finishers) will represent UMass in the ACUI New England Regional College Championships in Feburary.

In the women's singles division, Yie Chien of Prince dorm played her very powerful-style game to defeat Veronica Templeman. Eight women competed for the title in this double elimination event. Chien, being a grad student, does not qualify for the New Englands and number three Eileen Brown will accompany Templeman in February.



Steve Marceno placed second in this weekend's table tennis tourney and will be competing in the New Englands. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Celts dump Washington, 93-86

BOSTON (AP) — Cedric Maxwell scored a season-high 25 points and Boston used a 15 point spurt to erase Washington's only second-half lead as the Celtics defeated the Bullets 93-86 in the National Basketball Association last night.

The victory boosted Boston's record to 9-5. Washington, 6-10, had a four-game winning streak snapped and dropped its seventh game in eight road appearances.

Boston had led for all but the first two mintues of the game until Wes Mathews' spinning layup with 1:54 left in the third quarter gave the Bullets a 65-64 edge.

But Washington didn't score for the next 7:17 as the Celtics bolted into a 79-65 lead with 9:31 left in the game.

Maxwell began his streak with two free-throws and Larry Bird followed with a three-point field goal and a layup.

Two more free-throws by Maxwell, two baskets by Gerald Henderson and one by Rick Robey ended the spree.

The closest Washington came after that was the final margin of seven point. The Celtics had built their biggest lead 43-23, midway through the second period.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 58 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Friday, November 14, 1980

Bob Cleary discusses the proposed tuition and fee increases at last night's town meeting in Thompson Hall. (Staff photo by Michael Solomita)

Students say no to fee hike

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

Five resolutions concerning student action on proposed fee and tuition hikes were forwarded and passed by about 50 participants of a "Town Meeting" held last night in 104 Thompson Hall at the University of Massachusetts.

The meeting, sponsored by a campus-wide coalition on fee and tuition increases, was held to educate students about increases they face.

By voice vote, meeting "members" decided to send a bus to Boston for the Nov. 19 meeting of the Budget and Finance subcommittee of the UMass Board of Trustees, where UMass Pres. David C. Knapp will present his budget proposals.

Dan Huse, spokesperson for the coalition, said the presence of a bus load of students at the meeting "could have quite an effect" on committee members.

A total fee increase of $289 has been proposed by the administration, according to a coalition handout.

Bob Cleary, chairperson of the Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee, said the increases could be higher if the University assumes the cost of employees' fringe benefits which was mandated by the state legislature in 1977.

Cleary said a meeting held yesterday with Knapp in Boston indicated the president would not propose to the Board that the cost of fringe benefits be passed on to students in the form of fee increases.

The cost of fringe benefits could mean fee increases of as much as $530, according to the handout. On top of a proposed $75 increase in tuition, students may expect to pay $605.50 more next year.

Many participants said University students have continually faced tuition and fee increases coupled with financial aid cuts. Most agreed UMass might soon be too expensive for the students it presently serves.

Ila O'Brien of Students United for Public Education (SUPE) said students must realize that "low-cost quality education is a right not a privilege . . . Public education is being sabotaged."

Participants also opposed (by resolution) tuition increases which, according to Cleary, are an arbitrary increase.

"They have a lot more legal basis for raising the fees than for raising tuition," he said.

The other resolutions ask that alternatives be found for trust fund payments, that students lobby in Boston for increased financial aid, and that the Board of Trustees recommend the placing of a student on the newly formed state Board of Regents.

Participants agreed on their objectives but not on tactics.

Cleary said, "Having a lot of uninformed, very emotional people at this committee meeting is not going to help our case." The people who attend this meeting must be "people who know what they're talking about." he said.

Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice said, "You gotta be there. What we need is numbers. Not everyone has to be educated (about the increases) to the hilt."

The hour-long discussion ended when Arvid Muller, moderator, asked the group to break up into three task force groups to prepare for next Wednesday's meeting in Boston.

The committees formed were transportation, publicity and education.

Dan Huse said he was "pleased" with the meeting's turnout. The coalition now has "contacts all over campus," he said.

Boston rally for student rep. Thursday

By RICHARD NANGLE
Collegian Staff

A Massachusetts chapter of a statewide student action group will hold a rally calling for student representation on the state Board of Regents Thursday in Boston outside of the State House.

The Commonwelath Association of United States for Education (CAUSE) wants to make sure student representation is included when the Board of Regents reorganizes itself March 1, 1981 representatives said at a meeting yesterday.

There are currently five Boards of Trustees representing the 28 public Massachusetts colleges. The plan is to transform these to one "Super Board" which will govern all the schools, SGA co-President Richard LaVoice said. There are no plans to include student representation on the board.

State CAUSE president Ronald Keefe cited the need for student input on issues such as financial aid as a defense for student representation on the board. He said having one fund for all state colleges could result in less funds for large schools such as UMass due to greater competition.

CAUSE, formally known as the Massachusetts State Student Association (MSSA), has operated out of the Student Government Association office for roughly two years. All students in the state public education system are by rights members of CAUSE, Keefe said.

Local CAUSE chapter president Bernard Goulding said UMass/Amherst and UMass/Boston have more potential political clout than the other colleges because of their size. He said student knowledge of the act of representation on the Board of Regents is important so students will volunteer to go to Boston Thursday.

Besides student representation on the Board of Regents, Goulding has another goal: to have student representation on the UMass Building Authority. The authority is in charge of funding and maintaining the $80 million worth of non-academic buildings on campus.

CAUSE members are currently negotiating with Jan Robinson, student liason between CAUSE and Board of Regents Chief Administrative Officer, Paul Guzzi, to stop the merge of the 5 Boards of Trustees. Keefe said although Robinson is "very pro-student," he is afraid his group might lose contact with Guzzi.

CAUSE will meet again Sunday at Mt. Wachusett Community College in Gardner.

Registration forms due Wednesday

All undergraduates must turn in their 1981 spring semester pre-registration forms to the Registrar's office in the Whitmore Administration Building by Nov. 19 at 5 p.m. or pay a $5 late charge.

Students with a declared major should pick up pre-registration forms at their department office. Students with an undeclared major should pick up their forms at the CASIAC office in E-20 Machmer Hall.

A supplement to the course description book, which was distributed last spring, may be obtained at the information booth at the top of the Whitmore ramp, or in the Dean of Student's office in Whitmore.

Schedule books for the spring semester may be picked up in the Scheduling Office in 168 Whitmore.

Graduate students should get and return pre-registration forms at the Graduate School office in room A241 Graduate Research Center.

Continuing education students should obtain forms from the Continuing Education office on the main floor of the University library tower.

Students in the Bi-lingual Education program should pick up and return forms to the Bi-lingual Collegiate Program office in Wilder Hall.

Students in the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students program should get and return forms at room 214 New Africa House.

Debbie Sicilia, left, and Maria del Carmen marched in the Campus Center yesterday with several other people calling for the independence of Puerto Rico. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

UMass student jailed for fraud

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — A University of Massachusetts senior who hoped to attend law school has received a six-month prison sentence for selling phony grade transcripts while working in the school's registrar's office.

Stephen Taylor, 28, of Yarmouthport, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Frank Freedman after pleading guilty earlier to five counts of mail fraud and one count of conspiracy to commit mail fraud.

In recommending the sentence, assistant U.S. Attorney George Kelly said Wednesday that Taylor had "violated the integrity" of the University.

Taylor, who also received two years probation, had lined up the sale of 11 transcripts, for as much as $1,000 each, when he was caught, Freedman noted.

Prosecutors said Taylor obtained blank transcript grade forms from the Amherst campus, filled them out and then slipped the false transcripts into university files.

To demonstrate his scheme to a prospective customer, Taylor forged an engineering degree in the name of a dog, Kelly said.

Micheline DiMichele, who has pleaded guilty to helping Taylor in the transcript scheme, is scheduled for sentencing Nov. 25.

World and national news

HELICOPTER MISSING — Jay Randall Fairburn, an NBC cameraman, is pictured above in an undated file photo provided by NBC. Fairburn, along with three others, failed to return from assignment in the Bahamas while being transported by helicopter. All four people were feared dead, network officials said yesterday. (AP Laserphoto)

Network crews are still missing

MIAMI (AP) — A helicopter carrying a pilot and three technicians from ABC and NBC News failed to return from assignment in the Bahamas, and all four people aboard were feared dead, network officials said yesterday.

The Bahamian government initially reported the wreckage of a helicopter was spotted near Andros Island, but Federal Aviation Administration officials said Bahamian officials subsequently denied the report. The initial reports said authorities had recovered three bodies.

A Miami-based helicopter pilot reported seeing the wreckage and search parties on the scene.

But Stan Kukla, supervisor of the FAA's Miami flight-service center, later said, "Everybody all of a sudden is denying having any information about the bodies.

"The Coast Guard Search and Rescue says their people talked to Bahamian police who say they have no information about the crash," Kukla said. "The (Bahamian officials) say the wreckage has not been located."

U.S. airmen killed in Egypt

By LISETTE BALOUNY
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt — The fatal crash of a U.S. military transport plane marred the start yesterday of operation Bright Star, the first test of America's rapid deployment force to defend Western oil supplies in the Middle East. The 11 men and two women aboard the C-141 were killed, military authorities said.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the plane, one of several involved in the 1,400-man military exercises, was on its final approach to an Egyptian military airport when it crashed into the desert dunes "in a fireball that lit up the night sky."

The plane crashed two to five miles short of the runway at Cairo West Air Base during a banking turn under clear night skies just before midnight Wednesday, according to Pentagon spokesman Maj. Gen. Jerry Curry in Washington, D.C.

He said an investigation has begun but so far the Air Force has no idea of the cause. The plane was attached to the 62nd Airlift Wing based at McChord Air Force Base, near Tacoma, Wash., he said. The joint exercises of about 1,400 army troops and airmen include unitsfrom the 101st Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Ky.

Pentagon officials have stressed that the joint Egyptian-American operation was planned well before the outbreak of the Persian Gulf war between Iran and Iraq. They say the two-week exercise is to give the Americans the desert practice they need to live up to the U.S. commitment to defend the West's oil supplies from Mideast oil fields.

The war has cut off oil production in Iran and Iraq and the fighting threatens the Strait of Hormuz, through which sail tankers bearing much of the world's oil.

The charred debris of the giant transport plane, which was capable of carrying 154 people, was spread over more than a half square mile northeast of the base.

U.S. Senate votes against busing

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Led by conservative Republicans, the Senate voted yesterday to prohibit the Justice Department from using busing in school desegregation cases, a move the administration says would cripple efforts to halt discrimination in public schools.

On a vote of 42-38, the antibusing amendment, sponsored by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., was added to a $9.57 billion appropriation for the Justice Department and other federal agencies.

A final vote on the bill and the amendment was delayed until Monday.

The amendment is similar to a rider attached to legislation already passed by the House. If it receives final Senate approval it would be sent to a HouseSenate conference to work out differences, but both versions of the anti-busing amendment already are in essential agreement.

Both versions would bar the Justice Department from spending money to require sending healthy children to any school but the one nearest their home.

L.A. public workers strike

By PAUL SIMON
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — Members of three unions representing 10,000 garbage collectors, police guards and traffic officers walked off their jobs yesterday in a contract dispute in the second strike by municipal employees in the city's history.

City officials said supervisors took over traffic control and sewage plant maintenance in this city of nearly 3 million people when some workers began their strike at midnight. Other workers either refused to go to work or arrived and then walked off the job.

Garbage collection and city vehicle maintenance ground to a halt. Sworn police officers took over for non-sworn officers who normally provide jail security.

"If it extends a couple of weeks it could get to be a real nuisance to the community," said Keith Comrie, the city's chief administrative officer.

Police opened an Emergency Communications Center to handle strike-related problems.

It's just about like we expected for the first day," Comrie said. "We would expect pretty good participation the first day. After two or three days they'll get tired . . . and start coming back . . ."

Auto excise tax cut may come later than state voters expect

BOSTON — The state Revenue Department is considering an administrative ruling which might effectively delay cuts in auto excise taxes that the public voted in the Nov. 4 election.

The Revenue Department refused to discuss the matter yesterday. Calls were referred to Robert Sherman, the press spokesman, who said a deputy commissioner "is preparing guidelines addressing that and other questions."

Sherman said the guidelines would be ready within two weeks, and "a letter is going out to the cities and towns to inform them of that fact."

Sherman refused to discuss any of the proposed guidelines under consideration.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Digest

Associated Press

Soviet bombers intercepted off Massachusetts coatline

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. — Two Soviet "Bear" bombers were intercepted by Massachusetts Air National Guard jet fighters off the Cape Cod coast in late September and escorted to sea, authorities confirmed yesterday.

The pair of TU-95 aircraft didn't violate U.S. air space or "give evidence of hostil intent," said Guard Maj. Dick Penney.

Penney said the four-engine, propeller-driven bombers were detected on radar Sept. 24 and met by two F-106 fighters from the Guard's 102nd Fighter Interceptor Wing, stationed at Otis as part of the nation's air defense system. Otis is in the center of upper Cape Cod, about 10 miles northwest of Hyannis.

Constitutionality of Prop 2½ questioned by police union

BOSTON — A union representing 100 Worcester area police officers yesterday became the first group to challenge Proposition 2½, Massachusetts' tax-cutting law, asking the state Supreme Court to rule the measure unconstitutional.

The Massachusetts Coalition of Police, AFL-CIO, filed a suit seeking an injunction against implementation of the new law.

Attorney Joseph Sandulli, who represents the union, contended the new statute violates sections of the state and federal constitution.

A hearing was scheduled for Wednesday before Justice Ruth Abrams.

"We believe there are serious defects in the writing of the law that make it null and void," said Sandulli. "We think this was very confusing to the public. The wording was such that they didn't know what they were voting for."

The suit challenges the controversial law on several grounds.

You've worked hard all week - this day's for you.

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

Attitude Readjustment Period - Every Fri afternoon 3p - 8p

ATTITUDE READJUSTMENT PERIOD
60 oz Old Mil Pitchers $1.95
Sombero's 95c
12 oz Molson's Ale $95
Including Mike's Famous Free Buffet
Served 5 pm - Come - Relax

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store that's close - and has convenient free parking.

WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE
THAT HELP KEEP ENTERTAINING AFFORDABLE!

Largest selection of wines in Amherst - and a friendly, knowledgeable sales staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street (rte 9 East) Amherst
Open till 11 p.m. Telephone 253-5384

Campus Center Board of Governors faces budget

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

Board of Governors Chairman Curtiss Wohlers called the Campus Center administration's recommended budget for the BOG "totally unacceptable" last night and said that the cuts would drastically reduce student services in the Campus Center and Student Union.

The administration's recommended budget of $97,120 for fiscal year 1982 represents a loss of $1,880 from the BOG's 1981 budget. The board had requested a budget of $138,657.

Treasurer Michael Jingozian said that the budget does not take nto effect the spiraling inflation.

According to one board official, the budget cut is the first in recent history. Chairman Wohlers said "building revenues are at record levels this year . . . the Campus Center is very solvent." Campus Center Director William Harris was not available for comment.

Wohlers said the board has additional costs this year the proposed budget will not cover. "The big problem is that the board had to assume $6,000 worth of fringe benefits (for Campus Center employees) that the state used to pay," he said. Also the board asked for $17,752 for the Cable Video Project which the administration did not recommend funding for.

The cuts would affect the Student Craft Shop, the Student Union Art Gallery, the Union Program Council, and the Board's ability to purchase supplies Wohlers said.

Asked how he felt about the cuts, one member replied, "I don't know if you can quote obscenities."

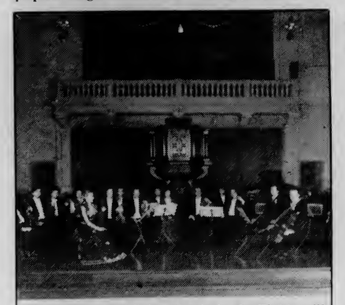
Chairman Wohlers said, "I believe it is a political attack on the board, an attempt to cripple students' controls on how their funds will be spent." According to Wohlers, students annually generate $1.6 million to the Campus Center through their Campus Center fee.

In his rationale for the cuts, Campus Center Director William Harris in a letter to the board said, "Salary savings of $3,470, can be realized by the elimination of Constitution and Economic Development Office chairs for fiscal year. Since the Economic Development chair is not a funded position, yet is intrinsically at odds with the Campus Center administration, some board members said the Campus Center administration was acting in retaliation for opposition to plans from that chair. The Economic Development Office promotes non-profit student run co-ops within the Campus Center/Student Union complex.

One of the most significant cuts is in the Cable Video Project's budget, according to members. The new project, which already received thousands of dollars for equipment purchasing, according to Wohlers, was not recommended for funding in the 1982 fiscal year.

BOG members said they had hoped to see the new color video system in operation by next semester, and some had hoped that within a period of years the system would expand to the entire campus.

Wohlers said the administration asked the project coordinators to include the budget request in the Governors Program Council (GPC) rather than as a separate group. However, when the administration submitted the GPC budget it did not reflect the new project's costs, nor the additional funding requested by the GPC for its own programming.



The Academy of Saint Martin in the Fields will perform works by Mozart, Stravinsky, Bartok and Shubert tonight, at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Tickets will be on sale at the door, with half price discounts available for University students. (Photo courtesy of Phonogram Internationl)

Students to lobby on Capitol Hill

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

In response to recent cut-backs in financial aid, a group of University of Massachusetts students will travel to Washington D.C. early next week to lobby legislators for increased aid funding.

About 40 students, many of them members of a legislative process class, Political Science 305, will be in Washington from Sunday through Tuesday evening attempting to persuade lawmakers to provide more funds.

Gerald Grady, the course teacher and director of Community Relations for the University, said the group will arrive in Washington at a crucial time, since the bill containing the financial aid measure will probably be decided early in the week, before the Thanksgiving recess.

"They've only got four days next week to do a lot of work. So who knows; There may be some midnight oil," Grady said last night. "It would be nice to get down there now, but its second-best to be there when we are."

Grady will accompany the students along with University Financial Aid Director Ed C. Apodaca. The trip is being financed by the Chancellor, the Undergraduate Student Senate and the Provost.

The object of the group's efforts will be the passage of House bill 7998, the Higher Education Act. Included in the bill, under Public Law 96-374, is a section which would provide the Department of Education with $4.9 billion for financial aid.

When they arrive in Washington, the students will first concentrate their lobbying efforts on preserving the $4.2 billion allocation, said class member Joe Forte. Once they are sure they money will be allocated, the group will then attempt to persuade legislators to provide an additional $1.8 billion for financial aid, he said.

Forte said federal financial aid guidelines were recently altered, making more students eligible for funds. But, Forte said, additional money was not made available to provide for the increase in aid recipients.

The group will attempt to meet with several legislatures and lobbyists concerned with education issues. As of now, group members said, appointments have been scheduled with Se. Paul Tsongas, D-Ma. and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., as well as representatives from the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities and the National Association of Student Financial Aid Directors.

Student wishing to register their opposition to financial aid cuts may sign a petition which will be circulated a a table in front of the Hatch today. The petition will be brought to Washington and delivered to either Tsongas or House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neil, Forte said.

Big money defeats Question 8?

RON MILLER
Collegian Staff

A referendum calling for a moratorium on future licensing of nuclear power plants won statewide, but lost in western Massachusetts due to a massive advertising and letter writing campaign by local utility companies a local consumer group spokesperson said.

Ken War, Regional Coordinator of the Campaign for Safe Energy of The Massachusetts Public Research Group, said Question 8, a non-binding referendum on last Tuesday's ballot, lost because in the last two weeks of the campaign Western Massachusetts Electric Company (WMECO) and Northeast Utilities spent thousands of dollars in advertising in local media and sent out four page letters instructing customers to vote against it.

"The focus of the advertising was highly misleading," Ward said. They implied nuclear power was the only alternative to OPEC oil dependence.

"They are saying, do you want to trade OPEC oil for nuclear power," Ward said.

He said his group had a different proposal. "Do you want to put your money into alternative energy projects instead of nuclear power?" Ward asked.

John Hickey, of WMECO said, "Western Mass. Electric sent out a two page letter with a one page fact sheet for a total of three pages. Our total expenditure was about $8000. I would absolutely insist there was nothing misleading."

Hickey also rebuked the claim the letter said OPEC oil was the only alternative.

"What we are saying is no energy source should be rejected out of hand. We can't afford to dismiss solidly performing nuclear power. We need them all," Hickey said.

The wording of the question addressing nuclear power was different in western Massachusetts than in the rest of the state, Ward said. In addition to a moratorium on future liscences of nuclear power plants, the western Massachusetts version included a future phase out of all existing plants to coincide with the development of energy alternatives.

The question appeared in 32 state congressional districts. In western Massachusetts 50.3 percent voted no and 49.4 percent voted yes. The question won in Amherst, Northampton, South Hadley, and Hadley, but lost in Greenfield by 1000 votes which is why it lost western Mass., Ward said.

Statewide, the question won with 51 percent voting in favor and 48 percent opposing.

Question 7, a non-binding referendum calling for a moritorium on nuclear weapons, won overwhelmingly with 59.2 percent voting in favor. It only appeared on the ballots in three wester Massachusetts counties: Hampshire-Franklin, Berkshire and Hampden, said Catherine Nagel of Trap Rock, a Deerfield based group of world peace advocates.

"The victory shows, in spite of a conservative swing, that this isn't a liberal or conservative issue, just an issue that people need to become aware of," Nagel said.

"It proves the people want it not just a group of leftists. In the districts that voted some were very conservative," Nagel said.

In the future, supporters of Question 8 plan to file legislation similar to the referendum, Ward said.

The supporters of Question 7 hope to expand their effort, and in a two year period hope to get the question state wide, Nagel said. They also hope to get some recognition for last Tuesday's results which have gone unnoticed nationally.

ON GUARD John Clapp and Greg Frick, both students and members of the Fencing Club here at UMass, enjoyed a friendly fencing duel and demonstration on the concourse in the Campus Center yesterday. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Law limits funds

By MARIANNE SAVAGE
Collegian Correspondent

The Hyde Amendment, which restricts public payment for abortions, has virtually eliminated Medicaid abortions in states adopting the restrictions, according to an American Civil Liberties Union report.

The Hyde Amendment standards, adopted in all but six states including Massachusetts, could be interpreted broadly enough to include a majority of abortions, but its vague standards are being interpreted narrowly, and many abortions meant to be funded are not, according to the ACLU report.

The report says doctors are interpreting the Hyde Amendment standards narrowly because of their fear of investigation.

The amendment permits funding for abortions when the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term, and for victims of rape or incest, when the incident was reported promptly (within 60 days of the incident), and, in those instances where severe and long-lasting physical health damage to the mother would result if the pregnancy were carried to term.

A question of whether the standards set forth in the amendment were actually medical standards arose from the McRae trial, a federal lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the Hyde Amendment.

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) studied the impact of the Hyde Amendment in 22 states and the statistics showed the overall decline in Medicaid abortions as 98.2 percent.

The phrase "life endangerment" and severe and long-lasting physical health damage is not a common one in the medical parlance, according to Dr. Adele Hofmann, director of Adolescent Medical Units at the New York Univerty of Medicine.

"It's extremely vague. I would have a great deal of difficulty if I were asked to write guidelines in terms of how to implement this," said Hofmann.

The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia estimates that 44 women a year will die from illegal abortion, if the Hyde Amendment is adopted in all states.

According to the ACLU report, to save the lives of these women, and to preserve the physical and mental health of thousands of women the govenment should fund medically necessary abortions for poor women.

* COFFEE HOUSE ****
To Benefit Amherst Childrens Home
Donation $1.00
FRIDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1980
8-11 p.m.
at Delta Chi Fraternity
Fraternity/Sorority Park
Music, Refreshments, Entertainment
Sponsored by
Kappa Kappa Gamma & Delta Chi

SCANN commemorates Silkwood

By PHILLIP PLANTE
Collegian Correspondent

About 100 University of Massachusetts students wore purple armbands yesterday in observance of the sixth anniversary of Karen Silkwood's death. The Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide (SCANN), handed out memorial armbands in order to increase student awareness of Silkwood's story, representatives said.

Silkwood, a lab technician at Kerr-McGee Plutonium Plant in Cresent City, Oklahoma, observed negligence of safety policies and missing amounts of plutonium in 1964. She then gathered evidence against Kerr-McGee.

Shortly after, Silkwood reportedly began to show symptoms of plutonium poisoning. Later, on her way to meet with a New York Times reporter, her car was allegedly forced off the road into a cement wall and she was killed.

Documents to be used against Kerr-McGee in a lawsuit were missing from her car. Kerr-McGee's stake in those documents and the suspicious nature of Silkwood's death have brought on accusations that Kerr-McGee conspired to poison and later killed her.

At SCANN's display table set up by members on the Campus Center Concourse, SCANN member Rich Germain said the armbands were a tool to gain visibility. He said, "People just don't know the story of Karen Silkwood."

SCANN member Maroo Theodoras said, "SCANN's purpose is to educate. The armbands and buttons are to get people's attention."

In the course of the day, groups of people gathered in front of the video display showing a Washington, D.C. protest in memory of Silkwood. In addition, more than 100 armbands bearing her name, the year of her death and SCANN's initials were given away.

★ Sterilization

continued from page 8

tions on women who have three or more children. Sterilization is often performed immediately after a woman delivers a child, when she is most vulnerable, Clift said.

Clift said the purpose of the National Women's Health Network is to inform the public of sterilization practices in order to provoke women to assert their reproductive rights.

The network has representatives across the country and a member who travels to less developed nations, Clift said. The network is severely crippled by limited funds she added.

She said women have brought hospitals to court after receiving unneeded and unwanted sterilizations but knows of no cases where a woman received any compensation. Clift said women are often discouraged from going to court by their spouses.

A manual containing information on the history, techniques, and abuses of sterilization; the Housing, Education, and Welfare Department Guidelines and enforcements of sterilization, and the usage of the Freedom of Information Act to voice opinions, is set to be published in 1981, by the Women's Health Network.

50c — Mon-Sat 10-5 — Next to the Hatch — 50c
Music Records Unlimited
Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley
50c off any album
on any Saturday in November
with this coupon
(excluding in store specials)
"Your Student-Run Record Store"
coupon
50c coupon 50c

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Now, Exclusive Area Showing
On Screen at 7:00 and 9:00 Daily
A new Woody Allen film
Woody Allen
Charlotte Rampling
Jessica Harper
Marie-Christine Barrault
Tony Roberts
Stardust Memories
United Artists PG
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

UMASS ARTS COUNCIL FUNDING DEADLINE

Applications for Arts Council funding of arts-related events to be presented during the months of February/March '81 must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. Wednesday, December 10th. The UMAC Office is located in 125 Herter Hall (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.

Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.

The next UMAC meeting will be held Thursday, November 13th at 8 A.M. in the Faculty Club. Public Invited.

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
10 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

* COFFEE HOUSE ****
To Benefit Amherst Childrens Home
Donation $1.00
FRIDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1980
8-11 p.m.
at Delta Chi Fraternity
Fraternity/Sorority Park
Music, Refreshments, Entertainment
Sponsored by
Kappa Kappa Gamma & Delta Chi

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and
Columbia Artists
present
The ACADEMY of SAINT MARTIN in the FIELDS
WORLD'S MOST DECORATED CHAMBER ORCHESTRA
Friday, Nov 14
8 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 pm) Phone reservations accepted through Wed. Nov. 12 (413-545-2511)
$9, 8, 7 General Public
$8, 7, 6 Senior Citizens
$4.50, 4, 3.50 UMass Students
Partial funding provided by Andry Montgomery Ltd. of London

Steiger's
Your Store of Specialty Shops
ELECTRIC RED BEAUTY BONUS FROM FASHION FAIR
Yours with any Fashion Fair purchase of 6.00 or more
Brighten your nights and captivate your audience. Fashion Fair has everything you need to make your personal color statement. It's vibrant, rich and produces instant appeal. It's Fashion Fair's ELECTRIC RED BEAUTY BONUS, that contains Smokey Gray Eye Color Pencil, Radiant Red Lipstick, Radiant Red Nail Polish, Hand and Body Lotion and a vial of enchanting Ebone Cologne. Select your purchase from your Fashion Fair favorites or from the new Fall/Winter Collection and receive your Beauty Bonus. Cosmetic Shop Baystate West and Hampshire Mall
Electric RED Beauty Bonus Fashion Fair
Fashion Fair Hand and Body LOTION
NOW... THREE WAYS TO CHARGE AT STEIGER'S

Black Affairs

Black Affairs needs photographers. If interested please come down to the Collegian Tuesday and Thursday after 3 p.m. or call 545-3500.

Black Homecoming: A Genesis

Barbara Covington
Karen Marie Thomas
Black Affairs Staff

This may be Massachusetts in the middle of November, but like the spiritual content of Stevie Wonder's new album, it's "hotter than July."

It rained Sunday. It was cold Sunday. But, nonetheless, we marched. Crystal was there in her golden slippers. Mary was there, pushing her daughter Kia, who was bundled and nestled in her stroller. Rick Townes, Carol Carter and Prof. John Bracey were there, representing the Third World administration. Mt. Holyoke, Smith and Amherst Colleges were there.

We did not have a float, we did not have a band nor a public address system, but yet our voices resounded through the town of Amherst, through Southwest and we did not cease until we reached the steps of New Africa House.

Down in Yvonne's refreshments were served for both the body and the mind. We stood, held hands and expressed our love for each other. Although our hands were cold, our hearts overflowed with warmth. Thus ended the first day of homecoming.

Monday morning we awoke to the same old, dull routine. Many of us had feared that yesterday's warmth had diminished to a mere ember. But we were rejuvenated by good food, good thoughts and good company; courtesy of Yvonne and her West-Indian delicacies, Shareef and his profound poetry and Tony Crayton's thunderous speech of discontent with the conditions of the people of color in this country. Again we clasped hands, as each of us in turn spoke feelings from our hearts. Thus ended the second day of homecoming.

On Tuesday night, our crowd thinned out, due to the University's prerequisites on our time. However, Ujaama and company, graced our ears with poetry, adding more fuel to our fire. Jalica Battle's recital of Gil-Scott Heron's "A Poem for Jose Torres" highlighted the evening. The heat generated to those who could not be present. Thus ended the third day.

On the fourth day we were entertained by the movie "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me Nigger." Shelley Woods, representing the All African People's Revolutionary Party, presented the party platform and recruited support from the black community. We stood, held hands and again repeated words of love.

Homecoming is not over yet. We have started to build something beautiful and strong, we cannot let this flame die. Stevie Wonder says it best "Peace has come to Zimbabwe/Third World's right on the one/Now's the time for celebration/'Cause we've only just begun." Stay tuned for part two of homecoming synopsis. Keep the faith, we love you.

Commentary

Sickle Cell Relief

BOSTON AP—Agonizing pain that is one of sickle cell anemia's worst side effects may be prevented by a new form of treatment that slightly changes the chemical makeup of the victim's blood, doctors have found.

The treatment is not a cure for sickle cell anemia, but the researchers say it appears to be a relatively simple way to free victims of their most painful symptoms.

So far, however, they have tested the new treatment on only three patients and the doctors stress that more studies are needed to ensure the safety and effectiveness of the treatment before it is widely used. Doctors developed the new method, which uses medicine and diet to lower sodium levels in the victims' blood, at two Harvard-affiliated hospitals in Boston. Their research was published in Thursday's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Sickle cell anemia affects between 30,000 and 60,000 Americans, and virtually all the victims are black.

The disease, which is transmitted genetically, causes red blood cells to be crescent shaped instead of round. A painful sickle cell "crisis" occurs when the tiny blood vessels called capillaries become clogged with these malformed blood cells.

The new treatment, tested by doctors at Beth Israel and Brigham and Women's hospitals; lowers sodium levels in the blood about 10 percent. As a result, the red cells swell, and the formation of sickle-shaped cells slows.

The Boston doctors gave the patients nasal spray doses of the drug 1-desamino-8-D-arginine vasopressin—DDAVP. At the same time, patients drank three or four quarts of water a day and avoided table salt.

Before they began the treatment, the three patients in the study had to be hospitalized about once a month for painful crises that sometimes lasted up to a week.

However, during 100 days on the new treatment, two of the patients had only one crisis each, while the third had no crises during 190 days of treatments.

"It looks as if there is a potential that this might be doing something helpful, but I can't emphasize enough how tentative that is," Dr. Robert M. Rosa, who directed the research, said in an interview. "We hope this will serve as a stimulus for others to enlarge the investigation," Rosa said the three patients suffered no serious side effects from the treatment. Their biggest problem was avoiding salt.

However, he said physicians should wait for more test results before they put patients on this treatment. He said lowering the blood sodium too far or too quickly could cause a variety of ill effects, including seizure and coma.

Sugar Ray Leonard puts a lot into his jump rope workout in New Orleans for his title rematch with Roberto Duran for the WBC welterweight crown. (AP Laserphoto)

Young Campaigns

FAIRMONT, W.Va. AP—Former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young blames President Carter's defeat on last-minute uncertainty over the future of the American hostages in Iran. Young told an audience at Fairmont State College that voters turned to Reagan out of frustration.

"The hostage situation produced more frustration and anxiety in the American people than the Second World War did," Young said.

However, Young said history will be "very kind" to Carter as a negotiator and champion of human rights.

Unity Weekend

Mount Holyoke College presents the Association of Pan-African Unity Cultural Weekend (Nov. 13th-16th).

Friday—November 14th

Jerry Herman, a recent visitor to South Africa and Namibia, and head of the American Friends Service Committee will be giving an update on South Africa and Namibia on Friday at 3 p.m. at the Betty Shabazz House (Black Cultural Center). He will also be accompanied by a new film "South Africa Belongs to Us." The public is invited, and there will be no charge.

The Association, along with Visions Gospel Choir, will present a Fashion Affair at Abbey Dining Hall on Friday, beginning at 7 p.m. There will be a cash bar, and a buffet, with the first drink free. Tickets to this elegant affair are $5. For more information concerning the Fashion show contact Patricia Lee Poy at extension 4067. An afterparty will follow, which will begin at 11 p.m. until ??? People attending the Fashion show will not have to pay an additional cost for the party. But there will be a small donation for people attending the afterparty only.

Saturday—November 15th

The Association will be celebrating Pan-Africanism with an afternoon of cultural expression. Sisters from the U.S., Africa, West Indies and South America will perform dance, singing, and poetry readings to exemplify their own African culture. Dishes from around the world will be served. Come and join in this celebration of the various cultures that have come from Africa. It is free of charge at the Betty Shabazz Cultural Center from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Sunday—November 16th

The Association will host a sale in Wilbur Snack Bar (Mary Woolley Hall) on Sunday at 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The sale will feature Duke Ellington, Stevie Wonder, and other cards by UMass Art Professor Nelson Stevens, throw pillows for rooms by UMass Professor Femi Richards, and tote bags for accessories and books also by Professor Femi Richards. Pillows and bags come in an assortment of interesting designs. Be sure to check this out.

Announcements

Black Homecoming

Events: November 14: UPC/Duke Ellington Committee and Ahora present Ray Barreto and orchestra in concert. SUB, 8:00 p.m. November 15:—Fashion Show and After Party beginning 9:00 p.m., SUB. —Sonny Rollins presented by UPC/Duke Ellington series, 8:00 p.m., FAC. Tickets still available at FAC Box Office. November 16: Talent and Fashion Show, Hampden Theatre/Southwest, 7:30 p.m.

Coffeehouse

The Third World Women's Center invites all women to attend a coffeehouse Sunday, Nov. 16 at 1 p.m., Malcolm X Center, Southwest.

"Come with poetry, a song, a skit, dance or just come to watch.

Refreshments will be served.

Coloquium

The Southwest Center for Racial Studies will be conducting a one-credit, 16-hour, weekend colloquium on Racism Nov. 15 and 16. The colloquium will be offered in a series of segmented workshops with a variety of topics. It will take place in Hampden Commons in the Southwest Residential College Area. Those who do not wish to take the colloquium for credit are also welcome. The workshop topics are Folklore and Racism, Race and Biology, The Political Economy of Race, Sex and Class, G-core and SCERA Anti-Racism Program, Racism in Education, Racism in the United States: Institutional, Cultural and Individual and Understanding Racism-Actions and Strategies in Dorm Life. For further information, contact the CRS at 545-0472.

Field Trip

ATTENTION!! Minority Student Symposium students. Field trip to Connecticut General Insurance Company Nov. 19, 1980, 11:30 a.m. BE AT WHITMORE! The bus will depart from the Whitmore parking lot. PLEASE BE ON TIME!

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Sterilization abuse addressed

Unwanted surgery common

By LAURIE ORTYL
Collegian Correspondent

A representative from the National Women's Health Network in Washington D.C. said last night the misuse of sterilization by medical interns wishing to "get one more tubular under the belt" is comparable to "killling a mouse with a cannon."

> These surgeries are major, Clift said, and leave behind such nasty side effects as internal bleeding, infections, pain, altered menstrual flow, cuts, and psychological stress.

Elayne Clift, who said she was sterilized, spoke last night in the Campus Center on the absence of women's reproductive rights in an appearance billed as "Sterilization Abuse: Monitoring the Abusers."

She cited evidence of hospitals said to be in compliance with Housing, Education, and Welfare Department regulations where women in labor are pressured into sterilization.

Clift said this practice makes a women feel as if "she were a drowning person being asked if she would like to get out of the water."

She said the abuse is a general practice throughout the country.

Clift said there are two kinds of sterilization which are widely practiced. Doctors perform tubligations, in which a woman's fallopian tubes are cut and closed with surgical thread, and hysterectomies, the removal of the uterus, as medical exercises, she said.

These surgeries are major, Clift said, and leave behind such nasty side effects as internal bleeding, infections, pain,altered menstrual flow, cuts and psychological stress.

Clift said doctors have traditionally performed steriliza-

turn to page 4

Elayne Clift speaking on sterilization abuse at the Campus Center last night. (Staff photo by Michael Solomita)

The UMass Music Theater Guild
presents:
The Broadway Musical

"ON THE TOWN"

Music by Leonard Bernstein

Final Week

Thurs., Fri., Sat., Nov. 13, 14, 15

All Performances 8 P.M. Students $2.50
Bowker Auditorium Gen. Admission $3.00

Tickets on sale at the Bowker Box Office 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Monday-Friday, or call in your phone reservation Telephone 545-0783
Presented in cooperation with the Fine Arts Council

Amherst Gulf
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

catering to the Campus Area
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

SALE!
ONE DAY ONLY...
SATURDAY, NOV. 15
BLOUSES, DRESSES, & SKIRTS over 1,000 pieces to choose from.
priced elsewhere from ~~12.95-60.~~
here, regularly ~~7.50-24.95~~
SAT. ONLY 20% deduct from ticket price at cash register!

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

UPC/Duke Ellington & AHORA
present
a dance concert with Ray Barretto
and his orchestra
guest artists: The Jimenez Brothers Band

TONIGHT
November 14, 1980 8 pm
Student Union Ballroom
Tickets still available
$5.00 UMass Student with valid I.D.
6.00 General Public
No Bottles, Cans or Smoking

Editorial/Opinion

'Social ordering' defines childrearing mores

This is the third in a three part series on women's reproductive rights.

The right of a woman to make reproductive choices — to have access to safe and effective birth control, to get a legal and insured abortion if necessary, to be free of coerced sterilization — is a basic human right to control one's own body. But while childbearing rights have been the focus of the recent struggles for sexual equality, they are only the tip of the iceberg. The most cherished tenets of patriarchy are proclaimed within the arena of childrearing, and it is there that the most profound changes are being sought and resisted.

Mimi Turchinetz and Steven Schulman

The social code that places nearly total responsibility on women for raising children creates economic, political, cultural and personal yokes which confine women to a menial and powerless status in a male defined world.

It is not childbearing itself that perpetuates this oppression. It is the social ordering that defines women's "place" as wives, mothers and home-makers, responsible for and subservient to their husbands, preferably kept out of the workplace and stuck in the home as free laborers. Denied good jobs and responsible for the children, women are left dependent on individual men for survival.

Although individual men frequently abuse individual women, this limiting of women's life choices is an institutional process. Full-time, year-round women workers earn only about half as much as their male counterparts because employers restrict them to the lowest paying jobs. After all, they argue, what's the use of training a women and giving her real responsibility if she's going to have to quit if she gets pregnant? In any case, men generally refuse to take orders from women, so promoting women can create problems. In fact, men not only can't take orders from women, they frequently refuse to work with women at all, so it's best to segregate the women in certain jobs. These jobs, not surprisingly, tend to have the same characteristics as women's work in the home — cleaning, cooking, and taking care of others. Even in the wage-labor force, women are confined to a particular role.

As a result, half of all employed women are in occupations in which women represent over 80 percent of total employment. Because many women are competing for only a few types of jobs, wages can be kept extra low, and justified by calling a woman's wage inessential "pin money." Consequently, female headed families were almost five times as likely as male headed families to be below the poverty level in 1974.

Women's place has meant women's poverty. TV and advertisements make this place out to be somehow "natural" by portraying women as homemakers and sex objects subservient to men. But there is nothing natural about it. While childbearing is a biological process, childrearing is an entirely social one. The only way women can become economically and politically liberated is for men to assume their fair share of the work of raising children. This, however, is a highly threatening prospect, and it has drawn a stiff resistance.

Over the past decade the gains of the women's movement have spawned a right-wing counterattack. Waged as a moral and religious crusade, this is actually a highly political campaign. You may have noticed that they just took over the White House.

The New Right emphasizes women's role in the family as wife and mother. They oppose abortion, The ERA, and homosexuality, with pious pronouncements about being "pro-life and pro-family." This is outright hypocrisy. These same people have supported capital punishment and the Vietnam War, and oppose sex education, federally funded childcare programs, and religious freedom. They are not so much "pro-life" as "anti-choice." Their response to the crumbling of the social fabric is fearfully negative: preserve the family by keeping women in their place. Women's independence is equated with social disintegration.

We are susceptible to the charges of being "anti-family" if we fail to create a positive alternative. Opposition to the sexual division of labor is not enough. We need new models of family life and childrearing which make men equally responsible for raising the children. We have to fight for federally funded day care centers and for male childrearing in order to be against the economic oppression of women and against the repressive and authoritarian New Right backlash.

Too many of us have assumed that changes we have made in our individual lives were enough to change society. They are not. The issue of women's power and independence is a threat to male dominated society, and the Right is trying to crush it. Unless we fight for our rights collectively, politically, and positively, even those individual changes will become a thing of the past.

Mimi Turchinetz and Steven Shulman for Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom.

Letters

Senior's insight: Bird cage lining

To the Editor:

As unlikely as it seems that the Collegian editors will print a letter in agreement with Mr. Charles Field's letter of Wednesday ("Fishwrapper!") I nonetheless feel compelled to write with such agreement.

How happy I was to finally witness the printing of a letter extracted from that sector of the University most aware of the differences between the "dreaminess" of the Collegian editors' world and the reality of their world: the seniors.

Most unfortunate is the fact that by the time one becomes a senior at this University he is, as Mr. Field indicates, too saturated with the idiocy of three years' worth of the Collegian to even bother writing with his reflections. Instead, he is more inclined to resign all participation with the paper and use it instead to "wrap his fish" (or line his bird's cage as is my preference).

It's high time you editors (a misnomer if ever there was one) realize that the Collegian has a responsibility to print news; not the constant cacklings of every bleeding heart who walks through your doors. I too am tired of your massive transfusions of radical rubbish into the student body. It is irresponsible of you to bombard this community with the myopic and selfish views of every group of usually-moronic dogooders you are introduced to.

And realize something else editors. The Collegian is not privately owned. Your periodic declarations of support for certain incidences and persons (i.e., Amherst Nursing Home Strike, Rich LaVoice's bid for the SGA Presidency, etc.) is entirely off base, irresponsible, and, in my understanding of the law, illegal. Further, it necessarily deems the Collegian a radical publication.

There's a world beyond the corners of your paper gentlemen, and I'm certain that if you would pause for inspection you would find it relatively unconcerned with feminism, Nummo News, SCERA, Everywomen's Centers, Dick Gregory and the rest of it.

Unlike Mr. Field, I haven't yet forfeited all hope. I do pause now and then to read the Collegian with the hope that one day I will read an issue wherein there will be writings even vaguely concerned with realities. Your time is running out, though.

James Kelly
Amherst

Residents of Cashin are kept in the dark

To the Editor,

It often seems that students at the University of Massachusetts, in Amherst, are kept in the dark when it comes to finding the right people to solve their problems. Residents of Cashin House have been in the dark since the beginning of the fall semester.

During the summer, track-type lighting was removed from all suite lounges. The reason given to Cashin residents was that exposed bulbs were a health hazard. Well, the health hazard is gone and only darkness remains.

Seeking a solution, residents of Cashin turned to Sylvan-Northeast Area Management. A ray of hope came when McNamara House, suffering from the same lack of lighting, was provided with overhead flouescent lighting. Area Mangement informed Cashin residents over a month ago that they would receive the same, as soon as manpower was available. The picture darkened, however, as weeks passed and lounges remained without lights. On Nov. 5, a Cashin resident was told by an Area Management official that there was no money available for lighting, and the only alternative was for residents to file an appeal with the Rent Rebate Board. The next day, residents of Cahin attending a Quality of Life meeting were told by the same official that there was money for lighting set aside in the budget, but that lighting might not appear for another year.

As of this writing, Cashin residents remain in the dark wth regard to the whereabouts of lounge lighting. Other problems lost in the murkiness of Area Management are the lack of security screens for the dorm's ground floor windows, and the lack of security buzzers for the dorm's rear doors. All we are asking for is a solution to these problems. Everywhere we turn we run into double-talk and red tape. We thought the system was designed to help students with their problems. The system seems to have failed the residents of Cashin.

Cashin House Council
Don Atkinson
Joe Fitzgerald
Eva Marie Pendergast
Joe Furtado

Gregory lecture skeptics from 'a fool's paradise'

To the Editor,

I was somewhat stunned by a letter that appeared in Wednesday's Collegian.

Charles F. Field refers to the brilliant Dick Gregory as a degenerate moron off the street, and not only undermines the intelligence of the UMass student but questions the Collegian's right to freedom of the press. I respect the fact that the Collegian printed many of Gregory's comments, something even the New York Times might be afraid to do. His more controversial beliefs, however, particularly those concerning the CIA's involvement with the deaths of the Kennedys, Martin Luther King, Kent State and Jonestown, were omitted.

It is quite obvious that Field was not present at the lecture last Thursday, which is a shame. Perhaps he might have been able to see the truth of our wonderful country a little more clearly. Some people are content living in a fool's paradise, i suppose.

It is hoped that Dick Gregory will return to UMass and, when he does, I implore all UMass students to partake of his knowledge. For bringing in a speaker like him, the Distinguished Visitors Program is an important organization, of which students should take advantage.

In the meantime, Charles Field should look up the CIA, they would probably get along very well.

Andrew Gordon
Central

Ladies Night Out
CASTAWAY LOUNGE
Ladies Night Out
ALL MALE REVIEW SHOW
Direct from Boston
Butch Cassidy
&
The Sundance Kid
Tues. Nov. 18 & Tues. Dec. 9
8 - 11 PM
Reservations Recommended
$3 Cover
Ladies Night Out
Rt. 5 & 10 Whately
Tel 665-8731
Ladies Night Out

Book less controversial than author

The Court Years (Random House) $16.95
By William O. Douglas

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Last year at this time, the legal community was in an uproar over a new book written by two Washington Post reporters entitled The Brethren. For the first time, the inner workings of the Supreme Court, one of the nation's most mysterious bodies, had been revealed to the public.

Now, another book on the Supreme Court is hitting the best-seller lists, reflecting the growing public interest in the country's highest legal body. The Court Years is the memoirs of former Justice William O. Douglas, who died last January. It is the last of 30 books written by Douglas.

Douglas served on the Supreme Court for 36 years, longer than any other justice. He was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1939 (while serving as head of the Securities and Exchange Commission) and retired on Nov. 12, 1975.

Books

During his years on the Court, Douglas was one of the most controversial justices. Several times, motions of impeachment were filed against him by conservatives who loathed his strong defense of First Amendment rights. Douglas was also an outspoken environmentalist.

Unlike The Brethren, Douglas' book on the court is not as controversial, and offers few new revelations about the court. According to political science Professor Sheldon Goldman, this may be because Douglas' wife, Cathy, edited the book heavily, and did not wish to criticize members of the court who are still alive.

The book does onfirm some of the revelations in The Brethren, though. It mentions, for example, the attempted lobbying of the court by Thomas G. Corcoran in a 1969 anti-trust case against El Paso Natural Gas Co. Douglas also confirms that Chief Justice Warren Burger would often keep opinions of the court to write himself, even if he was in the minority.

Douglas also criticizes Burger for his proposals to lighten the workload of the court, saying they would lessen the court's ability to vindicate the rights of the oppressed, and increase the power of big business.

Some of the most interesting sections of the book are those where Douglas reflects on the presidents he served with. For some presidents, Douglas was a close friend and advisor. In fact, both Roosevelt and Harry Truman wanted Douglas to be their vice-president at some point.

But to other presidents, notably Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford, Douglas was a menace to be dealt with. Having been a victim of Nixon, Douglas offers excellent insight into what he calls the Nixon-Agnew "politics of destruction."

For those who are worried about the large number of Supreme Court appointments President-elect Ronald Reagan may be able to make, Douglas' book offers some consolation. He mentions several times how justices appointed by presidents, presumably for their similar ideologies, turned out to be great dissappointments. These justices included Earl Warren, who was appointed by Republican Dwight Eisenhower, but turned out to be the force behind the court's great civil rights decisions.

"Cheer up. Presidents are notorious for making mistakes," Douglas used to say.

Notices

"Dancin'," Bob Fosse's Tony Award-winning Broadway musical hit, will be presented at the University of Massachusetts' Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Sunday, November 16 at 3 and 8 p.m. "Dancin," includes music and lyrics by a variety of artists, ranging from George M. Cohen and John Phillip Sousa to Neil Diamond and Cat Stevens.

For ticket information, call the Fine Arts Center Box Office at: 545-2511.

Racism Coloquim

The Southwest Center for Racial Studies will conduct a one-credit, 16-hour, weekend colloquium on racism this weekend. The colloquium will be offered in a series of workshops with a variety of topics. It will take place in Hampden Commons in the Southwest Residential College Area. Those who do not wish to take the colloquium for credit are also welcome. Some of the topics which will be discussed are Folklore & Racism, Racism in Education, Race & Biology, and The Political Economy of Race, Sex, and Class. For further information, contact the CRS at 545-8472.

Lustrium/81

YOUR COLLEGE RING FOR JUST

78.00

Lustrium/81 is Josten's Patented New Age Alloy. Beauty and durability are combined with Josten's traditional standards of design and workmanship. Choose Lustrium/81. It's now, and forever.

SEE YOUR JOSTEN'S REPRESENTATIVE

DATE Tues & Wed Nov 18-19 TIME 10:00 AM - 4:00 PM
Offer good these dates only

Josten's
JOSTENS' COLLEGE RINGS OFFERED DAILY AT YOUR BOOKSTORE

PLACE The University Store, Campus Center $10. Deposit
VISA MasterCard

Eileen—
Happy 19th "Cookie" hope this day is special. Love from Roxane and Leigh

Adult Entertainment
Majestic Cinema
84 Cottage St
(Rte 141)
Easthampton, MA
Tel 527-2346

NOV. 12 - 18
Weekend Fantasy 7:30
Hot Wives 9:00
under 21 not admitted
Mat. Thurs & Fri 1:30

FREE POSTER
(with purchase)
Friday Nights
6-9 PM
FOR THE RECORD
at Faces

Sonny Rollins, legendary tenor saxophonist, will be at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall Saturday, as part of the Duke Ellington Series. The show will begin at 8 p.m. Ticket prices are $7, 6 and 5 for the general public and $6, 5 and 4 for senior citizens. UMass students are eligible for half-price tickets at $3.50, 3 and 2.50.

The
GREAT SKI SNATCH
$500000
worth of top name
Winter Clothing & Ski Equipment

* Parkas
* Vests
* Sweaters
* Hats
* Gloves
* etc.
* X-Country
* Downhill
* Skis
* Boots
* Bindings
* Poles

All at Incredible Savings

UMASS SKI CLUB
Nov 19-22
at the SUB

SUN. NOV. 16
JCA/UMass Hillel Sponsored. . .
BRUNCH
Zionism Under Fire
with speaker DAVID LANDES, Harvard University Pres. "American Professors for Peace in the Middle East"

panelists DONNA DEVINE, Smith College
"Can There be a Just Peace for Israelis and Palestinians?"
HAIM GUNNER, Univ. Mass.
"How did Jews Come to Palestine & Israel"
LEONARD GLICK, Hampshire College
"Is Anti-Zionism a Code-Word for Anti-Jewish Attitudes?"
COMMONWEALTH RM, SU
11:00 Brunch, small fee 11:45 Program, free
The Event is Open to All

TASTE THE BEER THAT OUTSELLS ALL THE OTHERS IN CANADA: LABATT'S.

Good news!
Labatt's, Canada's No. 1 selling beer, is now imported to the U.S.
So, now it's easier to try our Labatt's—and understand the secret of its popularity.
We think you'll discover a taste that's crisp, clean and natural—truly the beer that tastes as good as the country it comes from.

THINK OF CANADA
THINK OF LABATT'S

P.S. The green Labatt's bottle comes equipped with one of those twist-off tops—which can be rather handy, especially whilst one is otherwise engaged.

© Labatt Importers Inc. Amherst N.Y. 1980

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry

See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

BLUE WALL
campus center
at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Friday, Nov. 14th
THE STOMPERS
From Boston

$3.00 cover charge
In Association with UPC Productions

Saturday, Nov. 15th
Martian Highway $1

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

The Great Ski Snatch

$500,000
worth of top name
Winter Clothing and Ski Equipment
Prices This Low Should Be Outlawed
Nov. 19 - 22 W, T, F { High NOON til 10 p.m. S. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. at the UMass Student Union Ballroom
Happy B.D. BAT

UPC PRODUCTIONS

PRESENTS
A REGGAE DANCE
with
Duke Ellington Committee
MONYAKA
AND LOOSE CABOOSE
DECEMBER 6, 1980
AT THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
$2.50 UMASS STUDENTS $4.00 GENERAL PUBLIC
AVAILABLE AT
TIX, UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED, AND FOR THE RECORD AT FACES
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

FREE
!! International Movies !!
Italian and Yugoslavian Film Festivals
Nov. 18
Fellini's Classic
"ROMA"
C.C. Aud. 7 & 9 pm
Nov. 20
Yugoslavian Social Commentary
"I Even Met Happy Gypsies"
Thompson 102 8 pm
Presented by the U-Mass Arts Council, Governors Program Council with assistance from the Departments of French, Italian and Anthropology and Prof. Joel Halpern.

ALL RSO GROUPS
Budget Rationales with completed Budget Requests are due no later than 5:00 Monday Nov. 17 in the Student Senate Office 420 Student Union.

Add experience to your degree.

The world can be big and bad for some. For others it looks much easier. Survival means different things to different people. Is it luck or preparation?

Preparation seems to be the key. Consider the leadership training and management skills you can develop in Army ROTC. The edge. That margin of difference that can put you ahead in the big, bad world of tough job competition.

You may be a sophomore. Or have just two years remaining in school. It's not too late to add Army ROTC. And add experience to your degree. Contact

CPT PATRICK MERRYMAN 5452321/2322

Army ROTC.
Learn what it takes to lead.

International careers subject of conference

Students in foreign languages, international relations, and journalism will have a chance to meet representatives from the U.S. Foreign Service, business and journalism at the International career conference to be held at Smith College Saturday.

The aim of the conference, organized by the Five-College Committee on International Programs, is to provide information on how to pursue international careers.

The first part of the conference will feature Harry G. Barnes, director general of the U.S. Foreign Service and director of personnel at the Department of State, Mary Van Bibber Harris, assistant dean and director of placement services at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Robert Kuhne, a faculty member at The University of South Carolina's College of Business Administration, Andrea Lambrinides, vice president of City Bank, and Lawrence Pinkham, professor of journalistic studies at The University of Massachusetts. Prof. Pinkham recently returned from China where he was a visiting professor of Journalism.

The second part of the conference will feature Kristen Anderson of the International Program of the Carnegie Corp. in New York, Elizabeth Bayne Glaeser, senior financial advisor of the Exploration and Producing Division of Mobil Oil Corp., David Gruber, a lawyer with the New York Law firm of Sullivan and Crowmwell, Sally Swing Shelley, chief of the non-governmental organization section of the United Nations office of public information, and John Wallace, senior vice president of the Experiment in International Living.

The first part of the conference, which will be held in John M. Green Hall on the Smith campus, will begin at 9:30 and end at 11:15. The second part will be from 1:00 to 2:30. The conference is primarily for Five-College students but all interested people may attend.

Today's paper was produced by:

Composing room staff Brenda Kustin, Jim McDonald, Suzette Courtmanche, Michael Krumpe, Marsha Bianchi, Donna Levine, Mary Kinneavy, Edie Eppich, Michele Bedard and Carla Lesh as Miss Congeniality
Special thanks to Denis McGann for keeping us perky.

the Hungry U Restaurant
the ideal spot for a relaxing meal

Sunday Special
Spaghetti and Meatballs includes salad and hot garlic bread
$2.99
with this coupon
55 University Drive
Amherst
549-5713

FOUR SEASONS

Molson (all)	9.99
Miller btls	7.49
Tuborg & Tuborg Dark btls.	7.49
Falstaff cans	5.99
Cutty Sark Scotch 1.75 litre	18.99
Castillo Rum 1.75 litre	9.99
Mr. Boston Vodka 1.75 litre	8.99
Gallo Premium Table Wine 3 litres	5.99
Andre Champagne white, pink, cold duck 750 ml	2.79
Arrow Peppermnt Schnapps 750 ml	4.99

Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

amc THEATRES TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT 9 - HADLEY, MASS

THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM.
Silent Scream
Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30 - 9:55
Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:15
R

MARY TYLER MOORE
DONALD SUTHERLAND
Ordinary People
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15 - 9:45
Sun-Thu (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:00
R

Marlon Brando Last Tango in Paris X

Rocky Horror Picture Show R

THE WHO The Kids Are Alright PG

Flesh Gordon X

Each of these four late shows start at 12:15 AM on Fri & Sat all seats are $2.50

PETER O'TOOLE
THE STUNT MAN
Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15 - 9:45
Sun-Thu (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 1:45
R

CHARLES BRONSON
BORDERLINE
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30 - 9:55
Sun-thu (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:00
PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 - HADLEY, MASS

GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN
Fri & SAt (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30 - 10:00
Sun-Thu (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:15
R

GENA ROWLANDS
Gloria
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15 - 9:45
Sun-Thu (5:45@ $1.75) 8:15
Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:00
PG

JILL CLAYBURGH
It's My Turn
Fri& Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00
Sun-Thu (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
R

CARTOON FESTIVAL
(Three Stooges)
Sat & Sun at 2:15
All Seats are $1.50
G

Benefit Show for the Amherst Survival Center
"The Shaggy Chimp"
Admission: one non perishable food item Sat at 12:00
G

ANTHONY HOPKINS
THE ELEPHANT MAN
Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45
Sun-Thu (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
R Matinee (Sat & Sun) 2:00

BUYERS OF PRECIOUS METALS
GOLD – SILVER – JEWELRY – FLATWARE

WE WILL PAY CASH ON THE SPOT FOR YOUR UNWANTED

GOLD and SILVER, etc.

This Size Approx. $125.00

18 K
This Size Approx. $65.00

WANTED GOLD CLASS RINGS and WEDDING RINGS

This Size Approx. $65.00

PAY 10% EXTRA FOR GOLD CLASS RINGS and WEDDING BANDS

14 K
This Size Approx. $35.00

3 days only Thurs, Fri, & Sat
Oct. 9, 10, 11 10 am to 6 pm

Howard Johnsons Motor Lodge
401 Russell Street Route 9
Hadley-Amherst

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Satelite 318, asking 250 call after 9:00 665-7753

1975 Vega G.T. Stnd, 27 mpg, 2 bbl carb, body good, undercoated, AM/FM stereo, new wide oval tires & snows, other extras—$500.00 or BO 1-628-3279 after 5

1965 Mustang body and interior clean, no rust PS AT $2700 546-6103

1965 Lincoln Cont new parts for engine rebuild clean interior extras $500 firm 413-665-2667 evenings

67 Impala conv excellent running condition 750.00 call Jack 527-3975

1976 Pacer PS PB auto AM FM stereo red & white vinyl roof 57,000 1950 or BO 253-2671

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

DISC JOCKEY

Want a Succesful Party! Hire Professional Disc Jockeys!! Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics' echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 2^6-0758

FOR RENT

Room for rent 5 bdrm house in Belchertown 100/mo 323-5526

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Ski Bindings for sale Look N-77 brand new, int. exp. $50. 6-5808

Ski Boots mens 7½ (womens 8½) Nordica Hurricane flo boots. Only used half a season $100 or BO call Donna 549-1869

Weimaraner Pups AKC registered, from a long line of champs in show, obedience and field trial 1-413-339-6688

Arthur Ashe Comp 3 Tennis Racket brand new, unstrung $50 call Bill 549-1470

Skis K2 244 USA 185cm $30.00 BO Dolomite Boots sz 9 men's $35.00 BO 546-4615

Ski Boots size 10½ beg-int year old good cond 6-7009

Fretless Bass, Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

FOUND

Copper wire frame glasses in Campus Center Coffee Shop Call Kathleen aft 10 546-8543

Womens Ring at the Rusty Nail call after 5:00 P.M. 367-2285 please identify

GIFTS

Victorinox Genuine Swiss Army Knives 30% off SASE for prices to Nichols Pharmacy 274 Wahconah St Pittsfield Mass 01201

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MA1 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Delivery person with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 P.M. at Superior Pizzeria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Radio Shack calculator Mon Nov 3 Eng E brown case call 665-4315 ·

Lost blue datebook and phone book very important please call 256-6191 if found or return to Collegian - Chris

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button, (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

UMass Photo Co-op Raffle 1st prize Canon AE-1 Nov 3-14 CC Concourse & Photo Co-op Tickets 3/$1

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Moving? We will sublet your two bedroom apt. will pay sublet fee! Please call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Coffee House Friday November 14 8-11 pm Entertainment, refreshments at Delta Chi Donation $1.00 for charity Sponsores KKG & Delta Chi

Sarah Happy 19th you hot shit! Lova ya Marj

Come on in out of the cold to Lambda Delta Phi's Fireside and Games Night. Keep warm and have fun on Tuesday Nov 18. All University women welcome! 389 No. Pleasant St. Call 5-0939 for rides

Thanks for the greatest nine months Schmen, youre number one in my book 143

Phic Chic - When is the next overnight at the Downingtown Inn. I wouldn't miss it for the world. And this time I'll finish the floor Love Judith Mick! That's right, th R&R accountant was recently seen pulling a disco dance move. And to think he still vows his faith to the Scorpions and Judas Priest! What was that about sheep??

Atten Eng Co 3 box alarm respond to Caubrs for a good time

Goo Happy 19th! Don't party too much this weekend cuz it's going to be busy in our C of S love your roomie

To Cathy, The only ATC who thinks cats are evil. Have a good one. Love, your roomie

Tommorrow is George Greenbushes Birthday you know George, he's the grey haired guy that always stands in the Hatch Wish him a Happy Birthday and buy him a drink Happy Birthday George from everyone in the Bluewall and Hatch

HHP always remember I love you! DMF

Babe, I Praise the Lord for giving you to me. 7 more months until we are one. I love you. Linda

Karen from Lambda your smile and conversation made my day Thanks, Tim

TJR—Stop by Monday—I'll have some more "orgasmic" cookies for you! (and Ron and Michael) We'll see if you have more restraint the second time round. . .

Dizzy, you are S.I.S. & N. Love ya T.J.

Fitz—Isoymrm—I think we won the bet. Love, Easy

Here's wishing you, Mani-Cow, the happiest birthday of your life. From the hostesses of the Starlight Lounge. Here's to another - 20 years!

Michelin Thank you ever so much for the card and the beautiful box I really appreciated it Love ya, Charlie

To everyone who made my 18th Birthday the best I've ever had—thanks to much and lots of love—Marty To the Cute Dizzy Kid—I'm dizzier!! Thanks for a great Birthday - I'm glad it was me instead of—

Springsteen, would like to trade 4 Hartford tickets for 4 Providence or Boston tickets call 256-6272 after 6

Happy Birthday Eileen from LDOR

Eileen Happy 19th Birthday make it a good one! We love you Lisa Jill Ellen Marty & Sue Dearest Dawn, due to the incompetence of certain University employees this birthday wish is belated, but still with the same wishes for the happiest of times. Love, Glenn, Andy and Scott

RIDE WANTED

To Buffalo NY or thereabouts share expenses Peter 545-0850

Ride wanted to Albany Friday 11-14 will share $ call Deb at 549-1683 after 5:00

Two persons looking to obtain ride to UMaine, Orono Nov 21 call 549-5193

ROOM WANTED

2-4 bedroom house or apt for Spring sem call eve 568-8847

Male senior seeks own room in Puffton or apartment near town for Spring semester will move in December 1st to February 1st. Call 253-8097 eves Peter

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Sarcastic Simpleton for OWN ROOM puffton, $122/mo. 549-1879

1 bdrm in 3 bdrm apt w/2 males No Amherst, bus route 549-5663 5-6 PM

1 or 2 roommates to share room in Squire Village apt female, non-smoker, quiet. Barb 665-2814

SALLY AND DIANE

You're two very special friends, Let's stay that way. "waddaya meannn?"

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing: Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Jewish students starting a "Bayit" to explore ways of Jewish living for Spring Semester. Please call Hillel 9-5 M-F 545-2526

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

Apt for Spring Jan-Aug bus, AC, pool 255 + 665-4254

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Tutor needed immediately Public Health Statistics 540 call after 8 PM 253-7665

Wanted used French Horn good condition call 549-6784 or 546-4890 after 9:00 pm

WANTED TO RENT

Apartment wanted for Spring 2 or 3 bdrm on bus rt call 6-6083 or 6-6141 we offer bribes

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

One bedroom available immediately in 2 bedroom apt. $125 month 549-2877

Wanted: 3 bedroom apartment/house in Amherst on bus route January 1 call 6-6035 or 6-5894

Apt needed Jan 1 2 bedrooms Amherst only eves 253-5673

TOP PRIORITY #9

FOOTBALL BRUNCH
Nov. 15 & 22; 10:30-1:00 PM
ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Free Bloody Mary
or Screwdriver
$5.95 per person

Top of the Campus Restaurant
For Reservations call - 549-6000 X635

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon-Thurs 11-9
Fri-Sat 11-1am
Sun 11-9

PARTY
— Alpha Delta Phi —
LIVE BAND
"PRANX"
Free Pizza No Cover
TODAY AT 4:00 PM, LOCATED
AT FRAT-SOR PARK ON O/H BUS ROUTE
COME EARLY — NO CANS OR BOTTLES PLEASE

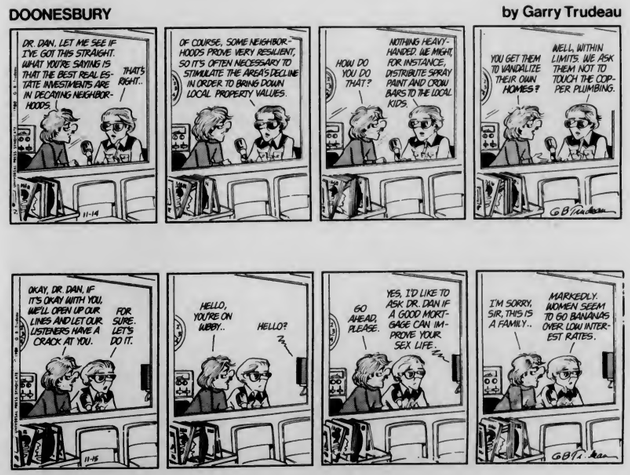
Under the Influence — M. Joyce

I'M GONNA SMASH YOUR FACE, CREEP!
IN A MOMENT OF SHEER PANIC, FINN GRABS AT ANYTHING!
HE SUCCEEDS IN PULLING THE ALLIGATOR OF THE BULLY'S SHIRT!
EVERY ACHILLES HAS HIS HEEL!
HEY! MY ALLIGATOR! OH NO!! MY MOTHER GAVE ME THIS SHIRT!! ITS RUINED!! SNIF! I CAN'T GO AROUND LIKE THIS!! SNIF SNIF!

Abnormal Psychology — J. Demskey

I CAN'T BELIEVE YOU THINK YOU'RE AN APOSTLE, CHET! THAT'S GOING WAY OVERBOARD!
YES, I HAVE TO AGREE WITH HER, CHET.
BUT I'M NOT JUST AN ORDINARY FAN, YOU KNOW..
WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE
YEAH CHET! C'MON, WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE NOW?
WELL, AT A CONCERT ONCE, I CAUGHT A GUITAR PICK THAT THREW OUT INTO THE AUDIENCE.
I DIDN'T.
LOTS OF PEOPLE HAVE PICKS TOO! IS THROWN OUT CHET!!
BUT A RELIC IS A RELIC.
YOU'RE WORSE THAN SOME DEAD HEAD, I KNOW!
SHE SHOULD KNOW, THIS IS UMASS.

DOONESBURY — by Garry Trudeau



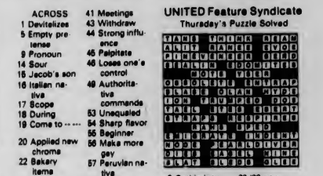
DR. DAN, LET ME SEE IF I'VE GOT THIS STRAIGHT. WHAT YOU'RE SAYING IS THAT THE BEST REAL ESTATE INVESTMENTS ARE IN DECAYING NEIGHBORHOODS
THAT'S RIGHT...
OF COURSE, SOME NEIGHBORHOODS PROVE VERY RESILIENT, SO IT'S OFTEN NECESSARY TO STIMULATE THE AREA'S DECLINE IN ORDER TO BRING DOWN LOCAL PROPERTY VALUES.
HOW DO YOU DO THAT?
NOTHING HEAVY-HANDED WE MIGHT, FOR INSTANCE, DISTRIBUTE SPRAY PAINT AND CROW BARS TO THE LOCAL KIDS.
YOU GET THEM TO VANDALIZE THEIR OWN HOMES?
WELL, WITHIN LIMITS. WE ASK THEM NOT TO TOUCH THE COPPER PLUMBING.
OKAY, DR. DAN, IF IT'S OKAY WITH YOU, WE'LL OPEN UP OUR LINES AND LET OUR LISTENERS HAVE A CRACK AT YOU.
FOR SURE. LET'S DO IT.
HELLO, YOU'RE ON, WEBBY..
HELLO?
GO AHEAD, PLEASE.
YES, I'D LIKE TO ASK DR. DAN IF A GOOD MORTGAGE CAN IMPROVE YOUR SEX LIFE...
I'M SORRY, SIR, THIS IS A FAMILY..
MARKEDLY. WOMEN SEEM TO GO BANANAS OVER LOW INTEREST RATES.

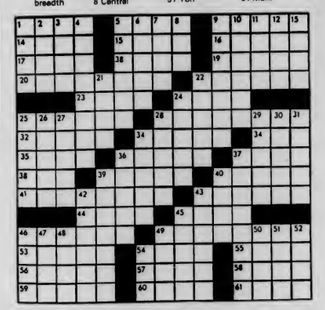
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Devitalizes
5 Empty pretense
9 Pronoun
14 Sour
15 Jacob's son
16 Italian native
17 Scope
18 During
19 Come to ——
20 Applied new chroma
22 Bakery items
23 Small bird
24 Genus of trees
25 Alarmed
28 Least crowded
32 California's Santa ——
33 Not real: informal
34 Hurrah
36 N.T. book
38 Open area
37 Peace symbol
38 Cockney's "present"
39 Robson or Reinier
40 Of more breadth
41 Meetings
43 Withdraw
44 Strong influence
46 Palpitate
48 Loses one's control
49 Authoritative commends
53 Unequaled
54 Sharp flavor
55 Beginner
56 Make more gay
57 Peruvian native
58 Gripe!
60 Landlord's contract
60 NWT's Great —— Lake
61 Assumed function

DOWN
1 Marquee name
2 European river
3 Secondary school: informal
4 Strong
5 Scheduled
6 Virile males
7 Dedicated
8 Central
9 Gothic lacy openwork
10 Bridge holdings
11 Portend
12 Reasonable
13 Terminates
21 Cantata solo
22 Barely enough
24 On the left
26 Peeks
28 Expand outward
27 Appraises
28 Eludes
29 Destroy slowly
30 Accumulated money
31 Yon
33 100 new pence
36 Puts on ice
37 Tito or Franco
39 Of a geological period
40 Go: Archaic
42 Glistens
43 Conservationist
45 Asian mammal
46 Bier cover
47 Tell ——: Fib
48 New ster
49 Animal hair
50 Printing error
51 Epochal
52 Fish
54 Mark

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved





D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Torpedo Grinder
Tuna Noodle Casserole

BASICS LUNCH
Flat Bread Sandwich
Tuna Noodle Casserole

DINNER
Roast Turkey/Dressing,
Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Baked Cod with Lemon Slice

BASICS DINNER
Potato Pea Delight
Roast Turkey/Dressing
Gravy, Cranberry Sauce

Gallo chablis, burgundy
4 liter. $7.50

Miller. . . . . N.R.'s $7.99
Labatts any flavor. . . . . $3.10 six
Tuborg Lite/Dark. . . . . $2.10 six

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

PIZZARAMA
355 College St.

M-Th 11-1:30 AM
F-Sun 11:2:30 AM
FREE DELIVERY
253-3808
256-0115

* Driver wanted - must work weekends/have own car! *

Public-Art Competition

wall-sculpture for SU Gallery exterior
 mural for Commonwealth Room **

Materials' costs and a stipend provided winners.
Details available in CC 817.

Entries due in mid-Dec.
Coordinated by Board of Governors.
Sponsored by UMass Arts Council and CC Administration

Open to any UMass/Amherst student

ROOM CHOOSING
Spring 1980

Monday November 17	Students remaining in the same room - sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator.
Tuesday November 18	Students changing rooms within the same dorm - sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator/Residence Hall Manager.
Wednesday November 19 through Wednesday November 26	Students moving to another dorm and all others: a. Pick up Housing Preference Form from any Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator or Housing Assignment Office. b. Fill out Form indicating dormitory/area preferences. c. Return completed form to the Area Management Coordinators Offices located in Leach (Ne/Syl), Baker (CE,OH), JFK Lobby (SW) or the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore. d. You must turn in your form no later than 5:00 pm Wednesday November 26, 1980. Late forms will not be processed.
Friday December 19	Students will receive written Confirmation of their dormitory assignment for Spring Semester.

The rusty nail Inn

Tonight NIGHT BEAR with special guests
TANGRAM
(Rock n' Roll)

Rt 47 Sunderland MA 665-4937

Saturday, Nov. 15
JONATHAN EDWARDS
special guests
Jeanne French

KEGS—
BEER—
WINE—LIQUORS

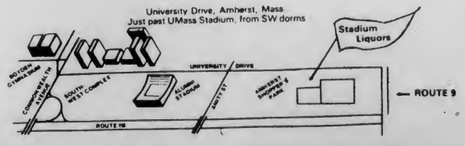
STADIUM
U. Mass.
Amherst
Catch Our Weekly Specials

LIQUORS
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Miller & Miller Lite
7.99 case 2.25 six bot & can
Lowenbrau 9.50 case 2.50 six bot
Molson (Golden) 9.90 case 2.75 six bot
Labatts (beer or ale) 9.90 case 2.75 six bot
Moosehead 11.50 case 3.00 six bot
Pabst 12 oz. bot 6.90 case 1.75 six
Cossack Vodka 1.75 litre 7.99

Blue Nun 750 mil liters 3.49
Castillo Rum 1.75 litre 9.39
Giacobazzi Lambrusco 750 mil litre 2.39
Inglenook 1.5 liters 3.29
Breckenridge Wine 4 litre 4.95

-Save gas-
Save money-



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies
-Save time

Sports notices

HOCKEY GOALIE NEEDED The General Physical Education Program Ice Hockey class needs a goalie. Anyone interested please call the office at 545-2338 or drop by Boyden 224 as soon as possible. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday at 8 a.m. at Orr Rink.

Men's and women's THREE-ON-THREE BASKETBALL entries are due Monday, Nov. 24th. Pick up information sheet and intramural rules in the IM office at 215 Boyden. The tournament starts Monday, Dec. 1st.

The FORFEIT FEE CHECKS for intramural touch football are ready to be picked up in the IM office. Please have your receipt with you.

HANG GLIDING CLUB MEETING Wednesday Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 903. All new members welcome. Club Christmas party to be discussed.

NEW OFFERING FOR SPRING - RHETORIC-110J (WRITING ABOUT SPORTS) - WRITING ABOUT SPORTS will be offered for the first time this Spring. It will combine an inquiry into emerging issues in American sports with extensive practice and instruction in expository writing techniques. Register today and you'll spend next semester talking and writing about the most provocative issues in American sports. (See p. 57 of the Official Schedule of Courses for scheduling information.) FOR ADDITIONAL INFO. CONTACT Rob Denson 584-1798

CORRECTION

It was reported in Wednesday's Collegian that the UMass women's volleyball team would be playing this weekend in the Eastern Regional Championships. That tournament, to be held at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven, is scheduled for next weekend, Nov. 20-22. The Minutewomen are seeded fifth in the eight-team meeting.

Skelton, Moore win IM tourney

The co-rec team of Liz Skelton and Theo Moore hit 45 of 50 foul shots to take the intramural foul shooting championship. Ken Lippman took first place in the men's division and Elizabeth Sullivan won the women's in the tourney held Wednesday at Boyden.

"They were amazing," tournament director Brian Katten said of Skelton and Moore. "When they got onto the court, they didn't know how many they needed to shoot to win...they said they didn't want to know. Theo needed to hit 23 of 25 to tie and he shot 24," he said.

Skelton and Moore defeated the team of Paul Garofoli and Sharon Brown who hit 43 of 50 to take second place.

Garofoli was also in the men's division playoffs and came in second to Lippman who shot a perfect 25 for 25 in a shoot-off round. The shoot-off was held after the two tied at 23.

Sullivan canned 23 of 25 in the championship round after hitting 24 of 25 in the qualifying round. Betsy Gottlieb took second with 20 of 25 in the championship round.

Journalistic Studies Majors
Find out why Collegian staffers have a higher employment rate after graduation.
Monday
Campus Center 903 7 p.m. Coffee & donuts.

LESBIAN/ GAY DISCO !!!

SAT. NOV 15th
9pm - 2 am
IN THE CAMPUS CENTER AUD.
ADMISSION: $2.00

EVERYONE IS WELCOME

"WHEN MY FRIENDS COME TO AMERICA I TELL THEM: AMIGOS, DRINK LITE BEER... BUT DON'T DRINK THE WATER."

Carlos Palomino

LITE BEER FROM MILLER.
EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

©1980 Beer Brewed by Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Sports

Wildcats on prowl at Alumni Stadium

By STEPHEN FREKER
Collegian Staff

If the Yankee Conference had a team"Comeback of the year" trophy to give out at its post-season awards dinner, this year's winner would have to be the University of New Hampshire Wildcats, hands down.

After getting off to a slow start, dropping its first three games, including losses to Connecticut and Boston University, UNH has run up a string of six straight victories. They'll try to keep their unbeaten streak alive tomorrow when they face the University of Massachusetts at Alumni Stadium in the Minutemen's final league contest of the year.

"New Hampshire has come along very quickly this year," UMass coach Bob Pickett said. "They run the ball real well and they could've beaten UConn . . . they're that good."

very well be the decisive factor in this matchup between the 6-3 Wildcats and the Minutemen who now stand at 6-2 overall after last week's close win over Holy Cross.

Both teams possess a "big-game" tailback who can break a game open and each has an offensive line quite capable of clearing paths for these runners. Jim Quinn of UNH is one of the few Yankee Conference backs besides Maine's Lorenzo Bouier, who's in a class by himself, who is able to match statistics with UMass' Garry Pearson. The 6'1" 215 lb. Quinn has rushed for 879 yards in eight games for New Hampshire this season. Pearson needs only 260 yards to eclipse Dennis Dent's 1978 single season rushing record of 1,139 yards. Not back for a couple of sophomores.

The Minutemen can sympathize with the situation the Wildcats find themselves in this week. UNH junior quarterback Denis Stevens was lost in last week's 26-6 win over Lafayette with a shoulder injury and freshman Rick LeClerc of Agawam has been slotted to call signals tomorrow. UMass faced a similar scenario two weeks ago when Tim Fontaine was injured and sophomore Dean Pecevich had to take over. Minutemen fans are hoping that New Hampshire won't meet with the same degree of success in their quarterback switch as Pecevich has been simply outstanding in recent wins over UConn and Holy Cross.

The UMass defense, which last week was ranked number one nationally in total defense and second against the pass in Division I-AA, will be tested Saturday against a Wildcat offense which includes some of the largest players they will face all season. New Hampshire's interior line averages 250 lbs per man and the Minutemen will have to rely on their mainstay, team quickness, if they are to stop the potent UNH offensive attack which has scored 158 points in its last six games.

"They're as big as any team we've played," Pickett said. "This is their last game of the season and New Hampshire's always been tough."

Mass tailback Garry Pearson, runs for daylight in last Saturday's win over Holy Cross. Pearson and the Minutemen will be facing the University of New Hampshire tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Alumni Stadium. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

Gym alumni try it one more time

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

Old gymnasts never die . . . they just can't remount in 30 seconds, at least that is what 25 alumni gymnasts are going to try to prove tomorrow night when they compete against the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastic team.

Among the returning alumni will be Jay Thompson, an Eastern vaulting finalist, and Bill Broullet, a top all-arounder who is a favorite for the all-around Saturday.

The alumni have won four out of the seven previous alumni meets but head coach Roy Johnson favors the present team to win this year.

UMass will open its regular season November 21 at 8p.m. hosting Army, its toughest competitors of the semester.

UMass has not beaten Army since 1974 but Johnson said, "This year's team is much more talented than the team we had when we beat Army in '74. It all depends on how conscientious the team's practices are this week.

Captain Tommy Thompson will not be competing because of a broken hand suffered earlier this semester.

Johnson feels that the team's workouts are "a little behind this semester," but he is "looking forward to a good season."

Saturday's alumni meet will be held at 7p.m. in Boyden Auxiliary Gymnasium.

Lou Miami

Lou Miami got off probation a couple of weeks ago, so he came up to Amherst to have a good time.

"I was walking down Broadway (South Boston) this morning," Lou Miami said the night after the University of Massachusetts football team had beaten Connecticut 39-21. "These girls pulled up in a car and asked if I wanted to go up to UMass. I didn't have anything else to do so I said, 'sure, I'll go up.' So I got in and came up. Jesus, I don't have anything else to do."

Lou Miami is not Lou Miami's real name.

"I was in Florida a couple of years ago and these girls I know saw me walking down the street in Miami, so now they call me Lou Miami."

Kevin Cullen

Lou Miami's real name is Dave, but everyone calls him Lou Miami, and he doesn't care.

Lou Miami was born on East Second Street in South Boston, down by the Edison plant. He still lives in Southie, on 8th St., and he knows what's going on.

Lou Miami knows.

"Hey, everybody calls down Southie," Lou Miami was saying, watching the college football highlights after the Georgia game. "And the thing is, all the people who raise hell about Southie don't know shit about Southie. Hey, don't get me wrong. I know what goes on. There's alot wrong with Southie, but there's a lot right about it, too. But you don't read about that in the papers."

Lou Miami was in the papers. Two years ago Lou Miami was a celebrity. He shrugs when someone mentions it. He shrugs about a lot of things. But Lou Miami was a celebrity.

A couple of years ago, four men were arrested in connection with a $40,000 heist from the First National Bank of Boston on Morrisey Blvd. The money involved was change from parking meters in the city of Boston turned over by municipal officials to the bank for counting.

Lou Miami stole $14,000 in quarters.

"Heavy?" Lou Miami asks. "Sure it was heavy. But I did it over a period of a couple of weeks. I made a couple of trips a few days, but usually I'd leave with my pockets pretty well loaded down."

Lou Miami went to jail, and laughs about it.

"Hey, look at it this way," he says. "I spent six months in Barnstable (House of Correction), got a six-month suspended sentence and I was on probation for two years. And I just kept the money. Are you telling me that's not worth it?"

The way Lou Miami looks at it, he made $14,000 for sitting on his butt for six months.

"I just sat around and figured out ways to spend the money," he says.

Although, there was never any real debate as to where the loot would go.

Lou Miami likes to gamble on football.

"I spent most of it on the pros," he says. "I don't bet on the colleges that much. I bet on UMass once. I lost, though. They won, but I missed the spread."

In one season, it was gone. All of it. Lou Miami blew the loot on football games.

"I don't know," he says. "You'd be surprised how fast $14,000 goes. Especially when you start betting big."

Lou Miami was betting big.

"You see this? This is what I mean," Lou Miami was saying as a very drunk young lady was busy making a fool out of herself at a Swiss Village Party. "This girl here. You see how stupid she's acting? She's been telling everybody all night that she's from Southie—and she's not. She's from Watertown. That's what kills me. People will see her and say 'Jesus, I saw some stiff from Southie last night.' Everybody wants to say they're from Southie. That kills me."

Lou Miami said he was going home the next morning.

"What do you do?" someone asked.

"I work for Sunbeam," Lou Miami said, "I'm a loafer."

Tom Quin, a kid from Malden, was up for the weekend and someone mentioned that his father was the physical education director at the Billerica House of Correction, and Lou Miami took notice.

"Really?" he said to Quin. "Hey, I know a few kids in Billerica. If you get up there to see your father, will you say hello to a few buddies of mine?"

Tom Quin tried to remember all the names as they were recited then asked if he should say 'Lou said hello.'

"Oh, no," Lou Miami said. "They wouldn't know me by that name."

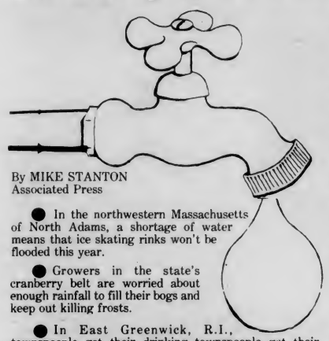
Lou Miami grabbed his chin and thought for a second.

"Tell them Quarters said hello," Lou Miami told Tom Quin. "Just say Quarters was around."

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue ⅔ 53 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Monday, November 17, 1980

Area faucets trickle

University crisis coincides with trend



By MIKE STANTON
Associated Press

● In the northwestern Massachusetts of North Adams, a shortage of water means that ice skating rinks won't be flooded this year.

● Growers in the state's cranberry belt are worried about enough rainfall to fill their bogs and keep out killing frosts.

● In East Greenwick, R.I., townspeople get their drinking townspeople get their drinking water out of a fire hydrant next to the Frenchtown Baptist Church.

●And students at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst still joke about the town water shortage which shut down the campus at the start of the academic year.

Residents in many New England towns are feeling the effects of the worst drought to hit the region since 1965.

"For the first time in my memory, I didn't have to wear my rainsuit, and I've been farming since 1941," says Frank Clegg, a Seekonk, farmer.

The U.S. Geological Survey reports extremely low water supplies in eastern Massachusetts, northwestern Vermont and most of Rhode Island. Rainfall this year is down seven inches in eastern Massachusetts, five inches in central Massachusetts and anywhere from one to four inches in the rest of the region, according to Weather Service figures.

Things are brighter across the region's norther tier - climatologists say Maine, New Hampshire and much of Vermont have not suffered as much.

But where it's dry, it's plenty dry.

Water restrictions are in effect in about one-quarter of the communities in Massachusetts and Rhode Island as levels in resevoirs and groundwater wells dip to their lowest level in years.

In communities like Lenox, a town nestled in the Berkshire Hills, residents have to boil their water because regular supplies are inadequate and emergency water is pumped from lakes where the water is untreated.

A sign in a Lenox hotel orders guest not to drink water. Patrons in a nearby bar are told they can have a scotch - but not scotch and water.

A wet October helped in places. South of Boston, the system supplying Braintree, Holbrook and Randolph had dipped to a 30-day reserve at the end of September. Now it's up to 2½ months.

Byt beyond ups and downs in precipitation is an underlying lack of long-range water planning coupled with population growth in areas without enough water, officials say.

"Water problems in a lot of towns were just exacerbated by a lack of rain," observes Paul Godfrey, head of the Water Resources Research Center at the Amherst campus of the University of Massachusetts.

The Amherst water shortage in September left the tower in Hills reservoir high and dry. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

"As their populations grew, most towns didn't seek out additional water supplies. Now when communities plan their economic development, they have to take into account the available water."

The UMass campus itself became a dramatic example of the problem in early September, when nearly 19,000 students were sent home for three days because the water ran out.

"That problem was coming at us for 15 years," Godfrey said. "The University kept expanding, but nobody did anything about getting more water."

Professionals describe international jobs

By CARINE RAVOSA
Collegian Correspondent

A solid collegiate background, work experience, and a keen working knowledge of a foreign language are the key to obtaining an international career.

Those were the word of 10 professionals from varied fields of international careers before a filled auditorium at Smith College on Saturday.

The Five College International Career Conference was the second of its type to be held and was organized by the Five College Committee on International Programs. The program was designed to make information available about pursuing international careers, conference organizers said.

Director General of the Foreign Service and Director of Personnel for the Department of State Harry G. Barnes said the Congress first placed importance in the foreign service in 1924 by making the department more representative through its admittance of blacks and women.

Barnes, an Amherst College graduate, said the basic structure was set down in the Act of 1926, and last month the New Foreign Service Act assured the foreign service of being fully representative.

Barnes, a former Ambassador to Romania, said the foreign service is made up of five departments including the Department of State and the Department of Commerce. There are about 15,000 persons in the foreign service in varied positions, such as engineers, analysts and counsels.

"The Foreign Service is looking for intellectuals, those who can find a way to society, and understand society," Barnes said. "We need those who are sensitive to the environment and those who have a grasp of language and can express themselves and accept the values of another society."

He said that diplomacy consists of knowing what to say and when and how to say it.

"If you like being in the heat, the interpreters role is very important," he said.

Assistant Dean and Director of Placement Services of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy Mary Van Bibber Harris compared the Fletcher school with six other similar schools in the United States. She said they all differ greatly, and the student must note the diffferences to make the right choice.

She said, "when you look at a School of International Affairs, you must see what is available and specifically in the year you enter, and you should look at the duration of the program."

"A two year masters program is standard," said Harris.

In addition, Harris said: "Ask about other institutions in the area and inquire about surrounding libraries, in which you will do your research." She also stated that one should ask about the nature of the student body.

Harris said the students entering Fletcher have varied undergraduate majors, and emphasized that students wishing to go into fields of international careers should have a strong background in languages and overseas study.

"A student must make an assessment of where they're coming from," she said, "and their ambitions and how this school will help them achieve their goals."

She also stressed the importance of timing.

Many students begin graduate school immediately after graduation from an undergraduate institution but for some, it is wise to wait and build a background in organization, management or journalism, and gain experience through opportunities such as the Peace Corps, she said.

Robert J. Kuhne, Director of the Master in International Business program at the University of South Carolina emphasized the importance of the study of languages, using examples of misinterpretation of foreign languages by several corporations.

Kuhne, a recipient of a Master's in business and doctorate degrees from the University of Georgia, said the international trademarket is looking for rounded candidates. "Now the MBA is not enough, one must be knowledgeable in business, but also in language and culture. There is nothing worse than a fluent fool," said Kuhne.

He then described the Master's program in Interna-

turn to page 19

See related story on page 3.

Against the Setting Sun

Renee Bott, an art major, takes time out to play her recorder. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

World and national news

President-elect Ronald Reagan meets with members of his economic advisory council Sunday in Los Angeles. The advisors began meeting Friday to hammer out a comprehensive long terms strategy. Seated at Reagan's right is George Schultz.
(AP Laserphoto)

Congress to clamp down

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — House and Senate consideration of a ceiling on federal spending is high on the agenda for the first full week of Congress' lame-duck session, but the spotlight will go to President-elect Ronald Reagan.

Reagan, seeking to establish good relations with Congress quickly, will be on Capitol Hill for meetings tomorrow and Wednesday.

The president-elect may also be bringing some ideas on ways to cut the federal budget, a topic discussed this past weekend by a group of Reagan economic advisers meeting in Los Angeles.

Cutting federal spending also will be the subject when the House and Senate debate resolutions for a binding federal budget ceiling. Consideration in both chambers is scheduled for tomorrow.

The House Budget Committee approved a binding budget resolution last week calling for $631.7 billion in outlays for fiscal 1981 - which began Oct.1 - and a $25 billion deficit.

In order to achieve that, the House Budget Committee staff calculated that the incoming Reagan administration would have to cut about $17 billion from the federal budget.

Republicans accused Democrats on the House committee of playing politics with the budget issue by mandating budget cuts before Reagan even takes office. But Democrats said they were giving the incoming president a chance to make good on his campaign pledge to cut government spending.

Before the election, the Senate Budget Committee drew up a binding budget calling form spending $35 billion, but it does not mandate the cuts called for in the House resolution.

Also due for consideration is an extension of the federal revenue sharing program, considered vital by local governments.

Reagan team mulls economic strategies

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — President-elect Ronald Reagan met yesterday with a blue-ribbon panel of Republican economists to receive a detailed plan intended to turn his campaign promises of tax and spending cuts into reality.

The 14 economic advisers, led by former Treasury Secretary George Schultz, have been meeting there since Friday to hammer out what Schultz described as "a comprehensive long-term strategy" to coordinate tax, energy, regulatory and monetary policies for the new administration.

Schultz and other members of the Reagan economic team, which includes three former directors of the federal Office of Management and Budget, refused to discuss details of the report before they presented it to Reagan.

But Schultz said it contains no surprises in policy. Rather than proposing new economic measures, he said, the plan is intended as a strategy for fulfilling Reagan's campaign promises to cut federal spending by 2 percent annually and to cut federal income taxes across the board by 10 percent for three consecutive years.

Schultz confirmed that the report does not back away from Reagan's endorsement of the Kemp-Roth tax bill, the controversial series of 10 percent income tax cuts which critics say will worsen inflation rather than help cure it.

"It's a necessity. The president-elect made it a centerpiece of his campaign and economic policy. I think everyone here agrees with it," Schultz said of the Kemp-Roth bill.

"There is much too heavy a tax burden on the economy. If we lighten it, there will be more investment, more real growth, a stronger, expanding economy without inflation," he added in an interview after the panel's nine-hour session Saturday.

Schultz conceded that in the committee's meetings, which ran longer than originally scheduled, there were some disagreements. But Schultz said the proposals that emerged are supported by the entire group.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., the only member of Congress on the Reagan economic panel, said the report is a plan that will bring about a long-term reduction in interest rates. But he added there is no way the national can have immediate full employment without inflation.

Digest

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Over 75 homes were destroyed here yesterday as a brush fire, aided by 85 m.p.h. winds swept through the area. One man died of a heart attack while fleeing the area. Above, an unidentified resident tries in vain to save his home early yesterday morning. (AP Laserphoto)

Wood chips to fuel N.E.

MONTPELIER, Vt. — A Massachusetts plant that would turn wood chips into methanol plans to draw its wood supply from Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

Evergreen Corp. has applied to the Department of Energy for a $1.5 million feasibility study that would take a year to complete.

Methanol can be used to boost the octane of gasoline.

William Stevenson, president of Evergreen, says the plant which would be located in Methuen would require about 1,400 cords of wood or 3,500 tons of green chips daily.

Stevenson said 1,400 cords end to end would stretch for two miles. But he said that is not an extraordinarily large amount. "All kinds of pulp mills use more than that...1,400 cords in your backyard is a lot. On an industrial basis it isn't," he said.

Stevenson said he expects to hear in December about the financing for the feasibility study.

Stevenson said the fuel would be brought to the plant by rail and truck, but he could not say how much wood would be harvested in each state.

Toxic wastes to be regulated

WASHINGTON — Two weeks after the country elected a president pledged to "get government off the backs of the American people," the government is ready to begin enforcing what may be the most complicated set of regulations ever devised.

The 2,000 pages of rules took four years to draft, generated 100,000 pages of negative comments and will impose an annual compliance burden on industry of $1 billion and 5.2 million hours of labor.

No one expects President elect Ronald Reagan to push for their elimination; they regulate what many believe to be the most serious environmental problem of the 1980s - hazardous chemical wastes.

For the first time since the chemical revolution began after World War II, the government will know who is generating the wastes, who is transporting them and how they are being disposed of.

Govt. sues toxic waste dump

KINGSTON, N.H. — An investigation which showed that if a fire were started in the 4,200 drums of toxic waste at the Kingston dump, hundreds of lives in southeastern New Hampshire would be endangered, has prompted the Federal government to demand an immediate cleanup.

In affidavits filed Friday in U.S. District Court by the U.S. Attorney's office, experts painted a stark picture of danger that would be produced by a fire at the site.

"The prevailing winds would...carry fumes toward the populations of East Kingston, Newton and Plaistow," said William Bartlett, Kingston's fire chief. "Our principal concern would be to notify and evacuate the people in these areas."

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

RESUME

NAME: Paper House
ADDRESS: 65 University Drive, Amherst (next to Bell's Pizza)
PHONE: 549-5656
OBJECTIVE: We will print the best resume for you on the best paper (w/matching paper and envelopes.)
EXPERIENCE: We produce hundreds of high quelity resumes thet get jobs.
OTHER INTERESTS: Typing, grephics, copies (1 to 10,000 or more) of newsletters, posters, etc., notebooks, chertpek, and e tremendous peper selection.

AFSCME
Local 1776 AFL-CIO
Chapter Meetings/
Bargaining Update
Wednesday, Nov 19, 1980
Service Maintenance & Farm
4 PM P. Plant Basement
Food Service
7:30 PM Blue Room Worc. D.C.
Security 3 pm Dickinson
Please Attend

FOOTBALL
ON THE BIG SCREEN
SPECIALS
AT THE HATCH BAR
Starts at 9:00 pm
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

Calif. students mount anti-Reagan tactics

Conservative USC an exception

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

LOS ANGELES—At the University of Southern California, a surprising mood prevails among students.

"It has been very pro-Reagan this year," says Colette Benton, chair-woman of the Student Senate."This campus is very conservative and there is a lot of pro-Reagan activity going on."

As it happens, this feeling is atypical of most students, based on interviews with student leaders at major universities across the state. Gov. Ronald Reagan is not remembered by many here as a friend of college students or education.

He was viewed by students as a symbol of the dreaded Establishment, a powerful force opposed to the ideas and ideals of their generation.

In California, the vanguard of student protest and activism during the 1960's and 70's, student leaders are wary of president elect Reagan.

In 1969, one person died after then governor Reagan sent National Guard Troops to the Berkeley campus of the University of California to keep order when students rioted after the administration attempted to take control of a part of campus claimed as a "people's park."

Reagan attempted, unsuccessfully, to institute the first tuition charges for the state college and university system. He denounced as "stupid" student criticism of possible conflict of interest on the state Board of Regents. He vowed to use whatever force necessary to quell student unrest on campuses across the state. He fought higher budget requests for the state's higher education system. Some of his educational appointments have been characterized as "atrocious." And more.

With Reagan now headed for the White House, the student leaders in California are looking back to the time of Berkeley, contemplating how a Reagan Presidency will bode for education and the civil and social rights gains made since that period.

Many students fear Reagan's election and the tide of conservatism that is rolling across the country. A minority of others say the new administration, however conservative, will provide needed change from the paralysis of the Carter administration.

Berkeley: The liberals

Berkeley remains a liberal—even radical— institution today. An anti-Reagan rally was held the day after he was elected, and some 2,000 students turned out on a campus slightly larger than UMass. Student leaders estimate students voted six to one against Reagan, most preferring Independent John Anderson.

"His policy embodies everthing that's wrong with the system." said Glen Rosselli, assistant president of Associated Students, the student governing body, in an interview.

"Third World, draft, energy, business, you can't find anything generally agreeable.

"The place has heated up dramatically," he said.

"The particular groups involved with single issues have become particularly active and vocal, and when Reagan was elected, that touched it off.

"It's not just Reagan; it's the conservative mentality in general." he said.

A "Reagan for Shah" committee has been organized on campus, whose slogans include "Oil's worth fighting for" and "More Nukes!" Student leaders are also attempting to organize two national days of protest of Thursday and Friday against the Reagan victory.

It is Reagan's acts as governor which frighten students today, says Fred Gaines, student body president at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"We're afraid we'll see cut backs, if not elimination, of the (federal) Department of Education, he said in an interview. "And with the Senate in Republican hands, there may be cut backs in financial aid."

UCLA: Supported Anderson

At UCLA, too, many students apparently voted for Anderson. Progress Anderson made in legitimizing a third party effort will be the largest accomplishment to come out of the election, Gaines said.

But even if students were generally against reagan, Gaines said, that doesn't mean they supported President Carter. "Carter tried to stress this war versus peace thing (in the campaign Against Reagan)," he said.

"It's hard to sell that to students after putting a draft registration. It's just not going to fly with students."

Stanford: They're waiting

A wait and see attitude is the feeling of many students at Stanford University in Northern California, according to Dana Goldfine, a member of the Student Body Counsel of presidents.

"I feel like it's really too early to judge," Goldfine said in an interview.

"Obviously, we're all concerned, of how he's going to treat affirmative action and how he'll deal with Foreign Policy."

"At least with Reagan you've got the possibility that good things will happen." she said.

Even in Reagan country at USC, many students are concerned, Benton said, but many still "feel his conservatism is well needed. I think they see that as a possible good change from the Carter administration."

Kim Edwards, a USC student who worked for Reagan, staged a Reagan rally a week before the election and said that she was overwhelmed by the reaction.

"I've never seen so many excited students," she said.

Bright people wanted by the Foreign Service

By MARI WISEMAN
Special to the Collegian

It's not just a person's academic qualifications that could lead to a career in Foreign Service, but the personal qualities of motivation, sensitivity and a deep belief in the potential world-wide impact of your work, said several panelists at an international careers conference Saturday at Smith College.

"If you asked me if I loved my work, I would say 'no.' It is extremely frustrating and difficult. But if you asked me whether I was satisfied by my work, I would answer 'yes,' for I am doing something in which I profoundly believe. The U.N. (United Nations) is a sometimes feeble instrument to reverse military madness," said Sally Swing Shelley, chief of the non-governmental section of the U.N.'s public information department.

Shelley was one of 10 panelists at the second Five-College international careers conference, which attracted about 600 area college students.

The conference, organized by the Five-College committee on International Programs, provided students with descriptions of careers which might take them abroad and how to pursue them.

In addition to Shelley, there were representatives from public and private business, law, journalism, philanthropic foundations, and the American Foreign Service.

Some of the panelists stressed qualities far more than test results in their frank rendering of what it takes to succeed in their fields. Joan Pinkham said it all when she told her workshop group that she liked being a bilingual secretary in the general service of the United Nations because, "I was doing something useful. I was not working for a profit-making institution," which she said was contrary to her beliefs.

Harry G. Barnes Jr. of the Foreign Service spoke of the crucial need "for interpretation between cultures."

John A. Wallace, senior vice-president of the Experiment in International Living, said he feels learning a foreign language shows a commitment to a multilingual globe. The overseas internships that his students arrange are "an attack on basic world problems" such as overpopulation, poverty and malnutrition. He said that without such services and a commitment to a better sharing of global resources, "We will blow ourselves up." As Sally Shelley quoted Churchill in reference to her many U.N. meetings, " 'It is better to jaw-jaw than war-war.' "

Barnes said the service looks for "bright people — people who can find their way into another country and make things happen." And he said they need resourceful, decisive people. After passing the Foreign Service exam, and going through a trial two-year period, "we almost guarantee you twenty years — a good, solid career."

Lawrence Pinkham said "there are no prescribed guidelines, no exam, no specific school (for journalism). The components of a journalist are "being able to deliver under a deadline," possession of a lot of stamina and energy as well as motivation, and above all, curiosity. He called journalism "a craft whose subject matter is infinite," and says "it is a very rigorous mental discipline, a synthesis of a complicated world." He told the crowded auditorium that the ranks of overseas journalists are shrinking and "one thing is for sure, you don't get to work abroad until you've worked at home."

Both Pinkham and Sally Shelley agreed that further education allowed you to skip the first one or two jobs.

Shelley said a Master's degree is minimum for applying to the professional level of the U.N., and that a Ph.D is even better." She did not recommend applying to the general service level of the U.N. for a professional career. She said upward mobility is true in the US government, or in the Foreign Service, but is a "very political climb" in the U.N.

The four panelists explained why there are 25,000 Americans teaching English as a second language in foreign countries, why jounalists make contacts with people they "wouldn't ordinarily be seen in the same room with," and why foreign service people "take a chance of being shot at," by saying that at the root of these professions there is a commitment, a belief, a "motivation to service."

Debbie Atkins has her hair styled by Nickie LaRose yesterday at the Student Union Ballroom as part of the Cut-a-thon sponsored by the Regis Hairstylists to benefit the Boltwood Project. The benefit netted $75. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile.)

Student killed on Route 9

BELCHERTOWN—A 22-year-old Leverett man was killed early yesterday morning when his car left the road and struck a tree on Route 9 here.

Raymond M. Beaulieu, 22, was in an accident Sunday morning after leaving an all-night party, a Belchertown police spokesperson said. His car hit a tree about 12 feet off the ground after it shot across route 9 when Beaulieu attempted to pass another car, the spokesperson said.

He was pronounced dead at the scene at 4:48 a.m., she said. Police said the medical examiner has not determined a cause of death.

Beaulieu, a native of Chesterfield, Mo., was a continuing education student at the University of Massachusetts Amherst Campus. He listed his permanent address with the University directory as 292 Shutesbury Hill in Leverett. He was employed at the Price Chopper in Amherst, police said. Funeral arrangements were incomplete Sunday night.

Slits take punk rock back to black roots

The Slits with the Scientific Americans
Rahar's
November 13
By STEVEN WINNIMAN
Collegian Staff

The Slits are unique among the many bands that sprang from the 1976-1977 London punk-rock scene in that have stayed together, but they haven't learned how to play their instruments. No matter, Thursday night at Rahar's the Slits proved to a capacity (and then some) crowd that they are undisputed masters of their neo-reggae sound, and musical ability be damned.

The show at Rahar's — which also featured the Scientific Americans — was an indication of the trend in new music back toward roots in black music: soul, funk, and reggae. While the screaming punksters of 1977 would never acknowledge the importance of black musical forms, current bands are warming to this great genre, and to great benefit. The Clash, the Talking Heads, Public Image, the Slits, and more, all have adopted elements of funk and reggae, which has in turn boosted a renaissance for James Brown, Lee Dorsey, Sam and Dave, et al. It's certainly an encouraging trend.

The Slits — bassist Tessa, guitarist Viv Albertine, and vocalist Arri Up — were joined onstage by several anonymous male instrumentalists to help fill out their sparse sound. Tessa is an adequate bassist (because the bass lines are so simple), but Viv utilizes the guitar primarily as a noisemaker and requires some backup. Arri, however, is a great vocalist; in these days of Lene Lovich and Debbie Harry imitators, her unique voice, whoops, screams, and squawks are refreshingly original. As a reggae band, the Slits are both innovative and exciting — two qualities which their genre too often lacks.

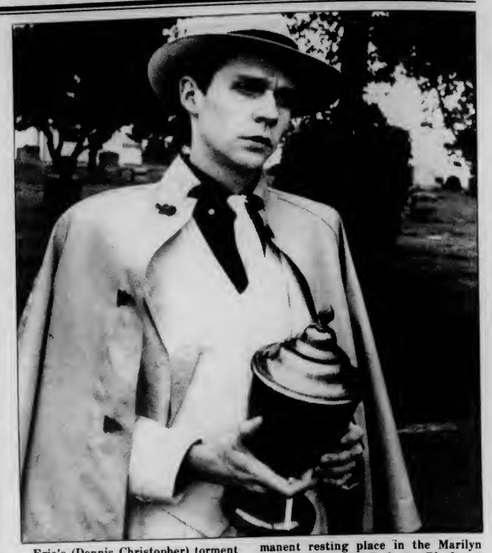
Although they did not appear familiar with many of the songs, the audience — one of the largest ever seen at Rahar's — were quite receptive to the group. On the more recognizable songs, such as "In The Beginning There Was Rhythm" and their great cover of "Heard It Through The Grapevine," as well as the more conventional new wave song "Typical Girls" the crowd showd its appreciation by pogoing enthusiastically — there was no room to dance. Although a few hard-core punks seemed let down, by and large the audience was well satisfied with what the Slits had to offer.

When the drums broke down (or something) midway through the set, the ladies were not fazed. Arri implored the audience to provide a beat by clapping, saying "We want to play with you, not to you." Once the crowd got the idea, the set proceeded. One had the feeling of participating with the Slits instead of being detached observers.

Despite frequent rumors of a breakup, the Slits made it clear that they're alive and well. Arri's imposing voice (as well as her fine set of dreadlocks), combined with the reggae sensibilities of Tessa and Viv, provide as intriguing a sound as can be found anywhere. When the Slits left after several encores, they had clearly shown the audience something.

Openers were Northampton's own indefatigable Scientific Americans. Though these boys have played Rahar's countless times, they still managed to come up with some surprises. A new song, which had something to do with going out drinking with the guys, was included, and their old standard "Eep Opp Ork" was graced by some truly distorted vocals from Luthor Maggot. In addition, one song featured a guest vocalist — never before seen — and the appearances of newest member New-Wave Dave are becoming more frequent. Some cretin's cries of "Get a drummer!" notwithstanding, the Sci-Ams' own particular brand of punk-funk provided a worthy lead-in to the Slits.

Antilles recording artists, The Slits, cut loose at Rahar's last Thursday night. (Staff photo by Peter Jepsen.)



Eric's (Dennis Christopher) torment increases as his Aunt Stelle's (Eve Brent Ashe) remains are refused a permanent resting place in the Marilyn Monroe crypt in Fade to Black, an American Cinema release.

Fade to Black: No consistency

By ROBERT B. CARGILL
Collegian Staff

Fade to Black is an intimate portrayal of a schizophrenic movie-goer who has seen too many gangster films for his own good.

Dennis Christopher (Breaking Away) is an obsessed and insecure Eric Binford, who lives with his wheelchair-confined Aunt Stella, while working in a film supply warehouse in Los Angeles. His existence is held down by his lust for the silver screen—his whole life is spent viewing movies—and this preoccupation turns "filmdom" into his very own reality. Eric's retort to a bullying co-worker, for instance, is to plug him full of holes with a six-gun while dressed like Hopalong Cassidy.

While such a plot might work for the late great Hitchcock or the more recent master of suspense, Brian DePalma, writer/director Vernon Zimmerman has steered this project haphazardly, relying too much on its feature principal and lacking consistency.

Fade To Black doesn't pull itself together. Christopher is eerie as Binford and does display an appealing versatility while posing as such classic motion picture characters as Dracula, Cody Jarrett (Cagney in White Heat), or Laurence Olivier's Prince from the Marilyne Monroe film, The Prince And The Showgirl. Unfortunately, this versatility is carried too far. When Christopher frightens his boss to death as The Mummy, Fade To Black becomes a disheartening joke.

The supporting cast of Fade To Black, with one exception, is as lean as they come, merely serving as a drawback to the authenticity of Eric Binford. Linda Kerridge though, as a ravishing Marilyn Monroe look-alike, does a terrific job at enhancing an otherwise weak setting. Kerridge's presence allows Binford one of his more intriguing fixations.

Fade To Black is not a boring film nor one lacking distinctness; it is just a disappointment. It is 100 minutes of a neurotic Dennis Christopher and a gorgeous Linda Kerridge in a story bearing untapped potential. Director Vernon Zimmerman—try again.

Fade To Black is currently showing at Hampshire 4 Theaters.

SUPPORT the National Liberation Struggle of the Congolese People!
Speaker: Serge Mukend
U.S. Representative of the Congolese National Liberation Front (FLNC)
Tues. Nov. 18 7:30 pm
Campus Center Rm 804
Donation $2.00
Co-sponsored by: 5-College Black Studies Program, Commuter Collective, Black Mass Communications Project, Hampshire College Third World Organization, Center for Racial Studies, John Brown Anti-Klan Committee, Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Committee.

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

come to Plumbley's of the common
'The 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championship!
Come enjoy great English Pub Beer at Special Low Prices!
Prizes and good English Pub fun! all proceeds to Muscular Dystrophy
Wed., Nov. 5, 12, 19
7 PM

Year after year, semester after semester,
the college plan from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular life insurance program on campuses all over America.
Find out why.
Call the Fidelity Union Life Field Associate in your area:
Fidelity UnionLife
Ronald J. Nathan Agency
20 Gatehouse Rd., Amherst, Ma. 01002
Tel. 256-8361

The New FATS WALLER Musical Show
AIN'T MISBEHAVIN'
TONY AWARD WINNER BEST MUSICAL
SPRINGFIELD SYMPHONY HALL
3 BIG SHOWS
Friday, December 5 8 PM
Saturday, December 6 2 PM & 8 PM
Evening: $15 / $13 / $11 / $9
Matinee: $13 / $11 / $9 / $7
Tickets Available via Phone Charge (413) 787-6600, All Ticketron Outlets and The Center Box Office, 1277 Main Street, Springfield, MA.
Group Sales Information, Call (413) 787-6610.
A Springfield Attractions Presentation

Hypercurricula . . .

Mon., Nov. 17

DISCUSSION-CLASS ON SOCIALISM: THE RISE OF CAPITALISM, 8pm, Campus Center 172 Discussion sponsored and led by Young Socialist Alliance (YSA)

GAY/LESBIAN/BI RAP GROUP, 6:30. Campus Center Rms. 805-809. Sponsored by the Lesbian and Gay Men's Counseling Collective.

THE POETRY OF NOBEL prize-winner Czeslaw Milosz will be read in English and Polish at 8 p.m., in room 102 of Thompson Hall at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

THE NEWMAN CENTER AT UMASS will present a lecture entitled "A Physicians Experience in a Cambodian Refugee Camp." Dr. Barry Levi from the UMass Medical School will present his impressions of Cambodia with an accompanying slide show at 7 p.m. at the Newman Center.

ALL STUDENTS INTERESTED IN LEARNING more about the humanities are invited to attend the HUMANITIES INFORMATION FAIR from 10 to noon in the Campus Center auditorium. Humanities departments will provide course information, displays, slide programs, and faculty will be available to answer questions.

HEALTHWAYS LECTURE: "Women's Health Care: Past, Present, Future," The educational facilities of Amherst Acupuncture Associates, 17 Kellogg Ave., Amherst. $3.00, $2.00 for Elders. FOR MORE INFORMATION: 253-2500.

OUTING CLUB MEETING, at 7pm in room 168 C.C. Tonight's meeting is a presentation by Casey Stengle on Logan Mt. New trips will be announced, business meeting at 6pm.

CHIROPRACTIC: MYTHS & TRUTHS at 6 WMUA 91.1 "Perspectives and the Real Issues". Two chiropractiors discuss the chiropractic alternative and how it relates to you in the valley. Listen and call in your questions at the end of the program 545-2876.

HILLEL MEETING at 5 pm in the Hillel Office, 302 Student Union.

HUNGER TASK FORCE MEETING, 4:15-5:45, in room 428 Student Union. Open to anyone interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger--people needed for November 20 FAST.

Tues., Nov. 18

FILM: Fellini's Roma, CCA, UMass 7 & 9 pm. Arts Council, Governor's Program Council, FREE!!!

PRACTICE AI KIDO, the martial art of the body and mind. All are welcome. Boyden Wrestling room. 6-7pm.

U.P.C. PRODUCTIONS, 6:30 pm, Room 163 Complex CC. General Meeting.

THE UNIVERSITY HEALTH SERVICES is offering a three hour workshop "Understanding and Coping with Stress" for students and their dependents to help people recognize and manage the stress they face in their lives. 6:30-9:30 pm, room 304 at the University Health Service Building. Pre-registration is required by contacting the Health Services office, 549-2671.

CAREER WORKSHOP. The Career/Life Development Service is offering a workshop 7-9pm in 304 Tobin Hall for those students majoring in Psychology, Human Service, Sociology, and Community Service. Information provided will cover career opportunities in the above fields, general career trends for the 1980's, useful ideas for career planning, and a description of career information and career counseling resources available to assist students in career decision making. For more information, contact the Student Development and Counseling Center. (5-0333)

UNDERGRADUATE BUSINESS CLUB MEETING - at 8pm in SBA room 1. All members please attend.

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL MEETING 6pm in the Dukes Room, 310 Student Union.

SIGN UP AT DC AT MEALTIMES to miss Thursday's evening meal for the FAST FOR A WORLD HARVEST.

Wed., Nov. 19

ALPHA ZETA MEETING MANDATORY. CC803, 7pm "The Nicest Dirt I Ever Saw" will definately be shown, Alot of important business that can only be (and has to be) accomplished when you COME! THINK CONFERENCE AND MONEY!! BAKE SALE in CC, bring stuff for the table, preferably early AM.

THE COLOR DOCUMENTARY "Broken Treaty at Battle Mountain", about the plight of American Indians, will be shown in CC 165-169. Prof. Peter D'Errico of the Legal Studies Dept., a former legal advisor to the Navajo Nation will be the featured speaker.

TALK & FILMS: Irish Political Prisoners on Hungar Strike - Speaker from NORAID in Boston, with movies made by the speaker. Hampshire College, Franklin Patterson Hall, 7:30 pm. For more info. call 253-3360.

SIGN UP AT DC at mealtimes to miss Thursday's evening meal for the FAST FOR A WORLD HARVEST.

"BIBLICAL EXPLORATION," 7pm at UCF, 428 Student Union, facilitated by Chaplain Pete Savey. Anyone interested in an intelligent, serious, open-minded study of the Bible is cordialy invited to try this.

JEWISH FEMINISTS ORGANIZATION--Veggie Pot-Luck. To Evaluate women's week, relax, meet new folks, plan future events. New members welcome! 6:30pm in the Dukes Room, 310 Student Union.

ISRAELI DANCING--in the Cape Cod Lounge. 7:30 for beginners, 8:30 for advanced.

TOPIC: "COMMUNITY EDUCATION AND THE POLITICAL SCENE" SPEAKER: GERARD INDELICATO, DIRECTOR, MASS. BUREAU OF COMMUNITY EDUCATION AND ADULT SERVICES, 12-1pm, Rm 225, School of Ed.-Bring a bag lunch.

PALESTINIAN SOLIDARITY COMM. meeting 7pm Rm. 901 C.C.

Thurs., Nov. 20

TUTORING OF SOVIET JEWS IN SPRINGFIELD - 5:30pm. Folks will meet here to bus down to Springfield. No experience or knowledge of Russian necessary! Call Cathy, 665-7581, for more information.

L5 SOCIETY meeting in Room 21B, School of Ed. Builging at 7pm Careers In Space will be the topic of discussion.

PRACTICE AI KIDO, the martial art of the body and mind. All are welcome. Boyden Wrestling Room 6-7pm.

OLDER UNDERGRADUATES: A dormitory corridor just for older undergrads will be set up for Spring semester - IF you make your interest known NOW. Come to the Informational Meeting, at 12 noon in Campus Center 905-09. Or call Dorothy Howard at 545-0333. (Leave your name & phone number and she'll contact you.)

ROBERTO ROSSELLINI'S MASTERPIECE "OPEN CITY" [1946] with Anna Magnani, about anti-nazi activity in occupied Rome. Herter 251 at 8pm. Free admission. Sponsored by Western European Area Studies Program.

"HOME AWAY FROM HOME," and "Grand Canyon" will be shown at the Jones Library in Amherst Center at 1:30 pm. This film is part of the free film series entitled "Old Favorites" sponsored by the Jones Library.

MOVIE: CASABLANCA in CCA at 7,9,11. Admission $1.00 Sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club.

TICKET BOOTH SERVICE, meeting 4:30 pm, 403 Student Union Bldg. The meeting is mandatory for all TIX personnel; some very important developments will be discussed.

THE UMASS SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB will be holding its LAST First Jump Course for this season, 7pm, in Campus Center Rm. 902. Bring your ID & $75. This is THE last chance to try Skydiving at UMass until the Spring. C'mon down.

BOB GREENBERG OF THE PILLSBURY CO. "Careers in Sales SBA Room 1 at 4pm.

FILM, EXODUS, with Paul Newman and Eva Sainte-Marie. 7:30pm in Thompson, Room 104.

HILLEL RELIGIOUS COMMITTEE MEETING. 11pm in the Dukes Room.

CHUG IVRI-- the informal Hebrew rap group 12-1pm in the Dukes Room, 310 Student Union.

FILM: I Even Met Happy Gypsies, Thompson 102 UMass, 8pm, Arts Council, Governor's Program Council, FREE!!!

ATTENTION SCANNERS NEW AND OLD: Instead of our usual Thursday night meeting, tonight we're having a SCANN potluck Thanksgiving dinner, and you're invited. Come by the Student Coalition Against Nukes Nationwide office in Room 204 in the Student Union Building for more info.

FAST FOR A WORLD HARVEST--give the cost of your evening meal for Hunger Relief--sign up at DC this noon. More info. from Hunger Task Force, 428 SU, 545-2661.

HUNGER EDUCATION NIGHT--Speakers and films from 5-9pm, Thompson 106. Sponsored by UMass Hunger Task Force, 428 SU. For more information call 545-2661.

5-COLLEGE SOLAR ENERGY COLLECTIVE-Meeting at 5:30 in room 808 in the campus center, there will be a presentation of solar heating with phase-change salts. Contact: Al 586-3579.

Fri., Nov. 21

FILM: HAIR, CCA, UMass, 7,9,11 pm, Governors Program Council, $1.00

EVENING SERVICES. 7pm in the Dukes Room, 310 Student Union.

RALLY TO PROTEST THE PRESENSE OF C.I.A. recruiters on our campus 10am at Hampshire House. Show solidarity with the third world countries and peoples that have been oppressed and manipulated by the C.I.A.

GAY COFFEEHOUSE, 8pm-1am. Violet Ray loft, 19 Hawley St., Northampton. Music, good company, refreshments. All gay men, lesbians, and friends are invited.

Sat., Nov. 22

THE UMASS SPORT PARACHUTE CLUB will be having a combined General Club Meeting & PARTY at Russ's house (25 Nutting Ave., Amherst) at 8pm. Munchies slides BYOB. Discussion will include student training, jumping in Florida, and voting on overall club issues. For Further info call Russ, 549-1455.

SPECIAL EVENING HAVDALAH CEREMONY at 6pm in the Campus Center 802.

Sun., Nov. 23

PRACTICE AI KIDO, the martial art of the body and mind. All are welcome. Boyden Wrestling Room: 1-3pm.

JEWISH GRADS, OLDER UNDERGRADS, AND WORKING FOLKS: BRUNCH with Aaaron Lansky, Founder of the National Yiddish Book Exchange, to speak on Yiddish Literature. 11pm in the Dukes Room, 310 Student Union, UMass. Small fee for food.

ISRAELI COFFEEHOUSE at 7:30pm in Farley Lodge. Israeli Music and dancing, schmoozing, entertaining, and fun. Sponsored by the SAI.

HOUSE CHURCH AT UCF--7-9pm at 423 Student Union--a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encoun ter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion--facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. For more info stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

Anytime

STARTING THIS MONDAY NIGHT, THE SOUTHWEST ASSEMBLY PRESENTS, "THE SOUTHWEST FILM SERIES". FILM TOPICS VARY, THIS WEEK'S BEING "SPORT'S SPECTACULARS" WHICH SHOWS THE BEST MOMENTS IN SPORTS FROM 1960 THROUGH THE 70'S. THEY'LL BE SHOWN IN THE HAMPDEN THEATRE AND ARE FREE TO STUDENTS. FOR MORE INFO. ON TIME AND SUBJECT MATTER CALL THE SWA OFFICE AT 5-0960.

ANY FRESHMAN INTEREST in becoming a manager for this year's UMass Men's Basketball Team please contact the Basketball Office, Boyden Building, 545-2481.

LESBIAN AND GAY MEN'S COUNSELING COLLECTIVE provides peer counseling Tues., Wed. 3-5pm., Thurs., Fri. 5-9pm. Call 545-2645 or drop in 406F SUB with any questions or concerns on lesbian/gay issues.

THE UNIVERSITY ENSEMBLE THEATER presents the comedy GEORGE DANDIN (Don-Dan) by Moliere, November 19-22 in the Curtain Theater of the University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center. Curtains are at 8pm with a special 4pm matinee on the 22nd. Tickets are available in the Rand Theater box office of the Fine Arts Center (1-4, Monday through Friday) or may be reserved by calling 545-3511.

WOMEN'S SUPPORT GROUP FORMING-"Mother as Student-Coping with Your Family." Starting Wed. Contact EWC at 545-0883 for further information.

THE PURDY-VANTINE STUDIO OF BOSTON has been chosen to photograph the 1981 Senior portraits for the INDEX.

Purdy-Vantine will be on campus from November 12th until the 25th. All February graduates, Stockbridge Seniors and those who will be away from campus next semester should sign up soon in room 103 or call 545-2874 for an appointment. Pictures will be taken downstairs in room 178 Campus Center.

THE MORITA DANCE COMPANY, an Asian American modern dance ensemble from New York, will be performing at Bowker Auditorium at UMass at 8pm. Tickets are $3.00 general public and $2.00 students with ID. Tickets sold at the RSO office in the Student Union and at the box office evening of the performance. This event is sponsored by the Asian American Student's Association and the UMass Arts Council.

BEGIN YOUR INTERNSHIP PLANS EARLY! The final introductory meeting for Spring 1981 internships is Friday, November 14, 1981. To Apply: attend an introductory meeting at The Office of Internships, 16 Curry Hicks.

The Collegian will attempt to print typed notices each Monday. They must be submitted by 3:45 the Friday before publication. Include name of group, time, date and place with only one descriptive sentence. From now on any untyped or over-the-phone notices will be rejected.

We are now taking orders for Fresh Native Glen Shaw Turkeys raised locally in Pelham. We have been carrying Glen Shaw Turkeys for over 30 years.

Also, order your Capon, Roasting Chickens, Geese and Ducks.

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS

Grocery Specials

PURE VEGETABLE Crisco Shortening 3 LB CAN $1.99

CASCADE AUTOMATIC Dishwasher Detergent 25 OFF LABEL 75 OZ PKG $2.39

SWEET LIFE Applesauce	25 OZ JAR	69¢	ROBERTS RICE ENGLAND Clam Chowder	15 OZ CAN	69¢
DEL MONTE Boiled Onions	16 OZ JAR	79¢	CONTADINA ANDY Curly Lasagna	16 OZ PKG	69¢
CONTADINA Stuffed Olives	5¾ OZ JAR	69¢	TAMMY Choc. Chip Cookies	14 OZ PKG	$1.49
SWEET LIFE SELECT Ripe Olives	7¾ OZ JAR	69¢	JIFFY Corn Muffin Mix	4 8½ OZ PKGS	$1
CRYSTAL Sweet Mix Pickles	22 OZ BTL	89¢	BETTY CROCKER Fudge Brownie Mix	23¾ OZ PKG	99¢
SUPERB Shrimp	4½ OZ CAN	$1.89	SWEETHEART Reynolds Wrap	25 FT ROLL	89¢
SWEET LIFE Tiny	5 OZ JAR	49¢	PILLSBURY ALL VAR. Bread Mixes	14½ OZ PKG	99¢
SWEET LIFE Tomato Juice Cocktail	46 OZ JAR	$1.49	SARAN WRAP 12 INCH Plastic Wrap	36 FT ROLL	79¢
NON DAIRY CREAMER Coffee-Mate	16 OZ JAR	$1.49	WESTCLIFF Assorted Napkins	1 HUGE PKG	59¢
KEEBLER Zesta Saltines	16 OZ PKG	69¢

Specials Effective Nov. 17-22, 1980

On This Thanksgiving Holiday All Of Us at Louis Foods Wish To Thank You For Your Patronage.

LOUIS WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE EXCLUDING COMPOSITE & TOBACCO

OCEAN SPRAY Cranberry Sauce WHOLE BERRIED 16 OZ CAN Free

VALID NOV. 17-22 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

LOUIS WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE EXCLUDING COMPOSITE & TOBACCO

PHILADELPHIA BRAND Cream Cheese 8 OZ PKG 59¢

VALID NOV. 17-22 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

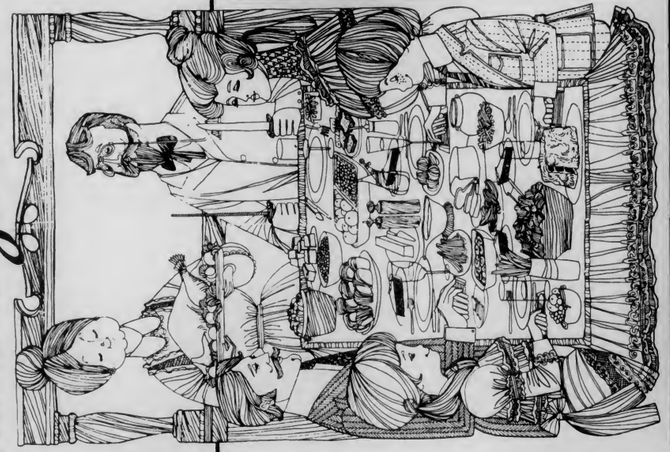
LOUIS WITH COUPON AFTER $7.50 PURCHASE EXCLUDING COMPOSITE & TOBACCO

ALL PURPOSE Gold Medal Flour 5 LB BAG 59¢

VALID NOV. 17-22 LIMIT ONE AT LOUIS FOODS

Louis FINE FOODS 76 North Pleasant Street Amherst, Mass.

A time to give thanks



USDA CHOICE Top Round Steak LB $2.59

USDA CHOICE Top Round Roast LB $2.19

For Your Freezer USDA CHOICE Whole Shoulder Clods 18-20 LBS AVG LB $1.69

IMPORTED Krakus Ham	LB CAN	3 $7.98	TENDER Baby Beef Liver	LB	$1.09
USDA CHOICE Boneless Sirloin Steak	LB	$3.39	SWIFT PREMIUM Sliced Bacon	LB PKG	$1.39
			SWIFT Premium Franks	LB PKG	$1.29

Frozen & Dairy
Visit Our Cheese Dept., Over 40 Varieties Of Domestic And Imported Cheese All Custom Cut And Ready For Your TAble.

HOOD Sour Cream	16 OZ CUP	79¢
HOOD Golden Egg Nog	QUART	$1.89
Imperial Margarine	STICK	59¢	Garlic & Herb Cheese	6 OZ PKG	99¢
Hood Bella Ricotta	15 OZ CONT	99¢	Sealtest Ice Cream	½ GAL PKG	$1.59
Pumpkin Custard Pie	8 OZ PKG	$1.29	Birdseye Cool Whip	8 OZ PKG	69¢
Fish Sticks	9 PACK 16 OZ BOX	$1.19	Ellio's Cheese Pizza	24 OZ	$2.19
Broccoli Spears	SWEET LIFE 2 PKGS	2 for 99¢
Cauliflower	SWEET LIFE 2 PKGS	2 99¢	Cooked Squash	12 OZ PKGS	3 89¢
Orange Juice	SWEET LIFE CAN	69¢	Jumbo Waffles	AUNT JEMIMA 10 COUNT	99¢

Produce

OUR GREAT EATING FRUIT BASKETS MAKE TERRIFIC GIFTS — PLEASE PLACE YOUR THANKSGIVING DAY ORDER EARLY. PRICES START AT $10

DIAMOND 16 OZ PKG Walnut Meats $2.49

Large Supply Of Bulk Grapes Thanksgiving Week · Red, Green, Blue Grapes

FRESH SHIPMENT OF GLAZED FRUIT BASKETS. INCLUDES PINEAPPLE, GREEN & RED CHERRIES, ORANGE, LEMON, CITRON & MIXED FRUITS.

This Week We Are Featuring

CALIFORNIA Fruit Cake Mix	LB	$1.19	Butternut Squash	FRESH CUT UP LB	49¢
Louisiana Yams	LB	29¢	Celery	EXCELLENT QUALITY HEARTS LOCALLY GROWN PER	69¢
Fresh Cider	GAL	$1.99	Broccoli	CA GRWN PER BCH	79¢
Juice Oranges		100 99¢

Editorial/Opinion

Letters

Health Services need chiropractor

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to complain, not about the quality of treatment I have received from the University Health Services, but about the arbitrary restrictions on the kind of health care available there.

I underwent surgery through the Health Services in December 1978. After my operation I was told that a limited number of options were open to me to insure that the same problem not recur: hormonal therapy with pain killers for the "bad times," or pregnancy (a temporary solution).

Since neither of these options was attractive to me, I began exploring alternatives. In the fall of 1979, I began seeing a chiropractor. This care has helped me a great deal. In the year since I began seeing the chiropractor, I have had no recurrence of my problems, nor have I had any "bad times" for which pain killers had been previously suggested. My only problems, and it is a very real one, is financial. Every semester I pay a Health Fee and for the supplementary health insurance. On top of that, I pay $15 for each chiropractic visit. I feel it is unfair for the University to make arbitrary judgements about what kind of medical treatment will be available to students.

Chiropractic is a recognized medical field, and it's time that the University either provide chiropractic services at the Health Services, or refer students to area chiropractors and arrange that these visits be covered by the University health plan. My strong belief is that there are many students who would benefit from chiropractic care if it were made available to them.

Linda Limont
Conway

Strings and brass tubes vs. electronic oscillators

To the Editor:

In Wednesday's Collegian, Steve Winniman makes statements about synthesizers and electronic music with which I must disagree.

All sounds, musical or otherwise, can be defined mathematically as sequential changes in atmospheric pressures. The electronic music synthesizer can exactly reproduce these sequences. Having used a synthesizer for over a year, I can relate to you the time I had a friend play a clarinet, and, using an oscilloscope, I was able to generate fundamental and partial frequencies and to blend these to produce an indentical waveform. There was no perceivable difference between his Bundy clarinet and my APR-2600.

Steve Winniman states that a synthesizer is reluctant to produce a "truly personal sound." With patience and expertise, notably lacking in many contemporary rock groups, an electronic musician can generate sounds as truly personal as any other instrument. Here he states that a synthesizer is a machine rather than an instrument. All instruments are machines, devices to resonate air. Whether they consist of taut strings or convoluted brass tubes, or electronic oscillators, the end is still the same.

He also states that electronic music is devoid of the "human touch," and devoid of "real feeling." Firstly, the term "real feeling" is vague. All perceptions, sensations, and emotions are real, their sources notwithstanding. Secondly, the synthesizer is the only musical device capable of generating physically pure sound. Also, no other device but the synthesizer affords the musician instant response. All other instruments have a delay before the given note reaches full amplitude. Of course, the synthesizer can be programmed to delay in precisely the same way as any other given instrument. These and many other features allow the musician an accuracy of execution unparalleled by other instruments. To describe a piece as "marred by the sterility of the electronic genre" is to equate precision with lack of personality and "human touch" with imperfection.

Guy Letourneau
Sylvan

A woman's right to decide

To the Editor:

Having twice been subjected to Steve Masse's moralistic attitudes on your Editorial page, (Collegian, 11/4 - 11/12) I feel I must respond.

The analogy of abortions to Nazi exterminations is totally outrageous, Mr. Masse's assertion that he merely illustrates similar views of human beings notwithstanding. It is merely Mr. Masse's opinion that the fetus is a human being, not a fact. The six million people killed in Hitler's Europe were people; that is a fact. His analogy also equates government policy with individual choices. Nazi social theory and government policy included the extermination of the entire Jewish population of Europe, and then of the world. This was government policy, not choices made by individual people. The decision of an individual woman of whether or not to terminate a pregnancy is not set by government policy that the fetus isn't human. If there is a genocidal policy in the United States it is the annihilation of non-white ethnic groups. Over one-third of all Puerto Rican women have been sterilized. Twenty-five percent of all Native American women have been sterilized. No, these women have not been killed, as Mr. Masse claims an aborted fetus is, but sterilization of large segments of a population ensures that future generations will be smaller in population. This is genocide. This is analgous to Hitler's policies. Women choosing whether they should bear children is not genocide.

Equally insane is the assumption that women want to have abortions, and that people who are pro-choice are pro-abortion. I know of no woman who views abortion as either an easy choice to make, or as a form of birth control, as is constantly insinuated by anti-choice people. The decision to have an abortion is deeply personal to a woman; she makes all the arguments that anti-choice people make to herself, and she does not need legislated morality to further encumber that decision. Everybody would prefer safe, effective means of birth control that would help make the need for abortions obsolete (and an end to rape, incest, illness in pregnant women, and teratogenic and mutogenic agents in our environment and food).

Male science, however, having controlled contraceptive research since its beginnings, the widely used means of contraception which are viewed as most effective (the Pill, the i.u.d., and the diaphragm, in descending order of effectiveness) are not only all the responsibility of an targeted to women, but become less safe as they become more effective. The Pill cannot be used by many women with a variety of hereditary, congenital, or other conditions, and probably shouldn't be used by most other women. Its links to various types of cancer are too well-known to simply pretend they don't exist, or to try to convince women that we shouldn't worry about the risk. The i.u.d. is dangerous in many of its forms, with complications ranging from intolerable pain, to infections of the uterus, to fatal punctures of the uterus. It cannot even be used by many women. The i.u.d., by the way, causes miscarriage (technically, spontaneous abortion) in approximately one-half of conceptions that occur with the device in place. Would Mr. Masse therefore like to ban the use of the i.u.d.? Even the diaphragm, the most common form of birth control with the best (although not perfect) record of safety, cannot be used by some women, including many with tipped uteri (not an uncommon condition), and it has a depressing failure rate.

The only way out, it would seem to Mr. Masse's way of thinking, is for women not to have sex if we don't want to; a) risk our lives and health, or b) risk having children. Men, obviously, don't have to worry about this. And if women decide to abstain forever from heterosexual intercourse, there's always non-hetersexual sexuality, but I doubt Mr. Masse could condone this as a "moral" way of releasing sexual tension.

I have heard, over and over, people say, "I understand that women have a [legal] right to have abortions, but my right not to pay for them is a greater right." The logical extension of this sort of philosophy would be the elimination of all welfare, social security, and any other tax-supported "handout" programs (let's not leave out CETA, AFDC, food stamps, etc.). We all understand that poor people, elderly persons, and orphaned children have the right to food, clothing and shelter, but our right not to pay for them is a greater right. I say this is a logical extension of the first statement because the right of a persn to control her body is just as fundamental and necessary a right and a need as the needs for food, clothing and shelter.

Finally, I would like to respond to Mr. Masse's statement, "I resent very much the assumption that because I am a male, I don't have to confront the dilemma of an unwanted pregnancy." Sorry, Mr. Masse but it's true. No matter how much you may love a woman who is pregnant against her will, it is not your physical and emotional problem. You will never feel it as deeply as she. Nobody will ever go through her personal struggle as strongly as she. I would not deny you participation in the decision-making process of a pregnant woman because you are a man. I would deny it because you are not that woman. I have no right to interfere in her decision, you have no right, and no legislative body has the right to tell a woman that she must have a child; whatever her reasons for not wanting to or being otherwise unable to go through a pregnancy. And as a woman I say, Keep your laws off my body.

Kyle E. Hoffman

Sexist, childish, humorless writing

To the Editor:

I rarely read the Collegian due to the quality of the reporting, and yet Wednesday I made the exceptional move to glance through it.

I was absolutely horrified to read a music review (Collegian, 11/12) in which Rob Huffman, part of the illustrious Collegian staff, puts forth this brilliant statement: "You don't need a Ph.D. in gynecoloy to tell that this guy's a real douche bag!"

What sort of juvenile, cutesy writing is this? Certainly in bad taste, this remark is sexist, childish and neither humorous nor descriptive. Derogatory street language has its own special place, but certainly not in a newspaper. It is highly offensive and I am shocked that an editor saw this piece of trashy copy and let it pass. You might attempt to raise your standards; must mediocrity reign supreme? Can't someone speak to Mr. Huffman and enlighten him as to the practice of inoffensive writing (the license he took was disgusting.

D. Kluesman

Where does all the money go?

To the Editor:

Thursday night a meeting was held addressing the future increases in fees and tuition. Forty-six people attended, at least 15 of which set up the meeting. What happened to all those students who have been affected by the financial aid cuts?

For those who did not attend I would like to tell you what SCERA and SUPE and others are trying to do to help you stay in school. Wednesday, Nov. 19, the trustees of this school will be meeting to increase fees by $289. Students will be going to Boston to protest the increase, but this was not all that was discussed.

Did you know your tuition goes to the state general fund, and then back to the students? Yet financial aid has decreased. I do not advocate dropping down upon the trustees and giving them hell, this can only hurt student relations with the establishment. Start asking questions, learn where your money goes. Then write your congressperson, ask them why they are not advocating more for your college. Speak up, let your voice be heard!

Pam Saia
Northeast

Thanksgiving Cards & Christmas Cards
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

DRINK SPECIALS
EVERY NIGHT OF THE WEEK!
NOW OPEN UNTIL ONE AM
THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
UNTIL TWELVE
MON THROUGH WEDNESDAY!
Good times, Good drink, Good music
the Hungry U
55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

Journalism students:
You can write a news story in a classroom but can you do it in a newsroom?

The Collegian would like to invite all Journalism majors to attend "An Evening With The Collegian."

At this meeting we will discuss the ways in which interested students can get important on-the-job experience while in school necessary to get a job after graduation.

Meet the Board of Editors and discuss the wide variety of ways you can help improve the paper while getting a practical understanding of the profession that can not be gotten in a classroom.

Studies have shown that students who graduate with experience on a daily newspaper in their background have a much better chance of getting a job in the field of journalism than those with no experience.

Tonight at 7:30 in CC room 903

Upward Mobility

*begins with a college ring from Jostens, plus a Jostens' "EXTRA"

Your college ring is a timeless symbol of your achievements, to be worn with pride as you enter the career stage of your life. Jostens sets the standards for design, materials and workmanship. Through its Golden Warranty, Jostens' service lasts a

JOSTENS' EXTRA
Jostens offers gifts with purchase of a 14K or 10K Gold College Ring. FREE, or at minimum cost.

MOVE UP
With "Tiny Time", the precision miniature electronic transistor alarm clock. Perfect for travel, office or home. Measures 4" x 1½" x 1". Battery included. A $29.95 retail value, FREE with the purchase of Jostens 14K or 10K Gold Ring.

MOVE ON
With this London Linen Look garment bag. 41" long to hold all your hangables wrinkle-free. Water repellent exterior looks like linen. Fashionably trimmed with continental stripe. A $29.95 retail value, FREE with purchase of Jostens' 14K or 10K Gold Ring.

MOVE IN
With this luxurious high pile CARICIA Blanket Throw. 100% acrylic machine washable Jacquard woven, to add warmth and drama to your home. Used anywhere. Bed, wall, as a comforter. From Spain. 60" x 80" Preying Tiger design. Rich, deep brown color. A $49.00 retail value, yours for just $5.00 with purchase of Jostens' 14K or 10K Gold Ring.

TIME 10:00 - 4:00 DATE Tues & Wed Nov 18 & 19
PLACE The University Store, Campus Center
$10. — Deposit
Jostens COLLEGE RINGS OFFERED DAILY AT YOUR BOOKSTORE

UMass band marches for Patriots game

When the New England Patriots and the Los Angeles Rams left the field at Schaefer Stadium at half time, Sunday, The University of Massachusetts Marching Band put on their own show before a sell-out crowd of more than 60,000.

Although the game was blacked out in New England, viewers across the country got their first look at the largest marching band in the University's history.

In addition to yesterday's performance, the band, under the direction of George Parks, has also marched in Boston's 350th birthday parade. The 190-member band will also compete in the Marching Bands of America contest in London England next year, and may also receive an invitation to march in the Inaugural Day parade on Jan. 20 in Washington.

Mass. hikers most likely to get lost

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A state Fish and Game Department study shows what most New Hampshire residents knew already-most hikers who get lost in the woods are usually from Massachusetts.

But the study also shows that among hunters, the opposite is true. The majority of lost hunters are from central or southern New Hampshire. Per capita, hunters from Berlin lose their way most frequently.

The study, covering 1974 through 1979, shows that a lost hunter or hiker has a 50 percent chance of being found before walking out of the woods by daybreak.

The average lost hunter is a 33-year-old man who is most likely to be lost in Pittsburg, Allenstown, Nottingham, Dummer or Woodstock.

Butterfield Arts Group— Invites Central Area residents to use their darkroom and silkscreen facilities. Thursdays, 7:30-10:30 and Saturdays, 12-4, materials sold at cost.

A rocker's 'rites of passage'

The Jim Carroll Band
Catholic Boy (Atco)

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

"I remembered the way Marvin used to pass out every time he took a shot. I could see him lying on the bed in some cheap hotel, the dropper full of blood hanging to his vein like a glass leach, his face turning blue around the lips."
—William Burroughs in Junkie, 1953

When an album like this comes along, it imposes on the reviewer the none-too-frequent responsibility to treat it as more than a mere recording. Indeed, this album imparts conceptually, lyrically, and musically a mood only usually conveyed in a novel.

Records

Consider then, Catholic Boy as a 33 rpm Huckleberry Finn.

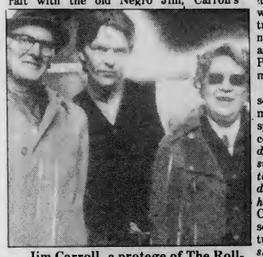
No small accomplishment, to be sure. But this first outing by Jim Carroll, a 29-year-old New York poet-turned-rocker, delivers an audible "rites of passage" attesting to the life of a young man brought up on the decadent, urban streets of Manhattan, who hits rock bottom before he gets his salvation at the "rock" top.

If Huck's taste of corruption was Hannibal, Missouri, Tom Sawyer and slavery, Carroll's is the Big Apple—hustling homosexuals and taking the needle. Whereas Finn's transcendence occured through his "trav'lin' the rivah" on the raft with the old Negro Jim, Carroll's takes place through the poetry readings at St. Mark's Church, shooting baskets with Lew Alcindor and taking his cues from the inner literary sanctum of Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs, and Andy Warhol. And as Huck got his salvation on the river, hitting the "free" destination of Cairo, Illinois, so Carroll is "redeemed through pain and not through joy," kicking a smack habit on the West Coast and living to sing about it as a rock star.



Jim Carroll, a protege of The Rolling Stones, has recorded his debut album, with his band of the same name. The LP, Catholic Boy, was produced by Earl McGrath. The picture (above) taken from the album jacket, was photographed by Annie Leibovitz, veteran photographer of Rolling Stone magazine.

In the way of a biography, Jim Carroll was born in New York, the son of an Irish-Catholic bartender. By age 15 he was a junkie, after having taken various kinds of other drugs while still in grammar school. Between the impressionable ages of 12 and 15 he wrote his first novel, The Basketball Diaries, which was excerpted in such prominent literary mags as George Plimpton's Paris Review and The New Yorker. This prompted Jack Kerouac to write, in 1964 (five years before his death), "At 13 years of age, Jim Carroll writes better prose than 89 percent of the novelists working today." Quite respectable prise, one might add.

The Basketball Diaries is a classic tale of calculated, naive impressions, beefed up by enough humor and vivid imagination to warrant its dubbing as "a novel of teenage rebellion." Since then, Carroll has had three volumes of poetry published. His last, "Living at the Movies," was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize, in 1973.

Carroll moved to California in 1974, ending his eight-year heroin habit, before moving back to New York where he was "discovered" by Mick Jagger and Keith Richards and signed to Rolling Stones Records (business entanglements ensued and he was switched to the parent company, Atco) for his first LP.

From the first track on this album, "Wicked Gravity," one can feel the intense, slice-of-the-gutter attitude of the singer-songwriter. Make no mistake about it, this ode to the woman with "wick-id, wick-id, wick-id, wickid grav-i-ty" is a true punk number. This should come as no surprise when one considers Carroll's association with the likes of Lou Reed and Patti Smith (a former girlfriend), not to mention his literary influences.

The next cut, "Three Sisters," provides some piercing guitar rhythms, by band member Terrell Winn against the sharply-spliced vocals of Carroll on his musical coup de grace with incest: "Though I don't really understand her/I love my sister named Miranda/The boys from uptown, they can't stand her/The more she denies them the more they demand her..." The sense of the hip and, perhaps, Carroll's appreciation of the slyness of some women in his own life, pervades this tune with the chorus: "She got high-heel shoes/She sings the blues/She says 'Abracadabra' when she goes down-on-you."

"Day and Night" could, I suppose, qualify as the melodic or "pretty" song on the album, though wuch a label would hardly be appropriate in light of the singer's rough-edged philosphy and tone. Carroll's squealy, building vocals remind one of Elvis Costell. Especially infectious is his handling of the lyrics on one og the bridges;"I move, I move, I move from/dark-to light" bears a striking similarity to David Johansen's rendering of the "You're funky but, funky, but, all right, all right, all right" riff on his first album. Helping out on this cut is Blue Oyster Cult's Allen Lanier on keyboards.

The album's fourth track, "Nothing is True" is a real killer; clearly its imagery is under the influence of Burroughs. "Things just go from bad to worse/It starts like a kiss and ends like a curse," despite its triteness, works effectively because Carroll sneers it like he fears it. But nowhere on the whole album is the drug-laiden imagery more apparent: "She's got inscrutable poise/She gets her sleep through tubes in her arm..."

Without a doubt, the last cut on Side One, "People Who Died" is the standout, already getting regular FM airplay. Written as an epitaph for his friends from the 60's, this song conveys all the emotion it intends. The feverish, chanting, back-up vocals add a tint of Sodom and Gomorah. The lyrics add a sense of personal grief: "Teddy sniffing glue, he was 12 years old/He fell from the roof on East two nine/Cathy was 11 when she pulled the plug/On 26 reds and a bottle of wine/Bobby got leukemia, 14 years old/He looked like 65 when he died/He was a friend of mine."

Opening up Side Two, "City Drops Into the Night" is a sleazy, horror-evoking ballad of experience, backed with the poetic phrases and scenery of 1950's Beat. Splendid saxaphone work by veteran Rolling Stones Session man Bobby Keys makes one see the run-down, cold water flats, replete with cockroaches and wasted, strung-out skeletons of human Nocturnia. The guitar teamwork of brothers Brian and Steve Linsley, coupled with Carroll's Springsteen-sounding inflections, make it all the more magnificent. But just in case you get any romantic notions about the life of a junkie, Carroll warns: "It's when the bod'y at the bottom/That body is my own reflection/But it ain't hip to sink that low/Unless you're gonna make a ressurection." Of the remaining cuts, two are more striking. "It's Too Late" offers some conviction in the will to survive: "It's too late/To fall in love with Sharon Tate/But it's too soon/To ask me for the words encarved on my tomb..."

The tile track sums it up best, though. Carroll expounds on his religious upbringing, uttered like a pro against the backbeat of drummer Wayne Woods: "I was convicted of theft when I slipped from the womb/They led me straight from my mother to a cell in the Tombs...I'm a Catholic child/When the blood ran red, the blood ran wild..." Then to show how effective the whole, holy trip was, Carroll parodies: "Now I'm a Catholic man/I put my tongue at the rail whenever I can."

Somehow, as a fellow "Catholic Boy," I know what he means.

As critic Barbara Graustark wrote [Newsweek, 9/8/80), "Not since Lou Reed wrote "Walk on the Wild Side" has a rock singer so vividly evoked the casual brutality of New York City as has Jim Carroll..." I couldn't agree more. And with that said, welcome to rock and roll, Jim Carroll!

—Critic's Cum.-4.0

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

Join Us For Monday Night Football
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn, Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

amc THEATRES
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
CHARLES BRONSON BORDERLINE PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and dinner $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals in the Pewter Pot Rest in The Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Mon-Thur only)
Free Shoppers Show Thurs Nov 20 at 1:00 PM "Hanover Street" starring Harrison Ford PG
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE'S 90.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
GENA ROWLANDS Gloria PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS

ROOM CHOOSING
Spring 1980

Monday November 17 — Students remaining in the same room - sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator.

Tuesday November 18 — Students changing rooms within the same dorm - sign up with your Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator/Residence Hall Manager.

Wednesday November 19 through Wednesday November 26 — Students moving to another dorm and all others:
a. Pick up Housing Preference Form from any Head of Residence/Cluster Coordinator or Housing Assignment Office.
b. Fill out Form indicating dormitory/area preferences.
c. Return completed form to the Area Management Coordinators Offices located in Leach (NE/SW), Baker (CE,OH), JFK Lobby (SW) or the Housing Assignment Office, 235 Whitmore.
d. You must turn in your form no later than 5:00 pm Wednesday November 26, 1980. Late forms will not be processed.

Friday December 19 — Students will receive written Confirmation of their dormitory assignment for Spring Semester.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

and the UMass Arts Council present

THE FELDSHUH BAILIFF

FRIDAY, NOV. 21 8 PM
SATURDAY, NOV. 22 8 PM
SUNDAY, NOV. 23 3 PM

Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted until Wednesday Nov. 19 (413-545-2511) for all performances.
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students

Partial support provided by NE Foundation for the Arts, Mass. Council on the Arts & Humanities, & National Endowment for the Arts.

continued from page 1

tional Business, stating that the intensive two-year study prepares students for work in multinational corporations. The program is quite demanding, with seven and one-half months overseas, six weeks of which consist of rigorous language study, and six months paid internship for a corporation such as IBM or Mercedes-Benz.

"Someone with work experience is more motivated, said Kuhne. Experience makes a student more marketable and raises salaries.

Andrea H. Lambrinides, vice president of Citibank and a Fletcher School graduate, said students interested in international banking should ask themselves: "Do I want to become a banker in the international world?" Not, "do I want to be an international banker?"

She said the banking industry has changed, and today banking and business share many responsibilities, such as issuing credit cards and giving loans.

"Organizations demand the best talents; sex, race, and religion are irrelevant. Pick a career, but above all, manage your own efforts" Lambrinides said.

Chief of the Non-Governmental Organization Section of the United Nations Office of Public Information, Sally S. Shelley spoke briefly on the organization of the U.N. and on the importance and criticism of the U.N., such as the long time period of negotiations on crucial world issues. She cited the example of the 35-year talks on the recognition of Palestine.

Shelley, a Smith College graduate, gave advice for those interested in the U.N. She said students should take an exotic mix of languages such as a combination of Chinese and Russian.

"Go into professionalism, go to grad school; a Master's is a necessity and a Ph.D even better, so you don't have to start at the bottom. Come in with the middle and upper ranks, because rising up is tough and highly political," said Shelley.

Senior Financial Advisor of Mobil Oil Corporation Elizabeth B. Glaeser said her career offers advantages such as responsibility, flexibility and chances for creativity.

A recipient of two master's degrees from Columbia University, Glaeser said, "MBA is your ticket, absolutely a prerequisite. heading the Indonesian divisions, Glaeser said languages can also give you entry into many careers and experience is essential, but is not a substitute for an MBA."

Glaeser said there were financial advantages to her career, which has a starting salary of $30,000, for people with Master's in Business Administration.

International lawyer David Gruber said he represents clients who wish to complete novel illegal actions. He tells them how to do it legally.

Gruber, an alumni of Hampshire College and a present associate of Sullivan and Cromwell in New York, said "I didn't know I had an international career until I was invited to this panel," but said that his career is international in scope because he represents multinational clients, such as Exxon and handles international transactions.

The preparation for an international law career is 99 percent identical to that of a domestic career. So if you want to be a lawyer, go to law school, get a law degree, and the rest will come," he said.

Senior Vice President of the Experiment in International Living John Wallace said the field of counseling individuals learning abroad is growing. Those students who choose to enter this field must be committed to attack basic world problems, such as population growth and food shortages," said Wallace.

Collegian

Today's paper was produced by

Carol Rosenberg — Night Editor
Dale Thompson — Copy Editor
Paul Evans — Layout Tech
Chris Grewe — Photo Tech
Carla Lesh — Asst. Night Editor

Michele Bedard, Marsha Bianchi, Edie Eppich, Mary Kinneavy, Michael Krumpe, Grace North; Composing Room

I love to sit down with a classic.

© 1980 Jos Schlitz Brewing Company, Milwaukee WI

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST

NOW IN STOCK
Autry Mach III 24.95
(Rated 5 star ★★★★★ by Runners World magazine!)

Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6
175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

ALL RSO GROUPS
Budget Rationales with Completed Budget Requests due no later than 5:00 Today in the Student Senate Office 420 Student Union

Clip Bonus Coupon... FREE!

FREE! Choice of Apple, Mince or Pumpkin 25 oz. pkg. Mrs. Smith's Pies

Kodacolor Print Film 110 or 35mm 24 exposure rol 1.99
Sylvania Flip Flash 1.29
Sylvania Magicubes 1.29
Sylvania Flash Bar 1.59

LIBBY'S LIBBY'S LIBBY'S
16 oz can Libby's Vegetables Sweet Peas 5 for $2
15½ oz Cut Green Beans, Kernel Corn or Sliced Carrots
Peaches 59¢
Mixed Fruit 59¢
Fruit Cocktail 69¢
Tomato Juice 59¢
Pear Halves 69¢
Corn Beef Hash 89¢

SAUSAGE FAVORITES
Rath Meat Sausage 1 lb roll Frozen 99¢
Make a delicious turkey dressing!
Jones Sausage 1.79
Park's Sausage 1.59
Jimmy Dean Sausage 1.49

self service deli Special
Thorn Apple Valley Bacon 1 pound package Sliced 1.49
Meat Bologna 1.29
Kielbasi 1.89 lb
Extra Mild Franks 1.29
Meat Knockwurst 1.59

corner deli Sliced to order!
White's Domestic Cooked Ham 2.59 lb
Sectioned & Formed
Genoa Salami 3.19 lb
Margherita Pepperoni 3.49 lb
Potato Salad 49¢ lb
"Our Rare Beef" 3.99 lb

Over 3 million pizzas sold kitchen
Stop & Shop Cheese Pizza 1.39
18 ounce size
Cheese Pizza 2.29
Double Cheese 1.69

seafood Good values!
Fresh Cod Fillets 2.29 lb
Bake or broil
Fresh Pollock Fillets 1.79 lb
Fresh Dressed Smelts 1.39 lb
Frozen Turbot Fillets 1.49 lb
Shrimp Cocktail 2.59

SAVE 25¢ Variety Cheese
REAL SHARP CHEDDAR White or Yellow Bar - White Wedge or FINLAND SWISS Random Weight Pkg. Stop & Shop
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 Limit one per customer

Country Pride will send you $2.00 for trying a Country Pride Turkey, min. 10 lbs
Mail in Coupon
$2.00 REFUND On Country Pride Turkey Minimum, 10 Pounds
Mail this coupon with proof of purchase Country Pride logo panel from wrapper or piece and weight tag with logo to: Country Pride Foods P O Box 1987 El Dorado AR 71730
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY
STATE
Offer expires Dec 31 1980 Allow 6-8 weeks for refund to arrive

Stop & Shop Grocery Coupon C C-16
3 pound can Crisco Shortening Vegetable Shortening 1.99
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 Limit one per customer

Stop & Shop Grocery Coupon C C-14
All purpose Pillsbury Flour 5 pound bag 69¢
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 Limit one per customer

Stop & Shop Honest values are what we're all about Thanksgiving Specials!

Over 200 buys for an old fashion holiday at home.
Pick up our Four Page Circular of values in-store.

U.S. Grade A Country Pride Turkeys
10-13 lbs Frozen 79¢ lb
Clip coupon above for an extra $2.00 savings 18-23 pounds
Butter Basted Turkeys Stop & Shop 10-13 lbs Frozen 18-23 pounds Frozen 89¢ lb
Swift Butterball Turkeys Deep Basted 10-13 lbs Frozen 18-23 Pounds Frozen 89¢ lb
U.S. Grade A Fresh Turkeys 10-13 lbs 18-23 lbs 99¢ lb
Armour Star Turkey Roast Boneless 5-7 lbs Frozen 1.69 lb

Center Cut Pork Chops Thin Sliced 1.69 lb 1.59 lb
Stop & Shop 'Big Eye' Pork is extra lean and meaty!
Countrystyle Pork Ribs Pork Loin 1.29 lb
Assorted Pork Chops Center, Blade or Sirloin Chops 1.39 lb
Boneless Pork Sirloin Cutlets 2.19 lb
Pork Loin Roast Rib Portion 1.29 lb
Pork Loin Roast Sirloin Portion 1.39 lb

USDA Choice Boneless Beef Chuck Roast 1.89 lb
USDA Choice Quality! Enjoy it or your money back!
Boneless Beef Chuck Steak
Chuck Stewing Beef
USDA Choice 1.99 lb

produce Pick and choose what's perfect for you!
Baker's Dozen Florida 150 size Tangerines 13 for $1
Jumbo Pascal Celery 18 size bunch 79¢
Fresh California Broccoli Extra Large size bunch 79¢

"Assorted Holiday Fixins" Pick Your Own!
LOUISIANA YAMS OR Sweet Potatoes 33¢
GENUINE IDAHO Potatoes US NO 1 2.89
WHITE BOILING Onions 59¢
PURPLE TOP Turnips 39¢
BUTTERCUP OR HUBBARD Squash 15¢
CALIFORNIA Brussels Sprouts 79¢
PICK YOUR OWN Yellow Onions 19¢
FRESH LOOSE Crisp Carrots 25¢
Mum Plant 5 inch Pot Foil Wrapped 4.99
Holiday 4 inch pot Cactus Plant 2.99

Stop & Shop Salad Oil 24 ounce bottle 99¢
Flako Pie Crust Mix 10 ounce package 3 for $1
Waldorf Tissue 6 Pack Bathroom 1 ply 500 sht roll 1.29
Cranberry Juice Cocktail Stop & Shop 48 ounce bottle 1.09
Coffee 1 lb can Stop & Shop Reg. Electric Automatic or Drip 1.99
Ocean Spray Sauce Cranberry Whole or Sliced 2 16 oz cans 85¢
Chicken of the Sea Solid White Tuna in water or oil 7 ounce can 1.09
Cinnamon Coffee Cake Sliced Stop & Shop 14 ounce package 79¢
Coke, Tab or Sprite 2 liter bottle CT deposit 1.09
Coronet Napkins 1 ply 140 ct pkg 69¢
General Mills Total Cereal 12 ounce package 1.19
Progresso Tomatoes 3 for $2
Red Crushed 28 oz can
Cott Beverages 32 oz btl Ginger Ale Club Soda Tonic or Tom Collins 2 for 99¢
Nabisco Snack Crackers Assorted Varieties 7 ounce package 89¢
Betty Crocker Cake Mix Asst'd Varieties, 18½ oz pkg 69¢
Buttertop Oatmeal Bread Nissen 20 ounce loaf 89¢

dairy Special Stop & Shop prices on top brands!
Egg Nog Quart size Sun Glory 79¢
Yoplait Yogurt Assorted flavors 6 ounce cup 3 for $1
Hood Cottage Cheese Small or Large Curd or Nutorm 16 ounce cup 89¢
Calabro Ricotta Whole Milk or Stop & Shop 2 lb container 1.99
Whipping Cream Stop & Shop 16 oz container 99¢
Hood Orange Juice From Concentrate or Stop & Shop Half Gallon Carton 99¢
Mrs. Filbert's Margarine Golden Quarters One pound package 59¢
Temp-tee Whipped Cream Cheese 8 ounce package 99¢

frozen foods Look for more specials in your Stop & Shop freezer!
Coffee Lightener Stop & Shop 32 oz container 2 for $1
Mrs. Smith's Pie Crust Shells 17 oz package 89¢
Oven or Steak Fries Stop & Shop 24 ounce package or Stop & Shop Taters 32 oz pkg. 79¢
All Natural Ice Cream Assorted Flavors Stop & Shop, Half Gallon Carton 1.99
Whipped Topping Stop & Shop 12 oz container 69¢
Orange Juice Stop & Shop 12 ounce can 69¢
Sweet Potatoes Mrs. Paul's Candied 12 oz pkg 69¢
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie Pumpkin or Mince 26 ounce package 1.19
Stop & Shop Vegetables Peas & Carrots, Corn, Peas or Mixed Veg 24 oz bag 69¢
Seabrook Fruit Melon or Mixed Fruit 16 oz pkg 89¢

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C-17
STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C-15
SAVE 15¢ BAKER'S 7 oz pkg Angel Flake Coconut
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 Limit one per customer
STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C-16
SAVE 50¢ DURKEE Any 3 pkgs of Extracts or Spices
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 Limit three per customer

Prices effective in Conn Sun Nov 16 Sat Nov 22 in Mass Mon Nov 17 Sat Nov 22 in stores to all our customers we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers Copyright 1980 by Stop & Shop Supermarkets All rights reserved

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line.

8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat. We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ART MAJORS

Portfolios & Art Work Photographed at reasonable prices - slides, prints, black & white or color - prices vary according to work GARY 665-3930 evenings

AUTO FOR SALE

1971 Satelite 318, asking 250 call after 9:00 665-7753

1975 Vega G.T. Stnd, 27 mpg, 2 bbl carb, body good, undercoated, AM/FM stereo, new wide oval tires & snows, other extras—$500.00 or BO 1-628-3279 after 5

1965 Lincoln Cont new parts for engine rebuild clean interior extras $500 firm 413-665-2667 evenings

73 Pinto Wagon 66K good car, needs some work $550 or BO call 546-8563

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

Film Series every Monday night. This week: "Sport Spectaculars". Free to students! For info call 5-0960

FOR RENT

Room for rent 5 bdrm house in Belcher town 100/mo 323-5526

One bedroom in two bedroom apartment in house. January - June with option $140 everything included 549-3602 4:30 - 6:30 PM

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

68 Rambler American runs excellent must sell Dave 584-3298 $275

Ski Boots mens 7½ (womens 8½) Nordica Hurricane flo boots. Only used half a season $100 or BO call Donna 549-1869

Weimaraner Pups AKC registered, from a long line of champs in show, obedience and field trial 1-413-339-6688

Ski Boots size 10½ beg-int year old good cond 6-7009

Fretless Bass, Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

Springsteen Tickets Providence Dec 11 549-5188

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

Guitar—Yamaha 6 string for sale. Excellent condition, great sound, and only 130.00 call Bill 256-8573

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TRACI

Hey Traci, it's your Birthday! Hooray! We love you. Mr. B and Susan

Traci, Is Rubber Duckie going to celebrate your B-day with you? We hear "tissues" from the Pub willl! Love, Dennis

It's never too early to celebrate! Love, the afternoon crew

Traci, "Can we still be friends?" Love, Peg, Gwen, debi, and Abby

Happy Birthday Cavanaugh! Okay, so we're finally 20. . .and at UMass. . .roommates. . ."the line has survived!" Love ya much, Peggy

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Delivery person with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 P.M. at Superior Pizzeria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

Temporary Jobs til Christmas $75.00 per week part time $200 week full time and bonuses. All majors. Possible permanent positions. Interviews held with Polaris at CC Wed. Nov. 19 Rm 163 11am - 3 pm

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Lost brown pocketbook front of SBA Thursday need my ID's call Paula 546-8261

Lost blue deerskin gloves vicinity of NOPE on 11/10 call 6-4184

PERFECT GUITAR FOR SALE

Yamaha FG-331 new strings, case, beautiful, perfect intonation for hassle free tuning, presicion neck, tight grain top; sounds like a Martin. Here is the perfect guitar, under $200 546-7185

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Moving? We will sublet your two bedroom apt. will pay sublet fee! Please call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Come on in out of the cold to Lambda Delta Phi's Fireside and Games Night. Keep warm and have fun on Tuesday Nov 18. All University women welcome! 389 No. Pleasant St. Call 5-0939 for rides

Springsteen, would like to trade 4 Hartford tickets for 4 Providence or Boston tickets call 256-6272 after 6

Attention: Phi Sig is sponsoring a Poor Dick's Thanksgiving Party tommorrow night with 25c drafts and Wild Turkey shots for $1.00 for advance tickets call Bob Schnepp at 256-6863

Denby, Thank you for an extra special year all my love JFR

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 177 8-10 pm Tues Nov 18th

Undergraduate Business Club meeting Tuesday, November 18 @ 8:00 p.m. in SBA room 1 All members must attend

Casablanca: Thursday, November 20 @ 7, 9, & 11 at CCA. Sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club Admission $1

Sunshine: It's nice to be back. Love ya; Despite all recents. Brother

Wizards—who are they? What are they? Stay Tuned

Harry I would fly anywhere with you. Just name it! Sue

Gary, Thanks for a great year I love you, Ali

The Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha invite all university men to an open rush tonight at 9:00 you won't be sorry

To the mysterious person who found and delivered my meal book & ID. . .thanks so much! Robin in Mary Lyon

We're counting on you to be there tonite 11/20 West Side Story, Mahar Aud 5, 8, 11 only $1.50

Hey "Joe Tennis" someone in J.A. thinls you're cute!

This Thanksgiving I am thankful I'm not a leftist because if I were I'd speak in the leftist rhetoric and wouldn't know what I was talking about. Ralph Emerson Geek

Who is that gorgeous little strawberry blond I see in the Hatch everyday. I'd like to get to know you. Is it true you live in Southwood? So do I. Signed, your secret admirer. I'll be watching you!

RIDE WANTED

To Buffalo NY or thereabouts share expenses Peter 545-0850

Two persons looking to obtain ride to UMaine, Orono Nov 21 call 549-5193

ROOM WANTED

Male senior seeks own room in Puffton or apartment near town for Spring semester will move in December 1st to February 1st. Call 253-8097 eves Peter

Female nonsmoker seeks room on bus route Spring semester presently exchange California call Jackie collect 916-895-5540

2 Responsible friendly females seek rooms in apt on bus rt Spring semester Beth Teri 546-6004

Friendly, responsible female wants own room in apt. near bus call Julie 546-4490

Female seeking own room in apt or house on bus rte Spring semester 546-8088

Seeking rm in apt/house near bus rt beginning Dec or Jan 1 Carol 546-7961

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Sarcastic Simpleton for OWN ROOM puffton, $122/mo. 549-1879

1 bdrm in 3 bdrm apt w/2 males No Amherst, bus route 549-5683 5-6 PM

1 or 2 roommates to share room in Squire Village apt female, non-smoker, quiet. Barb 665-2814

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Jewish students starting a "Bayit" to explore ways of Jewish living for Spring Semester. Please call Hillel 9-5 M-F 545-2526

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

Sublet Wanted! Charming, responsible students seeking 2 or 3 bedroom apartment or house in Amherst on bus route Jan 1 or Feb 1. Please call (eve) Debbie or Greg 323-7168 or Chris (days) 5-2240

One bedrrom to sublet over intersession 256 6719 for further information/details

Male wnated to sublet room in nice economical apt 253-7158 Andy

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Tutor needed immediately Public Health Statistics 540 call after 8 PM 253-7665

Students interested in a corridor built on mutual respect, consideration & community spirit. The 3rd floor Brett is an Interesting Alternative. Come pick up an application in the Lower Central Cluster Office for the Social Awareness Corridor.

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Wanted: 3 bedroom apartment/house in Amherst on bus route January 1 call 6-6035 or 6-5894

Apt needed Jan 1 2 bedrooms Amherst only eves 253-5673

THE GREAT SKI SNATCH

WINTER CLOTHING & SKI EQUIPMENT AT INCREDIBLE SAVINGS

This Week

Wed Nov. 19 — Noon
Thurs 20 — til 10 PM
Fri 21 — til 10 PM
Sat 22 — 10 AM til 5 PM

AT THE S.U.B.

FREE

!! International Movies!!

Nov. 18
Fellini's Classic
"Roma"
C.C. Aud. 7 & 9 pm

Nov. 20
Yugoslavian Social Commentary
"I Even Met Happy Gypsies"
Thompson 102 8 pm

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

DR. KISSINGER, I IS IT TRUE YOU'LL SOON BE ANNOUNCING YOUR AVAILABILITY FOR A POST WITH THE REAGAN ADMINISTRATION?
I WONDER IF YOU COULD CLEAR UP A RUMOR FOR US..
11-17
WELL, YES, I..
OH, NO..
SEE? I TOLD YOU.
THAT MEANS OUR SEMINAR IS CANCELLED, RIGHT, DOC?
BUT IT'S NOT FAIR! WE'VE DONE ALL THE READING! ALL THE PAPERS! WE'VE WORKED OUR HEARTS OUT FOR YOU!
I KNEW THIS WOULD HAPPEN
ME, TOO. THAT'S WHY I HELD OFF ON THE READING.
IF I MAY JUST EXPLAIN..
NO! GO ON! GET OUT OF HERE! HAVEN'T YOU DONE ENOUGH?
AND IF YOU PUNT THE JOB, DOC, DON'T COME CRAWLING BACK!
GBTrudeau

Under the Influence M. Joyce

THERE ONCE WAS A NOTORIOUS TRIO OF TWISTED SENIORS. AT PARTIES THEY ALWAYS DRANK ALL YOUR LIQUOR, BROKE THINGS,
AND STAYED WELL BEYOND THEIR WELCOME!
HEY! WE HAVEN'T HEARD THIS ONE YET!
EVEN MORE BEATLES!

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

THIS IS DAVID BRASSTAGE TO INTERVIEW CAMPUS COFFEEHOUSE SUPERSTAR, MR. T
MR. T, EXACTLY WHAT IS YOUR PHILOSOPHY?
I PITY THE WAY I LIVE BECAUSE THAT'S THE WAY I PITY AND THAT'S THE WAY I LIVE!
NOW ISN'T HE ONE-HELL-OF-A-GUY FOLKS?
STUMP
SUPA

The Collegian wants reporters to cover University and Amherst police, Hampshire District and Superior Courts, campus residential area government meetings, Amherst, Hampshire and Mount Holyoke Colleges and events in the Amherst area. A definite time commitment is required. Reporting experience helpful but not necessary. Call Richard Nagle or James Mahoney at the Collegian, 545-3500.

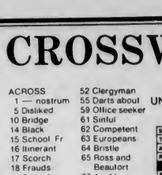
CROSSWORD

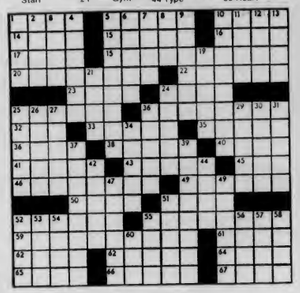
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Friday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 — nostrum
5 Disliked
10 Bridge
14 Black
15 School Fr
16 Itinerant
17 Scorch
18 Frauds 2 words
20 Denuded
22 Overthrow
23 Letters
24 Diet
25 Sire
28 Red shade
32 Arab garment
33 Hearsay
35 Stupid one
36 Misplaced
38 Sailors
40 Baked items
41 Some rel ones
43 Defeats
45 Explosive
46 Spires
48 Criticizes
50 Nuncupative
51 Football's Starr
52 Clergyman
55 Darts about
59 Office seeker
61 Sinful
62 Competent
63 Europeans
64 Bristle
65 Ross and Beaufort
66 Avidity
67 Eelpot, e g

DOWN
1 Clutter
2 Support
3 Bellow
4 Add value to
5 Evening star
6 Pains
7 Drove obliquely
8 Building annex
9 River adjuncts
10 Conformed 2 words
11 Splendor
12 Adam's son
13 Muzzle
19 Pierced
21 "— Gynt"
24 Bastilles
25 Niagara —
26 Near
27 Palate
28 Parts
29 Items
30 Odor
31 Assays
34 Female name
37 Hypotheses
39 Forced
42 Boom
44 Type
47 Thrashing
49 Bear witness
51 Indifferent
52 Tax aces: Abbr.
53 Ear part
54 Girl's name
55 Discharge
56 Continuously
57 Ms. Hayworth
58 Hit
60 Heart



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Chili Con Carne
Grilled Ham and Cheese Sandwich

BASICS LUNCH
Grilled Cheese on Whole Wheat
Creamed Vegetable Croquette/Sauce

DINNER
Turkey Divan
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Nutty Noodles
Turkey Divan

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center

Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.

- Weight control
- Nail biting
- Improve concentration
- Insomnia
- Bed wetting
- Improve study habits
- Relaxation
- Fear of heights
- Memory improvement
- Stop smoking
- Self confidence
- Sexual problems
- Improve sports ability
- Fear of flying

Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building, Rte 9 Hadley, Mass
3/10 mile Hamp Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1219 By Appt Only

COMMUNITY ORGANIZERS

ACORN needs organizers to work with low and moderate income families in 20 states (AR, SD, TX, LA, TN, MO, FL, CO, NV, PA, IA, OK, MI, AZ, NC, GA, SC, CA, CT, MA) for political and economic justice. Direct action on neighborhood deterioration, utility rates, taxes, health care, redlining, etc. Tangible results and enduring rewards--long hours and low pay. Training provided. Contact the Univ. Placement Service for interview Thurs., Nov. 20 or write Kaye Jaeger, ACORN, 117 Spring, Syracuse, NY 13208 315-476-0162

The Guitar Workshop and Music House

233 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002
Phone 549-1728

Save 40% off retail price on new Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Rickenbacker, and Yamaha guitars. Also discounted prices on Marshall and Polytone amps, MXR, and all strings and acc. Large selection of music for all instruments.

The rusty nail Inn

Appearing Tues. Nov. 18

THE BUZZCOCKS

Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

McEnroe tops Mayer in three without top form

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

WEMBLEY, England AP — A tired-looking John McEnroe played erratic tennis to beat second-seeded Gene Mayer 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 at the Wembley Arena on Sunday and won the Benson & Hedges Championships for the third straight year.

It was the top-seeded McEnroe's last competitive tournament of the year, during which he has collected close to a $500,000 in prize money. He earned another $36,540 by winning this one.

A crowd of 8,500 tried to work up some excitement by splitting into rival factions and shouting encouragement to the two American players, but the tennis often was dull.

McEnroe came straight to Wembly after losing to Bjorn Borg in the Swedish Open final in Stockholm last Monday. He moved comfortably through the week's matches without reaching his best form.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday throug, Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to 'Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Jonesy does it up-with style

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

The program lists him as Ashford, but the man's name is Max, and he did the job Saturday afternoon.

University of Massachusetts cornerback Max Jones came through with his best game of the season in the Minutemen's 17-0 win over New Hampshire. Jones turned in an inspired performance Saturday, breaking up three passes, two of them sure touchdowns, to go along with three fine unassisted open-field tackles and a running back sack on a cornerback blitz. To top it all off, Jones came up with a diving interception midway through the third quarter, then danced for joy with teammates Dwayne Lopes and Pete Spadafora...

The defense did the job Saturday, holding UNH to just 99 yards passing and an even 100 yards on the ground...Will Wonders Never Cease Dept.: The Minutement had just eight penalties for 51 yards against the Wildcats. Coming from a team who had 768 yards in penalties going into Saturday's game, it was a notable accomplishment...UMass has now outscored its opponents 77-42 in the second quarter...UMass tailback Garry Pearson broke a Minutemen record for most carries by a running back in a season. Pearson, who now has rushed 212 times this season, eclipsed Hank (the Tank) Sareault's record of 210 rushing attempts set in 1978...

UNH tailback Jim Quinn, who came into the game as one of the leading rushers in the Yankee Conference, was held to just eight yards on six carries. UNH coach Bill Bowes said Quinn suffered a torn ligament in his knee during practice last week and was hurting...Former UMass placekicker Sandro Vitiello finally got his due when the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League picked him up at the end of the week. Vitiello, who the Bengals had cut at the last moment before the season opener, shares the UMass record of 52 yards for the longest Minuteman field goal...

The UMass locker room erupted in cheers Saturday afternoon after it was learned Boston University had lost to Bucknell down in Lewisburg, Penn. The 30-17 loss all but eliminates BU from an NCAA Div. 1-AA playoff spot.

"I love it," Pearson said with a wide smile. "They (BU) are not the good football team everybody makes them out to be. They play an easy schedule, especially compared to ours. There's nothing I'd like more than to play them again—in dry conditions."

If you remember, it was a 3-0 loss to BU in ridiculous weather conditions that took the Yankee Conference title away from the Minutemen.

Pearson and fullback Brian Heyworth had a ball ranking out each other after the UNH game.

"Hey, ask this guy when the hell he's going to score a touchdown," Pearson said with a smile and a thumb indicating Heyworth.

"You know, I'm sick and tired of blocking for this guy," Heyworth countered, feigning seriousness. "Does he block for me? No. He steps back and says 'Go ahead, Brian. Go get eaten up.'"

It is safe and fairly objective to say that Pearson and Heyworth form the best backfield in the Yankee Conference—if not New England...

UMass placekicker Herb Newland doesn't get a lot of ink, but the man gets the job done. Newland, who hit a 20-yard field goal against UNH, is now 4-for-4 on field goal attempts and 17-for-19 in extra points.

Minuteman notebook

POSTERS Fall Clothing
Rugs Jewelry Gifts Bamboo Blinds
Great Gifts - Great Prices Daily 10 am - 6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA
7 X A RUSH
THE BROTHERS OF LAMBDA CHI ALPHA INVITE ALL INTERESTED UNIVERSITY MEN TO OPEN RUSH: NOV. 17,18 9-11 PM.

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE
Do you know the seven signs of a
BRAKEDOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!
SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight* Muffler
$19.95
Installed
* Silver Knight mufflers fit most U.S. cars and are unconditionally guaranteed for one year at this MIDAS shop.
MacPherson STRUTS
$119.95
$99.95 per pair
* Except Datsun Z Cars
FOR TODAY'S SMALLER CARS
MIDAS
586-4840 MIDAS® 143 King St., Northampton
MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

A place called
Alpha
and what you can do there

JEFF FORMAN - Instructor
Scientists have recognized that there's a special functioning level of the brain where the mind operates in an extremely high, intuitive, creative, and expanded capacity.
They've called this level Alpha.
The goal of Alpha Awareness is to help you learn to consciously function in Alpha at will, wherever and whenever you decide.
So you can expand your talents, improve your skills, develop your psychic abilities, effect positive changes in your personality, and correct disturbing bad habits.
In short, to allow you to function as a superior human being.
We help you to learn basic techniques you can use to make virtually any life situation easier to deal with. From handling your son's poor homework to handling your boss' impossible deadlines to handling your nose's allergic reaction to cat hair.
We help you to learn to apply these techniques to insomnia, smoking, headaches, poor memory and overweight.
With these techniques you can learn to rule your body by controlling your mind. They are a means to becoming healthier. And more vital. And happier.
A course called
Alpha Awareness
and how it works
The course itself takes four evenings and one weekend to complete. Most people take them back to back. But you can do it separately according to your own time slots. And once you've graduated you can sit in on future sessions as often as you like, free.
If you're interested but not convinced or want to know more, we run seminars in this area for free where you can find out just what goes on here in more detail.
And you're invited to get real tough with us with your questions. The atmosphere is friendly and we can take it.
Dress is informal and loose all the time. You wear whatever makes you feel comfortable and relaxed.
Are you ready for a place called Alpha?
See you there
ATTEND A FREE SPECIAL LECTURE
Wednesday, Nov. 19th Campus Center Rm 809 7:30 P.M.
Tuesday, Nov 18th Jones Library, Amherst 7:00 P.M.
For Further Information Call (413) 549-6370

Fall lacrosse: tune-up for spring season

By MARK P. BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Last spring, the UMass men's lacrosse team went through a rebuilding year; finishing 12th in the nation with eight wins and five losses and taking the Northeast Divisional Championship.

The season had its high points; impressive wins over Hofstra and Rutgers, and the season had its low points, tough losses at home against Army and Harvard. The latter cost UMass the New England Championship, which it had won the previous four years, and also a bid to the NCAA tournament.

The team has just recently finished fall workouts, with a schedule consisting of roughly 20 practice sessions and a few scrimmages.

"Fall lacrosse gives us a chance to meet the new players and introduce them to our style of play," head coach Dick Garber said. "The single biggest advantage of fall lacrosse is to new players. I think it helps them adjust to school here."

"I think we're going to be an exciting dynamite team next spring," Garber said. "The potential is very great."

UMass will be led by tri-captains Peter Schmitz, Paul Kinnane, and senior attackman Chris Corin. Schmitz, an All-American midfielder, and Kinnane, an Al-New England defenseman, were the co-captains of the 1980 squad.

Paul Kinnane will again captain the men's lacrosse team this spring. (Collegian file photo)

One strong point of the 1981 lacrosse team will be its depth.

"It will be especially tough cutting the roster down to 28 next spring," Garber said. "This is the best freshmen class we ever had."

The UMass attack should be exceptional. To go along with tri-captain Chris Corin, the Minutemen have Skip Vosburgh, and All-American Jim Weller. UMass also has some freshmen attackers, Morgan Mohrman, Karl Hatton (high school player of the year last year at Newton North), Sean Dolan, and Greg Costello.

The midfield squad which Garber describes as "the guts of any lacrosse team" has eight players returning and it should be impressive. The returners are Mike Lavin, Tim Cutler, Ernie Shapiro, Paul Fogarty, Tom Conner, Eric Conz, Edward Griffin, Guy Kidd, and Schmitz. Challenging for varsity spots are Stewart Orns, Peter Martino, Rich Messina, and Brian Maimone.

The defense, which is anchored by Kinnane, should be strong. Defenders include Doug Brown, Ray Cozzi, Mark Fierro, Joe Grab, Bryan Goulding, John Mincone, and Paul Schmutz.

In net for UMass will be one of five players. They are Chris Benedetto, Tom Seiler, Jerry Moreau, Dan Altschuler, and Tom Curran.

Assisting coach Garber in preparing this team for next season, which opens in Amherst on March 31, against the defending National Champion, Cornell University, will be Tom Cafaro, Peter Connolly and Steve Spellman.

Sports notices

NEW OFFERING FOR SPRING - RHETORIC 110J (WRITING ABOUT SPORTS) - WRITING ABOUT SPORTS will be offered for the first time this Spring. It will combine an inquiry into emerging issues in American sports with extensive practice and instruction in expository writing techniques. Register today and you'll spend next semester talking and writing about the most provocative issues in American sports. (See p. 57 of the Official Schedule of Courses for scheduling information.)

FOR ADDITIONAL INFO. CONTACT Rob Denson 584-1798

Rabbit Hunters: The Wildlife Society is collecting cottontail heads for Massachusetts Fish and Wildlife study. Please turn heads into Fred Greely (Room 324, Holdsworth Hall), or call Chris Ricardi 256-8058.

The FORFEIT FEE CHECKS for intramural touch football are ready to be picked up in the IM office. Please have your receipt with you.

HANG GLIDING CLUB MEETING Wednesday Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 903. All new members welcome. Club Christmas party to be discussed.

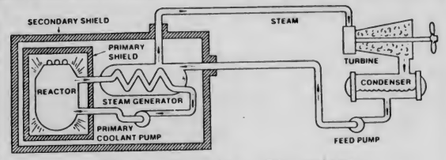
HOCKEY GOALIE NEEDED The General Physical Education Program Ice Hockey class needs a goalie. Anyone interested please call the office at 545-2338 or drop by Boyden 224 as soon as possible. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday at 8 a.m. at Orr Rink.

The UMass Sport Parachute Club will be holding its LAST First Jump Course for this season on Thur., Nov. 20, p.m. in Campus Center Rm. 902. Bring your I.D. and $75. This the last chance to try Skydiving at UMass until the Spring. C'mon down.

The club will be having a combined General Club Meeting and party at Russ's House (25 Nutting Ave.) on Sat., Nov 22, at 8 p.m. Munchies, slides, BYOB. Discussions will include student training, jumping in Florida, and votng on overall club issues. For further info call Russ, 549-1455.

Good times, Good drink, Good music
Monday-Cold, Cold Night Special:
All of our hot drinks only $
Tuesday - Pizza Party:
A free small pizza with every pitcher of beer
Wednesday - Bummer Night:
As the night goes on, prices go down!
Thursday - StiffStuff Special:
Buy one "Stiff Stuff" drink get one free!
Each and Every Week
From Nine Until Closing
the Hungry U
55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

DEBATE:
SHOULD the STATE FUND ABORTION?
Moderator
Susan Yarborough
Pro:
NANCY GERTNER
Vice President
Civil Liberties Union
Reproductive Freedom Project
Con:
JOSEPH REILLY
Director
Mass. Citizens for Life
TUE. NOV. 18 7:30
MAHAR AUD.
Cosponsored by: Distinguished Visitors Program & the Coalition for Equal Rights & Reproductive Freedom



Math, Physics, Chemistry & Engineering Majors
Could you use $10,000 your Senior Year?
Consider Navy Nuclear Engineering!
Selected college students (and Masters program students) can receive over $800 per month during their senior year in college (or last 12 months of their Masters program) without altering their present curriculum.
The U.S. Navy, this nation's largest employer in the nuclear propulsion field, offers the most comprehensive applied graduate level education available in the field. This engineering school is approximately one year long, including training on an operating nuclear reactor, and was created under the auspices of the Atomic energy Commission. The Navy is presently paying graduates of this program $30,000 per year after three years on-the-job experience.
Nuclear engineering is one of the rapidly expanding fields in contemporary science; the credentials of those completing this Navy program arehighly respected throughout the industry. For more information, call (collect) or write,
Bob Miller
Room 331, O'Brien Federal Bldg.
Albany, NY 12207
(518) 472-4425

Sports

Final YanCon match-up

Minutemen dull UNH 6-win streak

By JONATHAN HAMILTON
Collegian Staff

As the sun set behind the Holyoke range and a biting chill enveloped Alumni Stadium Saturday, the University of Massachusetts football team had stopped cold the University of New Hampshire 17-0 and assured themselves of a second place finish in the Yankee Conference. The Minutemen needed no secret weapons to dismantle the Wildcats. Instead they did what they have been doing well all season: unleashing a ferocious defense that eats up opponents and giving the ball to Garry Pearson who eats up yardage.

Again it was Pearson who racked up another impressive day of statistics. The sophomore tailback carried 24 times for 115 yards and two touchdowns. His first touchdown of the day capped off an 80-yard drive at 7:50 in the third quarter that took almost eight minutes to complete. Pearson's three-yard jaunt showed marvelous second effort on his part as he broke two tackles and scooted in for the score.

"Our offense showed a lot of character today," UMass head coach Bob Pickett said. "In the second half we ran the option but they took the pitch away from us so Dean (Pecevich) had to keep the ball and did a great job for us (running the option)."

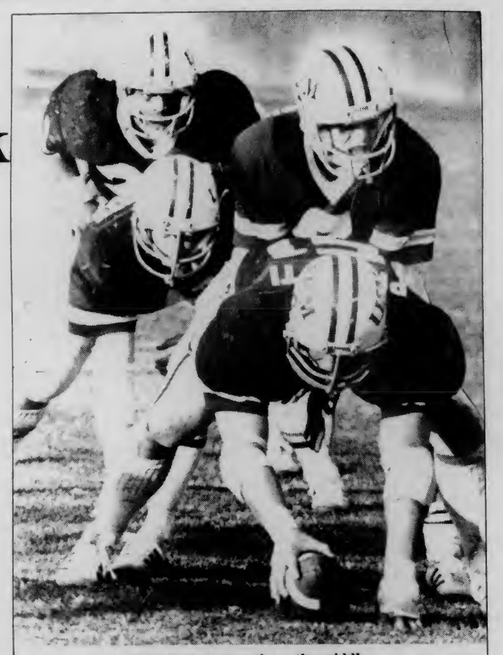
In the first half, though, it was very much a defensive struggle as the UMass defense stiffened after an opening drive by the Wildcats. After the Wildcats surrendered the ball on downs, Pearson on the very next play fumbled. UNH took over but found the going tough as Max Jones broke up two passes, Peter DiTommaso and Dan Petrie (who had outstanding days with eight and six tackles respectively) then dropped UNH runners twice for losses and the UMass defense had held.

Finally in the second quarter the Minutemen offense got untracked and began a run-oriented offense which feature Pearson carrying the ball six consecutive times. The drive stalled though, on the Wildcat four-yard line. Place kicker Herb Newland was called in and converted a 20-yard field goal with 4:48 remaining. The spark that ignited the drive was a 38-yard gallop by Pearson that moved the ball from New Hampshire's 49, down to the 11-yard line. At the half, it was 3-0 UMass.

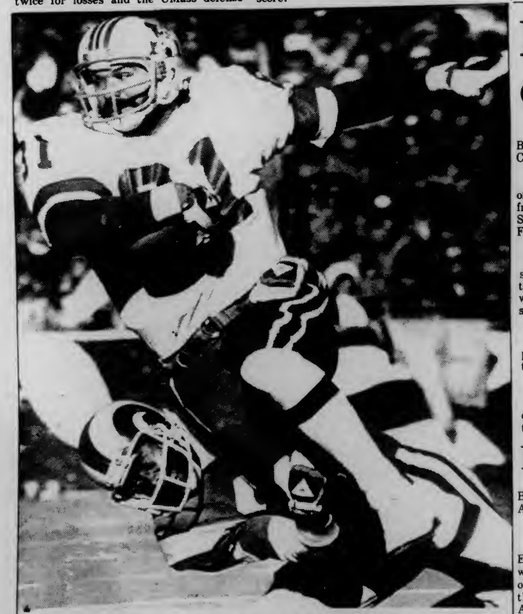
The Wildcats had opportunities to move the ball but dropped key passes. UNH's quarterback Denis Stevens was injured on the last play of the half and was replaced by freshman Rich LeClerc in the third quarter. LeClerc moved the ball with limited success but was plagued by his teammate's fumbling. New Hampshire fumbled the ball seven times and lost it five of those seven times.

"In the first half we moved the ball pretty well but we fumbled twice and dropped some passes," New Hampshire head coach Bill Bowes said. "You just can't make mistakes like that and expect to win against a team like UMass. They have the best defense in the Yankee Conference."

The Minutemen finished off their scoring in the final period aided by a Wildcat mistake deep in UMass territory. A punt by UMass' Ray Larnard (six punts, 31.6 ave.) was caught and then fumbled by Curt Collins. The ball was then recovered by John Hansen on the UMass nine yard line. From there Pearson and Brian Heyworth (nine carries, 32 yards) moved the ball to the one. Pearson added the icing on the cake with his 14th touchdown of the season, on a one yard sweep for the score.



Minuteman strength up the middle:
Center Vic Pizzotti gets set to snap the ball to quarterback Dean Pecevich in Saturday's game against UNH. Behind Pecevich, running backs Brian Heyworth and Garry Pearson set up in I-formation. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt.)



Patriot Russ Francis is hit by Johnnie Johnson of the Rams in Sunday's football game at Schaefer Stadium. Los Angeles came from behind to win the game 17-14. (AP Laserphoto)

Runners place sixth, out of post-season

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

Twenty points separated the University of Massachusetts men's cross country team from qualifying for the Nationals in Saturday's NCAA Qualifying Meet at Franklin Park, Boston.

UMass was shooting for the third place slot because "everyone knew ahead of time the top two places so it was third place that was up for grabs," head coach Ken O'Brien said.

Taking that third place was very important since only the top three teams go on to Nationals.

The race for third was definitely a tight one because merely three points separated third and fifth place.

Providence College proved again that it has the top team in New England by accumulating only 35 points. They were followed by Dartmouth (89), University of Connecticut (125), Boston College (126), Yale (128), UMass (145), Boston University (154), and Northeastern (172).

UMass co-captain Mike Doiron placed 15th at (30:28), besting his top time for the 6.2 mile course by 40 seconds.

Doiron was closely followed by teammates Kyle Martin (25th), Paul Beaulieu (27th), and Frank Prial (30th), who all ran excellent races, according to O'Brien.

"Overall the team ran well, especially under the stiff competition," O'Brien said. "It was their best team performance since the IC4A's."

Pats choke, Rams win 17-14

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

FOXBORO, Mass. AP — Elvis Peacock scored the winning touchdown on a one-yard run late in the third quarter, and the Los Angeles Rams muffled New England's explosive offense to capture a 17-14 come-from-behing victory over the Patriots in the National Football League Sunday.

The Rams, 7-4, remain within one game of Atlanta, leader of the National Conference West. The Patriots suffered two costly fumbles and sank to 7-4 by losing for the third time in their last four games. They fell one game behind first place Buffalo in the American Conference East.

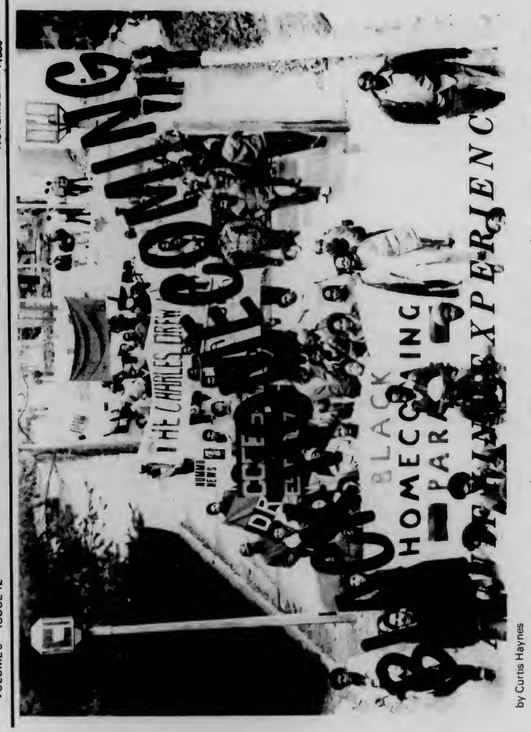
New England, which came into the game as the NFL's second highest scoring team, was sluggish on offense for the first three periods, but had two good scoring chances in the fourth quarter.

One ended when the Patriots funbled the ball away after moving to the RAms' two-yard line, and the other fizzled when John Smith missed a 47-yard field goal.

—If you know T E A C H . . . If you don't know L E A R N—

NUMMO

VOLUME 9 ISSUE 12 NOVEMBER 17, 1980



by Curtis Haynes

UNITY EQUALS POWER. That was the message this week, the week of the anual Black Homecoming. As a people, unified in struggle, we were able to put all of our differences in the closet and for a few days we knew what we were doing was right, because the spirit was there.

Yes, last Sunday morning it was raining but something in the air said that today we would not be defeated. The rain stopped and we met at Roxbury Community College, Northeast, Central, Orchard Hill, off campus, and from the other surrounding campuses. WE CAME. And, as we stood there wondering if it would rain again, a feeling of warmth began to generate through the crowd. We knew that today would be a day of celebration. They were the ignorant ones. We knew that Dorchester, Mattapan, Roxbury, in Africa. Then I came back to reality: The Man, The Man, The Man.

What was he thinking about when he saw such a large, organized group of black people? How does he react? Then I thought of times I had seen the cops, during hikes, ghetto schools, the CIA, the FBI, the Police. Yes, the Man is afraid of a people with a gripe, especially if they are educated.

The parade traveled down the streets of Dorchester, through the streets of Roxbury, Massachusetts Ave. We were laughing, singing, shouting and we were generating pride. We sang about freedom, we sang the African-american National Anthem, and we marched. In South West, I heard some people, as the crowds arose, to drown out our celebration. They were the ignorant ones. I didn't think about them much. I thought of the 'intelligent' (America, love it or leave it)

turn to page 4

PLEASE FOLD HERE

ANNOUNCEMENTS

NUMMO is the magic power of the spoken and written word. With each word translated there escapes vapor. Vapor is a form of water. Water is necessary for the existance of all life forms on earth.

The Black News Service strongly believes that our newspaper will speak the truths of the protractive struggle of black people. Only through the truth can we, as a people develop a clear and precise knowledge of the world and its perplexities. When we receive knowledge, it is our duty to use it and share it with you, our fellow brothers and sisters. It is through this exchange of written information which you, the people transfer the spoken word into power. Then together we will surely become the controllers of our creative life forces, our destiny.

THIRD WORLD CINEMA

From the shantytowns of Kingston to the Casbah of Algiers, from the Bantustaans of South Africa to the cane fields of Cuba, from the ghettos of London and Los Angeles to the campesinos of Bolivia has emerged a new cinema of revolutionary consciousness. College students will be able to experience the images and sounds of this new cinema through such provocative films as THE HARDER THEY COME; THE BATTLE OF ALGIERS; BLACKS BRITANNICA; BLOOD OF THE CONDOR; BLACK GIRL; LA MEMORIES OF UNDERDEVELOPMENT, and BUSH MAMA. (Films will be shown in their original language - French, Spanish, Arabic, or English, with English sub-titles where necessary.)

THIRD WORLD CINEMA: CLASS, AND SEX IN FILM A three credit course offering by the Smith College Afro-American Studies Department will examine the dynamics of the international, Third-World film movement that has developed in the last 15 years as an alternative to Hollywood's distorted, commercial movies. The course will also look at the impact of film as subversive art consciousness-raising medium, and international industry.

Readings: A new reader is being compiled specifically for this course, including work by Solanas and Getino; Ousmane Sembene; Leopold Senghor, Chairman Mao, Frar Fanon; filmmmakers Ousmane Sembene, Tomas Alea, Miguel Litin, Sara Gomez, Jorge Sanjines, Fernando Solanas, Sergio Giral, Julio Espinosa; and resolutions from international conferences of Third-World filmmakers, some of which have been forced into exile by repressive military regimes.

Pre-requisites: None. This course is designed to meet the needs of students who have never been exposed to life in the Third World, as well as those students advanced in Third-World cinema and society.

Requirements: two take-home tests, an oral presentation, screening of twelve films, weekly readings, and active participation in lecture-discussions.

Film screenings: Mon., 7:30 p.m., Hillyer 17.

Lecture/discussion: Tues., 2:10-4:00, Seelye II.

For further information, contact course instructur Harold Weaver on Ext. 2370 or the Smith College Afro-American Studies Department on Ext. 2154.

Mobilize Labor And Blacks to SMASH THE KLAN!
speaker: Ed Jarvis
7:30 pm, Friday, November 21
Phillips Brooks House, Harvard

PALESTINIAN SOLIDARY COMMITTEE MEETING WED NOVEMBER 19 7:00pm CC 901

EVERYONE IS ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND AND GIVE SOLIDARITY TO THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE'S STRUGGLE FOR SELF-DETERMINATION.

NUMMO NEWS STAFF MEETING
TUESDAY 8:00pm
NEW AFRICA HOUSE room 103
STAFF ATTENDANCE MANDATORY

KENKELEBA HOUSE- RISING TIDE-
PEOPLE'S DEFENSE COMMITTEE

-PRESENT-

Black Literature in the Revolution & Renaissance.
A Forum & Reading with:

James Bal
Amiri Baraka
Toni Morrison

-Introduced by-

Gil Noble

Clayton Riley
Moderator

Sunday, November 23, 1980 at 7:30

McMillan Hall — COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
116th St. & Broadway, New York, N.Y.
admission: $5.00 for info.,call:
(212) 254-5289 or (201) 242-1346

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, cartoons, or other graphics are welcome and accepted for the fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to:

DRUM
115 New Africa House
UMASS, Amherst, MA 01003

no later than November 20, 1980

Come accept the invitation and SHARE YOUR MIND with the world. All contributions become the property of DRUM

CIA IS COMING TO CAMPUS
The Central Intelligence Agency will be recruiting prospective employees at UMass on Friday the 21st. There will be demonstration to protest the presence of this criminal organization on Friday at 10 am at Hampshire House. Planning meeting today at 4pm room 420 Student Union.

Cuban film: "The New School" Tonight at 7:30 pm in Merril II at Amherst College. Sponsored by La Causa.

HAIR

Latees Muhammed will be the new barber and hair stylist at New Africa House, every Thursday from 10:00 to 7:00.

THE STRUGGLE IN CONGO (ZAIRE)

AMHERST - On Tuesday, November 18 at the University of Massachusetts, a struggle of the Congolese people will be held in Campus Center, Room 804 at 7:30 p.m. Serge Mukendi, the U.S. representative of the Congolese National Liberation Front (F.L.N.C.) will speak on the fight of the people of the Congo against U.S. and French imperialism and the neocolonist dictatorship of Mobutu Sese Seko. A $2.00 donation will be requested at the door. Childcare will be provided.

This forum is presented by the John Brown Anti-Klan Committee, the Center for Racial Studies, Black Mass Communication Project, the International Human Rights Coalition and other organizations.

For more information contact:

John Brown Anti-Klan Committee
Box 742
Amherst, MA 01002
586-8435

Mokubung Nkomo
Center for Racial Studies
Southwest Residential Center, Moore House
UMass, Amherst, MA. 545-1550

"ON WITHDRAWAL"

ESSAY BY GEORGE JACKSON ON THE NATURE OF AMERICAN FASCISM AND THE BUILDING OF THE CENTRAL CITY COMMUNE

Reprinted from Black Panther Weekly
August 21, 1976

George Jackson was a black man, whose only crime was to stand up for what he believed in. George Jackson could have been you and he could have been me. George Jackson was arrested for a crime he did not commit and was thrown into prison. Once in prison he became serious, started studying, and he learned about the system that had put him there. With this new found knowledge, George Jackson was about organizing and spreading the truth. However, the oppressor is strong and he would not let any type of organization exist among prisoners, (and since the prisons majority is black, this is only a reflection of what he is actually doing to the black community, and any other force that would dare speak out against repression.)

But George Jackson was strong, determined, full of love, and dedicated to the cause of the people. George Jackson was without fear and this is why he had to die. George Jackson spoke the truth so they framed him. He was murdered August 21, 1971 while protecting other prisoners, both black and white.

Today, many of us do not know who George Jackson was and what he was about. Thus the system thought that George Jackson was dead. But George Jackson lives on because he spoke the truth, and the truth will not be suppressed. We the staff of NUMMO NEWS want to pass George Jackson's truth on to you because we know that truth breeds strength, and with this strength, our people will unite in rightousness.

"We must accept the eventuality of bringing the U.S.A. to its knees; acceptthe closing off of critical sections of the city with barbed wire, armoured pig carriers criss-crossing the streets, soldiers everywhere, tommy guns pointing at stomach level, smoke curling black against the daylight sky, the smell of cordite, house-to-house searches, doors being kicked in, the commonness of death."

So wrote Comrade George Jackson, the Field Marshal of the Black Panther Party, by way of introduction to the opening chapter of his book, Blood in My Eye. Throughout his outstanding last work, Comrade George carefully strips away the bewildering illusions that so conveniently distort the reality of the American nightmare, to bring to the fore the concrete revolutionary process.

THE Following, essay, "ON Withdrawal," excerpted from BLOOD IN MY EYE, in which Comrade George outlines the groundwork for the building of a central city commune foundation, the "infrastructure" as he called it, "capable of fielding a true people's army" and leading to the freedom and liberation of all.

After revolution has failed, all questions must center on how a new revolutionary consciousness can be mobilized around the new set of class antagonisms that have been created by the authoritarian reign of terror. At which level of social, political and economic life should we begin our new attack?

First, we, the Black partisans and their vanguard party, the old and new left alike, must concede that the worker's revolution and its vanguard parties have failed to deliver the promised changes in property relations or any of the institutions that support them, This must be conceded without bitterness, name-calling, or the intense rancor that is presently building.

There have been two depressions, two great wars,a dozen serious recessions, a dozen brush wars, crisis after economic crisis. The mass psycho-social national cohesiveness has trembled on the brink of disruption and disintegration repeatedly over the last fifty years, threatening to fly apart from its own concentric inner dynamics.

But at each crisis it was allowed to reform itself; with each reform, revolution became more remote. This is because the old left has failed to understand the true nature of fascism.

We will never have a complete definition of fascism, because it is in constant motion showing a new face to fit any particular set of problems that arise to threaten the predominance of the traditionalist, capitalist ruling class. But if one were forced for the sake of clarity to define it in a word simple enough for all to understand, that word would be "reform". We can make our definition more precise by adding the word "economic". "Economic reform" comes very close to a working definition of fascist motive forces.

FALLEN COMRADE

GEORGE LESTER JACKSON

Assassinated: August 21, 1971

"Settle your quarrels, come together, understand the reality of our situation, understand that fascism is already here, that people are already dying who could be saved, that generations more will die or live poor, half-butchered lives if you fail to act. Do what must be done, discover your humanity and your love in revolution. Pass on the torch. Join us, give up your life for the people."

GEORGE JACKSON LIVES!

ALL POWER TO THE PEOPLE

Such a definition may serve to clarify things even though it leaves a great deal unexplained. Each economic reform that perpetuates ruling class hegemony has to be disguised as a positive gain for the upthrusting masses. Disguise enters as a third stage of the emergence and development of the fascist state. The modern industrial fascist state has found it essential to disguise the opulence of its ruling class's leisure existence by providing the lower classes with a mass consumer's flea market of its own.

To allow a sizable portion of the "new state" to participate in this flea market, the ruling class has established currency controls and minimum wage laws that mask the true nature of modern fascism. Reform (the closed economy) is only a new way for capitalism to protect and develop fascism!

After the German SS agents or Italian Black Shirts kick in the doors and herd Jews and Communist partisans to death camps, after Peg-Leg White's Black Legion terror and the Guardians of the Republic and their offspring legitimize the F.B.I., in other words, after the fascists have succeeded in crushing the vanguard elements and the threat they pose is removed, the ruling class goes on about the business of making profits as usual.

The significance of the "new fascist arrangement" lies in the fact that this business-as-usual is accompanied by concessions to degenerate segment of the working class, with the aim of creating a buffer zone bewteen the ruling class and the still potentially revolutionary segments of the lower classes.

NEW CORPORATE STATE

Corporative ideals have reached their logical conclusion in the U.S. The new corporate state has fought its way through crisis after crisis, established its ruling elited in every important institution, formed its partnership with labor through its elites, erected the most massive network of protective agencies replete with spies, technical and animal, to be found in any police state in the world. The violence of the ruling class of this country in the long process of its trend toward authoritarianism and its last and highest state, fascism, cannot be rivaled in its excesses by any other nation on earth today or in history.

With each advancement in the authoritarian process and strengthening of the ruling class's control over the system, there was a corresponding weakening of the people's and worker's movement.

And intellectuals still argue whether Amerika is a fascist country. This concern is typical of the Amerikan left's flight from reality, from any truly extreme position. This is actually a manifestation of the authoritarian process seeping into its own psyche. At this stage, how can anyone question the existence of a fascist arrangement• Just consider the awesome centralization of power, and the proven fact that the largest part of the Gross National Product is in the hands of a minute portion of the population.

Of course, the revolution has failed. Fascism has temporarily succeeded under the guise of reform. The only way we can destroy it is to refuse to compromise with the enemy state and its ruling class. Compromises were made in the thirties, the forties, the fifties. The old vanguard parties made gross strategic and tactical errors. At the existential moment, the last revelation about oneself, not many members of the old vanguard choose to risk their whole futures, their lives, in order to alter the conditions that Huey P. Newton describes as "destructive of life."

Reformism was allowed. The more degenerate elements of the working class were the first to succumb. The vanguard parties ported the capitalistic war adventure in World War 11. Then they helped to promote the mass consumers' market that followed the close of the war, the flea market that muted the workers' more genuine demands. Today we are faced with a clearly different set of class antagonisms, the complexities of a particularly refined fascist economic arrangement, where the controlling elites have coopted large portions of the lowly working class.

When we ask ourselves: Where will we attack the enemy state ?We are answered: At the productive point.

The next logical question is: With whom and what will we attack the fortified entrance of the productive and distrubutive system in a nation of short-sighted, contented, conservative workers? Obviously, the fascist movement is counterrevolution at its very center. Fascist reformism is a calculated response to the classic, scientific-socialist approach to revolution through positive mobilization of the working class. From its inception the fascist arrangement has attempted to create the illusion of a mass society in which the traditional capitalist ruling class would continue to play its leading role. A mass society that is not a mass society; a mass society of authoritarians whose short-term material interests are perfectly suited to the development of the perfect totalitarian state and centralized economy.

The most precise definitions of fascism involve the concept of "scientific capitalism," or"controlled capitalism,"a sophisticated totalitarian, "learned" response to the challenge of egalitarian, scientific socialism. After its successgul establishment in Spain, Portugal,Greece, South Africa and the United States of America, we are faced with the obvious question of "how to raise a new consciousness."

We are faced with the task of raising a positive mobilization of revolutionary consciousness in a mass that has "gone through" a contrapositive, authoritarian process.

The new vanguard elements seem to agree that withdrawal from the enemy state and its social, political and economic life is the first step toward its destruction. The new vanguard elements seem to agree that the new revolutionary consciousness will develop in the struggles of withdrawal. However, after this point, agreement grows vague and is all but lost in a sea of contradiction. The contention turns on one primary question - the scope and range of violence within the revolutionary process.

IDEOLOGICAL BATTLE

After the lengthy and clearly unnecessary idealogical battle that laid to rest a direct approach to revolution by the White or Black worker, we are now faced with an equally unnecessary idealogical battle over which of the various communal (revolutionary cultural) approaches has the stronger revolutionary validity.

The problem is compounded by the almost political withdrawal of the growing Weatherman faction, and their estranged allies on campus, to organic food gardens and a life of sex, music and drugs. Their NietzscheanHegelian withdrawal mimics the European historical experience of the last five generations. In our question, this must be considered the minor side of the syllogism. Though revolution is in fashion, the realistic, cohesive synergism seems as yet impossibly remote.

On the other side of the equation, we have Huey Newton's concept of Black communes set well within the huge population centers of the enemy state. This concept accepts any level of violence that will be necessary to enforce the demands of the people and workers. These communes will be tied to one another by a national and international vanguard party and joined with the world's other revolutionary societies. They are the obvious answer to all the theoretical and practical questions and problems about an Amerikan revolution - a revolution that will be carried out principally by Blacks.

The question I've asked myself over the years runs this way: Who has done most of the dying? Most of the work? Most of the time in prison (on Max Row)? Who is the hindmost in every aspect of social , political and economic life ? Who has the least short-term interest - or no interest at all - in the survival of the present state? In this condition, how could we believe in the possibility of a new generation of enlightened fascists who would dismantle the basis of their hierarchy?

Just how many Amerikans are willing to accept the physical destruction of some parts of their fatherland so that the rest of the land and the world might survive in good health ? How can the Black industrial worker be induced to carry out a valid worker's revolutionary policy? What and who will guide him ?

The commune. The central citywide revolutionary culture. But who will build the commune that will guide the people into a significant challenge to property rights? Carving out a commune in the central city will involve claiming certain rights as our own - out front. Rights that have not been respected to now. Property rights. It will involve building a political, social and economic infrastructure, capable of filling the vacuum that has been left by the establishment ruling class and pushing the occupying forces of the enemy culture from our midst.

IMPLEMENTATION

The implementation of this new social, political and economic program will feed and comfort all the people on at least a subsistence level, and force the "owners"of the enemy bourgeois culture either to tie their whole fortunes to the communes and the people, or to leave the land, the tools and the market behind. If he will not leave voluntarily, we will expel him - we will use the shotgun and the antitank rocket launcher!!

Who will build on an ideal that begins with force? The vanguard party is now nationwide. But vanguard parties cannot build revolutions alone. Nor can a vanguard partyexpect full party line agreements before it moves in the direction of the

turn to page 7

Virginia Kee:

An Asian American Woman in Politics

Yat Man

This past Saturday, Nov. 15th, Virginia M. Kee, a civil rights activists, came to UMass to speak on Asian American issues focusing pareticularly on Asian American women in politics. Virginia Kee is the first guest this year to take part in a lecture series sponsored by the Asian American Students Assocation.

Presently serving as a Democractic Assembly person for the 62nd District in Manhattan's Lower East Side, Mrs. Kee has always concentrated her efforts to improve the community she represents. In the early 1960's she brought the first youth program to Chinatown and acted as chairperson for one of the first Chinatown community service organizations, the Chinatown Planning Council. As a community leader, she fought for day care services and for meals for the elderly. She spoke out for health services in Chinatown.

With her awareness of the prlblems conforonting recently arrived Asian immigrants, she poineered bi-lingual educatikon for these immigrants and implemented programs designed to assist them in coping with a sometimes hostile and alienating society.

During the Civil Rights Movement of the 60's, Virginia Kee was one of the few Asians activists who provided a much needed Asian voice. "Without the civil rights movement I don't know where the Asian movement would be now." She spoke on the problems facing Asian communities especially the Chinatown "ghettos." With the corrupness of law enforcement officers, gambling dens located in Chinatown thrive and help promote young gang activities that are so prevalent today. She spoke against the present situation of diviseness existing between Asians and the separation of Asians into small clicish subgroups such as Koreans, Japanese, Chinese, Pilipinos, Vietnamese, etc.

"We must unify ourselves as Asian Americans." in order to break down barriers especially in the political area and presnet ourselves as an organized viable force," she stated. She enocouraged the Asian college students to get involved with politics and to realize that without political influence, the Asian American movment is serverely limited . In order to "change things we must obtain political clout."

With politics getting dirtier and more reactionary, Mrs. Kee has always remained loyal and honest as a representative of her coimmunity.

"Knocking on doors late at nights and asking for signatures isn't fun, seeing your face on posters everywhere you go isn't fun, being the only Asian and the only women in political meetings isn't fun, fighting opponents who play dirty politics isn't fun, but is is importnat to the Asian community that I serve and represent them which makes it all worhwhile."

Having worked with Mrs. Kee in her campaign for Assembly person, I can honestly say that she is a fighter. I salute her and her efforts to help all Asizan - Americans, including Koreans, Chinese , Japanese, Vietnamese and Pilipinos.

Yellow Anglos?

Henry Jung

It has come to this writer's attention that frequently other third world students would accuse Asian students (U.S. or foreign-born) of being "anglos" because they appear to be spending more time with white students than with other third world students (black, hispanic, or native americans). Whether this is true could statistically be proven through empirical studies commonly found in sociology. But quantifiable considerations aside, what if Asian students spend more time with white students, why would this be probable ? Here are some factors to be considered:

1. There are many more white students here on campus than the third world students as a whole (an obvious fact).
2. The Western Euro-American cultural influence on Asian students, (U.S. or foreign-born) is very strong e.g., education, fashions, technology , mass media, etc.
3. Many Asians here at school are refugees, parolees, foreign students, etc., so they may feel reluctant to associate with campus militants, marxist revolutionaries or third world cultural nationalists.
4. The traditional ethnocentrism of these Asian students may be further reinforced by the prevasive white racist ideologies around.

But in the final analysis it would appear that the quality of the interaction is more important than the color of the participants.

Jerry Herman Speaks

on South Africa

by Fran Schwartzberg

Jerry Herman, former professor at S.E. Illinois University, and now with the American Friends Service Committees and the Peace Education Committee on Southern Africa, spoke in Amherst on Friday, Oct. 13, at the Grace Episcopal Church. Dr. Herman recently returned from a trip to South Africa.

Dr. Herman brought news of life and struggle in South Africa. As an African-American visitor to the nation of apartheid, he visited with people in the townships as well as spoke to some government officials.

This has been an important year of Black resistance in South Africa, and Dr. Herman brought us reports of drastic change in people's feelings in Johannesburg and elsewhere. "Anger is near the edge in Black townships". Capetown is the site of student boycotts in which over fifty students have been killed this year. Dr. Herman spoke of the growing radicalization of students of mixed African-Asian-Anglo ancestry, especially in the prisons, where they have attempted to resist their divisions by the authorities into so-called "colored", Asian, and black groups; divisions by which the government tries to impede unity. According to Dr, Herman, students of mixed ancestry have been rethinking their relationship to the Black Liberation movement, and have developed a class as well as racial analysis of their situation. (Due to school boycotts, Pretoria announced in late September, the closing of seventy-seven schools indefinitely).

Dr. Herman told us of an interview he had with chief architect of the South African presidents' council. The council is an advisory body designed to assess the feelings of the country and then develop ideas for possible future changes to the South African constitution. When asked about the lack of black participation in this process the official responded, "we know what's best for the black community." In response to a later question on the situation of Namibia this man also said he didn't give a damn about the U.N."

Good news from Namibia, reported by the Windhoek Observer, is that SWAPO (The Sothwest African Peoples Organization) has the support of 90 per cent of the population. South African casualties in Namibia have been much higher than the government has been reporting (according to the S.A. War Resisters League, SAMRAF). South Africa becomes more and more paranoid as it finds itself surrounded by newly independent black nations. Dr. Herman told us that South Africa wants U.S. investment capital so that it can put its money into armaments against Namibia and for internal repression.

Dr. Herman's own treatment as a black person in South Africa was highly reminiscent of Jim Crow days, past and present, in this country: having to order food "to go" as opposed to being able to stay at Wimpie's restaurant, etc. One day while traveling with a group of black and white colleagues, where the whites had decided to remain in an all-black car, Dr. Herman and his friends were forced off the train and taken to a police station. The privilege of having a U.S. passport was enough to get them out of the clutches of the South African police. Such is not the luck, however, of the hundreds of thousands of Black South Africans persecuted under the restrictions of the passbook system every year.

During his stay Dr. Herman visited the Langa Courthouse where passbook violators are processed. There he saw a seventeen year old woman, who had been detained all night, be sentenced to fifty days in jail for walking without an appropriate passbook to a store where she could get milk more cheaply than in her on neighborhood! (In an attempt to falsely make apartheid look less ghastly, the government has been 'doctoring' statastics on passbook prosecutions. Fewer people are reported arrested, but more people are shipped to the bantustans without trial. [see Southern Africa, Sept./Oct. issue, Pg.33 for a report.]

In regard to the growing and coming struggle in S.Africa,Dr. Herman echoed the feelings of many when he said, 'I don't see a way out of the violence to come.' The families and friends of the 1200 young people murdered in 1976 in Soweto do not forget. The emphasis in S.Africa is on change. The goal and the struggle is for unity and liberation.

The discussion period after Jerry's talk provided an important chance to share questions and answers about a number of S.African issues; the rise of black trade union activity and widespread strikes, including the mass stride by 10,000 Black municipal workers in Johannesburg this summer; the different political groups (and their unity); and the coming of compulsary education for Black children (which parents are responsible for paying for, whether or not they can afford to!); and the government's stratégy to use compulsary education to de-mobilize the political activity of students.

Jerry Herman had also brought us tales of celebration and joy in both Zimbabwe and Soweto over Zimbabwean independence. A luta continual Friday evening (which had started off with a fine pot-luck dinner!) re-inspired and re-fired us to keep in touch with Southern Africa and support the struggle for Liberation!

Sunday, November 23rd, 1980

Bowker Auditorium,
University of Massachusetts, Amherst
8:P.M.

$3.00 general public

$2.00 students with ID

presented by the asian american students association and the UMass arts council

photo by barron roland ed cohen robert davis

continued from page 1

white folks who were studying us from their windows. What were they thinking ? Were they afraid, angry ? Or were they taking note, probably never forgetting the time they saw this group of angry, organized, intelligent, educated, African-american people.

Then we were at New Africa House, and people were chanting "New Africa", "New Africa", and I felt proud. We went inside to in its glory. And we rapped. We spoke about this great house of ours, and about the great power of our people. We talked about the group of organized, proud, African-american people who took this building in 1969, so that here at U Mass they could have a home they could be proud of. They demanded this building, it was not about charity. (Do you know any one who is proud of receiving charity ? I don't)

Then my mind flashed to a dying house, representing, a dying philosophy, of a dying people. I thought of a house, who's Spirit was dying, because New African people did not have the heart, nor the organizing ability to keep this symbol of freedom alive. The strength of New Africa House has dwindled because many of us do not realize what a NEW...AFRICA...HOUSE... (a house that belongs to New African People) in OLD U.S.A. means. Thus, many of us do not realize the power, that New Africans, as a people, have in the old U.S.A.. But the Man does.

Think, for a second about history. Think about those whites(America, right or wrong) who saw New Africans organized. Do you think they will forget what they saw ? I doubt it, and even though many New Africans have a short memory, these whites, those who do not want to share America, have very long memories. And whats more, they are able to act on what they saw and what they are afraid of. To them, there is no room for a group of proud New African people, who are angry at an unjust America.

They will tell us, that if we want to live an economically decent life in America we will have to play by their rules. We will have to assimilate into America, accept her rules and foresake our Brothers and Sisters who do not have the fortune to rise up the economic ladder. And if we do decide to organize against a system that is unjust to our people, chances are, we will also be giving up our right to economic well-being in America. If things get hot enough, we may even lose our physical freedom or even our lives. One thing is for sure, if we do not speak out, and fight injustice the majority of New Africans will continue to live in a poor society which is sectioned off and controlled by a combination of force, charity, mis-education, no-education, and lies.

Yes, America is afraid of a group of unified, proud, educated, New Africans because, as they have seen in the past, when they are together, in unity, we will demand our rights for a decent living. But we also know, once you have owned something (let alone, for over 200 years) you aren't going to give it up without a fight. And as history shows many Americans are not even down to share. But to look at the other side of the coin, when you live in the land of plenty, and you have nothing, one day you are going to get tired of begging and you are going to be about taking it. (Like a child licking on a dripping ice cream, on a hot summer day, teasing the kid who has no money to get one but who has the desire to cool his hot body with something sweet and cool. We all know what will happen if this teasing continues.) Just expand that to whole races, and classes, and you have a potential for some pretty violent times.

Well, this is 1980, and the potential of organizing is here again, we have proved it in this week of the Black Homecoming. But I have a message to all you brothers and sisters: Those of you who think you can be about unity for one week out of the year, and then go about your business, don't forget about those who saw your brothers and sisters march before you, and take over a building, and those who saw you march during Black Homecoming Week. They will never forget what they saw, and they ARE preparing themselves for that day when we stop asking, and begging for what is rightly ours, and start demanding. Don't forget that a group of PROUD, ANGERY, INTELLIGENT, EDUCATED,

NEW AFRICAN people in a sea of white is not easly forgotten.

Cultura ispana: Presente en Amherst

In the past few weeks the Hispanic community has brought varied cultural programs to the area. These are scenes from some of the activities.

Los Hermanos Jimenez, en el baile-concierto de Ray Barreto y su orquesta, el viernes pasado en el Student Union Ballroom. Auspiciado por Ahora, UPC y Duke Ellington Committee.

Photo by Ed Cohen

Moliendo Vidrio, grupo de nueva cancion puertorriqueña, en Amherst College, noviembre 5. Auspiciado por Ahora y La Causa (de Amherst College).

Photo by Ed Cohen

Cibales, grupo de danza puertorriqueña, el jueves pasado, en la presentacion de teatro del grupo Actores Unidos. Auspiciado por Ahora.

Photo by Bobby Davis.

How liberal can a racist be?

WFCR COMMUNITY ACTION BOARD MEETING:
RACISM IN ACTION

By Dennis Anello

On Monday, Oct. 26th, the WFCR Community Action Board met in the Bangs Center. With the exception of a few board members who had the nerve to take a stand against racism, the four-hour meeting demonstrated the probably familiar specter of white liberals refusing to take a stand on a controversial issue.

The first issue which I would like to raise would make even a ture liberal cringe. The WMBC (Western Massachusetts Broadcasting Council),the folks who are basically controlling the station which is licensed to UMass) handpicked members of the Community Action Board (CAB), probably with Mr. Goldfarb's direct approval of each member. Yet the CAB was seen to represent the "community" more than the legitimate and genuine community body, the Coalition for Public Involvement in Public Radio . The opinions of this handpicked body, CAB, were seen to reflect the views of the "community".

But overlooking this "minor" structural detail, what ensued during that four hour meeting was a truly educational experience for this writer, a white man, as tothe specifics of how subtle (and not so subtle) racism operates in our society, in particular in a "liberal" white community.

The phenomena which ocurred during the CAB meeting which I noticed and felt to be racist (there are probably many more which I did not notice.)included the following:

1. Whereas there seemd to be a consensus among board members that Goldfarb had comiited "errors", many members refused to call it what it was, racism.

2. Although many board members conceded that Goldfarb had made errors in the past, many were strongly concerned over the prospect of his actually losing his (professional) job. It was Luis Fuentes, the only Hispanic on the CAB who pointed out the lack of equal concern over three Hispanics,[Sonia Vivas, Julio Torres, Raul Feliciano)who had lost their jobs because of Goldfarb) Concern for poor Robert's job was so high that someone on the board even objected to the prospect of his being rehired without a contract, because this would be seen as a "change in status" and perhaps a lowering of pay for this poor "professional".

3. "Survival of the station", an otherwise noble concern, was seen as most important by board members, even if what was surviving was a racist station which ignored community needs. If the station is racist and ignoring the community, maybe it should not survive. But it is nonetheless difficult to believe that WFCR cannot exist without Goldfarb.

4. Letters of support for Goldfarb (solicited by a "loyalist" in a ltetter to the editor of the Advocate) were brought up to justify his being rehired despite the fact that many of the letters were themselves racist. This "trivial point" was once again only pointed out by Luis Fuentes, the only Hispanic on the board; who quoted one supporter who wrote, "what are we becoming, a multi-racial community??"

The four hour meeting was, for me, a demonstration of the 'moderate' (or liberal) mentality, which , in this case, boiled down to a refusal to take a stand against racism.

(Once again, I wish to emphasize that this stance was not taken by all members of the board but was the position of the board as a whole.) This "moderate mentality"was demonsrated by the following marvelous sequence of events, which really does speak for itself. During the course of the meeting the CAB:

a)voted down a motion to recommend that Goldfarb be fired, by a 5-4 vote;

b)voted down a motion to recommend that he be rehired by a 5-4 vote;

c)voted down an amended motion that he be REPRIMANDED, but RE-HIRED for one year; then later on,

d)voted in another motion that he be REPRIMANDED, but REHIRED, and then

e)RESCINDED this previous motion, leaving them back in the MIDDLE, neither recommending HIRING, nor FIRING. Included in the way was the perplexing motion [never reaching voting stage) that the CAB recommend that Goldfarb be rehired, but that if the WMBC decided instead to fire him, the CAB would not think that action wierd??

The "moderate" mentality" which I refer to above is not limited to issues of race. We have all encountered it on just about any controversial issue. It is reflected in statements such as : "there are no good guys or bad guys.." or"there is no "right' or 'wrong'." Although there are certainly issues where these statements are probably valid , they are clearly are INACCURATE in issues of oppression, such as racism.

The "moderate stance" was direcly expressed by one board member that evening who stated, "This is a tough issue; there are some people who say that he [Goldfarb] did a good job, and others who say he did a bad job..." What is neglected is the fact that those who were saying that he did a bad job were not just saying that he did a bad job, but that his actions were racist. While there are two sides to racism (oppressor and oppressed), one is right and the other is wrong. Racism is not a two-way street in this sense: only one side is oppressed.

Several board members kept inssitng that Mr. Goldfarb had been a very good general manager in other areas; but I'm certain that even in the extreme instance, one could say that Adolf Hitler was a good manager--his only problem being his predilection towards racism and fascism. The point is, that in the more than one year that this issue has dragged out, Mr. Goldfarb has never once attempted to approach the Hispanic community in good faith, or attempted in any way to redress his actions.

Mr. Goldfarb is willing to insist [with such a liberal face] that "Que Tal Amigos" [a program of Hispanic culture) was simply "poor quality" [as if "quality" was some kind of universal value which exists apart from culturally defined norms]. He is willing to insist that even though the Hispanic community itself says that it was not poor quality.After all, being a" professional", he obviously knows better!

KLAN LAWYER BLAMES MURDERS ON VICTIMS

By Steve Craine

GREENSBORO, N.C.-- The case of six Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis charged with murdering anti-Klan demonstrators here a year ago is now before a Greensboro jury.

Continuing the year-long effort to blame the five killings on the Communist Workers Party victims, who organized the anti-Klan protest, defense attorney Robert Cahoon stated several times in his eight-hour closing argument that "the wrong people are on trial here."

Cahoon said the CWP wanted violence because other means of gaining publicity had failed. "Nothing would have delighted the hearts of those CWP leaders more than for something to have happened to those little Black children" participating in the demonstration, he said.

In addition to attributing the racism of the Klan to its victims, the defense tried to rewrite the history of the attack itself.

Cahoon said several of the demonstrators may have been shot by members of their own group. Nearly three months of testimony failed to produce a shred of evidence to support this assertion.

In his closing argument Cahoon also raised the new suggestion that rally organizers collaborated with the KKK to stage the confrontation. His only evidence was that CWP leaders had walkie-talkies that could have received communications from the CB radio used by Klansman and police informer Ed Dawson.

Cahoon tried to indict the victims on the basis of their ideas, as interpreted by him. For instance, he told the jury he had just learned 'what a bourgeoisie is--anyone with five dollars left in their pocket on payday."

In contrast, Cahoon excused the racist, anti-Semitic, and violent ideology of the KKK and Nazis by saying the defendants were uninterested or even unaware of these ideas. They just liked the uniforms and ceremonies of the groups, he said.

Cahoon painted the killers as good family men, acting in the American tradition of patriotism and self-defense.

District Attorney Michael Schlosser presented the first part of the state's summation just before Cahoon took the floor. He reviewed the cold-blooded racist purpose of the defendants, quoting from their statements to police right after the shooting.

"I didn't see any blacks or whites there, just Jews, Nazi Roland Wayne Wood had said.

"Some innocent people were shot, but I was only shooting at niggers," said David Wayne Matthews. He was quoted three times in court as bragging that he "got three."

Schlosser told the jury that "bigotry, hatred and prejudice squeezed off those rounds, not self-defense."

The DA also reviewed one of the videotapes of the shooting. He pointed out how the defendants acted together--in a platoon, as he put it. Each advanced toward their victims and did not seek cover. They were calm and cool as they carried out their deadly assault.

"It was like shooting fish in a barrel." Schlosser argued.

He also expressed hostility toward the victims. "The Klan, Nazis, and communists are marching together now in that they all want these six men to walk out free." he told the jury.

"If you convict them of anything less than first-degree murder you'll be playing into the hands of the communists, who want to indict our system of justice."

Although testimony in this twenty-week trial is over, crucial questions remained unexplored. Neither defense nor prosecution chose to bring out the role of the government in allowing the armed Klan caravan to enter Greensboro's black community and gun down five people.

Neither Ed Dawson nor Bernard Butkovitch, the two known government agents who participated in planning the assault, was called to testify.

The state has never been pressed to explain why less than half of the thirty to thirty-five right-wingers in the caravan were indicted.

The Greensboro Police Department has not accounted for its absence from the rally during the critical minutes when the killings occurred.

Thus the people of North Carolina are left nearly as far from the truth of what happened on November 3, 1979, as when this long trial began.

POSITION BY NATIONAL BLACK STUDENTS ASSOCIATION (N B SA)

Black students are experiencing Educational Genocide! Seven out of every ten black students at white colleges never graduate. For black students at white colleges, education has become a psychological war zone in which we battle for the survival of our right minds constantly. The white colleges are where the majority of black students are enrolled and exposed to the racist ideology which teaches us that 'making it' requires assimilation into 'white' (lynch a nigger) America.' However, ninety (90) black colleges graduate as many black students as 1500 white colleges. Furthermore, eighty percent (80) of all black college students graduate.

Black colleges play such an extremely important role in contemporary (and historical) life of black people. Black colleges have provided for the intellectual and practical needs of black people and also served as "symbols of freedom." Another very serious point, is that the only time black colleges didn't exist is when we were slaves!

The excuse advanced by state government officials for their destructive policies against black colleges are "compliance with federal desegregation mandates, "i.e. opposition to 'reverse discrimination.' These same officials that oppose busing for desgregation 'tooth and nail' are now implementing policies that will desegregate black colleges and universities out of existence!

The federal court in the Adams vs. Califano case in which it outlawed dual systems in higher education, especially noted the plight of black colleges: "The desegregation process should take into account the unequal status of black colleges and the real danger that "desegregation' will deminish higher education opportunities for blacks."

As long as black people exist there will be a need for black colleges. Many of us whom for what ever reasons have attended white schools, all too often regret the choice. White schools cannot possibly provide the the social, cultural and spiritual support systems essential to our survival.

Black students, whether enrolled in black or white colleges must fight to save and change black colleges. We must give political support (mass mobilizations/demonstrations) in order to put pressure on this government, especially this election year. Through political support we would be directly struggling against our oppressors.

We must constantly remind the United 'Snakes' of Americkkka that it owes us hundreds of trillions of dollars for the damage wo (black people) have suffered from the chattle slavery period in this country, and the present violations of our Human Rights in the form of 'forced citizenship slavery' or as Brother Malcolm X stated "twentieth century slaves."

While supporting black colleges we must struggle to deepen their (black colleges) orientation. Black colleges naturally must be the facilitators of black education. Thus, "...black education must be education for liberation, or at least for change..." We must be against education for the purpose of functioning for white (exploitive) corporations or for acquiring bourgeois individualistic values, instead we must support education which teache s and transmits black values consistent with our 'struggle history' of fighting to be FREE, SELF-DETERMINATING, and NON-EXPLOITED people.

Therefore, our 'role' as black students is to rebuild the BLACK STUDENT MOVEMENT that is controlled and financed by black people and not corporations that exploit our people internationally then 'uses' our movement as a 'tax write-off.' Our independent Black Student Movement will fight not only to Save and Change black colleges, but, to LIBERATE BLACK PEOPLE!!

ON WHICH SIDE WILL YOU STAND IN THE 80s?

FOR FREEDOM OR OPPRESSION?

FOR DIGNITY OR GENOCIDE?

NBSA
NATIONAL BLACK STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

P.O. Box 149
Boston, Ma. 02123
(617) 524-5146

CIVIL RIGHTS ACTIVIST HEADS U.S CONSUMER BANK

Washington, D.C.--The new National Consumer Cooperative Bank's president, Dr. Carol S. Greenwald, has named John Lewis, one of the nation's leading civil rights activists to head the Office of Community Affairs.

Associate director of action for three years, John Lewis began his civil rights work during his college years in Nashville. He is a native of Alabama.

In David S. Broder's recent book Changing of the Guard, Broader said of him that "probably none has paid a higher price to help change this country than John Lewis.

In 1970 Vernon Jordan's job as executive director of the Voter Education Project in Georgia was taken over by Lewis. Before that he had been director of the community organization project for the Southern Regional Council. In 1977 Lewis was a candidate for Congress from Georgia's Fifth District, but was defeated in the runoff.

In 1977 Lewis joined Action, the federal agency for volunteer services as its director of domestic operations. As head of the Office of Community Affairs for the new National Consumer Cooperative Bank, Lewis will be based in Atlanta.

Another long time civil rights activist and worker in community interest organizations, Sherry V. Friedman will serve as Lewis' deputy in the Bank's Community Affairs Division, according to Greenwald. Before coming to the Bank, she was with the National Urban Coalition and prior to that was a consultant to the office of the Peoples Counsel of the District of Columbia.

For fifteen years, Friedman headed a public relations firm in Washington which was largely concerned with counseling civil rights and other community groups in program development, legislative planning and communications.

Still in its first year, the National Consumer Cooperative Bank was established by Congress to provide loan funds and technical assistance to consumer cooperatives throughout the c ountry.

R. Duran

JESSE JACKSON - SUBJECT OF GOVERNMENT FRAME-UP

Rev. Jesse Jackson, national president of the civil rights group Operation PUSH, is the target of a government frame up.

The Justice Department has opened an inquiry to determine if Jackson acted as a "foreign agent" for Libya. Jackson denies the allegation. He noted that NBC News announced the inquiry on the eve of the elections. Jackson backed Carter s campaign.

The "foreign agent" charge, Jackson says, "reeks of the Cointelpro activities of the past" and "is but a thinly disguished attempt to discredit me and my political views."

Jackson and other black leaders have extended an arm of international solidarity that runs counter to Washington's foreign policy.

Jackson has spoken out in defense of the Palestinian struggle. Representatives from South African liberation groups and the revolutionary governments of Nicaragua and Grenada addressed his organization's last convention.

continued from page 2

"ON WITHDRAWAL"

people. Revolution is illegal. It's against the law. It's prohibited. It will not be allowed. It is clear that the revolutionary is a lawless ,man. The outlaw and the lumpen will make the revolution. The people, the workers, will adopt it. This rr st be the new order of things, after the fact of the modern industrial fascist sate.

In Blacks, the authoritarian traits are mainly the effects of terrorism and lack of intellectual stimulation. The communal experience will redeem them. At present, the Black worker is simply choosing the less dangerous and complicated strategy of survival. All classes and all people are subject to the authoritarian syndrome. It is an atavistic throwback to the herd instincts. But it requires only the proper trauma, the proper eco-sociological set of circumstantial pressi t to bring forth a revolutionary consciousness.

Racism enters on the osycho-social level, in the form of a morbid, traditional fear of both Blacks, and conscious or unconscious tendencies to mete out pain to Blacks, throughout the history of Amerika's slave systems, all came into focus when Blacks began the move from South to North and from countryside to city to compete with Whites in industrial sectors, and, in general, engage in status competition. Resentment, fear, insecurity, and the usual isolation that is patterned into every modern, capitalist industrial society (the more complex the products, the greater the division of labor; the higher the pyramid, the broader its base and the smaller the individual brick tends to feel) are multiplied by ten when racism, race antagonism, is also a factor.

There is certainly no lack of evidence to prove the existence of an old and built-in character assassination of programmed racism (what class controls the nation's educational facilities, prints the newspapers and magazines that carry the little cartoons, and omits or misrepresents us to death*) has always served to distract and defuse feelings of status deprivaton suffered by the huge sectors just above the Black one. Then also to account for the seemingly dual nature recognizable in the authoritarian personality (conformity, but also a strange latent destructiveness), racism has always been employed as a pressure release for the psychopathic destructiveness evinced by a people historically processed to fear, to feel the need for a decision maker, to hate freedom.

The revolutionary is outlawed. The Black revolutionary "is a doomed man." All of the forces of counterrevolution stack up over his head. He's standing in the tank-trap he has dug. He lives in the cross hairs .

No one can understand the feeling but himself. "From the beginning" of his revolutionary consciousness he must use every device to stay alive. Violence is a forced issue. It's incumbent on him. The very first political programs have had to be defended with duels to the death. The children's breakfast programs haven't been spared. The next round of commune building could cause the third great war of the century.

We must build with the fingers of one hand wrapped around a gun (an anti-personnel weapon). We cannot leave the central cit , This must be understood by the other revolutionary people if we are to move together to conclusive action.

The war will be fought in the nerve centers of the nation, the cities where Angela was finally captured as she was at work for the revolution, there Huey was found hiding and working by the government's propaganda apparatus.

We cannot withdraw from the cities. In order to complete the revolutionary syllogism, the fascists must be forced to withdraw. And under cover of the guns which force their withdrawal, we will build the new Black communes. A BLADE IN THE THROAT OF FASCISM.

GEORGE JACKSON LIVES!

HUEY P. NEWTON

NUMMO

REVOLUTIONARY OR HUMANITARIAN?

IF WE, THE 1980GENERATION, KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT THE BLACK PANTERS IT IS USUALLY THAT THEY WERE A GROUP OF CRIMINALS, AND MURDERERS, ETC. BENT ON THE DISTRUCTION OF AMERICA.

BUT WE, NUMMO NEWS, QUESTION THIS IDEA PUT FORTH BY THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION.

TODAY, WE PRESENT TO YOU THE BLACK PANTHER PARTY PROGRAM. WE ASK YOU TO READ IT AND IF YOU FEEL YOU HAVE BEEN MISEDUCATED WE ASK YOU TO STUDY THE PANTHERS MORE.

ANY COMMENTS ON THE CONTENT OF NUMMO NEWS PLEASE SEND TO: NUMMO NEWS NEW AFRICA HOUSE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST 01003

THE BLACK PANTHER PARTY PROGRAM

MARCH 29, 1972 PLATFORM

WHAT WE WANT, WHAT WE BELIEVE

1. WE WANT FREEDOM. WE WANT POWER TO DETERMINE THE DESTINY OF OUR BLACK AND OPPRESSED COMMUNITIES.

We believe that Black and oppressed people will not be free until we are able to determine our destinies in our own communities ourselves, by fully controlling all the institutions which exist in our communities.

2. WE WANT FULL EMPLOYMENT FOR OUR PEOPLE.

We believe that the federal government is responsible and obligated to give every person employment or a guaranteed income. We believe that if the American businessmen will not give full employment, then the technology and means of production should be taken from the businessmen and placed in the community so that the people of the community can organize and employ all of its people and give a high standard of living.

3. WE WANT AN END TO THE ROBBERY BY THE CAPITALIST OF OUR BLACK AND OPPRESSED COMMUNITIES.

We believe that this racist government has robbed us and now we are demanding the overdue debt of forty acres and two mules. Forty acres and two mules were promised 100 years ago as restitution for slave labor and mass murder of Black people. We will accept the payment in currency which will be distributed to our many communities. The American racist has taken part in the slaughter of over fifty million Black people. Therefore, we feel this is a modest demand that we make.

4. WE WANT DECENT HOUSING, FIT FOR THE SHELTER OF HUMAN BEINGS.

We believe that if the landlords will not give decent housing to our Black and oppressed communities, then the housing and the land should be made into cooperatives so that the people in our communities, with government aid, can build and make decent housing for the people.

5. WE WANT EDUCATION FOR OUR PEOPLE THAT EXPOSES THE TRUE NATURE OF THIS DECADENT AMERICAN SOCIETY. WE WANT EDUCATION THAT TEACHES US OUR TRUE HISTORY AND OUR ROLE IN THE PRESENT-DAY SOCIETY.

We believe in an educational system that will give to our people a knowledge of self. If you do not have knowledge of yourself and your position in the society and the world, then you will have little chance to know anything else.

6. WE WANT COMPLETELY FREE HEALTH CARE FOR ALL BLACK AND OPPRESSED PEOPLE.

We believe that the government must provide, free of charge, for the people, health facilities which will not only treat our illnesses, most of which have come about as a result of our oppression, but which will also develop preventative medical programs to guarantee our future survival. We believe that mass health education and research programs must be developed to give all Black and oppressed people access to advanced scientific and medical information, so we may provide ourselves with proper medical attention and care.

7. WE WANT AN IMMEDIATE END TO POLICE BRUTALITY AND MURDER OF BLACK PEOPLE, OTHER PEOPLE OF COLOR, ALL OPPRESSED PEOPLE INSIDE THE UNITED STATES.

We believe that the racist and fascist government of the United States uses its domestic enforcement agencies to carry out its program of oppression against Black people, other people of color and poor people inside the United States. We believe it is our right, therefore, to defend ourselves against such armed forces and that all Black and oppressed people should be armed for self-defense of our homes and communities against these fascist police forces.

8. WE WANT AN IMMEDIATE END TO ALL WARS OF AGGRESSION.

We believe that the various conflicts which exist around the world stem directly from the aggressive desires of the U.S. ruling circle and government to force its domination upon the oppressed people of the world. We believe that if the U.S. government or its lackeys do not cease these aggressive wars that it is the right of the people to defend themselves by any means necessary against their aggressors.

9. WE WANT FREEDOM FOR ALL BLACK AND POOR OPPRESSED PEOPLE NOW HELD IN U.S. FEDERAL, STATE, COUNTY, CITY AND MILITARY PRISONS AND JAILS. WE WANT TRIALS BY A JURY OF PEERS FOR ALL PERSONS CHARGED WITH SO-CALLED CRIMES UNDER THE LAWS OF THIS COUNTRY.

We believe that the many Black and poor oppressed people now held in U.S. prisons and jails have not received fair and impartial trials under a racist and fascist judicial system and should be free from incarceration. We believe in the ultimate elimination of all wretched, inhuman penal insitutions, because the masses of men and women imprisoned inside the United States or by the U.S. military are the victims of oppressive conditions which are the real cause of their imprisonment. We believe that when persons are brought to trial that they must be guaranteed, by the United States, juries of their peers, attorneys of their choice and freedom from imprisonment while awaiting trials.

10. WE WANT LAND, BREAD, HOUSING, EDUCATION, CLOTHING, JUSTICE, PEACE AND PEOPLE'S COMMUNITY CONTROL OF MODERN TECHNOLOGY.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

Volume CX, Issue 54 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Tuesday, November 18, 1980

Steve Sherman, a student senator from Coolidge tower, attracts attention to a petition yesterday to stop tuition hikes outside the Student Union. Over 1,000 students have signed the petition. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Students hit D.C. for financial aid

By GAYLE YOUNG
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON — A group of University of Massachusetts students met with several law makers on Capitol Hill yesterday to voice their concerns about the declining amount of federal funds for financial aid.

The 40 students split into small groups to meet with legislators, including: Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., and Rep. Neal Smith, D-Louisiana. In addition, the students met with aides to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Sen. Daniel Inoye, D-Hawaii, Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., Rep. Joe Early, D-Mass., and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., in addition to staff members of several senate and house committees.

The students are lobbying in support of funding for federal financial aid programs, which are currently before the House and the Senate. Presently, the two bodies are unable to reach an agreement on the specifics of the bill and the matter will probably be placed on "continuing resolution," or a continuance lasts funding levels.

Howard Goldman, a senior political science-economics major said the group is asking for an additional $1.8 billion for financial aid programs. If the old funding levels are maintained, $3.2 billion will be available for such programs as the Pell Grants (previously known as the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant), college work study and student loans. But, Goldman said, since financial aid requirements have been altered, many more students are now eligible for aid.

Most legislators and aides who met with the students said they understood and sympathized with the situation but were helpless to effect any changes.

"I have a real, passionate commitment to funding higher education. People making

turn to page 11

Students to confront Regents on tuition

By ANDREA ATKINS
Collegian Staff

Members of a campus-wide coalition on fee and tuition increases are planning to take a bus load of students to a Budget and Finance subcommittee meeting of the University of Masschusetts Board of Trustees in Boston tomorrow, spokespersons for the group said last night.

Four student representatives from a group of about 50 will make presentations in testimony form before the subcommittee, Linda Geary, student senate speaker said.

The presentations will concern the proposed tuition hike of $75.

Geary said the testimony for the meeting will be put together by the coalition. She said it was hoped the presenters would include a woman and a member of the Third World community.

Arvid Muller of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA), said the four topics will be:

*an overall picture of what tuition increases will mean at the UMass campuses

*the implication of financial aid cuts on top of tuition increases

*why students cannot afford to pay more tuition

*the role of public higher education in Massachusetts

SCERA spokesperson Joel Weissman said the students will emphasize tuition increases although the expected increase in other fees including room and board, health and athletic fees, will probably be discussed.

Bob Cleary, chairperson of the Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee said in a "Town Meeting" held last Thursday tuition increases are arbitrary increases.

"They have a lot more legal basis for raising fees than for raising tuition," he said.

The bus, which will leave the Campus Center Circle at 9 a.m. will be funded by the Student Senate, Muller said.

Muller said space on the bus is still available and can be reserved by contacting the Student Senate office or the Commuter Collective in the Student Union Building.

Officials look at toxic waste

By JAMES SIMON
Associated Press

BOSTON—State environmental officials released a list of 321 suspected hazardous waste dumping sites yesterday and asked local officials to double-check them for possible chemical contamination.

Commissioner Anthony D. Cortese of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering said the move was a first step by Massachusetts in fighting chemical waste that may have contributed to the poisoning of water supplies in 26 different communities.

He said the state's communities have each been asked to appoint a local official to be "detective" by taking a quick look at a suspected site, check its history and informing the state whether further investigation was needed.

The list, compiled from several sources, included industries like Pfizer Minerals, Pigments and Chemical Division in Adams and Western Electric in North Andover and many municipal landfills and sewage treatment facilities.

Cortese also released a comprehensive list of 51 confirmed hazardous waste sites in Massachusetts. He said 20 of them had already been cleaned up and the state was moving in on the others.

"No environmental problem has greater potential to seriously threaten public health, local drinking water supplies or quality of our natural resources," Environmental Affairs Secretary John Bewick said at a news conference.

"We must continue to identify past dump sites; we must prosecute illegal dumpers and hold them liable for cleanup costs; we must establish regulations and a manifest tracking system."

Bewick, who recently viewed waste disposal systems in Europe, said much of the problem in Massachusetts stems from the state lacking a legal site for industries to dispose of chemical waste.

"We can't afford an attitude of 'not in my backyard'," he said. "Either we find locations for hazardous waste treatment facilities and secure landfills in Massachusetts or we will end up a decade later with even more improperly and illegally disposed wastes in all of our backyards."

Cortese said the state has $5 million to pay for cleanups of hazardous chemical sites.

Over 20 towns in western MA

from Wire Service Reports

More than 20 western Massachusetts towns were named in a list of hazardous waste dumping sites released yesterday by the state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Amherst, Belchertown, Hadley, Northampton, Sunderland and Deerfield were included in the list.

The suspected sites were gathered from several sources and have not been double-checked by the state. The DEQE's rating system rates the estimated potential of groundwater contamination on a scale of one to nine. The number means that town officials should check their groundwater supplies for contamination. The higher the number, the more likely it is that supplies have been contaminated.

Many sites were listed because they have outdoor areas where liquids, often sewage, have been dumped and allowed to settle.

Exploration of Humanities

Tomiko Naraha watches Ching-Mao Cheng demonstrate Chinese figure writing during Humanities Exploration Day in the Campus Center yesterday. Both are professors in the Asian Studies department at the University. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

World and national news

King fights legislature to keep MBTA rolling

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press

BOSTON—Rebuffed in a last-minute appeal for cash from normal channels, Gov. Edward J. King sought to keep Greater Boston's mass transit system rolling and recalled the Legislature yesterday to prevent 250,000 riders from being stranded in the snow predicted for today.

Pending was a reorganization plan giving the state greater control of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, awash in red ink. Included in the bill, an aide to King said, was $41 million to carry the MBTA to year's end.

The special legislative session opened at 1 p.m. but remained in recess for hours as King and his aides worked out details of the bill. Legislators expected to be debating the issue through much of the night.

The Legislature was in no hurry to come to the rescue because a majority of the lawmakers represent districts with no MBTA service and no desire to foot the bill.

Failing in the Legislature, King has said he would invoke the same emergency powers he did last year to avert a similar crisis. King's authority to do this has been challenged in the state Supreme Court, and a decision was still pending as the transit crisis deepened.

Transportation officials said the "T" had enough money to get yesterday's commuters home but not enough to get them to work today.

On four occasions, King and the transit agency's acting chairman, Barry M. Locke, sought an extra $41 million from the MBTA advisory board to keep the 1,500 trains buses and trolleys rolling the rest of the year.

The advisory board, representatives of the 79 eastern Massachusetts cities and towns which split the agency's deficit with the state, sets the budget. It approved $302 million this year and its refusal to go higher caused the crisis.

The services, including contractual arrangements with private carriers, reach north to Concord, N.H., south to Providence, R.I., east halfway to Cape Cod and west to Gardner, nearly 70 miles from Boston.

OUTER SPACE — This is a composite of images of the Saturn system as taken from Voyager 1 spacecraft during its Saturn encounter in November. View shows Dione in forefront, Saturn rising behind. (AP Laserphoto)

Iran suffers in showdown

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq—Iraqi forces attacking Susangerd sank 12 Iranian gunboats in the Karkheh River on the outskirts of the city, the Baghdad command said yesterday. Iran said it sent in tanks and troop reinforcements behind rocketfiring helicopter gunships in what appeared to be a lastditch effort to hold the southwestern highway city against the invaders.

Kuwait, meanwhile, lodged a formal protest with Iran over a second Iranian rocket attack on a Kuwaiti border post, an incident that renewed fears the two-month-old Persian Gulf war could spread to neighboring oilrich nations. After the first attack, last week, Saudi Arabia and other gulf nations pledged support of tiny Kuwait.

Tehran Radio said troop reinforcements, supported by tanks, shot their way through an Iraqi siege and entered Susangerd at midday, joining other defenders "in the valiant city."

Military communiques from Baghdad and Tehran said hundreds of killed and wounded lay in the embattled streets of Susangerd.

Digest

Associated Press

Klan murder suspects acquitted

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Six Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis were found innocent Monday of murder charges stemming from the deaths of five Communist Workers Party supporters at an anti-Klan rally on Nov. 3, 1979.

The four Klansmen and two Nazis were charged with five counts each of first-degree murder in the slayings at a "Death to the Klan" rally. They also were charged with felonious rioting. They had pleaded innocent to all charges.

The all-white jury delivered its verdict in the seventh day of deliberations, which court officials said was the longest any jury had deliberated in a North Carolina case in at least 40 years. The 96-day trial had cost more than $1 million.

The defendants were two Nazis, Jack Wilson Fowler, 27, and Roland Wayne Wood, 36, both of Winston-Salem. The Klan defendants were Jerry Paul Smith, 33, of Maiden; Coleman Blair Pridmore, 27, of Lincolnton, and David Mathews, 24, of Newton.

Banks raise lending rates

NEW YORK (AP)—Several major banks yesterday raised their prime lending rates by three-quarters of a point to 16.25 percent, the highest that rate has been since May.

Chase Manhattan, the nations third-largest commercial bank, initiated the increase from a 15.5 percent rate. It had no comment on the move, but analysts widely predicted a new round of prime rate increases following credit-tightening moves by the Federal Reserve Board Friday afternoon.

PITTSFIELD — Firefighters hose down the roof of a Main Street building yesterday after a three alarm blaze was brought under control. Firefighters found one unidentified body in the rubble of the destroyed building. (AP Laserphoto)

Blaze claims life in Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD—A 27-year-old woman was killed and at least four firefighters were injured in a three-alarm blaze that raced through the upper level of a three-story business and apartment block in downtown Pittsfield early yesterday, fire officials said.

They concluded that it may have been started by a candle that tipped over.

Fire Chief Joseph Coy said firemen searching through the rubble after the flames were extinguished found the victim's body in a third-floor apartment where the fire was believed to have started.

Berkshire County Medical Examiner Jeffrey Ross identified her as Joan Schopp. He said she died of burns and smoke inhalation.

Deputy Fire Chief Paul Benham said the woman's apartment was "a ball of fire" when his men arrived shortly after 2:30 a.m.

Authorities evacuated 17 other people, including a woman police found cowering in terror under her bed.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Sheehan's Cafe
Pleasant St., Northampton
Game Room - Asteroids - Darts - Pool
Every Tuesday
LYNNE MERYL TRIO
Every Wednesday
ROGER SALLOOM
Every Thursday
GREENWICH THREE
Every Friday
"W-BEE-BOP"
'50s - '60s DJ
'50s & '60s
Parking In Rear

Photographic Posters
Classics by the Great Photographers
of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries
Open Tues-Sat 10-5:30
Pratt Gallery 37 So. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002

The rusty nail Inn
Appearing Tues. Nov. 18
THE BUZZCOCKS
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

Spirit, hope in refugee camps

By CATHERINE CLABBY
Collegian Staff

A University of Massachusetts Medical School instructor included a photograph of an emaciated woman holding her dying infant in his presentation on Cambodian refugee camps last night but most of his slides showed men, women and children working and in good health.

"These are the things that don't make headlines or good news photographs," Dr. Barry Levi said. "There is a tendency in the press to write about the horrors and not the spirit and aliveness found in Cambodian refugee camps..

Levi, 37, spent six weeks in Thailand last winter at Khao I Dang, a two square mile Cambodian refugee camp with a population of ove 120,000, making it the largest camp and second largest city in Thailand. He was one of 60 nurses and physicians who traveled there to donate services to Cambodians refugees who fled their homeland after the Vietnamese takeover in 1979.

"There was disease, poverty and some black market activity at the camp," Levi said, but considering the war town history of the Cambodian people their lives at the camp are an improvement.

For hundreds of years Cambodia, Vietnam and Laos have made war but most recently, under the tyrannical rule of the Khmer Rouge regime (1975-1979) and the present Vietnamese government (1979), its population has suffered mass murders, starvation and cultural deprivation, Levi said.

Life was worst under the Khmer Rouge regime, Levi said, when most educated persons were slaughtered, watches and eye glasses were destroyed and the Cambodian people were forced to farm with their hands.

Khao I Dana offered the Cambodian refugees a "rebirth," Levi said.

"The camp was exceedingly well organized," Levi said. "I worked in the emergency room of the camp's hospital where I saw roughly 100 persons a day. We expected to see people at the end of their ropes, many were, but overwhelmingly we saw people with a great deal of courage."

"We had one of the 50 Cambodian doctors on our staff who survived the Khmer Rouge regime," Levi said.

"He did not practice medicine while the regime was in power," Levi said. "To survive he disguised himself as an illiterate worker."

Levi said many people have asked him why the Kmher Rouge destroyed all but military tools but neither he nor the Cambodian people have an answer.

"The Khmer Rouge came to power on April 17, 1975 and that date is etched on the mind on every Cambodian as the beginning of year 'zero,'" he said.

Levi said fighting continues on the Cambodian?Thailand border and although the refugees are seen by Thailand as an economic drain, refugees continue to flee from Cambodia, Vietnam. and Laos to Thailand.

Dr. Barry Levi speaks at the Newman Center about his experiences and the refugee situation in Cambodia. (Staff photo by Terri Bellafiore)

Students may aid starving by joining fast

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Collegian Correspondent

University of Massachusetts students will have a chance to help combat world hunger Thursday by giving up one meal and having the monetary value of that meal donated to Oxfam-America's Fast for a World Harvest.

The UMass Hunger Task Force, made up of students, faculty and concerned individuals in the community, will be sponsoring the fast which in the past has attracted thousands of students, said Dan Noyes, task force organizer.

The money raised will go to the education of people in the United States but more importantly to eradicate the causes of world hunger, said Rev. Peter Sabey co-coordinator of Hunger Task Force.

Sabey said, "The major cause of world hunger is economic and political arrangements which force people who live on the land and are self-sufficient to move off the land to make way for plantations, cattle ranches and (other) interests of the multi-national corporations."

Oxfam's goal is to return the people to their land and allow them to become self-sufficient so they can feed themselves, said Sabey. This takes pressure off of the ruling governments to provide for their starving populations said Javier Gill, Task Force organizer.

Even though Oxfam takes some of the pressure off these countries, the blame for the problem stems from the governments' recruitment of corporations that exploit the local populations for monetary gains of the corporations and the governments, Sabey said.

These foreign incursions not only exploit the local populace but may also be doing damage to the environment, Noyes said, citing the example of the destruction of the Amazon rain forest by logging operations.

"The rain forests is the last lung of the world. It is one of the largest producers of oxygen for the world," Noyes said.

Sabey said Oxfam hopes to dispel the myth that if industrial nations develop the economy of these starving countries then the problem will disappear. Using Brazil as an example, Noyes said, although the gross national product was raised, the level of starvation actually increased.

Gen. George S. Patton III, U.S. Army (ret.), takes a couple of moments during an interview in Thompson Hall to play with his labrador, Scout. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Patton stresses importance of win in the event of a war with Russia

By JOSEPH BARRETT
Collegian Staff

The words of a retired U.S. Army general echoed across the room at the University of Massachusetts urging Americans to compete with a win at all costs attitude.

"If we're going to compete, we'd better compete to win," retired General George S. Patton III said yesterday at the University of Massachusetts.

Speaking at Thompson Hall, Patton said, "Sure, the Russians are our enemies. I was in Europe for 12 years, and when you go to Berlin and see the electrical fences and land mines, you'll agree they're the enemy too."

Patton, son of the famous World War II general, said, "History has treated my father well. If they had let my father lead the Americans into Berlin first instead of the Russians, the world might be different today."

Patton said his father's reported hot temper was authentic. "I'm the same. Sure I get pissed off once in a while. Don't you?"

When asked about the recent presidential race, Patton called the Reagan landslide "unbelievable," and said Carter's early concession "was wrong" because it hurt Democrats on the West Coast. "I'd love Carter as a neighbor, he'd probably even come over and fix my lawnmower if he knew how, but he just couldn't manage the White House.

"I think there's no question we have to build up our conventional weapon capability. The Russians are far ahead of us on that. If we don't have a strong conventional arsenal, the next alternative is to nuke. No one wants to nuke, so we must build to lessen that possibility," Patton said.

"The B-52 is a pretty ancient machine; we need more modern manned planes."

Patton said having manned planes was important because "human pilots can make much quicker and better decisions that can computer controlled planes." Patton also said the U.S. is "way behind" the Russians in chemical warfare capability, and said "we had better start doing something about it."

Patton, accompanied by his Labarodor Retriever Scout, said the military "just can't compete" with the private sector in pay scale for recruiting. Making education and medical support greater would help make the services more attractive, he said. Our bases should be strengthened and made more livable, especially overseas, he said.

Patton said the youth of American "had a lot of challenges before them," and he hoped they would meet them.

Funeral plans set

Funeral arrangements have been set for Raymond M. Beaulieu, a University of Massachusetts continuing education student who died in Belchertown Sunday morning.

Calling hours will be held Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Beers and Story Funeral Home, 475 North Main St., Palmer. A funeral will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Saint Cecilias Church, Main Street, Wilbraham.

Donations should be made to the University in lieu of flowers.

Karen Coffey, Kathi Garmalo, Donna Bowman and Carolyn Colant perform the first snow serenade of the year in the Campus Center. When this picture was taken at 10:00 last night, weathermen predicted a snowfall of 5 inches before the snow ended at noon today. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Abortion debate

The election year controversy over state-funding for abortion is the topic of a debate to be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium sponsored by the Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom (CERRF) and the Distinguished Visitor's Program.

Nancy Gertner, vice president of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in charge of the Reproductive Freedom project, and a Boston attorney, will be arguing in favor of state-funding. Joseph Reilly, Director of Massachusetts Citizens for Life, will be arguing against the state-funding question.

The recent appeal filed by the ACLU against the Doyle-Flynn amendment and the popularity of a Campus Center table distributing information about CERRF sparked the debate, according to CERRF.

The proposed Doyle-Flynn amendment in Massachusetts resulted from the passage of the federal Hyde amendment which leaves the funding of abortions through Medicaid up to the individual states. As a result, all but six states ended the Medicaid funded abortions.

According to CERRF, many poor women are left without the choice of an abortion because of the cost, even if they are victims of rape or incest.

Susan Yarborough, professor of legal studies at the University of Massachusetts will be moderator of the debate.

Women storm the Pentagon

An unidentified major general attempts to wade through protestors at the Pentagon yesterday morning.

WASHINGTON(AP)— About 1,300 women circled the Pentagon and blocked some entrances yesterday in a protest against what they called the arms race, militarism and violence against women.

Police said about a dozen of the demonstrators were arrested at one entrance for refusing to move away from the door.

In scenes reminiscent of Vietnam war protests, crowds of women chanted "the whole world is watching" as protesters were seized by police surrounding the doorways and carried into the building.

The women assembled at the Arlington National Cemetery at daybreak and later moved to the Pentagon carrying huge signs and banners with slogans such as "Stop The Arms Race" and "No Nukes."

UMass band plans for London trip

By HENRY GIFFIN
Collegian Correspondent

Having been invited to participate in the 1981 Marching Bands of America Intercollegiate Championship, to be held in London, England, the University of Massachusetts Marching Band has begun preparations for the trip.

A news release published by the University Bands Publicity Staff, said funding is slowing down preparations, and the lack of money could prevent the marching band's attendance. Several members of the organization have already begun a number of projects to raise the money needed.

The UMass band will be accompanied by 23 of "the nation's finest college and university bands," chosen for their "history of excellence, professionalism, style, and enthusiasm..." The invitations for the event were issued by the Marching Bands of America, a nationwide organization which promotes marching band activity at both the high school and collegiate level.

UMass' "Minuteman" band has been quite busy of late. Recent appearances include Sunday's New England Patriots-Los Angeles Rams football game at Schaefer Stadium, Music Bowl Massachusetts, Gloucester High School, several other exhibitions at high school marching band competitions, and the regionally telecast Boston University-UMass football game on October 25th. The next stop is Fanueil Hall in Boston for a stand up concert, featuring music from the Broadway hit "Godspell" and Chuck Mangione's "Echano."

The UMass Marching Band plays before a sold out crowd of 62,000 Sunday during the Patriots vs. Rams halftime show at Schaefer Stadium. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Great Expectations Promises:

Excellence~
The finest professional cutters consult with you to give you a precision haircut that fits your personality, features and lifestyle perfectly.

Economy~
Great Expectations offers professional services at affordable prices.

Extras~
A haircut consultation, shampoo and blower styling with each precision haircut.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS®
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
Shampoo, cut & blow-dry only $10.00 with student I.D.
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, MA
10-9:30
No Appointment Ever!

upc PRODUCTIONS
PRESENTS
Duke Ellington Committee
A REGGAE DANCE
with
MONYAKA
AND LOOSE CABOOSE
DECEMBER 6, 1980
AT THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
$2.50 UMASS STUDENTS $4.00 GENERAL PUBLIC
AVAILABLE AT
TIX, UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED, AND FOR THE RECORD AT FACES
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

amc THEATRES
ADULTS $2.75
HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People — R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
CHARLES BRONSON in BORDERLINE — PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
THE STUNT MAN — PETER O'TOOLE — R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream — R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and dinner $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals in the Pewter Pot Rest in The Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Mon.-Thur. only)
Free Shoppers Show Thurs Nov 20 at 1:00 PM "Hanover Street" starring Harrison Ford — PG
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 — MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN — R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
GENA ROWLANDS in Gloria — PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
JILL CLAYBURGH in It's My Turn — R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS in THE ELEPHANT MAN — PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Editorial/Opinion

Leader(less)ship

Out from the wreckage of a previous administration, any previous administration, comes the inevitable cry of the opponent: leadership. That's what this country lacks right now. And as hopes spring eternal in many of our breasts, we look forward to change and an uncertain, but perhaps, we think, inevitable betterment the future must hold. With this in mind the old administration is swept out, and the new ushered in. But leadership rarely comes in with the new and, in point of fact, can rarely be found in our nation's history. The idea of leadership, even that with an historic mission, propped up in party and in platform, becomes another campaign promise forgotten. Apparently leadership is an American, and democratic illusion. Dissension rules the roost.

It has been our two—and now three—party reality (along with minor parties and hundreds of single-issue organizations) that move in and out of conflict and give shape, oddly enough, to our democratic nation. Legal dissent, as is the above, is so much the motive behind a true democracy that leadership—the ability to control and the power to command—has never appeared effective in the U.S. but in time of national crisis.

DAVE COLE

Certain American wars, as examples of a national crisis, allowed for national unity and the opportunity of effective leadership. The Revolutionary War brought forward George Washington; because of World War I, Woodrow Wilson was able to curb what had been a growing radicalism in the country; the second World War and the subsequent red scare saved Truman's administration and brought the country out of its depression. But even in war Americans dissent. Lyndon Johnson ruined himself politically because of the Vietnam escalation; helped by the Cuban Missile Crisis, John F. Kennedy nevertheless churned up hatred and was gunned down; and Abraham Lincoln, this nation's most respected president, gathered—ironically—political momentum from "civil war," but simultaneously was a victim of it.

When a presidential candidate sounds the call for leadership, he/she must know there is thin ice underneath. Reagan has stirred up the hope in many people that once again—at last!—America will have a strong, perhaps even vigorous leader, one who will be able to lead the country out of recession and into secured world prominence again. But Reagan's advisors and top members of the GOP understand the danger inherent in such hope and expectation—a wise assumption on their part that this nation's "across the board" economic slide necessitates a slow recovery—and have been attempting to minimize the potential political damage that will be done to Reagan by a slow economic recovery. They have told the incoming congress, in so many words, that Reagan's victory is an ideological command, and that the voters won't be satisfied unless Mr. Reagan is given a full opportunity to make the changes he deems necessary. This is an early, yet seemingly last ditch effort by the Reaganites to curb future democratic and or liberal unrest. It is a shrewd and intelligent move, for any dissension will curb the new president's power and effectiveness at a time when this nation seems to badly need leadership.

Unfortunately for Reagan, unrest, dissension, and conflict are the sine quo non of democracy. The most preliminay findings show that he will have difficulty in receiving the unilateral support he is looking for.

The Democractic Party—although in the midst of a power struggle and possibly a large ideological turnaround—intends to fight. This was evidenced the other day when President Carter submitted the federal budget proposal for fiscal year 1982, including in it a huge increase in military spending. This large military increase is purposefully meant to harm Reagan. How? 1) Reagan won't be able to say he did it and 2) it might possibly be too large an increase spoiling his chances for a large tax cut, or even necessitating an immediate military cutback when he gets in office. This would mean going back on one of his more visible campaign promises.

More damaging to Reagan are early signs of dissent within the GOP and other support groups. Already republican senators Robert Dole and Strom Thurmond have separated themselves from Reagan campaign promises. (Dole opposes federal tax cut of ten percent, Thurmond is against appointing federal judges who oppose abortions.) And the leaders of the National Conservative Political Action Committee (N.C.P.A.C.) and the Committee for the Survival of a Free Congress (C.S.F.C.) have warned vice president-elect Bush and Senator Howard Baker, the expected majority leader, that they will come under fire if they don't become more conservative.

For presidents and president-elects it always is unfortunate that unilateral support and the ability to lead come hand in hand. One without the other just won't do, and together they are hard to acquire in America. American democracy has its foundation not—as many suppose—in unity but in dissent and conflict. And if our politicians might quit their various illusions about effective leadership, and a shining and UNITED city on a hill, our nation might be better off.

Dave Cole is a Collegian columnist

Letters

Back to your funny pages

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a very interesting letter to the editor written by Mr. James Kelly, (Collegian 11/14). Mr. Kelly seems to be one of those citizens who is very like an ostrich—he's always got his head stuck in a hole in the ground, or some other convenient orifice. I've always known there were such social neanderthals scuttling around, but if the likes of Mr. Kelly feel compelled to parade their ignorance in public, then they deserve to be refuted.

Mr. Kelly doesn't like the Collegian. This is not unusual. But Mr. Kelly doesn't like the Collegian because (get this) he considers it a radical publication. Well, yes, compared to the National Enquirer I suppose it is. Mr. Kelly doesn't like radicals; he thinks they're "moronic do-gooders." He thinks the Collegian should not concern itself with such trivial, irrelevant matters as the Amherst Nursing Home Strike, feminism, Dick Gregory, etc. No, Mr. Kelly wants the Collegian to concern itself with "realities."

Well, Mr. Kelly, just what sort of "reality" do you live in, anyway? Are you trying to tell me that working people fighting for their jobs is not a reality? Maybe you will even get a job yourself, some day, Mr. Kelly; I'll bet you won't be so quick to sneer at labor struggles then, will you? If someone beat you and raped you, would things be a little more "real" to you then, Mr. Kelly? Tuition hikes and financial aid cut-backs are meaningless to the likes of you, Mr. Kelly, until it's you who are forced to drop out of school and go work in a place like the Amherst Nursing Home, emptying bed-pans and wiping up defecation for minimum wage. Or will Daddy bail you out? And what do you care about unemployment and inflation until it's you who can't pay your bills and your kids who are hungry? This is reality for many, many people in our country, and one of those people could very well be you, Mr. Kelly. Do you intend to wait until it's too late before you wake up?

If you open your eyes, Mr. Kelly, you will see that it is not radicals who are "selfish and myopic" but, rather, people like yourself who cannot, or will not, see pain and ignorance when it is all around them. Radicals may not always be right, nor always wise, but they are the only people in this country who are realistically confronting the dangerous problems in our lives. Those problems are reality, Mr. Kelly, and if you don't think so, just wait until they bit you. Go back to reading your funny pages. As for the rest of us, we've got some work to do.

Bob Bamford
Amherst

A trilogy of criticism

To the Editor:

In response to Bob Conte's Monday column (Collegian, 11/10), if "liberals" and "conservatives" alike keep attacking each other in such overstated cliches and flagrant exaggerations, then there is no doubt that violence and war will be the result. Everyone should sit back and calmly assess the arguments on both sides of the issues and then try to reach a reasonable conclusion. If Bob Conte and others truly believe in those "liberal cliches like peace and understanding" then why not be the first to act on them and work to bring about those desperately needed changes?

On other topics, I wish the article on Dick Gregory had included at least some of his conclusions instead of just leading questions. There are many possible answers ranging from the "official" version to Dick Gregory's presumably bizarre conclusions—although those of us who only read your paper's article can only guess where his thoughts led him.

Finally, how is one to take seriously Bertram Gross' comparison of Ronald Reagan and Adolf Hitler, "If you can't sense this intuitively, then you don't know what dictatorship is all about," when he calls himself a follower of Martin Luther King and Indira Gandhi, saying "We need their kind of militance that sacrifices personal interest in the name of higher codes of reality."? Mr. Gross either doesn't know Martin Luther King or Indira Gandhi, or what each of them stood for. Reverend King was a man dedicated to peace and to peacefully achieving equality, as was Mahatma Gandhi (no relation to Mrs. Gandhi, India's current Prime Minister). Mrs. Gandhi has, in her previous administration, run one of the region's more inhumane and repressive regimes. Are we to believe that a man who compares Martin Luther King and Indira Gandhi can reasonably compare Ronald Reagan and Adolf Hitler?

Martha Wiedemann
Smith College

One big alienated family

To the Editor:

In search of an answer to Charles F. Field's letter (Collegian, 11/12), I've discovered no better retort than an honest opinion. I'm very sorry Mr. Fields and his friends have become alienated. There's nothing I hate more than alienation. Personally, I also am very alienated, and I'm sure all those radical-minded people are feeling alienated too. Rest assured the New Right is alienated. Systematically neglecting other perspectives is very alienating: I'm alright, you're alright—but I'm more alright than you!

Kate Anderson
Sunderland

Bouncers doing their job

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter to the editor 11/13 entitled "Hatch Bouncers unnecessarily violent".

First, I find it pitiful that someone who is supposedly summarizing the facts of an incident, conveniently leaves out some very crucial details that alter the entire scenario. I intend to fill in those deletions.

Several times, the bouncers unsuccessfully asked the people to pick up the pieces of the broken record album. When several requests were ignored, the instigator was asked to leave the Hatch. One fact Ms. Nathanson omitted was the basic reason that "a man who did not break an album was singled out by a bouncer." This man was holding a broken piece of the album behind the "first bouncer's" neck as if it was a knife. In order to prevent a potentially dangerous episode, the second bouncer, showing great insight, stepped in.

This uncooperative and antagonistic behavior towards the men who try to make the Hatch Bar an enjoyable and safe place to go for entertainment is what triggers the unavoidable behavior. Any physical action taken against a Hatch customer is not taken for minor reasons nor is it used if any other method can be successfully employed.

In Ms. Nathanson's letter, she states that the first bouncer "incited" the violence when actually it was the insubordinate group which started the incident. She also feels that the second bouncer joined in "for the fun of it," when his main purpose in joining the altercation was to restore order. The Hatch bouncers would much rather have a quiet and uneventful night than one filled with hostility and physical action.

I agree with Nathanson that the role of a bouncer is to prevent violence and to eject those who are aggressive. I feel that is exactly what was done.

David J. Iafrato
Robert Hartie
Amherst

Ski Snatch finances activities of ski club

By HANNAH HOSOM
Collegian Correspondent

The UMass Ski Club is holding its 9th annual Ski Snatch in the Student Union Ballroom from noon until 10 p.m. tomorrow through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Co-presidents Jim Chambers and Fred Pierce said they anticipate about $750,000 worth of equipment, including both Alpine and cross-country skis, poles and boots, ice skates, and winter clothes of all kinds.

The sale began as a used equipment swap for students 9 years ago and has grown into what is probably the largest sale in New England, the co-president said. Not only will there be used merchandise, but vendors from large companies like the Ski Market of Boston are providing excess inventory from last year to be sold at 25 to 30 percent off the retail price.

Over 300 members of the club, a Recognized Student Organization, have volunteered to work on the seven committees. The sale will be complimented by movies and pamphlets from ski areas.

A security staff of 50 people per hour will work for all 37 hours of the sale. They will be watching especially for people taking clothing. For this reason, no winter apparel will be allowed into the sale area. Anyone caught shoplifting will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, said club member Steve Campbell.

This year the club hopes to do more than $175,000 worth of business, about $30,000 more than last year the co-president said. The revenue will help with the rising costs of transportation to and from the slopes.

The sale is the club's primary source of income. The money raised provides free transportation, breakfast and cider and cheese parties on club trips. The club receives no funds from the Student Activities Tax Fund, and all expenses are paid for with dues and revenue from the sale, according to Chambers and Pierce.

Correction

The Rally to protest the presence of C.I.A. recruiters on campus will be on Thursday, November 20, at 12:30 p.m. in front of the Student Union and not on Friday as announced in Hypercurricula yesterday.

TIPS
ON PRE-REGISTRATION

1020 Changing Your Major
1022 Continuing Education Courses
1009 Credit Load
1409 Finding or Changing Your Academic Advisor
1029 Five College Courses
2031 Graduation Requirements
1027 Incompletes
1032 The Pass/Fail Option
1033 The Repeat Option
1005 Who is Your Academic Dean

545-1540
Request Tape by Number
The Taped Information Phone Service - 227 Whitmore

Why Frye?

FRYE

No one has been able to duplicate our unique Frye look. Whether it's our exclusive Classic, Western, or Casual boots, Frye has a style to fit your lifestyle. It's part of what makes Frye boots impossible to duplicate. And quality is another reason they cannot be duplicated. Frye boots are benchcrafted by skilled hands, not rolled off an assembly line. So while our styles may change, our quality and craftsmanship will always remain the same. The best.

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon - Sat
Open Fridays til 8
253-5135

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

363 Main Street
Amherst, Mass. 01002
256-8587

143 Main Street
Florence, Mass. 01060
584-7583

OUR NEW MID WEEK SPECIALS

SUN. Double Dough or Double Cheese
MON. Onion or Sausage
TUES. Gr. Pepper or Pepperoni
WED. Mushroom or Anchovies
THUR. Gr. Beef or Bl. Olives

ON ANY OF THESE DAYS
BUY ONE ITEM & GET CHOICE OF SPECIAL ITEMS FREE ON YOUR PIZZA.

Example: On Tues. A Small Pepperoni & Double Cheese is ONLY $3.75

COKE STILL 10c
FREE DELIVERY 256-8587

THE $79 FACE LIFT. REG: $89

(Before) ($79 Later)

With Bausch & Lomb Soflens Contacts, you do something nice for your eyes and give your whole face a lift.

Now you can finally switch from glasses to famous Bausch & Lomb Soflens® Contacts at a beautiful low price. Of course we carry all major brands including the new "Astigmatics".

Don't change your face. Change to contacts.

Save $10
ON ANY FRAME OVER $25
WITH ANY COMPLETE EYEGLASS PURCHASE
NOT VALID IN CONJUNCTION WITH ANY OTHER DISCOUNT OR SPECIAL OFFER
EXPIRES: DEC 15th 1980

American Vision Centers
HAMPSHIRE MALL, Hadley · 584-7958
WE HONOR AMERICAN EXPRESS AND ALL MAJOR CREDIT CARDS

Motion, music blend in "Dancin'" collage

By SUSAN BARON
Collegian Correspondent

In the first few moments of "Dancin'" the audience was told to expect just that—dancing. And even without a plot, "Dancin'" burst with action onto the FAC stage and generally succeeded in bringing with it all the style and glamour of a Broadway musical.

The Broadway Production of "Dancin'" was directed and choreographed by Bob Fosse, choreographer of the award-winning movie musical, All That Jazz. Fosse is famous for his creativity. Gail Benedict directed the choreography for Sunday's performance by the national touring company at the Fine Arts Center.

Divided into three acts and ten themes, "Dancin'" was a continuous encounter with motion and music. Flowing hair, long legs and slender bodies complemented the actual talent of the dancers themselves. Bodily movement imitated the music in rhythm, fluidity and style. Simply by listening to the instruments, one could envision how the dancers might respond. Dance and music became one and the same.

Jazz, ballet, tap, and African-type dancing were all seen in this dancing musical. No particular style was especially emphasized though. Anything went, yet with complete control.

"Fourteen Feet" was a scene that exhibited the inventive talent of the dancers and choreographer. With their shoes literally nailed to the floor, seven dancers lined up along the stage. Wearing fluorescent-striped costumes, the dancers manipulated grace, conformity and contorted movement and not one of their fourteen feet moved.

Judging from the audience's response, "Benny's Number" was a favorite. Effective in its seductiveness, this number displayed beautiful interpretation and reaction to music. Comprised of two parts and five dancing styles, the aura of "Benny's Number" swelled with excitement.

Roumel Reaux and Peggy Parton each performed solo. Roumel, who began his career with the Pittsburgh Ballet Theater, combined jazz and ballet in a superb performance. Peggy Parton danced with sharp and agressive movement to create an effective style. She began her professional career in "A Chorus Line."

"Manic Depressive's Lament" and "The Female Star Spot" were comical dialogues inserted between the dance numbers. They were cute but nothing special. Ending on a patriotic note, "America" was the last theme of "Dancin'."

Capturing a terrific array of music, movement and emotion, "Dancin'" was a fun and invigorating experience. At times though, the dancers didn't reach the full potential that Bob Fosse had probably envisioned for the particular number. "Mr. Bojangles" was an example of this lack of pizazz and potency.

Maggie Caponio, Jamie Patterson and Douglas Bates in "Dancin'," Bob Fosse's Tony Award-winning Broad way play, which was performed by the national touring company Sunday at the Fine Arts Center. (Photo by Martha Swope)

FREE
!!International Movie!!
Italian Film Festival
Tonight
Fellini's Classic
"Roma"
C.C. Aud. 7 & 9 pm
Presented bu the U-Mass Arts Council, Governors Program Council with assistance from the Departments of French & Italian.

WSYL TV Presents
General Hospital Revisited
Book II
An original satire on the everpopular soap opera and UMass Life.
Tues Nov 18
Fri Nov 21
Mon Nov 24
at 10:00 PM on TVS
Sylvan Cable Television
Cablecasting in Sylvan Dormatories all are welcome

PHI SIGMA KAPPA
presents a
THANKSGIVING PARTY at POOR DICKS
featuring
WILD TURKEY SHOTS $1
DRAFTS $.25
TUESDAY NOV. 18

The Rusty Nail
in association with ConComm Productions
present
IRS Recording Artists
BUZZCOCKS
with The Paper Dolls
at the Rusty Nail
Rt. 47, Sunderland
Tuesday, November 18th
Tickets: $4.50 Advance, $5.00 Door
Available at:
Main St. Records, Northampton
For The Record, Amherst
Belmont Records, Springfield

School of Law
Western New England College
SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS 01119
will be represented by Susan Kirschner Robinson, Asst. to the Law Professor Bruce Miller and Michael Edelstein, a third year law student
On November 19, 1980 at 1:30 and 2:30
at Campus Center, Rooms 171-173
Underclass students as well as seniors should attend. Women, minorities and handicapped are encouraged to meet our representatives.

Butterfield Arts Group—
Invites Central Area residents to use their darkroom and silkscreen facilities. Thursdays, 7:30-10:30 and Saturdays, 12-4, materials sold at cost.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ART MAJORS

Portfolios & Art Work Photographed at reasonable prices - slides, prints, black & white or color - prices vary according to work GARY 665-3930 evenings

AUTO FOR SALE

1965 Lincoln Cont new parts for engine rebuild clean interior extras $500 firm 413-665-2667 evenings

73 Pinto Wagon 66K good car, needs some work $550 or BO call 546-8563

71 Chevrolet Impala runs great $450 or best offer 665-4175

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

CUSTOM S:LKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

The AvantGuard's Band perfect for formals. For bookings call Tom 549-6913 256-6845

FOR RENT

Own rm 1 mi to campus 122 inc. 256-6344 call any time

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Ski Boots mens 7½ (womens 8½) Nordica Hurricane flo boots. Only used half a season $100 or BO call Donna 549-1869

Weimaraner Pups AKC registered, from a long line of champs in show, obedience and field trial 1-413-339-6688

Ski Boots size 10½ beg-int year old good cond 6-7009

Fretless Bass. Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

Springsteen Tickets Providence Dec 11 549-5188

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

Guitar—Yamaha 6 string for sale. Excellent condition, great sound, and only 130.00 call Bill 256-8573

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Delivery person with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 P.M. at Superior Pizzeria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

Temporary Jobs til Christmas $75.oo per week part time $200 week full time and bonuses. All majors. Possible permanent positions. Interviews held with Polaris at CC Wed. Nov. 19 Rm 163 11am - 3 pm

Delivery Person with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 PM at Superior Pizzeria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Lost blue deerskin gloves vicinity of NOPE on 11/10 call 6-4184

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

MANAGEMENT CLUB

Fantastic Introductory Meeting Wed 7:00 PM Mahar Aud. guest speakers and refreshments All Welcome!

PERFECT GUITAR FOR SALE

Yamaha FG-331 new strings, case, beautiful, perfect intonation for hassle free tuning, presicion neck, tight grain top; sounds like a Martin. Here is the perfect guitar, under $200 546-7185

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Come on in out of the cold to Lambda Delta Phi's Fireside and Games Night. Keep warm and have fun on Tuesday Nov 18. All University women welcome! 389 No. Pleasant St. Call 5-0939 for rides

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 177 8-10 pm Tues Nov 18th

Undergraduate Business Club meeting Tuesday, November 18 @ 8:00 p.m. in SBA room 1 All members must attend

Casablanca: Thursday, November 20 @ 7, 9, & 11 at CCA. Sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club Admission $1

We're counting on you to be there tonite 11/20 West Side Story, Mahar Aud 5, 8, 11 only $1.50

Goldy-Happy B-day you hogman Love always—Jamie, Scott, Mitch

Tom—Probation, we laugh in your face. Party up folks, don't be intimidated. a keg in every room. Death in tyrany.

T-BLTN: Hope your B-day was as good as I hoped! Sure am glad you moved to Cance. Love always Margerine

Matthew "You're the only one for me, too" this past year has been the best looking forward for more to follow. Love always Judi PS Sorry for the delay

"Spend a day in memory of Ray"

Welcome back Lisa We missed you lots hope your "fever" is better! Love the BTB's TD DC RT BL Lucy Frisco and everyone else!

The third floor of Coolidge is having a floor meeting tonight at 11PM all floor members are urged to attend!

To our Montreal buddies Friends can take the good with the bad We did have a good trip Thanks from the 2 Bitches Teege—Thoughts and hopes are vibing thru, but you know that. Love me, Love, me.

Springsteen Tickets 11/27 New York 665-2064 Best Offer (after 6 pm)

Wizards—They're coming! When? Friday night. Where? Engineering Auditorium

Party tonight: Phi Sig is sponsoring a Thanksgiving Party at Poor Dick's complete with Wild Turkey shots for $1 and 25c drafts

Doobee & Pinkbee, Beelaided Birthday Wishes! Catch another buzz on us. Love—The B/89-94's

Senator Cleary I love your baby blue eyes—your secret admirer

Dave—Thanks for wearing your birthday suit as my gigolo. You were great. Now how about being my bodyguard. Jean

ROOM WANTED

Male senior seeks own room in Puffton or apartment near town for Spring semester will move in December 1st to February 1st. Call 253-8097 eves Peter

Female nonsmoker seeks room on bus route Spring semester presently exchange California call Jackie collect 916-895-5540

2 Responsible friendly females seek rooms in apt on bus rt Spring semester Beth Teri 546-6004

Friendly, responsible female wants own room in apt. near bus call Julie 546-4490

Female seeking own room in apt or house on bus rte Spring semester 546-8088

Seeking rm in apt/house near bus rt beginning Dec or Jan 1 Carol 546-7961

ATTENTIONi ATTENTIONi 3 women seeking 2 to 3 bedroom apartment on bus route from January on. PLEASE call Mary or Pam at 546-1134 or Joanne at 546-1278 THANK YOU!

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Sarcastic Simpleton for OWN ROOM puffton, $122/mo. 549-1879

1 bdrm in 3 bdrm apt w/2 males No Amherst, bus route 549-5663 5-6 PM

1 or 2 roommates to share room in Squire Village apt female, non-smoker, quiet. Barb 665-2814

Senior male Born-Again Christian wants other male Christian(s) to room with on or off campus next semester. Call Bill, 546-8640 will return all calls.

Female roommate share room in Brandywine from 010181 call evenings 549-5951

Room available in a large 5 room apartment on Belchertown Common. Newly renovated and is on bus route please call 323-7009

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Jewish students starting a "Bayit" to explore ways of Jewish living for Spring Semester. Please call Hillel 9-5 M-F 545-2526

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

SPRINGSTEEN TICKETS FOR SALE

Tickets for Dec 16 Boston show 6 tickets together on main floor will sell for best offer call 549-1675

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

Sublet Wanted! Charming, responsible students seeking 2 or 3 bedroom apartment or house in Amherst on bus route Jan 1 or Feb 1. Please call (eve) Debbie or Greg 323-7168 or Chris (days) 5-2240

One bedrrom to sublet over intersession 256 6719 for further information/details

Male wnated to sublet room in nice economical apt 253-7158 Andv

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Tutor needed immediately Public Health Statistics 540 call after 8 PM 253-7665

Students interested in a corridor built on mutual respect, consideration & community spirit. The 3rd floor Brett is an Interesting Alternative. Come pick up an application in the Lower Central Cluster Office for the Social Awareness Corridor.

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Wanted: 3 bedroom apartment/house in Amherst on bus route January 1 call 6-6035 or 6-5894

Apt needed Jan 1 2 bedrooms Amherst only eves 253-5673

Two females looking for off campus housing for Spring semester on bus route call 253-5751

Looking for living space Spring semester Prefer house situation have real neat dog that must come too Cindy 617-443-9417 Box 222 Sudbury, Ma 01776

I can't go back to England during intersession. Need an apartment near campus Call 546-1484

BLUE WALL
campus center at u mass at THE HATCH
EVERY TUESDAY
ROCK N' REGGAE
TOC Sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol

AFSCME
Local 1776 AFL-CIO
Chapter Meetings/
Bargaining Update
Wednesday, Nov 19, 1980
Service Maintenance & Farm
4 PM P. Plant Basement
Food Service
7:30 PM Blue Room Worc. D.C.
Security 3 pm Dickinson
Please Attend

Ambrosia Café
Boltwood Walk
Amherst 253-2564
In the Spotlight This Week
Tuesday, November 18
AMBROSIA BLUES ALL STARS
$1 cover
Wednesday November 19
CHRIS KLEEMAN
Blues, Vocal Guitar $1 cover
Thursday November 20
DAVID PHILLIPS QUARTET
jazz
$1 cover
Coming — Nov. 28
AL FULLER with Cher Keegan $1 cover

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

HAS HE COME ON YET?
NOT YET, BARNEY
THINK HE'LL LAND A JOB WITH REAGAN?
COULD BE. THE SENATE'S STILL GA-GA OVER HENRY. HE'D BE A CINCH TO CONFIRM.
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. I GIVE YOU STATURE. I GIVE YOU STATESMANSHIP. I GIVE YOU THE HONORABLE HENRY A KISSINGER!
ALL RISE!
DA, DA! DA!
WOW. FRENCH HORNS.
AND A PET FALCON! NICE TOUCH!

Under the Influence M. Joyce

THE NOTORIOUS TRIO MET IN A CATHOLIC REFORM SCHOOL!
THEY WERE EXPELLED BECAUSE OF THE BAD INFLUENCE THEY HAD ON THE OTHER BOYS. ALSO IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT ONE WAS A HERETIC!
IF THESE THREE COME TO CALL, WE STRONGLY ADVISE YOU TO SEND YOUR LITTLE SISTER UPSTAIRS!
SURPRISE!
WHERE'S THE ICE BOX?

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

JOAN, IVE JUST BEEN WONDERING WHY YOU'VE BEEN STRAIGHT ALL THESE YEARS.
I MEAN LIKE, YOU'VE NEVER EVEN SMOKED A JOINT!
WELL, MY PARENTS ARE PAYIN FOR MY COLLEGE EDUCATION, SO I SEE DRUGS AS AN UNNECESSARY PRIVILEGE.
WHAT ABOUT SEX?
NOW THAT'S A RIGHT!

The Collegian wants reporters to cover University and Amherst police, Hampshire District and Superior Courtls, campus residential area government meetings, Amherst, Mount Holyoke Colleges and events in the Amherst area. A definite time commitment is required. Reporting experience helpful but not necessary. Call Richard Nagle or James Mahoney at the Collegian, 545-3500.

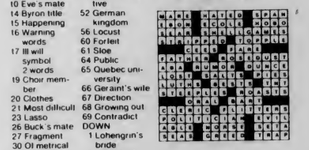
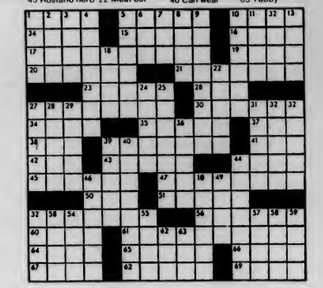
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Work units
5 C.S.A. leader
10 Eve's mate
14 Byron title
15 Happening
16 Warning words
17 It will
18 Fragment
19 Chor member
20 Clothes
21 Most difficult
23 Lasso
26 Buck's mate
27 Fragment
30 Ol metrical feet
34 Fish sauce
35 Irritates
37 Do wrong
38 Ms. Ullmann
39 Dinner course
41 Scottish explorer
42 Like Sullivan
43 Ridge
44 Baseball's Rose
45 Rostand hero
47 Motivated
50 Pallet, e.g.
51 Won't's relative
52 German kingdom
56 Locust
60 Forfeit
61 Sloe
64 Public
65 Quebec university
66 Geraint's wife
67 Direction
68 Growing out
69 Contradict

DOWN
1 Lohengrin's bride
2 Absorbed
3 Pluck
4 Ironical
5 Beat
6 St.
7 Ven. Prelix
8 1000 mils
9 Firmer
10 Garland
11 Pittance
12 Termites, e.g.
13 Arguable
18 Ireland
22 Meat cut
24 Pithy
25 Awns
27 Ol some Franks
28 Roman author
29 Peavey, e.g.
31 Cap
32 Enraged
33 Belief
36 Parasite
39 Scandinavians
40 Can wear
41 Ms. Gardner
43 Tabby
44 Mended
46 Away
48 Angling gear
49 Item
52 Farm tool
53 Cable
54 Utilizations
55 Boy's name
57 Tops
58 Balkan river
59 Handy —
62 Ms. Gardner
63 Tabby

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved





D.C. Menu

LUNCH

Tuna Boat
Scalloped Spaghetti/Meat Sauce

BASICS LUNCH

Hi-Protein Spaghetti/Tomato Sauce
Tuna Boat

DINNER

Roast Pork/Gravy, Applesauce
Chopped Beefsteak, Special Greek Style Skillet

BASICS DINNER

Garbanzo Cheese Loaf
Greek Style Skillet

Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
NO COVER CHARGE
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Ye Curling Iron
Hair Cutting and Styling
Special on Perms 20% off
We do our best to make you look your best
Come see us. No appointment necessary.
Triangle Street
Amherst, Mass.
(413) 549-4412

opportunity
The opportunity is here for you to consider Rutgers The State University of New Jersey for graduate study. A major research university Rutgers offers you the chance to discover over 140 graduate and professional degree programs through the doctoral level. And with numerous assistanships fellowships and scholarships available on a competitive basis Rutgers offers you the opportunity to pursue scholarly work while being affiliated with a nationally recognized university.
Currently over 13 000 students are enrolled in graduate and professional programs at campuses in Camden Newark and New Brunswick. They have discovered that Rutgers is within easy access to New York City and Philadelphia and in one of the most culturally educationally and recreationally rich areas in the nation.
Visit with our representative
DATE Thursday, 11/20/80
TIME 9:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m.
PLACE Univ. Placement Service Hampshire House
Graduate School-Newark
Graduate School-New Brunswick
Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology
Graduate School of Education
Graduate School of Library and Information Studies
Graduate School of Management
Graduate School of Social Work
Mason Gross School of the Arts
School of Criminal Justice
School of Law-Camden
School of Law-Newark
RUTGERS
THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY

A place called

Alpha

and what you can do there

JEFF FORMAN - Instructor

Scientists have recognized that there's a special functioning level of the brain where the mind operates in an extremely high, intuitive, creative, and expanded capacity.

They've called this level Alpha.

The goal of Alpha Awareness is to help you learn to consciously function in Alpha at will, wherever and whenever you decide.

So you can expand your talents, improve your skills, develop your psychic abilities, effect positive changes in your personality, and correct disturbing bad habits.

In short, to allow you to function as a superior human being.

We help you to learn basic techniques you can use to make virtually any life situation easier to deal with. From handling your son's poor homework to handling your boss' impossible deadlines to handling your nose's allergic reaction to cat hair.

We help you to learn to apply these techniques to insomnia, smoking, headaches, poor memory and overweight.

With these techniques you can learn to rule your body by controlling your mind. They are a means to becoming healthier. And more vital. And happier.

A course called

Alpha Awareness

and how it works

The course itself takes four evenings and one weekend to complete. Most people take them back to back. But you can do it separately according to your own time slots. And once you've graduated you can sit in on future sessions as often as you like, free.

If you're interested but not convinced or want to know more, we run seminars in this area for free where you can find out just what goes on here in more detail.

And you're invited to get real tough with us with your questions. The atmosphere is friendly and we can take it.

Dress is informal and loose all the time. You wear whatever makes you feel comfortable and relaxed.

Are you ready for a place called Alpha?

See you there.

ATTEND A FREE SPECIAL LECTURE

Wednesday, Nov. 19th
Campus Center Rm 809
7:30 P.M.

Tuesday, Nov 18th
Jones Library, Amherst
7:00 P.M.

For Further Information Call (413) 549-6370

Collegian

Today's paper produced by:

Assistant Managing Editor:	Andrea Atkins
Layout Technician	Suzette Courtmanche
Copy Editor	Sarah Schultz
Ad Layout Technician	Jay Brightman
Head Darkroom Technician	Scott Burke
Composing Room:	Ria Koning, Andra Armstrong, Pam Dissinger, Janet Milstein (the girl next door), Bob Carr, Renzo Gudt, of Bellingham

Correction

The Collegian yesterday incorrectly reported that the fundraiser sponsored by the Regis Hairstylists to benefit the Boltwood Project netted $75. The event raised $414.

charlie's

good food & drink

LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST

3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!

All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75

Specials after Happy Hour

SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles

MON. Canadian Night .99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts

TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles

WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps

THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week

We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet

Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room

We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board

Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly

1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

DEBATE:

SHOULD the STATE FUND ABORTION?

Moderator Susan Yarborough

Pro:

NANCY GERTNER

Vice President Civil Liberties Union

Reproductive Freedom Project

Con:

JOSEPH REILLY

Director Mass. Citizens for Life

TONIGHT TUE. NOV. 18

7:30 MAHAR AUD.

Cosponsored by: Distinguished Visitors Program & the Coalition for Equal Rights & Reproductive Freedom

Childcare will be provided.

American Education Week to reaffirm dedication

By KEVIN BERG
Collegian Correspondent

Yesterday marked the first day of American Education Week, with the theme of "Education in the 80's—Preparation for the Future," as proclaimed by President Jimmy Carter.

In his declaration speech, Carter called upon all Americans to "reaffirm our commitment to the excellence and quality of the educational opportunity offered to all its citizens."

He said: "American Education Week affords all of us a time to thing about the needs, the importance, and the hopes for education. And it gives us a time to acknowledge the accomplishments of an education system that serves more than 58 million young people and adults."

The outgrowth of efforts by the National Education Association (NEA), the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the National School Boards Association, the American Legion and the U.S. Department of Education, American Education Week focuses on "highlighting better instruction as a prime national goal," according to an NEA news release.

During World War I, it was discovered that approximately 25 percent of the men called for military service were illiterate, and about 29 percent were physically unfit. As a result, one week each year for more than 60 years has been set aside in observance of the efforts being made to improve our nation's education system.

American schools are "recognizing this week with local proclamations, lectures, films, seminars, and in other ways." The schools will be educating people on the importance of "working actively for education by supporting school bond issues, fighting school budget cuts, keeping class sizes low, overcoming stereotypes about the handicapped, and imparting a respect for education as a lifelong activity," the release said.

There are no plans on the University of Massachusetts campus to observe the week, according to Hariharan Swaminathan of the School of Education.

★ D.C.

continued from page 1

the below the minimum income cannot possibly finance education on their own," said Rep. Markey. "The higher education bill has already gone through the House. The Senate is taking it as a mandate to block all federal assistance programs. We're in kind of a limbo."

An aide to Sen. Ernest S. Hoolings, D-SC, echoed Markey's sentiments and said it could be some time before any additional funding is considered.

"It looks as if we'll continue funding at 1980 levels," the aide said. "Then we'll wait until the new administration comes in and see what they're pushing for."

One new student who spoke to Sen. Tsongas said he expressed similar views and urged students to take a more active stand on issues affecting them.

"He was sympathetic with us but was disappointed with student awareness of the problem and surprised he was not contacted before," said Paul Morrison, an exchange student from Kent University in London, England.

Other students said that while they felt they had not made an impact on the legislature, they were happy with their performance and the law makers' reactions to it.

"The people I talked to were supportive. But, with the shift in the House and the conservative trend, it would be very difficult to make students a viable political body. I think our position got through, but we didn't change anything," said Dan Maynard, student lobbyist.

Today, the group is expected to meet with several more legislators, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Hair Styles
A LA CARTE

a cut above ... a price below

Upstairs — (Across from the park)

Daily 9-5
Thursday 9-7

241 Main St., Northampton 584-7798

"Head" Maitre d'...Paul Laflamme, proprietor. 20 years experience

The Great Ski Snatch

$500,000 worth of top name

Winter Clothing & Ski Equipment

* Parkas
* Vest
* Sweaters
* Hats
* Gloves
* Mittens

UMASS SKI CLUB

* Downhill
* X-Country
* Skis
* Boots
* Bindings
* Poles

Starts Tommorrow

Place

S.U.B.

Times

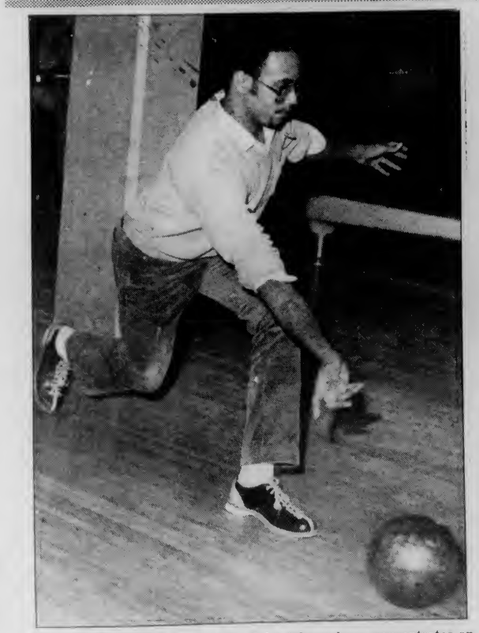
Wed. Nov 19
Thurs. 20
Fri. 21
Sat. 22

Noon til 10 PM

10 AM til 5 PM

No coats or book bags allowed in sale.

Sports



Lonnie Marshall, a freshman in John Adams dorm, concentrates on the bowling ball as he lets it roll down the alley in preparation for the upcoming intramural season.

Bob Ivanhoff, an instructor in Tae-Kwon-do (the Korean art of self-defense), shows his students how a leg kick is administered.

Photos by

Scott Burke

Campus Sports Roundup

Gymmen edge by Alumni 195-193

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

Youth won out over age this weekend when the men's varsity gymnastic team defeated a team of alumni gymnasts.

The varsity led the meet until the second to last event when the alumni took a small lead. The varsity's high bar routines proved to be too much for the alumni though, and they pulled out a 195.5 to 193.3 victory.

If alumnus Chuck Shiebler had done his whole high bar routine the outcome might have been different.

"I cut my routine short because my hands were sore," Shiebler said. "If I had known how close the meet was, I would have done my whole routine and scored a couple points higher."

The team scores were lowere than average because only four scores from each event were counted instead of the normal five. This was because the alumni were lacking competitors.

"If we counted five scores we would have had 235 point," head coach Roy Johnson said.

The varsity wasn't competing with full strength because an injured Bob Donahue decided not to compete and all-around Bob Gauthier couldn't compete on floor exercise or vaulting because of a broken toe.

According to Johnson, the outstanding alumnus was Bill Broullet who scored a 49.2 The top varsity man was Hugh O'Neall who scored a 46.1 Friday at 8 p.m. in Boyden Auxilary Gymnasium the gymmen will open their regular season with Army, their toughest rivals for this semester.

"To beat Army we'll have to improve quite a bit this weel," Johnson said. "We'll have to score a 255, but if Donahue is back in the all-around we should be able to do it."

If Donahue and Gauthier are in top shape this weekend they will help "decide whether the team hits above 250," Johnson said. "This should be the closest meet of the year."

Swimmers split

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

After a 93-47 victory over the University of Vermont, last week, the woman's swim team fell short to Smith College, 104-35 this past weekend and thus evened UMass' record at 1-1 this season.

UMass' medley relay team of Betty Geurin, Maura Sweeney, Rosalie Nataupsky, and Anne Whitlock, placed second to a strong Smith team of S. Hahn, J. Carter, M. McMalion, and L. Marlow.

The only two first place finishes by UMass were captured by Jen Nicolai, in the 50 yard breast stroke, and Jen Black in the 100 yard backstroke. In the 500 yard freestyle, captain Nancee Shifflett placed second, while Smith took first and third. Shifflett also placed in the 100-yard breast stroke and third in the 200-yard freestyle. Rosalie Nataupsky placed second in the 200-yard individual medley, third in the 100-yard butterfly, and third in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard backstroke.

First and third went to Smith in the one meter diving event. However UMass diver Gina Perrone broke through with a second place finish in the one meter diving. Smith swept the three meter event.

Other point scorers for UMass were, Caroline Frietas, who placed third in both the 100-yard individual medley and the 50-yard backstroke. Sue O'Hlleran finished third in the 50-yard freestyle, and Carolyn Holmes finished third in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Smith went on to win the 200-yard freestyle relay.

Last week in the first meet of the season, UMass displayed its talent by defeating the UNIVERSITY OF Vermont. This meet produced many triple event winners, giving UMass victories in 11 out of 16 events. Coach Val Turtle was pleased with everyone's overall performance.

Among the triple winners were freshman Rosalie Nataupsky, winning the 200-yard individual medley, 100-yard butterfly, and 550-yard butterfly. Sophmore Jennifer Nicolai won the 50-yard freestyle and was a member of the first place 200-yard medley and freestyle relay teams. Freshman Carolyn Holmes captured first places in the 200-yard medley relay, 50-yard breaststroke, and 100-yard individual medley.

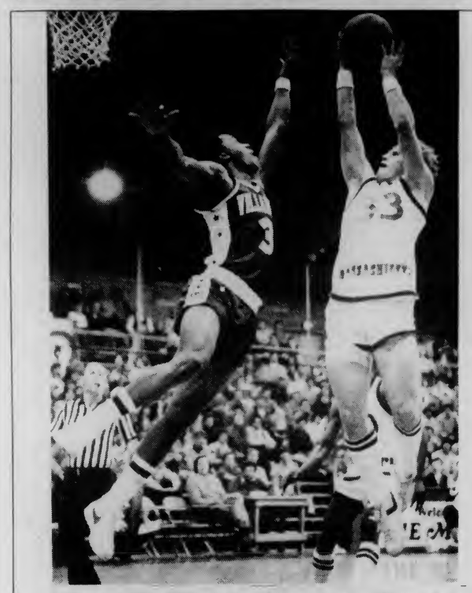
Double winners were Jen Black in the 100-yard backstroke and 200-yard freestyle relay, and Caroline Freitasin in the 200-yard medley relay and 50-yard backstroke.

Phil Estabrooks, a freshman from Brown dormitory, returns the ball while playing raquetball at Boyden gym.

Winter Sports Preview

Men's basketball

Wilson has them working—hard



UMass guard Tom Witkos pulls up for a shot against Villanova's Rory Sparrow in last year's action at the Cage. (Collegian file photo)

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

It is a little before 3 o'clock in the afternoon when Ray Wilson trudges up to the Cage. The Curry Hicks building is quiet on weekdays around this time, but soon you hear the whipping noise of jump ropes slapping the hardwood floor.

Ray Wilson has his team working.

"We're working harder this year than any team here that I can recall," says Wilson, head coach of the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team. "Of course, we need it."

They need it because of last year's nightmare. The nightmare of a 2-24 season. The last time a UMass basketball team won only two games was 1947-48 when Harry Truman was swearing in the White House and Lorin Ball's Minutemen went 2-14.

Last year's team was an amalgamation of freshmen, walk-ons and transfers. So, you say, at least this year's squad has a season—albeit discouraging—under its belt.

Not so.

There have been 12 departures (e.g. Tyus Nedd and Jay Stewart have called it quits) and Wilson and assistant coaches Bob Rachal and Sam Hanger are faced with yet another year of so-called rebuilding. Only sophomore forward Dan Wright and senior guard Tom Witkos return with a considerable amount of game-time experience. Junior guard Jeff Bierly returns as the third letterman from last year. But that's it.

A glance down the roster displays the plight of Ray Wilson: five freshmen, two sophomores, six juniors, two seniors.

"This team has got to be a bunch of over-achievers," says Wilson, who enters his second year as head coach after serving as assistant for ten years under former head coach Jack Leaman. "They have the mental make-up of being over-achievers. We'll just have to wait and see what they do on the court."

As for the court, Wilson sees a better shooting team than last year's; a team which would like to run. ("We hope to run. But then again, you've got to get the damn ball first." —Wilson)

"I would like to get the ball down the floor quickly, to put pressure on both ends," Wilson said. "I'm pretty well set on eight men. I'm looking for two more. I want to be playing ten men in the early-going."

Among the four or five guards Wilson hopes to use are a trio of newcomers. Freshman Bill Bayno (6'2") and juniors Dave Genis (6'4") and Ron Washington add stability to a backcourt which last year turned the ball over more than UMass fans care to remember.

"Ball-handling and turnovers were major problems last year," Wilson said. "These new kids are definitely better ball-handlers. It's hard to say how they'll do in the early-going, but I'm confident that we'll cut down (on turnovers)."

Up front, Wilson will be relying on the play of forwards Wright (6'7"), Tyrone Whitehead (6'6), Edwin Green (6'6"), Swingman Craig Smith (6'4"), Bob Thorne (6'6"), and perhaps mostly on junior center Jim Mosier who, at 6'11", is the team's only full-fledged big man.

The pivot man could very well be the pivotal point. Wilson makes no bones about it: he wants more work out of Mosier—more than what he's seen so far—because as Mosier goes, so goes the offense, and quite possibly the team.

"Mosier has got to work, Wilson says. "I mean really work. I want him to control the boards, especially when Green

Minutewomen ready to continue tradition

By BOB MITCHELL
Collegian Staff

All of the familiar sounds will soon be present: the ball bouncing off the floor, the encouraging chatter from the players and coaches, the cheering of the crowd.

These sounds, and a lot more, will shortly fill the air and accumulate among the ancient rafters of the infamous Curry Hicks Cage.

The UMass women's varsity basketball team, under head coach Mary Ann Ozdarski, will be looking to continue the proud winning tradition as it embarks on the beginning of the 1980-81 season November 29 and 30 at the University of Connecticut tournament.

Ozdarski, starting her fifth season as head Minutewomen mentor, has compiled an impressive record of 64 wins and 29 losses in her four years at UMass.

The Minutewomen, who played to a 14-9 record last season, lost superstar Sue Peters to graduation and will surely miss her services as the play-making guard.

Peters, the all-time leading scorer at UMass with 1,858 career points, scored 470 points last season for a 20.4 points-per-game average. Peters is now playing in her first year in the Women's Basketball League (WBL) with the New Orleans Pride.

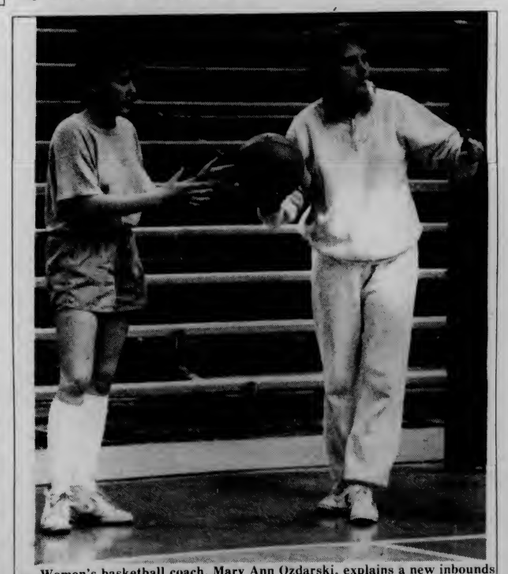
"There is no way we're going to replace Sue Peters," Ozdarski admitted. "How much we're going to miss her, I don't know."

However, this year's edition of the Minutewomen squad will have to put the pleasant memories of Peters to rest and get down to business.

The Minutewomen will be led by senior co-captains Julie Ready and Ginger Legare. Ready, a 6-2 native of Hanson, and Legare, a 6-1 Haverhill native, will be the starting forwards. Ready, who netted 354 points last season, finished as the team's second leading scorer, while Legare, who pumped in 256 points, ended as the third leading point contributor.

Martha Ready, a 6-3 junior (and sister of Julie), will get the call as the starting center. Ready, who played in 18 of the squad's 23 contests last year, pulled down 99 rebounds, while scoring 116 points for a 6.4 average.

The starting guards will be juniors Tricia Corcoran and Sherry Collins. Corcoran built up a 5.3 scoring average last year, while Collins, one of three Amherst natives on the roster, played in just 13 games and figured for a 3.8 average.



Women's basketball coach, Mary Ann Ozdarski, explains a new inbounds play to Jenny Gray during a recent practice. (Staff photo by Lisa Mead)

CASH PAID FOR. . .

Class rings, old gold, sterling, etc.

In Any Condition!
Top Dollar Always Paid At:

WENDY'S

Antique & Fine Jewelry
Twice a week, every week at:
UMass Campus Center Concourse
*Approved by UMass Board of Governors
SEE ME BEFORE YOU SELL

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA

UMass Favorite Pizza

10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL ?

HOT OVEN GRINDERS
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI - LASAGNA - RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI - STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD

COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY

NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE

Help Wanted - Delivery Persons.
Must have own car. Apply in person.

FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
17 B MONTAGUE RD. AMHERST.

silverscope

Natural Cuisine

*fresh baked quiche
*breads, honey desserts
*homemade soups
*pocket sandwiches
*cappuccino * espresso

COFFEE EQUIPMENT
Coffee Beans
15 varieties
$3.99-4.89/lb.

* Wine, Imported Beer, Liquored Coffee
adjacent to UMass Campus
264 n. pleasant st., amherst
Mon - Sat 9 AM-Midnight
Sun 11 AM-Midnight

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Fiat

Amherst Gulf

(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
call 256-8936
catering to the Campus Area
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

DRINK SPECIALS
EVERY NIGHT OF THE WEEK!
NOW OPEN UNTIL ONE AM
THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
UNTIL TWELVE
MON THROUGH WEDNESDAY!
Good times, Good drink, Good music
the Hungry U
55 University Drive

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00 with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST – a professional consultation
SECOND – a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD – our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive, Amherst, MA 549-5610
62 Main Street, Easthampton, MA 527-2411

- - -Keeping
Minutemen and Minutewomen

SPOTLESS

Minuteman Cleaners
5 Pray Street Amherst

Seward Trunks
light in weight - plywood base - vinyl covering - for storage or shipping come to Harlow Luggage
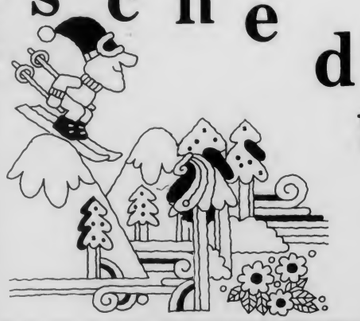
"the little leather store with a whole lot more"
157 Main St. Northampton

Winter Sports Schedule



MEN'S BASKETBALL

Nov	29	at Providence	8:00
Dec	3	HARVARD	7:30
	6	ST. BONAVENTURE*	7:30
	9	BRYANT	7:30
	12-13	Manufacturers Hanover Classic at Iona with Dartmouth and St. Francis (PA)
	20	AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL	7:30
	23	at Pittsburgh*	8:00
Jan.	3	WEST VIRGINIA*	2:00
	5	at St. Bonaventure*	7:30
	8	at Rutgers*	8:00
	10	BENTLEY	2:00
	15	at Duquesne*	8:00
	17	at West Virginia*	4:00
	22	RHODE ISLAND*	7:30
	27	at Connecticut	8:00
	30-31	Provident Savings Classic, Boston Garden (Boston College, Boston Univ., Holy Cross)
Feb.	4	GEORGE WASHINGTON*	7:30
	7	DUQUESNE*	1:00
	10	RUTGERS*	7:30
	12	at Northeastern	7:30
	18	BOSTON UNIVERSITY	7:30
	21	at George Washington*	8:00
	24	PITTSBURGH*	7:30
	26	at New Hampshire	7:30
Mar.	3,6,7	EAA Championship @ Pittsburgh Civic Ctr.

*Eastern 8 Game

Coach: Ray Wilson

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Nov.	29-30	at UConn Tournament (URI, UNH, UConn)	7:00 9:00
Dec.	3	HARVARD	4:00
	10	BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY (QUE).	7:30
	13	at Vermont	5:30
	27-28-29	at Queen's Tournament (Northwestern, Virginia, East Carolina, Indiana U., Temple)
Jan.	9-10	at Providence Tournament (URI, Providence, Georgetown)
	12	FORDHAM	7:00
	14	MAINE (ORONO)	7:30
	16-17	at Syracuse Tournament (URI, Syracuse, Montclair St.)
	19	NEW HAMPSHIRE	7:00
	24	at St. John's	2:00
	27	at Connecticut	5:30
	29	PROVIDENCE	7:30
	31	at Princeton	5:45
Feb.	3	at Springfield	8:00
	7	at Northeastern	2:00
	11	DARTMOUTH	7:30
	14	at Montclair State	3:00
	16	CENTRAL CONNECTICUT	7:00
	18	SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT	3:30
	25	RHODE ISLAND	7:30
	27	at Boston University	7:30
Mar.	6-7	EAIAW Championship

Coach: Mary Ann Ozdarski

MEN'S TRACK

Jan.	10-11	at Dartmouth USTFF	10:00
	17	at Dartmouth/Northeastern	1:00
	25	at Harvard NEAAU
	31	at URI/UNH	1:00
Feb.	7	at Maine	1:00
	14	at Boston Coll./Holy Cross	1:00
	28	New Englands at B. U.	10:00
Mar.	7-8	at IC4A-Princeton

Coach: Ken O'Brien

WOMEN'S TRACK

Dec.	6	at Boston University	1:00
Jan.	9-11	at Dartmouth USTFF	10:00
	25	at Harvard NEAAU	10:00
	31	at UConn/URI	7:00
Feb.	8	at Vermont	1:00
	14	at Boston College/Holy Cross	1:00
	21	at New Hampshire	12:00
	28	New Englands	10:00
Mar.	6-7	EAIAW Championship

Coach: Ken Banda

SKI
Men and Women

Jan.	17	Amherst Slalom Berkshire East, Charlemont, Ma.
	18	Amherst Giant Slalom Berkshire East, Charlemont, Ma
	31	Plymouth State Slalom Waterville Valley, N.H.
Feb.	1	Plymouth State Slalom Waterville Valley, N.H.
	2	Boston College Giant Slalom Waterville Valley, N.H.
	2	Northeastern Giant Slalom Waterville Valley, N.H.
	7	Brown Slalom Okemo, Ludlow, Vt.
	8	U.Conn. Giant Slalom Okemo, Ludlow, Vt.
	21	WISC & NEISC Championship Slalom Cannon Mt., Franconia, N.H.
	22	WISC & NEISC Championship Giant Slalom Cannon Mt., Franconia, N.H.
	27	Eastern Championship Slalom Snow Bowl, Middlebury, Vt.

Coach: Bill MacConnell

MEN'S GYMNASTICS

Nov.	21	ARMY	8:00
Dec.	2	LOWELL	7:00
	5-6	at Farmingdale Invitational
	13	SYRACUSE	1:00
Jan.	23	MIT/CORTLAND	7:00
Feb.	5	at Dartmouth	7:00
	14	at Navy	2:00
	18	at So. Connecticut	7:00
	21	at E. Stroudsburg	2:00
	28	TEMPLE	8:00
Mar.	7	SPRINGFIELD	8:00

Coach: Roy Johnson

WOMEN'S GYMNASTICS

Dec.	5	UMASS INVITATIONAL/ UNH/URI/W.VA.	7:00
	13	at Northeastern	1:30
Jan.	17	RUTGERS	1:30
	24	CORNELL/YALE	1:30
	30	at Penn State	8:00
Feb.	7	TEMPLE	1:30
	14	SPRINGFIELD	7:00
	18	at Southern Conn.	7:00
	22	at New Hampshire	2:00
	26	MICHIGAN STATE	2:00
Mar.	7	CORTLAND	1:30
	27-28	EAIAW Championship

Coach: Virginia Evans

MEN'S SWIMMING

Dec.	2	at Tufts	4:00
	6	BOSTON UNIV.	2:00
	12	at Springfield	4:00
Jan.	24	at Williams	1:00
	31	RHODE ISLAND	2:00
Feb.	4	at Connecticut	7:00
	7	VERMONT	2:00
	11	NEW HAMPSHIRE	7:00
	17	CENT. CONNECTICUT	7:00
	19	at Amherst	7:00
Mar	5-7	New Englands at Springfield Col.

Coach: Russ Yarworth

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

Nov.	8	at Vermont	2:00
	15	at Smith	2:00
	22	at Connecticut	1:00
Dec.	6	BOSTON UNIVERSITY	5:30
	13	at Clark	1:00
Jan.	24	at So. Connecticut	1:00
	28	at Boston College	7:00
	31	SPRINGFIELD	10:00
Feb.	7	RHODE ISLAND/YALE	1:00
	14	NEW HAMPSHIRE	1:00
	17	MT. HOLYOKE	7:00
	27-28	New Englands at B.C.
Mar.	1	New Englands at B.C.

Coach: Valerie Turtle

WRESTLING

Nov.	25	BOSTON UNIV.	7:00
Dec.	2	at Hofstra	7:30
	5-6	at Coast Guard Tourn.
	10	MASS. MARITIME	7:00
	13	at Rutgers/Lafayette/Princeton	1:00
Jan.	17	at Columbia/C. W. Post/ U.S. Maritime	12:00
	28	at So. Conn.	7:30
	31	at Albany/Cent. Conn.	12:00
Feb.	4	at New Hampshire	3:00
	6	SPRINGFIELD V & JV	7:00
	9	at Cent. Connecticut	3:00
	17	at Harvard/Connecticut	3:00
	21	RHODE ISLAND	1:00
	27-28	New Englands at B.U.

Coach: Dave Amalo

amc THEATRES

Every Friday and Saturday at 12:15
HAMPSHIRE 4
$$4-7:50 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

R

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store that's close - and has convenient free parking.

WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE
THAT HELP KEEP ENTERTAINING AFFORDABLE!

Largest selection of wines in Amherst - and a friendly, knowledgeable sales staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street (rte 9 East) Amherst
Open till 11 p.m. Telephone 253-5384

HOCKEY HEADQUARTERS

Skates by CCM, Daoust, Micron

Sticks by Canadien, Northern, Titan, Koho, Christian

Protective Equipment by CCM, Cooper, Koho, Canadien

FENTON'S ATHLETIC SUPPLIES
377 Main St., Amherst 253-3973
826 Main St., Springfield 732-6700

MASSE'S FISH MARKET

THE BEST IN FRESH FISH

OPENED
TUESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY

170 N. PLEASANT STREET, AMHERST, MASS.

SUNSPOT

The year-round tan.

Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six session, two-week foundation program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)

All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.

The SunSpot, Amherst Carriage Shops, 549-1679
based on a full year's tanning program

39¢ a day*.

NOW AT Time Out

2 TV's

37 N. Pleasant
256-0471

Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

Specializing in hair cuts for both men and women

aristocrat
A FASHIONABLE APPROACH TO HAIR

Open evenings for your convenience

17 Montague Road
North Amherst, Mass. 01059
413-549-6255

STADIUM

U. Mass. Amherst

LIQUORS

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.
Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms

Molson Golden
.....9.90 case 2.75 six bot

Labatts (beer or ale)
.....9.90 case 2.75 six bot

STUDENTS BEWARE!

Many people claim to be paying top prices for class rings, old gold, sterling, etc.

BUT THEY AREN'T
So- Before You Sell -See me at

WENDY'S
Antique and Fine Jewelry
Twice a week, every week at:
UMass Campus Center Concourse
Approved by UMass Board of Governors
P.S. I Pay Cash!

Spikers set for "serious stuff"

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Dartmouth College came to play last Sunday. All seven members of the Green club (with no coach) entered NOPE gym to scrimmage the old and new of the UMass men's volleyball team.

Nothing serious happened, other than the desire to crunch the living daylights out of the ball at every opportunity. The varsity members (four players from last year's varsity and a couple from the JVs) played, the JVs played the first timers played. Hell, even UMass coach Al Morel played.

"I thought I did pretty well," he said afterward.

It all took about two hours, with Dartmouth coming away with more points than UMass. But so what? It was just a scrimmage, a learning experience.

In early December, however, the serious stuff begins, when the members of the New England and Eastern Collegiate Volleyball Leagues convene to make up the coming season's schedules.

"We know who we're going to play, it's just a matter of when," said Morel.

Among the teams UMass will be facing in Division One of the NECVL and in the ECVL are Springfield College, Yale University, Harvard University (the defending NECVL champions) and Albany State College.

"There's some confusion in the NECVL as to who wants to be in Division One," Morel said, "many of the Division Two teams pushed themselves into Division One, where they don't belong. I think teams like MIT and Rhode Island shouldn't be in Division One, where we're trying to establish a power division."

As for personnel, Morel is confident of a good showing next semester.

"We have four players returning, including Pat Ryan (last year's co-captain), Mark Ferrante, Darryl Cain and Scott Houle. I'm moving up all the JVs from last year into the varsity," he said.

"I think we'll do well. Last year, our weak spot was in the middle (blocking). With Jeff Chandler and Steve Geryk, our middle is much improved. For offense, we were trying a 5-1 (one setter and five hitters) with Pat the setter. However, against Dartmouth, we tried a 5-2; the extra setter let Pat go to hit from the outside. It worked very well," he said.

The teams are forming, the schedule to be set very soon. Next semester, UMass will try to improve on its second-place finish in the NECVL Championships and possibly get into the Easterns Championships.

UM wrestlers to host BU in home opener

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Escapes, takedowns, nearfalls; what the Massachusetts varsity wrestling team has been practicing since mid-October will be tested next Tuesday as it hosts Boston University in the first regular season meet this year. Head coach Dave Amato's matmen will be looking to live up to last year's 14-4 regular season record.

"We've had some injuries," Amato said. "We're starting off a little slower than last year."

John Allen, who last year went 18-0, placed first in the New Englands and went on to the Nationals where he was defeated by the eventual third place finisher, will again be wrestling in the unlimited class for the Matmen. According to Amato, it is still uncertain as to whether Allen will be wrestling in the home opener. Allen, a two-sport athlete is currently finishing up the football season as the Minuteman's noseguard.

Mike Carroll will captain the Mass squad along with Dana Rasmussen and Charlie Rigoglioso. Carroll was also last year's New England champ in the 158 pound class with a 13-1 record and he went to the Nationals at the University of Oregon.

Much of the 10-man varsity squad is still up in the air according to Amato, who will be holding wrestle-offs this week to determine who will start. Amato who was last year voted New England coach-of-the-year will be assisted this year by Dennis Fenton, an ex-UMass heavyweight wrestler and four-time New England champ.

Mass will start the season without Greg MacDonald and Greg Johnson, starters for most of last season sho are expected to be out 2-3 weeks with injuries and Bill McQuaide another Nationals contender who will not be wrestling until next semester.

The team faces over 20 teams on a 14 meet schedule with four home meets. "Last year the away schedule was worse," Amato said. "It's not like we're going away every day," he said.

While they start the regular season nxet Tuesday, the matmen have not gone totally untested. For the past two weekends they have been competing in pre-season tourneys; one in Colgate and just recently the Trenton State Tournament ih New Jersey.

Carroll, wrestling in the 167 pound class placed in both tourneys, third at Colgate and fourth at Trenton. Rigoglioso, weighing in at 142 pounds won his division in the Trenton tourney.

"They did pretty well," Amato said. "Everyone wrestled well and won a few matches."

Mass faces the Terriers of Boston University at 7 p.m. next Tuesday in Boyden gym.

John Allen, defending New England champ in the heavyweight division will again be wrestling for Massachusetts. (Collegian file photo)

★Minutewomen

Sophomore forwards Susan Carey and Judity Kellisher and sophomore guard Marlene Susienka round out the players with collegiate experience. Four freshmen, Cynthia Clapp, Jennifer Gray, Nadine Jackson and Wendy Ward have earned spots on the team and have impressed Ozdarski with their hard work.

The Minutewomen, who have scrimmaged with Springfield College and Yale University earlier in the year, play Worcester State in the final pre-season battle Friday.

"The idea behind scrimmaging is to learn about the game," Ozdarski said. "And they (scrimmages) have taught us a lot."

The Minutewomen host Harvard, a team they defeated last season, 83-69, in the home-opener on December 3. Other squads which will invade the Cage later on in the season include Bishop's University of Quebec, Fordham, Maine, New Hampshire, Providence and Dartmouth.

"We have a tough schedule; 27 regular scheduled games," Ozdarski said. "In the past we've had only 22 or 23, it's definitely a tougher schedule, but an exciting one.

"I'm optimistic," Ozdarski cautiously said. "But, the key to any successful program is staying away from injuries and nobody has any control over that."

Wilson has them working and Wright are out there at the same time. I want rebounding pressure taken off forwards like them, so they can score points."

Obviously, a glaring weakness on the UMass squad is a lack of overall size.

"We've got just four players 6'6" or better," Wilson says. "An injury could really hurt us."

What could hurt even more is the league in which the Minutemen play—the Eastern Athletic Association (or, Eastern 8). With the likes of Rutgers, Pittsburgh, Duquesne, St. Bonaventure and West Virginia surfacing twice a season, UMass is faced with a schedule of consistently tough games. As if non-league games would be easier, the Minutemen must face no less than Providence, Connecticut, Boston College, Holy Cross and Boston University (the last three in the Providence Savings Classic).

Wilson and the Minutemen enter the season with less than encouraging news. A pre-season poll of Eastern 8 basketball coaches shows UMass is expected to finish last in the league.

But, stille, the laps are run, the ropes are skipped, and Ray Wilson pushes his team.

"It all goes back to this over-achievement thing," Wilson was saying last Friday, tucked away in a small, upstairs locker room at the Cage. "It's like the student who has to really study to get the good grade, as opposed to the one who doesn't have to work that hard. Well, we're like that student who has to work.

"You know, it's not easy. Your only hope is to get a team together and hope they play as just that—a team. You just can't have a bunch of individuals running around on a court. You have to put out a group that functions as a unit. That's when you beat a good team like a Rutgers or a Pittsburgh."

But still, the thought of Sam Clancys and Earl Belchers and Kelvin Troys invading the Cage must leave one with a little quiver in the spine.

"Hey, the best thing about our league is that you know whoever comes out of it all and goes to the (NCAA) playoff, well, you know you've got a good representative," Wilson says.

It is perhaps some relief that UMass travels down to open the season against Providence College Nov. 29. As Wilson quipped, "Anybody is better than opening against Michigan (which embarrassed UMass in last year's opener, 112-64)."

There are no false promises thrown around down at the Cage. Nobody comes up to you and says they'll win 10 or 12 or 15 games. You wouldn't believe them if they did.

But they will come up and tell you they are working hard. They will tell you that there's a better attitude on this year's team, and that there's a chance—if but flickering—to win some games and provide the energy which seems to have been missing since the days of Eldridge, Pyatt and Claiborne.

But to play well in this league, night after night—what about it, coach?

"Hey, we've all got to dream, now don't we," Ray Wilson says with a smile.

Ray Wilson says good-bye and goes back to work.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue #55 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Wednesday, November 19, 1980

First snow cancels classes; Storm prompts snow battles

By STEPHANIE KLEIN
Collegian Correspondent

About eight inches of snow coated the area Monday night, resulting in cancelled afternoon classes and slippery roads at the University of Massachusetts.

Gene Stover, a spokesman for the UMass News Bureau said students and University personnel were asked to leave work yesterday at 2 p.m. so that roads, parking lots and walkways could be cleared of snow.

Second shift workers were told not to arrive until 7 p.m. Tuesday night, four hours later than usual, with the exception of dining commons, infirmary, and boiler plant workers, Stover said.

Amherst Police Department spokesman said area road conditions were "reasonably good."

Physical plant handyman Justing P. Cobb said the snowfall caused no major damage to the University, other than a few broken windows from student snoeball fights.

Students in all five residential areas were reported to have had snow ball fights Monday night. Students in Southwest Residential Area poured out of their dorms at about 11 p.m. to take part in the fights.

"It changed everyone's attitude, people were so psyched to see the snow," Chuck Scott of Southwest said.

Students at the University of Rhode Island had the same sentiments. An Associated Press story said students at U.R.I. bombarded many of the buildings with snowballs.

"At times is sounded like Fenway Park after someone hit a home run," said the University campus police captain James E. McDonald.

"It got a little hairy at times," McDonald said.

Students at URI took the snowball fighting one step farther. McDonald said the first snowfall prompts snowball fights every year, but this is the first time a crowd of students ever marched on the police station and attacked it.

Sheltered from the storm yesterday, Manuel Maurtua, an HRTA sophmore from Peru, enjoys a warm meal at Hampshire Dining Commons. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

University Snow Policy

The University Parking Office has announced the following policy for snow related cancellations: Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary begininning at 6 a.m. and continued periodically on the day in question.

Such announcements will be made on Radio Stations WTTT-Amherst 1430 AM, WHMP-Northampton 1400 AM, WHAI-Greenfield 1240 AM, WARE-Ware 1250 AM, WCAT-Orange 1390 AM, WHYN-Springfield 560 AM, WFCR-Amherst 88.5 FM, WTIC-Hartford 1080 AM, WACE-Sprinfield 730 AM, WTAG-Worcester 580 AM, WSPR-Springfield 1270 AM, and WMUA-Amherst 91.1 FM.

It is important to stay tuned to the radio for additional information.

The office requests that students not call the University for this information.

University personnel normally bringing their cars onto campus are advised to use the bus, pool rides, walk if possible, or have someone drop them at work so that the car does not have to be left on campus, and so that snow removal during daylight hours is facilitated.

If space is not available in your assigned lot, go to either the peripheral lot west of Physical Plant, or Lot 25. Also make use of the Campus Center Garage.

turn to page 9 for further information

Susan Uyetake, an exchange student from the Univ. of Hawaii, plays in her first snow. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Hawaiian student encounters snow for the first time

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

Remember the first time you saw snow? Most of us in New Englands probably can't, as it has been around every winter for as long as we can remember. To someone born and raised in Hawaii, however, seeing the snowfall yesterday was a new experience.

Susan Uyetake, 19, is a Hotel, Restaurant, and Travel Administration major from the University of Hawaii, and is at the University of Massachusetts on the exchange program this year.

"I was in a colloq when I saw that it was snowing, I ran out and couldn't believe that it was really snowing. I just stood there watching it, then I tried to catch snowflakes on my tongue. It was a really awsome experience," she said.

She had seen snow only from a distance on mountain tops or in the movies before yesterday.

"I expected the snowflakes to be fluffy and not as icey. I want to try skiing if I can stand the cold. I've gone water skiing, but snow skiing will be different. Ice skating is so pretty. I want to try that too, and I want to make a snowman and snow balls. (This reporter can testify that she has since made and fired several effective snow balls.

"It is hard to remember that you have to wear so many clothes. "It's a thrill to put on all these winter clothes. In Hawaii, I just wear slippers or go barefoot. It's a pain to wear shoes. I like the winter clothes but not the shoes.

"I really like it on the East Coast. The snow is so clean and pure. The leaves this fall were beautiful. I'm so used to seeing greens and blues all the time, it was nice to see the yellows and reds this fall."

Students continue fight for financial aid

By GAYLE YOUNG
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON- Encouraged by Massachusetts Senators Paul Tsongas and Edward Kennedy, 40 University of Massachusetts students continued their lobbying efforts for increased financial aid.

"You deserve a lot of commendation for your work," said Senator Kennedy to the students during a half-hour question and answer session Tuesday morning.

"You're letting the transition team (of Ronald Reagan) know that students are watching what is going on and are going to raise hell. It's time the other side raised hell."

Tsongas spoke earlier, lauding the lobby effort and offered staff support and co-operation.

The students who lobbied were member of Dr. Gerald Grady's legislative processes class. Student Government Association co-president Rich LaVoice, a member of the class said, "The group is pushing for passage of legislative funding programs as well as amendments sponsoring added funds.

Most representatives and senators were supportive to the student lobbyists who broke up into groups of three and four and swept through the halls of Congress.

Sometimes the students simply knocked on the senator's doors and asked if they could see an aide for a few minutes. Few offices, however, gave students much hope for an increase or even level funding of student aid programs, in the wake of what many see as a national mandate in fiscal conservatism.

Students said most representatives and legislative aides were sympathetic but noncommital.

turn to page 11

World and national news

Toxic waste flows through loophole in EPA regulation

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER
Associated Press

CONCORD, N.H. — The much-heralded federal cradle-to-grave monitoring of toxic waste that starts today has a lethal loophole that may allow tons of industrial poisons to escape detection, federal officials say.

Some New England states are taking steps to plug the hole.

The 2,000 pages of regulations produced by the Environmental Protection Agency are considered to be the best available protection against improper or illegal handling of hazardous waste.

The laws demand that almost every producer, transporter or disposer of toxic industrial byproducts must report exactly what it does with the waste through an elaborate paperwork system.

"There's one serious exception and that's the small industry that produces less then 1,000 kilograms (2,200 pounds) of waste each month. They don't have to comply with the new regs and they can and will use that loophole to get away with murder," said Hugh Kaufman, EPA's chief hazardous waste investigator.

EPA figures show that only 5,100 of the 47,000 producers of toxic waste in New England, are considered large operations and thus covered by the strict reporting requirements.

The majority of producers in New England, "particularly Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, produce less than a ton of toxic waste a month and...they can dump it anywhere," says Kaufman. "Whether they do it in one 2,000-pound shipment or ten 200- pound loads, the result is still the same, a ton of poison will wind up in a town dump somewhere."

"Being exempted from the paperwork and monitoring, there is no reason why the small generators should pay $100 a drum to dispose of waste at an approved landfill when they're free to haul it to the local dump for pennies and load."

The EPA regulations allow the small producers to dispose waste in municipal landfills and dumps where the cost is a fraction of what disposal at an authorized chemical site would be.

New Hampshire still functions under the EPA exemption, but Thomas Sweeney, head of the state's toxic waste section, says the state will lower the limit to 100 kilograms by January.

South Korean airplane crash kills 22 people

South Korean fire fighters attempt to extinguish blaze of a Korean Airlines jumbo jet in which 8 people were killed, and 15 injured.

Reporters reaching the U.S. Embassy said the Boeing 747 collided with a Korean military vehicle and caught fire as it touched down yesterday at about 5:15 p.m. E.S.T.

The flight had originated in Los Angeles, and had made a refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska.

Iran and Iraq report losses in major battles

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iran and Iraq yesterday claimed four days of bloody fighting had given each control of the Iranian border town of Susangerd and each claimed the other suffered heavy casualties. Iran also reported fierce fighting at its besieged refining city, Abadan.

Iran claimed 850 Iraqis were killed in three days of fighting in Susangerd, Iraq said 609 Iranians died in the same period. Iran said one of its aircraft crashed in Susangerd and claimed an Iraqi helicopter was shot down by anti-aircraft fire as it tried to attack the city.

An Iraqi communique said Iraqi forces "tightened the noose" around defenders of Susangerd, 35 miles northwest of the oil-rich Khuzistan provincial capital Ahwaz.

Iran, which first claimed to have regained control of Susangerd after a helicopter gunship and tank attack Monday, said its army regulars and Islamic revolutionary guards were mopping up Iraqi resistance near the city.

The second big battle was reported under way 85 miles south of Susangerd at Abadan on the disputed north-south Shatt al-Arab waterway, where oil tanks, refineries and pipelines have been burning since the war began Sept. 22.

The Iraqi command said 150 Iranians were killed in an attempt to break out of a monthlong siege of Abadan by attacking across the Bahmanshir River that runs east of the island city.

The Iranians said they found 80 dead Iraqis on the battlefield east of Abadan and saw Iraqi ambulances picking up wounded and rushing across the Shatt al-Arab to Iraq's second largest city, Basra.

Israelis raid 'rock throwing' Arabs

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press

RAMALLAH, Occupied West Bank — Israeli soldiers fired on bands of rock-throwing Arab youngsters yesterday, wounding 10 in the melees here and in Bethlehem. The violence on the occupied West Bank was the worst in five months and was triggered by an earlier shooting incident and the closure of an Arab university.

At the Jabaliya refugee camp 50 miles away in the occupied Gaza Strip, an unidentified gunman walked into the office of acting Mayor Mohammed Hamed Abu Ouarda Tuesday morning and shot him dead while several members of the municipal council looked on in shock, a military spokesman said. It was the second assassination in less than 24 hours of an Arab friendly to the Israelis.

Pittsfield unable to furnish water supplies to Lenox

PITTSFIELD — With its own supplies running low, the city of Pittsfield will stop furnishing water to the nearby town of Lenox by the end of this week.

The Pittsfield Water Commission decided to give Lenox five days notice that the city can no longer supply the town with 400,000 gallons of water a day. Supplies in Pittsfield's two reservoirs have fallen below 30 days.

Lenox Selectman John Pignatelli said the move surprised him, but that he understands. Lenox will get by without the water, he added.

Pittsfield Public Works Director Jerry Doyle said yesterday that the city's water supply would not be significantly helped by the snowstorm that dumped 8 inches on the area Tuesday.

Individual medical insurance increases; family rate down

BOSTON (AP) — Individual non-group Blue Cross rates in Massachusetts will go up about $20 next year, but family rates are being reduced about $44, the state Insurance Division has announced.

The division said yesterday that Blue Shield subscribers will pay anywhere from $2.88 to $31.68 more in 1981, depending on the nature of their plan. This amounts to a rate increase of 11.6 percent, rather than the 16.2 percent requested by Blue Shield.

Digest

Associated Press

Motorist warned of misleading auto insurance advertising

BOSTON — State Insurance Commissioner Michael J. Sabbagh is warning motorists to be wary of "fast-talking agents" who promise there is a way to beat the auto insurance increase which may come next year.

Sabbagh noted, in a newsletter this month, that the insurance industry is requesting a $200 million premium increase for 1981.

"Although the industry's proposed rate hike is only a request at this time, you may be one of many policyholders who feels compelled to find a way to avoid a proposed increase," he said in the newletter, "The Insurance Advisor."

Poll shows business leaders pessimistic about recession

BOSTON (AP) — New England business leaders don't agree with federal officials, who say the nation's recession is ending, according to a survey by a regional business association released yesterday.

A poll of 1,200 business executives taken by the New England Council showed that 74 percent of those surveyed felt the nation is still suffering an economic downturn.

Nearly 73 percent said when the economic recovery does come, it will move at the same pace or slower than the rest of the nation.

The depth of the pessimism varied from state to state. In Maine and New Hampshire, only one executive in 25 felt the recession is ending. The outlook was brighter in Vermont and Connecticut where opinion ran 50-50.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325 250) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

School of Law
Western New England College
SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS 01119
will be represented by Susan Kirschner Robinson, Asst. to the Law Professor Bruce Miller and Michael Edelstein, a third year law student
On November 19, 1980 at 1:30 and 2:30
at Campus Center, Rooms 171-173
Underclass students as well as seniors should attend. Women, minorities and handicapped are encouraged to meet our representatives.

Read the Collegian

Butterfield Arts Group— Invites Central Area residents to use their darkroom and silkscreen facilities. Thursdays, 7:30-10:30 and Saturdays, 12-4, materials sold at cost.

Area women march in D.C.

By KATIE VON FLUE
Collegian Staff

About 35 women from the Amherst area were arrested during a gathering of over 1300 women opposing defense spending, violence, the nuclear arms race and sexism, at the Pentagon in Washington D. C., Monday, Nov. 17.

Womens' Pentagon Action, the protest coalition, released a press statement today reporting that a total of 140 women were arrested during the demonstration.

About 40 of those arrested were moved to Alderson Federal Penitentiary in West Virginia. They will serve ten and thiry day sentences for the criminal offense of blocking the doors of a federal building.

Sixty women have been released on bail ranging from $25 to $250. the status of the remaining arrested women is unknown.

"It is likely that some of the Amherst women arrested are among those sentenced," said Emma Missouri, spokeswoman for the group. According to the press release, Nina Crout, Legal Counsel for the coalition is filing a petition of court because some of the women weren't allowed to meet privately with counsel before they were arraigned.

The demonstration, which is the first large protest in Washington since the recent presidential elections, began with a march through Arlington National Cemetary at 8 a.m., Monday morning.

The women gathered at the Pentagon, surrounding the building and blocked the three main entrances for over five hours.

"The Pentagon was chosen because it is the workplace of the imperialistic power which threatens all of us.," said Ynestra King, a University of Massachusetts graduate who is on the Planning Committee for the coalition.

According to Emma Missouri, "Non-violent civil disobedience such as blocking doors is an important part of any protest."

"We want to stop the violence the Pentagon perpetuates," she said. "We get tired of talking; violence doesn't seem to work; so we take action."

A visual demonstration express mourning, rage, empowerment and defiance through the use of giant puppets, drums and singing.

Workers exiting the Pentagon had to push their way through the crowds of women. Some of them stopped to talk while others simply said "It's their business."

A police officer said the police force was told by Pentagon officials to be prepared for a large demonstration.

Women from throughout the Northeast, and as far away as Seattle, Washingotn; first arrived in Washington D.C. Sunday. About 150 women from Amherst area traveled there by bus.

The women met Sunday at the Marie Reed Learning Center, where they attended informational workshops and planned strategy for the demonstration. A candle-light vigil was held that night. Housing was provided in various churches and homes.

The coalition originated from the Women and Life on Earth Conference held on the University of Massachusetts campus last March.

Huma Idrees is hurried from the cold, wet weather to a warm awaiting bus across the street from the child care center where her mother, Rahat, has just picked her up. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Cornell prof claims exams are 'equitable'

By MARI WISEMAN
Special to the Collegian

Although standarized college entrance examinations are flawed, they are the best measurement of a person's academic ability available, said a Cornell University Professor.

"Standardized tests are more equitable than any other objective appraisals we can use," said Millman to fifty listeners at his Smith College lecture yesterday, Protest and contest: The War of Educational Testing in Perspective."

Millman resident of the Council on Measurement in Education, explained groups like the National Educational Association, which called for a "national moratorium on test," object to standardized tests on the grounds they are educationally irrelevant, and often lead a curriculum rather than reflect it. Millman said that a more serious danger is that test results are "not diagnostic enough to be useful in instruction."

The NEA also charges tests of wronging students, teachers, and society because they limit opportunities. An example of this are the "COACHING SCHOOLS" FOR SAT's, MCAT's, LCAT's and the GRE, whose price tag is prohibitive to many, Millman said.

In the opening of his lecture, Millman characterized the testing industry as "a mindless, paranoid, stagnant technology; a business hopelessly prone to all manner of abuses against the human spirit." Some educators find it dehumanizing to assign number grades to students, he said.

He also cited a pro-test author as saying that people object to standardized tests because they reflect unpleasant and unflattering truths about our nation. These truths include the fact that, on the average, black students score 130 points behind the white students on the math section of the SAT, and 120 points behind on the verbal section.

Millman also stated that black children are labelled mentally retarded three times as often as white children.

"People misuse kitchen knives and cars," said Mr. Millman, "But we don't ban them." He concluded, "Those who are attacking standardized tests are angry with the symptom, not the disease. The tests are just the tip of the iceberg of underlying tensions."

Iranian students plead innocent to charges in VT

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Three Iranian college students have pleaded innocent to charges that they tried to buy guns from an undercover FBI agent.

The Iranians, all college students in Massachusetts, were arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court in Burlington on charges of receiving and possessing unregistered weapons and of conspiracy.

Karimpour and 19-year-old Keyvan Sabery attend Boston University. Karimpour lives in Brighton, Mass., and Sabery lives in Boston. The other Iranian, 19-year-old Hamid Arjomand, attends the University of Massachusetts and lives in Sunderland.

Trial has been set for Dec. 29 in federal court in Burlington.

They were arrested Nov. 1 for allegedly trying to buy guns and ammunition from an FBI agent in a South Burlington hotel. A federal grand jury handed down two-count indictments against all three Nov. 6.

Court officials said bail was continued for two of the students who have returned to Massachusetts. They said the third, 18-year-old Ramin Karimpour, is still being held at the Chittenden County Community Correctional Center for lack of $50,000 bail.

Three Pierpont residents angered by warnings

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

Three residents of Pierpont Dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area have been issued what they term as unfair warnings for violating area quiet hour policies.

Alain Valles, Roy Walters and Jack Curtain who live on fourth floor each will appear for a pre-hearing today with Assistant Area director Robert White. The quiet hours in Southwest officially start at 11:30 p.m.

Eric Saari, although not charged in this incident, said that he was fed up because he thinks his floor was being unjustly picked on by both the resident assistant and head of resident in Pierpont.

"They start listening at 11:31 p.m. It's silly especially around Southwest where everything is so lax," Saari said.

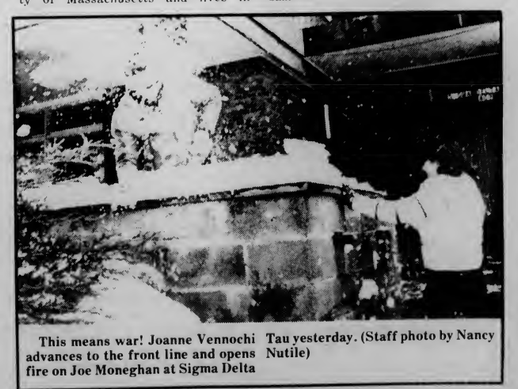
The incident for which the three were charged occurred on Nov. 6, when a group of about ten students congregated in the hallway after the quiet hours had started. Saari said the group was only talking, and that there was a moderate amount of noise, but it was not excessive. Shortly afterwards, Resident Assistant Barbi Dick approached the students and told them warnings had been issued against them.

However, Saari said, the official warnings were not delivered until the following morning.

The three students who were issued warnings alleged they were not involved with the original ten people that were talking. Saari said that one of the people was in his room and the other two were on the way to the bathroom.

Dick had no comment on the incident.

turn to page 11



This means war! Joanne Vennochi advances to the front line and opens fire on Joe Moneghan at Sigma Delta Tau yesterday. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Black Affairs

Mary Custard and her daughter Kia are all bundled up and were prepared to march for the Black Homecoming Parade earlier this week. (Photo by Ed Cohen)

Five Colleges Lacking Communications

The need for a community forum has been a long overdue project. The basis for my contentions is threefold.

First, during the early part of October, the National Black Studies Organization held its regional meeting at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. The contents of the meeting was to discuss the role of black students in Black Studies. The largest contingency of black students from the New England area attended the conference.

One of the interesting notions that students immediately recognized was that they were not familiar with each other's struggle as it pertained to Black Studies. Another notion, was that in some cases students did not recognize their own struggles in terms of Black Studies being a viable tool. These two points, provided homework for students to pursue such as investigating the problems students have experienced in relating to black faculty. Basically there is tension and a lack of understanding between faculty and students because of the faculty's role in Black Studies department, their requirements to the university overall, tenureship and family commitments.

Food for thought

Other issues pertain to the in depth role of students to use Black Studies as a political, educational and administrative tool, aligning Black Studies as a integral part of the community in the 1980's and finally, provide students with a strong determination to utilize their skills in pursuing Higher Educational objectives.

Realizing that Black Studies can be an educational tool, will branch its roots in a wide perspective.

A second contention has to deal with the scheduling and communication among community groups. As one prime example, I would have to look toward this weekend. The original dates for Homecoming was November 2nd to the 9th. Because of conflict with the midterms, and the timing of events, this had to be delayed for one week. But the delay caused numerous problems with brothers and sisters from Amherst College and Mount Holyoke, who also planned their cultural weekends around this time.

In looking at this picture within a period of three days, there will be three fashion shows, three concerts, three parties, and a number of poetry readings, and basketball tournaments. This caused nothing but confusion. A strong lack of communication exists among the various colleges, and Pioneer Valley groups. Its senseless to examine why one weekend has been overburdened to the point, that people cannot enjoy the programs being sponsored. I feel it falls on the organizers to check with corresponding schools to avoid such conflict. At the same time, while events such as Kwanza, Black History, and the remaining Spring semester have yet to occur, a strong search for cooperation should start among the colleges. Although, Smith College was not involved with the confusion, their part in restructuring activities to avoid conflict would also benefit their constitutencies, as well as the Five College area as a whole.

The final contention would have to be the youth of the Valley. During the early part of this semester, a number of meetings (Organization Affairs, and Black homecoming festivities) have brought out a number of first and second year students. This desire has also interested some juniors and seniors to check out the programs at UMass.

But one problem that seems to be apparent is the repetitiveness of each event. This breaks down into long hours for events, repeated speeches of problems surrounding us and the need to create unity through joining the organizations. I agree these areas should be addressed, but people get tired of the same old thing. Thus, there is a need for diversity among the student leaders. To create new interest, the leaders should introduce new ideas, and events, as to directly involve this new interest. From a new perspective we can all address the problems confronting each member of our community.

Earl Brown

Letter to the Community

My Good Brothers and Sisters:

Something terrible has happened: the snow has fallen (as if we didn't expect it), and our brothers and sisters in Greensboro, North Carolina have lost—not only their freedom, but their lives, and the Klan and Nazies have won—their freedom as well as life. And it's only just beginning.

It hurts so much. My heart was petrified in learning of the Klan and Nazi's aquittal for murdering members of the Communist's Worker Party as they demonstrated on that dreadful day on November 3, 1979.

On ABC's Nightline, (Monday, November 17, 1980) Ted Koppel interviewed the defense attorney, Robert C. Cahoon (Klan and Nazi), who when questioned as to how the verdict was reached spoke bluntly that Greensboro "is not a rascist community." Also, he revealed that the FBI had conducted some type of research which established that the demonstrators had fired first although film footage clearly shows the four klansmen and two members of the American Nazi Party taking the initiative of using firearms.

Finally, Cahoon told Koppel that the jury was permitted to go home after each day of the trial and that they had taken an oath not to read newspapers, listen to radios, or watch television; however, they were permitted to talk with their families and friends.

The mayor of Greensboro was also interviewed and stated that this turn of events "doesn't mean racial tension" will develop in his metropolis.

I actually found myself in tears upon hearing this distressing news. Lord help us. Give us the strength to triumph in the events yet to show their hideous faces.

So my friends, what more will it take? This is the real deal (Buffalo, Atlanta, Miami, Roxbury, Williams College, Amherst, and now Greensboro). And for those of us who thought it could never happen again—disallusionment is the very weapon that has stifled us in the past.

We united in celebration just this past week. Here, staring us straight in the eyes is but one test to that unity we established; there will be many, many more.

We must come together immediately, and I want to appeal to any organization for people of color in the Five College area to hold some type of open forum for the community to voice opinions and possibly come to some decisions on how to prepare ourselves (mentally and physically). PLEASE!

Does anyone hear this cry?

Fearing for our lives,
Barbara Covington

Announcements

C.I.A.

The Central Intelligence Agency will be recruiting prospective employees at UMass on Friday the 21st. There will be a demonstration to protest the presence of this organization on Friday at 10 a.m. at the Hampshire House.

Julius Lester

On Sunday afternoon, November 23 at 3 p.m., the Chelsea House Folklore Center in Brattleboro, Vermont will present a reading by the celebrated storyteller, folklorist, poet, and UMass Afro-American Studies Professor Julius Lester. Lester is best known for his studies of black folklore as well as for his original contributions to the field of poetry and fiction.

Lester's reading is the second in a series of benefit readings presented by the Chelsea House. Each event is sponsored in cooperation with The Book Cellar and recorded for the use of Vermont Public Radio. Admission to Julius Lester's reading is $3.00.

Gimme 5

On Saturday, November 22, 1980, at 8:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, the Third World Theater Series will present a Teatro Cuatro production of "Gimme Five".

Further Info: 545-3604. Ticket Prices: $2 for students; $3 for general public.

DRUM

You are invited to share in the interpretations of the Black Experience. Contributions of poems, essays, fiction, artwork and photography are now being accepted for the Fall 80-81 edition of Drum magazine. Address your submissions to: Drum, 115 New Africa House, UMass, Amherst, Mass. 01003, no later than November 20, 1980.

"Writing isn't everything; it's the only thing."
- Vince Lombardi

Rhetoric 110J - Writing About Sports section one:
schedule number: 696162
Tu/Th 9:30 - 10:45
Section two
schedule number: 696193
Tu/Th 11:15 - 12:30

AFSCME
Local 1776 AFL-CIO
Chapter Meetings/
Bargaining Update
Wednesday, Nov 19, 1980
Service Maintenance & Farm
4 PM P. Plant Basement
Food Service
7:30 PM Blue Room Worc. D.C.
Security 3 pm Dickinson
Please Attend

Editorial/Opinion

Letter from the Editor: Looking across the desk

Letters we have received in the last week or so highlight a few misconceptions readers have about Collegian editorial policies, the way they are carried out, and how they affect news coverage. The persistance of these is equally the fault of the newspaper, for failing to make its operation understood to readers, and of readers, for neglecting to discount their own biases before drawing conclusions from observations of the newspaper's content.

One letter points out that the Black Homecoming parade was not covered in the Collegian, although an article on it did appear on the front page of a local newspaper.

The Collegian, as any other newspaper, can only cover events it knows about. If the event is spontaneous, such as a car accident, then it is the job of the news editor to make sure there are enough reporters on the beat to find out about it when it happens. If the event is planned, such as a parade, then most of the responsibility for informing the news editor of its time and place rests on the person or organization sponsoring it. It should come as no surprise, then, that groups most diligent in bringing their affairs to the attention of the Collegian are generally the ones most covered.

After the news editor has knowledge of an event, it is his or her job to make sure a reporter is available to cover it. Even for a commercial paper this is difficult. For the Collegian, which relies on volunteers, the problem of keeping a large enough staff to cover every important story is seemingly insurmountable. The source of our difficulty in keeping a dedicated staff, one whose members must forfeit study and recreation time to gain the experience of working for their student paper, is open to conjecture. The problem is endemic nationwide, and has gotten markedly worse in the last several years.

So, even after the Collegian learned about the plans for Black Homecoming Week from the letter, the news editors were unable to get a reporter to write the story, they find this very frustrating.

If staff shortages and the role of organizers are taken into account, then the reader can begin to understand why the Collegian misses some stories and covers others. The idea of the newspaper's bias toward covering certain kinds of events being rooted in prejudice and maliciousness on the part of reporters and editors is deeply offensive to us and the rest of the roughly 150 staff members in the production, business, and news departments.

We have also been sent a number of letters regarding articles appearing in NUMMO NEWS. It should be pointed out that NUMMO is not a part of the Collegian. NUMMO pays to use Collegian graphics equipment and is circulated with the Collegian on Mondays, because that makes more sense than having separate circulations for each paper. The Collegian imposes no editorial control over NUMMO. Writing to us about articles published in it is like writing to the Boston Globe about what's published in the Herald. NUMMO letters to the editor should be sent to NUMMO NEWS, New Africa House, University of Massachusetts/Amherst, 01003.

Another common observation is of the high density of advertising in the Collegian. Because the newspaper relies on advertising to finance over 80 percent of its costs, and because the price we can charge our advertisers can not rise at the inflation rate and still be competitive with other advertising outlets, an increase in the ratio of advertisements to copy is necessary. Contrary to popular opinion, newspapers do not "fill space with ads." The opposite is true; advertisements create space.

To the students who work here, the Collegian is viewed as an organization with potentials for improvement in every respect of its operation; potentials that are frustrated by staff shortages, reserved community cooperation, and economic woes. But within these limitations we do the best we can. And we appreciate the advice and criticisms of our readers.

Eric Janszen is the Collegian executive editor

Letters

Snowball fight not harmless game

To the Editor:

I wish to address the group of students, primarily from the Southwest and Central areas, who turned last night's first snowfall into an evening of destruction and vandalism. There is nothing wrong with having snowball fights or with throwing snowballs at dorms; however, last night these harmless games got out of hand and many windows in the Northeast area were broken.

These violent acts could have resulted in injuries to person's uninvolved in the "fight." It is pranks such as this which have given this school, and in particular Southwest, such a poor reputation. Unfortunately, it is always a minority of people who tend to represent the whole.

Hilary Park
Northeast

Forum on Zionism was a 'beginning'

To the Editor:

Last Sunday, Hillel sponsored a forum entitled "Zionism Under Fire." I was glad to see that a number of Palestinian activists came and participated. Yet, even though a dialogue began, I was left in the end feeling that people with differing views had not really heard each other. I think this was due to the reality of one's own experience blocking out the reality of another's.

For example, one of the Palestinian speakers stressed that his struggle was against Zionism and not against the Jewish people, and that Jews and Palestinians could live together after Zionism was overthrown. Many Jews, however, rejected this alternative because the oppression Jews have suffered over the centuries has been rooted in their being a landless and defenseless minority in other people's countries. Furthermore, few Jews believe that situation will be very different in a "secular" Palestine (witness the Collegian article earlier this semester in which the question of which Jews would be "allowed" to stay in post-revolutionary Palestine was discussed).

As so often happens, neither the Jews nor the Palestinians gave credence to the historical imperatives behind each other's position. What else are the Palestinian people to do if they are refused the right to fight for their land? What else are the Jewish people to do if they are refused the right to fight for their lives?

Another example: I was somewhat shocked that none of the panelists—all of whom were Zionists—discussed the actual policies for which Zionism has come under fire (e.g., the thirteen year military occupation of the West Bank, the settlements, bombing raids into Southern Lebanon, etc.). Instead, all we were offered were various historical and moral arguments as to why Zionism is basically okay. The concrete reasons why people are fighting Zionism—or why many Zionists are deeply critical of Israeli policy—were never elaborated. This had two consequences. A mutual understanding of why Zionism is attacked as well as defended was never reached; and Jewish nationalism and self-determination was again identified with Israeli policy rather than being seen as a mass political movement capable of coming into conflict with the Israeli state. The resulting dialogue was necessarily limited.

On the whole, however, I think the event was positive. I was struck by the fact that a number of Jews who clearly were not radicals supported the idea of an independent Palestinian state. And even though the dialogue was limited, it was a beginning.

Steven Shulman

We must not split over 'evil propaganda'

To the Editor:

Wake up black people of America. Wake up and see who the real racists are. History can rewrite history and people can forget the many important people who made this world great. Many black inventors were left out of textbooks only because they were black in a white man's country.

We now can see the thinly veiled Arab propaganda which "supports" the blacks of America only for Arab interest—to destroy the very small Jewish state that stands for democracy amongst their midst.

Former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver reported in the Boston Herald American in January 1977 that "having lived intimately for several years amongst the Arabs, I know them to be the most racist people on earth. This is particularly true of their attitude toward black people...Many Arab families that can afford to, keep one or two black slaves to do their menial labor. Sometimes they own an entire family. I have seen such slaves with my own eyes."

The Anti-Slavery Society of Britain notes that slavery was legal in much of the Arab world until 1962 and that vestiges of the practice survive today. It was the Arabs who ran the world's black slave markets for centuries.

Do not forget that we Jews and Blacks must fight against anti-semitism and racism together for it is one fight. We can rid ourselves of the Ku Klux Klan and the Palestinian Liberation Organization together, for both organizations use the same terrorist tactics against freedom. Do not forget the many Jews who have fought with you in this country, marched with Martin Luther King Jr. and lost jobs and careers for your struggle. We must work together and be strong to combat this evil that grows amongst our fellow man. We must not split because of this evil propaganda and make ourselves weak for our enemies benefit.

Name witheld by request

...the fears of the left are wholly unjustified. As you can see our computor is merely a machine operated by your average, typical engineers.
That REPORTER there— on the RIGHT! BRANDEIS '67... smokes marijuana... vegetarian... pro-UNION...

Rochester Patriot/cpf

A small postscript human fetus is human

To the Editor:

Please allow a small postscript, in response to Kyle Hoffman's letter (Collegian, 11/17). I think we are in agreement that women are the subjects of grave injustice, in American and elsewhere, and that all injustice must be exposed and fought against.

But I am still in disagreement over one issue, and that is abortion. Is it really a matter of opinion that the human fetus is human? If so, then perhaps all my inflammatory comparisons have not been so misplaced after all.

Abortion is deliberate termination. Spontaneous aboriton (or miscarriage) is not deliberate. Incidentally, I am all for any choice a person wishes to make—but if such choice should abridge or cancel the rights of other human beings (regardless of color, sex, age, or condition of appearance), then such choice becomes subject to justifiable controversy.

It does not take advances in technology to become alive, but it certainly does take some advance in technology to have a "safe" abortion. All people, regardless of society or class, technology or education, have a need and a right to eat, survive, think, love, sleep, etc. These rights follow universal truths which pertain to all humans during all time. Thus I do not begrudge payment of taxes or any help to those who for some reason are unable to help themselves. But I do begrudge payment for privilege, merely because technology allows that privilege to exist.

Steve Masse
Amherst

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRAN T. RASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSEN, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINSEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

HOLD IT!

What you'll have is a real, fine offer. Hold onto it. . .Could be worth a whole lotta money, good times & peace of mind. All you gotta do now is tear off this ad an' then tear off to

Stereo Lab North

14 Elm St., Amherst, Mass. 01002 549-4184

with your sick stereo.

We'll give you a FREE estimate (worth $20!). Then you & your stereo'll be ready for those hearty parties as well as those quiet times. You can rest easy, too, knowing the work was done right. The 90 day guarantee proves it!

If you don't need this offer now, hold onto it. . .you never know when you're gonna need

Stereo Lab North

14 Elm St., Amherst, Mass 01002 549-4184

BARSELOTTI'S

Whoop & Holler Night

nine till closing

16 oz. Knick & Shot $1.25

Downtown Amherst

TIPS

ON PRE-REGISTRATION

1020 Changing Your Major
1022 Continuing Education Courses
1009 Credit Load
1409 Finding or Changing Your Academic Advisor
1029 Five College Courses
2031 Graduation Requirements
1027 Incompletes
1032 The Pass/Fail Option
1033 The Repeat Option
1005 Who is Your Academic Dean

545-1540

Request Tape by Number

The Taped Information Phone Service - 227 Whitmore

Chevy Chase Goldie Hawn Charles Grodin

Neil Simon's

SEEMS LIKE OLD TIMES

COLUMBIA PICTURES Presents A RAY STARK Production CHEVY CHASE GOLDIE HAWN CHARLES GRODIN IN "NEIL SIMON'S SEEMS LIKE OLD TIMES" A JAY SANDRICH FILM ROBERT GUILLAUME Music by MARVIN HAMLISCH Executive Producer ROGER M. ROTHSTEIN Production Designed by GENE CALLAHAN Director of Photography DAVID M. WALSH Written by NEIL SIMON From RASTAR Produced by RAY STARK Directed by JAY SANDRICH

PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED SOME MATERIAL MAY NOT BE SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN

© 1980 COLUMBIA PICTURES INDUSTRIES, INC. Columbia Pictures

Coming This Christmas

TACO VILLA

Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change

Downtown Amherst
Mon (Ask Anyone)
Fri + Sat 11-1am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

ACADEMY of MUSIC

Northampton, Mass.

Only Area Showing Now, Ends Tues. At 7:00 and 9:15

Power, space, time and a visitor

THE ORIGINAL UN-CUT VERSION

David Bowie in The man who fell to Earth R

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Sonny Rollins shines

Sonny Rollins
Fine Arts Center
November 15

By ROB HUFFMAN
Collegian Staff

If it's credetials you desire, Sonny Rollins certainly has them. Having played in seminal groups with John Coltrane, Miles Davis, Ornette Coleman, Max Roach and Clifford Brown — a veritable textbook of Jazz innovators — Rollins continues to match the cream of contemporary musicians. His brand new album Love At First Sight (Milestone) features the well-displayed talents of keyboard player George Duke, as well as bass guru Stanley Clarke, who shines on "Double Feature," a shuffling, rhythmic duet by Messrs. Rollins and Clarke.

Al Foster is the drummer on Love At First Sight, and was also behind the kit Saturday, during Sonny's sold out performance at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Rounding out the rhythm section was Mark Soskin, piano, and Jerome Harris, bass. While this talented ensemble played a number of Rollins' older tunes (most notably "Don't Stop The Carnival"), the new album provided a convenient framework for this lively show. Striking up a few vigorous saxophone lines, Rollins led his band into "Strode Rode" (originally from the 1956 release saxaphone colossus, and also on Love At First Sight) which proved to be a frolic for the man's half-century young fingers.

Similary, the second half of theis engaging show was opened with the tune "Little Lu," an upbeat Calypso number, and also from his latest recorded release.

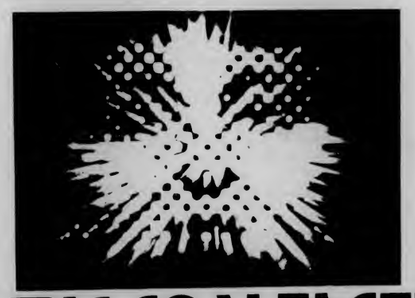
Rollins is at home with all registers of his tenor saxophone. Honking, playfully menacing low notes, and reckless, high-pitched shrieks are among the expressive textures which he uses to create his solos. At times almost marching to the music, the feeling that Mr. Rollins created was inevitably cheerful. Even on a ballad, Ray Noble's "The Very Thought Of You," he couldn't resist a wild, spontaneous cadenza that I heard fans later describe as "including everything but the kitchen sink" and "sounding like" 'Mary Had A Little Lamb' played very fast-backwards."

The most distracting thing about the show was the unfortunate resonance of the FAC Concert Hall. While the reflective, reverberant walls in this hall enhance the sound of unamplified performance units such as orchestras and string quartets, amplified jazz and rock shows suffer from too much echo (echo, echo, echo). Al Foster's otherwise fine drum solo lacked definition as a result and similarly, Jerome Harris' bass was a boomy blur for most of the evening, though his funk inspired be-bop lines wern't always lost in the sauce. Mark Soskin's nimble piano playing remained a mysery all evening.

Future rock and jazz concerts would benefit greatly if the hard concrete walls, so much a trademark of the Fine Arts Center, were somehow made more absorptive. Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College, for instance, has curtains covering the walls which can be opened or closed, depending on the reflectivity desired for a specific show. Perhaps some tapestries on the walls of our concert hall would increase the definition of the sound, and provide us with a more versatile venue.

The Great Ski Snatch Starts today

NOON til 10 PM at the SUB



COSMIC COALESCENCE

Where does science fiction end and reality begin? It's all in the mind's eye. Be it the creative imagination used to produce Star Wars, The Black Hole, and The Empire Strikes Back, or the more scientific approach of hypothesis testing and experimentation, the distant galaxies of science fiction coalesce into reality with the advanced technology now being developed at a company called TRW.

It was the Defense and Space Systems Group of TRW who made possible the Viking Lander biological experiment which looked for life on Mars and the High Energy Astronomical Observatory, which looks for quasars, pulsars and black holes in deep space. Professionals at TRW-DSSG are now involved in such impressive technologies as high energy lasers, communications systems, plus other future projects still considered science fiction.

A company called TRW will be on campus...

NOVEMBER 24 & 25

to interview graduates in scientific and technical disciplines.

Contact the placement office to schedule your appointment. If unable to meet with us, send your resume to:

College Relations
Bldg. R5/B196 U of M-A 11/80
One Space Park
Redondo Beach, CA 90278

A Company Called TRW

Equal Opportunity Employer M F

DEFENSE AND SPACE SYSTEMS GROUP
ENERGY SYSTEMS GROUP

STUDENTS BEWARE!

Many people claim to be paying top prices for class rings, old gold, sterling, etc.

BUT THEY AREN'T
So--Before You Sell--See me at

WENDY'S
Antique and Fine Jewelry

Twice a week, every week at:
UMass Campus Center Concourse
Approved by UMass Board of Governors

P.S. I Pay Cash!

amc THEATRES MIDNIGHT SHOWS FRI & SAT ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND in Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

CHARLES BRONSON in BORDERLINE PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

Movie and dinner $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals in the Pewter Pot Rest in The Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Mon Thur only)

Free Shoppers Show Thurs Nov 20 at 1:00 PM "Hanover Street" starring Harrison Ford PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS

GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30

GENA ROWLANDS Gloria PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30

ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ART MAJORS

Portfolios & Art Work Photographed at reasonable prices - slides, prints, black & white or color - prices vary according to work GARY 665-3930 evenings

AUTO FOR SALE

1965 Lincoln Cont new parts for engine rebuild clean interior extras $500 firm 413-665-2667 evenings

71 Chevrolet Impala runs great $450 or best offer 665-4175

1973 Audi 100LS new transmission, valves, clutch AM-FM stereo, sunroof. Call 549-4187

72 Toyota Cor deluxe-auto 30 mpg, exc. mech. cond. body perfect, newly painted; call 253-9752; after 7 545-2255 ask for Brook

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

Springsteen Tickets for sale. Boston Dec 15 good seats 546-7979

CAKE DECORATORS

I would like to interview cake decorators at UMass for my research project. CallDiane 549-0590 after 5 pm

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

DISC JOCKEYS

Most Professional DJ's On Campus BOSE Quality Sound Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

The AvantGuard's Band perfect for formals. For bookings call Tom 549-6913 256-6845

FOR RENT

Own rm 1 mi to campus 122 inc. 256-6344 call any time

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Ski Boots size 10½ beg-int year old good cond 6-7009

Fretless Bass, Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

Guitar – Yamaha 6 string for sale. Excellent condition, great sound, and only 130.00 call Bill 256-8573

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

1976 Datsun F-10 wagon front wheel drive, 37 mpg, 77,000Mi excellent mechanical condition, best offer call 538-2536

MGB owners - complete tonneau top & top cover exc. cond. 60.00 or BO 546-7633 after 6 pm

Epiphone Guitar 6 string acoustic excellent condition $125.00 or BO 546-9474

Springsteen Tickets for Boston Garden Dec 16 show call 546-6131 or 546-6124

Applause Guitar w-case Reproduction of an ovation; Sunburst Pattern; good condition $100 545-2783/253-3755 ask for V. Keller

Dorm size refrigerator good condition $30 546-6893

Springsteen Tickets December 12 Hartford good seats best offer over $40 542-3010

Springsteen Tickets for sale: One pair for Nov 27, Thanksgiving, in N.Y.C. and one pair for Dec. 19 in N.Y.C. best offer call after 9 pm 256-6266

Need to type your term paper? Electric typewriter $40 665-4602 Frank

FOUND

Found room key in park lot near Worcester DC 11/1 call after 6 pm 6-4439

Found Springer Spaniel in Amherst Nov 15 call 549-1365

On New York Art Bus 11/8 1 hat, 1 book call Wendy 549-1005

Set of keys near Poor Richard's one is a dorm key call 253-9775

Craftsman Toolbox on North Pleasant St in early October is now at Amherst Police Station

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MA Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Temporary Jobs til Christmas $75.oo per week part time $200 week full time and bonuses. All majors. Possible permanent positions. Interviews held with Polaris at CC Wed. Nov. 19 Rm 163 11am - 3 pm

Delivery Person with own car needed. Apply in person after 5 PM at Superior Pizzeria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

Administrative Assistant Distinguished Teaching Awards Committee. Work-study, $4.50/hour, 10+ hrs/wk. Duties: Attending meetings, Minutes, Collecting & Organizing nominees files. Excellent typing & clerical, Organization, Responsibility, Initiative essential. Send resume or call GRADUATE SENATE, 919 C.C., 545-2896

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

2 LEATHER JACKETS

Small, good condition reasonable price call Bill at 5-2708, during working hours

LOST

Lost blue deerskin gloves vicinity of NOPE on 11/10 call 6-4184

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

TI-55 Calculator on Nov 10 Has name on back. Reward Please call Andy 6-4472

Brown boots in bag in Campus Center reward call Martha 546-5157

Levi Jacket and Beige Coat taken from Hatch 11/14 please return to Information Desk CC

MANAGEMENT CLUB

Fantastic Introductory Meeting Wed 7:00 PM Mahar Aud. guest speakers and refreshments All Welcome!

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. . .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

Lambda Delta Phi invites all university women to informal rush 11/12 - 11/20 389 No. Pleasant St call for info! 5-0939

Casablanca: Thursday, November 20 @ 7, 9, & 11 at CCA. Sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club Admission $1

We're counting on you to be there tonite 11/20 West Side Story, Mahar Aud 5, 8, 11 only $1.50

In Memory of Ray Have a Great Day The Cabin

Free Kitten 4 mo old 549-5389

Washington Lower Inagural Party Don't miss it!!!

Monty Python's "And Now for Something Completely Different" playing Nov 22 CCA 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Versatile New Wave Rock Band The Hit Squad - Greta Party Music available for bookings Mary 538-3575

Eileen - you are the most understanding and caring person I know. I'm psyched. Love you - Tim

Jobanana and Sandy—Happy Birthday to two people with pizzazz! Wish you both best of luck

Kim, This past year has been great! I love you, Neil Maroo's Favorite Martian Do I know you? Give me a hint!!!

Wizards—an amazing movie. See it Friday - Engineering Auditorium

PERFECT GUITAR FOR SALE

Yamaha FG-331 new strings, case, beautiful, perfect intonation for hassle free tuning, presicion neck, tight grain top; sounds like a Martin. Here is the perfect quitar, under $200 546-7185

RIDE WANTED

Want Ride to Washington DC Nov 26 546-7910 will share expenses

RIDERS WANTED

Rider wanted to go to Washington DC on November 20th or 21st call Larry 586-8411

ROOM WANTED

Male senior seeks own room in Puffton or apartment near town for Spring semester will move in December 1st to February 1st. Call 253-8097 eves Peter

Female nonsmoker seeks room on bus route Spring semester presently exchange California call Jackie collect 916-895-5540

2 Responsible friendly females seek rooms in apt on bus rt Spring semester Beth Teri 546-6004

Friendly, responsible female wants own room in apt. near bus call Julie 546-4490

Female seeking own room in apt or house on bus rte Spring semester 546-8088

Seeking rm in apt/house near bus rt beginning Dec or Jan 1 Carol 546-7961

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! 3 women seeking 2 to 3 bedroom apartment on bus route from January on. PLEASE call Mary or Pam at 546-1134 or Joanne at 546-1278 THANK YOU!

Female needs room Jan 1 apt or house on bus rt call Betsy 253-5435

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Sarcastic Simpleton for OWN ROOM puffton, $122/mo. 549-1879

1 bdrm in 3 bdrm apt w/2 males No Amherst, bus route 549-5663 5-6 PM

Senior male Born-Again Christian wants other male Christian(s) to room with on or off campus next semester. Call Bill, 546-8640 will return all calls.

Female roommate share room in Brandywine from 010181 call evenings 549-5951

Room available in a large 5 room apartment on Belchertown Common. Newly renovated and is on bus route please call 323-7009

Roommate wanted own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326 nites

Non-smokers for spacious home bus route ¾ mi UMass $150/mo including utilities 323-4888 Larry 4:30 pm - 12 mid

Available Immediately one room in Puffton triple $122/mo older male nonsmoking student preferred 549-5877 or 665-4273 keep trying

THE KILLING GROUND: A FORUM

Come to a forum on hazardous waste featuring the film "The Killing Ground" followed by a panel of speakers Thurs Nov 20th at 6:45 in SBA 120

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

One bedroom to sublet over intersession 256 6719 for further information/details

Male wnated to sublet room in nice economical apt 253-7158 Andy

Sublet wanted responsible couple seeking 1 bedroom apt over intersession call 546-8207 late eve

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing: Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Jewish students starting a "Bayit" to explore ways of Jewish living for Spring Semester. Please call Hillel 9-5 M-F 545-2526

SKI KILLINGTON

Seven year ski pass to all of Killington's mountains $1,500. Call 546-8861 for more information

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

SPRINGSTEEN TICKETS FOR SALE

Tickets for Dec 16 Boston show 6 tickets together on main floor will sell for best offer call 549-1675

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Tutor needed immediately Public Health Statistics 540 call after 8 PM 253-7665

Students interested in a corridor built on mutual respect, consideration & community spirit. The 3rd floor Brett is an Interesting Alternative. Come pick up an application in the Lower Central Cluster Office for the Social Awareness Corridor.

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Wanted: 3 bedroom apartment/house in Amherst on bus route January 1 call 6-6035 or 6-5894

Apt needed Jan 1 2 bedrooms Amherst only eves 253-5673

Two females looking for off campus housing for Spring semester on bus route call 253-5751

Looking for living space Spring semester Prefer house situation have real neat dog that must come too Cindy 617-443-9417 Box 222 Sudbury, Ma 01776

I can't go back to England during intersession. Need an apartment near campus Call 546-1484

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

AND SO I WOULD LIKE TO FORMALLY ANNOUNCE MY AVAILABILITY FOR THE POST OF SECRETARY OF STATE.
UNTIL SUCH TIME AS I AM ABLE TO NEGOTIATE THE TERMS OF MY APPOINTMENT, YOU MAY REFER TO ME AS "EXCELLENCY-TO-BE" AND KNEEL ON ONE KNEE INSTEAD OF TWO! HA, HA, HA! HA, HA!
HEE HEE...
WHAT IS THIS? I THOUGHT THE PRESS LOVED MY SELF-DEPRECATING HUMOR.
MOST OF THOSE GUYS HAVE LEFT, SIR.
G.B. Trudeau

Under the Influence M. Joyce

ALL RIGHT KID, HOW MUCH DOPE DO YOU HAVE IN THIS BAG?
ONLY THREE GRAMS OFFICER!
WELL THEN! YOU WON'T MIND IF I DO THIS THEN! AFTER ALL, IT'S ONLY THREE GRAMS!
THREE GRAMS OF SINSEMILLA!

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

I'D LIKE TO DO A LITTLE SONG I MADE UP.
IT'S SORT OF A FRESHMAN THEME SONG/BALLAD.
ALL THIS WORK AT UMASS IT'S A PAIN IN THE ASS
BUT WHEN I GET OUT OF HERE, YOU KNOW IT'S TRUE, I'LL BE AN EXCELLENT GOOF-OFF, TOO.

SNOW POLICY

The following will be the only announcements made concerning closing the Amherst Campus, and local radio stations will be asked to repeat them verbatim:

"The University of Massachusetts/Amherst Campus is closed all day for classes and all but snow day personnel," will be used all week.

"The University of Massachusetts/Amherst Campus is closed until 11 a.m. for classes and all but snow day personnel," will be used Monday-Friday only.

"The University of Massachusetts/Amherst Campus evening classes and second shift are cancelled for all but snow day personnel," will be used Monday-Friday only.

"The University of Massachusetts/Amherst Campus evening classes and second shift are cancelled for all but snow day personnel," will be used Monday-Friday only.

"The University of Massachusetts/Amherst Campus evening classes are cancelled but second shift personnel report as usual," will be used Monday-Friday only.

Where you CANNOT park overnight during snow season (December 1-April 1)

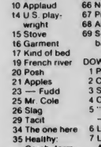
Stadium P Lot (Front Section)
Lot 21 (Two North Rows)
Lot 25 (South of Roadway to P Lot)
Lot 32 (East of Lincoln Avenue)
Lot 34
Lot 40
Lot 45
Lot 47 (except for HOR & HP)
Any Campus Roadway (including Southwest Horseshoe)
Any Parking Meter
Lot 26
Lot 31
Lot 62
Lot 63
Lot 64
Lot 65
Lot 66
Lot 71

Where you CAN park overnight during snow season (December 1-April 1)

P Lot at Stadium—back of lot only
P Lots at Fraternity/Sorority Park & behind Lot 25
Lot 21 (except Two North Rows)
Lot 25 (North of roadway to P lot only)
Lot 28
Lot 32 (West of Lincoln Avenue only)
Lot 41
Lot 42
Lot 43
Thatcher Way (East side only)
Lot 22
Lot 24
Lot 44
Lot 46
Lot 49
Lot 50

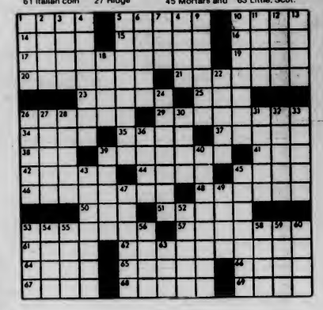
CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved



ACROSS
1 Bevel out
5 Frostier
10 Applaud
14 U.S. playwright
15 Stove
16 Garment
17 Kind of bed
19 French river
20 Posh
21 Apples
23 — Fudd
25 Mr. Cole
26 Sieg
29 Tacit
34 The one here
35 Healthy: Comb form
37 Slur
38 Be ill
39 Peeled
41 — laude
42 Inactive
44 Abstruse
45 Gait
46 Savor
48 Poplars
50 By way of
51 Goads
53 Serves
57 Girl's name
61 Italian coin
62 Scattering
64 Vocal
65 Ant
66 Norse saga
67 Pins
68 Approaches
69 Soap frame bar

DOWN
1 Plentiful
2 Chem. suffix
3 Sickness
4 Combines
5 "Man in the — —"
6 Lineage
7 Loan cost Abbr
8 Elbe tributary
9 TV fare
10 Fine stemware
11 Mislay
12 Support
13 Private Abbr
18 Again: Comb form
22 Surfeited
24 Skis
26 Step
27 Ridge
28 Lubricated
30 Baseball team
31 Burmese weight
32 Evoke
33 Greek township
36 Assistant
39 Mug
40 Shoulder ornaments
43 Uncovers
45 Mortars and —
47 Make angry
49 "Jacques — is Alive."
52 Document
53 Askew
54 Weary
55 Kind of drama: Abbr.
56 Monkey
58 Secrete
59 Finishes
60 Turkish titles
63 Little: Scot.



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Cold Cut Grinder
Pork Fried Rice

BASIC LUNCH
Vegetable Grinder
Vegetable Fried Rice

DINNER
WESTERN STEAK NIGHT
Sirloin Strip Steak/Mushroom Sauce
Barbecued Chicken

BASICS DINNER
Corny Sandwich Squares with Sauce
Barbecued Chicken

Wednesday
Jim Plunkett
PUB MUG NIGHT
•Oldies•Trivia Contests
25¢ Beers-Pub Mugs
9 til 1
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

Sheehan's
Cafe
Pleasant St., Northampton
Game Room - Asteroids - Darts - Pool
Every Tuesday
LYNNE MERYL TRIO
Every Wednesday
ROGER SALLOOM
Every Thursday
GREENWICH THREE '50s & '60s
Every Friday "W-BEE-BOP"
Parking In Rear '50s - '60s DJ

Gallagher's stage struck amplifies 'heart and fire'

Rory Gallagher
Stage Struck [Chrysalis]

By DAVID WEISS
Collegian Correspondent

Rory Gallagher is something of a puzzle. Despite a zealous hard-core following, he has yet to attain the stature that would enable him to sell out, say, the Houston Astrodome. This is just fine with me though.

It seems to be a rule of thumb that when rock artists are a bit "hungry," they produve more and better music in a shorter period of time. A good example of this is the string of hits the Stones scored with between '64 and '66 when they were struggling to establish themselves: "It's All Over Now," "The Last Time," "Satisfaction," "Get Off Of My Cloud," and "19th Nervous Breakdown." It seems that pressure is the best assurance of consistent quatlity. Once idol status is attained, self-indulgance seeps in along with a downward trend in musical quality. This scenario seems to inevitably accompany great succesee (with a couple of notable exceptions).

So while Rory has not hit it big, he plays with lots of heart and fire as Stage Struck amply demonstrates.

Side one opens with "Shin Kicker." This tune sets the basic tone for the album; fast, loud and raunchy. "Wayward Child" is next and boasts a very catchy guitar introduction. Thses first tunes also point a weakness that Gallagher could do well to improve on: the monotone of his guitar. "Wayward Child" would sound much better with a clean, sweet tone rather than the ear-crushing distortion that he opts for throughout the album. The side closes with "Moonchild," a song whose signature riff dangerously resembles that of a Moody Blues tune of a few years back. Luckily, Rory forges his own tune with characteristic brazeness.

The second side continues with more catchy head-bangers and enough string wrenching to satisfy any and all guitar fiends. Standouts on this side are "Follow Me" (which features a truly singable and memorable chorus), "Last of the Independants," (sic) which gives us a taste of excellent slide work, and "Shadow Play."

This album makes the studio versions of these tracks seem laid back by contrast, although the originals are far from mellow. Unfortunately, the casual listener is likely to dismiss this album as a distorted drone when closer inspection reveals two sides of no-nonsense rock.

Recently, Rory and his band were to open for the newly reformed Jefferson Starship on a national tour. When Rory cancelled promoters were beseiged by dissappointed Gallagher fans demnding ticket refunds; and the Starship were supposed to be headlining!

I truly hope that Gallagher gains all the success due him, but I never want to see him lose the spark that he ignites on this album and on stage.

UPC PRODUCTIONS
A Reggae Dance with MONYAKA and Loose Caboose
Duke Ellington Committee
December 6, 1980
at the Student Union Ballroom
Tickets on sale Now
$2.50 UMass Students $4.00 General Public
Available at Tix,
Union Records Unlimited, and For the Record at Faces
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

sound economy

Kinks
Greatest Hits
$3.49

SAVE NOW

George Benson
Living Inside Your Love
$4.99

Jean Luc-Ponty
Live
$3.99

Nicolette Larson
Nicolette
$3.99

Blues Brothers
Suitcase Full of Blues
$3.99

Southside Johnny
The Jukes
$3.49

NRBQ
At Yankee Stadium
$2.99

Mon-Fri 9-5
Sat 11-4

This is just a small sample of our specially priced albums. Come in to see many more titles and artists. Quantities limited.
at
THE RECORD STORE within a store
the University Store
Campus Center
University of Mass

Records

NOW AT
Time Out
2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

PREPARE FOR
MCAT • LSAT • GMAT
SAT • DAT • GRE
Our 42nd Year
• Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
• Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
• Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
• Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
• Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
• Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by research-ers expert in their field.
• Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Call Days, Eves & weekends
in Amherst
253 5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE 800-223-1782

Private, public valuables stolen

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

$1654 worth of personal items and jewlry was stolen from Coolidge Dormitory Monday, according to University Police.

The valuables were stolen between 11:20 and 12:20 p.m., police said.

Also stolen this weekend was a laser from the Hasbrouk Laboratory building, valued at $350 said Physics and Astromony department Buisness Manager Robert Gray.

Gray said the neon laser could be dangerous to the eyes if aimed into them, but does not have the capacity to harm other materials.

A balance scale worth $250 was also stolen from the Morril Science Center this weekend, police said. The instrument is used in measuring very small weights, said Paul Lemaris, staff associate for the Zoology department.

Police Log:

Plaza Shell station held up

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

The Plaza Shell gas station on Northampton Road, Amherst was robbed of between $40 and $100 Monday evening. The suspect, identified as a black woman in her 30's, driving a dirty biege car, reportedly bought two dollars worth of gasoline and then reached into the cash register and grabbed the money. Police are investigating the incident and no arrests have been made.

A 35mm Pentax camera, lenses and stereo equipment valued at $400, were stolen from the Amherst Motel on Northampton Road Monday evening. Police are investigating the incident.

A two car accident occured at the corner of Amity Street and North Prospect Street Monday afternoon. A car traveling west on Amity Street, operated by Robert Weiner, 33, from Maryland, was struck by a car driven by Kojiro Uhiyama. 24. of 110 North Dormitory, Amherst College. The accident apparently occured as Uhiyama's car pulled away from the corner. No injuries were reported. No citationswere issued.

A pedestrian-automobile accident occured in the Southwood Apartments driveway Monday evening. Laurie Murphy, 15, of 150 C Brittany Manor allegedly jumped in front of a car driven by Susan Rogers, 23, of Foxboro ,Mass. Murphy received injuries to her left leg and face and was taken to Cooley-Dickinson Hospital. Police say that Rogers apparently swerved to avoid the girl.

A "peeping tom" was reported three times between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Monday at Riverglade Apartments. The man was described as a middle-aged white male. No arrests have been made. Police are investigating the incident.

An attempted breaking and entering incident was reported Monday afternoon at Emerson Court. The police credited good locks and security measures to the foiling of the would-be robber.

★ Pierpont

continued from page 3

However, Head of Residence Gary Throop said that four staff members witnessed the incident and pointed out the three as being part of the gathering. Throop said that the floor had been noisy for nearly two hours preceeding the issuing of the warnings and had been told a number of times to quiet down.

He added that the reason the three were asked to appear before White was because they had received previous warnings over the course of the semester for similar violations.

★ Lobbying

continued from page 1

According to Grady, the purpose of the trip was two-fold — For the students to both lobby for increased financial aid nation wide, and to learn first hand the legislative process.

"They (the students) learned that the government is open and willing and that they can make a difference. They learned that they don't have to protest."

Students were assisted by Representative Silvio Conte, R-Springfield, who provided a room in a Congress building as student headquarters.

Collegian

Today's Collegian produced by:
Jim Kane — Assistant Managing Editor
Abbe Bjorklund — Layout Technician
Maureen McManus — Copy Editor
Nancy Nutile — Head Darkroom Technician
Jay Brightman — Ad Layout
Lise Zeiger, Donna Levine, Jane Wolfson, Ria Koning, Pam Dissinger — Composing Room

NOT JUST A DISCO DANCE
REGGAE
NEW WAVE
DISCO
FUNK
ROCK
MUZIK
LIGHT BY BOB DWELLEY
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21 UMASS 9:00 pm
CAMPUS CENTER 10th FLOOR $1.50

Thanksgiving Cards & Christmas Cards
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

PASTIME COUNTRY STORE
Rte. 9, Hadley, Mass.

Gifts, Antiques, candy and the unusual
OPEN: Wednesday thru Sunday, 10:00a.m.-5:00p.m.

come to Plumbley's off the common
'The 1980 Cheshire "English Pub" Beer Dart Championship!
Come enjoy great English Pub Beer at Special Low Prices!
Prizes and good English Pub fun! all proceeds to Muscular Dystrophy
Wed., Nov. 5, 12, 19
7 PM

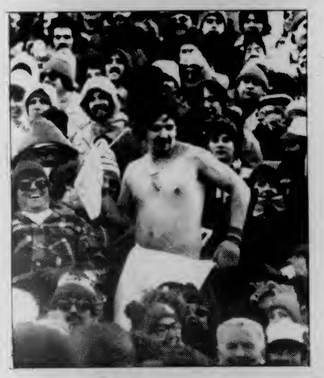
The new Van Morrison album is not about jazz, rock or pop—it's about closing your eyes and finding that quiet place.

"I listen to Van Morrison with different ears than I use for other records. I trust him completely. I know that he will never lie to me..."
—Brian Cullman, Musician

Common One
from Van Morrison
On Warner Bros. Records and Tapes

Available at:
Shirles Whirls
Platterpus
For the Record

Sports



Cheering fans, people who brave 30 degree weather to get a laugh, and the agony of play are all part of a Sunday afternoon at Schaefer Stadium. Above, Bob Golic, of the Patriots, grimaces as he pulls down Cullen Bryant of the L.A. Rams during the second quarter of play. The Rams went on to win 17-14.

Photos by Paul Price

I got hooked

On coming to this university, my knowledge of women's field hockey was, in a word, zippo. But after watching a regular season game at Dartmouth, then the post season tournament at Springfield, I learned fast.

College level field hockey is a far cry from the stuff you see on the grasslands of local high schools, especially college level field hockey played by nationally ranked teams like our own UMass eleven. These ladies come to play.

One of the first things I noticed in that Dartmouth game was the presence of a stand-out UMass player donning the number 33 jersey. Common sense and the aid of a spectator identified her as Judy Strong.

A lot of things have been said and written about this young Olympian from West Hatfield, and finally getting the chance to see her play in person, I can honestly say without hesitation, that they are all very, very true. This girl is amazing as well as exciting to watch.

I was most impressed with the way she takes the ball in her own end and drives up the field, blowing by defenders left and right with ease. As one opposing coach, watching her play in the regionals, put it: "Oh, there goes Judy on one of her patented 'It I can't get by you, I'll just go around you' drives." And that's exactly what she did.

Clay Borglund

There was also another Judy Strong opposing teams had to defend against. The one inside of the scoring circle. It is here that Judy's open field stick-handling skills bow down to her scoring savvy.

Over the 19 games of the regular season, Strong maintained a near two goals per game pace. Hell, some whole teams have trouble averaging two goals per game.

The best part of Strong's repertoire of tricks though, may be something you can't pick-out on a field, or derive from statistics. Judy Strong is only a junior.

While we're sitting around talking shop, let me drop back and introduce you to the defense. Defense, as you might have heard from any number of sport minds, is the real backbone of a team. That holds true for baseball, (pitching, defense, and three-run homers—Earl Weaver), football, (run with your offense, stand on your defense—Vince Lombardi), and UMass field hockey, (seven goals allowed all season, twelve shut-outs—fact).

If you find those numbers hard to swallow, how about trying to slide this down; three of the five defenders on the team were (gulp!) freshmen! I've heard of first year stickers garnering playing experience, but three out of five on defense? That's incredible.

Patty Shea. She, above all, sticks out in my mind as a reminder of the heartbreaking regionals tournament. After UConn's Pam Ross sent UConn to the finals, and the Connecticut players and crowd into an ecstatic craze, all I could see from my perch above the play was Patty Shea crouched down in the back corner of the net absorbing what probably was the worst moment of her career. I don't think I will ever forget that.

Meanwhile, up front assisting Strong, are three more freshmen: Tish Stevens, Tina Coffin, and Patty Smith. Yikes! Six freshmen starters on an eleventh ranked nationally, 18-3-1 team. That is a positive asset, and an indication of the teaching and molding ability that coach Pam Hixon and assistant coach Diane Moyer exhibit on their players.

I saved the role of midfielder for last in this wrap-up of UMass field hockey for the 1980 season for two reasons. One reason is Sue Caples. She exerts 100 percent two-way hustle and comes ot of nowhere to turn the play the other way on her opponent.

On the far side of the field, was the other, more important reason: senior co-captain Patty Bossio. Patty Bossio is a competitor. While acknowledging the over use of this time-worn cliche, I find no better way to express my appraisal of her.

Sadly, Patty took this past weekend's loss harder than most. It was the final game of her career, and she played her heart out, disregarding any pain she felt from a foot injury which had kept her sidelined for a week previous. Patty must have felt this was the year that the field hockey team was ready to do it all, and her dreams, as well as the rest of the team's, came shattering down on that cold Saturday night in Springfield. It is times like that, which can take the fun out of sports for a team, and the dream out of a young lady.

Well, as you can tell, I kind of got hooked on this team. Ken Coleman said on the record The Impossible Dream; the story of the 1967 Red Sox, "This is the story of a love affair betwixt a town and a team." In my case, I think it was betwixt a writer and a team. I'm just glad it happened.

Gridders indoors, Max Jones honored

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

With an eight-inch blanket of snow covering Alumni Stadium field, the University of Massachusetts football team took their act inside yesterday, running a full practice in the cozy confines of Boyden Gymnasium.

Although the Boyden building was officially closed, along with the rest of the Univesity, at 2 p.m. yesterday, athletic department officials recognized the importance of allowing the Minutemen to hold practice as scheduled.

"We really can't afford to take a day off," said UMass head coach Bob Pickett, who leads his team into their final game this Saturday against Boston College at Alumni Stadium, "Boyden is big enough for us to do just about all we do down on the field. Our kicking games suffers a bit, as does some of our long passing, but generally we can go in there and keep our concentration and run a full practice."

As of yesterday afternoon, Picket had not spoken with groundskeepers concerning the condition of Alumni Stadium field.

"I've tried to get in touch with them, but haven't as of yet," Picket said. "I realize that a lot of other things on campus have to be done, and the football field probably isn't the highest priority."

Down in Boston, meanwhile, Saturday's opponent BC will have a much easier time removing snow from their artificial surface.

□

Pickett reports that UMass quarterback Tim Fontaine was transferred from Cooley-Dickinson Hospital in Northampton to the UMass infirmary Monday afternoon. Pickett said Fontaine, who suffered a cracked vertebra and a bruised kidney when he took a helmet in the back during the 39-21 win over the University of Connecticut Nov. 1, is completely on his own now and feeling much better.

□

UMass cornerback Max Jones was named Yankee Conference player of the week for his performance in the Minutemen's 17-0 win over New Hampshire last Saturday. All Jones did was break up three passes, two of them sure touchdowns, make three unassisted tackles in open field, sack a running back on a corner back blitz, and topped it all off with a diving interception.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue # 56 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Thursday, November 20, 1980

Tuition increase rejected

Board of Trustees approves $266 fee hike

By JANE DEVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

BOSTON--A joint meeting of the Budget and Finance and Student Affairs committees of the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees yesterday unanimously voted against a $75 tuition increase but approved a $266 hike in student fees.

The vote against tuition increase came after 90 minutes of debate over the lack of federal funding for financial aid and the subsequent plight of lower income students in the event of another increase.

The total fee increase, which does not take effect until September of next year, was less than the original proposed increase of $540 because it does not include the funding of state employees' fringe benefits.

The fee hike will mean a $150 increase in room, $101 in board, $5 increase in health fees, and a $6 increase in the athletic fee.

Budget and Finance Committee Chairman James F. Crain said the vote was not just a holding action before the new Board of Regents, which assumes control from the Trustees next March, tales further action on tuition increases.

Crain said however, "It is unrealistic for students to think tuition is going to stay at this level ad infinitum."

Student testimony was given by Undergraduate Student Senate Speaker Linda Geary and Don Huse, a graduate economics student, pointing out the decreasing enrollment of lower income students and how the decline will continue in the face of another increase.

UMass Fiancial Aid Director Ed C. Apodaca said a loss of financial aid and spiraling costs at the University, "Leaves the average student with an approaching indebtedness of nearly $20,000."

"Few student are interested in this price for their education," he said.

After the vote against the tuition hike, Apodaca said he was pleased the trustees are concerned about student's financial problems.

"This increase would cost financial aid $1.5 million in funds we don't have," he said.

A group of students concerned about the implications of tuition and fee increases attend yesterday's meeting of the Budget and Finance Committee at UMass Boston. (Staff photo by Bill Lewis)

Both Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson and Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance George Beatty said the increase would help fund dormitory renovations and bond payments on many University buildings.

Robert Cleary, chairman of the student senate Rents and Fees Committee, said the University could share the burden of the increased fees by using revenue from Campus Center Conference Services to contribute to the bond payments and renovation costs.

Beatty said it is not usual to practice to transfer funds from the Campus Center to buildings.

Student Trustee Richard LaVoice proposed that the vote on the fee increase be postponed until the Dec. 3 meeting of the entire board because he said there are areas of waste where the University could substantially cut costs.

LaVoice, who is also Student Government Association co-president, said University officials could save enough money to cover renovation and bond payment expenses in overhead costs, energy conservation, and physical plant labor.

Beatty and Madson said there was little waste in those areas and said the increase was justified. LaVoice was the only dissenting vote.

Professors society supports efforts to fight tuition hikes

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

The chief governing committee of the 1200-member Massachusetts Society of Professors yesterday unanimously supported student efforts to fight tuition hikes, and stated that the University is "poorly served" by the proposed increase.

The statement of support, in the form of a motion passed at a meeting of the 25-member Executive Committee, also supported continued access to the University for students from middle and lower income families.

MSP President Peter D'Errico said the statement of support was in response to the rumor that the MSP had struck a bargain with the Chief Administrative Officer of the Board of Regents, Paul Guzzi, not to fight tuition increases in return for a favorable contract settlement.

Although the MSP has been in negotiation with the University since May, the newly-formed Board of Regents under Guzzi becomes the employers of all public higher education workers, including UMass faculty, on March 31 next year.

D'Errico said the MSP is concerned with students' ability to recieve a liberal arts education at as low a cost as possible and with having financial aid levels keeping pace with rising tuition.

D'Errico said he thought the rumor of a tuition-contract deal had been started by University officials to cause a rift between student and faculty members.

"We want to get set the record straight," he said.

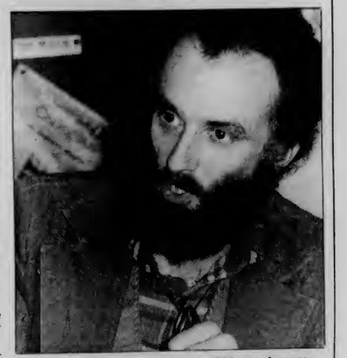
D'Errico said there was more to the contract negotiations that the tuition issue.

"There are certain people in Whitmore who want to antagonize students and faculty," he said, although he added that the rumor could have been started from UMass President David C. Knapp's office in Boston.

"We want to make it clear right off the bat. We want to set the record straight," he said.

D'Errico said the rumor had also implied that future tuition increases would fund increases in faculty salary levels.

He said there was no direct relationship between increases in tuition because all tuition money ges directly into the state's general revenue account, as does all other money the state takes in.



Peter D'Errico, president of Massachusetts Association of Professors.

Koffler to push for more and different financial aid

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

Speaking in response to the student fee increase passed at yesterday's Board of Trustees Budget Committee meeting in Boston, University of Massachusetts Chancellor Henry Koffler said he would work to offset these increases by pushing for more state financial aid and a change in the current method of distributing financial aid funds.

"I think that if we can get a sizeable increase in state funds, if we can increase the amount of state aid to the University from the $3 million it now gets to, say, $5 million, I think we can offset these increases," said Koffler in addressing the Undergraduate Student Senate last night.

In criticizing the current method of distributing state funds, Koffler said he was "quite disturbed" about a state statute stating that no more than 25 percent of financial aid can go to public institution students. The Chancellor said that currently about 50 percent of college students in Massachusetts attend public institutions.

While Koffler did say he would work to offset the fee increases, which amount to $266 for undergraduate students living on campus, he did say that he thought the increases were "reasonable".

"The increases were proportional to the inflation rate coupled with the rise in the income level across the state. These, plus the fact that we need funds to put towards campus repair, make the increase reasonable," said Koffler.

Koffler also added that he felt an increase in financial aid should also come with tuition or fee increases.

After giving his presentation to the Senate, Koffler was questioned several times about his opinions pertaining to radio station WFCR and, specifically, his decision to retain Robert Goldfarb as the station's general manager.

turn to page 11

Chancellor Henry Koffler, center, flanked by SGA Treasurer Albert Wallace, left, and Undergraduate Student Speaker Linda Geary, fields questions from student senators at last night's senate meeting. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

World and national news

Police and teachers fail to overturn tax law

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — Police and teachers unions lost the first skirmish yesterday in their legal battle to overturn the taxcut law voters approved Nov. 4, failing to win immediate consideration of their suits by the state Supreme Court.

Supreme Court Justice Ruth Abrams, at a hearing, sent the two cases challenging Proposition 2½ to Superior Court for consolidation. She also told the lawyer representing police, "your conclusion that you're going to be hurt seems to be crying foul before anything happens."

Commenting later, Ms. Abrams said the plaintiffs may have to go to the Legislature to get the law stricken.

Separate suits against the tax-cut law were filed last week by Council 351 of the Massachusetts Coalition of Police and, on Monday, by the Massachusetts Teachers Association MTA.

In part, both claim the law interferes with contractual obligations to their union members.

"The MTA is informed and believes...that if the legislation takes effect on Dec. 4, there will be an immediate, substantial decrease in public revenue, by reason of the decrease in the automobile excise tax, with the result that some cities and towns might have substantial difficulty in meeting their contractual obligations to the MTA's members," according to that union's suit.

Proposition 2½ takes effect Dec. 4, 30 days after it was approved 3-to-2 in the election.

MBTA files suit against Gov. King

By DAVID HERN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — Municipal overseers of the Boston transit system launched court action yesterday charging that Gov. Edward J. King, in maintaining public transportation through an emergency takeover of the system, broke the law.

The filing of a suit in Suffolk Superior Court — scheduled for a hearing Friday — was the latest development in the mounting crisis over funds for the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

If the board's litigation succeeds, public transportation in metropolitan Boston could be halted immediately, unless the Legislature or the overseers, who constitute the MBTA's Advisory Board, reverse past decisions.

The Legislature on Tuesday rejected an MBTA reorganization bill containing bailout funds but could take it up again today.

Judge William G. Young scheduled a hearing for Friday at 2 p.m. on the suit which demands that King appear and "show cause why prayers 4 and 5 of the amended complaint should not be granted."

The "prayers" bar King from taking over the MBTA and authorizing the expenditure of MBTA funds. They stem from a previous litigation resulting from $6 million in assessments on the munities resulting from a similar King take over of the MBTA last year.

A young West German woman stages a Joan of Arc style demonstration in Munich yesterday to protest anti-abortion speeches by Pope John Paul II during a visit to that country. The woman wears a placard stating "I can't afford to go to Holland," referring to the trip women would have to make if Germand changed its abotion laws. (AP Laserphoto)

Reagan plays tourist role

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President-elect Ronald Regan played the role yesterday of a Very Important Tourist, dining in a famous Senate hearing room with his Republican allies and telling them "we have a mandate not so much .... to govern as a mandate to serve."

"The people of this country have told us, all of us now, they want something different. They want a change. They want an America that serves them," Reagan said.

He promised, in an apparent break with tradition in which presidents visit Congress only for formal speeches, to travel up Capitol Hill for consultations with the House and Senate.

And, in sarcastic reference to reports that President Carter once dunned congressional leaders to pay for their breakfasts at the White House, he said: "When you are invited to the White House for breakfast, I won't send you a bill."

While a constant claque of tourists gawked at his comings and goings in the nation's sunbathed capital, the president-elect, in the midst of a triumphant introduction to familiarize himself with the city's competing power centers.

After the Capitol Hill luncheon, he held a private audience with eight of the nine justices of the Supreme Court.

Olver appointed to chair of Senate tax committee

BOSTON — Sen. John W. Olver, D-Amherst, has replaced outgoing Sen. Robert E. McCarthy as Senate chairman of the Legislature's Taxation Committee.

The new appointment was made by Senate President William M. Bulger this week after McCarthy resigned his chairmanship to give his replacement added time to deal with the tax-cut law voteres approved in this month's election.

McCarthy, a Democrat from East Bridgewater, ran for Congress and was beaten by Republican Rep. Margaret M. Heckler of Wellesley.

The House chairman of the panel is Gerald Cohen, D-Andover.

Begin on the defensive

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Menachem Begin rallied his dwindling political forces yesterday to defeat a motion of no confidence in his government's economic policy, but former Defense Minister Ezer Weizman dealt a sharp blow to Begin by voting to bring down the government.

Begin's coalition survived on a 57-54 vote with two abstentions — the slimmest margin in a no-confidence

Digest

Associated Press

bid since he became Israel's prime minister in 1977. The abstainers were Samuel Flatto-Sharon, an independent, and Akiva Nof of the Democratic Movement For Change.

Begin cut short a U.S. visit to cast his vote against a motion offered by the opposition Labor Party to protest an annual inflation rate of more than 130 percent and a consumer price increase of 11 percent in October.

Today's paper was produced by:
Night Editor — Ed Levine
Copy Editor — Rhonda King
Layout Technician — Bret Willden
Head Photo Technician — Kris Craig
Assistant Photo Technician — Scott Burke
Ad Layout Technician — Jay Brightman
Composing Room — Mary Kinneavy, Bob Carr, Maureen Sullivan, Pam Dissinger, Michele Bedard, Jane Wolfson, Liz Lebow, Suzette Courtmanche, Ellen Sasahara, Jim McDonald

B.U. medical center chief indicted for false tax return

BOSTON — The chief of Boston University Medical Center's plastic surgery department was indicted yesterday on a charge of filing a false federal income tax return to take part in an allegedly fraudulent $20 million tax shelter scheme.

Dr. Gaspar W. Anastasi, 46, of Danvers, also was indicted on a charge of filing a fraudlent claim for a tax refund of $84,860, U.S. Attorney Edward F. Harrington said.

The Anastasi indictment was a follow-up to the indictments Tuesday of 13 persons, including two Hollywood film producers, on charges of mail fraud in connection with the sale of tax shelters. Buyers, who allegedly included Elvis Presley and other celebrities, invested in purported coal mining rights in Wyoming, David Geneson, a special U.S. prosecutor said.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 233 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

MAKE YOUR RESERVATION BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Don't miss out on the highest quality and fastest turnaround offered anywhere.

Make a reservation now for your thesis or end of semester papers, and don't get left out in the last-minute rush.

call WORDPRO, Inc.
256-6736

Word Processing - Phototypesetting
OCR Scanning
Typing - Copying

Thursday
OLDIES
with
GREG ADAMS
TONIGHT'S SPECIAL:
75c Vodka Drinks
THE PUB

On Sale at
Tix
317 SUB
(across from post office)
545-2683
"Wall Flower Order" $3.00 ea.
"Monyaka" with "Loose Caboose" $2.50 stud. $4.00 gen pub
M,Tu,Th 11:30-4
F 11-4
Closed Weds.
No Service Charge

Butterfield Arts Group—Invites Central Area residents to use their darkroom and silkscreen facilities. Thursdays, 7:30-10:30 and Saturdays, 12-4, materials sold at cost.

Make someone smile!

Choose from more than ten thousand cards!
The Paper Clip Ltd.
25 S. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

Women urge boycott of non-ERA states

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

Women attending an Equal Rights Amendment forum at Smith college last night were urged to boycott products coming from states that have not ratified the ERA and to write letters to their congressmen urging them to vote to ratify the amendment.

Marty Aspengren, a member of the Northampton chapter of the League of Women Voters, told about 100 women at the meeting that they could make a difference if they made themselves heard.

"By boycotting products that come from these states you will keep money from going to the states that have not ratified the ERA. The state of Missouri was so worried about the boycott that they sued the Missouri National Organization for Women (NOW). Make sure you let the states know you're boycotting," Aspengren said.

She cited the example of a woman who refuses to buy gasoline in Illinois.

"She fills her car up when she gets at the border of Iowa and doesn't buy gas in Illinois unless she absolutely has to."

Illinois recently voted against the ratification of the ERA.

"Learning about the ERA and talking to people who are misinformed about the ERA is very important," Aspengren said.

Three more states are needed to ratify the ERA before it will become the 27th ammendment to the U.S, Constitution.

Jennifer Jackman, a member of Northampton NOW also spoke saying that although President-elect Ronald Reagan did not endorse the ERA in the party platform, he could not say anything to stop it if the amendment passed.

Jackman also said that the NOW encourages campus action teams to endorse the ERA.

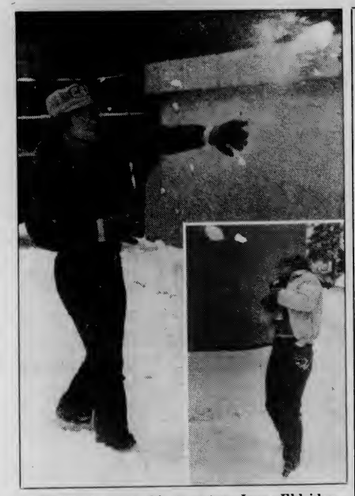
"The national internship program sponsored by the NOW sends interns either to Washington D.C. or to states where they are needed most. The NOW helps to pay for their room and board," jackman said.

Concerning the possible failure of the ERA, Jackman said that if the amendment is"not passed the women's movement will attack the discriminatory laws one by one in an effort to get them changed. There are some 800 federal laws currently on the books that discriminate on the basis of sex.

Jackman said that there has been increased media coverage of the efforts to pass the ERA.

"The Democratic National Convention showed that women can effect a change if they work together. The Convention voted overwhelmingly in favor of the minority plank (which included the ERA) and the national media covered it. This was one of the first times that the ERA efforts had received national coverage," Jackman said.

Map of the United States showing the fifteen states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment.



Ed Fleck marks his target as Joyce Eldridge prepares her rhetoric notebook for defense. (Staff photos by Scott Burke)

Brian Curtis Zoerheide, alias "Uncle Beasley," campaigned in the Campus Center this week against nukes, bureaucrats and the "upcoming war," which he feels the bureaucrats will start to strengthen the economy. Zoerheide appears on the $1,000 bill (shown on his lap), and is very generous with the $22 bill that has appeared nationwide. Brian says that "22" is the magic number of the universe. Using the chart printed on the face of the bill, Brian matches letters and numbers to equal 22. Some of these words include: "lessons, student, master, Lord, dope, smile, laugh and I-Luv-U." Also, Uncle Beasley says that the three necessities of life add up to 22: "food, rent and cloth." Zoerheide noted that President Washington was born on the 22nd day of February, while Presidents Kennedy and Johnson died on the 22nd day. "There are 22 Amino Acids in your body, and 22 players on a football field," he said. Although Zoerheide said that a Montana Court judge accepted the 22 dollar bill to pay for a traffic ticket, the CIA is opposed to the distribution of these bills. "The CIA has bills with my signature," Brian said. "But, I'm going to continue my campaign for peace." (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

Questions rise over hazardous waste sites

Amherst site not serious

By GREG VOLPE
Collegian Staff

The Amherst municipal sewage treatment plant, which was listed by the state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering as a suspected "hazardous waste dumping" site, will pose no serious problems for the local community, an environmental engineer said Tuesday,

Angelo Iantosca, the regional environmental engineer, said the treatment plant, located near the University of Massachusetts campus, will soon be "crossed" off the hazardous site list released by the DEQE on Monday.

"The DEQE listed only one site, considered hazardous, in Amherst, and that happened to be the sewage treatment plant. There is nothing there that is really hazardous. There is definately no hazard to the Amherst community," he said.

DEQE released a list of 321 "suspected" hazardous waste dumping sites on Monday. Among these sites, throughout the state, Amherst was named as one of the towns which has possible hazardous sites.

Charles Drake, sanitarian for the town of Amherst and the present community hazardous waste coordinator, said the Amherst site was placed on the DEQE's "B" list, which designated a site as "requiring further investigation."

"I don't know when our investigation will take place on the plant," Drake said, "but we will take some action in the near future. In fact, DEQE does not require us to submit a report until sometime during mid-1981."

Drake, who stated he has already been in touch with DEQE, said, "The DEQE information is very technical and it will take some time for me to go over it with plant officials and DEQE."

Michelle Davis, public information officer for DEQE in Boston, said, "The list that our office released on hazardous sites throughout the state is not confirmed information, but it is the first step to further studies and investigations by our office."

The Amherst site was given a rate of "5" by the DEQE rating system, which, Davis said, "is a medium rating given by us, which designates a site as not being a significant problem, in regards to hazardous waste. It is one of the less threatening sites in our list."

DEQE rated the listed sites in regards to "potential" hazardous waste. The sites were given a numerical rating from one to 10 ("10" rating being the most hazardous waste).

Northampton was another one of the 20 towns in Western Massachusetts which was listed by DEQE as having "suspected" hazardous waste dumping sites.

Peter McElain, director of the Board of Health in Northampton, said, "My interpretation of the DEQE listing, is that they listed our sewage treatment plant. In this case, there is no serious problem for Northampton. To this date, I know of no serious unusual or illegal waste dumping sites in Northampton."

Community effects to be discussed in forum tonight

By MICHAEL DELTERRGO
Collegian Correspondent

Hazardous waste in the community will be the topic of a film presentation and panel discussion at the University of Massachusetts tonight. The forum, sponsored by MassPIRG, invites citizens and students to confront the issue of hazardous waste and the threat it poses.

The ABC-TV documentary, "The Killing Ground" will be shown, followed by a panel discussion. Ken Ward of MassPIRG said "the purpose of this forum is to raise the general issue and present information to the public."

Issues expected to be covered include oil recycling, local and state preparedness, and the status of known sites. Also, expected to come under fire, is the recent study by the Department of Environment Quality Engineering (DEQE).

The DEQE study, released this week, outines 321 known hazardous waste sites in Massachusetts. MassPIRG has speculated that the study is not comprehensive enough and that the full extent of the problem is not reflected in these findings.

The panel discussing the issues will consist of representatives from DEQE, MassPIRG, The Belchertown Residents Action Coalition for the Environment (BRACE), and two reporters from the Valley Advocate.

The UMass forum will be held at 6:30 tonight in SBA room 120. Other forums are scheduled for Amherst College on Dec. 1, Mount Holyoke College on Dec. 2 and a special victim's conference at Hampshire College, also on Dec. 2.

Pierpont residents charged with violating 'quiet hours'

By JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

Three Pierpont dormitory residents, who have been charged with "quiet hour" violations and another dormitory member who has been charged with unauthorized removal of dormitory furniture, appeared for a pre-trial hearing yesterday.

Two of the fourth floor residents, who were charged with violating "quiet hours" have been given until tonight to report back to Assistant Director Robert White. They must tell White what they are going to do, either leave the dormitory, leave the residence system or face a hearing and possible disciplinary action.

Roy Walters and Jack Curtain were issued warnings Nov. 17, after being pointed out be dormitory staff members as being part of a large gathering two weeks ago. They claim that they, along with Alain Valles and Christopher Bellini, are being forced out of the dormitory by Head of Residence Gary Throop.

Bellini who was being charged with unauthorized removal of domitory furniture, said that the four are all close friends, long time floor residents and had even gone so far as to give themselves the nickname of the "Slugs." He said the term originated from a drawing on one of the walls of the dormitory.

At the pre-hearing with White, charges against Valles were dropped because he proved that he was not part of the gathering where the warnings were issued. He said that he recieved the warning because Throop and his staff assumed that he was with the group and that they are looking for any reason to have he and the others removed.

Alan Ramano, a fourth floor resident who said that he was part of the group that had gathered, had also recieved a written warning but was not asked to appear at a pre-hearing. He said that it looked like they were trying to "set up" the four other floor members.

Bellini said that he asked Throop at the pre-hearing if he (Throop) wanted him (Bellini) to leave the floor and Throop answered yes. He added that at the pre-hearing Throop introduced some extenuating circumstances after Bellini admitted to having dormitory furniture in his room. Included was that Bellini was a leader on the floor and that he was a "terrifying, defient person who was a threat to the other residents of the floor."

Bellini said that Throop felt he was also part of a harrassing faction on the floor and that he was the leader of a political faction (the "Slugs").

Bellini said he felt the introduction of the extenuating circumstances were just a ploy by Throop to get him removed.

Throop denies that he was forcing the students from the floor but did say that he had asked Bellini to leave the floor.

"In affect I'm asking them to move if they insist upon acting in the manner that they have," he said.

He said that he had spoken with Bellini and told him that if he would act in a manner in accordance with University regulations than he (Throop) would temper any judgements that he might make in the make in the future.

Throop said that he does not have a personal vendetta against any of the fourth floor members and said that he would entertain any recommendations from any party on the floor to help remedy the situation.

Two auto accidents reported in area

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

Despite all the new fallen snow Tuesday night, only two automobile accidents were reported to the Amherst police.

A one car accident was reported Tuesday afternoon in the West Pomeroy Lane area of the Hickory Ridge Golf Course. A 1977 Ford van operated by Constance W. Leslie, 39, of Amherst slid down an icy embankment. Leslie received injuries to her shoulder. Jeanette Leslie, 7, received minor head injuries. Both were taken to the Amherst Medical Center. The third passenger Anthony Leslie, 9, was not injured.

No violations were issued.

A two car accident occured at the corner of Route 116 and Old Sunderland Road Tuesday afternoon. A vehicle operated by John R. Mitchell, 22, of Amherst was stopped for the turn when a vehicle operated by Diana Bartley, 26, of Framingham attempted to pass on the right and apparently side-swiped Mitchell's vehicle.

There were no injuries and no violations were issued.

Stereo equipment worth $1400 stolen from Southwood Apartments Halloween night was reported for insurance purposes Tuesday afternoon. The stereo was apparently taken from the apartment through the kitchen window. There are no suspects in the case.

A broken window was reported at a Village Park apartment Tuesday night. A snowball had apparently been thrown through the window.

Students plan rally against CIA recruiters

By TIMOTHY J. FOWLER
Collegian Correspondent

A group of University of Massachusetts students will hold a rally and picket on campus today to protest the presence of Central Intelligence Agency recruiters at the University.

Judy Weiss, an organizer of the event, said the rally is being held because "any job that a student gets with the CIA is a job that will lead to suppression and many, many deaths around the world."

The rally will begin at 12:30 in front of the Student Union Building and proceed to Hampshire House, the sight where the CIA will be recruiting.

Weiss is a member of an ad-hoc coalition, composed of members of various student groups, which was formed to protest CIA activities and involvement with the University.

"Some people might say that the CIA has a right to recruit and it's up to the students to decide whether or not to see them, but if you're going to speak of rights, then what about the rights of the people in Vietnam or Chile who have been killed or had their popularly elected governments overthrown and replaced with dictatorships?" said Weiss.

The coalition has also planned a picket in front of Hampshire House at noon on Friday.

Even though Howard Brooke is going to have a long wait before he can use any new equipment, he still takes advantage of the bargains at the Great Ski Snatch. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Officials hope regulations stop chemical disposal

By JAMES SIMON
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — Massachusetts officials, conceding that millions of gallons of poisonous waste went unreported in the past, hope tough new regulations will be more effective at stopping illegal disposal of toxic chemicals around the state.

New rules that took effect yesterday hold industries responsible for chemical waste from "cradle to grave." Translation: a potent substance must be accounted for from the time it is manufactured until it is safely disposed of.

Companies that manufacture, transport and dispose of hazardous waste now have to file reports with the state, which should help investigators pinpoint the source of any illegal chemical dumping. The state previously required just the transporter of waste to file a report.

TIPS TAPE 7000
Thanksgiving Residence Hall Closing
545-1540
request tape by number

Thursday - Stiff Stuff Special
Buy one "Stiff Stuff" drink, get one free!
STIFF STUFF
Frozen Strawberry Daiquiries 2.25 Plenty of rum and strawberries
Irish Coffee 1.95 John Jameson Irish Whiskey and coffee topped with whipped cream and green cream de menthe
Dutch Coffee 1.95 Vandermint Liquer and coffee topped with whipped cream and shaved chocolate
Jamican Coffee 1.95 Bicardi Rum, brandy and coffee topped with whipped cream and nutmeg
Spanish Coffee 1.95 Kahlua, brandy and coffee topped with whipped cream
Pina Colada 2.25 Plenty of rum, coconut milk and fresh pineapple
Peppermint Pattie 1.95 Peppermint Schnapps and hot chocolate topped with whipped cream and cream de menthe
Dutch Chocolate 1.95 Vandermint Liquer and hot chocolate topped with whipped cream and shaved chocolate
Mexican Coffee 1.95 Kahlua and coffee topped with whipped cream
Mocha Chocolate 1.95 Coffee flavored brandy and hot chocolate topped with whipped cream and shaved chocolate
the Hungry U
55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

FREE
!!International Movie!!
Yugoslavian Film Festival
Tonight
Yogoslavian Social Commentary
"I Even Met Happy Gypsies"
Thompson 102 8pm
Presented by the U-Mass Arts Council, Governors Program Council with assistance from the Department of Anthropology and Prof. Joel Halpern.

Amherst Gulf
Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension
Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Fiat
(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
call 256-8936
catering to the Campus Area
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

The Buzzcocks buzz the Nail

The Buzzcocks with the Paper Dolls
Rusty Nail, Sunderland
November 18

By MARK WHARTON
Collegian Correspondent

"When I'm playing live, I'd rather play fast than play slow, it's more exciting, you get more of an instant thing. If you're playing slow you've got time to think and worry. I like things to be snappy!" -- Peter Shelly, excerpt from a recent Trouser Press interview.

With their first song, "Why She's a Girl From the Chainstore," The Buzzcocks set the chainsaw pace that buzzed the Rusty Nail for a hour long set Tuesday night.

The Buzzcocks, who hail from Manchester, England, were formed four years ago by guitarist Peter Shelly and singer Howard Devoto. The group got its start by opening for the punk rock outfit The Sex Pistols on their first tour. Devoto left shortly after to form his own band, Magazine. It is interesting to ponder the though of how long two intriguingly artistic songwriters such as Shelly and Devoto could have remained in the same Buzzcocks lineup, no matter how compatable.

The Buzzcocks proceeded to release a succesful string of pop singles. In the 'Cocks terminology, there is no such thing as a "b" side of a single. While most other bands will put anything on a flip side to stretch out as many "hit" singles as possible, The Buzzcocks hit hard on both sides.

Their first stateside album release came last year with Singles Going Steady, with The Buzzcocks recreating their string of singles. Such classics as "Orgasm Addict," "Everybody's Happy Nowadays," "Oh Shit," and "Something's Gone Wrong Again," will hold up against any English pop songs.

This year's album, A Different Kind Of Tension, showed the band with an entirely new perspective on music and a much more structured sound. The album's opus, "I Believe" is one of the strongest songs ever recorded. It recalls the intensity of Neil Young or John Lennon at their best, with lines like these: "In these times of contention/It's not my intention to make things plain./I'm looking through mirrors/to catch the reflection that can't be mine/I'm losing control now/I'll just have to slow down a thought or two/I can't feel the future/and I'm not even certain that there is a past./There is no love in this world anymore."

Tuesday night's set opened with Northampton's own Paper Dolls. This local band was improved greatly, even since the time I saw them at the Tavern three weeks ago. A single released on the Tekno Tunes label in September has been very well recieved.

The Rusty Nail, which is the first stop on The Buzzcocks short East Cost-West Coast tour, provided the perfect atmosphere to witness the band. The first song, a new single "Why She's a Girl From the Chainstore," got the momentum rolling as the 'Cocks ripped through several older songs -- "I Don't Mind," "Fast Cars," "Harmony in My Head," and another new song, "Are Everything."

The new material fit in perfectly with the older songs. This has to do with the recalling of producer Zero Hannet, who recorded many of the bands first EP's. The Buzzcocks are releasing a series of new songs at six-week intervals. They followed with several more older songs before hitting stride with a set of strong new songs -- "Airwave Dream," "Strange Thing," a tight version of "Noise Annoys," with the finale of "I Believe," "Batteries," and "Times Up."

Guitarist Steve Diggle hit the stage with a series of controlled "fits" and ended up bouncing off the walls all night, exercising styles from the Peter Townshend school of guitar. Bassist Steve Garvey bopped around like he had a slight case of electrical shock, and the reclusive, but hard banger John Mahler, on drums, knit a tight unit behind the casual professional detachment of frontman Shelly.

Encoring with, "Love you More," "Oh Shit," and the only Devoto tune of the evening, "Boredom," The Buzzcocks played a raw, hard-edged grinder selection of songs reminisant of the early Ramones, but with much more intelligence. Suprisingly absent were nearly all the songs from A Different Kind of Tension. Steve Diggle summed it up best when, as he arrived at the Nail, an exuberant fan yelled, "Rock and Roll!" Diggle turned around and, with a huge grin, whipped the thumbs up. The 'Cocks were ready to rock.

Peter Shelley, lead singer of The Buzzcocks, gave an energetic performance Tuesday night at the Rusty Nail. (Staff photo by Brenda Kustin)

RED TAG "SALE"
SALE PRICE
Look for RED TAGS for SAVINGS Thurs-Nov 20- Sat Nov 22
Shoes - Boots - Bags
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year round. After a six-session, two-week founda tion program, a residual once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning pro grams are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controled environ ment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1409
based on a full year's tanning program
39¢ a day*.
Saturday Sunspot Special (Nov. 22) 1 Free Visit & Free Gift with this ad

FAST ECONOMICAL & FREQUENT FREQUENT FREQUENT
TRAILWAYS and PETER PAN offer service to Boston, New york and many other destinations.
TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.
The Energy Saver
For Information, Schedules and Prices, Contact:
Campus Center Bus Office - 545-2006, or 549-6000

3 DAYS ONLY
THURS./FRI./SAT., NOV. 20-22
20% OFF ALL STOCK IN:
TIGHTS
LEGWARMERS
LEOTARDS
BODYSUITS
SKIRTS
DANSKIN
rainbow prisms
The FLOWER CART
fragrances in soaps, creams, oils and shampoos
SOFT LUGGAGE*
* except sale items
OPEN FRI. TIL 9:00
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Science Fiction Society (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Science fiction library opens

By EILEEN GALLIGAN
Special to the Collegian

The University of Massachusetts Science Fiction Society has recently opened a library with a variety of books and magazines in science fiction and fantasy.

Located in room 166 of the Campus Center, the library contains approximately 5,000 hardcovers and paperbacks by such authors as Robert Heinlein, Frederik Pohl, Issac Asimov and Harlan Ellyson. There are also about 5,000 magazines.

Newman club sponsors food drive

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Collegian Correspondent

The Community Action Program of the Newman Club, an organization of Catholic students, will be sponsoring a three-day food collection drive this weekend to benefit the area's needy.

During the offertory of all masses this weekend at the Newman Center at the University of Massachusetts the 125-member Community Action Program (CAP) will be collecting food items for distribution through the Amherst Senior Center, Holyoke Good Kitchen and the Amherst Survival Center said David Sullivan, co-director of CAP. Those who cannot make their donations during the mass are asked to leave their contributions in the main hall of the Newman Center on Monday, Sullivan said. Those items needed are posted on a list in the Newman Center and distribution will take place on Tuesday, he said.

Smokers urged to kick the habit

By MARI WISEMAN
Special to the Collegian

Today is National Great American Smokeout Day, when smokers try to kick the habit for 24 hours. In the same spirit, a Smith College senior has designed a program for smokers to help them quit permanently.

Amy Martin's free, six-week program is the result of her interest in behavioral studies and extensive reading on techniques used to help smokers give up cigarettes.

"The treatments are private, individualized and tailored to each person's needs," she said.

She said she pioneered "several imagery techniques, all of which are effective. I'm doing tests to compare their effectiveness."

She said she could not go into the details of her method, but said, "It is not an adversive technique like the 'rapid smoke inhalation' technique which has you inhale a lot of warm smoky air." She also explained that it is not an adversive imagery technique like when you are asked to imagine throwing up on a cigarette to discourage you from wanting them.

Martin is in the middle of one session, and plans two more, one for January and one for February.

"So far, my patients seem to like their treatments," she said.

"We encourage people to quit for a day, and hope they will quit permanently when they see it is not as hard as they thought," said Wendy Haas, a spokesperson for the American Cancer Society in Springfield, the sponsors of the Smokeout. "If they don't quit permanently, we think at least they are more aware of the need to cut down," she said.

According to a Gallup Poll, five million people succeeded in giving up cigarettes in the 1979 Smokeout, out of the 14.9 million who tried. Since the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health was issued in 1964, 30 million people have quit smoking on thier own, according to the American Cancer Society.

Fifty to sixty million Americans still smoke, however, and 37 deaths per hour are caused by cigarette smoking. Lung cancer, heart disease and the threat of fire is a very real danger to the smokers themselves, while their smoke can cause allergic responses in others standing near-by. Smoking has also been found to restrict the blood vessels

Hero police dog goes home today

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Rags, the hero police dog feared permanently paralyzed after being shot saving a policeman from gunfire, is going home today, once again able to walk.

"He is coming along well and is even able to walk with a little assistance. He recovered faster than any of us anticipated," said Dr. Nathan Dykes, the veterinarian who has been caring for the 4-year-old German shepherd.

"His right front leg, closest to where the bullets hit, is still weak, but he is able to use the other three legs," Dykes reported Wednesday. The doctor performed three hours of surgery on the dog to remove three bullets, including one lodged in his spinal column.

At the time of the operation, Dykes said the dog appeared to have feeling in his legs, but there was no way of predicting whether he would ever walk again.

Rags was shot at point-blank range Nov. 3 by assailants who fired at Agawam Police Officer Norman Nardi in a parking lot after dark.

Nardi had followed a suspicious car into the lot, and when a shot smashed through the windshield of the cruiser, Rags leaped out the window and rushed the gunmen.

Police believe Nardi escaped unharmed because the dog's quick response distracted the gunmen.

"I didn't think he would ever walk again," said a delighted Nardi, who has been spending several hours a day with Rags at the Springfield SPCA's Rowley Memorial Animal Hospital. "At first he was in such bad shape."

Kathie Duren, a communications studies major from Acton, Ma., signs away the value of one meal ticket and pledges to skip a meal tomorrow to aid Oxfam-America in its fight against world hunger. "I think it's a good idea to give up a meal when it can go to someone who needs it a lot more than me," said Duren, a sophomore living in Grayson dormitory. (Staff photo by Bill Sample)

FRYE SALE

Mens Low Cut Frye Boots
Reg $97.00
Now $59.00
Open Friday till 8:00
HEARTFELT LEATHER
103 N Pleasant
253-5135 Open 10-6 Mon-Sat

DRINK SPECIALS
EVERY NIGHT OF THE WEEK!
NOW OPEN UNTIL ONE AM
THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
UNTIL TWELVE
MON THROUGH WEDNESDAY!
Good times, Good drink, Good music
the Hungry U
55 University Drive

"Casablanca"
TONIGHT! TONIGHT!
Thursday, Nov. 20th
at 7, 9 & 11:00
sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club
admission: $1.00

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Rt. 9 Amherst
Poor Richard's DISCOTHEQUE
Thursday Special
Beat The Clock
8-9 50c
9-10 75c
All Drinks
10-closing $1.00
All Drinks
Fri. & Sat
HAPPY HOUR 8-10 p.m.

DISTINGUISHED TEACHING AWARD 1981

Nominations are now being sought for the 1980-81 Distinguished Teaching Awards which will be presented in the Spring of 1981. All Teachers, Teaching Assistants and Teaching Associates on the University of Massachusetts/Amherst campus are eligible. The purpose of the award is to identify and honor distinguished classroom teaching. Nominations can be made by those who are taught. Any interested student or group of students, past or present, is invited to submit a name and supporting statement describing the nominee's excellence in teaching for any teacher he/she feels is outstanding. The deadline for the submission of nominations is December 5, 1980. Please address nominations to: The Committee for Distinguished Teaching Awards, Graduate Senate Ofice, 919 C.C. UMass, Amherst, MA 01003.

live wire
by Jim Moran

...IN THE GROOVES—Rod Stewart's Foolish Behaviour will be exhibited in record bins across the country next week. That one's on the Warner Brothers label...JOHN AND YOKO's first album in six years, Double Fantasy, is already being shipped by Warner on the Geffen label. The LP is an egalitarian effort, with seven songs each by hubby and wife...Planned for release in December is the Fleetwood Mac Live album, for those of you who care...A source at CBS Records tells me DAVID JOHANSEN went into the studio this week to begin work on his next album, on the Blue Sky label, slated for release in early '81.

•••••

RAMBLIN' MEN—The Allman Brothers will play the Springfield Civic Center December 30. That very same day, Todd Rundren's UTOPIA will be at Stage West in Hartford on the tour promoting their latest LP, Deface the Music (Warner Brothers)...

Next Friday, November 28, A & M recording artists THE POLICE will be at Boston's Orpheum Theater, plugging their latest, Zenyatta Mondatta. Rumors persist that the new wave-reggae group will add a date at Stage West sometime in December...

•••••

THE CORPORATE SCREW is being given all college and small-scale radio stations by Arista Records. Arista has informed the outlets, including our own radio station WMUA (91.4 FM) that if they want to continue receiving the complimentary promotional discs and concert tickets so vital to their business, they'll have to pay a $150 annual "service charge." As a result, 'MUA is organizing a boycott of all that company's products and is currently refusing to play any songs by Arista artists over the airwaves. LIVE WIRE applauds our colleagues in the music biz for taking part in this effort and, likewise, this column and the Collegian Arts Department will not make mention of any releases, concert tours etc. until they rescind their edict. The record industry may be hurting, but c'mon folks, college radio stations aren't rakin' in the profits either...

•••••

...LOCAL CALLS—This weekend at The Hatch features: a one-man rock show with Ed Morgan tonight, tomorrow night a rock cover band, Image, and Saturday the return to this campus of Mundanes with opening act Hot Dates. The former is free, the latter two cost two

turn to page 15

★Smokeout

continued from page 6

and breathing movements of unborn babies, and to be a factor in low birth weights, according to Martin and a fact-sheet printed by the ACS.

"The best way for me to advertise has been to approach people while they are smoking, and ask them if they want to quit. They respond well, because I can explain my program in person," she said.

Natalie Cole, a former University of Massachusetts student, is the 1980 Smokeout national chairman. She told the Daily Hampshire Gazette: "My father, Nat King Cole, was a heavy smoker who died of lung cancer. Now, as a new parent, I'm really motivated to stop (smoking) for good. I hope that other parents will join me on Smokeout Day by giving up cigarettes for those we love."

CHINESE KITCHEN
Fast Food Restaurant
興旺樓
99c Luncheon Specials
Take Out Orders Call:
(413) 586-8220/586-8221
150 King Street, Northampton, Mass.

STRUT
197 MAIN ST. NORTHAMPTON
one night only
thursday nov. 20
three to midnight

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
One Area Showing, Now Ends Tuesday
On Screen At 7:00 and 9:25

THE ORIGINAL UN-CUT VERSION
Power, space, time and a visitor
David Bowie in
The man who fell to Earth
from Cinema 5 R
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Sheehan's Cafe
Pleasant St., Northampton
Game Room - Asteroids - Darts - Pool
Every Tuesday
LYNNE MERYL TRIO
Every Wednesday
ROGER SALLOOM
Every Thursday
GREENWICH THREE '50s & '60s
Every Friday "W-BEE-BOP"
Parking In Rear '50s - '60s DJ

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
and the UMass Arts Council present

FRIDAY, NOV. 21 8 PM
SATURDAY, NOV. 22 8 PM
SUNDAY, NOV. 23 3 PM
Tickets now on sale at the Fine Arts Center Box Office (M-F, noon-4 p.m.) Phone reservations accepted until Wednesday Nov. 19 (413-545-2511) for all performances.
$8, 7, 6 General Public
$7, 6, 5 Senior Citizens
$4, 3.50, 3 UMass Students
Partial support provided by NE Foundation for the Arts, Mass. Council on the Arts & Humanities, & National Endowment for the Arts.

Public-Art Competition
wall-sculpture for SU Gallery exterior
* mural for Commonwealth Room *
Materials' costs and a stipend provided winners.
Details available in CC 817.
Entries due in mid-Dec.
Coordinated by Board of Governors.
Sponsored by UMass Arts Council and CC Administration
Open to any UMass/Amherst student

Editorial/Opinion

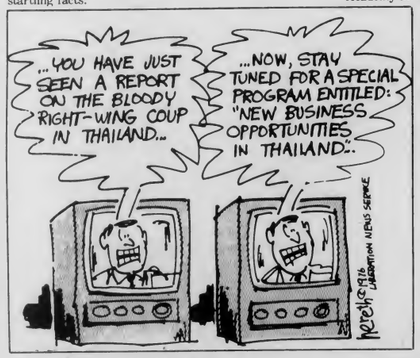
'The Company' is their name and terrorism is their game

Laurie Kellog
Tony Crayton

What do the Phillipines, South Korea, South Vietnam, Iran under the Shah, Saudi Arabia, Nicaragua under Somoza, Brazil, Bolivia, Argentina, Indonesia, Uraguay, South Africa, and 13 other countries all have in common? They are the 26 countries of Amnesty International's top 35 systematic Human Rights violators who have been supplied with United States military and economic aid, and U.S. "police" training for many of the last 25 years. And what do many of these countries share with Angola (mid-70's), the Congo (1961), Iran (1953), Guatemala (1964), Chile (1973) and many others?

Well, guess who's coming to recruit on campus today and Friday? The CIA. Aside from having participated in coups, interventions, murders, torture, and economic ruination of many of the above countries, what's so bad about the CIA recruiting on campus? Actually, the CIA is here recruiting covertly every day. Under the sacred doctrine of "academic freedom" there are professors currently clandestinely engaged in unclassified research for the CIA. To them, it is their intellectual "right" to engage in any research regardless of its immoral or racist character or regardless of the ways that the research will be used. Under this protective philisophical doctrine the agency and academia have long been intimately involved.

In 1976, Frank Church's Senate committee investigating the CIA found they were currently employing several hundred academics (not to mention journalists, politicians, and religious persons) in hundreds of universities. In 1976, Rampart magazine upset their previously untarnished "understanding" with the CIA by exposing the milliors of CIA dollars that were being funneled into the National Student Association (NSA). This finally caused an uproar and a Senate investigation that unveiled startling facts.



...YOU HAVE JUST SEEN A REPORT ON THE BLOODY RIGHT-WING COUP IN THAILAND..
...NOW, STAY TUNED FOR A SPECIAL PROGRAM ENTITLED: "NEW BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES IN THAILAND"..
JAKARTA NEWS SERVICE

For example, under the blanket of "national security" a trightening pattern of behavior had been in practice. Drug, bacterial, chemical and sexual experiments on unsuspecting American citizens were carried out which resulted in grave personal harm or deaths which were subsequently covered up. The Senate Committee to Study Governmental Operations revealed that on Nov. 27, 1953 Dr. Frank Olson fell from a tenth story window, due to having been given, without prior consent or knowledge, 70 micrograms of LSD. Dr. Robert Lashbrook, the CIA officer who killed Olson, was given CIA cover for his actions.

Similar experiments took place until 1963. In 1973, 19 of the 73 "Mkultra" records were destroyed by the Technical Service Division by the Director Richard Helm's orders. Many people are unaware that the CIA engages in massive spying on American citizens, contrary to their charter, in addition to participating in the disruption, blackmail, wiretapping and mail opening of legal citizens' groups throughout the USA. This is the agency that will be recruiting on campus Thursday and Friday.

Is wiretapping too tame for you to be concerned about? Consider the following thesis from Noam Chomsky's book, The Washington Connection and Third World Facism: There is a direct connection between CIA involvement in a country, increased multinational corporate presence there (the "favorable" business climate rakes super-profits sometimes totaling up to 10 times the level of investment) and a decrease in "human rights" meaning an increase in torture levels and repression. Repression and dictatorships are a necessary part of this process because the MNCs (mutinationals) need assurances of stability—workers must be kept at subsistance wage levels, political and union freedoms suspended, etc. The CIA coup that placed that Shah in power in 1953 is a good example of how MNC's benefit from CIA interventions. While millions of Iranians were impoverished, the Shah purchased 30 billion dollars in sophisticated weapons and allowed agribusiness to plunder a formerly self sufficient land (planting luxury export crops instead) until it was 90 percent dependent on imports for basic foodstuffs.

Along the same vein, is it surprising that today 80 percent of the most desperate cries for human rights come form Latin America, when you consider the number of U.S. backed military dictatorships there? Take into account also the 19 billion dollars of U.S. exports yearly to Latin America, and the rich resources and high profits that the corporations extract from there and you begin to understand for whom the CIA exists. It really is not difficult to prove, with a careful study of history as the rest of the world experiences it, that where the CIA nests you are likely to uncover the systematic use of torture.

The CIA is not simply an intelligence gathering operation. In the past people have ignored such accusations as the ravings of wild eyed radicals. But the proof to the contrary can be found with in our own government documents and the testimonies of ex-CIA and government workers. The Senate Select Interim Report of Nov. 20, 1975 outlined incredible CIA plots against foreign leaders. The first legitimate president of the Congo, Patrice Lumumbo, fell into the hands of CIA hencemen on Feb. 13, 1961 under "Operation Mongoose."

The CIA has tried to kill Castro 12 times since 1959. They succeeded in murdering the democratically elected president of Chile, Salvador Allende, installing in his place one of the world's bloodiest dictators. In Uruguay the CIA conducted one of their most "successful" operations under the despised agent Dan Mitrone, who was later killed by the Tupumaro guerillas. Mitrone supervised Uruguayan torture training sessions for hundreds of officers at a time. Other South American "security" forces were trained in torture at the International Police Academy in Washington, D.C., while others attended the InterAmerican Police Academy in Panama where their teachers assured them, "Some of the prisoners do not feel the pain" (Langguth, Hidden Terrors, 1978). One of every 500 people in Uruguay is a political prisoner and one fourth of the population has fled the country. That is a CIA "success." "Operation Phoenix" in Vietnam "neutralized" 30,000 Vietnamese women and children; U.S. trained SAVAK police in Iran mutilated or killed up to 100,000 civilians, to the fortune of the oil companies. Gulf Oil rewarded the CIA officer in charge of the 1953 coup, Kermut Roosevelt, with the vice-presidency of Gulf. But in the U.S., the Shah was known as the great "modernizer."

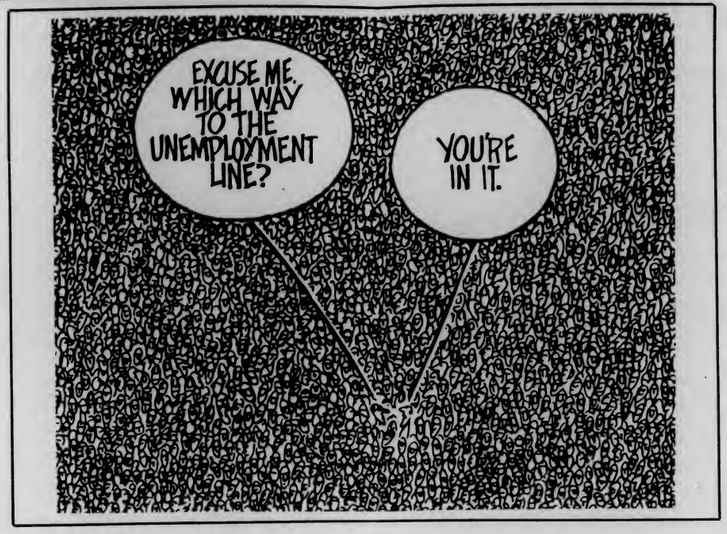
The case against CIA interventions abroad is a strong one. But lest we be fooled, we should realize that a government which actively promotes international, institutionalized terrorism abroad, of the CIA variety, is not and cannot be capable of drawing the lines of morality on the domestic front either. We have experienced hysterical, anti-Communist rallying during the 50's in this country; we watched the FBI and CIA conduct illegal activities against this country's strongest Black and progressive leaders in the 60's. We live daily with institutionalized terror when six NAZI/KLAN murderers can be aquitted of killing five demonstrators in North Carolina; when police violence against defenseless black youths goes uncharged; when 15 black children are murdered in one city alone; when near slave conditions exist for thousands of "undocumented" or migrant laborers in the Southwest.

The "Naming of Names" bill, H5615, was supposed to go before the House yesterday which would make it illegal to name past and present CIA and FBI agents, even if their names are already declassified information. This bill most likely will be postponed until the new Congress is seated, because some Senators want to add new conditions to the bill which will increase the penalty to treason.

The CIA is closer to home than you think and it's time to clean house. The CIA is not a harmless recruiting organization. It perpetuates oppression and racism throughout the world for the benefit of "national interest." Its presence violates every concern for justice, decency, and democracy that a university campus is supposed to represent. Would we allow the KKK or the Nazi's to recruit on our campus? Don't let our concerns for "academic freedom" and fundamental democracy lead us to sanction an organization like the CIA.

Laurie Kellogg is a member of the Ad Hoc Coalition Against the C.I.A.

Tony Crayton is director of the Office of Third World Affairs



Letters

Beached with the immoral minority

To the Editor:

Until recently it was my misfortune to have been an unwilling wasp in a hive of dogmatic droids. In all endeavors my "averageness" was astounding. My aspirations in life included a desire to replace Howard Sprague on the Andy Griffith Show or to be a nameless face on a Bayer Aspirin commercial.

My mediocrity was glaring in all but one area: political thought. In the sixties, when blacks were dumbing bloody mountains of injustice with little but ropes of righteousness, my heart bled. My chances for true acceptance into their midst was precluded, however, by my birch-white skin. In the seventies, when the women's movement was gaining respect and momentum I found that all of the sincerity and dedication in the world would not rid me of my "inherently lustful" penis. Again I found myself thrown back into the sickening security of social anonymity.

Such has been my non-history of minority affiliation. A hopeless and unfulfilling path until now. Now with the recession of the noisome and stagnant wave of electoral arch-conservatism I find myself beached, proudly distant from that mainstream of American voters. Yes, far from those people whose political inputs consist solely of that dual diety, NBC "News Nightline" and the good Rev. Greenbacks. Yes, far from the moral majority.

Thanks. I say this sincerely to all of you Orwellian proles. Without your help I may never have reached that zenith of my ambition: minority membership. But now I can continue to live the rest of my days (and I do count my life in days now) with true peace of mind. This peace is mine since I was left high on the beach of wisdom with the rest of the immoral minority.

Thomas Moylan
Amherst

Draft registration returns

To the Editor:

Less than two months from today all men born in 1962 will have to make a major decision concerning their future. Between Jan. 5 and Jan. 11, 1981, all men born in 1962 will be required to register for the draft. This includes everyone regardless of physical or mental disability, and also resident and illegal aliens. The only people who do not have to register are those men already enlisted in the military and on active duty. Beginning on Jan. 13, draft registration will become an ongoing process at which time men will be required to register within 30 days before or 30 days after their 18th birthday.

Many people are confused about draft registration and have many questions about it. The Amherst Draft Counseling Center exists for the purpose of providing up to date information on Selective Service regualtions, and counseling for young men, your families and other concerned members of the community. The Center does not advocate any particular position, or recommend any course of action. We feel our responsibility as draft counselors is to clarify the issues and explain the various options available to draft-age men, and the possible consequences of such actions. You are the only one who can, and must, make the final decision.

Some people may think that Reagan's election means there won't be a draft. What he has actually said is that he is against a peace-time draft. More importantly, however, many members of Congress have publicly come out in favor of a new draft, and the Pentagon will be putting increasing pressure on the other members to vote to reinstate the draft. Remember, every year since the end of the last draft (1973) there has been a bill introduced in Congress calling for reinstituting the draft. Each time bills have failed, but this coming year it may very well succeed.

The future of draft registration and the draft depends to a great extent on the Supreme Court. This summer a Federal Appeals Court ruled that registration for men only is unconstitutional based on sex discrimination. That decision has been appealed, by the Justice Dept. to the Supreme court, which is expected to hear the case sometime this spring. The final outcome may mean that women will be required to register.

Another factor affecting the future possibility of a draft has to do with you, as well as those men born in 1960 and 1961. This past summer approximately four million men were expected to register. The Boston Globe reported that 25 percent, (one million) failed to comply. The Selective Service claims the actual number of non-registrants to be 7 percent (about 280,000). This figure is still much higher than their original projection of 2 percent non-compliance. Whichever number is closer to the truth, it is clear that a significant portion of draft-age men have questioned the necessity of registration.

Your decision is an important one, and should not be taken lightly. Please, make an informed, deliberate choice this January. Talk to a counselor. The service is free and can only help. To get in touch with us call Skip at 256-6754, or Judy at 584-6406.

The Center also provides counseling for those men who were supposed to register this summer concerning their legal status, and we also counsel on conscientious objection and other deferments and exemptions.

Judy Weiss
Amherst Draft Counseling Center

Classroom control not absolute

To the Editor:

Exams are not fun. A lot of hard work goes into studying for them. Recently, I took an exam that I was unable to finish -- not because I did not know the information, but because the time limit was too short for the amount of material covered on the exam. After finishing the exam, I talked with other students in the course, and most of them were unable to finish, or had to rush excessively to finish. The professor would not allow the students to continue on after the period ended, even though most of the class was still writing.

A lot of students were well prepared for the exam, but were very upset to find that they had to turn in their exam unfinished. The scores were low, and the professor said that he would not scale the exam. I felt that this was unjust, so I went to the professor, and after an hour and a half of consultation, I emerged from his office out of breath, and with no change in the test score. Other students have been in the same situation, so our class was not the first to experience this problem.

What can be done about this?

First of all, the professor controls the course that he is teaching; therefore, he should be consulted first with any problems involving in the course. If a student approaches the professor to expalin that an exam was too long, and he speaks only for himself, the professor would probably not do anything about it, and he would attribute this to a time budgeting problem or the excessive slowness of the student. On the other hand, if a student speaks for a large percentage of the class, he would be in a better position to bring about a compromise. Having other students support what you are saying is important to get any results. By expressing your feelings as a group, you are letting the professor know you are dissatisfied with his teaching procedures.

If after consulting with the professor, he will not provide any compromise, a letter of grievance can be submitted to his department head. He will study the situation, and determine whether or not something should be done. If the department head rejects the letter of grievance, then it can be brought before the dean of the school. He then makes a decision on what should be done, and he usually has the final say in the matter; unless you pursue it even more, and bring it before the chancellor. If the professor was found at fault, the administration will not force the professor to change the exam, but will put a lot of pressure on him/her to resolve the situation.

The majority of the professors at the university are very nice people, and will help you in any way they possibly can. But there is always that one jerk who is on an ego trip. It sometimes seems that these professors will never realize how the students feel when confronted with their problems.

Richard Malloy
Amherst

The INDEX, 'it's all yours'

To the Editor:

Once again, the time has come for someone to speak up about the issue of student apathy at UMass. Daily complaints are heard throughout the campus concerning the various flaws in the UMass system that are an added expense to us. While many of these problems and injustices are out of any one person's immediate power to act upon directly, a good place for the average student to begin is at one of the RSO groups. These organizations are primarily run by students for students. If more of us lent support to the groups that exist solely for our benefit, the way of life at UMass would also improve.

One RSO group which has the effect of its student supporters published is INDEX, the UMass yearbook. It acts as a permanent record of all aspects of the University. Though characterized as a success, additional student support would make it even more so. By contributing to this publication, you are fighting the "computerized" image of UMass. This is one of the few things at this school that is "all yours." Make it good. Then there will be one less thing to complain about.

Betty Gwiazda
INDEX

Life of a Weekend Warrior

Chuck Duquette

On a recent trip to Fort Devens for a monthly maneuver with the National Guard, I became disillusioned with this once glorious organization that stopped the British at Concord and Lexington, held the British at bay in Boston, fought with Jackson at New Orleans, served with Grant at Appomatax, charged the Hills at San Juan, flew with the Lafeyette Escadrill in France, turned the tide against Hitler, manned the guns at ChuSan and served with the forgotten many in Vietnam.

This once-upon-a-time reserve component -- which is the backbone of American defense -- is a "farce in readiness." Tax dollars are spent on this so-called "defense farce" to keep America strong. But the only thing strong about the National Guard is what they drink when they go on their romps through the New England countryside. The leadership of the Guard is deplorable; the only chain of command that exists is the one the beer is passed from, the "top" to the "bottom."

On this particular weekend, my training started with a ride through the countryside of central Mass., which was nice at that time of year with the autumn colors about to peak.The jaunt down Route 2 culminated when the men -- also about ready to reach their peak -- disembarked from the troop carriers (2½ ton Tonka Trucks). The effect of the "canteen cocktails" and "tumbleweed" ingested on the trip down caused confusion when the rag-tag formation was called to attention.

Cover and concealment tactics were used to hide our condition from the brass. A class was given on the effects of a nuclear blast, which was received in a realistic setting the men could identify with since many were blasted themselves. Chow call followed this stimulating class.

We returned to the firing range. This weekend they gave us real guns and bullets, which made me nervous under the circumstances. Rifle qualification consisted of writing your own score legibly in the neatly-lined blocks. After such fun on the range, we were taken back to a historical setting (pre-WWI barracks) to clean our Mattel "That's swell" M-16's. After this trying duty, we were dismissed after turning in our weapons to Sgt. Pluto, our company gunsmith.

We had the run of this once fine military installation -- to coordinate our night time activities which consisted of canteen cocktails and tumbleweed drills in the latrine.

Sunday, after being awakened by a company of Hitler youth (ROTC cadets better known as The 4th Reich Officer Training Corps) who were running around in a state of organized confusion, we had brunch.

After this most satisfying meal, we were herded onto the trucks. We were beamed to training area 8-9 under the cover of sunlight. We were instructed to set up an ambush on a "tonka tank" column. After waiting three hours for the tonkas to appear, I decided to run through my bayonet drill. I found a volunteer from the ranks of the forest - Pvt. P. Cone. We held bayonet drill, as outlined by the manual, AM234-4567. Although Pvt. Cone did give a noble account, he succumbed under relentless butt strokes and slash attacks. Carried away with this demonstration of close combat tactics, my squad was surprised by the tonka tank column.

Without regard for personal safety, I leaped with bayonet in hand, facing the nearest oncoming tonka, screaming with a voice of authority: "Halt or die yankee dog," which paralized the lead driver with fear and doubt, as he ground the column to a halt. Under his breath he was heard to say, "What the $&*!$-- another sick pup."

Continued next month. With rumors of peace, will Capt. O lead his men on an assault of a Fort Devens discotheque? Is this fearless leader destined to mediocrity??

The voice of the people.

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor in Chief; FRANT S. HASHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY P. HANDIN, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 323-220

Writing a letter? READ THIS!

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Which beer tasted better?

An impossible question?

No. The answer is, the beer on the right tasted better. The suds are the tipoff. The head lacing the glass on the right has what brewers call "cling." Its tendency to cling to the glass tells you that the brewer didn't skimp on the hops. And that it tasted better.

Ever taste a beer with no "hop" to it?

Hops give a beer its zing. Too little hops leaves a beer lifeless. Too much hops makes a beer bite.

But choose a beer with the right proportion of hops to barley malt, and your beer will be lively and refreshing. Yet, still go down nice and smooth.

Does your beer have "cling?"

To check for "cling," you need a glass that's "beer clean." (Never used for milk or soft drinks, never washed in soap.*)

Pour your beer down the center of the glass to form a 3/4 inch head. See if it leaves rings of foam as you drink. But don't stop at the "cling" test. Make this a full-fledged taste test.

Note: "Beer-clean" glasses should be washed with detergent. Rinse several times in very hot water. Air dry only—never use a towel.*

Can you recognize your beer by the taste?

Probably just 1 beer drinker in 3 can pick his beer out of a group of three. You try. Pour your brand and two other leading beers—a Schlitz, Bud or a Miller—into identical glasses. Have a friend switch them around. As you drink each beer, not only check it for its "cling," but rate its taste characteristics from 1 to 10 on the flavor scale. Now comes the real test. Tell your friend which beer is yours.

Did your choice surprise you?

Something like 2 out of 3 beer drinkers don't pick their brand. And that surprises them. A lot of them pick Schlitz instead.

That doesn't surprise us. Two years ago a master brewer, Frank Sellinger, came to Schlitz. Today he is the Chief Executive Officer and today's Schlitz is the smoothest beer he's ever brewed. Taste it against yours. The results may surprise you.

The best beer is # _____

	Refreshing	Faintly sweet	Full bodied	Smooth	Mellow	Mild	Full flavored
10
9
8
7
6
5
4
3
2
1
	Flat	Too bitter	Watery	Biting	Too strong	Overly carbonated	Bland

Place beers' numbers on each scale from 1 to 10.

Beer #1 is _____

Beer #2 is _____

Beer #3 is _____

Schlitz®

Today's Schlitz. Go for it!

©1980 Jos Schlitz Brewing Company, Milwaukee, WI

Mundanes cover all subjects

Mundanes

"Make It The Same b/w "Funnier than Love" and "Empty Boulevards" (Portable Records)

By ROB HUFFMAN
Collegian Staff

Mundanes. Dumb name? Not really. After all, the subject matter of their songs ranges all the way from boys ("Small Town Suburban Boy") to girls ("Downtown Girls"). In between, they touch on college ("All Expenses Paid"), newspapers ("Newspapers") and rework classic tunes such as The Vogues' "Five

turn to page 15

★Financial aid

continued from page 1

The questions came in reference to a controversy that arose when Goldfarb cut the station's Hispanic radio program from six hours a week of air time to two hours.

While Koffler said that he thought that Goldfarb "did not handle the situation very well," he thought that Goldfarb was "tremendously good at his job."

"The vast majority of his listeners think he's great," added Koffler.

Koffler also said that he got the decrease in hours cut to four instead of two, and appointed Lillian Williford, Director of Continuing Education at the University, who is bi-lingual in Spanish, to serve as a liason between WFCR and the University. Also, Koffler said he extended Goldfarb's contract a half-year, as opposed to a year as a "compromise."

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly. more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures

Styles by Deborah I & II

65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610

62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

POSTERS Fall Clothing
Rugs Jewelry Gifts Bamboo Blinds
Great Gifts - Great Prices Daily 10 am - 6 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Part Time!

The Rusty Scupper is a joyful party all year round, but especially at Christmas time. There's a spirit in the air made for sharing with family and friends. This year celebrate your holiday Scupper style. With a Rusty Scupper Christmas party brimming with spirited beverages, fresh daily seafood specials, prime rib, a bountiful salad bar and more. Served by a merry Scupper staff who enjoy themselves almost as much as the guests. This Christmas for your office or family celebration, make it party time—Scupper style!

AMHERST: 529 Belchertown Road, one mile east of Amherst Center on Route 9
256-8551

Visa • MasterCard
American Express

The Rusty Scupper®
Outrageously good cocktails and supper

UPC PRODUCTIONS
Duke Ellington Committee

PRESENTS
A REGGAE DANCE
with
MONYAKA
AND Loose Caboose
DECEMBER 6, 1980
AT THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
$2.50 UMASS STUDENTS
$4.00 GENERAL PUBLIC
AVAILABLE AT
TIX, UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED,
AND FOR THE RECORD AT FACES
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

THOUSANDS OF COMPUTERS ARE GATHERING IN BOSTON.

The biggest Computer Show ever held in New England is ready to take place. Over $50 Million worth of software and hardware for business, industry, government, education, home and personal use will be featured in 100,000 square feet of display space.

Computers costing $150 to $250,000, including mini and micro computers, data and word processing equipment, telecommunications, office machines, electronic typewriters, peripheral equipment and services will all be on display and for sale (at special Show prices.)

All the major names like IBM, Wang, Burroughs, Qantel, DEC, Xerox, Nixdorf, Lanier, Radio Shack, Heathkit, Apple and Commodore Pet will be there, plus computerized video games, robots, computer art and computer music to entertain, enthrall and educate kids, spouses, and people who don't know a program from a memory disk.

Don't miss the Coming of the Computers — Show up for the Show. Admission $5 for adults - Children under 12 $2 when accompanied by an adult.

THE NORTHEAST COMPUTER SHOW

HYNES AUDITORIUM/PRUDENTIAL CENTER/BOSTON
Parking for 10,000 cars or take MBTA to Pru Center
THURSDAY – SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 20 – 23
11 A.M. – 8 P.M. Thurs.-Sat. • 11 A.M. – 6 P.M. Sun.

Produced by National Computers Shows, Inc. (617) 739-2000

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ART MAJORS

Portfolios & Art Work Photographed at reasonable prices - slides, prints, black & white or color - prices vary according to work GARY 665-3930 evenings

AUDIO

Onkyo TA630D cassette machine prime condition 275/BO 584-9382

Technics SA-700 100 watt receiver large walnut advents both still under warranty Larry 546-9561

AUTO FOR SALE

71 Chevrolet Impala runs great $450 or best offer 665-4175

1973 Audi 100LS new transmission, valves, clutch AM-FM stereo, sunroof. Call 549-4187

72 Toyota Cor deluxe-auto 30 mpg, exc. mech. cond. body perfect, newly painted; call 253-9752; after 7 545-2256 ask for Brook

BROWS

Hey Shloozan. . . you may not be Kim Hunter, but your brows give her a run for her money. Let's have kids anyway. . .we can have their unibrows surgically removed. And STAY OFF THE TELEPHONE. Let's go "Browsing" some time.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

Springsteen Tickets for sale. Boston Dec 15 good seats 546-7979

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

CUSTOM SILKSCREENING

Sweatshirts, Nightshirts, Jumpers and Shorts All these can be ordered with a handprinted silkscreen design from the ZooMass table on the Campus Center Concourse Thursdays and Fridays

DISC JOCKEYS

Most Professional DJ's On Campus BOSE Quality Sound Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

PA system mics echo Rhodes electric piano ideal for bands coffeehouses Loud Partys Jim 546-7517

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

Musicians/Singers wanted for X-mas party Contact Erin at Amherst Senior Center 253-9351

G.H. goes down at the Drake The whole week in one sitting. Don't miss it. Downstairs at the Drake Sundays 7-12

FOR RENT

Own rm 1 mi to campus 122 inc. 256-6344 call any time

Own Bedroom in two bedroom Rolling Green apt starting Jan or Feb 1 147.50 inclusive call 253-5986 after 10PM

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Ski Boots size 10½ beg-int year old good cond 6-7009

Fretless Bass, Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

Guitar—Yamaha 6 string for sale. Excellent condition, great sound, and only 130.00 call Bill 256-8573

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

1976 Datsun F-10 wagon front wheel drive, 37 mpg, 77,000Mi excellent mechanical condition, best offer call 538-2536

Epiphone Guitar 6 string acoustic excellent condition $125.00 or BO 546-9474

Springsteen Tickets for Boston Garden Dec 16 show call 546-6131 or 546-6124

Applause Guitar w-case Reproduction of an ovation; Sunburst Pattern; good condition $100 545-2783/253-3755 ask for V. Keller

Springsteen Tickets December 12 Hartford good seats best offer over $40 542-3010

Need to type your term paper? Electric typewriter $40 665-4602 Frank

Hanson Citation Ski Boots size 9 excellent condition 80.00 6-4154 Steve

Womens Timberland High Boots Like new. Size 9 $60 call Deb 253-9744

Skis Remy 190 cm downhill Tyrolia bndgs poles incl $100 or BO 6-5679 eves

Hammocks for sale hand woven from Mexico all colors great for dorm $29.95 421 Patterson 546-1460

FOUND

Found room key in park lot near Worcester DC 11/1 call after 6 pm 6-4439

On New York Art Bus 11/8 1 hat, 1 book call Wendy 549-1005

Set of keys near Poor Richard's one is a dorm key call 253-9775

Craftsman Toolbox on North Pleasant St in early October is now at Amherst Police Station

Found small calico kitten outside Worcester DC 11/17/80 call 546-4996

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Administrative Assistant Distinguished Teaching Awards Committee. Work-study, $4.50/hour, 10+ hrs/wk. Duties: Attending meetings, Minutes, Collecting & Organizing nominees files. Excellent typing & clerical, Organization, Responsibility, Initiative essential. Send resume or call GRADUATE SENATE, 919 C.C., 545-2896

HOT DATES

The Hot Dates are the hottest! Catch 'em this Saturday night at the Hatch!

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

2 LEATHER JACKETS

Small, good condition reasonable price call Bill at 5-2708, during working hours

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

Brown boots in bag in Campus Center reward call Martha 546-5157

Levi Jacket and Beige Coat taken from Hatch 11/14 please return to Information Desk CC

Kobold Umbrella red, beige, blue geometric design call Amelia 546-9981

Blue Beret lost last week Pin has sentimental value Reward for return call 6-1172

Springer Spaniel female missing in the Puffton Village area since Sat please call 549-6238

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing. . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

Casablanca: Thursday, November 20 @ 7, 9, & 11 at CCA. Sponsored by the Undergraduate Business Club Admission $1

We're counting on you to be there tonite 11/20 West Side Story, Mahar Aud 5, 8, 11 only $1.50

In Memory of Ray Heve a Great Dey The Cabin

Free Kitten 4 mo old 549-5389

Washington Lower Inagural Party Don't miss it!!!

Monty Python's "And Now for Something Completely Different" playing Nov 22 CCA 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Versatile New Wave Rock Band The Hit Squad - Greta Party Music available for bookings Mary 538-3575

Scott (1st workman) saw you in On the Town, Saturday, thought you were SUPER! An Admirer

Need information about Sonoma State U If your on exchange or studied there please contact Suzanne after 5 256-8784

Cetics Trip vs NJ Nets Tues Dec 9 good seat beer transportation $30 call Bill 253-5571 or Larry 256-6815

Beware Chinese Youth Brigade Big Bobby Bear will have his revenge!

Sara—sat night was great you made me a man call 6-6982 Rich

Deffy Broad—words can'r describe what you mean to me and all that other bullshit. Actually I would like to say Happy Birthday. By the way I sent a sheep in the mail. Use it at your own discretion. R & R accountant

Sally—Thirty pounds of natural orgasmic cookies! We're exhausted! Thanks—Tim Mike Ron

All Welcome Newmen Thenksgiving Social Sat Nov 22 9:00 p.m. front lounge

35: Looking forward to another orgy. Next time we'll scour the shower. Love love and sex, Chichettes

Springsteen Tix for sale Prov Dec 11 253-7351

See Wizerds tommorrow night Engineering Easr Auditorium 7, 9, 11

Knowlton Coffeehouse Sunday November 23 8:00 PM refreshments sold everyone welcome

RIDE WANTED

Want Ride to Weshington DC Nov 26 546-7910 will share expenses

Ride needed to Manchester N.H. or area Thanksgiving 546-4875 will share expenses

ROAD-RATED CAR STEREO

Never-used new CRAIGT618; precision power loading, auto-reverse, stereo/mute/local/distance buttons, locking fast-forward/rewind, separate balance/fader, Bass/treble, AM/FM, cassette player/trans-rib, 5¼ 50W 11oz. FlushMount Speakers. Retail $300.00 for sale $210.00 call 256-8981 Todd

ROOM WANTED

Male senior seeks own room in Puffton or apartment near town for Spring semester will move in December 1st to Febuary 1st. Call 253-8097 eves Peter

Female nonsmoker seeks room on bus route Spring semester presently exchange California call Jackie collect 916-895-5540

2 Responsible friendly females seek rooms in apt on bus rt Spring semester Beth Teri 546-6004

Friendly, responsible female wants own room in apt. near bus call Julie 546-4490

Female seeking own room in apt or house on bus rte Spring semester 546-8088

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! 3 women seeking 2 to 3 bedroom apartment on bus route from January on. PLEASE call Mary or Pam at 546-1134 or Joanne at 546-1278 THANK YOU!

Female needs room Jan 1 apt or house on bus rt call Betsy 253-5435

Room wanted in house or apartment with engineering or scie nce student(s) Prefer near campus, quiet atmosphere call Vince 256-6235 late eves

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Female roommate share room in Brandywine from 010181 call evenings 549-5951

Roommate wented own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326

nites

Non-smokers for spacious home bus route ¾ mi UMass $150/mo including utilities 323-4888 Larry 4:30 pm - 12 mid

Available immediately one room in Puffton triple $122/mo older male nonsmoking student preferred 549-5877 or 665-4273 keep trying

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Jewish students starting a "Bayit" to explore ways of Jewish living for Spring Semester. Please call Hillel 9-5 M-F 545-2526

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

THE KILLING GROUND: A FORUM

Come to a forum on hezardous waste featuring the film "The Killing Ground" followed by a panel of speakers Thurs Nov 20th at 6:45 in SBA 120

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

One bedroom to sublet over intersession 256 6719 for further information/details

Male wnated to sublet room in nice economical apt 253-7158 Andy

Sublet wanted responsible couple seeking 1 bedroom apt over intersession call 546-8207 late eve

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollers paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Boerd of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Tutor needed immediately Public Health Statistics 540 call after 8 PM 253-7665

Get the most cash for your gold, silver and classrings shop around then come and see us last! We're on campus in OH call Sue or Bob 546-6607

50% consignment for seasonal, ready to wear clothing. Once More With Feeling Carriage Shops 549-3772

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Wanted: 3 bedroom apartment/house in Amherst on bus route January 1 call 6-6035 or 6-5894

Apt needed Jan 1 2 bedrooms Amherst only eves 253-5673

Two females looking for off campus housing for Spring semester on bus route call 253-5751

Looking for living space Spring semester Prefer house situation have real neat dog that must come too Cindy 617-443-9417 Box 222 Sudbury, Ma 01776

I can't go back to England during intersession. Need an apartment near campus Call 546-1484

Room wanted for Spring semester must be quiet small near bus line or university 546-8786 keep trying

Desperately looking for 2-bdrm apt rel. near campus to sublet starting in january Please call 546-5184 or 546-8382

Four quiet students seeking house or apartment spring semester call Joann 6-4482

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MR. KISSINGER, MANY OF MR. REAGAN'S CONSERVATIVE SUPPORTERS FEEL THAT YOU SHOULD BE DENIED A POST BECAUSE YOU'VE BEEN SOFT ON COMMUNISM. ANY COMMENT?
OBVIOUSLY, THAT IS PATENTLY ABSURD. FOR FOUR YEARS, I DIRECTED THE MOST SAVAGE BOMBINGS IN HISTORY TO KEEP SOUTHEAST ASIA FROM GOING COMMUNIST.
THE DEVASTATION OF CAMBODIA ALONE WAS A MILESTONE IN THE STRUGGLE TO CONTAIN SOVIET AGGRESSION.
THEN WHY DID YOU TRY SO HARD TO CONCEAL IT, SIR?
MODESTY. MOSTLY.
BUT WASN'T THAT A LITTLE UNFAIR TO YOUR FANS, SIR?
GB Trudeau

Under the Influence M. Joyce

GOD DAMN! WHAT DOES A WOMAN LIKE HER SEE IN A TOAD LIKE HIM?
I MEAN, I'M NOT THE GREATEST LOOKING GUY AROUND, BUT I COULD SURE BEAT THAT GEEK'S TIME!
GARÇON! TWO DRAFTS!
OH WOW!
11/20 M Joyce

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

POLITICIANS NOWADAYS, I THINK TOO MANY OF 'EM ARE FULL OF SHIT...
THINKING THAT WASHINGTON D.C. IS THE PLACE TO HAVE POWER, I THINK IT'S A PIT
AND Y'KNOW IF MOST OF 'EM HAD THEIR HEADS LOOKED AT BY A SHRINK, HE'D SAY THEY WERE INSANE
BUT MOST OF US CAN ALREADY TELL, BY THE WAY THOSE POLITICIANS MAKE THE SAME MISTAKES, OVER AND OVER, AND AGAIN strum...

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Wounds
6 Scour
11 Stroke
14 Yarns
15 Fruit
16 Large bird
17 Exiled
19 Put on 20 Vapor
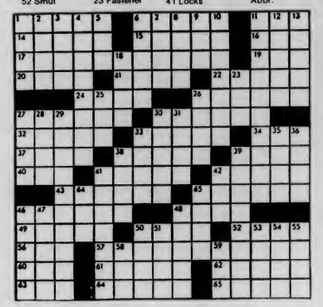
21 Girl's name
22 Aida, e.g.
24 Ravish
26 Semblances
27 Lampoon
30 Dash
32 Spoor
33 Clear
34 Johnny —
37 Chills and fever
38 Pituitary e.g.
39 Aircraft: Inf.
40 Outdo
41 Across: Prefix
42 Tumbler
43 Wandering
45 Titans
46 Permeated
48 Matrix
49 A.M.s
50 Chief
52 Smut
56 Int. Lab. Org.
57 Dragon killer: 2 words
60 Bird
61 Miscue
62 Wee
63 Sea eagle
64 Tableau
64 W. Indies volcano

DOWN
1 Plant part
2 Cab
3 High mountains
4 Nebraska city
5 Fast plane: Abbr.
6 Tower
7 Stuff
8 Herb genus
9 French pronoun
10 Desert nomad
11 Walker
12 Love in Genoa
13 Fish
18 Pickable
23 Fastener
25 Clumsy boat
26 Network
27 Instrument: Suffix
28 Jason's ship
29 Color: 2 words
30 Angle
31 Ridicules
33 Scheme
35 Formerly
36 Supervisor
38 Alumnus
39 Cheerful
41 Locks
42 "— Bias"
44 Trot
45 Bell
46 Chemical compound
47 Tooth
48 Bevel
50 Muck
51 Shortly
53 Verbal
54 Leer
55 Far: Prefix
58 Rainbow
59 Sixth sense: Abbr.

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

R	E	A	L		I	C	E	D		C	L	A
T	A	R	E		R	A	N	D		F	O	R
F	O	U	N	D	E	R		V	E	R	S	E
I	T	S		G	A	M	E		R	U	D	E
			C	I	N	E		A	M	I
S	C	O	R	E		U	N	I	T	A	T	E
T	A	T	E		A	N	I		E	L	I	D
A	L	E		E	R	I	N	M	E	D		G	U	M
I	N	E	E	T		O	S	E		P	A	C	E
R	I	D	E		E	M	I	T		A	R	E	A
			V	I	A		A	P	U	R	E
A	S	T	E	R	O	I	D		A	L	I	A	S
S	I	R		O	P	E		A	L	T	A	R	S
O	R	A	L		E	M	M	E	T		E	D	A
P	U	G	S		M	I	A	M	I		D	E	S



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Hamburg on Roll
Quiche Lorraine

BASICS LUNCH
Oatburgers
Quiche Lorraine

DINNER
Simmered Corned Beef/Horseradish,
Steamed Cabbage
Chicken Cutlet/Supreme Sauce,
Cranberry Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Manicotti with Sauce
Chicken Cutlet/Supreme Sauce,
Cranberry Sauce

Club Listings

Barselotti's, North Pleasant St., Amherst—Drinks served daily.

Carbur's, Elmwood Shops, Rte. 9. Hadley—Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 4-6 p.m., 9-11. Double drinks and cheese and crackers during all Happy Hours and chicken wings daily 4-6.

The Hatch, Student Union, UMass—Happy Hour Mon.-Sat. 3-6 p.m.; Rock 'n' Reggae disco every Tues. with Jim McDee of WMUA; Crazy George's and 60's rock and trivia every Fri.; Nov. 20, Ed Morgan, one man rock and roll show, free; Nov. 20, Image, $2; Nov. 22, The Mundanes, $2.

Hungry-U, 55 University Dr., Amherst—Thurs. nights 5-midnight, pitchers of beer half price with pruchase of large pizza.

Mike's Westview Cafe, Sunderland Rd., Amherst—Thurs. is Penny Nite, every third drink; Fri., smorgasbord; Happy Hour every day 4-6 p.m.

The Pub, 15 East Plealsant St., Amherst—Tues. 2 for 1 nite; Wed. Pub Mug Nite w/Jim Plunkett; Fri. & Sat., disco; Sun., oldies.

Poor Richard's, 10 Belchertown Rd., Amherst—Disco, drinks nightly. Tues. 25 cent drafts; Wed., 50 cent drinks; Thurs. Beat the Clock prices; Fri & Sat., Happy Hours, 8-10 p.m.

QR, Rte. 9, Hadley—Nov. 21, Martian Highway, cover charge; Nov. 22, N.Y. Style Disco, cover charge.

Rusty Nail, Rte. 47, Sunderland—Nov. 20 & 21, Loose Caboose, $2; Nov. 22, Widespread Depression, $4, $3 with college i.d.; Nov. 23, Night Bear, no cover, 2 for 1 nite.

Sheehan's Cafe, 24 Pleasant St., Northampton—Nov. 20, Greenwich Three, 50's and 60's Du-Wop; Nov. 21, 2 for 1 Happy Hour with W-Be-Bop, DJ, 50's & 60's music; Nov. 25, Lynne Meryl Trio; Nov. 26, Roger Salloom, storyteller.

Spirit Haus

The full-line liquor store that's close - and has convenient free parking.

WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE
THAT HELP KEEP ENTERTAINING AFFORDABLE!

Largest selection of wines in Amherst - and a friendly, knowledgeable sales staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street (rte 9 East) Amherst
Open till 11 p.m. Telephone 253-5384

FRESH SEA FOODS
MASSE'S
FISH MARKET, INC.

Haddock FRESH FISH Steamers

Scrod, Salmon, Sword Fish, Sole, Clams, Lobsters,

MARKET HOURS: Tues. 1 PM-4:30 PM; Wed. 9 AM-6 PM; Thurs. 9 AM-6 PM; Fri. 9 AM-7 PM; Sat. 9 AM-4:30 PM;

FRIED FISH, SCALLOPS, CLAMS sold during the following hours:
Wed. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Thurs. 10 AM-5:30 PM; Fri. 10 AM-6:30 PM; Sat. 10 AM-2 PM

High Protein, All Natural

170 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

CHECK THESE PRICES

Busch ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Miller ..... 12 oz N/R's/7.99
Molson's ..... 2.99 six/10.99 case

WINE

Donelli Lambrusco... 1.99/750 ml 3.99/1.5 liter
Le Domaine Rose, Chablis, Rhine..... 2.99/1.5 liter
Liebfraumilch..... 1.99/20 oz.
Tosca Soave, Valpolicella..... 3.59/68 oz

ALL BEER AND WINE SPECIALS ARE COLD

NOT JUST A DISCO DANCE

REGGAE
NEW WAVE
DISCO
FUNK
ROCK

MUZIK
LIGHT BY BOB DWELLEY

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21 UMASS 9:00 pm
CAMPUS CENTER 10th FLOOR $1.50

WHAT ARE YOUR WORDS WORTH?

Your reports, manuscripts, letters and resumes; your thesis or dissertation—in whatever form, in almost any language—your words are worth the scrupulous, professional attention of Words-worth.

- Double spaced text from $.95 a page.
- Justified resumes from $3.50 a page.
- Telephone dictation line.
- Overnight rush jobs.

WORDS-WORTH

High quality computerized typing at an amazingly affordable price. Your words are worth it.

37 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
(413) 549-1303

SPECTRUM

announces an Evening of Poetry & Prose
6:00 - 7:30 p.m.
(with a reception afterwards in the Spectrum office)
Thursday, Nov. 20
Memorial Hall
Alumni Building
Refreshments Served

extended deadline - Dec 5 for magazine submission

Why Frye?

FRYE

No one has been able to duplicate our unique Frye look. Whether it's our exclusive Classic, Western, or Casual boots, Frye has a style to fit your lifestyle. It's part of what makes Frye boots impossible to duplicate. And quality is another reason they cannot be duplicated. Frye boots are benchcrafted by skilled hands, not rolled off an assembly line. So while our styles may change, our quality and craftsmanship will always remain the same. The best.

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon - Sat
Open Fridays til 8
253-5136

IF YOU'VE EVER TAKEN A COURSE PASS/FAIL, CONSIDER THIS:

The Faculty Senate is presently considering a proposal which if passed will require students taking courses with the Pass/Fail option to obtain a grade of 'C' or better in order to pass the course.

NOW ACT:

The student task force to keep the Pass/Fail option needs people to actively oppose this proposal. We're meeting to coordinate our efforts.

ON MONDAY, NOV. 24, AT 7:00 P.M. IN CC RM 904

For more information call:
545-0341
ask for Rich Moran

PASS/FAIL: KEEP IT AN OPTION

NEXT SEMESTER
BREAK TO THE ROCKIES

A semester of intensive, backcountry education at the nation's foremost wilderness training center THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL
Earn college credit while learning a broad spectrum of wilderness skills. The NOLS Semester in the Rockies offers a 3½ month program of wilderness training ideal for students in the sciences, environmental studies, recreation — or anyone looking for an exciting alternative to the standard desk-and-laboratory semester in college.
The NOLS Semester program includes four intensive expeditions: ski touring in the winter backcountry of Wyoming, backpacking through the deserts and prairie of Utah, a speleology course in the remarkable Wind Caves of South Dakota, and a climbing camp which begins with the basics and works up to advanced rescue techniques.
This rich educational and wilderness experience is open to men and women 17 years and older. Twenty quarter hours of credit are available through the University of Utah, or through arrangements made on your own campus. Over 150 colleges and universities have recognized the NOLS training program as an important academic field experience.

SPRING SEMESTER IN THE ROCKIES
20 quarter hours of credit optional Expedition Cost $2,550
February 9 May 15
February 12 May 18
March 9 June 12
For more information write: NOLS SEMESTER PROGRAM
P.O. Box AA Lander, Wyoming 82520 or call (307) 332-4381

Woody Woodward looks over a table full of ski boots at the UMass Ski Club's "Great Ski Snatch," being held until November 22 at the SUB. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

★Mundanes

continued from page 11

O'clock World" and Billy Joe Royal's "Down in the Boondocks."

Portable Records has just released the first single by this Boston/Providence based band. The three songs on this 45 are all relatively new among their many originals, though the arrangements are well thought out and concise. Consistent with their evolving live sound, synthesizer hooks are prominent in the tunes on this record. "Make It The Same" is a catchy showcase for singer Marsha Armitage's vocals, as is the other side's "Empty Boulevards." "Funnier Than Love," lyrically the strongest cut, has songwriter/guitarist John Andrews on lead vocals singing in a style not unlike Joe Jackson's or Elvis Costello's.

Unfortunately, this disc doesn't find room for keyboard player/ex-UMass student John Linnell's dangerous sax playing. But the recording quality is exceptionally fine owing to their utilization of Carlisle's subterranean Blue Jay recording studios (also used recently by Aerosmith, Pat Metheny, and Broken English).

All in all, the Mundanes vinyl debut is danceable, singable, and enjoyable power pop.

Mundanes will play the Hatch this Saturday night, with special guests Hot Dates. Cover charge is $2.00.

★Live Wire

continued from page 7

bucks. At Stage West tonight will be the "Rock and Roll Hootchie Coo" of Rick Derringer and tomorrow night a "whole lotta shakin'" with 50's rocker Jerry Lee Lewis. Finally, at Rahar's both Saturday and Sunday, the all-female new wave band, Ina Ray...Later!

Sports notices

NEW OFFERING FOR SPRING - RHETORIC 110J (WRITING ABOUT SPORTS) -

WRITING ABOUT SPORTS will be offered for the first time this Spring. It will combine an inquiry into emerging issues in American sports with extensive practice and instruction in expository writing techniques. Register today and you'll spend next semester talking and writing about the most provocative issues in American sports. (See p. 57 of the Official Schedule of Courses for scheduling information.)

FOR ADDITIONAL INFO. CONTACT Rob Denson 584-1798

Rabbit Hunters: The Wildlife Society is collecting cottontail heads for Massachusetts Fish and Wildlife study. Please turn heads into Fred Greely (Room 324, Holdsworth Hall), or call Chris Ricardi 256-8058.

The FORFEIT FEE CHECKS for intramural touch football are ready to be picked up in the IM office. Please have your receipt with you.

HANG GLIDING CLUB MEETING Wednesday Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 903. All new members welcome. Club Christmas party to be discussed.

HOCKEY GOALIE NEEDED The General Physical Education Program Ice Hockey class needs a goalie. Anyone interested please call the office at 545-2338 or drop by Boyden 224 as soon as possible. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday at 8 a.m. at Orr Rink.

The UMass Sport Parachute Club will be holding its LAST First Jump Course for this season on Thur., Nov. 20, p.m. in Campus Center Rm. 902. Bring your I.D. and $75. This the last chance to try Skydiving at UMass until the Spring. C'mon down.

The club will be having a combined General Club Meeting and party at Russ's House (25 Nutting Ave.) on Sat., Nov 22, at 8 p.m. Munchies, slides, BYOB. Discussions will include student training, jumping in Florida, and votng on overall club issues. For further info call Russ, 549-1455.

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

Buy Your EURAILPASS NOW
Avoid Jan 1st
PRICE INCREASE

CAMPUS CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MA 01003 413-545-0500

All Are Welcome at the Newman Thanksgiving Social Saturday, November 22nd
9:00 PM

RESUME

NAME: Paper House
ADDRESS: 65 University Drive, Amherst (next to Bell's Pizza)
PHONE: 549-5656
OBJECTIVE: We will print the best resume for you on the best paper (w/matching paper and anvelopes.)
EXPERIENCE: We produce hundreds of high quality resumes that get jobs.
OTHER INTERESTS: Typing, graphics, copies (1 to 10,000 or more) of newsletters, posters, etc., notebooks, chartpak, and a tremendous paper selection.

amc THEATRES

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS INCLUDED TWI-LITE SHOW $1.75 TWI-LITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7566 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
CHARLES BRONSON BORDERLINE PG (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
Silent Scream R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
Movie and dinner $5.50 Have your choice of 5 different meals in the Pewter Pot Rest in The Hampshire Mall and see one of the 8 movies in this ad (Mon-Thur only).
Free Shoppers Show Thurs Nov 20 at 1:00 PM "Hanover Street" starring Harrison Ford PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
GENA ROWLANDS Gloria PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
JILL CLAYBURGH It's My Turn R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar

Thursday Nov. 20th
ED MORGAN
A One Man Rock & Roll Show
FREE

Friday, Nov. 21st
IMAGE
Original Rock & Brilliant Covers with Mona
$2.00 cover charge

Saturday, Nov. 22nd
MUNDANES
with Hot Dates
Listen for their single on WMUA 91.1 FM
Original New Wave Rock
$2.00 Cover Charge
In association with UPC productions

Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Photographic Posters
Classics by the Great Photographers of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries
Open Tues-Sat 10-5:30
Pratt Gallery 37 So. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002

The Great Ski Snatch
SUB SKI CLUB STILL PLENTY OF BARGAINS
Sat 10 AM til 5 PM
TODAY and TOMMORROW NOON til 10 PM

Sports

A capsuled look at the Eastern Eight

Rutgers

Returning lettermen: 11
Style: set up, take their time, look for open shot
Strengths: have four of last year's five starters back, including Kelvin Troy who averaged 18.9 points, 8.3 rebounds per game last year. Forward Kevin Black runs the team like a guard. Put it this way: the only person they lost from last year was Daryl Strickland, who was the last cut of the Washington Bullets.
Weaknesses: yeah, sure.
Added notes: managed to land Clarence Tillman, one of the most highly-sought-after-schoolboys of last year. Shouldn't have much trouble with anyone, except Pitt.
Coach Tom Young: "This is the first year we ever named our starting five before we went out to practice. We'll get a lot of minutes from our starting five. As for back-ups, Tillman is the best shooter we ever had. I mean that. And, you know what Kelvin (Troy) can do. Roy Hinson, our center, is not as spectacular as James Bailey (who graduated), but he'll be as productive in the four years we'll have him."
Team song: "We Are the Champions"—Queen
Probable finish: first

Pittsburgh

Returning lettermen: 11
Style: run a bit, set up a bit, get the ball to Clancy
Strengths: Sam Clancy returns as the most intimidating player in the league, who averaged 11.1 rebounds per game last year. A lot of quickness, with Carlton Neverson providing leadership in the backcourt.
Weaknesses: they have a first-year coach in Roy Chimpman.
Teams's going through an adjustment period. Couid find themselves relying on Clancy just a bit too much. Need balanced scoring.
Added notes: if Chimpman goes through with his plan to move Clancy out of center spot into a forward position, he unleashes a new Pitt offensive weapon: a 6'6" monster who lead the league in rebounding, now covered by forwards.
Coach Roy Chimpman: "I bring a different philosophy to Pittsburgh. So this is definitely a readjustment period for us. The key for us is at the center spot. We've decided that Sam won't play at center; he isn't natural there. We're going to put (6'1") Ed Scheuermann there and hope he stays healthy. Other than that, I can say that we're a quick team. We'll beat you to the ball."
Team song: "Sam"—Olivia Newton-John
Probable finish: second

St. Bonaventure

Returning lettermen: 7
Style: runners, who'll pull up and shoot, especially no. 25, who is...
Strengths: Earl Belcher. Enough said. Player of the year in the Eastern 8, returns with a 26.9 points-per-game average. The whole team is quick. Behind Belcher stands sophomore guard Mark Jones, who runs the team and will score 12-15 pOints for you.
Weaknesses: Naturally enough, a tendency to rely on Mr. Belcher, night after night. If he's cold, the team loses. If he's hot, it's hard for anyone to stop him. But, beyond him and Jones the team has little depth, no credible size.
Coach Jim Satalin: "We have great quickness, and we can shoot. But, if there's an injury or foul trouble—especially to Earl (Belcher)—we're dead. Aside from Earl and Mark Jones, we have little depth and that could hurt us. Especially in this league."
Team song: "Belchertown Blues"—UMass Marching Band
Probable finish: third

Rhode Island

Returning lettermen: 9
Style: set up, get the ball down to Wright or Houston low
Strengths: decent size up front (6'7", 6'8", 6'6") with senior forward Jimmy Wright, center Roland Houston and Gilson DeJesus. Wright is one of the best in New England, averaged 15 points and nine rebounds last year. Houston is skinny but will burger you.
Weaknesses: Ballhandling. Outside of Kevin Whiting at guard, not a lot of talent in the backcourt. Have to get the ball to the big men and hope they shoot, not put the ball down. Also, first year in the league. Outside of Mass. and St. Bonnie, don't really know anyone.
Coach Jack Kraft: "It's our first year in this league, and we don't really know most of the league. I'm pleased with practice, but our execution has to improve. One day we look like we can play in the NBA, then the next we couldn't beat the Sisters of the Poor."
Team Song: "New Kid in Town"—Eagles
Probable finish: fourth

Duquesne

Returning lettermen: 7
Style: Run and shoot—a lot. Lousy defense necessitates a bunch of points.
Strengths: Have 1980 Eastern 8 Coach of the Year in Mike Rice. He can motivate. Very, very quick team. Best player is 6'7" forward Bruce Atkins, who'll score 10 points and player D. John Moore, who was a medical red-shirt last year, is back and reportedly healthy. He can score.
Weaknesses: lost bulk of their scoring when flashy B.B. Flenory and Doug Arnold flunked out. A small team, with a lot of question marks, especially at guard, which is almost entirely comprised of freshmen and sophomores. The defense was last in the league last year—no where to go but up, but it won't.
Coach Mike Rice: "A lot depends on Moore, and he's progressing well. Our first team hasn't beaten our second team in practice yet, so we'll be in a learning experience early in the season. We'll find-out early where we stand. This is a more pleasant team to coach, but that doesn't mean we'll win a lot of games, now does it?"
Team song: "Where Are All My Friends?"—Harold Melvin and the Bluenotes
Probable finish—fifth

George Washington

Returning lettermen: 8
Style: they run, and Coach Bob Tallent suggests a new twist, but won't tell anybody
Strengths: They've got a bunch of guys back, including Curtis Jeffries. Jeffries could be one of the best, if not the best, overall guards in the league.
Weaknesses: Problem is, Jeffries is just about everything to the Colonials. Graduation took everything. Jeffries is now the team leader in every category. The team is small and young (five sophomores, three freshmen). They'll find it hard to run every night.
Coach Bob Tallent: "We have five or six good players, who just happen to be small. We might start a 6'7" center (Nip Rogers or Dan Sullivan) and two 6'1" guards (Jeffries and Randy Davis). Obviously, we've been working a lot on blocking out and rebounding. We'll play a different style than in the past, but I'd rather not go into it."
Team song: Chopin, Fifth Concerto in G (rich snobe)
Probable finish: sixth

West Virginia

Returning lettermen: 7
Style: slow down, set up, get the ball low
Strengths: Fine scorer and rebounder in 6'8" forward Greg Nance, who averaged nearly 13 points and seven rebounds per game last year. They have their whole front court back, with 6'7" Russell Todd and 6'9" Phil Collins to go along with Nance. Led the league in rebounding last year, probably this year too, with great size. Have two 6'8", two 6'10" and one 6'11".
Weaknesses: Although their forwards are big, they shoot NBA shots (Nothing But Air). Field goal percentage could be worst in league. Have no backcourt to speak of. Greg Jones returns as best guard. He averaged four points a game last year.
Coach Gale Catlett: "We're a young, large team. In fact, we're a very large team—I don't know what that means. But we've got nine sophomores and freshmen, and I know what that means. We have our frontcourt back, but we have a backcourt problem. We haven't looked too good at guard, and I don't see much help on the way. I just hope our front line can hold us together for the first eight-to-ten games."
Team song: "Stand Tall"—Burton Cummings
Probable finish: seventh or eighth

Massachusetts

Returning lettermen: 3
Style: run, and put pressure on both ends of court
Strengths: Have a bunch of young kids who can run with anyone in the league. They'll have some depth in the backcourt, but it is all unproven depth. Ballhandling has improved immensely.
Weaknesses: Inexperience and size. It goes without saying when you have three lettermen back, and you lose 58 points of your average-points-per-game, you're hurting. Little depth in the frontcourt; an injury could hurt badly.
Added notes: A lot depends on center Jim Mosier. If he can take bulk of rebounds and play both ways, pressure is taken off forwards like Edwin Green and Dan Wright.
Coach Ray Wilson: "This team has got to be a bunch of over-achievers. They've got the mental make-up to do it, but we'll have to see. Our ballhandling has improved a lot. We've got just four players 6'6" or better, so size is a problem. An injury could hurt us. And Mosier has got to work, really work."
Team song' Can't Stand Losing''—The Police
Probable finish: seventh or eighth

Compiled by KEVIN CULLEN

Spikers at New Haven for Easterns tonight

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

It was at the UMass Tournament last October. That tourney (i.e. madhouse) had just ended, and several members of the women's volleyball team had remained to strip away the tape just used for marking the many court boundaries within Boyden Gym.

Among those who stayed was senior co-captain Peggy Barber. As she yanked the tape off the floor, she talked to this reporter about the third place finish her team had earned.

"We beat Rhode Island for the first time, almost beat Delaware and beat Cortland State twice," she said, "this team's so different from two years ago."

Barber played on a team that not only didn't play a schedule like the one this season (52 matches, 10 tournaments), but that team lost to Boston College (a Division Three school) in the Mass. State Championships.

Two years and one season later, Barber and UMass will not play in the Championships, though it's the defending champion.

Instead, the Minutewomen will travel to Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven to take part in the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Regional Championships. They are the fifth seed in a list that features some familiar faces from the season: University of Delaware. Southern, the University of New Haven and Cortland State University.

In this, its first Easterns ever, UMass plays New Haven tonight, Delaware tomorrow morning at 9:00 a.m. and Ithaca tomorrow afternoon. Seeds will then be given based on the teams' records in pool play for the quarterfinals Friday night.

Delaware is the top seed, followed by Southern, Edinboro State College and New Haven. After UMass comes Cortland, Catholic University and Ithaca College.

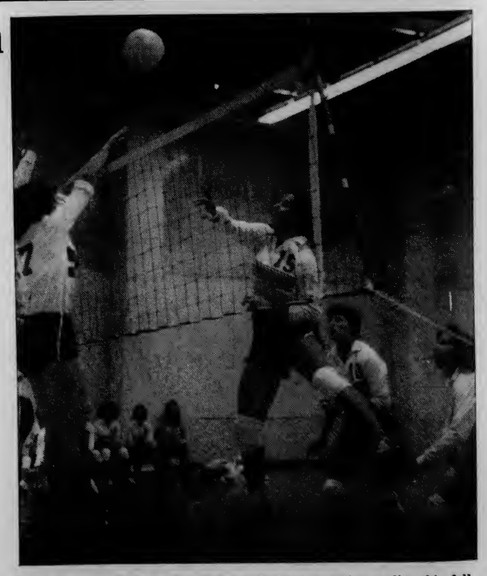
The Minutewomen nave a winning record in the regular season against Cortland and Southern, though Southern did defeat UMass at home recently. In both cases, UMass holds a 2-1 edge in season play. As for New Haven and Delaware, the Minutewomen have yet to beat either team this season. UMass fell to Delaware in the UMass Tournament, while New Haven has a 3-0 advantage against the Minutewomen.

According to UMass coach Elaine Marasco, the Easterns were one of the major goals the team set for this season.

"Beating Southern was one. Beating Springfield (College) was another. Getting into the Easterns was the last. And we did it. We accomplished our goals," she said.

For some players on the team, like Nola Eddy, Joanne Siler and Katrin Hecht, one goal remains: To win the Easterns and head to the Nationals in California.

"I want to win the Easterns so I could go home to California, walk through the door and say "Hi, Mom, we're in the Nationals," said Hecht, who lives in Newport Beach.



Ellen Braun (15) hits over opposing blockers in action earlier this fall. (Staff photo by Jackie Savonarola)

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 57 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Friday, November 21, 1980

BOG to protest budget cuts

By SAMUEL CHAFLEN
and JAMES F. MAHONEY
Collegian Staff

The Board of Governors, angered by proposed budget cuts by the Campus Center administration, last night proposed sit-ins, a boycott of the University Store and a senate referendum as possible protest actions.

The BOG asked Campus Center Director Bill Harris and representatives from other student groups on campus to be present at the meeting to stress that all budget cuts in this year's University budget were coming from student services.

With the recommended budget, all the groups under the BOG would not only lose money due to inflationary costs, but most would lose funding for all planned renovations and enlargements.

The Union Program Council asked for over $24,000 but would receive only $19,000, the Governor's Program Council asked for $19,000, but would only get $9,000. The Art Gallery would receive level funding of $8,000. The BOG's total requested budget was $138,000, but the recommended amount was $97,000. Last year it received $99,000.

Board Chairman Curtiss Wohlers said, "I think the students should become involved in the way their funds are spent. We made $1.6 million for the Campus Center last year, through the Campus Center fee we should have the final say in how these funds are spent."

"You folks have been battered around for a long time," Student Senate Co-President Richard LaVoice said, "and everyone knows it." LaVoice organized the meeting into committees to form strategies to combat the Campus Center Director's recommendations.

The Student Union Art Gallery was the first to lash out against the recommended budget at last night's meeting. Citing that its recommended budget would not be enough to cover the costs of replacing dirty rugs, walls "with craters worse than the moon's," curtains, receptions and other costs.

The Union Program Council charged the budget would not cover costs required for security and conferences. The meeting then dissolved into cross debates with two or three issues being discussed.

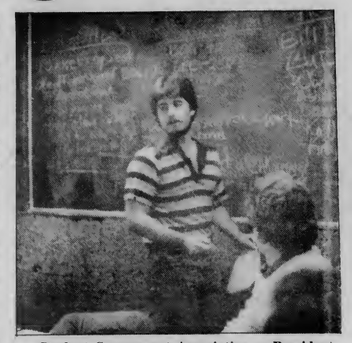
"Right now we have one of the top reputations in programming in the nation," Andy Gordon, UPC treasurer said, "If you take away that funding the reputation will suffer."

LaVoice said the BOG and all other student groups on campus, including the Graduate Senate and the Student Senate, should organize and prove to the administration that they will not be passive and accept the budget cuts.

He said if enough students got involved with protesting the recommended budget cuts the administration would not even try to touch the issue.

Campus Center Director Harris, after some heated debate between BOG members and SGA officials, took BOG Chairperson Curtiss Wohlers out into the hallway to discuss the issues. Immediately many of the room's

turn to page 14



Student Government Association co-President Rich LaVoice addresses the Board of Governors meeting in the Campus Center last night. (Staff photo by Ronna Rosenblatt)

Protest stirs over CIA

By RICHARD NAGLE
Collegian Staff

About 200 University of Massachusetts students yesterday marched on the campus placement service office protesting the presence of CIA recruiters.

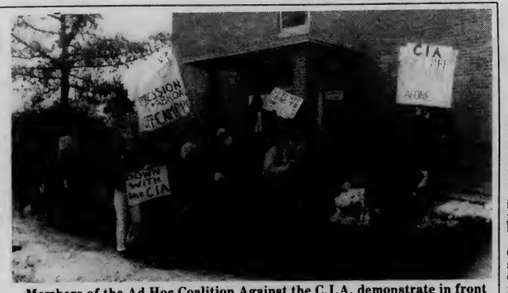
Participants in the march which was sponsored by the 20-member Ad-hoc Coalition against the CIA, rallied in front of the Student Union Building before parading over to the placement service office in Hampshire House on the opposite side of campus.

Holding signs telling students, "Don't interview with murderers and torturers," the mostly student crowd was watched for nearly 30 minutes by two unidentified men with cameras and binoculars from atop the Campus Center Parking Garage.

Coalition organizer Judy Weiss, a UMass senior said, "The University is legitimizing the CIA and condoning what it does by having them here."

Laurie Kellogg, another organizer of the coalition, said the campus was not the proper place for CIA recruiting.

"The University is an institution which supports equality and justice and which takes a moral stance in the classroom. We take a moral stand against a group which is responsible for the deaths of many people,"



Members of the Ad Hoc Coalition Against the C.I.A. demonstrate in front of Hampshire House to protect the presence of C.I.A. recruiters on campus. (Staff photo by Donald J. Ivas)

Collegian subpoenaed

(AP) — Federal officials have subpoenaed classified advertising records from the Massachusetts Daily Collegian in an attempt to learn who placed an ad purporting to seek volunteers to assassinate President-elect Ronald Reagan.

Assistant U.S. Attorney George Kelly in Springfield refused to discuss the case yesterday. He would not say whether it had been referred to a grand jury.

But Robert Stein, editor-inchief of the Collegian, said he was served with a subpoena on Monday asking him to produce the billing records and other information relating to the advertisement.

Secret Service officials would say only that they were investigating the possibility that federal laws protecting the president and president-elect from assassination threats had been violated.

Thomas Lesser, a Northampton attorney representing two students who have been questioned about the ad, said,

turn to page 10

Estonian dictionary attempts to save language

By TY ROBY
Special to the Collegian

A University of Massachusetts professor is now in the final stages of a 30-year project that he says will preserve his culture from Russian influence.

Paul F. Saagpakk, a UMass English professor, is currently proofreading a dictionary that translates the Estonian language into English.

Saagpakk was born in Estonia, a small northern European country which is located across the Baltic Sea from Finland. His country was taken over by Russia in 1944, and still remains behind the Iron Curtain today, he said.

He Saw His Language Fading

In a recent interview, the 70-year-old Saagpakk said he saw the urgent need to write his dictionary because of the growing Russian influence on the Estonian language. Gradually more and more Russian words have become part of the vocabulary of the Estonians.

Saagpakk began the project in 1950 and has for the most part worked alone since its beginning. A great portion of his work was completed in four years between 1958-1962, he said. During those years he worked in isolation in Stockholm, Sweden. There he managed to live on an income of $100 a month and spent between 12 and 14 hours a day working on the dictionary, he said.

The only help he receives now comes from a few University work study students that Saagpakk has trained himself. They serve primarily as proofreaders.

Published Next Year

His long hours of dedication will culminate in the early months of 1981, he said, when the dictionary is expected to be published by the Yale University Press.

The motive behind Professor Saagpakk's work is not monetary in nature. He will make little money from the project, said Saagpakk. "The motivation behind the innumerable hours he has spent working on the dictionary, lies in the deep love he feels towards his native country.

The work, to Saagpakk, "is my duty to my small country."

Saagpakk said it hurts him to see the Estonian language disappearing, being deformed by Russian. He said he felt the dictionary will be a definite contributor to the re-emergence of the Estonian language. He said the dictionary is a must if his country is to regain its freedom.

Fights 'Russification'

Saagpakk said the decline of a nation's language eventually leads to the fall of the country. Saagpakk said if he could save his language from "Russification," indirectly and more importantly he will save his country and culture as welll.

Prof. Paul Saagpakk reviews the dictionary he has written of his native language, Estonian, before it goes into print. (Staff photo by Terri Bellafiore)

Prof. Saagpakk contends that Estonia, a country rich in literature and folklore, is unwilling to give in to the Russians and is clinging to its original way of life.

In a protest against the Russian government recently, approximately 2,000 Estonian youths marched to the capital city of Estonia, Tallinn, he said.

The dictionary will also serve the many Estonians who arrived in the United States after World War II. The present dictionaries available to them are inadequate for all practical purposes, being nothing more than lists of words, he said. Saagpakk's dictionary, on the other hand, will be in a style similar to Webster's.

Includes Obscenities

He includes in it synonyms, compound words and idioms. He described translating idioms as the most difficult aspect of his work. The dictionary even includes obscenities; "as many as I can remember," said Saagpakk, because "words are words."

turn to page 14

World and national news

President Jimmy Carter and his wife Rosalynn pose with President-elect Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy. Carter and Reagan held their first private meeting since the Nov. 4 presidential election at the White House.

Disagreement over details

U.S. agrees to hostage terms

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration has agreed in principle to Iranian terms for freeing the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran for more than a year, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said yesterday.

But other U.S. officials indicated there is still disagreement over the details of the Iranian demands and they cautioned against expectations of imminent release. State Department spokesman John H. Trattner warned against "overexcitement."

Muskie made his statement after a breakfast meeting with visiting West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

"We've said publicly we accepted the four points in principle," Muskie said, referring to the terms set down Nov. 4 by the Iranian parliament. However, he added, "that doesn't tell you much about the details, does it?"

Muskie's remark apparently was the first by a senior Carter administration official that the Iranian terms fore release of the hostages were acceptable even in principle.

The Iranians have demanded a U.S. promise of nonintervention in Iranian affairs, the freeing of more than $8 billion in assets frozen by the Carter administration in retaliation for the seizure of the hostages, cancellation of all American claims against Iran and return of the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

House rejects King's MBTA reorganization

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — With a court ruling pending that could shut down Greater Boston's mass transit system, the House refused yesterday to revive Gov. Edward J. King's bill reorganizing and bailing out the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

The House met for about five hours, with parliamentary maneuvering designed to thwart an end to the special session occupying most of the time. Adjournment finally prevailed and the Senate, on standby throughout, took less than a minute to concur.

The special session, running all night Monday and adjourned at 6 a.m. Tuesday until yesterday afternoon, failed to pass anything. King will have to recall the Legislature again if he wants to attempt another reorganization of the MBTA before the new year.

The House voted 84-46 against reconsidering Tuesday's vote which defeated King's reorganization bill. The purpose of the bill was to circumvent the Advisory Board, which has refused to appropriate funds to keep the trains and buses rolling through Dec. 31.

The MBTA already has run through its $302 million budget for 1980 and, failing to win legislative approval of his reorganization bill, King claimed emergency powers Tuesday to continue transit operations.

Refusal by the advisory board, representing the 79 cities and towns in the MBTA service area, to approve a $41 million supplemental budget precipitated the crisis.

The board is suing to halt King's takeover. A hearing is scheduled before Superior Court Judge William G. Young Friday, and an order halting transit service could come then.

With King's bill dead, the House leadership moved to end the special legislative session, but the motion was opposed by members fighting to increase management rights in dealings with MBTA unions.

"A vote for prorogation (ending the session) is a vote to allow the unions at the MBTA to continue running the system into oblivion," said Rep. Royall Switzler, R-Wellesley.

The reorganization bill, before it was killed Tuesday morning following an all-night debate, stripped the Carmen's Union of much of its power.

There were claims that bus cleaners get $29,000 at the MBTA, and that the average wage is $21,000, compared to about $12,000 for all state workers.

"It's a cesspool and it's a hole," said Rep. Richard A. Voke, D-Chelsea. "It's dead wrong to let this system continue."

Reps. Michael J. Barret, D-Reading, and David B. Cohen, D-Newton, sought to keep some vehicle alive to force management reforms. As a compromise to legislators from districts with no MBTA service, their amendments would not authorize extra state money. With management reforms, it was believed the advisory board would reverse its position on the supplemental budget.

Opposition to further action was led by Rep. Louis Nickinello, D-Natick, House chairman of the Legislature's Transportation Committee.

Reagan and Carter meet to discuss the transition

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter, rivals no more, sat down together in the Oval Office on yesterday for their first private meeting since the long presidential campaign ended in Reagan's landslide victory.

When the meeting broke up after nearly 1½ hours, the president-elect praised Carter for cooperating in the transition to the Reagan administration.

"He has made it much easier than it otherwise would have been," Reagan said as the two men posed for photographs in front of the marble fireplace in the Oval Office.

"We have a very good working relationship personally," Carter said. He said he and Reagan discussed the transition and "some of the issues I have faced as president."

Carter emphasized that he and Reagan are in agreement that the outgoing chief executive will be president "in the fullest sense of the word" until Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

The meeting ran far longer than the 30 minutes originally scheduled, and Carter said the two leaders emphasized "some of the common commitments we share."

A short time after the meeting, Carter left the White House for a visit to Camp David, Md.

Although the White House meeting had been planned for several days, the two men and their wives actually encountered each other in a less-than planned fashion.

The Reagans arrived at the sunbathed South Portico of the White House one minute early, at 1:59 p.m. EST, and the president and his wife, Rosalynn, rushed out of the Diplomatic Entrance there to greet them.

The president and the president-elect grinned broadly, each looked at his watch, and Reagan acknowledged that he was "a little bit early."

"We're very glad to have you here," Carter told his successor and the incoming first lady, Nancy Reagan. "I think you'll like the place."

Carter then escorted Reagan to the Oval Office — as much a symbol of presidential power as it is a workspace — and Mrs. Carter took Mrs. Reagan on a White House tour, two months to the day before the Carters move out and the Reagans move in.

The Reagans arrival by motorcade from their government owned residence one-half block from the White House was heralded by the wail of sirens from police escort motorcycles driven by the same corps that has ushered Carter around Washington for four years.

In addition to more than 100 reporters, photographers and technicians who witnessed the arrival, there were numbers of White House staff members, some with cameras, awaiting the new first family.

Digest

Associated Press

Tax suit could affect Prop 2½

A suit that has been before the state Supreme Court for two years could force the Legislature to raise taxes despite the recent voter approval of Proposition 2½, it was reported yesterday.

The suit was filed against state officials on behalf of the 1.1 million school children in Massachusetts, The New Bedford Standard-Times reported.

The suit charges that "irrational disparities" exist among towns and cities in the way the property tax is used to pay the costs of local schools.

Boston lawyer J. Harold Flannery, who represents the complainants, said the state "almost inevitably" will be forced to find new revenue sources if his side wins the suit.

PROTESTING THE KLAN VERDICT — About 500 marchers head toward downtown Greensboro yesterday afternoon during a march sponsored by the local chapter of the NAACP and the N.C. A&T Univeristy Student Government Association to protest Monday's not guilty verdict in the Klan-Nazi trial held in Greensboro. (AP Laserphoto)

Iran rejects UN peace bid

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iran claimed successes yesterday on three key battle fronts in its war with Iraq and rejected a U.N. peace bid, saying Iranians will fight until the Iraqis are driven out of Iran.

Iran said its forces continued counter-attacking Iraqi positions near Mehran, a border town in the central section of the 300-mile-long warfront; near Susangerd, 150 miles to the south, and Abadan, 85 miles south of Susangerd.

Tehran Radio quoted President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as saying: "As long as Iraqi armed force are present in Iran, we cannot consider any peace proposal."

Bani-Sadr met with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's personal envoy, Olof Palme, a former prime minister of Sweden, who expressed U.N. concern over the consequences of continued warfare, the Iranian news agency Pars reported.

Palme also met with Iran's prime minister, Mohammad Ali Rajai, and will visit the war zone in oil-rich Khuzistan today, Pars said.

The state-run radio quoted Rajai as saying: "I told him the question was one of aggression against Iran, which should be taken seriously. I told him the world should put (Iraqi President) Saddam (Hussein) on trial."

End to foreign oil called for

WASHINGTON — The United States should begin preparing immediately for a major disruption of imported oil supplies sometime in the next decade, the Senate Energy Committee said yesterday.

The country urgently needs to build up its oil reserves, and agreements for handling a cutoff should be worked out with other industrialized nations to prevent severe strain on "the free-world alliance," according to a new report from the committee.

The current U.S. emphasis on reducing imports is unrealistic, the report said, because energy self-sufficiency "is highly unlikely within this century, let alone within the next 10 years."

"We will have to run in order to stand still," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D- Wash., chairman of the panel, said in releasing the study.

The United States will be importing large amounts of oil by 1990, even if domestic producers go all out to find new oil and natural gas reserves and develop other energy sources, the report said.

Tonight's paper was produced in anticipation of L.H.'s 19½ and F.B.'s 21½ birthdays. Special thanks to Carla Lesh A.J. Diamond H.S. '77 (our very own Julia Child).

Catherine Clabby, Bellingham Prep '76 — Assistant Managing Editor
Fran Basche, Hall H.S. '77 — Layout Technician
Laurel Hanscom — Copy Editor
Cheryl Senter — Head Photo Technician
Jay Brightman — Ad Layout

and the merry composing room staff: 'Zette Courtmanche Jim McDonald, Phil Lee, Daniel P. Guidera, Bellingham Prep '77; Michael Krumpe, Anytowne H.S. ' 76; Nina M. Stack, Germantown Academy '78; Mary B.Kinneavy, Trinity H.S. '75; Donna Sullivan, Ware H.S. '78; Jeffrey P. Bianchi, Weston H.S. '76, Michele Bedard, Edie Eppich

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 325-220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $45 at 113 Campus Center University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst MA 01003

Students unable to meet with legislators

By JANE DEVIRGILLO
Collegian Staff

BOSTON—A meeting to discuss with state legislators the recent reorganization of higher education drew 50 students representing 12 colleges and universities yesterday to the Massachusetts State House, but no legislators turned out.

Due to the current MBTA funding crisis legislators were called into a day-long session that prevented them from attending the "Forum on Public Higher Education" organized by Commonwealth Association of United Students for Education (CAUSE) scheduled between 12 and 1 p.m.

It was not a totally disappointing venture, however, according to CAUSE president and University of Massachusetts student Ron Keefe, since students later lobbied with individual legislators.

During a House recess later in the afternoon, students' lobbying focused on their demands for representation on the newly-formed Board of Regents.

"We now have the support of about 25 legislators who favor student representation on the board," said Keefe. "During this transition time, until the regents take over on March 1, students must affect a general presence to government as opposed to only appearing at a rally."

A bill endorsing student representation will be co-sponsored by Legislators Paul Harold (D-Quincy), Jim Collins (D-Amherst) and Tim Rourke (D-Lowell).

Hearings on the bills will begin in late January according to keefe.

Keefe said while January will be a crucial time for students to make their demands known to the Regents through the legislature, "It is also important now because policy is being developed without the contribution of students."

Referring to the decision not to have student representation, Janet Robinson, director of student affairs for the board, said "They won't back off their decision easily and students should do their homework now and give the board a strong strategy as to their reasons for wanting a representative."

Robinson said this is a "wait, watch and see period for us." She advised students not only to focus on the representative issue but to show the Regents they are concerned with other matters affecting their campus.

UM lobbyists wait and hope

By GAYLE YOUNG
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts students who lobbied lawmakers on Capitol Hill early this week may soon see the fruit of their labors if legislators approve additional funds for federal financial aid programs.

About 40 students, many of them members of a political science class in the legislative process taught by Gerald Grady, spent Monday and Tuesday in the nation's capitol speaking to legislators and their aides about financial aid funding. The students were seeking to have last year's funding levels raised to accomodate an increase in the number of aid recipients.

Due to differences between the Senate and House, the financial aid funding will apparently be placed on "continuing resolution," or a maintenance of last year's funding levels. But since recent legislation has provided for an increase in fiancial aid recipients, the students were seeking additional funds to finance the programs.

Eduardo Wolle, legislative director of the United States Student Association, a national organization of public university students which assisted the UMass group in their efforts, said yesterday it appears the matter will be placed on continuing resolution and funding maintained at this year's levels. Now, he said, the focus of lobbying efforts will be aimed at securing an additional $754 million to pay for the programs.

"What we've got to try to do now, with the continuing resolution, is to see if we might be able to convince the Senate and the House to come up with an additonal $750 million for the BEOG (Basic Educational Opportunity Grants) to continue funding the program," Wolle said, adding that legislators probably wouldn't consider the additional funding for at least another week.

UMass Financial Aid Director Ed C. Apodaca, who accompanied the students on the trip, said the supplimental funds are necessary to continue current funding of financial aid here.

"If the supplemental funding is not appropriated, there's a strong possibility of cuts being made on basic grants for this year," Apodaca said. "If they do approve the funding it will have no effect on this campus."

Apodaca said if supplemental funds are not approved until late next semester, it may create confusion because awards may have to be cut and then later re-instated by the financial aid office. He also said he felt the student lobbyists helped demonstrate to legislators the severity of the problem and may have laid the groundwork for future student lobbying.

"I really was extremely pleased with the results of the trip. I felt the students worked hard and were a lot more successful than people realized," Apodaca said. "We definitely need more student involvement, especially if it is as organized as this."

On Monday, students heard from several speakers including staff members of several House and Senate committees. The students also broke into small groups to visit various senators, representatives and their aides. Tuesday, the group heard from Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"We're going to face some difficult fights over the period of a couple of years," Kennedy told the students. "I think it will be a challenging period to form a coalition in Massachusetts and the country to find new and better ways to fund higher education. I think we still have a chance, but the outlook is not at all good."

The students who participated in the lobbying effort said it was a worthwhile experience. They said they learned a great deal and had their concerns heard.

"Although we didn't change history we made an impact. It was a good learning process and we could do a lot more in this area. Our potential is unlimited to organize around this issue," said Francis Bisonette, a junior finance major. "Students have to realize that these issues affect them and they should organize around them. You can have an impact. You just have to take the initiative."

Paul Morrison, from London, England, said he had transferstudent from Kent University, said he had never been involved in politics before and found the experience both interesting and enjoyable.

"It's nice to be involved. It's the first time I've been involved in anything political, anywhere," Morrison said. "I felt slightly embarrassed at times of people thinking it rude of me for coming over and lobbying. But I began to feel less embarrassed because I was morally right. There's no profit or nothing. It isn't going benefit me at all."

WMUA bans Arista label: Protest annual service fee

By ROBERT HUFFMAN
Collegian Staff

University radio station WMUA's student staff voted recently to ban the airplay of records distributed on the Arista record label for one month.

The ban, now in effect, has been enacted as a protest which they hope will change the company's decision to charge a $150 annual fee for "services."

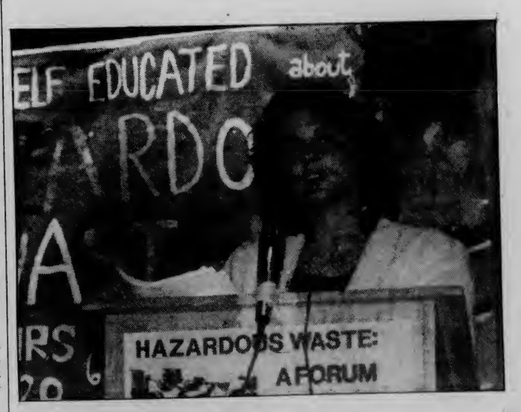
No other major record distributor charges a similar fee, though it is rumored that some are considered such a move, WMUA Program Director Jim Spellos said.

According to Spellos, the services amount to nothing more than "plugging their records." He cited the recent Kinks' album One For The Road, which despite having some of its live segments recorded in concert on the UMass campus, is among the many records the public radio station will not receive without paying the fee.

In addition to the million-selling Kinks, the Arista label also boasts such successful artists as The Grateful Dead, Graham Parker, Lou Reed, Patti Smith, The Allman Brothers, Dionne Warwick and Al Stewart. The only record, WMUA has received from this company recently is The Elevators' Front Line, which was given to the station by the local band, Spellos said.

"The ban on Arista records might be stretched out longer, depending on the support we get," Spellos said. He said support is necessary to keep college radio "the free medium it is."

The non-profit radio station is located at 91.1 mhz FM, and has an estimated potential audience of 50,000 people. Spellos said listeners and friends of WMUA are urged to show their support for the ban by continuing to listen and by writing WMUA at 42 Marston Hall, UMass, Amherst, Mass. 01003 or by calling the 24 hour station at 545-2876.



Melissa Remington was the moderator for a panel discussion that addressed questions from town and area residents about hazardous waste in the area. The panel, which was held in SBA 120, was sponsored by MassPIRG, and resulted from recent Department of Engineering Quality study. (Staff photo by Terri Bellafiore)

SPRING FASHIONS ARE OUT ALREADY! The Fashion Marketing class held a History of Costumes fashion show yesterday. All costumes made by the students, showed the apparel worn by people living during the time span between the Egyptian to the Elizabethan era. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

SW Assembly allocates money for area newsletter

By JOHN DIPALAZZO
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembly allocated $150 for the production of a monthly Southwest Area newsletter last night after much debate.

Members of the assembly disagreed on the size of the newsletter. SWA communications coordinator Terra Friedricks advocated a four page newsletter, while other members were in favor of a smaller, less expensive publication. The full assembly finally voted to spend the money for the larger newsletter to be called Spectrum.

The first newsletter is scheduled to come out next week and will include announcements of upcoming events and issues facing the residential college.

In other business, Robert Cleary of the Student Government Association (SGA) spoke to the assembly against the proposed rent and fee increases new being considered by the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees. Cleary is chairman of the SGA Rents and Fees Committee.

Cleary said the rent and fee increases, if approved by the Board of Trustees on Dec. 3, would create a financial burden for many students. "We need to make them (the Board of Trustees) aware that many students may not be able to come back," Cleary said.

Cleary indicated that free transportation to the Board of Trustees meeting in Boston on Dec. 3 would probably be arranged for students by various RSO groups.

SWA co-president Kevin Mangan told the assembly of the recent trip to Washington D.C. by UMass students lobbying for financial aid. Mangan along with SWA co-president Ruth Mazzola and SWA representatives Steve Moylan and

The rent and fee increases, if approved by the Board of Trustees on Dec. 3, would create a financial burden for many students.

Theresa Kolish were among the 40 students who were in Washington earlier this week.

The SWA also allocated $500 to the Southwest Presidents' Council to finance the Southwest Holiday Festival, which will be held on Dec. 9 in the Hampden Student Center. The Festival will include an art exhibit, crafts exhibits, musical events and a Christmas tree.

The assembly also allocated $75 for publicity of Southwest events in the Collegian, and $65 for supplies to be used in its planned Dec. 6 and Dec. 13 concerts.

Cut-a-Cord program offers inexpensive home fuel

By DEBBIE WHITNEY
Collegian Correspondent

You don't have to be a lumberjack to cut your own wood, all you need is a chainsaw, a permit, a state forest and plenty of energy.

But you'd better hurry. The Cut-A-Cord program sponsored by the State Department of Forests and Parks ends this Sunday, Nov. 23.

Joe Dugan, Young Adult Conservation Corps forester for the Department of Environmental Mangement in Amherst, said some of the 17 participating state forests in the area are Robinson State Park in Agawam, Warwick State Forest, and Hawley State Forest. Other Berkshire State forests include Bear Town State Forest, Monterey; October Mt. Lee; and Savoy Mt. in the town of Florida.

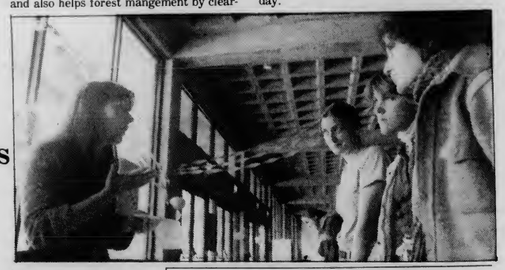
Before embarking on a woodcutting trait a $4 permit must be purchased. The permits, which are limited to one per family each season, are available at the entrance of the state parks. The permits entitles the bearer to one cord of wood (a stack of wood 4 feet wide by 4 feet high by 8 feet long). Only one chainsaw per permit may be used, but the number of helpers is not restricted.

Dugan said only 15 permits per day are issued at each of the parks. This minimum caused a problem at the Robinson State Parl where a lottery system had to be implemented to replace the first-come, first-serve basis of the other parks. Lines had formed at the park gates as Massachusetts residents hurried to stake their claims to the $4 cords of wood.

Each permit issued has a designated lot in the forest where the selected trees are marked by paint. The lots are adequately spaced to isure everyone's safety he added.

The Cut-A-Cord program, which began in 1973, serves a dual purpose. The program supplies area residents with a chance to gather inexpensive fuel for their homes and also helps forest mangement by clearing away low quality or diseased trees. However, many of the dead trees are left behind as homes for wildlife, Dugan said.

During the cutting season, wood may be cut on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and holidays from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Between cutting, loading and transporting the wood, Dugan guessed the average time spent in securing a cord of wood to be roughly a day.



Ellen LaFleche, above, explains the problems of toxic shock to interested participant at the Womens Health Fair held yesterday at Hampden Commons. (Staff photo by Donald J. Ivas)

Women's Health Fair encourages awareness and concern

LILLIAN SINGER
Collegian Staff

Female sexuality, contraception, sexual harassment and abortion were just some of the topics covered during the Women's Health Fair held yesterday in Hampden Lobby in the Southwest area.

The purpose of the exhibition was to encourage women's awareness of their own health and of the various options open to them, both of contraceptive and medical concern, organizers said.

According to members of the Southwest Women's Center, sponsors of the fair, decisions pertaining to women's health in today's society have been left primarily up to men.

Pamphlets and other assorted paraphenalia ranging in topics from reproductive rights to smoking and alcohol were dispersed freely to all attending. Books and buttons bearing feminist slogans such as "All mothers are working women" were sold, a movie on exersise for women was shown and health food snacks were eaten by the handfuls.

Because women have been scrutinizing their positions in society and their relationships more in recent years, the need for independence and for a sense of self is more now than ever one pamphlet said.

It is the main concern of the Southwest Women's Center to offer programs, courses, and services to Southwest women in an attempt to combat sexism and to make those in the residential college more aware of the issues involving women another pamphlet said.

Although the fair was closed at 4 p.m. yesterday, the center will continue its efforts to broaden the scope of UMass women's sexual awareness, members said. Peer Sexuality Education workshops dealing with such issues as sexuality, parenthood and health may be requested for the remainder of the school year for a group of 10 or more students by calling the Health Education Office at 549-2671.

Read the Collegian

Little Dipper
INSTANT CONDITIONER & NAIL POLISH REMOVER
$1.00 off WITH THIS COUPON
SOLD ON THE CONCOURSE
MON NOV. 24, 12:30-5 PM

A RALPH BAKSHI FILM
WIZARDS
ENG EAST AUD
7,9,11
TONIGHT
PG ©1977 Twentieth Century-Fox FILMS INCORPORATED

TIPS TAPE 7000
Thanksgiving Residence Hall Closing
545-1540
request tape by number

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
MANDARIN SZECHUEN CUISINE
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials Dinner Specials
Take-Out Service Full Cocktail Menu
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
1 Belchertown Rd., at Route 9, Amherst
256-0251 256-0252

Black Affairs

Ivens Paul, one of Haiti's leading broadcast journalists, says he spent 10 days in a Haitian prison for broadcasting the truth about his poverty-stricken country. The 25 year-old Paul says he was tortured by police during his imprisonment. (AP Laserphoto)

Black Protest at Wesleyan U

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. AP

Wesleyan University's black and Latino students called for cancellation of classes on Friday after a black dormitory received a racially insulting letter.

About 200 black-clad minority students, virtually the school's entire minority population, marched silently to the steps of the administration building on Thursday, where they made their request for a one-day moratorium on classes.

Wesleyan spokesman Bobby Clark said school administrators were studying the request. There was no other offical comment.

Regardless of the school's decision, black student leaders said another rally would be held Friday.

"We see the letter as a direct physical threat to our community," sophomore Vashti DuBois told a predominantly white audience on the steps of the administration building.

"We are prepared to unite as a black liberation front to put an end to these racist attitudes."

The letter was mailed to the Malcolm X House, a university owned dormitory that sponsors activities directed at black students. It was received on Tuesday.

Obscenities were typed at the bottom of each paragraph of a welcoming letter to freshmen students from the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. On the reverse side, someone had typed: "I have a dream...You all gonna die in pain."

Alpha Delta Phi president Clara Silverstein denied the coeducational fraternity had any part in the incident.

Wesleyan President Colin Campbell deplored the letter and affirmed the school's "commitment to a black presence."

Campbell said he would write a letter to each of the school's 2,500 students expressing his views on the incident.

Wesleyan has been anything but a hotbend of racial unrest. In September when the Ku Klux Klan rallied in the eastern Connecticut town of Scotland, the students conducted an anti-klan rally.

This is the third written threat directed towards black organization on predominantly white college campuses, in the past few weeks. Black organizations at Williams College and Harvard University have also received threatening mail.

In Defense of the Black Press

Special to Black Affairs
By Charles Michael Smith

Editor's Note: This article was originally published in the New York Amsterdam News. It is being distributed by the Black-Jewish Information Center in the belief that a strong Black press is an essential instrument of intergroup understanding in America.

"I still don't think that there is a future for a young person working in a predominantly Black medium. Let's face it, twenty years from now Ebony magazine could be out of business. Or if it's not out of business, it could be something that would not give you the benefits, the rewards for your abilities that you would get if you went to a larger publicion or one that was better integrated. Why work for Ebony when you can work for Time, Newsweek, or the Washington Post?" said Stanley Robertson, executive producer, Universal Pictures Television in Players magazine interview, Dec. 1978.

Although Mr. Robertson has the right to speak his mind, I think he should be reminded (daily, if necessary) that his attitude toward the Black press does more harm than good.

His statement would lead any young Black considering a career in journalism to think that unless he is employed by Time or the Washington Post, his career will be going nowhere.

The fact that this statement comes from an experienced journalist and television executive adds weight to it in the mind of a young Black.

True, the salaries and fringe benefits at a predominantly white paper are more attractive than anything a Black paper can offer. This will only change when a fincially-strong Black press is developed. For this to occur, the Black press must be given strong community support. Bringing in a cadre of dedicated young journalists will help immeasurably to arouse this support.

The increase in young blood will bring with it new ideas and new approaches that will stimulate the content in the Black press. To quote Joseph Nazel, a Black writer, "the Black press is angry because it is not receiving the community support it so desperately needs." He also writes that this happened because "integration into the pages of the white press usurped much of the stature of the Black press," resulting in the loss of reporters, readership, and advertising revenue.

This damage to the stature of the Black press will not be rectified if Blacks like Mr. Robertson, who have "made it," continualy play down the importance of the Black press. This is not to say we should discourage anybody from going to the other side, either.

We need them there also, for Blacks make up only approximately 4 percent of the working press. But we shouldn't cut off our noses to spite our faces. The white-controlled metropolitan dailies cannot and will not give the Black community overall coverage. And we should not expect them to. That is why the Black press is so important to the people and the events that would otherwise go unnoticed or receive scant coverage.

Mr. Robertson's statement also ignores the historical reason for the existence of the Black press today and in the past. Because of the existence of racism, the 19th and 20th centuries saw the emergence of numerous newspapers and magazines catering to a Black audience. By 1910, there were 288 Black newspapers with a combined circulation of half a million.

In the words of the late Black journalist-author Roi Ottley, "Feeling among Negroes was negative to the white dailies. They felt those organs could not be trusted to tell the truth about the Negro." Although the white press today is not as hostile to Blacks as it once was, there still is a need to "let the people know the true state of things."

Announcements

Fashion Show

The Center for Women of Color invites all to an International Dinner and Fashion Show.

A gala event, featuring food, fashions and entertainment representing all Peoples of Color on December 7, 1980 at 3:00 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

Tickets will be available at the Campus Center concourse during the week of December 1st. Hurry, tickets are limited!

For more information, contact Sharon Shelton (546-6571) or Cheryl Watkins (665-2215).

Gimme 5

On Saturday, November 22, 190, at 8:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, the Third World Theater Series will present a Teatro Cuatro production of "Gimme Five."

Further info: 545-3604. Ticket Prices: $2 for students; $3 for general public.

Julius Lester

On Sunday afternoon, November 23 at 3 p.m. the Chelsea House Folklore Center in Brattleboro, Vermont will present a reading by celebrated storyteller, folklorist, poet, and UMass Afro-American Studies Professor Julius Lester. Lester is best known for his studies of black folklore as well as for his original contributions to the field of poetry and fiction.

Lester's reading is the second in a series of benefit readings presented by the Chelsea House. Each event is sponsored in cooperation with The Book Cellar and recorded for the use of Vermont public Radio. Admission to Julius Lester's reading is $3.00.

Film

The film Union Maids will be shown at the Everywoman's Center on Wednesday, December 10, 1980 at 7:30 p.m. The showing is sponsored by the Working Women's Task Force; an eductional and support group which is organizing around issues of concern to working women in the area. The film is part of a weekly series of workshops and discussions on these issues. Refreshments will be served. All community and university women are invited.

The Everywoman's Center is located in Wilder Hall on the UMass campus in Amherst.

For more information, contact Karen Eichstaedt-West at 545-0883.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

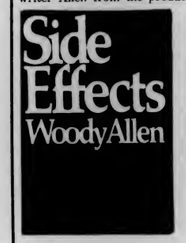
Woody Allen: Comic genius

Side Effects (Random House) $5.99
By Woody Allen

By MARK WAGNER
Collegian Correspondent

"More than any time in history, Mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and hopelessness. The other to total extinction."

In terms of Woody Allen's impact on comic art, his latest book, Side Effects, will outlast most of his movies. His trademark motifs of death, sex and mental instability have the reader in stitches by the end of page one. Yet, there is something in Side Effects which separates the writer Allen from the producer Allen. Free from the demands of cinema audience, Allen's humor is loose, scathing and indulgent. When turned on more encompassing themes than New York women, Allen's neurotic New York Jewish perspective becomes truly something to be reckoned with.



The book is a compilation of comic prose pieces that leave no stone unturned. In the first passage, through the eyes of Sander Needleman, the author has us laughing out loud at prominent personalities from Einstein to Hitler. According to Allen, Needleman was the champion of modern thought. His works include: "Non-existence: What To Do If It Suddenly Strikes You" and The Best Places To Eat While In Hiding." Unfortunately for all of humanity, Needleman is fatally tapped on the side of his head by a wrecking ball. His last enigmatic words were; "No thank I already own a penguin."

Allen continually toys with placing his twisted philosophies in context with those of the masters. He defines modern man as anyone born after Neitzche's edict that "God is dead" but before the hit record "I Wanna Hold Your Hand." In "My Apology," Woody pulls off situating himself as a heretic in ancient Greece who has been jailed for denying death. To his jailhouse partners, Agathon and Simmias, Allen adamantly defends his stand until confronted by a steaming cup of hemlock. At this point he reveals the death-fearing Woody we have all grown to love. "See, that's the trouble with philosophy — it's not al that functional once you get out of the classroom."

The author's cynicism leaves no vulnerable pocket of society untouched, including himself. Yet, despite his attempts to write himself off as a horny wimp, there is always an intellectual quality behind Allen's work that is intriguing. In "Fabrizior's: Criticism and Response" the reader learns of a restaurant cook who espouses Marxist doctrine in the totelini, or who directly affected Stravinski's Concerto in D for strings through the arrangement of floating bits in the minestrone. We're finally left with a mathematical equation for fettucine.

Caputo's 'Horn of Africa': both bestseller and classic

Horn of Africa [Holt, Rinehart and Winston] $12.95
By Philip Caputo

By TOM FAISON
Collegian Staff

There can be little doubt that Philip Caputo's modern masterpiece HORN OF AFRICA will be forever compared to Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness."

On the surface, there are many similarities in both minor incidents and overall theme, but unlike Conrad's book and the film it inspired Horn of Africa is relevant today, and written in a style that combines the sleekness of the modern "bestsellers" and the poetic metaphor of the classics.

The striking images Caputo offers throughout the book have not been equaled in fiction since The Joad Family embarked on their infamous journey through the American West more than 40 years ago in John Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath Caputo's presentation of the Cairo's slums and the hellish deserts of Ethiopia are reminiscent of the shocking apparitions encountered by the travelers in Dante's Inferno, and his visions of the mass carnage and destruction wrought by modern weapons in primitive hands suggest the message that Francis Ford Coppola conveyed with partial success in his film Apocalypse Now.

The plot serves as a vehicle for exploring what could happen to modern man when he is cut off from all contact with the laws, rules, and mores he uses to form his societies. It concerns a mission three mercenaries undertake to train and supply a primitive and nomadic Muslim tribe so they might fight the more advanced Soviet backed Ethiopian forces.

The characters themselves serve more as symbols than acual human beings. The three mercenaries exemplify this. Lt. Jeremy Nordstrand sets out to reach his desined place in the world by completely dominating everyone around him and catering to his own ever-growing madness. Moody strives for absolution for his past sins by strictly adhering to an impossible set of values and by overcoming the hopeless circumstances around him, and Gage searches for truth by sitting back and watching events unfold around him.

With Gage serving as sort of narrator, we are given a bird's eye view of the little wars being fought today in various little pockets of the world, and a sneak preview of the wars of the future. His views of the other characters, including the nomadic tribesmen, their fanatical leaders, and the corrupt conspirators in Cairo who sponsor the mission, all hold the interest of the reader and in time develop into fully realized characterizations. The book is however, dominated by the presence of Nordstrand.

Books

Ironically, it's his own mind rather than the mortal dangers of the fighting that leads to Nordstrand's demise. Left to his own devices, he becomes so enmeshed in his own importance, and obsessed with his own obscene acts of violence and terror, his body finally rebels and destroys itself; much in the same way that Howard Hughes finally met his end. So strong is this theme that one can't help wondering how many more of us might end this way without the usual restraints placed upon us by society and the way that it controls our lives with the rules and the responsibilities forced upon us at the earliest possible.

So important is this book, it should be required reading for anyone who plans to leave the suburbs and make his way to one of the less civilized corners of the globe.

In short, through the use of a primitive tribal war in the African Desert, using the macho-warrior language inherited from the Vietnam War, Philip Caputo has created a work that all people may use to examine their pasts, their innermost feelings and desires for the present, and their dreams of the future.

Hot Dates at the Hatch this Saturday night: (left to right) Bob Millett, Jeff Root, Grant Clark, Mitch Kary, and Sam Simcoe.

Make a 'Hot Date' at Hatch

By ROBERT B. CARGILL
Collegian Staff

Into the solid, mainstream New Wave sound? If so, check out this Saturday night's show at the Hatch as Boston's latest musical sensation, the Hot Dates, back up the Rhode Island-based Mundanes.

Currently in the studio with producer Wayne Wadhams (Phil Gentili's "Mama Lied"), the Hot Dates will be releasing something soon on the Boston International label, probably their most infectious numbers, "Tune Into Me" b/w "Do You Want Me?"

"We're just finishing off another demo tape," guitarist Sam Simcoe said, "which will at least result in the single, if not an album."

Saturday night's headliners, Mundanes, have just released their debut single, "Make It The Same" b/w "Funnier Than Love" and "Empty Boulevards." Produced by Tony Caputo for Portable Records, the disc highlights well their brand of high energy synthesizer-laden pop.

Led by lead vocalist Marsha Armitage, the group's live performances are clean, visually distinctive, and truly driving rock 'n' roll.

Taking over the Hatch tonight is Image, an excellent "cover" band, but one which can rock forth its own material as well. Perennial favorites at UMass, Image should provoke a good party.

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS
CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.
BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	Seiberling	25.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seib.	28.95	S60x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	G78x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	H78x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. WL	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E Tax & Sales Tax.
RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3
586-2544

中國語言文化研究
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
One Area Showing, Now Ends Tuesday
On Screen At 7:00 and 9:25
Power, space, time and a visitor
David Bowie in
The man who fell to Earth
THE ORIGINAL UN-CUT VERSION
from Cinema 5 R
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Read the Collegian

FRYE SALE
Mens Low Cut Frye Boots
Reg $97.00
Now $59.00
HEARTFELT LEATHER
103 N Pleasant
253-5135 Open 10-6
Mon-Sat
Open Friday till 8:00

Editorial/Opinion

Common ground

Budget and Finance Committee Chairman James F. Crain, who met with University students and administrators at University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees meeting Wedensday, indicated that students should expect tuition and fee increases in the future due to the effect of inflation on the cost of running the University.

Chancellor Henry Koffler, speaking before the Undergraduate Student Senate Thursday night, made a similar statement that the University is not immune to the effects of inflation, and that we should nto be surprised to see the cost of an education go up along with the price of food, housing, and other vital goods. To help offset the growing indebtedness facing students, currently approaching $20,000 for entering freshmen, Koffler pledged an effort to help make more financial aid available by securing new financial resources from the state and federal governments.

What has been termed a national mandate for fiscal conservatism, a reaction to inflation pressures on state and federal budget, is a formidable obstacle to acquiring these funds. In response to this conservative policy in Congress, which bears directly on the University's federal funding, 40 University of Massachusetts students lobbied in Congress this week. The reaction of the senators and representatives they spoke with was favorable on the whole. Their efforts leave little doubt that direct pleas by students to Congress result in more favorable conditions for the acquisition of funds for the University.

What is startling about these three instances — the meeting with the Trustees, the Chancellor's presentation to the SGA, and the student lobbying in Washington — is that, under grave financial circumstances, students and administration have found common ground on which to fight for their University. We look forward to continued cooperation between the two and to the incalcuable benefits that will result.

Letters

Human rights a must

To the Editor:

Those who are rejoicing over the Reagan victory and its foreign policy objectives might pause a moment to consider the company they are joining. In South Korea the popular democratic opposition leader Mr. Kim Dae Jung, a Roman Catholic firmly devoted to the idea of representative government, is under sentence of death on unproved and unprovable charges of sedition. According to Japanese government sources, "Mr. Reagan's decisive victory over President Carter, whose human rights policies have irked South Korean leaders, was received with jubilation in Seoul, and may encourage Mr. Chun, a former army officer who seized the presidency in August, to have Mr. Kim hanged before the end of the year so that he could approach a Reagan administration to seek a new beginning in U.S.-Korean relations." (N.Y. Times, Nov. 10).

Unfortunately, the Carter Administration has not satisfactorily carried out its own stated foreign policy, "linkage" of U.S. support to a movement toward human rights and representative government on the part of those receiving our military aid. But President Carter has at least made an issue of these matters and has taken some positive steps in this direction.

Ronald Reagan is anxious to pursue "linkage" of Soviet human rights violations in any discussion of arms limitation. One need in no sense excuse or condone Soviet excesses in repression to push for a policy of general and careful examination of the most horrendous human rights violations going on in countries all over the world (including our own), many of which receive military aid from the U.S.

The brutal massacre of hundreds of citizens at Kwangju in S. Korea in May, after massive non-violent demonstrations calling for democratization and lifting of martial law, testifies to the kind of repression of their own people (with American weapons and aided by U.S. troops) which our "friends" in S. Korea are using.

The least that American citizens concerned with human rights and morality can do is to write to President Carter, Secretary of State Muskie, and members of Congress demanding that the U.S. cut off all military aid to S. Korea unless Kim Dae Jung is pardoned and the brutal repression of its own people ceases at once.

A "lame duck" administration need not be utterly helpless in the face of the disgraceful conduct of its allies. Fear of N. Korea cannot excuse such conduct on South Korea's part and American hostility to the Soviet Union cannot excuse acquiescence to such conduct.

Margaret Holt
Amherst

The value of higher ed

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportuniy to congratulate the students and everyone else involved, whose well-organized efforts epcouraged the Board of Trustees to vote "no" on the proposed tuition increase for next year. The effort was a successful attempt by concerned students to keep alive the concept that this University is a public institution open to everyone regardless of race, creed, age, sex, or level of income.

It is important to understand, however that we may not be so fortunate in the years to come. This week's victory must be used as the foundation for strengthening the concept of public education in the state of Massachusetts. In this way, we will be able to effectively critique policies and recommend changes from the point of view that we naturally fill; a student striving for an education. With the Board of Regents taking control this spring, we must work with a new group of people and convince them, as we have others in the past, the value of a low cost education to the people of the state.

Albert J. Wallace
SGA Treasurer

Linda Geary
Speaker of the Student Senate

A nice agreeable piece

I picked up a hitchhiker the other night as the snowfall was drugging everyone with a refreshing atmosphere of pre-holiday glee. As soon as the rider got into my car, I knew that the trip would be unusual. He had a smile on his face, and was sucking on the remains of a hunk of snow. He didn't have body odor.

"Feels like Thanksgiving's tomorrow instead of next week, huhn?"

"It is great," I said. "I love the first snow."

"Did you ever realize," he said, "that Thanksgiving is the only really nice holiday we have anymore?"

"How do you mean?" I asked, watching as he sprinkled the last flakes of snow from his glove into his mouth.

"I mean, Christmas is so commercial it makes me puke. And Washington's day and Lincoln's day and all that — they've just become excuses to have Monday off. Saint Patrick's Day is an orgy of drinking. And Columbus Day doesn't even count anymore. I mean, who talks about Christopher Columbus anymore?"

"I guess they want to discredit him because he really wasn't the first soul to step foot in America," I tried.

"Oh — but —"

"Is ther anyplace special you want to get off?"

"Yeah, anywhere in town. But you take Thanksgiving," he continued. "Families get together, just sort of vegetate all day long, nothing but eating and being with people you take for granted. Even if you don't buy a turkey, nobody's going to lynch you. It's a day you can feel sentimental on without being embarassed. I mean you can even kiss your mother without her thinking you need some money."

"You have a point there," I said.

"I think I better get off here. Thanks."

As he was getting out of the car, he discovered that he had sat on an envelope I intended to mail. He picked it up and fixed the bent corner. "Hey," he said, pointing to the return address on the left corner, "is this you?"

I was tempted to lie, but he didn't seem to be in a homicidal mood, so I told the truth. "Yeah, that's me."

He jumped back into the car and closed the door. Panic clutched my insides as I braced for the worst, expecting him to tell me his girlfriend was pregnant and was going to expose him as the father of the baby and make him take responsibility for his part in the matter, thanks to my hyperactive typewriter. But he said, "Wow . . . I've been seeing your name a lot these days. Bad press, huhn?"

"Ahm — I never expected flowers and dinner invitations."

"I know what you mean," he nooded. "Maybe you ought to start writing about other things besides controversy."

"Oh, I do that too. People like you best when you agree with them. For instance, I was thinking about doing a nice agreeable piece about Thanksgiving."

"No kidding?" he asked brightly. "That sounds like a great idea to me."

Steve Masse is a Collegian commentator.

Steve Masse

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS
ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRAN T. BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIK H. JANSSEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD SAGLE, and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN, and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PROFE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YHENG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE CANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY SUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF
KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 353-220

All letters must contain the writer's name, address, and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

'Lost and found' has it all

By STEPHANIE KLEIN
Collegian Correspondent

Do you miss those mittens you left in the Hatch last Wednesday along with the glasses and room keys?

If so you should check out the Lost and found at the Assistance Desk located beside the Blue Wall in the Campus Center. There's a good chance you'll be reunited with a lost item.

"Anything that anyone finds is usually brought here," said Elaine Earhardt, a desk clerk at the booth.

"People even bring things they find in classes," said Earhardt.

An array of articles including: keys, notebooks and bicycle cables, winter clothing and even bowling pins and balls are stashed in three large boxes waiting for their owners.

The Assistance and Information desk even has a case devoted solely for lost spectacles.

You might be the one who lost various car parts, also amongst the lost articles.

"We once got a tagged and numbered racing pigeon which was left in the locker room downstairs." said Bruce Bent, assistance operation supervisor.

The placement of the Assistance Center next to the Blue Wall arose mainly out of its visibility.

"We're next to the Blue Wall and get all the incoming traffic in addition to being right next to the phone booths," said Bent.

The Assistance Desk serves a dual function, receiving emergency and maintenance calls at night when no other departments in the Campus Center are open.

Items that students bring in usually come from the Hatch, coffee shop and rest rooms, said Sabra Howard, an information advisor at the desk.

To pick up an article, one must describe it in full, give the approximate date and place where the article was lost and sign a register at the desk verifying ownership, said Earhardt.

There seems to be a pattern to where people lose things.

Meal books, wallets, hats, coats and umbrellas have been found at the Coffee shop, said Miles A. Seaver, manager of the Coffee shop.

Checkbooks and wallets are commonly left at the University store, said its manager W.L. Cummings Jr.

"We try to identify the owner of such valuables with identification and get in touch with them as soon as possible," said cummings. All other unidentifiable articles are sent to the Assistance Center.

If your hands are freezing, your car is not moving or you lost your puppy go to the Assistance Center before you despair.

The lost and found at the Campus Center assistance desk has many items waiting for their owners to pick them up. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

All Are Welcome at the Newman
Thanksgiving Social
Saturday, November 22nd
9:00 PM

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST
CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
See me when you Sell
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between
Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

Interested in
Arts Administration?
The Fine Arts Center is now accepting applications for spring semester internships. Five full-time (15 credit) positions are available.
Interns will concentrate in one of the following areas:
1. CONCERT MANAGEMENT
(including programming and contracts)
2. PUBLICITY & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT
(including advertising and market research)
3. COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND FUNDING
4. BOX OFFICE & FRONT-OF-HOUSE
(including box office operations and ushering)
5. PRODUCTION SERVICES
(including backstage operations)
For Details, call the Internship Office at 545-0727

STEEPLE JACKS
Home Cooked Food
at its Finest
Breakfast-Lunch 6-2 pm
Located in the Belly of Sunderland

due to unprecedented demand
The Hungry U
will be open until ONE AM
Monday through Saturday!
(Sundays until eleven p.m.)
Our Drink Specials Start at Nine
MONDAY
Cold, Cold Night Special:
All of our hot drinks only 99c
TUESDAY
Pizza Party:
A free small cheese and tomato pizza with every pitcher of beer or carafe of wine
WEDNESDAY
Bummer Night:
As the night goes on, the prices go down!
THURSDAY:
Stiff Stuff Specials:
Buy one "Stiff Stuff" drink, get one free!
We serve our full menu until 10 p.m.
Sunday through Wednesday,
until midnight Thursday, Friday and Saturday!
the Hungry U
55 University Drive, Amherst · 549-5713

NEXT SEMESTER
BREAK
TO THE ROCKIES
A semester of intensive, backcountry education at the nation's foremost wilderness training center THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR LEADERSHIP SCHOOL
Earn college credit while learning a broad spectrum of wilderness skills. The NOLS Semester in the Rockies offers a 3½ month program of wilderness training ideal for students in the sciences, environmental studies, recreation — or anyone looking for an exciting alternative to the standard desk-and-laboratory semester in college.
The NOLS Semester program includes four intensive expeditions: ski touring in the winter backcountry of Wyoming, backpacking through the deserts and prairie of Utah, a speleology course in the remarkable Wind Caves of South Dakota, and a climbing camp which begins with the basics and works up to advanced rescue techniques.
This rich educational and wilderness experience is open to men and women 17 years and older. Twenty quarter hours of credit are available through the University of Utah, or through arrangements made on your own campus. Over 150 colleges and universities have recognized the NOLS training program as an important academic field experience.
SPRING SEMESTER IN THE ROCKIES
For more information write: NOLS SEMESTER PROGRAM P.O. Box AA Lander, Wyoming 82520 or call (307) 332-4381

BLUE WALL
campus center
at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar
Friday, Nov. 21st
IMAGE
Original Rock & Brilliant Covers with Mona
$2.00 cover charge
Saturday, Nov. 22nd
MUNDANES
with Hot Dates
Listen for their single on WMUA 91.1 FM
Original New Wave Rock
$2.00 Cover Charge
in association with U.P.C. Productions
Due to renovations, the Bluewall Beverage Service is temporarily located in the Hatch Cafeteria in the Student Union Building.
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

A moment of peace admidst the pressures of oncoming term papers and finals. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Student group to promote new weekend alternatives

By VICTORIA JONES
Collegian Staff

Seven University of Massachusetts students are out ot rewrite weekends and the implant of their place "UNIQUends," a new phenomenon.

The group's object is to "discern the needs and wants of the student body in terms of social life," said member Debbie Sandock.

A few of their ideas are' putting lights and music outside the Campus Center pond for ice-skating, a Ronald Reagan film festival — B.Y.O. tomatoes, a "fool for a night" talent show at the Hatch to promote further use of the Bluewall/Hatch, ice sculpture, and Cosmic Whimp-Out contests, Sandock said.

The students were asked to design a product and marketing plan for UMass on weekends in a Mass Media and Marketing class. Under the supervision of Dr. David Klein, the seven grew so enthused with the idea they decided to form a grup outside of class to promote new weekend activities at UMass.

A survey of 208 people showed students felt there isn't a whole lot to do. This led to the creation of the group's motto "Don't have a weekend, have a UNIQUend," which resembles the philosophy "you can frequent fraternity parties just so many nights in a row before you begin to resemble a drunk sardine."

UMass used to have many campus wide activities such as Buschfests and Budfests and St. Patrick's day parties. The closing of the Campus Center during Halloween was the proverbial last straw, said Sandock.

Spirit Haus
The full-line liquor store that's close - and has convenient free parking.
WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE
THAT HELP KEEP ENTERTAINING AFFORDABLE!
Largest selection of wines in Amherst - and a friendly, knowledgeable sales staff.
KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS
338 College Street (rte 9 East) Amherst
Open till 11 p.m. Telephone 253-5384

RED TAG "SALE"
Look for RED TAGS for SAVINGS
Thurs-Nov 20-Sat Nov 22
the SHOE BIN
Shoes - Boots - Bags
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

DELANO'S
Introducing the Happiest Happy Hour in Town
3-6 P.M. Mon. - Sat. 9-11 P.M. Sun. - Thurs.
75c RAIL DRINKS
2 for 1 DRAFTS
(Free Hors D'Oeuvres 3-6)
MONDAY:
GENERAL HOSPITAL
Ward 8's - 60c (3-6)
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
plus regular Happy Hour prices
TUESDAY:
from Connecticut - One Night Only NAME THAT TUNE with
MIKE BEDOINE on guitar
Free Draft for First Correct Answer
$1.00 cover
plus regular Happy Hour prices
WEDNESDAY:
2 FOR 1 BOTTLED BEERS (6-11)
plus regular Happy Hour Prices
57 North Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

JOIN US FOR PRE-GAME
TOUCHDOWN
FOOTBALL BRUNCH
at
Top of the Campus Restaurant
Murray D. Lincoln, Campus Center
Brunch is Served from 10:30 am - 1:00 pm
ONE
COMPLIMENTARY DRINK
Bloody Mary or Screwdriver
ALL YOU CAN EAT
Fresh Juices, Fresh Fruit,
Waffles
Home Fries, Bacon, Chicken Livers
Chipped Beef on Toast
Scrambled Eggs, Eggs Benedict
Assorted Danish, Blueberry Muffins
Coffee and Tea
$5.95 per person
HOME GAME SCHEDULE
Nov. 22nd
Minutemen vs. Boston College
1:00

Area police log:

Vandals strike

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

Vandals struck parking lot 44 Wednesday night, taking five tape cassettes and toilet articles, police said. The 1971 Chevelle was broken into between 7:30 and 11:30 p.m., police said.

A student's window came tumbling in late Wednesday night in Patterson Dormitory, when a rock or a snowball struck it, police said. Students were in the room and awake, when they heard a boom a crash and the window came in, police said. The incident happened at 1:34 a.m. and caused over $100 of damage, police said.

A cigarette and candy machine were vandalized in Webster Dormitory wednesday night, also causing over $100 of damage. A security guard found the vandalized machines at 12:59 a.m. thursday morning, police said.

$1,645 worth of personal items and jewelry were stolen from Coolidge Dormitory monday, according to University Police.

The valuables were stolen between 11:20 and 12:20 p.m., police said.

Also stolen this weekend was a laser from the Hasbrouck Laboratory building, valued at $350 said Physics and Astronomy department Business Manager Robert Gray.

Gray said the neon laser could be dangerous to the eyes if aimed into them, but does not have the capacity to harm other materials.

Local robberies

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

A residence on East Hadley Rd. was apparently ransacked Wednesday night and $1000 in camera and stereo equipment was reported stolen. Police say the burglars apparently entered through an unlocked door.

A 1971 Toyota Corolla was reported stolen at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday from North Pleasant Street. An hour and a half later, at 10 p.m. police say it was recovered on Kellog Avenue by the side of the road. The car had a broken steering lock when it was recovered, police said.

A wallet containing $180 in cash and a number of credit cards was reported stolen from the Village Inn Wednesday night. Police say there are no suspects in the incident.

A two car accident was reported Wednesday morning on South Pleasant Street and East Hadley Road. Myra Warren, 44, of Amherst was apparently turning west on East Hadley Road when it collided with a vehicle operated by Donna Compora, 22, of Amherst who was turning left onto South Pleasant Street. There were no injuries and no violations were issued.

★ Collegian

continued from page 1

"It may be of questionable taste, but a fair reading makes it clear that it was not intended as a serious threat, but as a joke."

Lesser declined to identify his clients.

The classified ad, which ran on Nov. 7, read: "Help send Ronald Reagan to the big ranch in the sky. Give him a permanent role in Death Valley. Applications now being accepted for Reagan hit squad. Experience with automatic weapons and explosives a plus. The wet head is dead or should be. Apply after Jan. 20."

Lesser said several words were dropped from the last sentence and it had originally read "Apply in care of J. Carter, Plains, Georgia, after Jan. 20."

Stein said Secret Service agents had sought the billing records earlier, but he had refused their telephoned requests, "because it is the policy of our paper to respect the confidentiality of our advertisers."

The Bettmann Archive

©1980 Beer Brewed by Miller Brewing Co. Milwaukee, Wis.

Now comes Miller time.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
M-Tue CASH Anytime
Fri + Sat 11-2 am
Sun-Thurs 11-1

On Sale at
Tix
317 SUB
(across from post office)
545-2683

"Wall Flower Order"
$3.00 ea.
"Monyaka" with "Loose Caboose"
$2.50 stud.
$4.00 gen pub
M,Tu,Th 11:30-4
F 11-4
Closed Weds.
No Service Charge

FIELD TESTED
GENUINE HOSPITAL SCRUBS
The most comfortable shirts in the world!
100% cotton...just like your favorite pair of jeans. The more you wash them the more comfortable they become. Available in sizes S, M, L, XL. Colors: white, blue, light green, jade green. Only $11.95 post. 2 for $20.00. Illinois residents add 5% sales tax.
Send check or money order to: 2000 West North Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60647
The Letterbrick Shirthouse

FOUR SEASONS

Miller btls	7.49
Molson Golden (btls)	9.99
Dortmunder Imperial Octoberfest	15.99
Falstaff cans	5.99
Mr Boston Vodka 1.75 liters	8.99
Calvert Whiskey 1.75	12.29
Cutty Sark Scotch 1.75 litre	18.99
Old Crow Bourbon 1.75 liter	12.29
Paul Masson Wine (Rose, Chablis, Burgundy, Rhine) 1.5 liter	3.99
Bolla Rose 750 ml	3.69

Wines/Liquors
Open 9-11 PM
rte.9, hadley, ma./584-8174
in front of the malls

Ski Snatch: Big success

By JIM FLOYD
Collegian Correspondent

The ninth annual Ski Snatch got underway Wednesday and from all indications appears to be a big success.

Slightly over 600 people rushed into the Student Union Ballroom when the sale began at noon. By 5 p.m. yesterday almost 7,000 prospective buyers had entered the SUB and $105,000 worth of ski equipment and apparel had been purchased, according to ski club figures.

"A lot of the good stuff is going to go quickly," said senior Craig Bergquist.

"I'm amazed," said Kurt Kuehnel, a junior chemical engineering major, "The selection is great and the prices are good."

Most shoppers said they were pleased with the selection and found the prices reasonable.

"I just stopped in between classes to look around, but I think I'll be back tomorrow to buy a pair of skis," said Fran McDonald, a sophomore resident of Johnson Dormitory.

Jim Chambers and Fred Pierce, co-presidents of the Ski Club, said they were happy with the turn-out but hoped it would not discourage people who hadn't had a chance to go yet.

"We've still got plenty of good stuff. We expected a big turn-out so we got even more than last year," said Chambers.

Many students said they had been waiting some time for the sale to arrive.

"I've been saving up specifically for this sale. I was freezing yesterday wishing I had this jacket," said junior Mark Piscoe, as he waited in line to purchase a tan ski jacket.

Not all students were satisfied by the sale.

"It wasn't quite the assortment that I would have liked," said Seth Diamond, a junior marketing major.

Nnoruka, a Prince House resident, bounces a worn tire down the Pyramid steps in Southwest. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

After The Game...
★★★★★★★
Saturday
Happy Hour
with Jim Plunkett
3 'til 7
Beers (PUB MUGS)
THE AMHERST PUB

NOT JUST A DISCO DANCE
REGGAE
NEW WAVE
DISCO
FUNK
ROCK
MUZIK
LIGHT BY BOB DWELLEY
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21 UMASS 9:00 pm
CAMPUS CENTER 10th FLOOR
$1.50

3 DAYS ONLY
THURS./FRI./SAT., NOV. 20-22
20% OFF ALL STOCK IN:
TIGHTS
LEGWARMERS
LEOTARDS
BODYSUITS
SKIRTS
DANSKIN
rainbow prisms
The FLOWER CART
fragrances in soaps, creams, oils and shampoos
SOFT LUGGAGE*
* except sale items
OPEN FRI-TIL 9:00
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

ART MAJORS

Portfolios & Art Work Photographed at reasonable prices - slides, prints, black & white or color - prices vary according to work GARY 665-3930 evenings

AUDIO

Onkyo TA630D cassette machine prime condition 275/BO 584-9382

Technics SA-700 100 watt receiver large walnut advents both still under warranty Larry 546-9551

AUTO FOR SALE

71 Chevrolet Impala runs great $450 or best offer 665-4175

1973 Audi 100LS new transmission, valves, clutch AM-FM stereo, sunroof. Call 549-4187

72 Toyota Cor deluxe-auto 30 mpg, exc. mech. cond. body perfect, newly painted; call 253-9752; after 7 545-2255 ask for Brook

1967 Opel Kadett 2 door 4 speed 4 cylinder well maintained excellent in town mileage call 549-1896

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner Professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

'74 Impala AT, AC, ex mech cond, no rust, $800 call 546-6037

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16243-Y-78 Cajon, Hesperia, CA 92345

5-COLLEGE BUS DRIVER JACK

Thanks so much for returning my mealbook! You saved me a great deal of trouble. Thanks again Kathy

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

DISC JOCKEYS

Most Professional DJ's On Campus BOSE Quality Sound Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

G.H. goes down at the Drake The whole week in one sitting. Don't miss it. Downstairs at the Drake Sundays 7-12

FOR RENT

Own Bedroom in two bedroom Rolling Green apt starting Jan or Feb 1 147.50 inclusive call 253-5986 after 10PM

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

Fretless Bass, Fender Bassman HD., Univox HD., Univox Cab., Speakers 15x24. 546-7584

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

Guitar—Yamaha 6 string for sale. Excellent condition, great sound, and only 130.00 call Bill 256-8573

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

1976 Datsun F-10 wagon front wheel drive, 37 mpg, 77,000Mi excellent mechanical condition, best offer call 538-2536

Springsteen Tickets for Boston Garden Dec 16 show call 546-6131 or 546-6124

Springsteen Tickets December 12 Hartford good seats best offer over $40 542-3010

Hanson Citation Ski Boots size 9 excellent condition 80.00 6-4154 Steve

Womens Timberland High Boots Like new. Size 9 $60 call Deb 253-9744

Skis Remy 190 cm downhill Tyrolia bndgs poles incl $100 or BO 6-5679 eves

Hammocks for sale hand woven from Mexico all colors great for dorm $29.95 421 Patterson 546-1460

2 VW snowtires $20. pair 1 VW mounted spare $5. 665-4588 after 5:00 PM

Selling five shirts all womens-size five excellent condition 6-6156

ICE CREAM

Andrea of Dwight—Happy 20th Birthday! Oy! You're finally theah! Thanks for a great three semesters—Love, your roommate

ILSE

Feliz Cumpleanos Ilse de tu aamigo Doug

L.A. BARASH

Chere Lou, Bon Anniversaire. Your accent aigu glasses are in the mail. You little VIXEN you. Con mucho amor, L. Kazan

Lou Lou. Have a Happy Day! Love, your FAVORITE roomie

Lou, behind the tree TLA. Ton compagnon francais

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

Brown boots in bag in Campus Center reward call Martha 546-5157

Kobold Umbrella red, beige, blue geometric design call Amelia 546-9981

Blue Beret lost last week Pin has sentimental value Reward for return call 6-1172

Springer Spaniel female missing in the Puffton Village area since Sat please call 549-6238

FOUND

On New York Art Bus 11/8 1 hat, 1 book call Wendy 549-1005

Found small calico kitten outside Worcester DC 11/17/80 call 546-4996

Lost Art Supplies?? Found Nov 18 SUB mailbox at 2:00 call 6-7340

Found 1 pr of eyeglasses near Knowlton bus shelter on Sun eve call Dan 546-5504

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MA1 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

HELP WANTED, MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Any age or location Earnings unlimited See ad under Business Opportunities Triple "S"

HOT DATES

The Hot Dates are the hottest! Catch 'em this Saturday night at the Hatch!

PERSONALS

There's nothing exactly like this. .anywhere! Send your favorite snapshots, magazine picture, drawing, . .anything! We'll customize it into a beautiful 2 3/8" key-chain button, or pin backed button. (specify) Your personalized memento $3.00 p.p.d. T.G.R. Enterprises 2900 Griffin Road Suite #5 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33312 + ask for giant "slogan" catalog!!

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

In Memory of Ray Have a Great Day The Cabin

Free Kitten 4 mo old 549-5389

Washington Lower Inagural Party Don't miss it!!!

Monty Python's "And Now for Something Completely Different" playing Nov 22 CCA 7, 9, 11 $1.00

Need information about Sonoma State U If your on exchange or studied there please contact Suzanne after 5 256-8784

Celtics Trip vs NJ Nets Tues Dec 9 good seat beer transportation $30 call Bill 253-5571 or Larry 256-6815

All Welcome Newman Thanksgiving Social Sat Nov 22 9:00 pm front lounge

Knowlton Coffeehouse Sunday November 23 8:00 PM refreshments sold everyone welcome

Ron H.B. L.B.—Thanks for being mu buddy 3, always Shelly

Dave and Chuck, the best silks, do it up Saturday

Congradulations Zolla! Little Bunnies forever

CHOW SOW and M.R. How's the list now? M.R. you study too too much! Your dearest darling doo-doo Hey Lady—wanna go out for lobster?

Jo-Face—Live it up on Saturday!! Love Sheila Face

Through Rocky, Meadowlands, Superman, and Godspell—SENIORS were there, with Power, Pride, Class, and On Purpose!!

A.T.—Happy Trails, now and always!! Love S.M.

To the regulars at the Parade Rest Hotel remember the good times!! Mick, Mac, Taco, and Jo

Arch-Rival competitor friend roommate congrads GR your legal

Ping Baby its late so what?? Who cares hey you GAY NURSE WHIPS & -CHAINS PARTY TONITE happy Birthday CALIGULAS your friendly WAHINIS CHEEKS SPANKY Flea Calamity Taco Towel Caret Top GO Goose Mellow Fall Riva Holy Joe Syndi Maider Maid

Andy Glenn Jim New York was excellent Love you all very much

MMP Ellen Swan Happy Birthday you wild woman! Party hardy and do ludes! Guess Who?

Wizards—Don't miss it. Tonight $1.00 Engineering East 7, 9, 11

To the Brothers of Delta Chi you are the greatest from the members of High Class "PRIDE"

Beth Ann Wimibish Happy 20th Birthday wil & DJ

Happy Birthday Beth "Dounce" "Dounce"! and you know that

Newman Thanksgiving Food Collection for the areas elderly and families will be taken up at this weekend's offeratory Any canned goods juices nonperishables you can share will be greatly appreciated Thank you for your generousity Newman Club

Do it up Linda! Love Sharon, Lynn and Donna

Happy, Happy, Happy Birthday Jules I wish you many horses, mushrooms, purples, pinks & hot chocolates. Happy Big 20th much love, Robert Palmer

UMMB SENIORS—Do it up this weekend. You guys are the balls! Love KREN

Rapunzle Now you're my inspiration Thanks for caring. Don't forget, Monday's 2 months I haven't! Love Buster

From the many friends that Ray leaves behind Ray-we hope you find peace where you are, and know how much we miss you

Take this seriously Caryn: Have a great Birthday Love, First Floor Wheeler

Free kitten calico female 12 weeks old litter box trained call Gary 586-0017

Happy Birthday to the cutest nurse on campus, have another fourth of July — Love, Linda

Happy Birthday Yurchik—Have a "pivo" on me, you "srachka", Love, Babushka

Ellen Swan Have a magicac Birthday!

Barry! Drop by for tea. Happy Birthday! from Sweeney Todd

RIDE WANTED

Want Ride to Washington DC Nov 26 546-7910 will share expenses

Ride needed to Manchester N.H. or area Thanksgiving 546-4875 will share expenses

Ride needed to Long Island Tuesday November 25 after 3:00 pm Sandy 546-7429

ROAD-RATED CAR STEREO

Never-used new Craig T618; precision power loading, auto-reverse, stereo/mute/local/distance buttons, locking fast-forward/rewind, separate balance/fader, Bass/treble, AM/FM, cassette player/trans-rib, 5¼ 50W 11oz. FlushMount Speakers. Retail $300.00 for sale $210.00 call 256-8981 Todd

ROOM WANTED

Female nonsmoker seeks room on bus route Spring semester presently exchange California call Jackie collect 916-895-5540

2 Responsible friendly females seek rooms in apt on bus rt Spring semester Beth Teri 546-6004

Female seeking own room in apt or house on bus rte Spring semester 546-8088

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! 3 women seeking 2 to 3 bedroom apartment on bus route from January on. PLEASE call Mary or Pam at 546-1134 or Joanne at 546-1278 THANK YOU!

Female needs room Jan 1 apt or house on bus rt call Betsy 253-5435

Room wanted in house or apartment with engineering or scie nce student(s) Prefer near campus, quiet atmosphere call Vince 256-6235 late eves

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Female roommate share room in Brandywine from 010181 call evenings 549-5951

Roommate wanted own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326 nites

Available Immediately one room in Puffton triple $122/mo older male nonsmoking student preferred 549-5877 or 665-4273 keep trying

Own room in 3 bedroom townehouse North Amherst non-smoker Jan to Aug 31 118+ 549-0187

Quiet male needed for 2 rooms and bath in private house. Secluded setting on Connecticut River - 4 miles to bus route $225/month includes utilities - call Grant 367-2762 eves

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

Dial-A-Song 6-9472 Girls Only

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

One bedroom to sublet over intersession 256 6719 for further information/details

Male wnated to sublet room in nice economical apt 253-7158 Andy

Sublet wanted responsible couple seeking 1 bedroom apt over intersession call 546-8207 late eve

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Get the most cash for your gold, silver and classrings shop around then come and see us last! We're on campus in OH call Sue or Bob 546-6607

50% consignment for seasonal, ready to wear clothing. Once More With Feeling Carriage Shops 549-3772

Immediately work study student Office Assistant with typing skills approximately 20 hrs pewr wk at $3.50 hr Please contact Elaine Marasco 225A Boyden 5-0038

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

MR. KISSINGER, AS YOU KNOW, MANY PEOPLE ARE CONCERNED ABOUT GOVERNOR REAGAN'S LACK OF SOPHISTICATION IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS.
IF YOU WERE APPOINTED SECRETARY OF STATE, WOULD YOU BE ABLE TO ADAPT TO MR. REAGAN'S TENDENCY TO REDUCE EXTREMELY COMPLEX INTERNATIONAL ISSUES TO A SERIES OF APPLAUSE LINES?
OF COURSE. IN FACT, I THINK ONE-LINERS CAN BE VERY USEFUL IN THE CONDUCT OF FOREIGN POLICY COULD YOU GIVE US AN EXAMPLE, SIR?
"I PAID FOR THIS MICROPHONE, MR. BREZHNEV."
SIR, WILL YOU BE TRYING TO GET GOVERNMENT OFF THE BACKS OF THE POLES?
MR. KISSINGER, MOST INSIDERS ARE NOW CALLING GEORGE SHULTZ THE EDGE IN BEING APPOINTED SECRETARY OF STATE..
HAVE YOU ACTUALLY DISCUSSED THE JOB WITH MR. REAGAN HIMSELF?
YES, I SPOKE WITH HIM BRIEFLY IN THE ELEVATOR THE DAY AFTER THE ELECTION
WHAT DID YOU SAY TO HIM, SIR?
"DON'T MAKE ME BEG."
AND WERE THOSE TERMS ACCEPTABLE?
WE AGREED THERE WAS A BASIS FOR NEGOTIATION
GBTrudeau

Under the Influence M. Joyce

GOD! I HAVE SO MUCH WORK TO DO!
I HATE THE FOUR WEEK DIET OF CIGARETTES AND COFFEE!
I THINK NEXT SEMESTER I'LL CUT MY WORKLOAD FROM THREE CLASSES TO TWO!
KNAPSACK FULL OF UNREAD BOOKS
11/21 M. Joyce

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

MY MUSIC BOARD
(yes?)
(Someone, anyone?) please write me a memo!!
THE KING IS A FINK!
JOAN, MARK FELL ASLEEP ON THE FLOOR PLEASE DON'T STEP ON HIM. JOAN, THANX A LOT LOVE MARCIA
JOAN, SUE FELL ASLEEP ON THE TOILET. PLEASE DON'T SHIT ON HER. JOAN, THANX A LOT! LOVE TOBY LOVE MARCIA
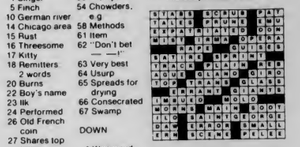
JOAN
LOVE SUE
LOVE TOBY
SUE, IF TOBY'S AROUND, PLEASE FORCE-FEED HER D.C. FOOD. SUE THANX A LOT LOVE JOAN

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Thursday's Puzzle Solved

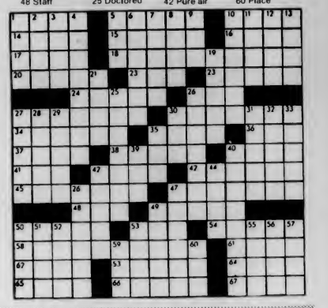


ACROSS

1 Singer
5 Finch
10 German river
14 Chicago area
15 Rust
16 Threesome
17 Kitty
18 Remitters
2 words
20 Burns
22 Boy's name
23 Ilk
24 Performed
26 Old French coin
27 Shares top billing
30 Folks
34 Cling
35 Legume
36 Letter
37 Peruse
38 Broker
40 Busy place
41 Pouch
42 Sioux
43 Interlaced
45 Reacted to snuff
47 Motorless craft
48 Staff
49 Candia
50 Heptad
53 Prompt
54 Chowders, e.g
58 Methods
61 Item
62 "Don't bet ——, —!"
63 Very best
64 Usurp
65 Spreads for drying
66 Consecrated
67 Swamp

DOWN

1 Woe word
2 Single
3 Grivet
4 Ran
5 Cry
6 Deports
7 Angered
8 Unbusy
9 Catnip
10 Scribe
11 District
12 Melodies
13 Betsy —
19 Oak fruit
21 Cicatrix
25 Doclored
26 Puget Sound port
27 Finds fault
28 Greek theater
29 Hue
30 Quill
31 Sheepish
32 At no time
33 Sows
35 Insect
39 Deity
40 Criminals' lairs
42 Pure air
44 Punsters
46 Constructs
47 Welcomes
49 Radium discoverer
50 Notice
51 Sea bird
52 Null and —
53 Select
55 Single
56 Toll road
57 Worry
59 Junior Leaguer
60 Place



D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Fishburger on Roll/Tartar Sauce, Cocktail Sauce
Pizza

BASICS LUNCH
Carrot Lentil Bake
Pizza

DINNER
Veal Parmesan
Baked Cod/Newburg Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Colache
Baked Cod/Newburg Sauce

Gallo chablis, burgundy
4 liter. $7.50

Miller. . . . . N.R.'s $7.99
Labatts any flavor. . . . . $3.10 six
Tuborg Lite/Dark. . . . . $2.10 six

C & C LIQUORS
Behind the Police Station
For Off Campus Delivery
253-3091

The Stables

Best Breakfast In Town — Specials Still Only 99c

Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Two females looking for off campus housing for Spring semester on bus route call 253-5751

Looking for living space Spring semester Prefer house situation have real neat dog that must come too Cindy 617-443-9417 Box 222 Sudbury, Ma 01776

I can't go back to England during intersession. Need an apartment near campus Call 546-1484

Room wanted for Spring semester must be quiet small near bus line or university 546-8786 keep trying

Desperately looking for 2-bdrm apt rel. near campus to sublet starting in january Please call 546-5184 or 546-8382

Four quiet students seeking house or apartment spring semester call Joann 6-4482

Wanted 1 or 2 bdrm Brandywine Apt Can trade Squire Village 2 bdrmtwnhse (300/mo + utilities) Trade not mandatory Dec 1 665-3034

★BOG

continued from page 1

occupants followed them out into the hall and surrounded the pair. Harris, unable to speak to Wohlers privately, left the group to return later with a statement on the situation.

"I'd like to say that a lot of issues have been raised in regards to funds and benefits which directly affect the Campus Center and I'd like to congratulate the board for that, but we've reached an end in this type of forum. I would like to meet with the board next week to rediscuss the issues and recah an agreement," he said before leaving the meeting.

Actions planned by the group include petition tables set up every day in the Campus Center Complex, a boycott of the University Store on Nov. 26 and Dec. 3, constant phone campaigns with the director's office and a referendum by the Student Senate. The budget is due to University Auxiliary Services on Dec. 5.

Student group members expressed concern with the proposed budget cuts.

"People have serious questions about how their money is spent (in the Campus Center)," Student Speaker Linda Geary said, "Look at the Blue Wall ... we spent over a half million and the roof is still leaking, doesn't that raise some questions about Campus Center maintenance."

★CIA

continued from page 1

ple in the world and the disruption of many governments," she said.

University Placement Service Director Arthur Hilson said the protesters were exercising their freedom of speech as were the 10 people who had signed up for interviews with the two CIA recruiters.

Hilson said the recruiters had left the University for Amherst College by the time the marchers arrived.

Sentiments of students at the rally varied, but most seemed to support the protest.

One 18-year-old student, who asked not to be identified, said he felt there was nothing wrong with having CIA recruiters on campus.

"I think people on this campus are always complaining about something."

★Estonia

continued from page 1

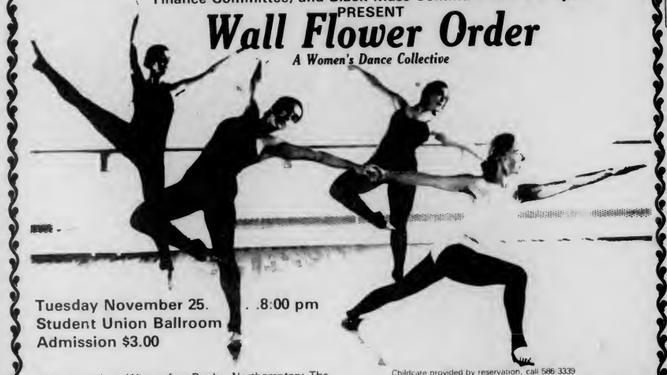
The country of Estonia has a population of about 1.5 million people. Its area is 17,413 square miles, according to The Academic American. Estonia has als been under the rule of Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Poland.

Saagpakk has studied philology, education, folklore, philosophy, psychology and logic at five universities in five countries: Estonia, Finland, Sweden, England, where he was a British Council Scholar. He received his doctorate degree from Columbia University in New York. Saagpakk has taught at Upsala College in New Jersey. He began teaching here in 1964.

Prof. Saagpakk has invested nearly a quarter of a million dollars in the project, he said. In addition, Gerald Jolly, a UMass alumnus, and the Estonian Educational Society have contributed money to the professor's work study fund. Other money has been provided by the American Council of Learned Societies. The University "has supported the project very beautifully," said Saagpakk, contributing $20,000 for research.

Saagpakk plans to retire after the spring semester. He plans to, perhaps, write an English-Estonian dictionary.

The Commuter Collective, Variations, Governors Program Council, Senate Finance Committee, and Black Mass Communications Project
PRESENT
Wall Flower Order
A Women's Dance Collective



Tuesday November 25. . .8:00 pm
Student Union Ballroom
Admission $3.00

Tickets on sale at Womonfyre Books, Northampton; The Collective Office, UMASS, and TIX.

Childcare provided by reservation, call 586-3339
For further information please call the Commuter Collective at 545-2145

Sheehan's Cafe
Pleasant St., Northampton
Game Room - Asteroids - Darts - Pool
Every Tuesday
LYNNE MERYL TRIO
Every Wednesday
ROGER SALLOOM
Every Thursday
GREENWICH THREE
Every Friday "W-BEE-BOP"
'50s & '60s
Parking In Rear '50s - '60s DJ

STADIUM
KEGS—
BEER—WINE—
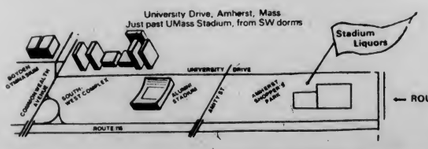
LIQUORS
U. Mass. Amherst
Catch Our Weekly Specials
LIQUORS
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Miller & Miller Lite	7.99 case 2.25 six bot	Labatts ale & beer	9.90 case 2.75 six
Erlanger	8.59 case 2.25 six	Moosehead	11.50 case 3.00 six
Michelob Lite 7 oz.	8.50 case, six packs 1.45 six	Jim Beam Bourbon	1.75 liter 10.59
Lowenbrau	9.50 case 2.50 six	Inglenook Navalle	1.5 liter 3.29
Pabst	6.90 case 1.95 six	Karl Von Stetten Liebfraumilch	1.5 liter 4.29
Molson Golden	9.90 case 2.75 six	Castillo Rum	1.75 litre 9.39
		Paul Mason	1.5 liter 3.69

-Save gas-
Save money-



500—Parking places
Soda—Ice—Munchies
-Save time

Sports notices

HOCKEY GOALIE NEEDED The General Physical Education Program Ice Hockey class needs a goalie. Anyone interested please call the office at 545-2338 or drop by Boyden 224 as soon as possible. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday at 8 a.m. at Orr Rink.

UMass Sport Parachute Club will be having a combined General Club Meeting and party at Russ's House (25 Nutting Ave.) on Sat., Nov 22, at 8 p.m. Munchies, slides, BYOB. Discussions will include student training, jumping in Florida, and votng on overall club issues. For further info call Russ, 549-1455.

WRITING ABOUT SPORTS will be offered for the first time this Spring. It will combine an inquiry into emerging issues in American sports with extensive practice and instruction in expository writing techniques. Register today and you'll spend next semester talking and writing about the most provocative issues in American sports. (See p. 57 of the Official Schedule of Courses for scheduling information.)

FOR ADDITIONAL INFO. CONTACT Rob Denson 584-1798

The FORFEIT FEE CHECKS for intramural touch football are ready to be picked up in the IM office.

Intramural basketball rosters are due in the intramural office by Wednesday, December 3. Mens, womens, co-rec and grad-fac teams will be accepted. A refundable $10 forfeit fee is required when entering a team. League play begins February 4. Schedules should be available in the intramural office by December 12, and should be picked up by team managers after that date.

NEW OFFERING FOR SPRING - RHETORIC 110J (WRITING ABOUT SPORTS).

Men's and women's THREE-ON-THREE BASKETBALL entries are due Monday, Nov. 24th. Pick up information sheet and intramural rules in the IM office at 215 Boyden. The tournament starts Monday, Dec. 1st.

★Gymmen set

continued from page 16

The team's average is around a 245, but according to Johnson its potential is a 255.

In gymnastics the coach's work occurs mainly during practices. "Once the meet has started, there are no tactics involved," said Johnson. "It is pretty well-determined during workouts how things will go. The coach is mainly a spectator at meets."

The team members feel that Johnson has done a good job in helping them to prepare for Army. Donahue said, "The atmosphere has been a lot more positive in here. We're psyched to beat them."

Captain Tommy Thomson, who broke a hand less than a month ago, will be competing on the still rings.

Also competing will be all-arounder, Mark Flanagan, specialists Steve Craig, Neil Connolly, Bob Lamb, John Nelson, Tim Barry, Paul O'Neil, and Bob Goulart. Freshman Bert Mathieson is an alternate for the all-around.

Pro roundup

Hoop coach resigns to help son

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Dan Doyle, head basketball coach at Trinity College, will resign at the end of the 1980-81 school year to work with his oldest son, Danny, who is autistic.

Autism is a state of mind characterized by daydreaming, hallucinations and disregard of external reality.

Doyle, 31, said in a prepared statement, "Despite the great efforts of Danny's teachers, he has regressed over the last six months. It became increasingly clear to me that if I were to do justice to my commitment to Danny, I had to divorce myself from all outside activities."

Big 10 battle

You might call it the Woolworth's Game when 5 & 10 get together in Columbus, Ohio, on Saturday for their annual Big Ten showdown. That would be No.5 Ohio State and No.10 Michigan, but there will something more than nickels and dimes at stake — like a few million bucks awaiting the winner in the Rose Bowl.

Actually, the Bucks will be waiting in Columbus in the form of the Ohio State Buckeyes. This is the 20th time since these two bitter rivals moved their game to the last Saturday of the season in 1935 that their annual confrontation will decide Big Ten honors.

Since Bo Schembechler took over as Michigan's coach in 1969, every head-to-head battle with Ohio State has settled matters except for 1971, when the Wolverines won it early.

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMPSHIRE MALL ON CAFE SQ RT 9 HADLEY, MASS
THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 Sun-Tue (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 Matinees Sat & Sun 2:15 R
MARY TYLER MOORE DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People — Fri & Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 Sun-Tue (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00 R
THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW — Each of these Late Shows begin at 12:15 Fri and Sat All seats $2.50
PETER O'TOOLE THE STUNT MAN — Fri-Sat (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 Sun-Tues (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 Matinees Sat and Sun 1:45 R
Quadrophenia Starring The Who
You might just die... laughing! MOTEL HELL — Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 Sun-Tue (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00
Night of the Living Dead FLESH GORDON R
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY MASS
GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN — Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00 Sun-Tue (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30 Matinees Sat & Sun 2:15 R
GENA ROWLANDS Gloria — Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 Sun-Tue (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00 PG
THE BOOGY MAN — Fri & Sat (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00 Sun-Tue (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30 R
LASSIE in HILLS of HOME — Matinee Sat and Sun at 2:15 All Seats $1.50 G
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN — Fri & Sat (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 Sun-Tue (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15 PG Matinees Sat & Sun 2:00

CARBUR'S
Restaurant & Lounge
Sat. & Sun.
BRUNCH 11:30 - 3:00
Quiche
Omelets
Steak & Eggs
Eggs Benedict
Bloody Marys & Screwdrivers $1.00
Rt. 9 Hadley
586-1978

Great Gifts - Great Prices
Great Fall
Housewares Sale
20% - 50% OFF
selected
Jars - Crocks - Bowls - T-pots
Bamboo Blinds - Grass Mats - Totes
Also Many
Clothing and Gift Specials
Open 10 am - 6 pm
use the new BUS STOP out front
Great Gifts - Great Prices
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

Place S.U.B.
The Great Ski Snatch
Just arrived new bargains.
Come check it out!
Today 12 Noon - 10 PM
Sat. 10 AM - 5 PM

Sports

Mass vs BC; the rivalry is ripe

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The Minutemen square off against their biggest football rivals, the Eagles of Boston College, in the 19th meeting of the two teams, here Saturday at 1 p.m.

The Eagles, (5-4) are coming off three consecutive wins over Army, Air Force and last week's 27-16 tackling of Syracuse. As a result of that game, BC had two men named ECAC "player of the week;" Shelby Gamble on offense, who rushed for 155 yards and three toughdowns and linebacker Jim Budness (a Chicopee native) who chalked up 16 tackles, two of them on fourth-and-one plays.

"The Syracuse win was a really good one for us," BC head coach Ed Chlebek said. "We moved the ball well throughout the game. It was a strong showing by our offensive line."

Mass (7-2) will be facing its biggest offensive line of the season; up front the Eagles average 260 pounds, more than some professional teams.

"This is an unbelievably big football team," Mass head coach Bob Pickett said. "They're big, strong and fast."

Strong and fast is BC's premier running back, Gamble, who has amassed 665 yards and eight touchdowns. Gamble is another in a long line of sophomore running back sensations in New England along with Lorenzo Bouier of Maine, Jim Quinn of New Hampshire, and UMass' own Garry Pearson.

Over nine games, Pearson has rushed for 975 yards and has scored 14 touchdowns. The tailback from Bristol, Connecticut also has a 10.1 pass receiving average (23 for 233 yards). He needs just 164 yards tomorrow to break the record set by Dennis Dent in 1978 for yards rushed in a season (1139). Pearson is already in second place.

He will be looking to gain that yardage against a defense that includes 6-2, 235 pound Budness who leads the Eagles in statistics with 90 total tackles, two fumble recoveries, a sack and an interception.

When the Eagles have the ball, they will be facing the number one defense in the country in Division 1-AA. 6-3, 205 pound junior Max Jones (Mass cornerback) was named Division 1-AA player of the week last Monday for his defensive performance against UNH.

BC quarterback John Loughery (LOCK-er-ee) has 77 passes completed for 1205 total yards. He will be looking to keep his passing stats up against a defense rated fourth in the country against the pass.

The Eagles have won 13 of 18 games played between the two rivals with number 13 coming last year, a 41-3 win at Boston's Alumni Stadium. In 1978 the Minutemen shut out the Eagles 27-0 at Amherst's Alumni Stadium, the scene of this year's match-up.

Dust flies as gymmen open against Army

CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

The chalk dust has really been flying in Boyden Gymnasium this week while the men's gymnastic team prepares for Army tonight at 8 p.m. at nome.

This confrontation will be the most closely matched meet since six years ago when UMass last beat Army.

Let's go back six years to that UMass-Army meet. Present head coach Roy Johnson was then competing for UMass.

Army was leading UMass by two points going into the last event, the horizontal bar. Johnson was up last for UMass and he needed an 8.15 for the team to win. He got an 8.95 and UMass won by .8 of a point.

"This year's high bar team is a superior to the team that made the comeback to beat Army," Johnson said. "The outcome of this meet will also come down to that event."

As Johnson goes into his third year of coaching, he hopes that this meet will be a repeat of the 1974 competition.

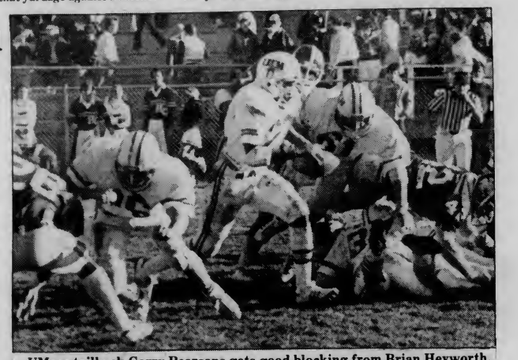
The gymnasts are ready and waiting for Army to come into the gym Friday. Bob Donahue is hoping to score 51 points in the all-around which would be a great start for his first meet of the season.

All-arounders Bob Gauthier and Hugh O'Neall are also hoping to score above 50 on Friday. Gauthier has also set a future goal of trying to qualify for the National Sports Festival where the nation's top gymnasts compete.

Hugh O'Neall's goal for the year is to qualify for Nationals on high bar. Tumbler and vaulter Steve Craig said with a smile, "I just want to come through the year alive."

"The key events for the Army meet will be pommel horse and parallel bars, and those events are the strongest they've ever been since I've started coaching," Johnson remarked.

turn to page 15



UMass tailback Garry Pearsons gets good blocking from Brian Heyworth, Joe Gamache and Tom Murray in the win over Holy Cross. The Minutemen host Boston College tomorrow afternoon at Alumni Stadium. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

"You have to get down and get dirty"

Stephen Freker

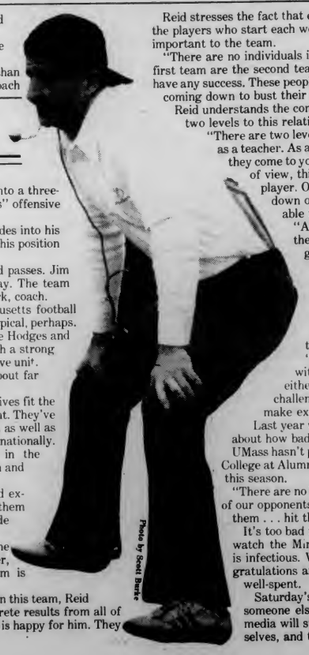


Photo by Scott Burke

The coach stands in the midst of the defensive backfield and surveys his team.

He shouts word of encouragement ad also directs some choice reprimands at the wary player-offenders.

The coach spots one of his tackles coming off the line slower than usual, making himself into an easier blocking target. The coach knows the solution to this problem.

He runs over, pushes the player out of the way, and settles into a three-point stance anticipating the block of the opposing "look team's" offensive lineman.

The ball is snapped. The coach, helmetless and padless, explodes into his opponent, ready to make the hit. The play ends and he assumes his position in the backfield.

The next play begins and the "look quarterback steps back and passes. Jim Reid steps in and makes the interception, his second of the day. The team blocks well and Reid runs it in for a score. Not a bad day's work, coach.

Reid is defensive coordinator for the University of Massachusetts football team. Strange behavior for a coach you might say? Not really. Typical, perhaps. Typical of the way in which Reid, along with his assistants, Mike Hodges and Clarence Brooks, hve instilled a certain looseness combined with a strong sense of team discipline and togetherness into this year's defensive unit.

"Great" and "awesome" are two words which are bandied about far too much in describing sports teams and/or players.

When one describes the UMass defense however, these adjectives fit the bill rather well. A quick look at their statistics illustrates this point. They've allowed the fewest points in the Yankee Conference this season as well as the least total yardage. Their stingy prowess is acclaimed nationally. The Minuteman defense is currently ranked number one in the in Division 1-AA. They're also fourth nationally against the rush and the pass.

"Our kids played with great emotion, extreme intensity, and excellent enthusiasm this year," Reid said. "I'm proud to be with them and I'm proud of the improvements and progress they've made this season."

Enthusiasm and intensity aptly define the defensive unit and the team as a whole this season. It is readily apparent to any observer, UMass fan or someone who's more impartial, tht this team is tougher, physically, mentally, and emotionally.

"We always preach togetherness and helping each other out on this team, Reid explained. "We get excited out there because we can see concrete results from all of our hard work. When a guy makes a good play, the whole team is happy for him. They realize that he's contributing and they appreciate this fact."

Reid stresses the fact that everyone on the team is involved in the overall success, not just the players who start each week. The guys on the bench put in their time also, and are very important to the team.

"There are no individuals in the team defense," says Reid. "The number one fans of the first team are the second team. Everyone has to feel a sense of worth to the team for us to have any success. These people are valuable and we wouldn't be anywhere if it wasn't for them coming down to bust their ass for the team."

Reid understands the complexity of the relationship between coach and player. There are two levels to this relationship and the bottom line is mutual respect.

"There are two levels to a coaching position . . . the coach as a person and the coach as a teacher. As a person, you have to be able to understand things on their level. If they come to you with a problem, you have to be able to look at it from their point of view, thinking back and remembering what it was like when you were a player. Once a coach elevates himself above his players and begins to look down on them or talk down to them, he'll lose the kids. You have to be able to interact.

"As a teacher, you have to get down and get dirty with them. Show them techniques instead of just talking about them. When they're getting all muddy, you hve to get muddy too. If they're standing around getting soaked in the cold and rain, you can't put on a raincoat. That's how it is on this team and the kids sense it and appreciate it. It's evident in their play."

Reid is hesitant to choose one game this year as an outstanding performance by his defense. Consistency is his catchword. The fact that the team bounced back after each of the two losses this year demonstrates this consistency.

"After the Delaware game I told the team that I screwed them with a bad strategic call. They accepted the loss and I told them either fold your tents or get up and come out scratchin'. They took the challenge and we came back and beat Maine the next week. We didn't make excuses when we lost to BU either. UMass never makes excuses. Last year when we beat them in similar weather conditions, they squawked about how bad it was for a week. That's just not our style."

UMass hasn't planned anything special for this week's encounter against Boston College at Alumni Stadium. They'll just take the game as it comes, like every game this season.

"There are no better teams in New England than UMass and BC. We respect all of our opponents and we want these guys. We're going to button up and go after them . . . hit them from the first snap till the final whistle."

It's too bad that there hasn't been 20,000 people in the stadium each week to watch the Minutemen. They're an exceptional ball club and their enthusiasm is infectious. Watching the entire team jumping up and down and yelling congratulations after a good play, seeing all this emotion and enthusiasm, is time well-spent.

Saturday's game isn't for the league title, that's already been awarded to someone else. It's not being played for the papers either, even though the media will swamp the pressbox. The players should play this game for themselves, and they certainly deserve a win.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 58 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Monday, November 24, 1980

Staff photo by Scott Burke

BOG budget may increase for next year

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

The Board of Govenors for the Campus Center and Student Union complex may receive a larger budget than expected for the upcoming fiscal year, according to persons close to the process.

However, the BOG and the Campus Center administration are still unsure who will pay for employee fringe benefits, which had been paid by the state until this year.

The two groups met Friday to reconsider the budget recommendations the caused a BOG meeting Thursday to erupt into chaos. The meeting ended with BOG members who felt their proposed budget for next year was inadequete, planning a Nov. 26 boycott of the University Store. Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice also proposed a campus wide referendum on their behalf.

The Campus Center administration annually allocates about $100,000, generated from Campus Center services and student fees, to the student-run BOG.

> The meeting ended with BOG members, who felt their proposed budget for next year was inadequate, planning a Nov. 26 boycott of the University Store.

Board Chairman Curtis Wohlers said paying for the employee fringe benefits, which would cost about $6,000, would undercut the BOG's and other student group's spending capacity.

But, Rosmarie Strother of the office for Planning and Budget said the University might not have to pay for the benefits.

At a UMass Board of Trustees subcommittee meeting last Wednesday, UMass President (David C. Knapp) took the position that fiscal autonomy, gives us the opportunity to charge fees for certain activities, like the Campus Center, and keep them for our purposes, instead of returning money to the state," Strother said.

According to Massachusetts general laws chapter 75, the fiscal autonomy granted to the University means the state will not charge the University for funds raised from fees for their respective organizations' own needs. Employee fringe benefits are not currently included in Campus Center and other organizations fees, she said.

She said the Board fo Regents, which officially becomes the administrating authority of the University as of March 1, may ask for the payments, instead of letting the state pay them.

"It could be that we will have to pay fringe benefits for fiscal 1981, (Calender year 1980,81) and if so the whole campus trust funds would have to change their budgets, and would require fee increases," Strother said.

'Public Servants' have right to unions, too

This is the first in a series of articles dealing with unions on the UMass-Amherst campus. This article examines the relationship between changing union laws and the rise of unionism on campus.

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

News Analysis

In the past, and to a lesser degree today, the unionization of public employees was thought by many to be aenthema to the duties of a public servant.

Indeed, until the late 1950's, "public servant" and "union member" was considered a contradiction of terms. "After all," the thinking went, "why should a public servant be placed in the position to demand anything from their taxpaying lords?"

Public sector employees were hardpressed to rally against the notion of a profitmonger public employer, since the public sector employers were non-profit organizations.

But in 1958, more than 20 years after the Wagner Act gave collective bargaining rights to private sector employees in interstate commerce, the term "public servant" became recognized as a pseudonym for "public wage earner."

That year, Massachusetts public employees were given the right to join unions and to present proposals to public employers. This right did not encompass the right to bargain with public employers, and it was not until 1964, another six years, that state employees were given the right to bargain with management for better working conditions.

Though municipal employees were given the right to bargain for wages in 1965, until then a right reserved exclusively for private sector employees, state employees were to wait eight more years until they became entitled to do the same.

The so-called "meet and confer" laws of the 60's were conducted at a time when money flowed freely from the public coffers. Management was in a better position to be sympathetic to the wage and working condition gripes of the public employees, because inflation and tax revolt yet to bring a demand for fiscal responsibility.

In the 70's, tighter budgets became the order of the day. Mangement and labor huddled, and what resulted was the 1973 state statute, Chapter 150E, which extended full bargaining right to state employees.

But, there was a union-management tradeoff in this legislation. Labor received the legal assurance that mangement must negotiate in good faith with the union over wages, working conditions, and hours and terms of employment. Management, in turn, received the legal assurance that unions were not to be permitted the strike option, the union's most powerful bargaining tactic.

The idea of unionism increasing gained support from campus employees as the evolution of labor laws placed unions in the enviable position of equals with mangement at the bargaining table. At present, there are four major unions on campus. These unions are each associated with statewide unions, which, in turn, are associated with national unions.

The 1,350 member faculty bargaining unit is represented by the Massachusetts Society of Professors

turn to page 6

World and national news

Fire alarm failures may have saved many lives

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—The chairman of the board of MGM Grand Hotels Inc. said yesterday that the failure of fire alarms in the hotel fire that killed 83 people and injured more than 500 "may have been a blessing in disguise" that saved some lives.

Fred Benninger, answering questions at a news con ference, said he believed the fact that fire alarms did not go off in the fire Friday at the 26-story hotel may have saved the lives of other guests.

"It may have been a blessing in disguise that it didn't go off," Benninger said. "A lot of guests would have gone into the hallways and suffocated from the smoke. Staying in their rooms may have saved them."

The death count was 83 yesterday after repeated room-toroom searches at the MGM, the once-glittering Strip centerpiece ravaged by fire and smoke in the nation's second-worst hotel fire.

Authorities said they believe they have pinpointed the fire's cause as electrical, but many unanswered questions remained.

The fire began in electrical circuitry above a delicatessen on the main floor of the 26-story hotel which was a glittering centerpiece on the Las Vegas gambling Strip. It smoldered for hours before exploding down out of the ceiling in a roaring fireball which then sent dense smoke upwards into open elevator shafts.

"This was a fire that built and burn ed," Clark County Fire Chief Roy Parrish said Saturday. "It was electrical in nature. As it sought oxygen, it started in a downward process and vented itself. Then we had a backdraft upward."

The force of the fireball sent what one survivor called "a wall of flame" through the casino, where at least 10 bodies were found.

Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority Chairman Barry Locke, left, smiles as Gov. Edward J. King looks on yesterday after the state Supreme Court gave the governor temporary leeway to continue running Boston's transit system further into the red. (AP Laserphoto)

Gas siphoning from ruptured tanker begins

ISLESBORO, Maine (AP) — With four fire-fighting vessels posted nearby, cleanup crews yesterday began the delicate task of siphoning thousands of gallons of gasoline from a ruptured oil tanker off the Maine coast, Coast Guard officials said.

Meanwhile, divers yesterday morning discovered that damage to the hull of the tanker Christian F. Reinauer, which struck an offshore ledge early Friday, was far more extensive than previously thought.

A gash 21 feet long and one foot wide was found on one side, and a narrower, 14-foot tear in the other, the Coast Guard reported.

An undetermined amount of gasoline and heating oil leaked Saturday night in addition to the estimated 60,000 gallons that escaped between early Friday and Saturday afternoon, Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs said yesterday.

"Basically it's stopped, with some intermittent discharges," Griggs said from the Coast Guard station in Rockland.

Helicopter inspections yesterday revealed no contamination of the coastline and numerous islands in Penobscot Bay, apparently because of favorable seabound winds, Griggs said.

But "a wind shift could alter that at any time," he warned.

The Coast Guard imposed a one-mile safety zone around the Reinauer—off-limits to passing vessels—while the combustible cargo was being pumped from the tanker to a huge Exxon Corp. barge which had volunteered its services, Griggs said.

Four fire-equipped Coast Guard vessels were supervising the operation, which included cleanup crews and divers hired by the tanker's owner, the Boston Fuel Transportation Corp., he said.

Griggs said it was difficult to estimate how much gasoline and oil was still aboard the tanker because it was impossible to determine exactly how much had leaked out.

The Boston-based tanker was carrying nearly 720,000 gallons, and about 260,000 gallons had been transferred from the tanker to the barge and another ship by Saturday night, Griggs said.

Scattered patches of the petroleum were floating yesterday in "long ribbons" more than two miles south of the tanker, which was anchored about one mile off the mid-coastal island of Islesboro, Griggs said.

Efforts to transfer the cargo were hampered Saturday by rough seas and briefly yesterday by problems with a pump.

Digest

Associated Press

John W. McCormack, right, former Speaker of the House from Massachusetts died Saturday at a nursing home in Dedham. He was 89.

Actress Mae West, left, legendary sex symbol, died Saturday in her Los Angeles apartment. West, 87, is shown in the early days of her career. (AP Laserphoto)

Major earthquake rips Naples

NAPLES, Italy—A major earthquake struck the southern Italian city of Naples last night and initial reports said a 10-story building and at least two other buildings collapsed.

Fire officials in Naples said they had reports of at least three buildings toppled in the quake but no immediate report on damage or casualties. A radio reporter said one of the buildings that collapsed was 10 stories tall.

There were reports that the quake, which struck 7:34 p.m.(1:34 p.m. EST), was felt as far north as Venice.

Radicals negotiate surrender

CHICAGO—Two former leaders of the radical Weather Underground, Bernardine Dohrn and William Ayers, are trying to negotiate their surrender after a decade in hiding, local prosecutors have confirmed.

Gregory Ginex, head of the Cook County state attorney's felony trial division, said Saturday that New York lawyer Michael Kennedy had contacted his office, asking for leniency for his clients in exchange for their surrender.

But Ginex said he made it clear to Kennedy that any deal likely would have to wait until newly elected State Attorney Richard Daley takes office Dec. 1.

King gets OK to run MBTA

BOSTON—Massachusetts' highest court has cleared the way for Gov. Edward J. King to run the Boston transit system without a budget for at least a few more rush hours. However, a final showdown over the legality of his action may come by early December.

Lawyers return to state Supreme Court this morning to prepare for the final phase of the case. The issue that still awaits a conclusive answer is whether the state's laws dealing with emergency situations are so far-reaching that the governor can use them to spend money without legislative approval.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Go Garber

No Hidden Charges
All Inclusive Prices
Includes the 15% tax and service charge

BERMUDA
FT. LAUDERDALE
BAHAMAS
MT. SNOW, VT.
WINTER PARK, COL.
ITALIAN ALPS

and much more. . .

Don't wait. Times running out. Call Campus Representatives for further information. Ask for Pam at 546-9592 or Andrea at 549-0032.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome
Inexpensive
Refreshing
Change
Downtown Amherst
Next to Cash Advance
Fri - Sat 11-2 am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

For $3.50
a column inch,
you can have a choice
of 2 colors (Free)
and a market of 25,000 students.
Call 545-3500
for more info.

Today's Staff

Gayle Young
Night Editor

Laurel Hanscom
Copy Editor

Paul Evans
Layout Technician

Chris Grewe
Night Darkroom Tech

Marsha Bianchi
Mary Kinneavy
Ria Koning
Michael Krumpe
Janet Milstein
Grace North
Composing Room

J.R. was shot?

UMass students contradict ratings

Contrary to a national trend, most UMass students interviewed last night in a random survey did not watch "Dallas" Friday night to find out who shot J.R. Ewing.

An estimated 82 million viewers saw J.R.'s jilted mistress, Kristen Shepard, emerge as the assailant Friday night, according to Associated Press reports. The program drew 65 percent of the audience watching television, a spokesperson for the A.C. Neilsen Co. told AP.

But only a handful of UMass students contacted had watched the show. Many others, however, heard that Kristin was responsible from friends or news reports.

"Christine shot him, I heard it on the news," said freshman Katherine Hulton of Knowlton dormitory. She said most people she knew didn't watch the show, but many students had heard Kristin was the guilty one.

When asked if he watched the show, freshman Paul Green of Webster dormitory said, "No, I was drunk. And I think there are more important things to put on the cover of Time magazine than "Who Shot J.R.?" I know it's an outlet for entertainment but I think it's gone a little too far," he said.

Catherine Nault, a freshman in Patterson dormitory, said she didn't watch the program, but knew it was "Sue Ellen's cousin" who was responsible for the shooting. She said she knew, "because everybody else watches it and is talking about it." About half of the 30 people who live on the fourth floor south corridor of Patterson watched the program Friday night, she said.

Junior Irene Gedaminsky of Cance dormitory suspected Kristin.

"I wasn't surprised, it was leading up to it. She deserves it, she framed her sister. She's a jerk," Gedaminsky said.

Many of the students contacted last night simply said they did not watch television.

The methodology used by the Collegian for this random survey relied on the University Student Directory. The fifth person on the left facing page was called. Abut half of the names listed were contacted.

Feld Ballet graces FAC

LISA WATERMAN and JANE DeVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

The versatile Eliot Feld Ballet illustrated the best elements of a Ballet and Modern dance company in their performance at the Fine Arts Center Sunday afternoon.

Circa, like Felds' best works, was based on traditional elements of dance going back to the roots of Nyjinski's "Afternoon of the Fawn," and the more stylized choreography of Ruth St. Denis.

The clean repetetive motifs of "Circa" were set in an awesome complexity of patterns. The piece opposes and combines two groups in an almost constantly connected quartet of a man and three women in flesh-colored tights and a female carried by three men.

Two quotations in the program defined the outstanding motifs. "One eyed Etruscans play follow the leader/Forever around the edge of a vase" and "The breath of the west wind bore her/Over the sounding sea/Up from the delicate foam/To wave-ringed Cyprus her isle."

The dancers, depicted as "Etruscians" move in stylized freezes that recall the movements of some of Martha Graham's recent choreography.

"Venus" dawning onstage in flesh-colored tights rises in the smaller of three men in bule, with her horizontal figure undulating on waves aided by a masterful lighting technique.

Both groups intertwine within themselves, Venus moving her arms like vines.

Richard Feins danced with a deft mixture of virility and sensuality. Gloria Brisbin's Venus was clean and straight forward. Fein's surrounding group of ancient gold-lit figures dominate the ballet.

The goddess Venus is an apparition. The man yearns toward her, briefly dances with her, but both are held back and protected by their followers.

Circa contains stylized jumps and spare movements with surprises like a line broken by a backward somersault. The movement forms some wonderful shapes creating a beautiful dance composition.

Half time was a tongue-in-cheek look at half-time shows dominated by the coquetish, Ann-Margaret type movements of pink-cheeked cheerleaders combined with Fourth of July patriotism.

The cheerleaders moved across the stage with sweeping energy, shaking Pom-poms and alternately placing them on their heads. In between rah-rah they look like fifties French hats floating down the Champs-Elysees.

The Statue of Liberty shot rapid-fire toward a star becoming entwined by the cheerleaders.

Connecting these two American symbols, the Statue of Liberty finally became tangled in the plastic wisps of pom-poms.

The Feld Ballet is a small company that manages to achieve an impressive sophisticated, artistic sensibility.

Gloria Brisbin and Richard Fein star in a piece choreographed by Eliot Feld.

Protest observer is UM student

By RON MILLER and NEMAT SHAFIK
Collegian Staff

A group of UMass students has identified one of two men seen a top the Campus Center Parking Garage with binoculars and cameras observing a rally sponsored by the Ad-hoc Coalition Against the CIA.

In a flyer published Nov. 21, the group named Paul T. Coughlan, a UMass senior majoring in economics as one of the men seen watching the rally protesting the CIA recruitment at the UMass Placement Office. When questioned, Coughlan said he watched the protest because he, "Just wanted to observe everybody's reaction to the rally from far away."

However, Jim Murphy, member of the Coalition Against the CIA, said, "I believe that they were CIA men. It's not just a paranoid suspicion. The CIA has a real fear of student organizing."

The authors of the flyer are not members of the Coalition.

David Levinson, one of the authors of the flyer, said he was concerned about the men's actions and their refusal to identify themselves. "People must know what they are doing on campus," he said. "If people walk around suspicious of one another, there is no way we can preserve academic freedom."

A member of the coalition, Laurie Kellog, disagreed with the publication of Coughlan's name, address and telephone number.

"Unless I had more information or thought that his presence was more directly endangering our group, I wouldn't publically give out his name," she said. "There

turn to page 9

Area police log

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

John F. O'Brien, 32, of Canton, was charged with three counts of forging false presciptions and three counts of uttering false prescriptions after a week long investigation by police.

Police say they had been receiving complaints from Amherst pharmacies about forged prescriptions and that they received a call from the College Drug Store late Thursday afternoon reporting a forged prescription. Police apprehended O'Brien that same afternoon on Main Street near the pharmacy. He was scheduled for arraignment Friday police said.

Police said Douglas C. Shaw, 20, of Amherst was charged with assault and battery of a police officer and disturbing the peace. Thursday night in the parking lot of The Pub in Amherst. Police were called to the scene to break up a fight and Shaw allegedly struck a police officer who was attempting to subdue him. Shaw was scheduled for arraignment Friday Nov. 21.

Police said an East Pleasant Street sorority house was robbed Thursday afternoon. An undetermined amount of Christmas gifts and jewlry and $85 in cash were reported stolen. Police said the burglar apparently entered a locked room and that there are no suspects in the case.

A hit and run accident was reported late Thursday afternoon at Eastman Lane and East Pleasant Street. James N. Taft, 20, a University of Massachusetts student from Grafton, was knocked down by a car described as a dark blue BMW. Taft walked to a nearby fire station to report the accident. Taft suffered leg injuries. There are no suspects in the case police say.

'The Stunt Man': Enjoyable film

By ANDREW GORDON
Collegian Staff

It took nine years to complete, but director Richard Rush's film, The Stunt Man, was well worth waiting for.

Audiences expecting a nice little film about Hollywood stuntmen doing their job will not be disappointed — The Stunt Man is packed with a variety of great stunts — but they will receive much more, too. There's much in the movie that requires thought.

Steve Railsback, who played Charles Manson of TV's Helter Skelter, stars as a young, confused man running from the law. Peter O'Toole, playing a crazed movie director, takes him under his wing and hides him on the set of an old World War II flick. He disguises Railsback as the film's previous stuntman, who he let die during a dangerous stunt in order to get a good take.

Along the way, Railsback encounters problems with his identity, reality and illusion and, most importantly, survival. And he soon fears that O'Toole is intending to kill him on camera, also.

Railsback and O'Toole are good, although the parts they play are confusing and totally unpredictable. It is difficult to relate to them or any other character because it is

turn to page 9

Steve Railsback winging it in The Stunt Man.

FILM

Gena Rowlands, as Gloria Swenson, confronts a table of small-time hoodlums and gangster in Gloria.

'Gloria' combines both compassion, suspense

By ROBERT B. CARGILL
Collegian Staff

In Gloria, Gene Rowlands unleashes a most potent performance — she's gutsy and she'll spit in your face. You'll love it.

Written and directed by John Cassavetes, superbly photographed by Fred Schuler, and backed by Bill Conti's (Rocky 2) truly enhancing musical score, Gloria is about as real as they come. Rowlands as Gloria Swenson is a 1980's gun moll, suddenly burdened with the responsibility of protecting a young boy (8-year-old John Adames) after his family is ruthlessly gunned down gangland fashion.

The boy is "marked": his father was an accountant for the mob and he carries his father's little black book. Gloria, by sheer coincidence, is elected his "guardian angel." Her role demands maternal instinct as well as cold brutality. She delivers.

Gloria is a true heroine, committed to bringing little Phil (Adames) through to safety. Their relationship becomes romantic and their various encounters with gangsters are gripping: full of compassion and warmth, frustration and terror.

Gloria repeatedly confronts the mob, plays their own game, and beats them. She will take on a carload of thugs or a roomful of big-time "hoods." And while they are wondering what hit them, she and Phil are once again on the lam. The couple's frantic flight from injustice takes them through New York subways and down 86th Street, into Times Square and as far away as Pittsburgh.

The film's packing blends well with the pressure-driven activity of Gloria and Phil. Gloria and its principals move fast but choppy, serving to bring about an aura of suspense and evoking deep empathy. Seeing Gena Rowlands as Gloria is engrossing in the least. It will feel as though your life is on the line, too

Gloria is currently playing at The Mountain Farms theaters on Route 9 in Hadley.

The Mundanes are anything but

By ROBERT B. CARGILL
Collegian Staff

Featuring Rhode Island's Mundanes and Boston's own Hot Dates, Saturday night's gig at the Hatch was yet another plus for the small-time New Wave movement. Both bands performed with the type of class that will soon secure them bit-time status.

The Mundanes were solid. In delivering such forceful tunes as "She's Control," "After You," and "Finishing Touches," they demonstrated well their brand of rock 'n' roll. They can dish out everything from top forty material like "Make It The Same" to hard, sizzling numbers such as "Trendy" to a melancholic "Anyone Can Fill My Shoes" to the Blondie-like "Empty Boulevards." The Mundanes are clean, keen, and mean.

Though surrounded by a tight bunch of musicians, lead vocalist Marsha Armitage is the predominant focus of attention. Her voice is clear and soft, often shrill, but never annoying. She really takes off on songs like "After You," or "She's Control." Her vocal power is subtle enough to appreciate: she won't knock you over but she'll come close.

Versatility is one of the Mundanes' key qualities. They can equally share the singing duties without losing pace. When Armitage is not centerstage, John Andrews, Jonathan Gregg, or Dean Lozow can take over, adding another dimension to the band's sound. Thus, they go to town with their leadoff tune, "Only the Cool" and "Friday Night I Wanna Go To The Disco."

Boston's Hot Dates opened for the Mundanes. Whipping off number after number in high energy fasion, the Hot Dates were not disappointing. Fired up by the stinging vocals of Bob Millett, songs such as "Without Girls" and "The Thrill I Need" were espcially effective while other crowd-stirrers were "Scream It Out," "Shut Up," and the hit-potential, "Moonlighter."

The Hot Dates play fast and fun New Wave; it's danceable and very appealing. Drummer Grant Clark bangs away on his kit with a terrific ferocity; Mitch Kary uses his keyboards to thinly slice into the band's sound, enhancing what's going on up front. Up front, are a bouncing Sam Simcoe, fiery Bob Millett, and bass and vocalist, Jeff Root, all working together to summon forth that infectious sound that Hot Dates can deliver.

Millett told the Hatch crowd on Saturday night, "We're gonna play some blood and spittle numbers for ya." Whatever he meant then, people soon found out and no one complained.

The Mundanes at the Hatch. (Staff photos by Cheryl Senter)

The New FATS WALLER Musical Show
AIN'T MISBEHAVIN'
TONY AWARD WINNER BEST MUSICAL
SPRINGFIELD SYMPHONY HALL
3 BIG SHOWS
Friday, December 5 8 PM
Saturday, December 6 2 PM & 8 PM
Evening: $15 / $13 / $11 / $9
Matinee: $13 / $11 / $9 / $7
Tickets Available via Phone Charge (413) 787-6600, All Ticketron Outlets and The Center Box Office, 1277 Main Street, Springfield, MA
Group Sales Information, Call (413) 787-6610.
A Springfield Attractions Presentation

The 6th Annual Shopper Guide is coming. Call the Collegian Advertising Dept. for details. 545-3500

SUNSPOT
The year-round tan.
Tan in December? Tan in March? Without Florida or Mexico or Bermuda? Sure. With a SunSpot Tan, you're tan year-round. After a six-session, two-week foundation program, a residual, once-a-week visit keeps you tan all the time. (The over-all year's tan costs just 39¢ a day!)
All SunSpot tanning programs are individualized by a trained technician so they're safer than the real sun. Our tanning booths have a controlled environment so you get a perfect tan with no sunburn worries. For most people, one minute with us is like an hour in the sun. So keeping attractively tan takes just a little while each week.
The SunSpot. Amherst Carriage Shops. 549-1499. based on a full year's tanning program
39¢ a day*.
Saturday Sunspot Special (Nov. 22) 1 Free Visit & Free Gift with this ad

Editorial/Opinion

Jordached

When I was a freshman three years ago the only women who wore designer jeans were the ones who smeared four colors of makeup on their faces, had a permanent wad of gum jammed between their teeth, and wore sculpted, bleached blonde hair that never moved. The idea of men in designer denims was unthinkable, for the faded, four-times-a-week straight leg Levi was undisputed king.

Then some Madison Avenue sharpie decided to introduce the concept of fashion to the blue jean sensibility. This past summer we were hit with a barrage of star-studded commercials that featured some of the most famous asses in show business and sport. There were, for example, Brooke Shields for pre-pubescent Lolitas, Reggie Jackson for jock worshippers, and Debbie Harry for designer punks. Other companies didn't bother with stars or specific target groups, they simply aimed straight for the crotch. One Jordache ad featured a teenage Adonis, standing pensive and alone by the shore, all tanned and muscular and Jordached. Suddenly from the distance (violin music up) runs a sumptuous blonde, all curved and wiggly and Jordached, who, to his delight, approaches, leaps, spreads her long legs, and joyfully mounts his back. The two trot off, passionately entwined, into the horizon. So much for subtle symbolism.

Bob Conte

But young America decided that the stars and nymphs looked wonderfully chic, and designer jeans became a full blown trend. Now everybody's got the blasted things. Your friend, your lover, your Economics professor, your power weightlifting coach, your mother. It's a fashion fad that transcends race, sex, and social class like none other in recent memory. And the sublime pastime of peoply watching will never again be the same.

Yesterday on campus I spied a large, burly fellow with a butch haircut and no neck. He was wearing a red "UMass Wrestling" jacket over a pair of sharply pressed Murjanis that threatened to squeeze the blood out of his substantial posterior the moment he sat down. I wondered how such an obviously macho sort felt about the predominant femaleness of the designer craze, so I approached him.

"Excuse me, sir," I said, "but don't you feel that your sacrificing your masculinity by wearing such a flitty pair of pants?"

He calmly stopped and glared into my eyes. "Don't you feel that you may be sacrificing your continued good health by asking me such an annoying question?" I think I nodded "yes" before quickly turning away.

Still, most women I interviewed are divided over the question of designer males. Opinions ranged from "they look like a bunch of limp-wristed sissy caricatures," to "not bad if you got the ass for it," to "a wonderful by-product of male liberation." One woman commented that she would never go out with a designer male unless he was a French speaking multi-billionaire, but most said that they wouldn't mind dating one as long as he didn't lisp.

There is no such division of opinion among woman-watching males, who are universally ecstatic about the designer jean trend. Representative comments include, "I think of them as God's gift to all men." "They bring a new aesthetic glory to the female rear end," and "I thank Calvin Klein every night before I go to bed." Most men are also enthusiastic over the wildly popular spike heel/designer jean combination, although one dissenter said, "They're certainly sexy as hell, but the women look like lost baby ostriches when they try to walk fast."

Lost in all the madness is Levi Strauss' original concept of the blue jean as a durable, comfortable, cheap garment for work or play. To those of us raised on this principle, the designer craze seems tacky and out of order. We find it regrettable that the modern teenager who is accustomed to blowing $39.95 for today's flashy models will probably never appreciate the rustic, down home appeal of the Levi that has enraptured us older folks for so long. But as the ads get sleazier, fits get tighter, and material gets slinkier, they're probably not going to give a damn anyway.

Bob Conte is a Collegian columnist

Writing a letter? READ THIS!
Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.
All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Half-winter and a shifting wind

Eric Janszen

Frost clung to the windshield in thin lines of crystals which followed the pattern of short strokes where the ice had been scraped off the day before. We were half way to Hugo's and the engine was starting to get warm, so the heat began to fan clear patches through the ice. The lights of the oncoming cars came into focus through the clear patch in front of me out of the cloud of light around it, and the blower breathed its steady hot breath over the radio talking about the last five songs, of which we'd only heard one because we'd been in the car just that long, heading toward Northampton.

It was the cold night that comes between fall and winter, when in the daytime, it's not too cold but at night the sky is deep and open pulling the warmth of the earth and air out into it. And the night seems so much colder than winter because the cold is new and you can still remember the feeling, walking through town in shirtsleeves and sitting on the steps in front of the house thinking about the end of summer and the leaves falling, and the cold. You can't help but remember it, like a friend you once had, and the feeling, but you try not to because it's cold now and, for me—I was just a little way from the bar, anyway. Just waiting for the lights to change.

Carol hadn't said anything the whole ride. She stared out the window, through the frost, at the lights in the houses and on the cars sliding past us in the dark in silence, but for the blower still exhaling like a winded dog, but just the exhale. And I was that dog, with my eyes bulging out and my mouth open and tounge hanging, because I never did inhale, waiting for her to say something before the lights changed, or anything else for that matter.

But she didn't say anthing and reached across to turn the knob on the radio and the speaker in back spit tones and pieces of words until she found a song she like, or settled for. The lights turned green and I turned and headed down the street into the wind pushing down past the old buildings and the gas stations. An old man standing outside Hugo's watched us pull into a space in front, and he pulled his elbows in close with his hands in the pockets of his long, wool coat and his chin buried in a thick, grey scarf.

Carol got out first and went past the man, paying no notice of him, and I locked her door from the inside, and got out, and locked that door. I watched the empty space where she'd been as she went inside, and the man outside stood still with the wind blowing his hair and the cuffs on his baggy pants and the trash around his feet. I looked through the plate glass windows at the shapes moving slowly in the warm light, and shuddered in the gust.

She was inside with the pool table and the small wooden chairs and the bartender changing the channel on the television, beyond the weathered door where the cold ended. The wind pressed from behind as I approached. Or the door pulled.

"You could use a drink of something," the bundled man suggested turning, "to cut the chill." I seemed to warrant a nod, so I gave him one and went inside.

Eric Janszen is the Collegian executive editor

Letters

Caught up in the maelstrom

To the Editor:

—The ghoülish digging up of the "remains" of Rudolf Kastner—Jewish victim of the Holocaust—by Mohammad Saleh reveals the extent to which those who support terrorism numb themselves in order to commit repulsive acts.

Kastner, whose mouldering memory was dragged from a tragic grave and grotesquely twisted by Saleh's tortuous lies, symbolizes the most bitterly degrading aspect of the German-Nazi entermination of European Jewry: The forcing of innocent victims to degrade themselves in order to survive.

People, any people, held in pens, or ghettos, like animals consigned to the slaughterhouse waiting to be gassed or burned to death react in different ways. Some Jews bravely walked into the gas chambers with a song of Jerusalem on their lips. Others actually turned on their captors on the way to the ovens. Some were not brave, especially children who were terrorized and afraid. Some refused to believe what was happening to them.

Some were forced, or coerced, into working for their murderers. That was degrading, but when the bureaucratic Nazis demanded orderly lists of Jews to be exterminated from Jewish leaders who had been attempting to save them, perhaps that was the most degrading act of all.

Kastner, a Hungarian-Jewish leader, frantically tried to rescue Jews. The Nazis applied the ultimate torture to Kastner by asking him to prepare priority lists of Jews to be "processed" by their factory of death.

Most Jewish leaders refused to cooperate or comply. "If we are going to die because we are Jews, let us all die together" was the advice of a Hungarian Rabbi. But, Kastner prepared lists. His "crime" was that he may have attempted to protect his own relatives by placing their names of the bottom of the death list, perhaps hoping that some miracle would save them until the Nazis lost World War II. He may have attempted to protect other Jewish leaders and close colleagues.

Kastner was killed, not by Nazis, but by a Jew who considered Kastner a coward and traitor for cooperating in any way; for, perhaps, allegedly sending his relatives to death first while preserving his own.

Thus, both men—Kastner and his murderer—were degraded by the experience of the Holocaust. One wonders what their lives might have been like had they not been caught up in the maelstrom.

To pummel Rudolf Kastner, in death, with malicious inaccuracies as brutal as Nazi clubs degrade Mohammad Saleh. To accuse him, as Saleh did in his letter to the Collegian (10/31), of anti-semitism or of a "Zionist plot" is to sink lower than the Nazis.

Jews, on campus, and anyone else who Saleh's baseness attempts to degrade, intimidate, or harrass, must demand their right to "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" at the University of Massachusetts. But, they must not allow his desecrations of a dead, Jewish vicitm's "grave" to push them into a worse degradation: an imitation of his bigotry and indifference to human suffering.

Tom Franks
Hopkinton, MA

Hypercurricula...

Mon., Nov. 24

OUTING CLUB MEETING, C.C. Room 101, Presentation: Yellowstone National Park, (a slide show visit by Les Quinn). Weekend trips announced, new members welcome. Business meeting at 6 at UMOC office—S.U. 428B, regular meeting at 7 in C.C.Room 101.

GENERAL PHOTO CO-OP meeting for all members in the Dukes Room from 7-9 p.m.

HUNGER TASK FORCE MEETING, 4:30-5:30, in S.U. 428. Open to anyone interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger.

FILM: WOMEN IN ARMS with film director Victoria Schultz, sponsored by Latin American Solidarity Committee, 8 p.m., Mahar Auditorium, free admission.

FILM: HIDING PLACE, sponsored by Intervarsity Christian Fellowship, 7 p.m. Student Union Ballroom, free admission.

THE STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Room 208 of the Health Services.

SPECTRUM will be having a mandatory staff meeting in the SPECTRUM office at 7 p.m. We will also be running a table on the concourse so all staffers are urged to attend and to at least hold their office hours at the table. POETRY STAFF there will be a meeting at 4 in the office.

HILLEL MEETING at 5 p.m.—wrap up the semester, begin planning stpring, in the Hillel office, S.U. 302. New folks welcome.

Tues., Nov. 25

THE HANDICAPPED STUDENTS' COLLECTIVE will hold its weekly meeting at 7:15 in the lobby of Brett Dormitory. All are welcome.

MINORITY MINISTRY SEARCH COMMITTEE MEETING, 7 p.m., at UCF, S.U. 428.

ECUM (Ecumencial Council of UMass) MEETING, 2:30 p.m., at UCF, S.U. 428.

FILM: HIDING PLACE, sponsored by Intervarsity Christian Fellowship, 7 and 9 p.m., Campus Center Auditorium, free admission. (J.Gagnon)

SQUARE DANCING, sponsored by The Heymakers, 8 p.m., Commonwealth Room, Student Union, free admission. (D. Quarles)

THE COALITION FOR EQUAL RIGHTS AND REPRODUCTIVE FREEDOM (CERRF) will meet in C.C. Room 804. At the meeting there will be a roleplay in preparation for circulating a reproductive rights petition in the dorms. We welcome and encourage all to attend.

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL meeting at 6 p.m. in the Hillel Office, S.U. 302.

DR. MOSHE GILADI, dean of Oranim, the Kibbutz teacher training institute in Israel, will be speaking about the Kibbutz movement. He will explore "Kibbutz Values: Kibbutz Education" as well as answer any questions about the communal lifestyle of the kibbutz. His talk is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the S.U. 302.

NORTHEAST/SYLVAN RACIAL AWARENESS PROGRAM film offering, "Bush MAMA." This film portrays a poor urban black woman's change from an unconscious victim to a conscious resister. Through her eyes we experience the turmoil of life in the ghetto-police violence, welfare offices, unemployment lines, decaying tenements and social workers. 3 p.m. in the Dwight House Lounge.

NORTHEAST/SYLVAN RACIAL AWARENESS PROGRAM film offering, "Broken Treaty at Battle Mountain"—which focuses on the struggle of the Shoshone Indians of Nevada to reclaim 24 million acres of land stolen from them by the Federal Government 7 p.m. in the Johnson House Lounge. For more information, call Sally Majewski, 106 Johnson House, or call 545-0290.

SPECTRUM will be having a table again on the concourse so office hours will be held there. POETRY STAFF there will be a meeting at 5 p.m. in the office.

THE COMMUTER COLLECTIVE presents "The Wallflower Order," a Women's Dance Collective, in the Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. It has been three years since this Co. was last in Amherst. It promises to be a tremendous dance experience. Tickets on sale, for $3, at The Collective Office, 404 SUB, TIX, and Womenfyre Books in Northampton. For more information, call the The Commuter Collective 545-2145.

STUDY IN COPENHAGEN WITH DIS—3-4:30 p.m., 6th floor lounge, Herter Hall. Slides and discussion with past participants. Opportunities in General Studies, Design and International Business.

Wed., Nov. 26

ALL FAITHS COMMUNITY SERVICE, 7:30 p.m. at Jewish Community Center, Main Street, Amherst. Rabbi Yechiael Lander, Associate Chaplain at Smith College will lead the service—all members of the university community are welcome.

Sun., Nov. 30

HOUSE CHURCH AT UCF—7-9 p.m. at S.U. 428—a gathering for Biblical Exploration, personal encounter, and fellowship and a simple closing communion—facilitated by Chaplain Pete Sabey. For more information stop by UCF or call 545-2661.

Anytime

THE WILDLIFE SOCIETY wishes to remind you that deer hunting season begins Dec. 1-6. Bright colors should be worn if walking through wooded areas for benefit of both hunters and hikers.

SPECTRUM, THE FINE ARTS MAGAZINE of the five college area will be taking submissions till the extended deadline of Dec. 5. If you have any art, photography, prose, and/or poetry get it in to us before it is too late. Our office is C.C 104 and our number is 545-2240. Membership is now closed unless you have been spoken to before today.

★ Unions

continued from page 1

and the 1,250 technicians and clerical workers by the University Staff Association. Although the 33 campus police have split into two locals, both are represented by the International Brotherhood of Police Officers. And the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees bargains for the 1,200 member service workers, including the physical plant workers and the dining commons workers.

These unions are recognized as the sole bargaining agent for the employees during contract negotiations by the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission, the state agency created to administer the labor laws. Each union has been elected by the bargaining unit members, and will remain the bargaining agent until the bargaining unit votes for another bargaining agent, or votes to refrain from contradicting the services of any bargaining agent.

Unionization in the public sector has just recently become lawful, and no union has negotiated more than two contracts to date. This is not to say there were no quasi-union organizations on campus prior to the last two contracts. Many professors were members of the American Association of University Professors, but when professors became eligible to bargain for wages, this group was abandoned in favor of an organization more inclined to produce a better contract.

Amherst Gulf

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Fiat

(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
catering to the Campus Area Center of Amherst

On Sale at
Tix
317 SUB
(across from post office)
545-2683

"Wall Flower Order"
$3.00 ea.
"Monyaka" with
"Loose Caboose"
$2.50 stud.
$4.00 gen pub
M,Tu,Th 11:30-4
F 11-4
Closed Weds.
No Service Charge

amc THEATRES
ADULTS $2.75 TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ. - RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
DONALD SUTHERLAND Ordinary People R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
You might just die... laughing! MOTEL HELL R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
THE STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
MOVIE AND DINNER ONLY $5.50 HAVE A CHOICE OF DIFFERENT MEALS AT THE PEWTER POT REST. IN THE HAMPSHIRE MALL AND SEE ONE OF THE 5 MOVIES IN THIS AD (SUN.-THUR. ONLY)
Free Shoppers Show Thurs 12/4 1:00 PM FATSO starring Dom DeLuise PG
MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
GENA ROWLANDS Gloria PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE BOOGEY MAN (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30 R
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

IDB TIPS
BHE Scholarship Checks
Additional BHE Award checks (both Honor and General) have been received. They will be available beginning Wednesday, November 26, between 9 AM and 3:30 PM at the Bursar's windows in Whitmore. A current UMass ID is required.
The Information Data Bank
227 Whitmore
545-1555

The true story that has captivated over 8,000,000 readers.

FREE FREE
LIMITED ENGAGEMENT
PG
THE HIDING PLACE
Starring JULIE HARRIS EILEEN HECKART ARTHUR O'CONNELL
Introducing JEANNETTE CLIFT
NOV 24—S.U.B. - Mon.
NOV 25—C.C.A. - Tue.
7:00 & 9:30 pm FREE

Stop & Shop Bakery Coupon 033
FREE!
Stop & Shop 20 oz. loaf Sliced White
Big Daisy Bread
469

Stop & Shop Dairy Coupon C-032
FREE!
1 lb. pkg. quarter lb. sticks Margarine
Blue Bonnet
461

Country Pride will send you $2.00 for trying a Country Pride Turkey, min. 10 lbs
Mail In Coupon C
$2.00 REFUND
On Country Pride Turkey. Minimum, 10 Pounds.
Mail this coupon with proof of purchase: Country Pride logo panel from wrapper of piece and weight tag with logo to: Country Pride Foods, P.O. Box 1987, El Dorado, AR 71730
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY
STATE ZIP
Offer expires Dec. 31, 1980. Allow 6-8 weeks for rebate to arrive
465

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON C-27
Stop & Shop Jellied
Cranberry Sauce
16 ounce can
19¢
With the coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun., Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29. Limit one per customer 455

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON C-26
Stop & Shop
Grade A Large Eggs
Dozen
59¢
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Sun., Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29. Limit one per customer 454

Stop & Shop
Honest values are what we're all about
Enjoy your Thanksgiving
Add the values from our 4-page circular! Get one in the store!

LIBBY'S LIBBY'S LIBBY'S
Libby's Vegetables
Sweet Peas 16 oz. Kernel Corn 17 oz. or French Style Green Beans 5 for $2
Peaches Sliced or Halves 59¢
Mixed Fruit Libby's Like 16 ounce can 59¢
Fruit Cocktail Country Lady's Like 16 ounce can 69¢
Tomato Juice Libby's Like 16 ounce can 59¢
Pear Halves Libby's 32 oz. bottle 89¢
Corn Beef Hash Libby's Like 15½ oz. can 89¢

FROZEN MEAT
Rath Rath Sausage Meat 1 lb roll Frozen 99¢
Make a delicious turkey dressing!
Steak UMM Sandwich 2 lb pkg 5.99

self service deli Values!
Colonial Turkey Bologna or Franks 79¢
1 pound package
Swift Sizzlean 12 oz pkg 1.49
Gem Kielbasi Polish Style Sausage 1 lb 1.89
Oscar Mayer Wieners 1 lb pkg 1.59
Oscar Mayer Bacon Sliced 1 lb pkg 2.19
Meat Bologna Oscar Mayer 12 oz pkg 1.59

corner deli Sliced to order!
Available in stores featuring a service deli
Deutschmacher Bologna German Style 1.99 lb
Dak Salami Danish Imported 8 ounce package 1.49
Swiss Cheese Austrian 2.89 lb
Cooked Ham Baked & Glazed 3.99 lb
Cole Slaw Stop & Shop 59¢ lb kitchen Prepared by our cooks!

Stop & Shop Potato Salad 1 pound package 59¢ lb
Cheese Pizza Stop & Shop 18 oz size 1.39
Rice Puding Green Style, 2 lb pkg 1.39

fresh seafood Specials!
Fresh Schrod Fillets Haddock Bake or broil 2.49 lb
Fresh Oysters Baltimore 8 ounce pkg 1.89
Stuffed Clams Matlawa Frozen 30 ml pkg 1.99
Shrimp Colossal Peeled & Deveined Stop & Shop 16 oz pkg or 15-20 Frozen 7.99

C STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON D-28
SAVE 20¢
STOP & SHOP
15 Minute Stuffing 6 oz pkg 466
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase. Good Sun., Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29. Limit one per customer

U.S. Grade A Country Pride Young Self-Basting Turkeys
Frozen With Pop-up Timer 10-13 lbs or 18-23 lbs 69¢
63¢ lb
Butter Basted Turkeys Stop & Shop 89¢ lb
Swift Butterball Turkeys Deep Basted 10-13 lbs Frozen or 18-23 pounds Frozen 95¢ 89¢ lb
U.S. Grade A Fresh Turkeys 10-22 lbs 89¢ lb
Armour Star Turkey Roast Butter Basted White & Dark Meat Boneless 5-7 lbs. Frozen 1.69 lb

USDA CHOICE GREAT BEEF
Beef Round Tip Roast 1.99 lb
Enjoy it or your money back.
A lean, tender and delicious oven roast.
Rump Roast Beef Round 2.19 lb
Beef Eye Round Roast "Great Beef" USDA Choice 2.69 lb
Beef Rib Roast Large End 4-7 Ribs Small End 1st-3rd Rib 2.89 lb 2.29 lb
Fresh Ground Beef USDA CHOICE 1.59 lb
Any size package
Ground several times each day.
Fresh Lean Ground Beef "Great Beef" Any size pkg 1.89 lb
Beef Bottom Round Steak For Swiss Steaks 2.29 lb
Boneless Beef Rib Eye Steak 3.99 lb

produce
Pick and choose quality produce for your holiday feast!
Sunkist Navel Oranges Dozen 113 size 1.29
Fresh 4 Quart Handle Basket Mushrooms 4.49 or "Pick Your Own" As many or as few...$1.89 lb

"Assorted Holiday Fixins" Pick Your Own!
FRESH Brussels Sprouts 79¢
BUTTERCUP OR ACORN Squash 15¢
FIRM, FRESH Sweet Potatoes 33¢
FOR YOUR FEAST Louisiana Yams 33¢
WHITE BOILING Onions 59¢
PICK YOUR OWN CALIFORNIA Fresh Spinach 49¢
PURPLE TOP Turnips 39¢
Avocadoes 2 for 1
Deluxe Fruit Tray 18 pieces of large fruit with grapes and bananas 6.99
Hostess Fruit Tray 9 pieces of large fruit with grapes and bananas 5.99

Boiled Onions Stop & Shop 16 oz jar 3 for $2
Small Sweet Peas Stop & Shop 16 oz can 5 for $2
Stop & Shop Salad Oil 24 oz. container 99¢
Wise Potato Chips Ridges 7 oz pkg 79¢
1 lb can Coffee Reg., Electric Automatic or Drip, Stop & Shop 1.99
Coke, Tab or Sprite 2 liter bottle 1.09
Cranberry Cocktail Juice, Stop & Shop 48 ounce bottle 1.09
Nabisco Snack Crackers Assorted Varieties 7 ounce package 89¢
Betty Crocker Mix Pie Crust 11 oz package 2 for 79¢
Hydrox Chocolate Cookies Sandwich Creme Bonus Pack, 19 oz pkg 1.19
Fruit Cocktail in Syrup Stop & Shop 17 ounce can 2 for $1
Heinz Pickles Sweet Mixed 24 ounce jar 89¢
Viva Towels Assted Colors 2 ply 103 ct roll 69¢
Coronet Napkins Print 1 ply 180 ct pkg 69¢
Stop & Shop Apple Pie 22 oz pkg 1.19
Big Daisy Bread Sliced White 20 oz loaf 2 for 89¢

dairy The freshness your holiday feast deserves!
Egg Nog Quart size Sun Glory 79¢
Whipping Cream Stop & Shop 16 oz cont 99¢
Yoplait Yogurt Assid Flavors 6 ounce cup 3 for $1
Tropicana Orange Juice from concentrate Half Gallon cont 99¢
Hood Cottage Cheese or Nufonm 16 ounce cup 89¢
Blue Bonnet Margarine One pound package Quarter pound sticks 59¢
Calabro Ricotta or Stop & Shop, Whole Milk 2 pound container 1.99
Temp-tee Whipped Cream Cheese 8 ounce package 99¢

frozen foods More specials for a great Thanksgiving!
Coffee Lightener Stop & Shop 32 oz cont 2 for $1
Orange Juice Tropicana 12 oz can 79¢
Mrs. Smith's Pie Crust Shells 17 ounce package 89¢
Cooked Squash Stop & Shop 16 oz pkg 4 for $1
Pepperidge Farm Cakes Rich n' Moist Assid Var 12½ ounce package 1.29
Mrs. Smith's Apple Pie or Mincd or Pumpkin 26 ounce package 1.19
Breyers Ice Cream All Natural Assid Flavors Half Gallon container 1.99
Stop & Shop Vegetables Peas & Carrots, Corn, Peas or Mixed, 24 oz pkg 69¢
Candied Sweet Potatoes Mrs. Paul's 12 ounce package 69¢
Seabrook Fruit Melon or Mixed Fruit 16 ounce package 89¢

STOP & SHOP GROCERY COUPON D-29
SAVE 20¢
JELL-O Any 2 pkg
Desert Gelatin 6 oz pkg Assid Var 467
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29. Limit one per customer

STOP & SHOP DAIRY COUPON D-30
SAVE 25¢
Variety Cheese
REAL SHARP CHEDDAR White or Yellow Bar - White Wedge or FINLAND SWISS Random Weight Pkg Stop & Shop 469
With this coupon and a $7.50 purchase Good Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29. Limit one per customer

Prices effective Conn. Sun., Nov. 23-Sat., Nov. 29, 1980. W. Mass. Mon., Nov. 24-Sat., Nov. 29, 1980. In fairness to all our customers, we reserve the right to limit sales to three packages of any item except where otherwise noted. Items offered for sale not available in case lots or to other retail dealers or wholesalers. Copyright 1980, by Stop & Shop Supermarkets.

HADLEY-AMHERST Route 9 at the Hadley-Amherst Line. 8a.m.-10p.m., Mon.-Sat.
We redeem your Federal Food Stamps.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

APT. WANTED

Would like to take over a lease 1/1/80 in Townehouse or Brandywine 2 bedroom call 253-5673 (nights)

AUDIO

Technics SA-700 100 watt receiver large walnut advents both still under warranty Larry 546-9551

AUTO FOR SALE

1973 Audi 100LS new transmission, valves, clutch AM-FM stereo, sunroof. Call 549-4187

1967 Opel Kadett 2 door 4 speed 4 cylinder well maintained excellent in town milegae call 549-1896

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner Professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

'74 Impala AT, AC, ex mech cond, no rust, $800 call 546-6037

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16243-Y-78 Cajon, Hesperia, CA 92345

5-COLLEGE BUS DRIVER JACK

Thanks so much for returning my mealbook! You saved me a great deal of trouble. Thanks agian Kathy

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

DISC JOCKEYS

Most Professional DJ's On Campus BOSE Quality Sound Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

The Avant Gardners Rock band great for semi-formals and sleazy gatherings! For more info call Tom 549-6913

FEAR

The Fear of Silence What is it and Don't let it happen to you call 549-4184 Quickly before its to late Stereo Lab North

FOR RENT

Own Bedroom in two bedroom Rolling Green apt starting Jan or Feb 1 147.50 inclusive call 253-5986 after 10PM

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-684-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

1976 Datsun F-10 wagon front wheel drive, 37 mpg, 77,000Mi excellent mechanical condition, best offer call 538-2536

Springsteen Tickets for Boston Garden Dec 16 show call 546-6131 or 546-6124

Hanson Citation Ski Boots size 9 excellent condition 80.00 6-4154 Steve

Hammocks for sale hand woven from Mexico all colors great for dorm $29.95 421 Patterson 546-1460

2 VW snowtires $20. pair 1 VW mounted spare $5. 665-4588 after 5:00 PM

Hoyer 12-string guitar excellent cond $150 or BO Carol 6-8260

Springsteen Tickets Providence Dec 11 549-5188 after 6 PM

1975 Blonde FENDER TELECASTER 1965 AMPEG GEMINI I Amplifier (with one 15" Jenson speaker); both in exceptional condition; $250 and $175 respectively Extra's! 253-2215

1971 VW Fastback good running condition must sell $750 evenings 586-2811

FOUND

Found small calico kitten outside Worcester DC 11/17/80 call 546-4996

Lost Art Supplies?? Found Nov 18 SUB mailbox at 2:00 call 6-7340

Found 1 pr of eyeglasses near Knowlton bus shelter on Sun eve call Dan 546-5504

Cowboy hat key chain with rm key near JQA call 1-774-5414 WIMP

FREE CLINIC

Yes there will be many Free Clinics all over campus for your Stereo Equipment Problems for more info call Stereo Lab North 549-4184

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Interested in the Music Business? See it from the inside out. Administrative Assistants; UPC Productions Work Study 10 HRS PER WEEK. Duties: minutes attendance taking and recording answering phones copying etc. Excellent typing and clerical skills organization and responsibility required. Persons w/enthusiasm and initiative sought. Position available immediately thru May 81. Send resume or call UPC Productions 406 SU 545-2892 Ask for Maroo

HELP WANTED, MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Any age or location Earnings unlimited See ad under Business Opportunities Triple "S"

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

Kobold Umbrella red, beige, blue geometric design call Amelia 546-9981

Lost woman's gold watch initials SSP between Southwest and and CC great sentimental value reward 546-8500

Woman's watch (silver, digital) at Ski Sale, Reward call Lynn 546-9852

To who ever took my blue & green/yellow striped Skitique jacket on 11/19 at the Ski Sale - RETURN IT! the gloves too! No questions asked. Eric 546-7603

Wallet in NOPE keep cash! Please call steve 256-6368

Judo Gi Friday 11/14 Boyden locker room please return to equipment cage or call Tim 253-7731

PERSONALS

Pup, Thanx for everything. I never knew Sundays could be so much fun! XOXO

Lanita, Quita, et al. Muchos gracias para todos en este semestre! Later!! Miguelito

Springsteen at Hartford 12/12 tickets for sale best offer 586-9087

In Memory of Ray Have a Great Day The Cabin

Need information about Sonoma StateU If your on exchange or studied there please contact Suzanne after 5 256-8784

Free kitten calico female 12 weeks old litter box trained call Gary 586-0017

Hey Mar - Happy 20th B-day (a day late) Well, what do you want me to do about it?! Sniff, Buh Buh Now. Love ya-Kerr

Buster—We've come a long way but have yet so far to go. Happy two months! Tell Ralph I miss him! Love Rapunzle

Today is Sharon's Birthday Party at Sharon's tonight Cherita es diecinueve hoy Happy Birthday Sharon

I'm still watching you——RED! Signed, your secret admirer

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 903 Tues Nov 25 8-10 PM

Marian—
The more I travel on my words age like lovers for each moment come theres two thats gone
and I have grown in others

Loving you is like living with the New England weather I was raised on (my life is echoed in those days)

your face
like the artists landscape brings to life a thousand memories of the beauty
taken in my gaze

Happy Birthday— love Mitchell

Ride needed to Buffalo, NY Tues 25th or Wed 26th Call Lynne 6-8356

Pilgrims - go to ride board in Student Union and look for clue in Plymouth

Cushies you guys are excellent! You've made it for me and I'll never forget you Will

Tom wishing you the happiest Birthday ever. I love you with all my heart, both now and forever Love ya Annie

PJAY: Don't Despair, Volleyball players jump higher with the years. Happy Birthday I love you and yaks too Katie

Mr. T Happy 1 year love always Mrs. T

Happy Birthday Skin! One day late! Luv Ohio Dimo TJ

Couldn't get into BUTTERFIELD? Pierpont has a vegetarian cooperative in their basement that offers you a quiet alternative call before Thursday 546-5192

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Long Island Tuesday November 25 after 3:00 pm Sandy 546-7429

ROAD-RATED CAR STEREO

Never-used new Craig T618; precision power loading, auto-reverse, stereo/mute/local/distance buttons, locking fast-forward/rewind, separate balance/fader, Bass/treble, AM/FM, cassette player/trans-rib, 5¼ 50W 11oz. FlushMount Speakers. Retail $300.00 for sale $210.00 call 256-8981 Todd

ROCK BAND FORMING

Drummer and singer wanted to join established trio of 2 guitarists and bassist (all experienced) into Beatles, Stones, Who, etc. selected New Wave Tim 546-6872

ROOM WANTED

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! 3 women seeking 2 to 3 bedroom apartment on bus route from January on. PLEASE call Mary or Pam at 546-1134 or Joanne at 546-1278 THANK YOU!

Female needs room Jan 1 apt or house on bus rt call Betsy 253-5435

Room wanted in house or apartment with engineering or scie nce student(s) Prefer near campus, quiet atmosphere call Vince 256-6235 late eves

Male looking for room in apartment Spring semester 6-8629 5-6 PM Tom

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Female roommate share room in Brandywine from 010181 call evenings 549-5951

Roommate wanted own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326 nites

Own room in 3 bedroom townehouse North Amherst non-smoker Jan to Aug 31 118+ 549-0187

Quiet male needed for 2 rooms and bath in private house. Secluded setting on Connecticut River - 4 miles to bus route $225/month includes utilities - call Grant 367-2762 eves

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing: Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research—call Joe at 665-2840 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

STEREO REPAIRS

A new stereo repair service is opening in the Amherst area featuring a complete FREE warranty service on over 26 major brands plus a whole lot more like pickup and delivery at an amazing 2$ just call us at Stereo Lab North and you won't believe what we'll do for you 549-4184 3-9 PM

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

Sublet wanted responsible couple seeking 1 bedroom apt over intersession call 546-8207 late eve

Wanted to sublet 2 bedroom apt for intersession bus route to UMass preferred call Lori or Carol 6-8494 or Mary 6-8412

Available Immediately two bedroom apt in Northampton on bus route eves 586-8418

1 bedroom apt Riverglade Jan 1 - Aug 253-7671

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Get the most cash for your gold, silver and classrings shop around then come and see us last! We're on campus in DH call Sue or Bob 546-6607

50% consignment for seasonal, ready to wear clothing. Once More With Feeling Carriage Shops 549-3772

Immediately work study student Office Assistant with typing skills approximately 20 hrs pewr wk at $3.50 hr Please contact Elaine Marasco 225A Boyden 5-0038

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Two females looking for off campus housing for Spring semester on bus route call 253-5751

Looking for living space Spring semester Prefer house situation have real neat dog that must come too Cindy 617-443-9417 Box 222 Sudbury, Ma 01776

I can't go back to England during intersession. Need an apartment near campus Call 546-1484

Room wanted for Spring semester must be quiet small near bus line or university 546-8786 keep trying

Desperately looking for 2-bdrm apt rel. near campus to sublet starting in january Please call 546-5184 or 546-8382

Four quiet students seeking house or apartment spring semester call Joann 6-4482

Wanted 1 or 2 bdrm Brandywine Apt Can trade Squire Village 2 bdrmtwnhse (300/mo + utilities) Trade nut mandatory Dec 1 665-3034

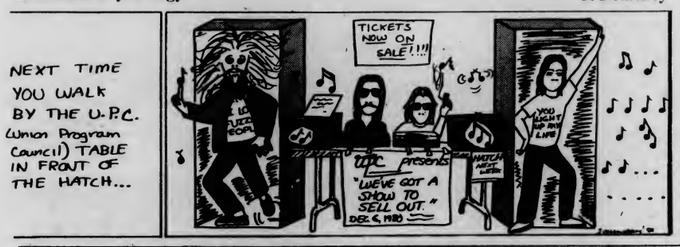
DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

WHO WAS THAT ON THE PHONE, HONEY?
IT WAS SUZY FROM DOWNSTAIRS. SHE'S BRINGING UP A TELEGRAM FOR ME!
A TELEGRAM? FROM WHOM?
MY GUESS IS IT'S FROM PERKINS. THE GANG OF FOUR TRIAL IS ABOUT TO START, AND I'M SURE TO BE CALLED AS A KEY WITNESS.
WHY YOU, HONEY?
WELL, I USED TO BE MAO'S PERSONAL TRANSLATOR. AFTER HIS STROKE, I WAS THE ONLY PERSON IN CHINA WHO COULD UNDERSTAND HIM.
WOW! SO DID HE REALLY ORDER THE CULTURAL REVOLUTION?
WELL, I THOUGHT SO, BUT I MAY HAVE GOTTEN IT WRONG.

Under the Influence M. Joyce

THE FOLLOWING IS A PUBLIC SERVICE MESSAGE.
COLLEGE SENIORS SHOULD BE AWARE THAT ONE IN FOUR WILL FALL VICTIM TO ACUTE CAMPAIGNE SYNDROME!
THIS DREADED DISEASE REDUCES ITS HOST TO THE LEVEL OF A VEGETABLE, STRIKING MOST OFTEN IN THE FINAL WEEKS OF A SEMESTER!
IF YOU KNOW ANYONE WITH THESE SYMPTOMS ADMINISTER GERITOL AND A PEP TALK QUICKLY!

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey



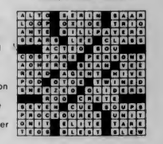
NEXT TIME YOU WALK BY THE U.P.C. (Union Program Council) TABLE IN FRONT OF THE HATCH...
TICKETS NOW ON SALE!!!
UPC PRESENTS
"WE'VE GOT A SHOW TO SELL OUT."
DEC 6, MAR

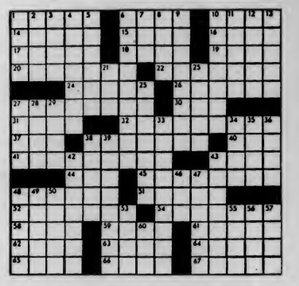
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 — cheese
6 Snakes
10 WW-II fliers
14 Old Turkish title
15 Alaskan island
16 French pronoun
17 Key
18 Rake
19 P I rice
20 : 'Ol all — —!'
22 Canadian Indians
24 Bind
26 Apple
27 — praecox: Psych
30 Emmet
31 Maple genus
32 Ice capped
37 Pronoun
38 Pals
40 : 'All About —'
41 African native
43 Visual static
44 Vermin
45 Subtleties
48 Somewhat ancient
51 Berate
52 Colonist
54 Infidel
58 Conversation
59 Texas city
61 By oneself
62 Arrow poison
63 Berserk
64 Asian nation
65 Heave
66 Ivy League member
67 Ontario river

DOWN
1 Shoal
2 Between Ore. and B.C.
3 — of Pines
4 Asylum
5 Planet
6 Surveyor's reading
7 American Indian
8 Vapor: Prefix
9 Take from
10 Glue again
11 Scratches
12 Sea plants
13 Dine well
21 Snip
23 City in Africa
25 Gin mills
27 Short race
28 Reverberate
29 Assemble
33 Vegetable
34 Italian painter
35 Bacchanal's cry
36 Moistures
38 Stop
39 En route: 3 words
42 Bauble
43 Pittsburgh athlete
55 Drink heavily
56 — — Instant: Fast
57 Breton
60 Pass

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Friday's Puzzle Solved





TIPS TAPE 7000
Thanksgiving Residence Hall Closing
545-1540
request tape by number

Little Dipper
INSTANT CONDITIONER & NAIL POLISH REMOVER
$1.00 off WITH THIS COUPON
SOLD ON THE CONCOURSE
MON NOV. 24, 12:30-5 PM

IF YOU'VE EVER TAKEN A COURSE PASS/FAIL, CONSIDER THIS:
The Faculty Senate is presently considering a proposal which if passed will require students taking courses with the Pass/Fail option to obtain a grade of 'C' or better in order to pass the course.
NOW ACT:
The student task force to keep the Pass/Fail option needs people to actively oppose this proposal. We're meeting to coordinate our efforts.
TONIGHT, NOV. 24, AT 7:00 P.M. IN CC RM 904

For more information call:
545-0341
ask for Rich Goldman

PASS/FAIL: KEEP IT AN OPTION

★ The Stunt Man

continued from page 4

never known what they are thinking or feeling. Barbara Hershey is great as the female lead of the film-within-the-film and is the only reasonably sane character in the movie.

Director Richard Rush, however, is the real star of The Stunt Man. He pushed for seven years to finance the movie and spent two years filming and editing it. The result is an enjoyable film that challenges the misconceptions Hollywood has about the mass audience because The Stunt Man has been profitable while it is both deep and challenging.

The Stunt Man is currently playing at the Hampshire 4 cinemas.

★ CIA

continued from page 3

are a lot of grounds for suspicion, but I wouldn't have made it public yet."

The flyer stated that: "The UMass Registrar's Office has no record of his attending the university." However, Mary Statt of the Reistrar's Office confirmed that Coughlan is a full-time, UMass student.

Coughlan denied any affiliation with the CIA, though he said he would have been willing to be interviewed by the organization had he found out in time.

Join Us For Monday Night Football
Time Out
2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn, Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

Apes may be too inhibited to reproduce

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN
Associated Press

CHICAGO—The great apes are losing interest in monkey business. Deep-rooted problems among captive primates in North America, including infertility, are keeping them from reproducing.

The reproduction dilemma is acute, according to Dr. David Johnson of the National Institutes of Health, because there is a chance that most, if not all, the apes alive in the next century "will be those borne from the apes now in our zoos and research centers."

For animals with non-physiological troubles, the solutions may rest with zoological versions of sex counseling. But the most immediate concern to scientists is the finding that perhaps half the male population of gorillas is sterile.

"We know that in some cases we have physiological sterility; in others, we know that we have behavioral problems," said Dr. Benjamin Beck, curator of primates at Brookfield Zoo in suburban Chicago and a member of the University of Chicago's Department of Anthropology.

Along with other primate specialists, Beck, 41, will be attending a three-day workshop on infertility next week in Atlanta, trying to find what's causing the problem and what to do about it.

The great apes—gorillas, chimpanzees and orangutans—represent the closest living relatives to man. They are studied by zoos and research centers as models for human behavior and biology.

In their natural environments, they are endangered species, said Beck. The infertility problem is critical among gorillas, he said, while among male chimps, only four in captivity—"an alarmingly small percentage" — have reproduced.

There is no evidence of orangutan infertility, he added, nor of a similar problem among other primates.

"The (gorilla) birth rate in captivity has been declining since ... 1977, and between 30 and 50 percent of male gorillas are organically sterile—they do not produce sperm," said Beck.

In the last two years, he noted, only 13 of the 62 adult male gorillas in 48 U.S. zoos and biomedical centers have sired offspring. Of 30 gorillas examined, 15 were questionable or clearly sterile.

"I'm quite sure this organic infertility is only part of the problem," said Beck, who has studied primates more than 15 years. For those already sterile, apparently nothing can be done, he said.

Others factors involved, environmental and behavioral, may stem in part from past practices by American zoos in raising captive animals.

"It was quite fashionable in North America to hand-raise great apes," Beck said. "That increases the likelihood of survival but lacks proper learning experiences for them to be sexually competent.

"It appears, additionally, that there are individual preferences among apes and some females. Usually, if the choice is just one (male), and if they (the females) don't like him, that's it for reproduction." Some animals, he said, simply don't like other animals.

The human hand in the rearing process may have kept apes of both sexes ignorant about normal copulatory postures and sexual signals.

That's where what he refers to as "social rehabilitation" comes in, pairing the backward animal with a normal, sexually competent one of either sex to initiate the learning.

"We try to put the animal with a very agreeable, non-aggressive, age-matched female," Beck said. "We put the animal in with another who is normal, who knows the entire communicative repertoire."

An orangutan pulls at the shirt sleeve of Dr. Benjamin Beck at the Brookfield Zoo in suburban Chicago. Beck and others claim deep seated problems among captive great apes keep them from reproducing. (AP Laserphoto)

Applications Being Accepted
by UMass Music Theater Guild
For the Production Staff of their Spring Musical Production of Jesus Christ Superstar

The nonsalaried staff positions which are open to anyone in the Five College area include:

Producer	Lighting Director
Director	Technical Director
Musical Director	Stage Manager
Choreographer	Props Manager
Set Designer	Master Electrician
Costume Designer	Master Carpenter

Anyone interested in applying for a staff position should prepare a resume of his theatre experience especially dealing with the desired position. Applicants will be contacted for an interview. For more info call: Scott Cunningham 546-9219

The Stables

MON	Roast Pork	$2.50
TUE	Meatloaf	$2.50
WED	American Chop Suey	$2.25
THUR	Roast Beef	$2.99
FRI	Baked Haddock	$2.50

Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

MUSIC GALLERY
featuring
distinctive electric & acoustic guitars, amps & sound equipment
Special Reg Tag Sale:
All tagged items 40% off
open Tue-Fri 10:00 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
Rt. 9 Hadley
586-6228

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Muffler
Schalldämpfer
Silencieux
Silenziatore
Ljuddämpare
₹75-
In any language...
MIDAS IS THE MUFFLER EXPERT.
*(English, German, French, Italian, Swedish & Japanese)

THE FIRST FOREIGN CAR MUFFLER GUARANTEED TO BE YOUR LAST.

Only Midas has a foreign car guarantee honored from coast to coast. *We promise if anything goes wrong, Midas will replace the muffler free as long as you own your foreign car.

586-4840 MIDAS® 143 King St., Northampton
MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

★ It wasn't really funny

continued from page 12

With dozens upon dozens of snowballs hurtling toward them, the uniformed women at first ignored the assault. But aims were true. One women's hat was knocked off. The other was belted in the face with a snowball—her glasses came off. The hat went off again. And a third time.

The ROTC women left.

Next came the cheerleaders. After a few minutes of bombardment, they picked up and moved down the sidelines to the right side, to a more hospitable section of mostly alumni and families.

A television commentator, strolling the sidelines, was the next target. He managed to ward off many of the missles, but a few hit their mark, and the man, for all his professionalism, responded to his attackers with an obscene gesture.

It kept us most of the game. Photographers vere bombed, cheerleaders were bombed, the stands were bombed. Everybody was bombed. It was funny, but it wasn't.

"It was unreal," Boisvert was saying, two hours after the game. "I mean, they (the snowball throwers) showed no mercy. I saw this guy on crutches—I think he was an amputee or something—well, those people could give a damn. They leat him have it. He got hit with about 20 snowballs. I never saw anything like it. The guy didn't have the lower part of one leg, and these people were throwing snowballs at him.

Boisvert was shaking his head as he spoke.

"There were two legislators up here today (Rep. Jim Collins and U.S. Rep. Silvio Conte) and they saw the whole thing. There were two television crews (Channel 27 of Worcester, and Starcase) here filming everything. A lot of people saw what happened today.

"It makes you wonder about this school sometimes," Kevin Boisvert said. "I mean, it was funny—but when you think about it, it really wasn't."

★ Mistakes

continued from page 12

Overshadowed are the two key interceptions by senior defensive back Bob Manning. Both came in the second quarter and both put quick ends to BC drives that threatened to score.

Overshadowed are the two fumble recoveries by co-captain Frank DiTommaso, who was one of eight seniors playing his last game as a UMass Minuteman.

And senior Brian Heyworth scored the first touchdown of his career in the third quarter when he rushed six yards up the middle for the score just seconds into the period.

So the Minutemen finish the season 7-3 while the Eagles have one football game left this season, hosting the Crusaders of Holy Cross. BC can chalk up one more win (number 14) in the 18 game rivalry.

Spikers place 8th at tourney

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's volleyball team ended a long and hard season of 56 matches with an eighth-place finish at the Eastern Regional Championships at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven last weekend.

According to UMass coach Elaine Marasco, the Minutewomen played well, despite losing every match in the tournament.

"I can't say it was a poor performance," she said, "we played well, but we didn't play well enough to win."

The Minutewomen began their first Eastern tourney Thursday night against the University of New Haven. While fifth-seeded UMass took the first game 15-9, the fourth-seeded squad managed to win the tie-making game 15-11 and the match-winner 15-13.

"We played our most brilliant volleyball against New Haven," Marasco said, "we had 100 percent blocking efficiency."

UMass fell to top-seeded Delaware 15-11, 15-12, then lost to eighth-seeded Ithaca College 6-15, 15-13, 16-14.

"It was a pretty tough pool we were in," Marasco said, "through it all, we never made any serious mistakes, and we had our chances (to win). Our blocking was great, Nola (Eddy) set beautifully, Ellen (Braun) was phenomenal, and Peggy Barber and Brenda Simmons did their usual good jobs as co-captains. But we couldn't go over the top."

In the quarterfinals Friday night, UMass faced Edinboro State College; the Minutewomen lost 15-12, 17-15.

"Edinboro was a weird school," she said, "they didn't play spectacularly, but they brought back everything we gave them. And we were hitting to them hard."

Edinboro later went on to defeat Southern Connecticut in the finals Saturday afternoon; they will participate in the Nationals at the University of California-Northbridge. Delaware finished third, while Cortland State University placed fourth.

With the season now over, the Minutewoman lose two players to graduation — co-captains Simmons and Barber.

"They were good captains," Marasco said, "Brenda played so well for us all season; I don't believe she ever had a bad day, and she played in every match. Peggy also was a consistent player. They're going to be hard to replace."

Place a Collegian Classified Today!

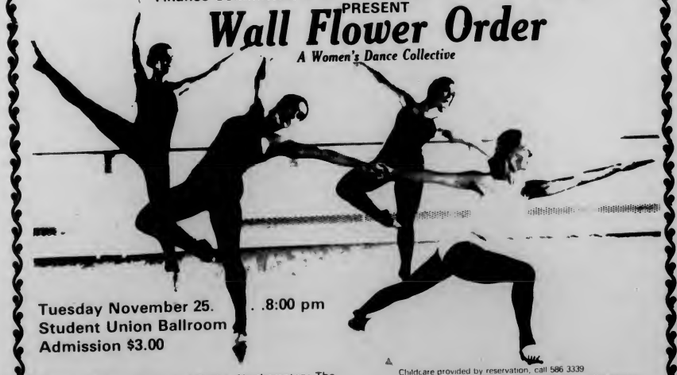
Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.
• Weight control • Nail biting • Improve concentration • Insomnia • Bed wetting
• Improve study habits • Relaxation • Fear of heights • Memory improvement
• Stop smoking • Self confidence • Sexual problems • Improve sports ability • Fear of flying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building, Rte 9, Hadley, Mass
3/10 mile Hamp Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt Only

Tuesday Night
TWO WAY STREET
9 til 1
• TWO FOR ONE •
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

FOOTBALL
ON THE BIG SCREEN
SPECIALS
AT THE HATCH BAR
Starts at 9:00 pm
TOC sticker and valid ID required to purchase alcohol

UMASS ARTS COUNCIL FUNDING DEADLINE
Applications for Arts Council funding of arts-related events to be presented during the months of February/March '81 must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. Wednesday, December 10th. The UMAC Office is located in 125 Herter Hall (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.
Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.
The next UMAC meeting will be held Thursday, December 4th at 8 A.M. in the Faculty Club. Public Invited.

The Commuter Collective, Variations, Governors Program Council, Senate Finance Committee, and Black Mass Communications Project
PRESENT
Wall Flower Order
A Women's Dance Collective



Tuesday November 25. . .8:00 pm
Student Union Ballroom
Admission $3.00
Tickets on sale at Womonfyre Books, Northampton; The Collective Office, UMASS, and TIX.
Childcare provided by reservation, call 586 3339
For further information please call the Commuter Collective at 545 2145

Interested in Arts Administration?
The Fine Arts Center is now accepting applications for spring semester internships. Five full-time (15 credit) positions are available.
Interns will concentrate in one of the following areas:
1. CONCERT MANAGEMENT (including programming and contracts)
2. PUBLICITY & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT (including advertising and market research)
3. COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND FUNDING
4. BOX OFFICE & FRONT-OF-HOUSE (including box office operations and ushering)
5. PRODUCTION SERVICES (including backstage operations)
For Details, call the Internship Office at 545-0727

Sports

Mistakes give BC 13-12 edge

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Maybe if it had been raining (again) John Hansen would have played the type of game he played at Maine, snapping the ball perfectly and aiding punter Ray Larnard in his best game of the season.

Maybe if Garry Pearson hadn't been slapped with an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty, he would have taken the football into the endzone from one yard out.

Maybe if kicker Herb Newland had hit one of two field goal attempts, UMass would have held on for the win. Newland missed two attempts of 14 and 24 yards in the first quarter.

But then, maybe if the defense hadn't played the type of game that shows why they are the number one defense in the country, Shelby Gamble would have rushed for more than 16 yards on the afternoon and kept his average of one touchdown per game up to par.

But it wasn't raining and Hansen fed Larnard two high snaps, both of which the Eagles of Boston College capitalized on en route to their 13-12 win over the Minutemen Saturday at Alumni Stadium. Two high snaps set up BC field goals in the second and third quarters of the football game.

"We've got our best people out there on special teams but they were just not doing it today," University of Massachusetts head coach Bob Pickett said. "It wasn't meant for us to win the close ones this year," he said.

They did make it a very close one though, bringing BC right down to the wires.

With just over three minutes left in the game, the Eagles had a 13-7 lead. The Minutemen had the ball deep in their own territory. In two minutes, sophomore quarterback Dean Pecevich guided his team 71 yards to the BC two-yard line. Pearson highlighted the drive with runs of 10 and 17 yards and capped off the performance by taking the ball into the endzone.

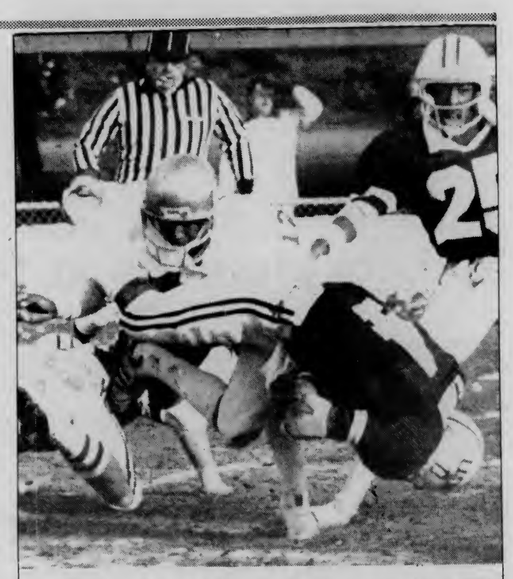
"We've used the two-point play successfully," Pickett said later, and when the Minutemen were down by one Pickett decided to go for the win.

A Pecevich pass went incomplete but a BC holding penalty gave the Mass. gridders another try . . . from the 16 yard line instead of the one, due to the unsportsmanlike conduct penalty given to Pearson who thought no holding penalty was called.

From 16 yards out the Massachusetts squad couldn't do it and BC held on to their one-point victory.

Overshadowed by the loss was the performance of the Mass. defensive unit which held Gamble to 16 yards rushing and Eagle quarterback John Loughery to 102 yards passing.

They kept BC's offense pinned deep in their own territory until midway through the second quarter when BC got control of the punt. Even then, Mass. allowed just two first downs and the Eagles had to settle for three points after having one first down on the Mass. 13 yard line.



UMass' Grady Fuller grabs a John Loughery pass to stop a BC drive in Saturday's football game at Alumni Stadium. BC took the game 13-12. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Gymnasts edge by Army on final event

By CHRIS WILSON
Collegian Staff

One-tenth of a point. That was the difference between winning and losing.

"Hey, we were lucky," said Roy Johnson, head coach of the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastic team. "We had a lot of breaks."

Last Friday night, before about 300 spectators packed into Boyden Auxilary Gymnasium, the men's gym team squeezed by Army 246.05 to 245.95. This was the first time that UMass has beaten Army since 1974.

Johnson had predicted that the meet would come down to horizontal bar, the last event, and it did. Army went into the event with a .7 lead. Seeing how close it was, the crowd came alive by whistling and clapping whenever a UMass competitor was up.

"Bob Lamb was the key performer to pull together the high bar team because he was first up and he led off with and excellent performance," Johnson said.

Much of the pressure was on Hugh O'Neall who was the last competitor. After a fall in the first half of his routine, O'Neall kept his composure and came back with a strong finish. His score, an 8.55, decided the winner.

"I think that we could have done better," Johnson said, "But I'm satisfied for the first meet of the season."

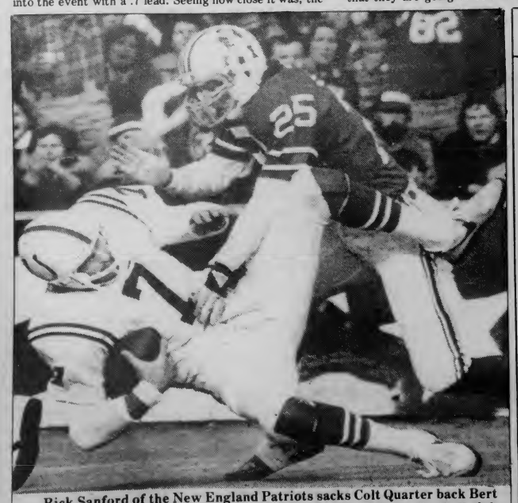
Because of falls on the pommel horse, Johnson said that he was "disappointed" with that event, but despite those falls, UMass scored its highest team total ever, proving that they are going to be a match for all their rivals this year.

"I was pleased with the performances of freshmen Neil Connolly and Bob Gauthier who really came through in their first meet," Johnson said. Gauthier, who won the all-around with 52.25 points, was competing with a broken toe. Captain Tommy Thompson performed on the still rings with a broken hand.

"The performances of Bob Gauthier were a highlight of the meet," Johnson said.

After the meet the crowd swarmed onto the floor mat to congratulate the team. The team is already looking forward to up-coming meets and is not lacking in enthusiasm.

Steve Craig, who won the floor-exercise with a 9.00, said excitedly, "Our next big goal is Syracuse. I'm psyched to get in the gym and start going all-out again."



Rick Sanford of the New England Patriots sacks Colt Quarter back Bert Jones n the first quarter yesterday at Foxboro. The Patriots football club racked up 47 points to down the Colts who scored 21. (AP Laserphoto)

It wasn't really funny

Kevin Cullen

It had all the makings of a good football game. The day was clear, the air crisp. The tail-gaters were there, early, chomping on hot dogs, quaffing a few beers. It was just a good day for a good football game.

It was a good football game.

The seniors, in their last appearance, came through. University of Massachusetts tri-captain Bob Manning came up with two interceptions, a fumble recovery and ran back four punts for 41 yards. Frank DiTommaso, also a tri-captain and quiet leader at defensive end, recovered a fumble which lead to a UMass score, the first career touchdown for Brian Heyworth, the senior fullback who had waited four years to dance in the endzone. Nearly every player on the team had a pat or a handshake for Heyworth. UMass head coach Bob Pickett came over and embraced him.

It was, in some respects, a classic college football game. Not for its style or execution of play—but for its emotion.

It was a showcase of how exciting the game can be when you put a bunch of kids out on a football field and they play for something besides money.

The sad part about the whole thing is that when all is said and done, people won't remember that UMass quarterback Dean Pecevich led his team 73 yards down field in the last few minutes. It won't be remembered that tailback Garry Pearson scored from two yards out with 54 seconds to play, bringing the Minutemen to within one point of Boston College. Nor will it be remembered that Pickett threw out any tags of conservatism that may have been attached to him, and went for the two-point conversion to win.

As people filed out of Alumni Stadium Saturday afternoon, minutes after Mike Mayock picked off Pecevich's last-ditch pass to secure the 13-12 BC win, there was little talk of good college football.

They talked about snowballs.

"It was crazy," said Kevin Boisvert, a senior at UMass who works the telecopiers in the press box. "This was the craziest thing I ever saw."

What Boisvert saw, many others saw. Shortly after the game started, so did the snowballs. At first they were few and intermittent. One or two tossed at the cheerleaders on the left end of the home side of the field; a couple thrown at the two ROTC women who stood a dozen or so yards to the left of the cheerleaders, waiting to set off the cannon for a UMass score.

They never did get the cannon off.

The barrage came. With an ample supply of ammunition from last Tuesday's snowstorm tucked under their seats, spectators began pelting the field—and each other—with snowballs.

The ROTC women were the first victims.

MILITANT

Organizer discusses nat'l Black convention

By Chris Davis

PHILADELPHIA—"We're trying to get the word out to people at the grass roots level in the Black community that this is going to be a different kind of party," Zaharah Simmons said in an interview here November 4.

Simmons was speaking of plans for the founding convention of the "Independent National Black Political Party," which will take place in Philadelphia November 21-23. The convention has been called by the National Black Political Assembly.

An activist in the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee during the 1960s, Simmons is a member of the steering committee that is planning the convention.

"I think the decline of Black folk in particular in the electoral process at the national level is an indication that people...realize they have no choice," said Simmons. "And that the electoral process at the national level, especially at the presidential level has less and less relevance to the problems that confront us every day in our lives."

New kind of party

Simmons said that Carter, Reagan, and Anderson all represented "the interests of the wealthy."

In a statement released earlier this fall, the National Black Political Assembly urged Black Americans to withhold their votes from any of the three major presidential candidates in the 1980 elections. Blacks were encouraged instead to come to Philadelphia to discuss founding an independent Black political party.

Simmons said that in her view, such a party "will not be a party, first of all, primarily concerned with electoral politics. That will have, in the minds of those of us who are working on the formation of this party, a very small portion of our concern.

"The party will be devoted to community building," she explained, "providing some of the needed services, engaging in community struggles, and bringing them under a national banner."

The party would organize "around the issues of our lives. The fact that we don't control our own communities, the fact that we don't control our schools, that we have no control over whether there are available jobs."

She thinks the party would "have a massive job to do in educating people that when we say an independent Black political party, we're not talking about a party like the Republican and Democratic parties.

"I think the disillusionment of so many of our people with the present system will make them inclined to join us," said Simmons. "Maybe not initially, but if we are true to what we say we're about and really get into the community by working, I think people will be drawn to us. I think that people are looking for an alternative."

National Black Political Assembly chairperson Ron Daniels and Black educator Barbara Sizemore will be among the keynote speakers at Black political convention.

Purpose of convention

She explained that the purpose of the convention "is to found the party, and the main focus of our work will be on the charter or constitution, which will include the ideology and goals of the party."

Much of the tentative convention agenda devotes time to discussing the program of the new party.

Simmons said convention organizers plan to convene state caucus meetings and women's and youth caucuses in addition to the plenary sessions that will discuss the party charter.

"Nothing but a broad outline has been set forward in the call for the party, which was issued in New Orleans at the National Black Political Assembly Black Political Convention," she said.

"I certainly have my ideas about what I'd like to see. But I will be just one of hopefully a thousand or more Black people bringing their ideas, bringing their concerns, their experience, and working together to develop a party program, party ideology, and a party structure.

"The convention is open to participation by all members of the Black community," Simmons said.

"Each state delegation will be the Black folks who have come from those states. It will be an open convention."

'Open & democratic'

"Of course," she said, "that means that it's going to be very difficult to do the kind of work we have to do, because you're going to have people who don't know each other coming from all spectrums of political thought.

"Nonetheless, if we're serious about building a mass party, and I think that we are, then this is the way we have to do it. It has to be open, it has to be democratic."

Keynote speakers at the convention will include National Black Political Assembly chairperson Ron Daniels, journalist Manning Marable, Howard University professor Ron Walters, and Barbara Sizemore, former Washington, D.C., public schools superintendent.

The November 21-23 founding convention of the Independent National Black Political Party will take place at Benjamin Franklin High School in Philadelphia. For more information, contact convention organizers at (215) 849-4944.

NUMMO

Buffalo Blacks demand action on murders

Special to the Guardian
Buffalo, N.Y.

Community leaders here continue to press local police to intensify the investigation of the murders of six area Black men in September and October.

One Black community organization, the People's Commission, has scheduled a meeting Nov. 25 at which police officials are to report to the community on the status of the probe.

Local activists charge that without greater police protection of the Black community and an outpouring of public sentiment against the murders, further attacks on Blacks can be expected.

Their fears have been borne out by events of recent weeks. There have been an estimated seven cross burnings in Buffalo's suburbs since late October, along with numerous reported incidents of whites harassing Blacks.

In addition, Carl Hand, a longtime Nazi and Ku Klux Klan (KKK) organizer, has recently returned to Buffalo, where he is putting out a local newsletter for the National Socialist Party of America (Nazi Party).

The Black community here is still reeling from the murders of the Black men. Four victims, ranging in age from 14 to 71, were killed by shots from a .22 caliber gun during a 36-hour period Sept. 22-24. Eyewitnesses to each slaying described the assailant as a white man. Two weeks later, two Black taxi drivers were found beaten to death with their hearts cut out. A seventh man survived an attack in his hospital bed by a white man who attempted to strangle him.

On Oct. 26, local antiracists participated in a large Unity Day rally called to denounce the killings. Soon after the rally, the Justice Department assigned some of its members to monitor the work of the Buffalo and Erie County police in tracking down the killer or killers.

But so far, the only concrete police action has been to meet periodically with Black community and religious leaders to keep them updated on the status of the investigation. In addition, the police increased patrols in the Black community and city officials set up a rumor hotline number in an effort to defuse Black outrage.

Daniel Acker, president of the Buffalo NAACP, has expressed dissatisfaction with the pace of the investigation. He fears that once the headlines leave the

turn to page 4

B U S H

of the Nixon administration. Bush was put in as head of the Republican Party.

Most importantly, though, Bush is the CIA's man—a member of "the Company," now and forever. A big red, white and blue poster, "George Bush for President" was tacked up over the CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia. The past director of the Association of Former Intelligence Officers, Jack Coakly, put it this way: "It's sure as hell not a CIA coup or anything like that, but I can tell you there is a very high level of support for George Bush among current and former CIA employees." So there was. No less than 25 former intelligence officers came out to join the Reagan/Bush campaign. Among the volunteers at campaign headquarters were Lt. Gen. Wilson, former director of the Defense Intelligence Agency; Lt. Gen. Harold Aaron, former deputy director of the DIA; and Robert Gambino, former CIA director of security.

With a Reagan victory, the CIA wants to come in from the cold. A few years ago when exposés of the CIA dirty tricks and misdeeds were in the headlines daily, no candidate would have dared accept such blatant support. But the Reagan/Bush team trumpeted this backing and made the call for a "stronger CIA" an up-front issue in the campaign. While Bush's tenure as director was relatively short-lived, he came in at a crucial time. In the aftermath of Watergate, where the CIA was involved from break-in to cover-up, he took over the reins from Colby and Helms, cleaned up the CIA's image and bolstered sagging morale.

Bush is no pipe-smoking, bumbling Allan Dulles "gentleman"-agent. He is a Vietnam vintage spook, up to the elbows of his Brooks Brothers suit in the dirtiest, most murderous operations of this imperialist spy agency. For example, George Bush was chief of the CIA in September 1976 when former Chilean ambassador Orlando Letelier was blown to pieces on the streets of Washington by agents of Pinochet's bloody DINA. As we reported earlier in the campaign (see "George Bush and the Letelier Assassination," WV No. 261, 25 July), Bush, as head of the agency, received a cablegram that two Chilean army officers on a DINA mission were preparing to enter the U.S. on false passports. When they arrived a month later, the CIA was again informed, but nothing was done to stop them. During the Justice Department investigation following Letelier's murder, Bush was interviewed but did not say a word about the CIA's foreknowledge. Now this sinister figure is the vice-president-to-be, first in the line of succession.

It's been remarked that in Moscow, with Brezhnev ailing and Kosygin already out, Yuri Andropov may be next in line. Andropov is chief of the KGB. It's not hard to imagine what kind of hysterics the Thatchers, Goldwaters and Reagans would go into if the head of the KGB were to take over in Moscow. But ex-CIA chief Bush gets in line to follow Reagan and no one utters a peep. Class criteria, anyone? ■

E L E C T I O N S

But what does this all mean, especially when thought about in the context of a Reagan "landslide"• At first glance, it would seem to indicate that we better keep our eyes open and be prepared to cover our asses because Fascism is here. But this would be a mistake. Because Fascism is not here. What has happened is that a more reactionary element of the capitalist class has taken control of the state. Of course, they will try and produce a mass base for their policies. They will try to get support from the people. The question now is: Will they get it • That cannot be answered. The only thing we can do is try our hardest to not let them get it. The only way to do this is to organize massive resistance to reactionary measures.

One of the ways that the powerful groups in our society get us to think that the masses have moved to the right is because all they report about in the media is right-wing causes; the Klan; the "Moral Majority"; the "Soviet Threat", etc. They never report on the progressive struggles which people in this country are involved in everyday. They rarely report on strikes; unless those strikes are taking place in Poland or some other country. If they do report on them they never support the workers; the workers demands are to them always outrageous. They never report favorably on the struggle which is currently being waged to outlaw the Ku Klux Klan and other hate groups. They never report on the growing Peace movement in this country; they only report on how we need to beef up our national defense against some mythical "Soviet Threat". The list goes on.

Millions of people in this country are standing on the progressive side of the issues facing the nation. The term "silent majority" is more spplicable to them than to the people Nixon used to refer to. But their only reason for silence is because they don't get media coverage. The people are not silent and they never will be.

We cannot let the media or Reagan demagogary whip us into submission. We will not escape the brunt of right-wing policies, just like we didn't escapê the effects of Carter's so-called "liberal" policies. So it only makes sense that we struggle against them.

We must always keep in mind that Reagan or any other government official cannot do what he wants. He can only do what the people let him do.

The only way to constrain the actions of the Reagan administration is to become more active in the struggle against the policies of reaction. United we can win. We can turn Reagan into another Nixon, another "national disgrace"; that is, another victory for the people!

Eco Latino

Juntos Pero no Unidos

Una Carta Abierta a la Comunidad

por Jose Bou y Gertrudis Garcia

La falta de envolvimiento del estudiante hispano para con nuestras organizaciones y programas viene con nosotros desde en ano de las 'juacaras'.

Es esta falta de envolvimiento lo que le esta causando problemas serios a organizaciones y programas hispanos en la universidad. Ademas de causarnos problemas, evita que la comunidad se informe de aquellos asuntos que suceden a nuestro alrededor. Esta falta de informacion es lo que mas tarde evita que como miembros de la comunidad latina, no podamos responder con la debida fuerza los ataques que continuamente recibimos.

La organizacion AHORA (que representa la voz del hispano en UMass) no ha tenido el apoyo necesario para progresar en varias areas debido a la falta de envolvimiento de los miembros de la comunidad hispana. La historia de la organizacion senala claramente que todos los anos los miembros de la directiva se ven severamente afectados en sus promedios academicos.

Esto no sucede porque ellos no tengan las capacidades para realizar una buena labor academica. Sucede porque no reciben la cooperacion debida de sus companeros. Sucede porque muchos solo piensan en sus promedios academicos pero no piensan en que hay dos o tres que llevan sobre sus hombros la gran responsabilidad de administrar una organizacion que les consume gran parte de su tiempo.

La organizacion AHORA no es la unica que sufre de falta de apoyo. Hay otros grupos y programas que el estudiantado debiera apoyar, entre ellos: BCP, La Colectiva Bilingue, ESL, Eco Latino, Patria Libre.

Estos grupos existen para servir de portavoces, de representantes y de defensores de cada uno de nosotros. Ellos no existen porque la administracion universitaria tiene recursos economicos en abundancia y gustosoamente los pone a nuestra disposicion.

Estos grupos existen porque primeramente existio una necesidad urgente por ellos y segundamente porque en un momento la comunidad se unio y exigio tales programas. En este momento hay companeros que ingenuamente piensan que estos progrmas existiran a perpetuidad. Estan bien equivocados.

Cada ano nuestras organizaciones y programas experimentan cortes presupuestarios o son eliminados por falta de representacion. Otras veces se nos trata indiferentemente. Esto pasa proque el circulo vicioso de no apoyar nuestras organizaciones no ha sido roto. Pasa porque muy pocos estudiantes se envuelven en el ambiente politico-economico de la universidad.

Ejemplo: En el senado estudiantil graduado muy pocos son los latinos que nos representan. Fue falta de representacion lo que casi causo que el ano pasado perdieramos el presupuesto de Eco Latino (que es el grupo que asigna el dinero para la producccion del Eco). Tambien por esta razon la Colectiva bilingue tuvo mucha dificultad defendiendo sus propuestas.

Esto no sucederia si estuvieramos al tanto de las actividades politico-economicos en la universidad. Esto no sucederia si todos los miembros de nuestros grupos asistieran a las reuniones. Esto no sucederia si no hubieran divisiones en nuestra comunidad.

Es erroneo pretender que no hay divisiones. Debemos admitir que actualmente hay divisiones entre latinos 'blancos' y latinos no blancos; entre los cubanos de alla y los cubanos de aca; entre los sub-graduados y los graduados; entre nacionalidades de un lado y nacionalidades de otro lado; entre el puertorriqueno nacido en Puerto Rico y el puertorriqueno nacido en los EE.UU.

Estas son actitudes personales que debieramos bregar con ellas de inmediato porque como grupo minoritario no podemos darnos el lujo de estar divididos en este tipo de asuntos.

Tenemos dos alternativas en cuanto al futuro de nuestros grupos se refiere: Primero, seguir con las divisioones, o segundo, romper de una vez y por todas las cadenas divisionistas.

Si seguimos con las divisiones y la falta de apoyo a nuestros grupos, la presencia de la comunidad hispana en UMass va a disminuir y con esto su fuerza combativa. Dejarnos vencer por divisiones no es permisible; preferible seria unir nuestras fuerzas contra el racismo que cada dia se acresenta.

Debido a que nuestra lucha no es unificada, no nos hemos dado cuenta de los abusos cometidos contra miembros de nuestra comunidad. No nos hemos dado cuenta de la falta de sensitividad de parte de la policia de Amherst y del campus. Han sido varios los ataquesque se han lanzado contra algunos de nosotros.

A principio de semestre un companero por poco pierde un ojo como consecuencia de un ataque racista contra su persona. La policia dice que no se sabe quien lo hizo aun teniendo la tabilla y descripcion del carro usado por los atacantes.

La misma apatia existe de parte de la policia cuando una ganga racista del sur de Boston ataco a dos puertorriquenos en el area de sylvan. La policia y la administracion se han comportado la misma forma, lanzando ellos mismos ataques contra nuestra gente y no protegiendo sus derechos.

Estas y muchas otras injusticias se han cometido contra nuestra comunidad. Tenemos que decidir ahora si vamos a permitir que se nos niegue todo aquello a lo cual tnemos derecho, o si vamos a unir nuestras fuerzas para garantizar que nuestros derechos no sean violados. Decide por ti como trabajaras para defender tus derechos y los de tus companeros.

Summary in English

More Hispanic students have to get involved with the Hispanic organizations and programs on this campus--BCP, AHORA, La Colectiva Bilingue, ESL, Eco Latino, Patria Libre.

AHORA, the representative organization of the Latino student body, in particular, hasn't been able to progress in certain areas because of insufficient student involvement. What has always happened in AHORA is that too much work falls on too few people, who end up having trouble keeping up with schoolwork.

One fact we have to be very conscious of is that Hispanic programs and organizations exist, not out of generosity or goodwill on the part of the university administration, but as a result of struggles by hispanic students who saw the urgent need for them.

There is no guarantee that these programs and organizations will always continue to exist, especially with the continous threat of budget cuts. For example, Eco Latino is funded by the Graduate Student Senate, and this organization, which has almost no Hispanics, almost took the budget away last Spring. La Colectiva Bilingue has also had budget problems.

More of us have to start getting involved if we're going to do something about these kind of situations.

Another problem we have is the internal divisions in our community. These are divisions of nationality, race, background, academic level, etc.

But we can't afford to be weak and divided if we're going to defend ourselves from racist abuses.

There have been physical attacks on Latinos and they have been ignored by the local police. This semester a companero was seriously endangered by a racist attack. The police said they couldn't do anything, even though they were given a description and plate number of the car used by the attackers. This same police apathy occurred when a racist gang from South Boston attacked two Puerto Ricans in the Sylvan area at UMass. The police and administration behaved in a racist manner instead of protecting our rights.

It's clear that it's up to us to protect our own rights. But we have to be strong and united.

Guatemalan campuses terrorized by rightwing

From the Guardian

Right-wing terrorist organizations in Guatemala have been attacking students and teachers opposed to the military dictatorship headed by Romeo Lucas Garcia.

The University Center of the West (CUNOC) has been bombed three times in the past year. Over 25 of its professors have been murdered or have gone into exile after recieving death threats. Other professors have resigned their posts in fear. 80 percent of the students have stopped attending classes because of threats issued by the Secret Anticommunist Army (ESA). University leaders have expressed their determination to continue activities, but it is questionable that final examinations will be held later this month.

The ESA leadership is said to include President Romeo Lucas Garcia, four top generals and the minister of the interior. Army personnel and vehicles are often used to carry out its operations.

At the University of San Carlos nearly 100 students, teachers and administrators have "disappeared" during the past year.

This increase in right-wing terrorism has occurred at a time when Guatemala's guerrilla groups have announced the formation of a unified command to combat the military regime. In addition to the attacks on universities, the ESA has also stepped up killings of union activists, members of peasant organizations and Catholic priests.

These attacks have weakened opposition forces, bu the country's four revolutionary organizations have not been destroyed.

Nicaraguan Film "Women In Arms"

Monday, November 24

at 8 pm in Mahar Auditorium at UMass. The film is a documentary about the women who participated in the Nicaraguan Revolution. It will be accompanied by an introduction by Victoria Schultz, who made the film, with a question and answer period afterwards. This is the first film made in Nicaragua after the revolution. A $2 donation is requested.

Sponsored by the Latin America SolidarityCommittee, Commuter Collective, Third World Women's Task Force, Latin American Studies, Women's Studies, Anthropology-Holyoke.

Revolutionary Forces Strenghten Unity

Reprinted from The Militant/November 21

Formation of the Forabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN), announced in El Salvador in early October, represents the effective fusion of three of the organizations that have been leading the revolucionary struggle against the U.S. backed military/Christian Democratic dictatorship

The FMLN has been formed by the Salvadoran Communist Party (PCS), the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), and the Forabundo Marti People's Liberation Forces (FPL). According to the front's founding statement, reprinted in the October 12 issue of the Managua daily Barricada, the three groups have established "the necessary mechanisms for making strategic decisions... by adopting democratic centralism as the basis of their functioning, with decisions being made by majority rule."

The statement announced that the FMLN would henceforth use a single flag (a star and the letters FMLN in white on a red field) and a single pair of slogans: "United to fight until final victory!" and "Revolution or death- - -we shall win!"

Four united military staffs have been set up to lead the four fighting fronts the FMLN has established in El Salvador.

The statement also announced that unified FMLN propaganda organ, to be entitled Venceremos, would soon begin publication.

The leadership body of the new front will continued to be called the Unified Revolutionary Directorate (DRU).

The fourth main revolutionary group in El Salvador, the Armed Forces for National Resistance (FARN), hailed the formation of ther FMLN as "a qualitative leap toward the constitution of the united party of the proletariat..." The FARN also declared its readiness for "immediate reintegration" into the FMLN. It acknowledged that its August withdrawal from the united front the four groups had formed "was a mistaken step."

According to reports from El Salvador on November 5, an FMLN statement announcing the reintegration of the FARN into the front was "expected momentarily."

EL SALVADOR

Bishops Denounce U.S. Aid

Reprinted from The Militant/Nov. 21, 1980

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops, meeting in Washington November 8, denounced the U.S. government's support to El Salvador's brutal junta.

The bishops declared, "The United States Catholic Conference continues to oppose all military aid to the government of El Salvador and any further intervention by our government in the internal affairs of El Salvador."

In an implicit expression of sympathy with the liberation forces, the conference statement continued:

"We fervently hope that an accomodation, fully incorporating the positions expressed by the major segments of the Salvadoran population organized in the democratic and revolutionary opposition, may be achieved soon and with a minimum of bloodshed and hatred."

In a separate expression of opposition to Washington's policy, Bishop Frank J. Harrison of Syrcuse, New York, published a letter to Secretary of State Edmund Muskie.

Harrison declared that "the military dominated government" in El Salvador "enjoys the support of your administration, but not the support of the Salvadoran people."

He urged Muskie to resist any "pressures or temptations" to intervene militarily in Central America.

"We along with millions of Christians in Latin America, are not afraid of the wave of change sweeping Central America because the change is rooted in a desire to create more just societies," Bishop Harrison said.

The statements represent a big political blow to administration efforts to gain public tolerance for step-by-step escalation of the U.S. military role in El Salvador.

Liturgy for Korea

Don Luce

Leader: "May 22, 1980. We confirm that the following happened:
On the first day at least 40 people were killed in bright daylight by the bayonets of the airborn bandits. And a girl student, tied to the fountain in front of Kwangju railway station, had her breasts cut off before being killed..."
So began a telegram from Kwangju (South Korea).

Congregation: The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me because the Lord has annointed me
to bring good tidings to the afflicted
He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted to proclaim liberty to the captives
and the opening of the prison to those who are bound

Leader: After the streets fall silent
After the bruises and the tear-gassed eyes are healed
After the consensus has returned
After the memories of Kent and Kwangju and Hiroshima
Lose their power
And their connections with each other
And the sweaters labeled Made in Korea
And the last Indian at Pine Ridge
After the last Whale is emptied from the sea
And the last leopard emptied from its skin
And the last drop of blood refined by Exxon
After the last iron door clangs shut
Behind the last conscience
And the last loaf of bread is hammered into bullets
And the bullets
Scattered among the hungry

What answers will you find
What armor will protect you
When your children ask you...why ?

Congregation: Why are we silent ? We rationalize. We say that we're just one person. We can't make the difference.
We forget that change begins with one person and is accomplished by many people working together. We ratioanlize. We say that Viet Nam was an abberration, a mistake. We say that Korea is so far away. Why are we so silent ?

Leader: South Korea...an outpost of American "freedom" where gentle poets and 14 year-old students are beaten to death...where church deacons and frail old women are carried off to jail. The U.S. government proposes to send 175 million dollars in military sales, 1.3 million in international Military Education and Training, as well as 30 million dollars worth of Food for Peace commodities to the regime in Seoul which has sent its troops to kill in Kwangju.

Congregation: We forget the words of John Kennedy: "Those who make peaceful revolution impossible, make violent revolution inevitable."

Leader: The heroes of Korea are in jail...Kim Dae Jung, Kim
Dong Gill, Tomothy Moon, Cho Wha Soon, Lee Moon
Young. The poems of Kim Chi Ha find a new setting:

The winter came in
May 1980
Let's call it death

Afternoon streets
The light in my eyes
Put out by the newscast
Let's call it death
The snowstorm breaking out
Just as, in my anguished breast
The frozen blood had begun to warm
Let's call it death

The frightened face of a wretched man
The quick dagger of this dark age
Stabbing his back
Peering from a broken mirror or an unfamiliar wine house
The fatigue-furrowed wrinkles
Let's call it death

Even cold wind-swept streets
Will one day bud forth spring leaves
With a shout of joy--
Yet this heart of mine cannot believe it
Let's call it death

Congregation: (singing)

Oh, freedom, Oh freedom
Oh, freedom over me

And before I'd be a slave
I'd be buried in my grave
And go home to my lord and be free.

Leader: 29,000 American troops protect General Chon Too Hwan from the South Korean people. The aircraft carier, the Coral Sea, has moved to the Korean coast to give the brutal military clique psychological support. More Korean people are killed and imprisoned. And Americans pay for it with our tax dollars.

Congregation: The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me because the Lord had annointed me
to bring good tidings to the afflicted...
to proclaim liberty to the captives
the opening of the proison to those who are bound

Leader: We become complacent because it's all happening a long way away. It's in Korea, South Africa, Chile, Argentina, the Philippines, Haiti and Brazil. It's far away. Out there. But we cannot destroy another country without destroying ourselves. The war in Viet Nam did come home. The men who taught torture to Korean interrogators at the International Police Academy in Washington, D.C. learned their trade in Selma in Mississippi and Riker's Island, New York City.

Congregation: After the streets fall silent
After the bruises and the tear-gassed eyes are healed
After the consensus has returned
After the memories of Kent and My Lai and Kwangju
Lose their power

What answers will we find
What armor will protect us
When our children ask us
Why ?

Leader: Let us observe a moment of silent prayer for the people of Kwangju.

And let us join together to give strength and to sing for all of the people of Korea.

Congregation: (singing)

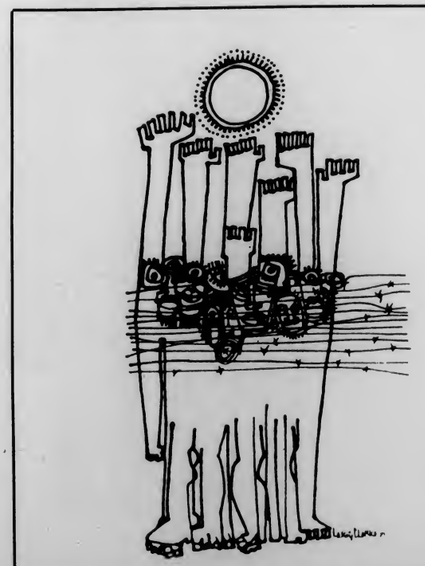
Oh freedom, Oh freedom
Oh freedom over me!

And before I'd be a slave
I'd be buried in my grave
And go home to my Lord and be free

There'll be praying, there'll be praying!
There'll be praying over me!

And before I'd be a slave
I'd be buried in m y grave
And go home to my Lord and be free

(Special thanks to Kim Chi Ha and W.D. Ehrhart for adaptions of their poetry.)



NUMMO

VOLUME I, ISSUE 18 — 24 NOVEMBER 1980

WHAT DO THE ELECTIONS MEAN?

Greg Tarpinian

We must put the recent election of Ronald Reagan and his conservative wave in the United States in perspective.

Things are, to say the least, quite confusing and downright scary. One thing is for sure, however; the two-party system has done another number on the people. Whether Reagan was the people's choice or not, the result was a Republican administration for the next four years. That is a long time to have some say in what goes on in the next four years. That is if we mobilize mass resistance to the right-wing policies which come from Washington. If we look back in time, this the only way that progressive changes have taken place, or reactionary changes have been halted.

There is much talk going on about the right-wing shift in the country. This is a big lie propagated by the monopoly-dominated news media. There is nothing of the sort going on. The only rightward shift that's taking place is occuring in Washington. The handful of voters were fed up with politics as usual and voted Reagan since he ran on a platform of "change".

The fact of the matter is that only 52 per cent of the eligible voters voted. Reagan received only 26 per cent from the people. The majority of the people rejected the Reagan condidacy. And of those who voted for Reagan a small percentage of them actually support the right-wing positions which he represents.

There is a lot of stuff coming out of Washington today as well as from the local bastions of political power throughout the country. For example, the Senate just voted to curtail monies which go to support the desegregation efforts in the public schools. They have voted for segregation, and a large segment of the Senate is pledging itself to a program of revoking all of the gains made by Blacks and other minorities in the 1960's. Klansmen who murdered several people in cold blood were let free. Throughout the country, the Klan and other hate groups are building up steam. At the same time, reactionary tax-cut legislation has passed in many states, including Massachusetts with Proposition 2 and one half.

turn to page 1

GEORGE BUSH: THE CIA'S CANDIDATE

WORKERS VANGUARD

Evans/Sygma

Watch out for No. 2.

With Ronald Reagan pushing 70, everyone is saying that, statistically speaking, he'll only be a one-term president...and maybe not even that. So naturally enough, they're looking out for Number Two. George Bush, 55, runs 3.8 miles a day. Bush was nominated to "balance the ticket"—he's for the ERA, a "voice of moderation," so those worried about Reagan's trigger finger can sleep easier. But if you're still having nightmares, here's why: the vice president of "these United States" was/is the CIA's candidate for president.

Who is George Bush? Dad was an investment banker and a senator from New England. Mom inherited one of the largest fortunes in New England. School was Phillips Academy in Andover. Leaving the patrician stone mansions in the land of the Cabots and Lodges, Bush did a World War II tour in the Navy, and then on to Yale. Later in the Nixon era, when GOP pols ranged from used car salesmen to crooked lawyers, Bush could have been the Eastern Republican establishment's answer to the Kennedy boys. Instead, after this careful grooming he went to Texas.

There Bush struck it big in offshore oil and became an unabashed spokesman for the interests of Big Oil. In 1964 he ran for Senate, backing Goldwater 1,000 percent, coming out against the Civil Rights Act, opposing the test ban treaty, calling for restoration of prayer in the schools, advocating the U.S. government recognize the Cuban government in exile (!), and supporting the use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam. In '66 he won a term in Congress, later abandoning his seat for a losing race for Senate. Eventually Bush was picked up by the Nixon team to give a touch of class to some of their more respectable operations—first a stint as American ambassador to the UN, then head of the U.S. mission in Peking. When they needed a "Mr Clean" in the dying days

turn to page 1

—If you know T E A C H . . . If you don't know L E A R N

BLACK LEGACY

Throughout history, many Black have done great things which have been ignored by American history books. One will not be able to compensate for the generations of miseducated Americans, however, the following Black legacy is compiled from many of the contributions Blacks have made to the world.

R. Duran

In 1854, Father James Healy came to Boston. He built and became First Pastor of St. James Church and founded the Catholic Laymen's Union. In 1875, a year after his ordination, Father became President of Georgetown University, Father Healy became Bishop of Portland. Bishop Healy was a Black Man!

There is still a great controversy over who discovered the North Pole, Frederick Cook, Robert E. Perry, four Eskimos and Mathew A. Henson, a Black Man, reached the North Pole. Henson planted the flage at the Pole and was eventually recognized for doing so. However, most history books give the Admiral Perry all the credit for discovering the North Pole.

Georgetown University is the oldest Catholic University in the United States. The school entered a period of great expansion in 1868 when Father Patrick Healy became Prefect of Studies. In 1874, Father Healy was named President of Georgetown University, a post he held until his death in 1910.

HAIR

Gospel Concert The Amherst quartet of Horace Clarence Boyer and The Year Of Jubilee and fifty members of Springfield's FreeAmherst. The music starts at 8:00 pm. Tickets available at the door. Sponsored by the Pioneer Valley Folklore Society.

ADDRESS ALL CORRESPONDENCE TO: NUMMO 103 NEW AFRICA HOUSE UMASS AMHERST

Latees Muhammed will be the new barber and hair stylist at New Africa House, every Thursday from 10:00 to 7:00.

The Third World Women's Center

toward the positive development of Women of Color

Sunday, December 7 3 pm
Multicultural Fashion Show and Dinner
Memorial Hall —between Home Ec and the Chapel Food and Fashions from around the world
Brothers you're welcome too!

BUFFALO

papers, the police will cut back the scope of the investigation. At a Nov. 6 meeting with Black leaders, District Attorney Edward Cosgrove gave assurances that the investigation will not be cut.

Other community members, meanwhile, are taking an activist approach to combatting the terrorist violence against Blacks. Last Oct. 25, the People's Commission initiated by the local activist group BUILD, held a noon rally at city hall. The commission called for a police investigation of right-wing groups and demanded the establishment of a civilian review board to deal with police misconduct. Ernestine Robinson, a commission spokeswoman, pointed out that the police themselves often beat and kill Blacks without provocation and that they cannot be expected to protect Black people from other racists.

Another group concerned with the issue is the Buffalo Unity Day Committee, formed by a group of white activists who organized the Buffalo Unity Day rally. They are planning a long-term investigation of right-wing activities in the area. The main spokesperson, Charles Haynie, sees this group's function as primarily educational, and to win people over to anti-racist stand. Local actions are planned in the next few weeks to initiate this program

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

Volume CX, Issue 59 — Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA — Tuesday, November 25, 1980

BOG delays action until budget is set

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

The Campus Center Board of Governors and the Campus Center Administration are negotiating terms and budgetary allocations for the upcoming fiscal year so the planned boycott of the University Store has been called off for now but could be used as a course of action if the talks break down, Board Chairman Curtiss Wohlers said yesterday.

Center Director William Harris said "Before we agree on any kind of FY (Fiscal Year) 82 budget I'll be making a set of conditions for the board."

Harris also said the Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance George Beatty had reviewed the BOG's operation and had asked for greater financial accountability.

The board is asking for about $113,000 for the upcoming year and have set six conditions to avoid protest actions over the proposed budget cuts. Wohlers called the proposed $97,000 budget "totally unacceptable" when it was first presented by Harris.

At last Thursday night's meeting strategies including the boycott were organized by board and senate leaders. Wohlers announced these conditions yesterday:

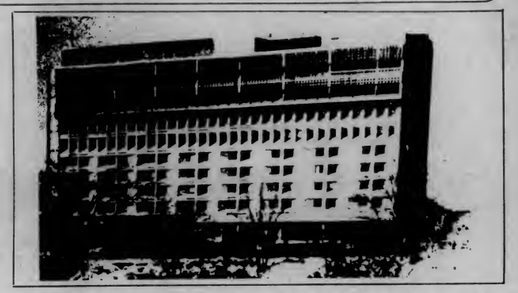
—A long-term renovation project for the Student Union

—$10,000 a year to be set aside for office equipment for student use

—A written affirmation of the agreement stating the BOG is the final policy making organization and will give final approval for the Campus Center's operating budget.

—The Campus Center and not students or student groups will pay for Fringe benefits of full time employees should the University be liable for such payments.

—The purchase of typewriters for student use in the Student Union.



—The Campus Center Director shall present the FY 1982 budget to the BOG before submitting it to the Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance.

But Harris said the administration has been dissatisfied with the BOG's operations, specifically with the Treasurers office and the Union Program Council (UPC).

We've got to have more accountability in the areas of financial reporting and programming. Both areas have been sadly lacking this fall.

He said the administration has not received monthly finance statements from the BOG, and that the UPC has produced fewer shows than last year at this point.

Union rumblings threaten AFSCME again

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

A drive to decertify exclusive union representation of the service employees union on campus has begun, less than one year after a previous attempt failed.

Steam of consciousness. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Stephen Kosloski, safety officer at the Physical Plant, said the National Association of Government Employees has begun to circulate a decertification petition at his request.

According to state law, if 30 percent of the 1200 bargaining unit members of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees sign the petition, a decertification election must result.

Since a year must pass between decertification elections, March is the earliest possible date for the election to be held. A majority vote of bargaining unit members determines whether AFSCME will remain as the sole bargaining agent for the service workers.

But AFSCME local president Jonathan Tuttle said he was skeptical of the decertification attempts success, claiming it was the work of a small minority.

Last March, an election was held to decide whether AFSCME would remain as the sole bargaining agent, Tuttle said. The unit members voted "over whelmingly to retain AFSCME's services by a margin of 2-1," Tuttle said.

"Only 38 people voted for no union at all."

Kosloski claims the unit members were misled by union propaganda.

"AFSCME used devious and deceitful propaganda that instilled fear into the union members by saying they would have to wait a long time to get a pay raise" if AFSCME was decertified," Kosloski said.

He charged the union's parent organization with plundering members' dues payments, leaving only a small amount on campus to carry out union functions.

Citing the expertise of management's bargaining team, led by Martin Skofer—partner in the Springfield law firm of Skofer, Abott and Hayes, Losloski said the union refuses to hire competent negotiators.

"It's such a mismatch, they might as well have no negotiations," said Kosloski.

But Tuttle said the portion of dues that is sent to parent and support organizations is less than what is called for in union bylaws.

"A lot of the returns are intangible," said Tuttle. He noted that attorneys from the parent organizations are accessible to union negotiators, and said the services of statewide union lobbyists are paid with union dues. He indicated the effectiveness of the union local on campus would be hampered by discontinuing these support services.

Union members voice discontent in UMass decertification efforts

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles dealing with union activities on the UMass campus.

Casual observers of union activities typically blame management for union troubles. To be sure, unions and management often find themselves in adversarial roles, especially during contract negotiations and grievances. Generally, one assumes that if a decertification election is initiated, then management will be found to be "at the bottom of it."

But this is not always the case, and union officials often look behind their backs to find a not-too-docile rank and file organizing a decertification drive. Union officials on this campus have done this so often that their necks are sore.

Last spring, officials of the University Staff Association (USA), the union representative of the 1250 technicians and clerical workers, were brought to task for what was seen by many members as poor contract language and terms.

The USA survived as sole bargaining agent, but only after emerging from a knock down, drag out decertification election with a narrow victory.

At the same time last spring, a decertification drive developed from the ranks of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), the union that represents the service workers on campus. The physical plant workers claimed that they should be a separate unit because they had been placed in a bargaining unit that was held together by a common community of interest. This attempt failed, by a 2-1 margin. But a new decertification drive is currently underway (see related story), and union malcontents are predicting strong support from other bargaining unit members.

News Analysis

Talk of decertification sends union officials into a cold sweat, and justifiably so. It interrupts union services while officials defend their past records and future goals. And as AFSCME local president Jonathan Tuttle readily admits, it drains union coffers—coffers which are filled by union dues.

Two contract negotiations ago, the University police decertified an AFL-CIO local, and opted for representation by the International Brotherhood of Police Officers. Here, it was determined by union members that the AFL-CIO was less equipped to represent police concerns than a policeman oriented union.

Perhaps the most long standing attempt to decertify a campus union is currently ongoing between the Massachusetts Society of Professors and the ad hoc Committee of 400. The Committee was organized for the sole purpose of decertifying the union that represents the faculty and librarians.

Organizationally amorphous during those times of the contracts duration when decertification elections are illegal, it surfaces with an occasional newsletter when the chance to decertify exists.

The organization is composed of professors from the bargaining unit, which includes professors from both the Amherst and Boston campuses. It counts 450 members, thirty of whom have just recently joined after a newsletter and decertification form circulated on the Boston campus.

A committee newsletter is tentatively scheduled for distribution within the month. The Committee has assisted in initiating litigation aimed at reducting the MSP's $200 union fee, agency fee and conscientious objector fee.

But it must be remembered that within this framework of ebb and flow union support, the unions on campus are the unions that a majority of union members want. And even with all the in-fighting of union officials and bargaining unit members, the results of decertification elections indicate that unions are what the campus emloyees want.

World and national news

Transition team raises eyebrows

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Carter administration officials quietly questioned President-elect Reagan's naming of defense industry representatives to the Pentagon transition team, suggesting it might raise the appearance of a conflict of interest, administration sources said.

But the sources, who asked not to be identified, said no formal protest was lodged because it was not the outgoing administration's responsibility to police the practices of the newcomers.

Reagan's 13-member transition team at the Defense Department includes four men who work for defense contractors, including the deputy team leader, Ben Plymale. He is an employee of the Boeing Co., the nation's seventh largest defense contractor.

The sources said that although they did raise the question of possible conflicts of interest, they did not claim the use of employees of defense contractors was either illegal or unethical.

"Our only role is to point out to them in a friendly manner about the appearance of things," said one source. "It creates the possibility of appearances that might be embarrassing. It's a judgment matter for them."

James Brady, spokesman for the Reagan team, said the team had been careful to avoid potential conflicts of interest even though federal conflict-of-interest laws do not apply to transition officials.

"To maintain integrity and appearances ... we decided to proceed as if the conflict-of-interest laws did apply," said Brady.

Ronald P. Reagan, son of the president elect is pictured here with his new wife, the former Doria Palmieri. The couple was married yesterday in a civil ceremony held in New York. Reagan, 22, dances with the Joffrey II Dancers, a training troupe for the Joffrey Ballet. His wife, is 29 and works as a researcher.

Explorer troop taught to kill

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press

HOUSTON—The Houston area council of the Boy Scouts of America said yesterday it was reviewing the charter application of an Explorers troop whose leader took members to a paramilitary camp where they allegedly learned how to kill.

The camp is used by rightwing groups such as the John Birch Society and Texas Emergency Reserve, a paramilitary arm of the Ku Klux Klan.

A mother of one Scout told The Associated Press she was told "the Scouts were going on a camping trip, but when he (her son) came back he said he had been taught how to shoot with carbines."

"If I had known this, he wouldn't have gone," said the woman, who asked that her name not be used. "I don't think we will ever let him go back."

The Sam Houston Council of the Boy Scouts of America said it was reviewing the application filed Oct. 20 by the troop and its leader, John Bryant. Exploring is a separate program within the Boy Scouts for boys and girls from high school age through 20.

The Scouts and Civil Air Patrol cadets were taken to the camp by Bryant, who was convicted in Memphis, Tenn., last year of illegal sale of automatic weapons. Under the terms of his probation, Bryant is prohibited from handling guns.

The council pointed out this particular Explorers troop was to specialize in educating the boys, ages 15 to 20, in military careers.

The investigation is being conducted by a committee of executive board members from the council.

Digest

Associated Press

Harvard power plant approved

BOSTON—Harvard University yesterday won state approval to resume construction of a controversial power plant designed to provide electricity for its medical school, several hospitals and a housing project.

The power plant, located in a congested section of the city known as Mission Hill, was fought by nearby residents for several years. The residents maintained that nitrogen oxide emissions from the diesel powered plant would cause dangerous levels of pollution.

In 1978, a Superior Court judge halted construction of the quarter of a billion dollar plant. But approval of the plan by the state Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, which earlier rejected the plan, apparently negates the judge's injunction.

One portion of the plant was approved previously by the state and is completed. That section, which produces steam and chilled water, currently provides heat, hot water and air conditioning for Harvard Medical school, the hospitals and the housing project.

The second and controversial phase of the plant involves the installation of diesel engines to create electricity. In an effort to save energy, Harvard plans a system of cogeneration: hot air from the diesel exhaust will be used to make steam, according to David Rosen, Harvard spokesman.

Muskie sees hostage delays

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said yesterday he does not expect a quick breakthrough in efforts to free the 52 Americans held hostage in Iran and that negotiations may be lengthy.

"Our posture now is that we are holding and circling," he told reporters as he waited for a response from Tehran to U.S. proposals for a settlement of the 55-week crisis.

Operating through Algerian intermediaries, the Carter administration two weeks ago gave Iran its proposals for breaking the deadlock over the American hostages. The U.S. proposals were a response to terms set Nov. 2 by Iran.

In Algeria, sources said Iran has requested a further explanation of the U.S. reply. Iranian officials said Sunday the U.S. reply was unsatisfactory and reports from Tehran indicate the Iranians wanted a "clear and explicit" yes or no answer to their demands.

Drug smugglers get light sentence

BOSTON—Two men convicted of smuggling 27 tons of marijuana from South America to Gloucester, Mass., in 1976 were given suspended prison terms yesterday.

Lee Hume of Pittsburgh and Michael S. Okies of El Paso, Texas, received one year suspended sentences and two years of restrictive parole.

Eight other men found guilty of participating in the smuggling venture in July 1975 were sentenced last week. Two men received prison terms of four and six months, while the others received suspended sentences and were placed on probation by U.S. District Court Judge Walter J. Skinner.

Jack Stricklin of El Paso, Texas, was sentenced to four months in prison; Joseph Willmeng of Watervliet, Mich., was ordered to prison for six months.

Assigned to probation for periods of up to four years were: William Russell, Kermit Schweidel, John Millilorn and Terry Johnson, all of El Paso, Texas; George Michael Malone of Ruidoso Downs, N.M. and Douglas Baxter of Pagosa Springs, Colo.

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
ALL $624.00 INCLUSIVE
Bermuda!
Jan. 12, 1981 to Jan. 22, 1981
*Round trip air transportation Delta Airlines -Bradley/Bermuda/Bradley
*10 nights hotel accommodations Mermaid Beach Club (directly on the ocean)
*Breakfast and dinner daily
*Round trip transfers - Airport/Hotel/Airport
*Taxes/gratuities/baggage Handling
CAMPUS CENTER UNIV OF MASS
AMHERST, MA 01003 413-545-0500

Today's paper was produced by:

Andrea Atkins — Assistant Managing Editor
Suzette Courtmanche — Layout Technician
Sarah Schultz — Copy Editor
Scott Burke — Head Darkroom Technician
Jay Brightman — Ad Layout
Mary Kinneavy, Bob Carr, Andra Armstrong, Janet Milstein, Edie Eppich, Pam Dissinger — Composing Room

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 323 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

BARSELOTTIS
LAST HAPPY HOUR
BEFORE THANKSGIVING
TUESDAY
FREE WHOLE WHEAT PIZZA
3-6
Downtown Amherst

Applications Being Accepted
by UMass Music Theater Guild
For the Production Staff of their Spring 1981 Musical Production of Jesus Christ Superstar

The nonsalaried staff positions which are open to anyone in the Five College area include:

Producer
Director
Musical Director
Choreographer
Set Designer
Costume Designer
Lighting Director
Technical Director
Stage Manager
Props Manager
Master Electrician
Master Carpenter

Anyone interested in applying for a staff position should prepare a resume of his theatre experience esepecially dealing with the desired position. Applicants will be contacted for an interview. For more info call: Scott Cunningham 546-9219

Movie shows women in war

By CARLA LESH
Collegian Staff

Thirty percent of the fighters who overthrew the Somoza government in Nicaragua last year were women according to Victoria Schultz's movie "Women in Arms" shown last night in Mahar Auditorium.

Nicaraguan women in the Sandanista movement fought in the front lines, trained soldiers, aided the guerilla efforts by making molotov cocktails and using them in diversionary tactics, according to Schultz's movie.

The movie, sponsored by the Western Mass. Latin American Solidarity Committee, the University of Massachusetts Women's Task Force, and other campus programs, consists primarily of interviews with Sandinista's women and men who took part in the revolution last year and who are now involved in setting up a new government to replace the Somoza regime. Of the seven people that make up the Nicaraguan High Command, four are women, the movie said.

Community services designed to ease women's work, free education and the total equality of women are the goals of the Nicaraguan women's movement.

According to the movie, Nicaraguan women face an added hazard to the equality because of the "machismo" attitude held by many Nicaraguan men.

One woman interviewed said, "Most Nicaraguan men are irresponsible, they only like making babies, they don't like taking care of them after they are born. After the babies are born the fathers say they don't belong to them and leave the mothers to support the families. We have to support them any way we can."

During the revolution last year men and women were trained together and fought together. In peace time they are trained seaprately.

"We are trained in separate camps to prove that we didn't join the army just to be with our boyfriends. The women's training program is the same as the men's but at first the pace is a little slower since women are not always as strong as men," said a military leader in the movie.

Men have reacted well to fighting beside women, according to the movie. Most men interviewed said women were just as good as men when fighting in the front lines.

One soldier said "They are even prettier when they are fighting."

The majority of the audience of about 150, reacted to this statement with boos and hisses.

A two dollar donation was requested by the sponsors. The proceeds will go to help the El Salvadorian women's movement.

Criteria for funding of RSO groups discussed by committee

By FRANCINE MINTZ
Collegian Staff

The 12 member budget Committee of the Student Senate discussed criteria for funding of RSO (Recognized Student Organizations) groups at their first meeting last night.

Members of the committee offered possible questions for use in evaluation of a group's rationale for funding. In areas of structure, conduct, and performance, questions included:

What percentage of students are involved in the group and how many are reached by it? In the case of minority groups, how many students are reached within that community? Has the group been financially responsible in the past? Has the group had a positive effect on the student body?

Other related questions proposed by members at the meeting ask, Does the group serve a demonstrated need? Is it meant to serve students, and are they primarily undergraduate students? Does the group have an outside source of revenue, and have they ever engaged in any fundraising efforts?

One Committee member said the budget for RSO groups includes allocations for conferences, supplies and programming.

Some of the factors which will affect budgeting decisions for the groups include: Do conferences serve a demonstrated need? Are supplies used to match the purpose that they were funded for? Does the budget prepare groups for future expectations, such as maintenance and replacement? How have past budget cuts over the past two years affected the group? What supplies are on hand?

The main complaints from groups will concern cuts in their budgets, Larry Kocut, Chair of the Committee said.

The Committee has a little more money to fund groups than last year, Kocut said. But many groups have increased the amount of their requested funding, one members said.

The Committee will meet next Monday to decide on rationales and to hand out budgets at the conclusion of the meeting. If a group's budget is rejected, the group has the option to get a hearing before the budget committee. Hearing dates were decided upon at this meeting.

Larry Kocot, Chair of the Student Senate Budget Committee. (Staff photo by Terri Bellafiore)

Spectrum Series provides forum for local writers to perform their works

By JULIE GEANAKAKIS
Collegian Staff

Poets gathered on Nov. 10 in Memorial Hall for the first "Spectrum Readings Series," a program sponsored by Spectrum, the art/literary magazine at the University of Massachusetts.

The program, designed to give public exposure to writers within the student community and past Spectrum contributors, was the commencement of a series that will occur on a monthly basis.

The readings series was initiated by Spectrum editors with the intention of providing students the opportunity to perform their art before an audience and to gain experience in a non-professional manner.

Christopher Castiglia, poetry editor for the magazine said, "The audience can exchange ideas with the writers."

The audience was also welcomed to a reception given by the Spectrum staff following the reading in their headquarters in the Campus Center.

> The program's purpose is to "dispel myths about Spectrum being a self-serving organization that publishes friends and a handful of Art and English majors..."
> —Melodie Wertelet, managing editor

Managing Editor Melodie Wertelet, said the prgoram's purpose is to "dispel myths about Spectrum being a self-serving organization that publishes friends and a handful of Art and English majors; we want to cover the voice in the university community."

The reading was attended by about 50 people and featured nine artists.

Bob Cargill, a senior, said "It was an enjoyable, non-hectic atmosphere." He commented on one particular artists, "Charles Carroll is a great reader, he acts out his poetry with flamboyance."

The artists who performed were: Karen Angeline, Michael Coken, Kathi Gleason, Christopher Castiglia, Elba Luis, Pauline Uchmanowicz, Alison Luterman, Alexandra Hanson and Charles Francis Carroll.

Another reading is tentatively scheduled for Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Handicapped Riding Program

Through the Handicapped Riding Program held every Mon., Tues., and Fri. at Tillson Farm, many physically and mentally impaired students are learning to ride horseback for the first time. (Photos by Suzette Courtmanche)

Pierpont residents receive probation for infraction of quiet hour rules

By CHUCK KILFOYE
Collegian Staff

A settlement was reached Friday between Pierpont Head of Residence Gary Throop and three dormitory residents concerning disciplinary action against them for violation of area quiet hours.

Roy Walters and Jack Curtin were issued warnings for violations of quiet hours on Nov. 17 along with Christopher Bellini who is charged with unauthorized removal of dormitory furniture.

"We reached a settlement at a private meeting on Friday," said Throop. The three students were represented by para-legals from the University of Massachusetts Legal Services Office. "The students will be allowed to remain in Pierpont Dormitory for the remainder of the semester. They have also been placed on area probation," said Throop.

"They decided to go after us on the quiet hour violations, rather than removal of dormitory furniture."
—Bellini

The meeting was the result of an incident which occurred on Nov. 6 when a group of about ten students congregated in a hallway after the start of quiet hours. Pierpont resident Eric Saari said the group was only talking and there was a moderate amount of noise, but it was not excessive. Shortly afterwards, Resident Assistant Barbi Dick approached the students and told them warnings had been issued against them. A pre-trial hearing was then held on Nov 20 with Assistant Area Director Robert White.

"They decided to go after us on the quiet hours violations, rather than for removal of dormitory furniture," said Bellini. "We were placed on probation for the year. As long as we behave we will be allowed to remain in Pierpont on the same floor," Bellini said. All three students are members of the fourth floor east. "It was generally agreed upon by everyone that we put our past differences behind us," said Bellini.

Throop said the three students had previously received similar warnings over the course of the semester. "It was an accumulation of incidents, that was the only reason I took such strong action against them," said Throop.

"There have been incidents here that I have observed and also ones that have been reported to me by my staff," Throop said. "I have also asked that the three students begin to actively support the Resident Assistant on their floor," he said.

A Collegian photographer at Saturday's football game is about to be "shot" with a snowball. he takes it in stride. (Staff photo by Scott Burke)

OHAG to survey for spring ideas

By PAUL BASKEN
Collegian Correspondent

The Orchard Hill Area Government (OHAG) began planning for next semester by outlining a survey for area residents to determine possible groups for the Orchard Hill/Central area Spring Concert and future uses of OHAG funds.

OHAG Vice President Alix Turner said she would meet with the Central Area Government this week to set a date for the concert. Once this occurs, Turner said, planning can begin for Orchard Hill week which traditionally ends on the day of the concert.

The survey would also gauge student awareness of the various centers funded by OHAG. OHAG members said they were concerned that many residents were not aware of the existence of these centers.

Treasurer Robert Strongin reported that many centers have not claimed their budgeted funds for this semester and have until March 1 to do so. If the funds are not claimed, they are re-budgeted within OHAG, said secretary Hazel Wright.

In other business, OHAG voted to remove phones from seven offices in centers where they are not being used. The phones served no purpose, so we decided to remove them, Wright said.

Plans were made for the designing and selling of Orchard Hill t-shirts. A design will be made for spring concert security, and possibly another for students to purchase.

Area Police Log

Accidents, parties keep policemen busy

A resident of Kennedy Dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area was one of two men arrested at a party at Brittany Manor apartment complex and charged with disturbing the peace early Sunday morning. Police say the men, Joseph Nardelli, Jr., 22, and Charles B. White, 20, Amherst were arrested when they refused to leave the apartment and shouted obscenities at the police officers who asked them to leave.

A separate incident involved a purse containing $120 which was reported stolen from a counselor's office Thursday morning at the Marks Meadow School. Police say there are no suspects in the case.

A pedestrian-automobile accident left Rose Lander, 50, or Northampton with head and leg injuries. Police say David Simons, 23, of Lynnfield, was operating a vehicle travelling west on Main Street when he struck Lander. Simons was charged with impeded operation; police say his windshield was frosted over. A fire department ambulance responded to the call and treated Lander.

A two car accident was reported early Sunday morning on Pleasant St. Diane Shirley was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign after she allegedly struck a vehicle operated by Philip Croasdale, 23 of Amherst. Shirley, 19, of Springfield apparently turned on to South Pleasant St. from Snell St. Shirley received head injuries and was momentarily unconscious.

A party at Townhouse Apartments was broken up early Saturday morning when police arrested Kevin Fitzsimmons, 23, on charges of disturbing the peace. Police say Fitzsimmons failed to heed the warning police gave him to clear his apartment and proved uncooperative when police were called to the scene a second time.

CARLA R. LESH

Snowball throwers arrested by police

A band director, a cheerleader and an unidentified woman reported they were hit by snowballs at the University of Massachusetts football game last Saturday. The apprehended students will be dealt with by Dean of Students William Field, police said.

A worker at Hilton House and a Pierpont Dormitory resident reported receiving harrassing telephone calls this weekend police said.

Six hundred pounds of meat had to be thrown out Sunday after a fire in Franklin Dining Commons broke out. The meat, valued at $1,200, was contaminated by fire extinguishers, police said.

Four cars were vandalized this weekend, and a total of about $1800 worth of stereo equipment was stolen from three cars parked in lot 22 on Saturday.

Two men were placed in protective custody this weekend. One was found unconscious in parking lot 62 and the other was picked up in the lobby of John Quincy Adams Dormitory.

A three-car accident occurred on Friday, causing about $4,400 worth of damage, in an alcohol related incident on Friday, police said.

An investigation is under way at the Morrill Science Center after someone "maliciously" left gas burners on, police said.

SAMUEL CHALFEN

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$

CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
Coins & Stamps

Do yourself a favor
See me before you sell
Professional Buyer since 1976

DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between
Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
6 days a week
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM

MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

Interested in
Arts Administration?

The Fine Arts Center is now accepting applications for spring semester internships. Five full-time (15 credit) positions are available.

Interns will concentrate in one of the following areas:

1. CONCERT MANAGEMENT
(including programming and contracts)
2. PUBLICITY & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT
(including advertising and market research)
3. COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND FUNDING
4. BOX OFFICE & FRONT-OF-HOUSE
(including box office operations and ushering)
5. PRODUCTION SERVICES
(including backstage operations)

For Details, call the Internship Office at 545-0727

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY
ADULTS $2.75 STUDENTS $ OR CHILDREN WITH AMC CARD $2.25 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 UNTIL 6:30 SKATING

HAMPSHIRE 4
DONALD SUTHERLAND — Ordinary People — R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
You might just die... laughing! MOTEL HELL — R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
THE STUNT MAN — PETER O'TOOLE — R (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream — R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE 50 — RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.
MOVIE AND DINNER ONLY $5.50 — HAVE A CHOICE OF DIFFERENT MEALS AT THE PEWTER POT REST. IN THE HAMPSHIRE MALL AND SEE ONE OF THE 8 MOVIES IN THIS AD (SUN.-THUR. ONLY)
Free Shoppers Show Thurs 12/4 1:00 PM FATSO starring Dom DeLuise — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MASS.
GOLDIE HAWN in PRIVATE BENJAMIN — R (6:00 @ $1.75) 8:30
GENA ROWLANDS Gloria — PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15
THE BOOGEY MAN — R (6:15 @ $1.75) 8:30
ANTHONY HOPKINS THE ELEPHANT MAN — PG (5:45 @ $1.75) 8:15

New Ultravox vocals: more emotive sound

By DANA GENTES
Collegian Correspondent

Ultravox's fourth album, Vienna, marks the debut of lead vocalist Midge Ure. Formerly with Glen Matlock's Rich Kids and briefly, Thin Lizzy, Ure replaces the departed John Foxx. For the first three Ultravox records, Foxx had created unique and visionary worlds of apocalyptic alienation—the frozen acidity of his voice blending nicely with the band's electro-synthesized sound.

Without Foxx, many Ultravox fans feared the band would drift away into anonymity. Fear not! The addition of Ure has provided Ultravox with a more emotional and satisfying sound.

The line-up on the new album consists of Chris Cross, bass, synthesizers, vocals; Ure, lead vocals, guitars, synthesizers; Warren Cann, drums, electronic percussion, vocals; and Billy Currie, synthesizers, piano, violin, and viola. The music they create on Vienna is much more heartfelt than the music on previous Ultravox recordings. The remote and distant feel of Systems of Romance, (Ultravox album no. 3), is avoided due to the strong and often passionate vocals of Ure.

Unlike the cool and metallic Foxx, Ure succeeds in giving warmth to many songs with his expressive singing. The title track shows this well. Vienna is a gushing synthesized ballad in which Ure's singing peaks to a climactic level as he cries, "This means nothing to me! Oh, Vienna!" This moment is a good example of how a band with a penchant for synthesizers can avoid the emotional sterility these instruments often can create. Ure brings the band closer to our hearts—we feel with him rather than being out of touch.

Other songs on the album are equally as exciting. "All Stood Still" is an infectious rocker, with a popping, percolating beat. The new band's first single, "Sleepwalk," combines a dreamy, sliding synthesizer with a throbbing, jabbing bass. Most of the cuts on Vienna convey a feeling of curiosity about the outside world. This is a welcome change of pace from previous Ultravox compositions. Most of the credit goes to Ure. He has lightened up the attitude of the band without sacrificing any of the musical integrity. While John Foxx continues to sulk in his lonely, alienated world, Ultravox has cheered up. Midge Ure is like a shot of whiskey—giving the band an invigorating jolt. Ultravox is now, at last, ready to enjoy the world rather than stare at it.

Records

The Tremblers
Twice Nightly (Johnston)

By JIM MORAN
Collegian Staff

Ex-hermit re-emerges in a blast from the past

The first rock album I ever owned was a copy of Introducing Herman's Hermits (MGM), featuring the hit "Mrs. Brown You've Got a Lovely Daughter." That was back in 1964, when I was five years old, and just before I received Meet the Beatles (Capitol) for my sixth birthday.

Peter "Herman" Noone, lead singer of The Tremblers.

I remember that LP well, with its fast, snappy renditions of Carole King and Gerry Goffin's "I'm Into Something Good" and "Walking With My Angel," and the much-covered "Kansas City" and "Sea Cruise." They were catchy, hummable tunes, reminiscent of most of the material done by this band over their eight-yer hiatus. And God knows they weren't alone in the long line of bubblegum acts that featured such luminaries as: The Cowsills, The Dave Clark Five, Garry Lewis & the Playboys, The Monkees and Paul Revere & the Raiders, to name a few.

Of course we all got over that phase in our primitive musical appreciation, after being exposed to the likes of The Animals, the later Beatles, David Bowie, The Doors, Bob Dylan, The Rolling Stones and The Who. And, of course, we're much more sophisticated in our tastes nowadays, with the influence of such high-energy, new wave and punk sounds given us by The Clash, The Sex Pistols, Patti Smith and Talking Heads.

So what am I doing, 16 years later, reviewing an album by the lead singer of Herman's Hermits and his new band?

The answer —ya sorta can't ignore it. It's a positive regression.

Peter Noone, lead singer of The Tremblers, and The "Herman" of Herman's Hermits, began his career as a child actor in British television, came to front for a band known as The Heartbeats, at age 14, back in 1962. In 1964, as the British Invasion hit America, the band changed its nomenclature to accomodate the pseudonym of its lead singer. "Herman" was actually taken from the cartoon character "Sherman" in the Sherman and Peabody segments of "The Bullwinkle Show," but somehow it got twisted around. Anyway, the group had their first big stateside hit with King and Goffin's "I'm Into Something "Good," which started a string of successive, melodic pop tunes getting airplay; "Mrs. Brown," "I'm Henry the VIII, I Am," "Leaning on a Lamp Post," "Listen People" and "There's a Kind of Hush," among others.

The Tremblers have put together a nice set of ten, fast-paced, melodic numbers that would be a welcome fixture on anyone's turntable to get the guests at a party up and dancing. Though the lyrics aren't that much more advanced than anything the Hermits did, they are honest and sinc well with the tempo. And besides, with the exception of a cover of Elvis Costello's "Green Shirt," Noone wrote all of them.

"You Can't Do That," the album's opener, seems a response to all those in the music biz who were discouraging Noone from back into it. In his eight years away from things (save a British hit single of Bowie's "Oh You Pretty Things), Noone got into investments, real estate and the ownership of New York's male clothing boutique, The Zoo. Still, as he said in an interview recently, "I can't deny my past and I wouldn't want to. But I didn't get back into music to cash in on the past. I simply rediscovered the fact that I wanted to be a rock and roller." Thus the lyrics: "If you feel like I feel come along./'Cos feeling like this can't be wrong./Come on and take a chance with me/Come on it's always been easy let's go and do it." Noone's voice hasn't changed a bit, but the music's better suited.

The album's third track, "She Was Something Else," recalls Noone's first trip to London as he was emerging into puberty. Its heavy-breathed lead vocals and the harmonizing on the chorus add to its adolescent texture all the more. As the storyline goes, Noone and his traveling companion are following this "knockout" blond. They expose their naivete thusly: "She was giving everybody the eye/So we thought that we'd both give it a try/We walked over just like Clint Eastwood/We told her that we would if she could." A perfect mockery of the "new" John Wayne, the epitome of "machismo."

"I'll Be Taking Her Out Tonight" and "Steady Eddy" are two more songs about going out with girls and parking, but done so nicely that you don't mind the simplicity of the subject matter. As a word of precaution though: This album is album is definitely not for those who like to hang out at the Everywoman's Center.

Perhaps the album's best cut is the cover of Costello's "Green Shirt." With its pounding, build-up rhythms, courtesy of bassist Mark Browne (since dropped from the group and replaced by Randy Rice) and drummer Robert Williams, this surpasses Elvis's version as a far better rocker.

"Dad Said" is Noone's resolvement of the Oedipal complex, inspired by Eddie Cochran's "Summertime Blues."

Helping the band on this first effort is a slew of professionals, including Mike Campbell and Stan Lynch, from Tom Petty & the Heartbreakers; Dave Clark (of Dave Clark Five fame); Nigel Olsson, formerly Elton John's drummer; and, believe it or not, Daryl Dragon (the Captain of Captian and Tenille). These guys, plus the other two Tremblers—Geo. Conner and Gregg Inhofer (who did session work on Dylan's Blood on the Tracks) have helped produce a very tight, well-mixed and slick-sounding album that could definitely be the start of "Something Good."

Critic's Cum.—3.5

WHAT'S SO DIFFERENT ABOUT A SOUND & MUSIC SYSTEM?

Six years ago we began stressing the importance of all aspects of turntable performance, including tonearm mass and friction. Today we have the added advantage of precision cartridge alignment using special gauges and test records.
We use "expensive" cartridges even in inexpensive systems. There is no reason to skimp on this tiny but all-important component.

Our speakers speak for themselves. It's no secret that many of the best-sounding speakers come from small to medium-sized companies that place design talent and reputation above gross profit. At Sound & Music you'll find no house brands or has-beens.

Every component at Sound & Music is fully pre-tested and adjusted including complete tape deck calibration. We maintain a first-rate shop, two full-time technicians and we provide a "loaner" if any part of your component system ever comes in for repair.

The big performance difference in our receivers is their ability to pull-in FM stations without interference and to reproduce dynamic musical peaks without distortion. The big practical difference is that they're also built to last.

ONKYO TEAC ADC Bozak

That's what's so different!
This complete system
ONKYO TX-2000 Receiver
ONKYO CP1010A Turntable
ADC XLM MK II Improved Cartridge and BOZAK LS-200A Speakers $539 with TEAC CX-310 Cassette Deck $798

SOUND & MUSIC

90-92 King Street
(Rte. 5)
Northampton

"Good Advice—Honest Price"

VISA

Thursday & Friday 'til 9
Mon.-Sat. 10-5
584-9547

UMass graduate rides rodeo

By STEPHANIE KLEIN
Collegian Correspondent

When the Miss Rodeo America pageant, a national competition for horse-women aged 18-24, goes to Oklahoma City in December, a University of Massachusetts graduate with a degree in Animal Science, Carol Jo Peene will be there too.

Since age 10, Peene has shown her ability as a horse-woman. Seven years on the Morgan horseshow circuit, two years on the UMass Equestrian team and an internship under Dana Harlow, a trainer and rider of Morgan horses, gained her the Miss Rodeo Massachusetts title last August.

"She's a real horse-woman, she has poise, an ability to speak in public, she's attractive and she can ride," said Doris H. Gere, director of the Massachusetts branch of the Miss Rodeo America Pageant.

Peene is currently living in Puffton Village in Amherst and is employed full time at the Amherst Savings Bank. She plans to enter the graduate program in Animal Pathology at UMass in September 1981.

The Miss Rodeo Massachusetts Board of Directors accepts applications and selets candidates who excel in poise, speaking ability and outstanding familiarity with all aspects of horsemanship, said Gere.

"This was my first opportunity to enter such a competition," said Peene. "It came as a complete surprise," she said of her win.

The most difficult aspect of the competition is to guide an unfamiliar horse through a series of challenging obstacles, Gere said.

"They draw on horses they've never ridden before," she said.

These horses are trained in specific areas of rodeo competition, such as pole bending and barrel racing, and are provided by the American Quarter Horse Association, Gere said.

The rodeo is a rewarding experience in all ways, Peene said.

"I'll have the opportunity to meet people from all over the United States," said Peene. "It's very important how I present myself in the interviews. This is where I must display my knowledge of current events, important issues concerning Massachusetts and speaking ability," she said.

Speaking ability is important as the winner spends a year promoting and opening rodeo competitions all over the country, Gere said.

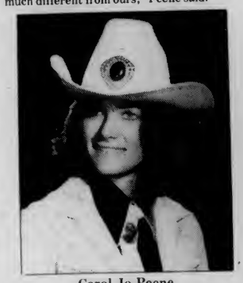
The major problem facing easterners entering the competition is that rodeos in this area are almost non-existent, Gere said.

"Rodeo is a spectator sport; with enough interest it can be brought into Massachusetts," she said. The closest thing to rodeo competition in this state is barrel racing and pole bending.

"Nobody from the eastern seaboard has won the competition to date," said Gere. This is partly due to the major differences in Eastern and Western riding styles.

"To tell you the truth I don't think I have a good chance of winning the competition," Peene said.

"A rodeo queen from Massachusetts doesn't have as much experience or knowledge of the rodeo as a girl from the West. They also have a completely different style, their riding positions are much different from ours," Peene said.



Carol Jo Peene

The paths have been cleared of last week's snow and James Buckley of James House takes a stroll over to Boyden gym to play some basketball. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

The Distinguished Visitors' Program
in conjunction with the Labor Center Students' Caucus, with funding provided by the Fine Arts Council present:

SILKWOOD

A Professional One-Woman Play about the life of Karen Silkwood

Tuesday December 2, 1980 8 P.M. Student Union Ballroom

Free for Students Faculty & UMass Staff

charlie's
good food & drink

LONGEST HAPPY HOUR IN AMHERST
3-8 P.M. Daily (5 hours)!
All Bar Prices Reduced, Most Bar Drinks .95 Miller, Bud, Schlitz bottles .75
Specials after Happy Hour
SUN. Rolling Rock Night .75 bottles
MON. Canadian Night .99 bottles of Molson Golden Ale, Labatts Ale, Moosehead Beer, O'Keefe Ale .75 Molson Red Export Drafts
TUES. Erlanger Night .75 bottles
WED. Schnapps Night .75 shots of cinnamon, spearmint, peppermint Schnapps
THURS. Drink of the Night Special Different drinks, prices each week
We are a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet
Come see our newly remodeled Lounge & Game Room
We have Asteroids, Galaxian, Space invaders, pool table, dart board
Our kitchen is always open, We also serve homemade pizza nightly
1 Pray St. Amherst, Ma 549-5403

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00
with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50, long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures
Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive, Amherst, MA, 549-5610
62 Main Street, Easthampton, MA, 527-2411

Editorial/Opinion

Zionism and anti-Semitism

Shirley Kempinski

This column is intended to question, from a personal perspective, the goals of the Zionist movement in relation to anti-Semitism and to insist that the issue of human rights be integrated into our daily lives.

First, I refer to the Hillel-sponsored brunch of Nov. 16, in which these topics were discussed by the pro-Zionist panel: "Can there be a Just Peace for Israelis and Palestinians?" and "Is Anti-Zionism a code word for Anti-Jewish Attitude?" Those who attended the meeting should ask themselves a few questions:

Why don't Zionist leaders address the issue of anti-Semitism? Why don't they encourage Jewish people to take an active stand against anti-Semitic forces through articles, education, demonstrations? The great majority of Jews live outside Israel; are we any less worthy or capable of defending ourselves against this form of racism than Israeli Jews?

It is important to mention that there were Jews, Palestinians, and others in the audience who raised questions like these, challenged the speakers, and dispelled myths about why people oppose the Zionist movement. This type of discussion, as well as discussion of other social and political issues, should be encouraged, rather than discouraged by schools and universities.

Zionism, as I use the term, is not Judaism, is not nationalism, is not the desire to return to a homeland. It is a practice, materially based, that justifies systematic exploitation as an undesireable, inescapable by-product of "self-determination" of the Jewish people. In other words, the practice of the minority of Jews who believe they've been oppressed for so long that they can't worry about stepping on somebody else's back.

Thus Zionist ideology has transformed nationalism into chauvinism—a subtle, dangerous form of mind-control. Only in this way can Zionist (such as Professor David Landes, Harvard University) refer harmlessly to Israeli's relationship to the despotic Shah of Iran as "getting caught with egg on our face."

I am not a Zionist although I am Jewish. To be Jewish and a person on this planet means to uphold the human rights of everyone and to fight destruction of the earth.

If I were a Zionist, I would be forced to defend and justify the injustices perpetrated by the Israeli state apparatus in the name of "unity" and "national security." I would have to claim that sending bulldozers to destroy Bedouin camps or that demolishing Palestinian refugee camps are unfortunate but necessary acts of "defense."

I would be forced to defend the earlier Haganah, Irgun and Stern terrorist-protection organizations but then denounce any Palestinian self-defense measures.

I would have to explain why it is that anyone born of Jewish parents anywhere can easily become an Israeli citizen while those Palestinians who were born there and were forced to leave can not return.

I would have to deem Arabs cultural and economic third class citizens because, unfortunately, "It's like that in every country."

To the millions of tortured and ex-tortured in South Africa, Guatemala, Nicaragua, and Iran, I would have to say, "Sorry, but Israel sells and has sold your dictators weapons out of 'dire economic need,' when in fact this money is used primarily to sustain the military, the Mossad (Israel's CIA), and the Gush Emunim (West Bank faithful settlers), rather than to provide desperately needed human services.

To the Oriental (Arab) Jews living in the pits of Tel Aviv, I would have to insist on "national security" in response to their demands, one of which is, "Money for slums,not for settlements!"

I would have to sacrifice many Jewish ideals and lives in order to maintain a competitive, commercialized, and inequitable economic profit system.

Finally, I would have to justify the U.S. institution—the government and the military—which, in the name of "democracy," supplies weapons to and trains professional tortures by brutal dictatorships all over the world.

I will not defend these contradictions and injustices. These acts are immoral. They must be exposed and corrected.

Unfortunately, the Zionist leadership does not call on Jews to actively oppose oppression, although it uses movements like Peace Now (a mass-based Israeli human rights group) as a semblance of Jewish self-criticism and freedom of expession. It can not support them, though, because it is responsible for the very conditions that they protest. Neither does it associate with civil or human rights groups in other countries. Can the Zionist movement offer a solution to anti-Semitism without addressing it as part of the world-wide human rights movement? The Zionists will continue to alienate their following by ignoring this issue. It thus can not provide leadership for millions of Jews and history will prove this.

Am I "singling out" Israeli? No, because I am talking about a multi-national leadership—money, weapons, power—not the Israeli people. This statement is nothing more than a reflection of years of thought accumulated, including years of one-sided propaganda. I know something of Israel because I lived there for a year and a half. It is my impression that most Israeli youth, workers, kibbutzniks, Palestinians, and Israeli Arabs oppose oppression and war. But the fact is that these people do not make foreign and internal policy. The Israelis themselves don't have self-determination. Their futures are being decided for them, just as are ours. For this reason, it is pointless to dwell on the symptoms of one nation.

What I criticize is a system serving the interests of a minority, at the expense of the majority who just want to live a decent life.

What about present-day anti-Semitism? According to the "New York Times," (Nov. 5, 1980) anti-Semitic vandalism in New York and New Jersey suburbs is causing "growing concern" among Jewish residents. "Some Jewish leaders are saying that offenders are treated lightly by the courts."

A synagogue in Fort Lee, N.J., has been the target of repeated vandalism. The rabbi of this synagogue stated, "I don't think this is something to be played down. I know of synagogues in this area that are attacked and reports are never filed...it is important to let the community know that this behavior is not acceptable."

In a country where KLAN KILLERS ARE SET FREE TO KILL AGAIN, where members of the Klan can run for public office (Tom Metzger, Grand Dragon, Democratic Congressional candidate, 1980, in California's 43rd district), it is urgent that every individual and organization actively oppose not only anti-Semitic but all racist attacks.

An appeal by members of the NAACP, the American Civil Liberties Union, the National Council of Negro Women, the Council of Churches of the City of New York, Temple Emanu-El, the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue of New York, and others states: "We condemn the continuing attacks on and murder of black persons in the United States, as in Buffalo and elsewhere, and the increasing attacks on and murder of Jews in Paris and elsewhere.

"We abhor the resurgent tide of anti-Semitism in many places, and of white racism.

"We call on and encourage persons of good will to speak out and act responsibly, to halt a growing menace to the liberty and safety of all, and we call on governments and appropriate government agencies to take vigorous and prompt action to protect all citizens from violence, murder, and terror.

"We invite others to join us in urging people and governments to take positive action to prevent another worldwide disaster." (New York Times, Nov. 6, 1980).

Let's throw all possible energies into caring about the world we live in.

Shirley Kempinski is a Collegian guest columnist

Letters

Self-sufficiency is the answer

To the Editor:

Your article describing research in the UMass Food Science Department as a possible solution to World Hunger caused some astonishment among those of us who have been working on the issue of world hunger. To take nothing away from the quality of research being done, nor to say that coloring "a white goop" and making it both nutritious and palatable might not be a contribution to the feeding of some of the world's people, the fact remains that the product of bacteria cultivation would still be marketed by the West through the same governments which are locked into the present unjust marketing and land-use practices.

At the root of the world hunger problem is the relentless greed of multi-national corporations and repressive governments which systematically deprive their own beef, cattle, cotton, coffee and cocoa, and even carnations for European and American markets, the needless plague of hunger will continue to stalk the world.

OXFAM is working to enable people to band together to grow food, to learn how to collaborate on storing, irrigating, transporting and marketing foods, to be self-sufficient and independent.

We are a people privileged to eat well. For many of the world's people the basic right to eat at all is still denied. Let us as a university community unite our efforts generously to enable more of the world's people to feed themselves.

F. Peter Sabey
Campus Chaplain
Judy O'Neill
UMass HTF Coordinator

A public apology for misused symbol

To the Editor:

This letter is a public apology to all those who were offended by the banner publicizing the film The Hiding Place in the Student Union. I was told that the use of the swastika in the design of the banner led some to believe the film to be pro-Nazi. In fact, it is not; I used the symbol as a historical allusion and not at all as a political statement. Having said this, I still wish to apologize for employing a symbol whose mere depiction some find to be disturbing.

The film itself is a true account of two women's struggle against Nazism in occupied Holland, and their later experiences in concentration camps. I personally invite all those who were mutually offended by the banner to attend this film being shown Tuesday night.

Jack Gravell
Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

All letters must contain the writer's name, address, and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief, FRAN T. BASCHE, Managing Editor, JEFFREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager, JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager, ERIC B. JANSZEN, Executive Editor, RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors, JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor, JIM MORAN, Arts Editor, KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor, DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors, PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors, BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager, JOE CANNON, Associate Executive Editor, NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor, LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor, MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor, JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor, NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager, VICKI EGERT, Finance Manager, JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager, MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and not faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

More Letters

Tragedy can be avoided

To the Editor:

Last Friday, November 21, a tragic fire occurred in Las Vegas, killing at least 83 persons, and injuring hundreds, in the luxurious MGM Grand Hotel, a 26 story high rise building. This fire, the worst high rise disaster of our era in the United States should be very close to our hearts, as UMass as no fewer than 18 high rise structures of its own.

How could a killer fire of such tremendous proportions occur in a protected, fire resistive building in the 1980's? The answer is simple...carelessness. As is so often the case with people, we need to be reminded of our shortcomings, in order to learn how to cope with them better in the future.

How can we prevent a similar fire at this University? The solution lies in the application of some common sense, and painless adherance to a few basic rules. In all our buildings, we should strive to keep fire doors in corridors and stairwells closed, to prevent the lateral and vertical movement of toxic and poisonous smoke throughout the structure. Open fire doors which allowed deadly smoke to flow to all floors are responsible for most of the deaths in Las Vegas.

We should NOT store anything in corridors and stairwells, because to do so, creates tripping hazards and fuel for a fire, which could block evacuation path in an emergency situation.

We shouldn't smoke in auditoriums, classrooms, elevators, or labs, and should use sensible precautions while smoking in permissible areas.

We should know all escape routes from each area we visit each day. We should learn how to evacuate from smoky areas, and what to do if trapped by a fire or smoke. We should be aware of how fire extinguishers operate, where they are, the location of fire alarm stations, and the emergency phone number for the Fire Department (on campus 5-3111, off campus in Amherst, 911).

Elevators should not be used in a fire situation, as we may become trapped inside if power fails, or suffocated if smoke enters the elevator shaft (as happened at the MGM Grand fire).

Fire alarm warnings should be responded to immediately by evacuation down stairwells, unless we become trapped by smoke, in which case we must seek refuge in a room with "good air", and close all doors to this room, and seal them from the inside. Exterior windows in the room should be opened, or broken out if not operable, so we can breathe fresh air while calling for help.

False fire alarms should not be pulled, no matter how much "fun" they seem to be. Many innocent people are killed each year due to false alarm pranks. Perhaps someday it will be you, or your home is ravaged by fire while fire department forces are tied up at a false alarm.

Fire alarm systems should not be vandalized, pulverized, and pulled off ceilings and walls for spite or souvenirs. This has occurred several dozen times in our dormitories this semester already, depriving those students of early warning fire protection. A similar argument can be made for fire extinguisher vandalism, with well over 300 extinguishers damaged or destroyed this year.

With the holidays approaching, NO FLAMMABLE DECORATIONS should be placed in University buildings, partially because that's the law, but mostly because the increased fire load from combustible decorations may cause an explosive flash fire if subjected to sufficient heat (like the fire at Providence College in December, 1977 that killed ten women).

But most of all we should learn not to panic in a fire situation. Panic will lead to our demise faster than any other single source. THINK first. Hopefully, it's that ability that placed you at this institution.

A fire endangers you! It has the force and power to snuff out your life in several seconds. If your roommate, office worker, lab partner, or classmate creates a fire hazard, let him or her know how you feel. If you see someone pulling a false fire alarm, or destroying a fire extinguisher or fire alarm system, react! Your very life is being threatened, if not immediately, perhaps in the near future if a fire erupts and you have no defenses against it.

The University is in the midst of an on-going, ambitious program to improve the fire safety of our buildings, with the installation of new fire alarm systems, sprinkler and other automatic fire suppression systems, fire resistant building materials, and sophisticated smoke control networks in shaftways and stairwells.

If you allow less responsible adults to disable or falsely activate these life safety systems, some or all of your fire protection has been stripped away. In addition, you have witnessed one of the reasons why your college education expenses are escalating—vandalism.

Mechanical systems alone cannot protect us. We have to work in conjunction with them, and take an active role in fire prevention each day. This is the only way we can assure our University will not suffer the anguish and deep loss of a fatal fire. To the city of Las Vegas, and families of the victims, we offer our condolences. May we be better prepared as a result of your tragedy.

Keith E. Hoyle
Fire Marshal

Snowballers behavior 'inexcusable'

To the Editor:

To the snowballers at Alumni Stadium, your unsportsmanlike conduct, complete disregard for the safety of others, and juvenile behavior so blatently demonstrated Saturday afternoon was inexcusable. Throwing snowballs at cheerleaders, members of ROTC, and members of our fine marching band and fine football team and others was an act of cowardice and complete disregard for the rights of others. You should be ashamed of yourselves, but I doubt, based on your actions, that you have the mentality to comprehend the meaning of the word.

In this period of tight budgets for higher education, you picked an unfortunate time to exhibit your juvenile behavior, for Saturday happened to be Legislators Day on campus, when our decision-makers on budgetary matters were hosted by the University and attended the football game. Not that you care, but the image of students was hardly enhanced by your thoughtless actions.

Richard Beattie
Professor Emeritus and a fan of UMass athletics
Amherst

Here are the latest requests for access to the files. Find out whether we have dossiers on these people and, if we don't, start them.

Dismayed at changes on campus

To the Editor:

I have a growing sense of dismay and anger as I view some of the changes that are taking place on this campus, but I am prompted to write this letter, and to express my feelings, because of what occurred last Wednesday evening.

The LeBow Memorial Music Scholarship Program was held that evening (November 19th) at the Fine Arts Center before an enthusiastic and appreciative audience, but one that was not only inconvenienced but seriously endangered physically by the failure of the grounds crew to free the entrance of ice. The concert-goers, many of them no longer young, were forced to cling to each other in order to make it safely across the area. In the openly voiced opinion of a good many at the concert it was but another example of the callous indifference on the part of that segment of the supporting staff on the University whose primary role is campus maintenance and safety. I speak, of course, of those who direct the work, and set the priorities, of the grounds crew of the Physical Plant.

This is not the only example of such indifference. Our University exists in one of the most beautiful areas of our country, and its setting around the College Pond is an especially happy one. But our surroundings are being treated as if the environment in which we live and learn and teach is of no consequence. Let me be specific about that portion of the campus that I can view from my window. The beautiful rhododendron planting at the north end of the College Pond is being rapidly destroyed as trees are being removed, as branches are being trimmed, and as footpaths encroach upon it. The benches on the south side of the Student Center, once a favorite place for leisurely conversation, are gone; a bonfire by the College Pond, providing excitement and a rallying point for one night, ruins a large grassy area and remains an eyesore for 364 days of the year; and in a splendid example of unconcern and even of arrogance, the grounds crew is converting the footpaths of the campus into their private roadways, often forcing pedestrians out of their way.

Is there no end to this kind of abuse and indifference? A recent newspaper article reported that the University has spent a large sum of money to reinstruct the janitors in the performance of their jobs; perhaps a similar approach to the performance of the grounds crew is in order, although it is more than likely to become an equally apt butt of campus jokes. But this is my University and my Alma Mater, and I care for it; and I care for its physical as well as its intellectual well-being. I find it incomprehensible to believe that this kind of callousness and indifference can long go unnoticed and unattended, but I can see no evidence that gives me any sense of optimism.

Carl P. Swanson
Torrey Professor of Botany

Paid Positions at the

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian Telephone (413) 545-3500

• Assistant Managing Editors •
Copy Editors • Layout Technicians •
Experience helpful,
enthusiasm necessary.
Apply before DEC 9
to Fran Basche at the Collegian
for next semester

The Collegian is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

Interested in Law?

The UNIVERSITY JUDICIARY
is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications can be picked up in the Student Senate Office, Room 420 or the Student Attorney General's Office, Room 434 of the Student Union.

Women and Third World People are encouraged to apply

Distinguished Teaching Awards
Committees Openings

Applications are now being accepted for positions on the Distinguished Teaching Awards Committee open positions are as follows:
4 undergraduate students
to serve on the Faculty Awards Committee
1 undergraduate student
to serve on the Student Awards Committee
Committee work will consist of distribution and evaluation of surveys and ultimately choosing six award recipients. Three awards will be given by each committee.
Applications are available at the SGA Co-Presidents Office in the Student Union Building.
Deadline for submission of applications is
Tuesday, December 2, 1980
All undergraduate students are invited to apply.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Large Advent Speakers excellent condition with boxes 180.00 BO Mark 546-5985

AUTO FOR SALE

67 Mercury 60000 mi one owner Professor best offer 549-4930 ext 296 office 549-1896 home

'74 Impala AT, AC, ex mech cond, no rust, $800 call 546-6037

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16243-Y-78 Cajon, Hesperia, CA 92345

CANCE HOUSE

Who are all those people and why are they saying those terrible things about the 3rd floor?

Hey Liz—Thanks for the flowers! They show me everything!

5-COLLEGE BUS DRIVER JACK

Thanks so much for returning my mealbook! You saved me a great deal of trouble. Thanks agian Kathy

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian Positions: Assistant Managing Editors, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians. Paid. Experience helpful, interest is even more important. Apply to Fran Basche by Dec. 9 at the Collegian

DISC JOCKEYS

Most Professional DJ's On Campus BOSE Quality Sound Andy 546-1164 Denis 546-6249

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect fo band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

The Avant Gardners Rock band great for semi-formals and sleazy gatherings! For more info call Tom 549-6913

FEAR

The Fear of Silence What is it and Don't let it happen to you call 549-4184 Quickly before its to late Stereo Lab North

FOR RENT

Own Bedroom in two bedroom Rolling Green apt starting Jan or Feb 1 147.50 inclusive call 253-5986 after 10PM

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

TRS-80 48K or 16K System must sell mint condition call for details 546-7050

Backpack new cost $150, sell for $100 will bring to Campus 1-584-3121, 1-442-6023

Moving, must sell 1970 Valiant runs well, $1200.00 Yamaha 12-string guitar, $200 or BO furniture 253-3101

Single bed $40 Carol 549-5440 after 5

73 Gremlin 600.00 or best offer call 584-7094 after 7 PM

Mattress/sofa Queensize futon with pillow. Both have slipcovers All 100% cotton. 1 month old $175 253-2427

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

VW rebuilt 1500 CC engine 150$ 2 mounted new radials 25$ each after 5 PM ask for Mark tel. 665-7546

1976 Datsun F-10 wagon front wheel drive, 37 mpg, 77,000Mi excellent mechanical condition, best offer call 538-2536

Hoyer 12-string guitar excellent cond $150 or BO Carol 6-8260

Springsteen Tickets Providence Dec 11 549-5188 after 6 PM

1975 Blonde FENDER TELECASTER 1965 AMPEG GEMINI I Amplifier (with one 15" Jenson speaker); both in exceptional condition; $250 and $175 respectively Extra's! 253-2215

1971 VW Fastback good running condition must sell $750 evenings 586-2811

One pair Garmont self-fit ski boots size 9½ 3 yrs old good cond $175. new $40. now Tim 665-7796 after 5

FOUND

Found small calico kitten outside Worcester DC 11/17/80 call 546-4996

Lost Art Supplies?? Found Nov 18 SUB mailbox at 2:00 call 6-7340

Found 1 pr of eyeglasses near Knowlton bus shelter on Sun eve call Dan 546-5504

FREE CLINIC

Yes there will be many Free Clinics all over campus for your Stereo Equipment Problems for more info call Stereo Lab North 549-4184

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Interested in the Music Business? See it from the inside out. Administrative Assistants; UPC Productions Work Study 10 HRS PER WEEK. Duties: minutes attendance taking and recording answering phones copying etc. Excellent typing and clerical skills organization and responsibility required. Persons w/enthusiasm and initiative sought. Position available immediately thru May 81. Send resume or call UPC Productions 406 SU 545-2892 Ask for Maroo

Delivery person with own car needed Apply in person after 5 PM at Superior Pizzaria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

Counselors needed group home, court referred. Boys 12-17 yrs., Hampshire County area. Requires: strong limit setting abilities, physically fit for daily recreation, enthusiasm for street-wise teenagers, must have car. Send resume to Detention Supervisor, 52 Maple Court, Springfield, Mass. 01105 A.S.A.P., E.O.E.

HELP WANTED, MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Any age or location Earnings unlimited See ad under Business Opportunities Triple "S"

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

Tutoring Help for all statistics calculus & math related courses experienced teacher John 253-2036 or 549-6230

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

Kobold Umbrella red, beige, blue geometric desigh call Amelia 546-9981

Lost woman's gold watch initials SSP between Southwest and and CC great sentimental value reward 546-8500

Woman's watch (silver, digital) at Ski Sale, Reward call Lynn 546-9652

Wallet in NOPE keep cash! Please call steve 256-6368

MUSICALLY DIVERSE DISC JOCKEY

Do you want an evening of diverse music at your next party? If the answer is yes, call Bill at 549-4025

MUSICAL EQUIPMENT

PA Mixer/Amplifier Randall RPA-120; 200 watts, 5 channel EQ, 6 hi/lo impedance inputs, reverb. Excellent condition. $275-; AMPEG V-4 Guitar speaker cabinet-excellent condition. $175-.

PERSONALS

Free kitten calico female 12 weeks old litter box trained call Gary 586-0017

Full Gospel Bible Study CC 903 Tues Nov 25 8-10 PM

Couldn't get into BUTTERFIELD?Pierpont has a vegetarian cooperative in their basement that offers you a quiet alternative call before Thursday 546-5192

Happy Birthday Senator! Your place or ours? Love, Sally and Sue

4th Floor Gormanites & midnight capeers from Medfield—Have a supreb Thanksgiving, from Susann in Oregon

Andrea & former Cance people—Remember the help loan?. . .Happy Thanksgiving, miss you, Love Chris

Blue Eyes—Happy Anniversary 3 months of watching you Love your nososecret admirers

For Sale: 1 fascist. Has bad attitude. Well insulated to keep out the draft. Call 256-6266

Sean C. Here's your present! Thanks for a beautiful year. 11/26! Babe, I lova ya! Duke

Happy Birthday Katherine Thanks for the good semester good luck next year love Nicole

Ei Ei Ei Ei Rodriguez! Happy 23rd we love you lots! 15th Coolidge

Happy Birthday to a Barry Macho Hombre from your civil friends and the closet hobbit

Terry and Bruce the game was a great idea, so was the hotel Thanks for a terrific evening, The Wenches

To group #3 Klein's class you got your name in lights, but let's see how "unique" your presentation will be. XXOXO Group #1

K-lim i'm gonna miss you—hurry back, okay?—C

Undergraduate Business Club Meeting Tuesday december 2 @ 8:00 in SBA Room 1. Last meeting of the semester—be there!

Interested In Law? The University Judiciary is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications and information in room 420/434 of Student Union.

Clary—old Pal, Thanks for everything you did for my birthday, you HOT SHIT! It wouldn't have been the same without you! 39 lbs. 4 oz. to go at BOYDEN!!!!! Conn. on me Tuesday!!!—2South LUSH!!?

Matt and Dana (5E Dickinson) We're gonna hit you with our best shot. —THe Coalition

Rhonda Dominguez! Over the hill at 22 you're not getting older, you're getting out of this place. Here's to nights of amnesia-(ba-du-dit)? Go back to your kind of snowstorms- they land up your nose and they don't make you fall on your arse. Leave the "cahs" and the "pahties" for the Dead, gratefully. You're a wicked good kid—Happy Birthday!

Happy Birthday Lightweight—love, space, miss, bug, slob, J. Geils, Chris, and Angus

Miss Biorhythm of U-Mass lives in Van Meter! This outdoes the hairdryer!

Bisha—Get down on the pavement with a CAESAR salad!!

FAL—Your nose was great!! Love, Glenn and all the rest!

Ed—Don'r be AIMLESS! GO FOR IT! Revenge is GREAT!

Erk—Be normal! Be like the rest of us! SFPCCSMF, T. Best of luck, MJ, Karyn

To my friend in JA and interesting phone call! Could be more specific or at least show me how! A friend of Ma Bell!

Happy Birthday Maureen! Sorry I'm late. I love you forever, Wee Wee PLEDGE SCOTT—Did you remember to pin the note to your undies three strikes you're out—we compared notes SK

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Cape Wednesday or Thursday morning 549-3768

ROAD-RATED CAR STEREO

Never-used new Craig T618; precision power loading, auto-reverse, stereo/mute/local/distance buttons, locking fast-forward/rewind, separate balance/fader, Bass/treble, AM/FM, cassette player/trans-rib, 5¼ 50W 11oz. FlushMount Speakers. Retail $300.00 for sale $210.00 call 256-8981 Todd

ROCK BAND FORMING

Drummer and singer wanted to join established trio of 2 guitarists and bassist (all experienced) into Beatles, Stones, Who, etc. selected New Wave Tim 546-6872

ROOM WANTED

Female needs room Jan 1 apt or house on bus rt call Betsy 253-5435

Room wanted in house or apartment with engineering or scie nce student(s) Prefer near campus, quiet atmosphere call Vince 256-6235 late eves

Male looking for room in apartment Spring semester 6-8629 5-6 PM Tom

Quiet, studious female wants own room in 2-bedroom apt for Jan 1 prefer No Amherst call anytime 253-5673

ROOMMATE WANTED

Responsible, friendly, independent rmmate for own room in 3 bdrm Rolling Green Apt. $115/mth, includes everything call Shelley or Conworth 256-0501 evenings prefer women

Roommate wanted own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326 nites

Own room in 3 bedroom townehouse North Amherst non-smoker Jan to Aug 31 118+ 549-0187

Female to share NHamp apt available immediately $130+ call 584-6139

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Typing; Words-Worth, 37 East Pleasant Street, Amherst, 549-1303. Double-spaced text from 95c a page. Justified resumes from $3.50 a page. Telephone dictation line. Overnight rush jobs. Your words are worth it.

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

STEREO REPAIRS

A new stereo repair service is opening in the Amherst area featuring a complete FREE warranty service on over 25 major brands plus a whole lot more like pickup and delivery at an amazing 2$ just call us at Stereo Lab North and you won't believe what we'll do for you 549-4184 3-9 PM

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

Wanted to sublet 2 bedroom apt for intersession bus route to UMass preferred call Lori or Carol 6-8494 or Mary 6-8412

Available immediately two bedroom apt in Northampton on bus route eves 586-8418

1 bedroom apt Riverglade Jan 1 - Aug 253-7671

1 bdrm in 4 bdrm apt Phillips St Jan only 549-1006

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

50% consignment for seasonal, ready to wear clothing. Once More With Feeling Carriage Shops 549-3772

Immediately work study student Office Assistant with typing skills approximately 20 hrs pewr wk at $3.50 hr Please contact Elaine Marasco 225A Boyden 5-0038

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Room wanted for Spring semester must be quiet small near bus line or university 546-8786 keep trying

Desperately looking for 2-bdrm apt rel. near campus to sublet starting in january Please call 546-5184 or 546-8382

Wanted 1 or 2 bdrm Brandywine Apt Can trade Squire Village 2 bdrmtwnhse (300/mo + utilities) Trade not mandatory Dec 1 665-3034

Wanted 2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan 1 will sublet call Tuti 546-9848 or 546-9881

2 women looking for 2 bedroom apt in North Amherst - Townehouse? Jan 1st on 549-1069

WANTED 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 546-6524

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 546-6524

Duran and Leonard battle for welterweight title

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS—Roberto Duran promises to make Sugar Ray Leonard "kiss the floor of the ring" while Leonard promises a change in tactics to win back the World Boxing Council welterweight title when they fight tonight in the Superdome.

Duran, a 29-year-old street brawler from Panama, won the title on a unanimous but close decision over Leonard on June 20 at Montreal in a fight that earned Leonard about $10 million and Duran $1.5 million.

The rematch is even richer. Various figures have been reported, but Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney, said Duran is getting $8 million and Leonard $7 million.

In the first fight, Duran controlled the tempo, especially in the early rounds, by bulling Leonard to the ropes. It won't be that way this time, said Leonard, who is known for fancy footwork and blazing hand speed.

"I just found out I have a left jab," said Leonard, who feels he didn't use his to jab to full advantage in Montreal. "I'll just pace myself more carefully this time."

"I don't think he can do anything more than he did in the first fight," said Duran. "If he does anything more, I'll be ready for it."

The boxers are scheduled to start mixing muscle and guile at 9 p.m. CDT before a crowd that a fight publicist said will be between 45,000 and 50,000 and before fans at 345 closed circuit television locations in the United States and Canada. The bout also is scheduled to be televised to about 60 foreign countries both on a live and delayed basis.

It will be Duran's 14th title fight. He won the 135-pound class title by stopping Ken Buchanan in 13 rounds June 26, 1972, and defended it 11 times before he gave it up in 1979 to campaign in the 147-pound division.

The man they call "Hands of Stone" has won 72 fights by knockout, and has lost only once. He dropped a non-title decision to Esteban DeJesus eight years and 41 fights ago.

Leonard, who stands 5-10,, quickly became boxing's glamor boy after winning a gold medal as a light welterweight in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

The 24-year-old Leonard, who gets his boxing tag from Sugar Ray Robinson and who was christened Ray Charles after the rhythym and blues singer, turned pro in 1977. He roared through his first 27 fights to public accolades and to the tune of several million dollars.

Red Wings fire Lindsay

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press

DETROIT—The Detroit Red Wings, saddled with the second-worst record in the National Hockey League, fired Coach Ted Lindsay yesterday and named farm team Coach Wayne Maxner to succeed him.

Maxner becomes the 11th coach of the once-powerful NHL club since 1970 and the third NHL coach to be axed during the past few days.

The New York Rangers fired Fred Shero and Edmonton dismissed Bryan Watson over the weekend.

Lindsay's assistant, Marcel Pronovost, also was fired.

Lindsay, an NHL Hall of Famer and general manager from March 1977 until last summer, lasted just 20 games behind the Detroit bench. He had only three victories and failed to win in 13 road games.

Jimmy Skinner, director of hockey operations, told a news conference the the club felt it "had to make a change. We had to relieve Teddy and Marcel. We will continue to start off with our new era."

Lindsay, reported to be in northern Michigan, was unavailable for comment.

In an administrative shakeup during the off season, Lindsay, 55, was removed from the general manager's post he held since March 1977. Skinner, a long-time fixture in the Red Wings front office, assumed his new title, in effect, taking over Lindsay's former duties.

Maxner, 37, is being promoted from the Wings' American Hockey League farm club in Glens Falls, N.Y. He played two seasons in the mid-1960s for the Boston Bruins and coached at Windsor in the Ontario Hockey Association for five years before being hired by the Red Wings in July. The AHL team was 9-10-1 under him.

Bear's Payton fined

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League, waiting for the definitive piece of film or videotape, is keeping a closed mouth over Chicago running back Walter Payton's runin with and ejection by head linesman Ed Marion.

But the Bears, who saw a 17-14 third-quarter lead turn into a 28-17 loss to Atlanta following Payton's departure, said they think they have the evidence to clear their star of wrongdoing.

The disputed play occurred at Atlanta's 1-yard line when Tom Hensley, the umpire, ruled Payton had fumbled. Payton argued the call and when he made physical contact with Marion, he was tossed out of the game. Even Rolland Lawrence, the Atlanta cornerback who recovered the ball, didn't think it was a fumble. Neither did the Bears, of course.

"We don't want to be crybabies," Coach Neill Armstrong of the Bears said, "but in the first place, Walter did not fumble. In the second place, the film doesn't show him pushing the official. It's not his nature, not his nature to lose his cool. His knee is on the ground clearly and the ball didn't come out of there."

Payton's ejection carries with it an automatic fine of at least $200. The amount is to be determined by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who could also rescind the fine.

But Payton said after the game his contact with Marion was accidental, insisted, "I'm not going to pay this fine," and said he was considering legal action.

"I want to have a hearing about this call and with this official (Marion)," he said. "I'm thinking about legal action, not only defamation of character but this is my job. He's keeping me from doing my job."

L.A. Ram's Wendell Tyler is brought down by New Orlean's Jim Kovach in last night's game. Rams went on to win 27-7. (AP Wirephoto)

CROSSWORD

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Monday's Puzzle Solved

ACROSS
1 Lithuanian
5 Yes, yes: Sp.
9 French rebel
4 Seaweed
5 Harbinger
6 Current 7 Any
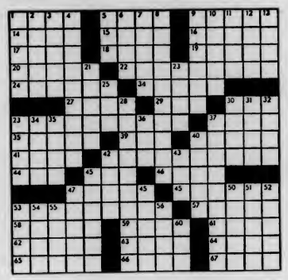
8 Pair: Var.
9 Roman garments
0 Expanses
2 Law courts
4 California peak
6 Grudge
27 Single
29 Flabbergast
30 Cartoonists' word
33 Moon visitors
37 Hindu teacher
38 Comfort
39 Gr. letter
40 — bear
41 Din
42 Aphid: 2 words
44 Slimy fish
45 Briny deep
46 Impetus
47 Daffy
49 Atrophy
53 Sprang back
57 Italian goddess
58 Nut
59 Man's name
61 Cur
62 Incline
63 Make over
64 To be: Fr.
65 Emanations
66 High-hat
67 Progeny

DOWN
1 — melabolism
2 Market place: Gr.
3 Cripples
4 Bursar
5 Sward
6 Copy: Abbr.
7 Singes
8 Pointing
9 Grow up
10 Forlorn
11 Baltic gulf
12 Grandparental
13 Hardy heroine
21 Mexican title
23 Salaams
25 Girl's nickname
28 Far North natives
30 African native
31 Macaws
32 Perfect
33 Land measure
34 Brake part
35 Duck
36 Friend of Can
37 Sprees: 2 words
40 Tarian
42 Serf
43 Drag
45 Water bodies
47 Miss Doone
48 Where San'a is
50 — cuisine
51 — nous
52 Deserved
53 — — tai
54 Beige
55 S. African
56 Antic
60 Tennis shot



Under the Influence
M. Joyce
WHAT IS THAT OBNOXIOUS SMELL?
MY SISTER MOLLY IS COOKING DINNER TONIGHT! TOTALLY ORGANIC!
LIKE, CHECK THIS OUT! THIS SOUFFLE IS MADE FROM FUNGI I FOUND IN THE WOODS!
PHWU!
11/25 MJoyce

Abnormal Psychology
J. Demskey
ANOTHER QUESTION OF THE 1960'S PEACE PROTESTS WAS ABOUT JUST HOW MUCH BOMBING, AS WELL AS UNNECESSARY BOMBING WAS GOING ON IN SOUTHEAST ASIA.
CAN ANYONE RELATE ANY PART OF THE NUCLEAR ISSUE OF TODAY TO THAT QUESTION?
NUKE THE SEALS!
I CAN! I CAN!
YES?
NUKE THE KREMLIN!
IN THE 1960'S, ONLY A FEW GREAT COUNTRIES HAD THE POWER AND TECHNOLOGY AVAILABLE TO DO SUCH BOMBING. AND NOW THE QUESTION IS WHETHER OR NOT TODAYS COUNTRIES CONSIDERED THIRD WORLD SHOULD ALSO HAVE SUCH POWER AND TECHNOLOGY.
I... DON'T THINK SO PAVLOV.
NUKE THE BOAT PEOPLE!
YOU MEAN THAT'S NOT IT?
AW, GIVE 'M A BREAK! HE'S A FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT.

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Junior Club Sandwich
Fish in Batter/Tartar Sauce

DINNER

Chicken Stew
Cornbread
Cheesed Strata
Veal Parmesean

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Taco
Fish in BatterTartar Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Cheese Strata
Chicken Stew
Cornbread

TUESDAY
2 for 1 Night
9:00 'til 11:00
ALL LIQUOR DRINKS
with
TWO WAY STREET
9 til 1
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST
$2.00 Cover

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza
10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL
HOT OVEN GRINDERS!
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI LASAGNA RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
Help Wanted - Delivery Persons.
Must have own car. Apply in person.
FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
2 E MONTAGUE RD AMHERST

Word Processing Seminar/Demonstration
Featuring Commodore and Apple
Monday, December 1, 1980
Campus Center room 917

11:00 A.M. ..... First Session
1:30 P.M. ..... Second Session
3:00 P.M. ..... Third Session
4:30 P.M. ..... Fourth Session

Sponsored by
RCC RETAIL COMPUTER CENTER
455 Center st.
Ludlow, Ma.
589-0106
265 Main St.
Northampton, Ma.
586-8845

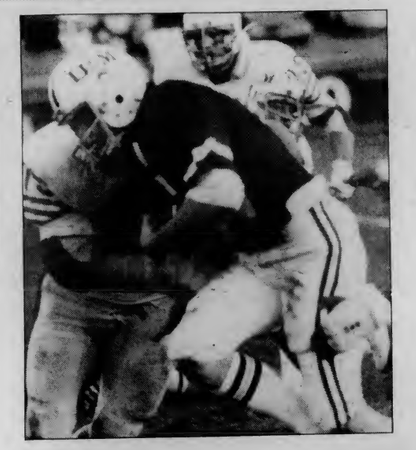
STADIUM
KEGS— U. Mass. Amherst —WINE—
BEER— —LIQUORS
LIQUORS

Miller & Miller Lite	7.99	case	2.25 six
Erlanger	8.59	case	2.25 six
Labatts ale & beer	9.90	case	2.75 six
Lowenbrau (light & dark)	9.50	case	2.50 six
Moosehead	11.50	case	2.75 six
Molson Golden	9.90	case	2.75 six
Michelob Lite 7 oz. bot.	8.50	case	1.45 six
Pabst 12 oz.	6.90	case	1.75 six
Wiedemann	5.59	case	1.40 six
Cossack Vodka 1.75 litre	7.99

Stadium Liquors
ROUTE 9
Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

Sports

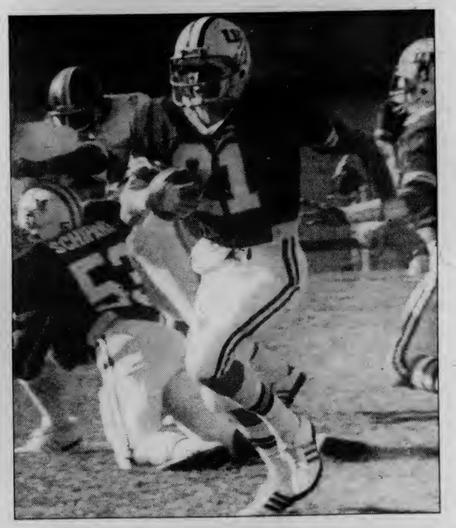
The UMass wrestling team opens the season tonight as it tangles with Boston University at 7:00 p.m. in Boyden gym.



Memories:

The 1980 Minutemen

Photos by Scott Burke and Paul Price.



Their chances for the Nationals melted like snow

Maureen Sullivan

The fall is over; with that season ended the seasons of the women's field hockey, volleyball and soccer teams. So much promise and so many victories in the beginning melted like snow; on a foreign field, these teams saw their chances for any further post-season play fade abruptly.

Field hockey. The team that came within three points of overtaking Penn State in the national poll. That was a few weeks ago, when UMass had an unbeaten string of 14 games, including a win over nationally-ranked rival Springfield College.

Then came a tie against Dartmouth College. Not a loss, but the scoreless deadlock ruined a perfect record. After another win came the University of New Hampshire. In the last home game, UMass saw UNH coming fast and hard for the first five minutes, blasting shot after shot on goalie Patty Shea. She stopped all but one, but that one made the difference; the Wildcats took not only a 2-1 victory from UMass, they also grabbed first spot in the Easterns.

The second-seeded Minutewomen beat Rhode Island in the first round at the Easterns down in Springfield, but lost to Connecticut and Springfield, both in overtime. For Coach Pam Hixon, Judy Strong, Patti Bossio and the rest, UMass would not be going into its third straight Nationals (which was won by Penn State).

As the field hockey team found itself taking fourth place down in Benedum Field, the women's soccer team faced a similar situation up in Vermont that same weekend (Nov. 7-10).

Unlike the field hockey team, the women's soccer team had to rebound from two early losses to make it into the Easterns. A 2-0 victory over Harvard and a 1-0 win over Vermont in the first round of the Easterns highlighted a comeback that included nine straight wins and eight consecutive shutouts. However, an injury-ridden UMass squad fell to UConn and had to settle for third place by beating Harvard, 1-0.

While these two UMass teams came home for the final time, the volleyball team waited and practiced two weeks before its debut in the Easterns last weekend at New Haven. Though they lost to every team, the Minutewomen did not give up; many of the differences between the winner and loser were less than four points.

Three of UMass' teams went to the Easterns; three of them returned knowing they will not be in the Nationals. However, that does not mean that they won't be in any Nationals in the future. For each team loses one or two seniors, leaving an experienced core of players to tackle the problems and challenges of the next year.

Field hockey loses Patty Bossio, but still has Judy Strong and Patty Shea. Women's soccer says goodbye to Contant and Kelly Tuller while still having players not seeing graduation for two years yet. Volleyball loses Branda Simmons and Peggy Barber, but are still confident of the next season, thanks to the core that's returning.

These teams are of the future, and will be around for a long time to come. The fields are quiet now, but soon will be occupied again with those vying for a national title.

The fields around NOPE are quiet now, even as the snow slowly sinks into the already saturated mud and an occasional group salvage the remainder for a quick snowball fight.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

VOLUME CX, Issue 59 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Wednesday, November 26, 1980

Students seek stronger voice in negotiations

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles dealing with the union activies on the UMass Campus.

The 1973 law that, for the first time, extended full collective bargaining rights to all public employees sent shockwaves through the governance structure here on campus. With the advent of union representation at UMass, the previous give-and-take of the collegiate community became increasingly legalistic. Contracts were drawn up, and dutifully adhered to.

Though an attempt was made to preserve previous avenues of faculty administration communications, many were abandoned to union committees and procedures. The faculty considered this necessary because by allowing this to occur, they were legally restricting administrative encroachment on faculty rights. The faculty demanded administrative adherence to iron-clad contract language.

Faculty contracts address such issues as student contact hours, salaries, conditions for tenure, administrative perogatives in reorganizing departments and other issues

turn to page 8

Dana Collier, resigned SGA Attorney General. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Student Gov't Attorney General resigns after two month tenure

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

Student Attorney General Dana Collier yesterday announced her resignation after only two months on the job, citing lack of time, unclear responsibilities, and the disorganized state of the student judiciary system.

Collier said there were more problems her office had to deal with than she could handle and said her attempts to reconstruct the student judiciary system were not her responsibility.

Student Government Association co President Richard Moran said he was shocked by Collier's letter of resignation which he received yesterday, and praised the work she did as Attorney General.

Moran said he would accept the resignation at the Dec. 3 Undergraduate Student Senate meeting and said he hopes to have the position filled before intersession.

"I ran out of energy and saw whole aspects of the job not being performed by anyone," Collier said.

Collier also accused the student senate of violating its own constitution and said not enough student senators understand the concepts behind the Constitution.

turn to page 8

Thanksgiving: An American Tradition

By JIM MAHONEY
and ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

As Thanksgiving arrives, millions of Americans prepare to eat turkey dinners, watch football games and count the number of shopping days remaining until Christmas.

Linda Arkle and Katherine Avallone inspect fresh turkeys at Price Chopper. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Although gridiron clashes and downtown shopping sprees were unknown to the Massachusetts Bay Colony original settlers, the large festive meal marked a victory in the struggle for survival for the first whites in the "new world."

The settlers, inexperienced in growing and hunting food, relied on the native Indians to teach them how to survive.

When it appeared all efforts were successful, they celebrated together with a large feast called "Thanksgiving."

In those days, the most abundant foods were fish, wild turkey, corn, potatoes, squash and various other vegetables. The feast has now become an American tradition, with the original foods barely altered.

Through the years, the population of wild turkey with longer legs, dark feathers and gamier, tougher meat declined and the need for a domesticated bird developed.

The turkey you will eat tomorrow is a highly specialized breed developed for human consumption, Prof. Glenn Snoeyenbos of the Vetinary and Animal Science Department said.

"They're genetically engineered. The male is always larger than the female," he said. The turkeys may weigh anywhere from 16 to 45 pounds, Snoeyenbos said.

The difference between a wild turkey and the domesticated version is that the hybrid type has shorter legs, a wider breast and is bred to have white feathers.

The reason for the larger breast is because people like the tender, white meat from that section of the bird, Snoeyenbos added.

Snoeyenbos said most commercial turkeys come from the midwest and south, mainly Minnesota, Iowa, Mississippi, the Carolinas and Virginia.

A small percentage of "fancy local breeds" are grown in Massachusetts, including Amherst, he said.

Contrary to popular belief, turkeys are humanely slaughtered rather than painfully decapitated and left to bleed to death, Snoeyenbos said.

Turkeys are stunned electronically and then bled while unconscious, Snoeyenbos said. The birds' feathers are loosened by soaking in hot water, then plucked by a machine with rubber fingers, he said.

Alternatives for cooking the bird include placing it in an oil soaked brown shopping bag or putting it in a dutch oven.

The 18 to 22 week old tom or hen is best cooked by roasting in a slow oven, 325 to 350 degrees, about an hour for every three to five pounds, a representtive of the Hotel, Restaurant and Travel Administration Department said.

She suggested the defrosted bird be placed in a shallow pan basted with butter or oil, then covered with aluminum foil. The foil should be removed for the last 45 minutes so the bird will "brown up nicely," she said.

Preparations for Thanksgiving will probably begin today in many households as thousands of UMass students return to their homes to enjoy the holiday.

Many appetites are now being whetted in anticipation of the meal and plans are being laid to meet with old friends and enjoy the short vacation.

'No respect for a turkey'

Damn, it's Thanksgiving again.

Well last year my mother and my brother bought it. Now I guess its my turn.

Just think, tomorrow, me, Tom Turkey, will be sitting on somebody's dining room table, smothered in gravy and surrounded by cranberries and mashed potatoes. Well what-da-ya think about that! Boy, no respect.

Think about it: Once Benjamin Franklin even wanted to make me, Tom Turkey, the national bird! Now they only want to make me well done.

Damn them Pilgrims, why couldn't they have picked on pheasants or chickens, huh? Why turkeys? What did we ever do, huh? Tell me, will ya?

As a further insult, somebody will probably wash me down with my cousin, Wild Turkey.

Let me tell ya, we're not as dumb as you humans think. Just because we don't talk, our gobble, gobbles do mean something. After all, why do you humans always call each other turkeys? That must mean something.

But why me, Tom Turkey?

But you humans do look pretty funny running around trying to decapitate us. And then you have to pluck out all those feathers (they burn when you start to cook them). Of course we do get back in many ways—it takes nearly four hours to cook our goose.

And then, me, Tom Turkey will get my real revenge—heartburn—haha! How do you spell relief? See you Thursday, Turkey.

—Tom Turkey

This turkey, of Shaw's Turkey Farm in Pelham, seems to be awaiting its fate as one of 33,500,000 turkeys that will be served on dinner tables this Thanksgiving. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

World and national news

Italian earthquake toll tops 3000

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press

NAPLES, Italy — Deperate rescue workers hacked at piles of rubble with shovels and picks yesterday and tried to reach isolated mountain villages shattered by an earthquake that officials estimated killed more than 3,000 people in southern Italy.

"Dig, dig here please. My brother is underneath," a little girl in a dirty dress told rescue workers in Avellino, 23 miles east of Naples.

There was still no count of victims in some mountain villages, reported 90 percent destroyed by the quake that struck Sunday night. Rescue teams could not drive bulldozers or trucks up narrow roads, many blocked by fallen rocks.

"A helicopter came down this morning and a man asked us what we needed," said a young man in Conza, a village 54 miles east of Naples. "We said we needed everything and he left.

"There are about 150 alive here. I don't know anything about the others. There were 700 of us before. Maybe they're all dead."

The Italian military command estimated the death toll as at least 3,132 after learning of isolated villages devastated in the mountains behind Naples and Salerno. That would make it Italy's worst earthquake since 1915, when 30,000 people died in the Avezzano region of central Italy.

Iraq disputes Iran's claim of victory

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iran claimed yesterday to have cut into Iraqi positions along the entire 300-mile battlefront and to have cracked the Iraqi seige of the oil-refining city of Abadan.

Iraq, meanwhile, said it had held back Iran's counterattacks and that Abadan was in a "tightening stranglehold."

Iraq's Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadi was quoted as saying life was returning to normal in most of Iraq despite Iranian claims of approaching victory and reports of heavy fighting inside Iran.

The independent Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Qabas quoted him as saying foreign firms that pulled employees out of Iraq when the war erupted Sept. 22 were returning to work.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, meanwhile, told pilots at Isfahan's airbase in central Iran that his forces were "approaching the point of forcing the Iraqi government to concede defeat," the official Pars news agency reported.

It quoted Bani-Sadr as saying Iran had "done the impossible," refuting claims it would not be able to fight adequately because of the U.S. and European economic embargo imposed following the seizure of 52 U.S. hostages in Tehran more than a year ago.

In Beirut, Iran's parliamentary speaker, Hashemi Rafsanjani, said Iran had taken the initiative along the entire warfront and that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein "is now cornered."

An Iraqi defense communique issued here said its troops had made a "tightening stranglehold" on Abadan, located at the southern edge of the battlefront on the Shatt al-Arab estuary.

Iran discusses hostage terms

By STEVE HINDY
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The speaker of the Iranian Parliament said yesterday that Iran was discussing with Algerian intermediaries ways the United States might meet its terms for releasing the 52 U.S. hostages. He declined to say whether the demands were negotiable.

Parliamentary speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani addressed a news conference here as U.S. officials in Washington awaited an Iranian message said to request a further explanation of the U.S. position.

The message was being delivered by three Algerian envoys. They were scheduled to arrive late yesterday.

The message was being kept secret until handed over to Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, but officials in Washington said they didn't expect it to amount to a yes-or-no response to U.S. proposals flown to Algiers by Deputy Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher.

Digest

Associated Press

O'Neill and Albert attend funeral of their predecessor

BOSTON — Thomas P. O'Neill and Carl Albert, who followed John W. McCormack as speakers of the House, led a delegation of the Washington establishment yesterday to the funeral of the man who shepherded the social legislation of the Great Society through Congress.

Cardinal Humberto Medeiros celebrated the funeral Mass at a small modern church in South Boston, the neighborhood that McCormack represented during 42 years in Washington. While 700 people filled St. Monica's Church, hundreds more friends and former constituents watched outside as soldiers passed by with his flag-covered coffin.

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, Archbishop of Boston, waves a censer of the flag-draped coffin of former Speaker of the House John McCormack during a funeral mass yesterday in Boston.

Also in attendance are, from left, the former Speaker's nephew Edward McCormack, Boston Mayor Kevin White, Governor Edward King, an unidentified man, Senator Paul Tsongas, Senator Edward Kennedy, Senate Minority leader John Rhodes, and Speaker of the House Thomas O'Neill.

McCormack, who served as speaker for eight years before retiring in 1970, died at a nursing home Saturday at age 88.

Reagan carries Massachusetts by small percentage of vote

BOSTON — Republican President-elect Ronald Reagan carried Massachusetts by a scant 2,423 votes, less than one tenth of 1 percent, the official election count showed yesterday.

Reagan received 1,056,223 to 1,053,800 for Democratic President Jimmy Carter — 41.14 percent to 41.05 percent at the Nov. 4 election. A single switch, from Reagan to Carter, in each of the 2,195 polling places would have given the state's 14 Electoral College votes to the incumbent.

The tally for the Executive Council by state bank examiners gave U.S. Rep. John Anderson, the Independent candidate, 382,539 votes, 14.9 percent. There were 42,177 blanks, 1.6 percent, and aproximately 32,000 votes were scattered among other candidates.

The 2,566,805 voters casting ballots were 81.6 percent of the total registered, down from 82.4 percent in 1976, but up from 80.1 percent in 1972.

Rise in prices and decline in wages usher in holiday season

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices rose a full percentage point last month, accompanied by a decline in takehome pay that posed new headaches for inflation-weary Americans during the approaching holiday season.

The Labor Department reported yesterday that the 1 percent jump in October, fueled largely by ever-rising housing costs, brought the annual rate of inflation to 12.6 percent, not far behind the 13.3 percent annual rate of 1979.

For the first 10 months of 1980, inflation at the consumer level is running at a compound 12.2 percent annual clip despite the severe — but apparently short — recession.

Economists said that with the possible exception of continued, stable energy prices, little good news can be expected on the inflation front in the coming months.

Senate committee endorses Harvard prof for judgeship

WASHINGTON — The Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday for the second time gave its unanimous endorsement to the nomination of Harvard Law Professor Stephen G. Breyer for a 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judgeship. But the possibility of a Senate floor fight still loomed.

The committee endorsed Breyer, its chief counsel for the last two years, earlier this month, but a procedural problem prevented the full Senate from considering the nomination.

Collegian

Today's Collegian produced by:

Jim Kane — Assistant Managing Editor
Abbe Bjorklund — Layout Technician
Rhonda King — Copy Editor
Nancy Nutile — Head Photo Technician
Jay Brightman — Ad Layout
Danny Guidera, Donna Levine, Mary Kinneavy, Michael Krumpe, Edie Eppich, Pam Dissinger, Suzette Courtmanche, Brenda Kustin — Composing Room

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily, Monday through Friday, excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

For your holiday advertising needs, call the Collegian Advertising Dept. at 545-3500.

Applications Being Accepted
by UMass Music Theater Guild
For the Production Staff of their Spring 1981 Musical Production of Jesus Christ Superstar

The nonsalaried staff positions which are open to anyone in the Five College area include:

Producer — Lighting Director
Director — Technical Director
Musical Director — Stage Manager
Choreographer — Props Manager
Set Designer — Master Electrician
Costume Designer — Master Carpenter

Anyone interested in applying for a staff position should prepare a resume of his theatre exp[illegible]once especially dealing with the desired position. Applicants will be contacted f[illegible]n interview. For more info call: Scott Cunningham 546-9219

amc THEATRES — TIMES SHOWN FOR TODAY ONLY

ADULTS $2.75 STUDENT & SR. CITIZEN WITH AMC CARD $2.75 SPECIAL ENGAGEMENTS EXCLUDED TWILITE SHOW $1.75 TWILITE SHOW LIMITED TO SEATING

HAMPSHIRE 4 — 584-7550 HAMP. MALL ON CAFE SQ.—RT. 9, HADLEY, MASS.

DONALD SUTHERLAND — Ordinary People — R — Wed & Thurs (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 — Matinees Thurs at 2:00

You might just die... laughing! MOTEL HELL — R — Wed & Thur (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 — Matinee Thur at 2:00

STUNT MAN PETER O'TOOLE — R — Wed & Thur (4:30 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 — Matinee Thur at 1:45

THERE IS NO TIME TO SCREAM. Silent Scream — R — Wed & Thur (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-9:55 — Matinee Thur at 2:15

MOVIE AND DINNER ONLY $5.50 — HAVE A CHOICE OF DIFFERENT MEALS AT THE PEWTER POT REST. IN THE HAMPSHIRE MALL AND SEE ONE OF THE 8 MOVIES IN THIS AD (SUN.-THUR ONLY)

SHOPPERS SHOW — Thursday 12/4 — FATSO with Dom DeLuise — PG

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 — 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9-HADLEY, MASS

GOLDIE HAWN as PRIVATE BENJAMIN — Wed & Thur (5:00 @ $1.75) 7:30-10:00 — R

GENA ROWLANDS Gloria — PG — Wed & Thurs (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15 9:45 — Matinee Thur-Sun at 2:00

WALT DISNEY DOUBLE FEATURE — Sleeping Beauty at 2:15-7:30 — Black Hole at (5:00 @ $1.75) 10:00 — Matinees Thur-Sun at 2:15 — PG

ANTHONY HOPKINS The ELEPHANT MAN — PG — Wed & Thur (4:45 @ $1.75) 7:15-9:45 — Matinee Thur-Sun at 2:00

Search begins for new SGA Attorney General

By CHUCK KILFOYE
Collegian Staff

The first steps were taken in the search for a new Attorney General during a meeting between SGA co-president Rich Moran and the student Senate Coordinating Committee last night.

"I am about to form a committee to aid in the search for an applicant to fill the office of Attorney General," said Moran. "This search committee will report its progress back to me within five working days. I hope to have appointed a new Attorney General before the end of the semester," he said.

The present Attorney General, Dana Collier, resigned the position after two months in office citing a lack of time and unclear job responsibilities as her reasons.

Moran also advocated the withdrawal of money from the Attorney General's account in order to aid in the search for a person to fill the vacated position." I would like to allocate funds to send newsletters across the campus notifying students of the job opening," Moran said.

Coordinating Committee member Bob Cleary said, "I think there should be adequate time provided for interested people to apply for the job. I also do not believe it is the Senate's responsibility to search for people to fill the vacancy."

"If we do not get our act together and appoint an Attorney General by Dec. 10, I feel we are not going to have one," said Moran.

Student government by-laws mandate that an Attorney General be appointed by the President within three weeks of the current Attorney General's resignation. The Student Senate can either confirm or reject that appointment during that time.

In what Coordinating Committee Chairman Linda Geary called a precedent, the committee refused to consider a budget rationale and budget request by SCERA. "I wanted to bring this budget request to the committee's attention," said Geary. "But we are in such a time bind we really cannot look at it," she said.

"SCERA was reorganized earlier in the semester," said Moran. "The Coordinating Committee was placed in charge of the day to day running of SCERA," he said. "The SCERA budget should reflect the programs the Senate and the Committee intend to initiate." It is impossible to set programs when you refuse to set a budget," Moran said.

Sparrows find a perch on a grey November day. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Toxic shock information added to Tel-Med

By JANE DeVIRGILIO
Collegian Staff

A large number of inquiries on the recently published Toxic Shock Syndrome (TSS) has resulted in the addition of a tape on the disease to the Tel-Med directory of the Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton, according to Directory Coordinator Dale Scheckels.

Since an increasing number of incidents were reported in connection with the use of super absorbent tampons in September, Scheckels said operators of the service "received many requests for information on Toxic Shock" and "this has also been true for most other hospitals in the country with a Tel-Med program."

The "Rely" brand of tampon was associated with proportionately more reported incidents of Toxic Shock than other tampon brands. The "Rely" brand has since been recalled by its manufacturer, Proctor and Gamble.

The Tel-Med is a library of about 300 tape-recorded health-related messages that can be listened to by the public at no charge. Initiated three years ago, it is one of 250 such services in the country and one of four in the state.

586-5800

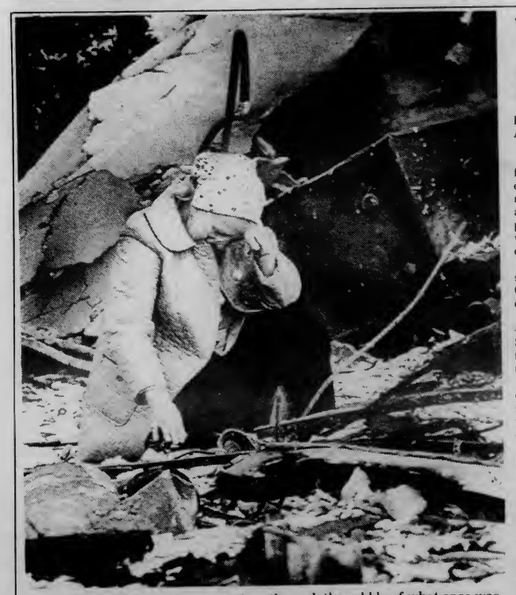
"It is one of the fastest growing help information services in the country," said Scheckels. She agreed that its popularity is mainly because the system is both personal and inexpensive.

The 4 minute long tape explains the disease and cites the symptoms, including a sudden high fever, vomiting, diarrhea, and a rapid drop in blood pressure which often results in shock. There is also a sunburn like rash with subsequent skin peeling, particularly on the fingers and toes.

The tape describes TSS as a "relatively rare disease which affects previously healthy women during their menstrual periods." While the tape says the risk is low (statistics cited from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia say 3 in every 1000,000 women are inflicted) it recommends women avoid the super-absorbent type of tampon, change tampons every 4 hours, and use sanitary napkins at night.



An unidentified resident of the North Park area of San Bernadino pauses yesterday as she sifts through the rubble of what once was her home, destroyed by fires that swept the area Monday.

Wind fed fires ravage San Bernardino homes

By PAUL SIMON
Associated Press

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — A firestorm fed by erratic 55 mph winds churned across the foothills of San Bernardino yesterday, charring 257 homes and forcing thousands to flee. Four people died and about 400 were injured in what officials called the worst fire in the city's history.

Acting Gov. Mike Curb declared a state of emergency in San Bernardino County, citing property damage estimates of $44 million.

The fire was one of six raging across 40,000 acres of brush and timberland in Southern California, destroying more than 300 homes and forcing the evacuation of an estimated 10,000 people.

In San Bernardino, an industrial city of 115,000, a fire believed caused by arson erupted Monday and swept across the northern edge of the city. Thousands of people abandoned their homes as the fire flamed across 12,000 acres in the city and the San Bernardino National Forest to the north.

"We just thought it would stay up there for awhile. Then everyone started running," said Caroline Moseman, whose home in the North Park area of the city was destroyed.

The charred bodies of an elderly couple were found in their yard by sheriff's deputies after their children reported them missing, said city fire spokesman Jimmy Jews.

One San Bernardino man suffered a fatal heart attack while watering down his property, to ward off the fire, and a woman died of a heart attack after being evacuated from her home, Jews said.

At least 257 homes were either damaged or destroyed in that blaze, said U.S. Forest Service spokeswoman Joanna Guttman. Jews said at least 180 of the homes were in ruins.

"Without a doubt, it is unequivocally the worst fire we've ever had," he said.

Police said they arrested four looters in the city's fire-stricken North Park area. Except for Highways 15 and 138, all roads into the fire area were closed Tuesday.

Curb, speaking in Los Angeles for Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who was in Washington, D.C., said his emergency declaration would make low-cost loans available to stricken residents. He said 400 people were injured. Few serious injuries were reported.

Meanwhile, seven homes were destroyed and another 56 damaged in the Indian Truck fire south of Lake Elsinore, and two cabins burned in a fire on Mount Baldy.

The fires came only 10 days after the 6,600-acre Bradbury fire, about 20 miles south of Mount Baldy, which caused $25 million damage and one death.

The 10,000-acre Indian Truck fire consumed seven homes and damaged 56 structures in the Holy Jim and Trabuco Canyon areas of Orange County. Firefighters were trying to keep the flames away from about 175 homes valued at $500,000 to $1 million in the the exclusive Costa de Caza area.

Black Affairs

Black Homecoming

It was a cold and rainy Sunday morning. I then said to myself, "darn, it figures that it would rain today."

It was about 11:15 a.m. and a friend and I were on our way to Converse Hall at Amherst College. We walked from Southwest in a downpour of rain, but still we reassured each other that the parade would go on.

We reached Converse Hall drenched, and doubtful, seeing that we were the only two Blacks in the hall. I had just about given up, when luckily I saw my CCEBS advisor, Valerie Nii. She told Norman and I that everyone was meeting at the center of town and not at Converse Hall like the notice had stated.

The rain soon ended and more pepole were coming out. A few moments of sunshne appeared through the clouds and , this warmed the smiles and enlightened the conversations that people were having while anticipating the beginning of the parade.

The march soon began with seven sisters carrying a banner with the Black Homecoming Parade logo, followed by colorful banners from CCEBS, Drum, Ahora, Nummo News, The Charles Drew House, BMCP, the Malcolm X Center, Black Affairs, and a few others that I don't recall, but in any case we were all together, and unified. I can still see the expressions of surprise and bewilderment on the faces of the white community when the procession of Brothers and Sisters chanting and singing "unity in the community" and "I'm fired up — ain't gonna take it no more," passed through the center of town.

The cold started to disappear, because the glow of love and unity warmed everyone's hearts which made the whites oblivious in the minds of my brothers and sisters.

We marched on with our heads held high and approached Southwest, an area known for its rowdy, drunken parties and countless attacks on people of color, semester after semester.

We moved on with our fist in the black power sign, chanting and singing as the white occupants of Southwest watched.

Our last stop was New Africa House, where we listened to a few of our Blackfaculty and organizational leaders before entering inside. The mood was festive and people were warming up from the productive march. Appreciation was given to the speakers, this was evident by the applause given to them by the brothes and sisters in the room.

Earl Brown, a friend of the community, spoke to us about the different forms of harassment and problems Black people encounter at this white and racist university. We should never become content with this oppressive environment. We should always remember that as Blacks, Hispanics, and Asians, we wil always be a problem, and it is common knowledge that pepole get rid of their problems.

The opening day was a success and our beautiful Black spirits were free from the constraints that the so called "white man" puts upon us. We continued into the Homecoming week with multiple events taking place each night of the week.

I participated in the March, Rollerskate party, and the talent show. I also saw a very powerful and enlightening film, "No Vietnamese Ever Called Me A Nigger." It should be noted that this film dealt with the problems faced by Black soldiers in Vietnam and how they were seen by White in time of war.

Black Homecoming week ended with a talent show. I want to say that I was fortunate to be involved in the show. Black is Beautiful and all that comes from the Black sisters was just that. I was in awe by the beauty of their smiles, skin and attitudes of people singing and speaking made this night even more special. I think the songs entitled "I came to save you" and "Illusions," by Michael Gregory, a UMass student, touched everyone in the room. He should be recognized and congratulated concerning his possible musical career.

Lastly, I would like to say that Black Homecoming was a big success. "They said it couldn't be done but we did it," stated Mitch Smith. Mitch is a brother who has constantly come through when a need for unifying the people of our community was necessary.

On a sad note it's unfortunate that two people who are no longer with us couldn't share in the happiness and conversations of Black Homecoming, and the information for the people who haven't been here too long. I'm speaking about Seta Rampersad and Jose Pontes. We will always be together forever in spirit, and their spirit will be with us.

I hope that the new fresh minds have learned that we are family and togethe we can larn from this past experience. We are the future, let's turn it around. In the words of Lance Wallace, a UMass student, "we are here together to learn toopen ourselves to each other and the world."

Trust, plus Love equal Unity, we should carry this final thought with us every day in our community of color.

To my beautiful Black brothers and sisters,

As Salem A'ley Kum (meaning Peace Be With You)

Michael O'Neal

A moving scene from the Hispanic play, Gimme 5, a production of the Third World Theater Series.

Elderly couple harrassed

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A 40-year-old Great Barrington woman pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges involving the harassment of an elderly black couple who moved into the defendant's all-white neighborhood.

Karen Gauthier changed her plea to guilty as her trial entered its second day. U.S. District Court Judge Frank Freedman set sentencing for Dec. 17.

She was accused of conspiracy, interference with the free exercise of housing rights and making threatening communications.

Mrs. Gauthier also faces several state charges, including attempted extortion, in the incidents that allegedly began in January when Kenneth Taylor, 67, and his wife Irene, 76, moved to Giddings Street in Great Barrington with their 10-year-old granddaughter.

The black couple told police that for the next three months rocks were thrown through the windows of their house and they received threatening letters and phone calls.

The Third World Theatre Class will be performing the play "Black Girls" the first two weekends in December. Look for more info later in this paper. (Photo by Barron Roland)

Thanksgiving Thoughts

The other day I had a very interesting conversation with a brother from Nigeria. He told me that he was staying here for the Thanksgiving holiday. I couldn't believe my ears, he had gotten invitations to have dinners with friends but had turned them down. He said he'd rather stay here and study.

I said, "wow, I love the dedication but wouldn't you rather have a nice feast, you know turkey, sweet potatoe pie and all that good stuff?"

He said, "no, in my country we don't celebrate what you all call Thanksgiving. I don't think there's anything to be so thankful about, pilgrims coming here manipulating the Indians and taking over the land, that doesn't deserve to be celebrated."

After I thought about it I was embarassed by my own ignorance and lack of compassion. I had not really given the philosophy behind the holiday much thought. When you steal someone's money or their car, do you get rewarded with a celebration and feast.

So while you're home stuffing your face with the famous feathered bird, dressing and all the other delectables, I know your moms will be hooking up, think about the reason for thanksgiving. Don't just sit there packing your bellies saying, yum, this is smoking.

Also give the Indians some credit for if they had not taught the Pilgrims how to plant corn and other vegetables, they would not be in front of you on the table tomorrow.

By the way, check out the UMass symbol, it's on your typical UMass notebook and also over the door of Goodell library.

Have a nice Thanksgiving, and remember what I told ya.

Kimberley Greene

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

Announcements

Fashion Show

The Center for Women of Color invites all to an International Dinner and Fashion Show.

A gala event, featuring food, fashions and entertainment representing all Peoples of Color on December 7, 1980 at 3:00 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

Tickets will be available at the Campus Center concourse during the week of December 1st. Hurry, tickets are limited!

For more information, contact Sharon Shelton (546-6571) or Cheryl Watkins (665-2215).

Black Affairs

Black Affairs wishes everyone in the community a Happy Thanksgiving! See you Monday!

FILM

The film Union Maids will be shown at the Everywoman's Center on Wednesday, December 10, 1980 at 7:30 p.m. The showing is sponsored by the Working Women's Task Force; an educational and support group which is organizing around issues of concern to working women in the area. The film is part of a weekly series of workshops and discussions on these issues. Refreshments will be served. All community and university women are invited.

The Everywoman's Center is located in Wilder Hall on the UMass campus in Amherst.

For more information, contact Karen Eichstaedt-West at 545-0883.

Concert

Loose Caboose and Monyaka will be appearing at the Student Union Ballroom December 6, 1980 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are available at Union Records (located at the Student Union). General admission is $4.00 and $2.50 for students.

Black Affairs

Black Affairs is looking for writers, photographers, layout and graphics persons to work with the community newspaper for next semester. The paper can use your ideas and knowledge to inform our people. You can as well benefit from the skill and pleasures of making Black Affiars what it is all about, that is helping our community become aware of what is going on in our third world community. If you are interested in helping the third world students please contact Karen M. Thomas 546-4276 or Joyce McLaurin 549-0074.

Editorial/Opinion

Bubbles rise before the law

'Sorry. No Coke, Pepsi'

Here's a riddle for you: China is to Coke as Russia is to Pepsi, as UMass is to _____? Right now, Coke would be the correct response, but if Pepsi gets its way, every Coke machine on campus will be swiftly replaced by a Pepsi dispenser. Yes, folks, those arch rivals are rearing their caramel-colored heads again, not on the TV screen, but on this very campus.

Coca-Cola has supplied the University with vending machines and soda for the last 25 years. But this summer, after the second round of bids, Pepsi was awarded the contract. Before a single piece of paper could be signed,

Dave Allen and Deborah Wayne

however, Coke filed a $2 million lawsuit against UMass and Pepsi, claiming that the University had not chosen the "highest responsible bidder." Had Student Automatic Service gone with Coke, a 12 oz. can of carbonation would have been jacked to 40 cents, while Pepsi promised to keep their price at 35 cents. Although Pepsi offered the University a higher commission on sales (15.6 percent vs. 15 percent for a three year contract), Coke asserts that the University would have received more money had it chosen Coke because of the higher cost of their product coupled with their high volume of sales.

Some of the other major charges filed by the plaintiff include: The University has the responsibility, as stated in the "Vendor Information and Procedure Manual," for giving priority to services offered by companies in the Commonwealth in preference to "foreign agents." Therefore, Coke continues, the contract should have been awarded to them because they have a bottling company in Northampton, and Pepsi has no outlet in Massachusetts. Coke adds that at least two employees of the Northampton plant will have to be fired if they lose the contract.

Also, Coke alledged that Pepsi has not shown proof that it can immediately supply the necessary number of vending machines (about 100) to replace the Coke machines on campus.

The case is in appeals court with no final decision coming in the near future. Meanwhile, Coke dispensers remain on campus due to an injunction issued by Hampshire County District Court Judge Raymond Cross. Until a decision is reached, we are fated to choose between Coke and Tab.

So what? Could UMies even tell the difference between the two leading soft drinks? And do they prefer one over the other? In an unofficial survey conducted in the Campus Center one recent Wednesday afternoon, 142 unsuspecting passersby participated in the "First UMass Cola War." Each was given an unmarked sample of the two beverages and asked whether they could identify which was Coke, which was Pepsi, and which they liked better (in some cases, hated less). Many approached the table bubbling with confidence. "Sure, I can tell the difference," many insisted. A number of them, however, left surprised.

Only a slim majority could correctly identify the beverages (to be exact, 54 percent to 46 percent). Those whose caffeine expertise was tarnished took the news with the disposition of flat soda. "No kidding," one man remarked. "I guess that means I'll have to switch brands." Just like a commercial...

And now, the envelope please...The winner of the "First UMass Colo War" is...Pepsi. Fifty-five percent selected Pepsi as the caffeine of their choice while 45 stuck by Coke. Is the Pepsi Generation taking over?

With the drinking habits of thousands of coeds on the line, the question remains, "So what?" Do UMies care which soda is peddled on campus? Would we even notice if the Coke machines mysteriously disappeared and were replaced by Pepsi? Who will win the UMass Cola War? Will we someday stagger around campus chanting, as John Belushi so succinctly put it, "No Coke, Pepsi"?

Deborah Wayne and Dave Allen are Collegian guest columnists

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRANT BANCHE, Managing Editor; JEF FREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLARBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and LIAN N LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

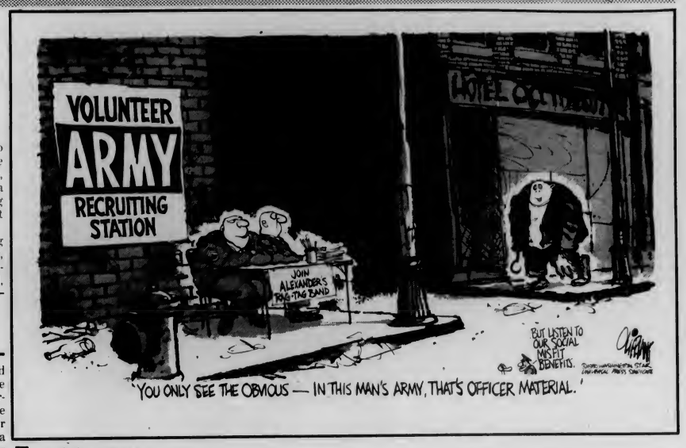
(USPS 333 220)



VOLUNTEER
ARMY
RECRUITING STATION
JOHN ALEXANDER'S RAG-TAG BAND
BUT LISTEN TO OUR SOCIAL MISFIT BENEFITS.
'YOU ONLY SEE THE OBVIOUS — IN THIS MAN'S ARMY, THAT'S OFFICER MATERIAL.'

Letters

Reagan future and the KKK

To the Editor:

Reading in the AP bulletins that four more children are missing in Atlanta, and reading that a Ku Klux Klansman in Houston who is "...prepared to do battle against communists and homosexuals," now instructs Explorer Scouts and Civil Air Patrol Cadets in guerrilla warfare techniques, inspires me to hope that Ronald Reagan will do something to eliminate the Ku Klux Klan, for all of our sakes.

Ed Patterson
Amherst

Ski Club five finger discounts

To the Editor:

Last week, the UMass Ski Club held it's annual ski sale. For the most part, it was a big success and we would like to thank those who supported our effort.

Unfortunately, we did have a problem with security. Due to theft of merchandise, especially clothing, no customers were allowed into the sale with books, coats, or packs. Therefore, the books, coats, and packs had to be left at the entrance similar to the method used at the University Store and Textbook Annex. The result of this was that at least ten persons coats were stolen.

Thievery in itself is reprehensible but the fact that someone could steal another individuals coat and leave that person out in the cold is unpardonable. We are sorry for the inconvenience incurred by those involved. Hopefully, the thief will be caught and prosecuted and find him/herself out in the cold some day.

Again, thanks to those who supported the Ski Club.

James C. Chambers
Frederick H. Pierce
Co-Presidents
UMass Ski Club

The anti-CIA demonstration, from on earth and above

To the Editor:

I am writing to complain about an article entitled Protest Observer is UMass Student (Collegian, 11/24). In that article, I was quoted a couple of times. The problem is that I was quoted so completely out of context, that what I said to the Collegian reporter, and what I actually said, are two entirely different things! Let me clarify:

When I said, "I believe that they were CIA men," I was referring to my initial reaction to seeing people on the CC Garage roof with binoculars and cameras. I was shown the paper saying that this person was living in an area fraternity; but that same piece of paper said that UMass had no record of Mr. Coughlin's attendance at the University. At that point, I qualified my quoted statement, saying that the possibility of his being CIA still existed, but that I wasn't sure.

I was also quoted as saying, "It's not just a paranoid suspicion..." This, I also said—but in reference to a question of covert CIA presence on campus (of which I have documented precedence). I mean really...people must think from reading that article that I go around looking for the CIA over my shoulder all the time, that I'm some kind of paranoid basket case!

In closing, whether it was the editing or the writing, my advice remains the same. If you folks cannot quote someone in context, DON'T DO IT AT ALL!

Jim Murphy
Belchertown

To the Editor:

"Watch out for his bow tie its really a camera..." Most of us are familiar with this line from a Simon and Garfunkel song from the late sixties. Apparently, some individuals on this campus are obsessed with this thought. I am speaking in regard to the article entitled "Protest Observer is UM student" (Collegian, 11/24). This is the best thing that has happened to the Coalition Against the CIA since LSD, ROTC; trench coats and an early model Kodak instamatic camera do not compare with James Bonds' electronic bullet deflectors and beautiful Russian double agents.

Get down to earth. All of the task force, coalition, and alternative leaders of the Coalition Against the CIA are third rate romanticists, from their sandy socks to their soiled cerebrums. You lived it Jim Murphy. Mundane Jim, with his reefer madness, could affect your conscience or yours or yours or yours.

Speaking of schizophrenic paranoids, Jim Murphy leads the pack, followed closely behind by David Levinson. How can anybody be so naive as to believe that the CIA would actually dress up in blue trenchcoats (on a nice day); sporting sunglasses and flashing a five year old instamatic with no film in it?

Furthermore, where does Jim Murphy get off with the notion that his "rally" is of such significance to warrant any kind of attention? The only thing that gave this "rally" any attention were the two students that pulled a fast one and led Murphy and his "alternative followers" to believe that someone was actually watching them.

Where do they get their information? It seems they traced me through my license plate number. I consider that to be an invasion of my privacy. I feel that this information should not be accessable to radical individuals or groups whose goal it is to use this information to degrade the character of an individual who has done no wrong.

Paul Coughlan
Amherst

Writing a letter? READ THIS!

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed at 67 characters per line, triple spaced.

All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

If you think you could pick your beer with your eyes closed, here's your chance.

Probably just one beer drinker in 3 can pass this test.

All three major premium beers are distinctly different in taste. After all, they're made by different brewers using different ingredients and different brewing processes. Still, it takes a pretty educated tongue to tell them apart.

You may not win, but you can't lose.

This test requires a blindfold. That's so your eyes won't influence your mouth. Because taste is all that counts—in this test, and in a beer. Here's how the test works. You pour Schlitz, Bud and Miller into identical glasses. Have a friend label them 1, 2 and 3 and switch them around. Now, taste. The one you pick may not be your beer, but it's the beer with the taste you want.
See? You can't lose.

What is that taste you're tasting?

Maybe beer tastes so good because you're really tasting each sip more than once. First, the lively, refreshing character of beer comes from the aroma and flavor of the hops. Next, as you swallow, you sense the richness—the body—that barley malt adds. Finally, the finish. Now the balance of tastes becomes clear. No one taste should intrude on your total beer enjoyment.

How do Schlitz, Budweiser and Miller compare on taste?

That's for you to decide. Simply rate each beer from 1 to 10 on the flavor characteristics below. When you're finished, try to guess the brands by name. Very, very few people can do this.

Does the taste of a beer ever change?

Yes. All beers have changed over the years. One example is Schlitz. Two years ago a master brewer named Frank Sellinger came to Schlitz. He came to be president. And to brew a Schlitz that was smoother than any other beer. Taste that beer for yourself. Because taste is what it's all about.

The best beer is # _____.

	Refreshing	Faintly sweet	Full bodied	Smooth	Mellow	Mild	Full flavored
10
9
8
7
6
5
4
3
2
1
	Flat	Too bitter	Watery	Biting	Too strong	Overly carbonated	Bland

Place beers' numbers on each scale from 1 to 10

Beer #1 is _____ brand
Beer #2 is _____ brand
Beer #3 is _____ brand

Schlitz® Today's Schlitz. Go for it!

© 1980 Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company, Milwaukee WI

(Cut along dotted line and place over eyes.)

'Panorama': Cars' best effort

THE CARS
Panorama (Elektra)

By RON MILLER
Collegian Staff

The Cars' music has always been a problem for critics and their latest, Panorama, is no exception. In spite of the fact that most critics have lambasted it, I believe it is their best effort to date.

The problem with The Cars is you can't put a concrete label on them. Are they merely pop fluff overladen with endless hooks, skillfully written by songwriter, Ric Ocasek? Or perhaps they're new wave—turn up the bass, and make the vocals monotone—or perhaps progressives going beyond the normal limits of rock with experimental, eery sounding electronics?

Actually they are a combination of all three, but in a business where there is an obsession with labels, critics seem confused. They acclaimed The Cars first album, The Cars, as a masterpiece. A love affair sparked between critics and the band as they found an interesting sound, a pop phenomenon nurtured in the Boston bar scene. The Cars had three hit singles on the first album ("Just What I Needed," "My Best Friend's Girl," and "Let The Good Times Roll"), and sold 3 million copies.

The Car's second effort, Candy-O, was also a financial success. It made the top ten, and The Cars were firmly imbedded in the rock scene. But critics weren't too thrilled with Candy-O, and The Cars weren't all that happy with the critics.

Critics haven't been much kinder to Panorama. The Rolling Stone (What do they like?) called it, "...not merely a joyless joy ride, it's an out and out drag." However, The Cars adorned the cover of The Rolling Stone the very next week, and they are on the cover of this month's Trouser Press. Panorama sits at number nine on The Rolling Stone's Top 100, and The Cars are selling out concerts wherever they go. Critics may not care for them, but the fans love 'em.

Panorama is a very good album. If I'm forced to put a label on it, it falls closest to progressive electronics. It is the next logical rung on The Cars musical ladder, a ladder constructed with a touch of genius. The first album brought national recognition paving the way for an album like Panorama with Candy-O as a transition. Experimental songs like, "Shooby Doo," are at the heart of Panorama.

There really isn't a hit single on Panorama, and if you believe all the dribble they edit out in interviews, The Cars could care less about AM notoriety. Ric Ocasek says in November's Trouser Press, "I don't mind being on AM radio, but I wouldn't care if I didn't have another hit single."

"Touch and Go," though not a normal pop single, is the AM song released off this album. It features Ocasek's provocative vocals, and a melody that's hard to shake. After one or two listenings I couldn't get the song out of my head. It is not just one chord with puppy love lyrics. With Ben Orr's throbbing bass and Greg Hawkes' whining synthesizers its fine music, but the highlight of this piece is a stinging guitar lead by Elliot Easton. The song is unusually long for AM (4:55), which might explain the lack of airplay it has received.

On Panorama, keyboard man Greg Hawkes gets unleashed for the first time. On The Cars and Candy-O he was kept in the background as part of the intricate musical pattern created by Ocasek and producer Roy Thomas Baker. On this album he comes up front and is a key to the progressive sound.

On the final song on the first side, "Getting Through," Ocasek makes a statement to critics as well as fans about his music: "I don't want to be your suffering box/Argue art or untie your knots/I don't want to be your bad connection/or fit into your reality vision." Hawkes is the catalyst in this song. The strange electronic groans that are elicited from his synthesizers separate this from our "reality vision" of music.

The second side displays further differences from previous Cars albums. "You Wear Those Eyes" is a spacey tune with the dryness of Flash And The Pan. Drummer David Robinson's synthesized drum is the core of the sound here.

The last song on the album, "Up and Down," perhaps says it all about how The Cars feel about their artistic progression. As Ocasek says, "I don't want to go up and down." So far he has kept his music moving up. Panorama proves The Cars are truly unique in rock. They are a band who has made it, but has refused to sell out for big bucks. The majority of critics may not like them, but fans keep buying their records, and though The Cars claim not to care, in the recording industry selling albums is the object of the game.

Area police log

Charge of annoying behavior brought against JQA resident

A charge of annoying behavior was brought against a resident of John Quincy Adams Dormitory in Southwest Residential area yesterday after he reportedly threatened the lives of other students, police said.

The students reporting the threat, also residents of John Quincy Adams Dormitory, told police the student had been "acting up" all semester. Police would not define how the student had annoyed the others, nor what action was considered "acting up." Authorities did say the Dean of Students' office would take action on the case.

Across campus yesterday, a university employee may have prevented a burglary in Machmer Hall when he stopped a young man from searching the offices there, police said.

The university employee, who wanted to remain unnamed, told authorities the man said he needed to get $20 quickly. Police said they have launched an investigation into the matter.

—SAMUEL CHALFEN

Three car accident includes police officer and area resident

A three car accident including a police cruiser operated by Officer A. James Hobart, 31, of Amherst occured Monday afternoon at the corner of North Pleasant Street and Eastman lane.

Ruth L. Brown, 77, of Hadley was operating the vehicle struck by the police cruiser as she pulled into Eastman lane in front of the cruiser, police said. Brown's vehicle also struck a vehicle operated by Mitchell M. Barack, 20, of Needham who was travelling south on North Pleasant Street.

Brown received a citation for failure to use care in starting. No injuries were reported in the accident and police said that the cruiser received only minor damages.

Traffic at the corner is controlled by a traffic signal that has been flashing for the past few weeks. Stanley Ziomeck, of the Amherst Public Works department said that the malfunctioning light is about 15 years old and is in the process of being repaired. Repairs have been held up due to a missing part that may take three to four weeks to obtain, he said.

In another incident, a car operated by Grover C. Greenleaf, 30, of Southbridge apparently drove off Shutesbury Road Monday evening in the heavy fog. Police say passenger Sheri Jernigan, 17, of Amherst suffered a broken nose in the accident. The car hit some small trees as it went off the road, police said. No citations were issued in the incident.

Almost twice as many tickets were issued during October as in September in Amherst, police said yesterday.

Police said this is due more to the number of officers patrolling the streets than to the increased number of offenders.

There were 10 more assaults in September than in October. Two rapes occured in September one of which led to an arrest.

Ten automobiles were stolen in the two month period, three led to arrests.

There were no homocides and no robberies during the two month period. Police responded to more than 3,500 calls in September and October.

—CARLA LESH

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit

Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Couseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15563, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Time Out Special
Turkey Shoot Out
All Day
Wild Turkey $1. a Drink
Time Out
2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
Coins & Stamps
Do yourself a favor
See me before you sell
Professional Buyer since 1976
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
6 days a week
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

UMASS ARTS COUNCIL FUNDING DEADLINE

Applications for Arts Council funding of arts-related events to be presented during the months of February/March '81 must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. Wednesday, December 10th. The UMAC Office is located in 125 Herter Hall (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.

Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.

The next UMAC meeting will be held Thursday, December 4th at 8 A.M. in 903 Campus Center. Public Invited.

★ Union

continued from page 1

direcly related to student concerns.

Recognizing the need for a student voice at the negotiating table, former Chancellor Randolph Bromery and the officials of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the faculty union on campus, invited a student observer from the Student Government Association.

Though the observer must be invited for each series of contract negotiations, a student has been present at both contract negotiations the MSP has bargained.

But there remained a fear on the part of SGA leaders that this arrangement would be powerless to affect the outcome of negotiations. Securing a student observer at the bargaining table did not assure that student issues would be seriously considered by the union or the administration.

From this fear of being "left out in the cold," SGA leaders began a movement to unionize the student body, attempting to secure bargaining rights and their own ironclad agreement. Only in this legalistic guarantee, it was felt, could the students be assured of preventing the faculty or administration from encroaching on student rights.

Although student unions are commonplace in other countries, such as Great Britain and Sweden, the United States had none. And thought there were no laws preventing student unions, there were no laws allowing for them either. It became necessary to introduce a bill in the Massachusetts legislature to allow for such a union. The bill died in committee. The 10,000 students who had signed the union petition were not to have their union.

SCERA, Legal Services Office, and the student coops are remnants of the student union movement. Thus, it cannot be said the union movement was a complete bust.

Many SGA officials feel the failure to attain student union status underscores the need to upgrade the powers of the student observer in talks with the MSP.

One way to do this would be to secure third party status at the bargaining table. Third party status requires the union and administration to acknowledge a student representative as an equal at the bargaining table, thus allowing for coalition bargaining. To date, both administration and union officials have been reluctant to accept such conditions.

With that goal in mind, a bill will be filed before Dec. 3 in the Massachusetts legislature asking for third party status in all negotiations on campus.

Finally, SGA leaders desire to formalize student liason procedures with administration officials in order to facilitate a free flow of information on issues that direcly relate to students.

SGA officials sense the administration is using too standoffish an approach to student input, something that forced the professors to unionize in the first place.

★ Attorney General—

continued from page 1

Collier said the controversial senate elections in October were an example of a violation, and called them "absurd."

The Oct. 6 and 7 elections were disputed because of several sticker campaigns, representatives from rival political groups manning the ballot boxes, and the mispelling of a candidates name on the ballot.

The Student Judiciary is a board of 19 judges who try students that violate University regulations or state laws.

In the past, Collier said there was no place for these types of cases to be tried. she cited a lack of student judges as the problem but noted the situation is now being remedied by appointing more student judges. The judiciary is now hearing cases but is not operating at its full capacity because of the lack of judges.

Collier said that an outside, professional advisor should be attached to the attorney general's office to help deal with the problems of the Student Judiciary. She said that the student government has the ability to solve the problem but has shown little interest in doing so.

Collier said the problem is being remedied, but the judiciary still lacks a permanent Clerk of Courts. She said the solution to the problems facing the judiciary system lies in the Senate Committee of Governmental Affairs. The committee has to set up a sub-committee to deal with the problems of the Student Judiciary before the Attorney General's office can work effectively, Collier said.

Applications will be accepted for the office from the undergraduate population as soon as a Senate Search Committee can be set up, Moran said. In the interim, an acting attorney general will be appointed, he said.

Moran said he will be looking for someone who has a working knowledge of the Student Judiciary and someone who will enhance the state of the Judiciary.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

AUDIO

Large Advent Speakers excellent condition with boxes 180.00 BO Mark 546-5985

AUTO FOR SALE

'74 Impala AT, AC, ex mech cond, no rust, $800 call 546-6037

Ford Galaxie 1966 optimum conditions $400 or BO 549-4635

70 Camero SS 4 sp. 327/350 H.P. rebuilt eng. needs ¼ panel & paint 1600$ Louis 253-5385

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16243-Y-78 Cajon, Hesperia, CA 92345

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Stein at the Collegian

Collegian Positions: Assistant Managing Editors, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians. Paid. Experience helpful, interest is even more important. Apply to Fran Basche by Dec. 9 at the Collegian

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties coffeehouses Rick 584-4105

Expert Magician Dorion Sagan currently available for professional services call 256-0758

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Portrait Drawings; call Dennis Delap 665-2972

New Queen or King size waterbed never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck, pedestal, mattress, liner, heater. Originally $330.00 now either $199.00 527-4645 Ehampton

1971 VW Fastback good running condition must sell $750 evenings 586-2811

One pair Garmont self-fit ski boots size 9½ 3 yrs old good cond $175. new $40. now Tim 665-7796 after 5

FOUND

Lost Art Supplies?? Found Nov 18 SUB mailbox at 2:00 call 6-7340

Rick from Framingham—you left your gloves in the car Call Howard 253-9652

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8561 ext 248 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Overseas Jobs—Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free Info. write: IJC Box 52-MAI Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Interested in the Music Business? See it from the inside out. Administrative Assistants; UPC Productions Work Study 10 HRS PER WEEK. Duties: minutes attendance taking and recording answering phones copying etc. Excellent typing and clerical skills organization and responsibility required. Persons w/enthusiasm and initiative sought. Position available immediately thru May 81. Send resume or call UPC Productions 406 SU 545-2892 Ask for Maroo

Delivery person with own car needed Apply in person after 5 PM at Superior Pizzaria (next to North Amherst Post Office)

Counselors needed group home, court referred. Boys 12-17 yrs., Hampshire County area. Requires: strong limit setting abilities, physically fit for daily recreation, enthusiasm for street-wise teenagers, must have car. Send resume to Detention Supervisor, 52 Maple Court, Springfield, Mass. 01105 A.S.A.P., E.O.E.

HELP WANTED, MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Any age or location Earnings unlimited See ad under Business Opportunities Triple "S"

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

English Classes (ESL) Nov 20 - Dec 16. Afternoons. Elementary, Intermediate. Northampton Language Institute, 25 Main St., Northampton, 584-3956

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4975

Woman's watch (silver, digital) at Ski Sale, Reward call Lynn 546-9852

Wallet in NOPE keep cash! Please call steve 256-6368

1979 N'ton class ring athletics emblem on side REWARD call 6-9802

Lost silver framed glasses in hard brown case in vicinity of stadium, reward, please call 546-5163

Lost silver partial frame eyeglasses in light blue case. Call 549-6493

Whoever accidentally took my navy blue wool blazer at the Barn/Grain Alcohol Party Saturday 11/22 on Northeast Street, please return it. Gina 549-6876

Small dark brown leather jacket QR Disco Party 11/22 great sentimentl value. Too small for anyone but me! Generous reward 549-5434

Tan women's wallet in FAC Keep money, would like the rest. Call 546-4792 Please!

MUSICAL EQUIPMENT

PA Mixer/Amplifier Randall RPA-120; 200 watts, 5 channel EQ, 6 hi/lo impedance inputs, reverb. Excellent condition. $275; AMPEG V-4 Guitar speaker cabinet; excellent condition. $175. Rob 665-3462

PERSONALS

Undergraduate Business Club Meeting Tuesday december 2 @ 8:00 in SBA Room 1. Last meeting of the semester—be there!

Interested in Law? The University Judiciary is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications and information in room 420/434 of Student Union.

Skater waking up to a champagne brunch was great! Thanx alot love, the Fourth Floor Hilton

Mrs. Robinson I think I am falling in love with you Love Benjamin

To a Sigma Kappa Thanks for the rose lets talk again Love Christopher

Happy 18th Birthday Maryjean—Hope it's one of your best. We've shared many good memories and here's to some more. Love, Fellow Foxes

Mary Gillmeister! Happy Turkey Birthday Diana, Juju, Val

Cutie! Happy One Year! Always remember how very special you are to me and how much I love you! Kim

Hey Tripper! Yes, I'm embarassed. Well at least you won't forget the empty box. I won't. Take care Love Mork—alias the elephant man

R.E.G. — Rahh! It wasn't easy but we made it this far. Thanks for the happiest year (Nov. 28) of my life. From now until forever it'll be "smooth-sailing" (or should I say SNOWMOBILING?!) I LOVE YOU!!! Always, A.E.L.

Santi—Have an excellent (Italian) turkey day! Luv Joan XO

Happy Birthday Little Rocky make it in Massachusetts THE WEASELS of the 17th

Happy 18th Birthday John you basement dweller from your Big Brother Steve

THE BOSS at the garden 12-16 B.O. 6-7178

Happy Anniversary, Jim! 1½ years--Great Times, and the Best is yet to come! All my love, Lynn

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Cape Wednesday or Thursday morning 549-3768

ROOM WANTED

Male looking for room in apartment Spring semester 6-8629 5-6 PM Tom

Quiet, studious female wants own room in 2-bedroom apt for Jan 1 prefer No Amherst call anytime 253-5673

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate wanted own room on bus route $135.00/mon util included 665-4326 nites

Own room in 3 bedroom townehouse North Amherst non-smoker Jan to Aug 31 118+ 549-0187

Female to share NHamp apt available immediately $130+ call 584-6139

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates. 546-6439

Psychotherapy: Individuals, couples, families. Sliding fee scale. Psychological Services Center. 545-0041

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my Research--call Joe at 665-2840 10 pn-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1 call Cindy or Wendy 549-0054 after 5 PM

Available Immediately two bedroom apt in Northampton on bus route eves 586-8418

1 bedroom apt Riverglade Jan 1 - Aug 253-7671

1 bdrm in 4 bdrm apt Phillips St Jan only 549-1005

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant St between Fotomat and Logos, Amherst M-Sat10-6 call 256-0710

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's. CC Concourse, twice a week approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith 25 North Pleasant St. between FOTOMAT and LOGOS , Amherst Mon-Sat 10-6 Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

50% consignment for seasonal, ready to wear clothing. Once More With Feeling Carriage Shops 549-3772

Immediately work study student Office Assistant with typing skills approximately 20 hrs pewr wk at $3.50 hr Please contact Elaine Marasco 225A Boyden 5-0038

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student seeks own room in apt/house on/near bus rte for Spring sem call Bill 546-4618 keep trying

2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan1 will sublet call 546-8443 or 546-8434

Room wanted for Spring semester must be quiet small near bus line or university 546-8786 keep trying

Desperately looking for 2-bdrm apt rel. near campus to sublet starting in january Please call 546-5184 or 546-8382

Wanted 1 or 2 bdrm Brandywine Apt Can trade Squire Village 2 bdrmtwnhse (300/mo + utilities) Trade not mandatory Dec 1 665-3034

Wanted 2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan 1 will sublet call Tuti 546-9348 or 546-9881

2 women looking for 2 bedroom apt in North Amherst - Townehouse? Jan 1st on 549-1069

WANTED 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 546-6524

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 546-6524

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

JUST AS I THOUGHT! I'VE BEEN SUBPOENAED!
NO KIDDING?
"IN ACCORDANCE WITH DUE PROCESS OF LAW, REQUEST YOUR TESTIMONY AT TRIAL OF GANG OF FOUR..."
HOW EXCITING! WE'VE NEVER HAD DUE PROCESS BEFORE. WHAT A SHOWCASE FOR OUR NEW CRIMINAL CODE!
WHAT ELSE DOES IT SAY?
"PLEASE BE ADVISED DEFENDANTS ARE GUILTY."
IT MUST BE FROM THE PROSECUTION.
I CAN'T BELIEVE THE GANG OF FOUR'S TRIAL IS FINALLY BEGINNING..
HOW LONG YOU FIGURE IT WILL LAST, HONEY?
WELL, THAT WILL DEPEND PRETTY MUCH ON JIANG QING. FROM WHAT I'VE HEARD, SHE REFUSES TO ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE UPHEAVALS OF THE CULTURAL REVOLUTION.
IT'S ENTIRELY POSSIBLE SHE WILL TRY TO DIMINISH HER OWN GUILT BY NAMING NAMES OF FELLOW TRAVELLERS.
HOW MANY OTHERS WERE INVOLVED?
ABOUT FOUR MILLION.
WOW...SO THAT COULD REALLY DRAG IT OUT, HUH?

Under the Influence M. Joyce

HOW LONG HAVE WE BEEN HERE?
ONE MONTH MAYBE TWO, I LOST COUNT!
WHAT KIND OF BARBARIC GOD DO THESE HEATHEN MONKEYS WORSHIP? I CAN'T BELIEVE THEY STILL HAVE AN ANNUAL BLOOD SACRIFICE!
SHH! SOME ONE'S COMING!
EAAAAAUGH!? NO!! GOD NO!!! PLEASE NOT ME!!!

Abnormal Psychology J. Demskey

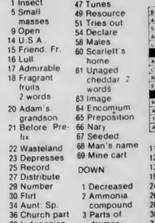
EXCUSE ME, YOUNG MAN, BUT HOW DO YOU SPELL REAGAN?
M-A-C-H-I-A-V-E-L-L-I-A-N
THANK YOU YOUNG MAN!
EXCUSE ME, M'AM, BUT HOW DO YOU SPELL REAGAN?
A-N-T-I-E-R-A PRO-I-D-I-O-T
THANK YOU M'AM!
EXCUSE ME, SIR, BUT HOW DO YOU SPELL REAGAN?
P-A-T-H-O-L-O-G-I-C-A-L-P-O-W-E-R-H-U-N-G-R-Y-N-U-T
THANK YOU SIR!
YES, AMERICA! THESE AND OTHER SURVEYS INDICATE THAT MORE AMERICANS KNOW HOW TO SPELL REAGAN CORRECTLY THIS YEAR, THAN IN ANY OTHER YEAR.
GOOD S.A.T. QUESTION!

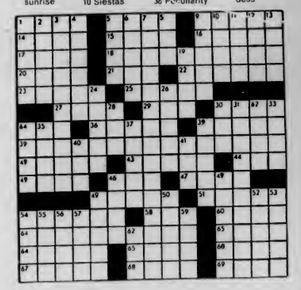
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Insect
5 Small masses
9 Open
14 U.S.A.
15 Friend: Fr.
16 Lull
17 Admirable
18 Fragrant fruits 2 words
20 Adam's grandson
21 Before: Prefix
22 Wasteland
23 Depresses
25 Record
27 Distribute
29 Number
30 Flirt
34 Aunt: Sp.
36 Church part
38 Indonesian island
39 Inadequate
42 Gloves
43 U.S. satellite
44 High mountain
45 To the sunrise
46 Building annex
47 Tunes
49 Resource
51 Tries out
54 Declare
58 Males
60 Scarlett's home
61 Upaged cheddar 2 words
63 Image
64 Encomium
65 Preposition
66 Nary
67 Seeded
68 Man's name
69 Mine cart

DOWN
1 Decreased
2 Ammonia compound
3 Parts of dramas 2 words
4 At once
5 Twist
6 Love: It.
7 Extrication
8 View
9 Shoe part
10 Siestas
11 Whimper
12 Czech river
13 Incubator
19 Red Sea gulf
24 Bangs
26 Succinct
28 Tree
30 By way of
31 Diplomat
32 Gun —
33 Kind of school
34 Clock
35 Amazon cetacean
37 River ducks
38 Peculiarity
40 Baseball's Mel —
41 Ms. Merkel
45 Esthonia: Abbr.
48 Color anew
49 Curved
50 Seed coat
52 Urao
53 Oregon city
54 Souls: Fr.
55 Deep pit
56 Retard
57 Advantage
59 Gas
62 Dawn goddess

UNITED Feature Syndicate
Tuesday's Puzzle Solved





D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Hamburg on Roll
Eggroll/Duc Sauce

DINNER
Roast Beef/Mushroom Sauce
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Golden Burgers
Eggroll/Duc Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Brazilian Rice Casserole
Fried Cod/Tartar Sauce

PRECISION HAIRCUTS

ALL FOR $6.00 with this coupon only

Includes:
FIRST—a professional consultation
SECOND—a precision style cut selected individually just for you
THIRD—our stylists will show you how to take care of your hair

With personal style, cut, shampoo and blow dry $9.50. long hair slightly more. With this coupon only, limited to new customers only.

we also have facials and manicures

Styles by Deborah I & II
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA
549-5610

62 Main Street
Easthampton, MA
527-2411

Word Processing Seminar/Demonstration
Featuring Commodore and Apple
Monday, December 1, 1980
Campus Center room 917

11:00 A.M. ..... First Session
1:30 P.M. ..... Second Session
3:00 P.M. ..... Third Session
4:30 P.M. ..... Fourth Session

Sponsored by
RCC RETAIL COMPUTER CENTER

455 Center st.
Ludlow, Ma.
589-0106

265 Main St.
Northampton, Ma.
586-8845

SAVE-ON-TIRES
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS
CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.
BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	Seiberling	25.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seib.	28.95	560x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	G78x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	H78x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. Wt.	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E Tax & Sales Tax.
RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3
586-2544

Polish unionists threaten strike as labor crisis mounts

By ROBERT H. REID Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — In a new escalation of Poland's labor crisis, independent trade unionists yesterday threatened widespread strikes unless the Communist government accepts new demands, including the release of people charged with anti-socialist crimes.

Railway employees, factory workers and coal miners, meanwhile, staged other strikes. Eastern European nations and the Soviet Union have expressed concern about the renewed labor unrest.

In its most direct public warning yet to the Polish independent trade union movement, the Soviet news agency Tass said this week a general transport strike "could touch on national and defense interests." The Soviet Union uses Polish rail lines to move troops and supplies to Soviet garrisons in East Germany.

Zbigniew Bujak, president of the Warsaw chapter of Solidarity, Poland's largest independent trade union, said a resolution to call a "strike readiness alert" approved by the local presidium would be presented to rank-and-file members today. The resolution calls on a government commission to go to a tractor factory outside Warsaw by noon tomorrow to accept the demands.

Railway workers shut down commuter lines in Warsaw and the Baltic port city of Gdansk for the second day to press demands for wage and bargaining rights. At issue is the formula for distributing $6.3 million in wage increases.

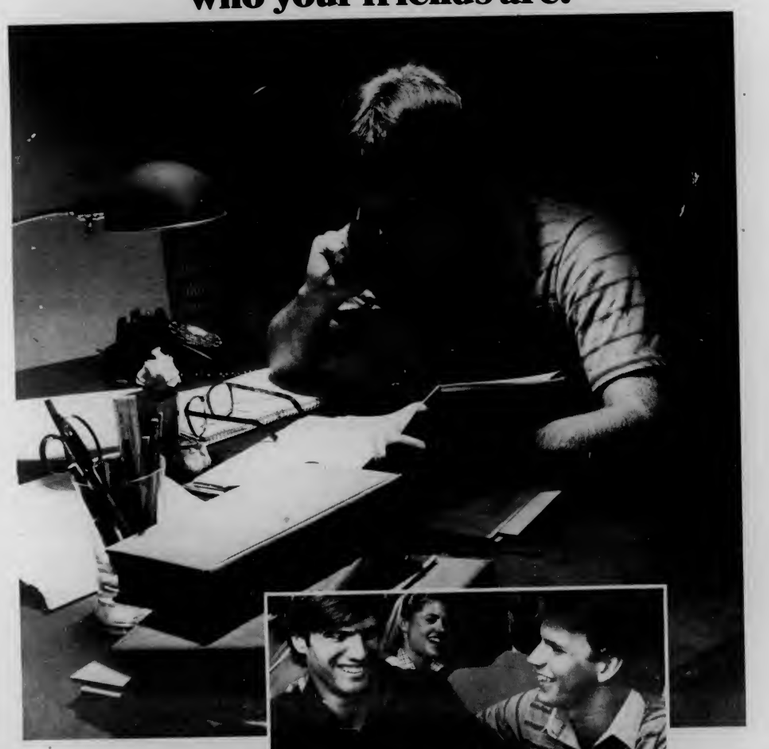
Miners at nine coal pits in the Katowice area staged a two-hour warning strike to press demands for supplemental pay.

The demands by the Warsaw chapter were the latest action in an escalating confrontation with the regime since the arrest last Friday of printer Jan Narozniak. He was detained in connection with the theft of a classified document by Solicitor General Lucien Czubinski that allegedly outlines steps for combatting anti-socialist forces.

The document was found during a police search last Thursday of the offices the Warsaw union local. Union leaders claim the document, dated Oct. 30, is the first step in a government crackdown on independent trade union activities.

Bujak said at a news conference at the tractor plant that his union would publish the document. Later, union spokesmen said Bujak had been summoned to the prosecutor's office. Bujak was talking to a lawyer before deciding whether to report, they said.

When you need some notes at 3:00 a.m., you find out who your friends are.



You left the notes for chapter 6 in the library. A sure sign that tomorrow's test will be heavy with questions from chapter 6. Someone you know is about to get a phone call. He's not going to like it, but he's going to come through. When this is over, do something special for him. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friend

1980 Beer brewed in U.S.A. by Miller Brewing Company Milwaukee Wisconsin

CBS' 'Dallas' tops ratings

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Dallas" became the highestrated show in the history of television as three out of every four sets in use last Friday night were tuned in to see who shot J.R.

The CBS prime-time soap opera about the oil-rich Ewings of Southfork Ranch beat previous ratings champions, including the final episodes of "Roots" and "The Fugitive," and all the Super Bowl games, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed Tuesday.

The "Dallas" rating also helped boost CBS to another ratings victory for the week ending Nov. 23. CBS received an overall rating of 21.9, meaning that at any given moment during the week an average of 21.9 percent of the nation's TV sets were tuned to that network. ABC was second with 19.7, and NBC was third with 17.1.

The long-awaited episode, in which it was revealed that J.R.'s sister-in-law Kristin Shepard pulled the trigger, received a rating of 53.3, which Nielsen said means an estimated 41.4 million homes tuned in to the show. It also had a share of 76 in the ratings, which means it was seen on 76 percent of all TV sets that were in use during its 10 p.m. EST time period.

The final episode of the ABC mini-series "Roots" previously was the highest-rated show of all time with a rating of 51.1 and a share of 71. It was telecast Jan. 30, 1977.

The highest-rated episode of any regular series was the last original episode of ABC's "The Fugitive," in which Dr. Richard Kimble finally caught up with the one-armed man who had killed his wife. That show, telecast Aug. 29, 1969, got a rating of 45.9 and a share of 72.

Sports notices

The forfeit fee checks for Intramural Touch Football are ready to be picked up in the Intramural Office. Please have your receipt with you!!

Hang Gliding Club meeting Wed. Dec. 3rd, 7 p.m., in CC 803. All club members urged to attend. Club Christmas party (Dec. 6th) to be discussed, also, Valentine's Day fund-raising event. New club members welcome.

Men's and women's three-on-three basketball begins Monday, Dec. 1 at 5:45 pm. All participants must call the IM office (545-2693 off campus or 5-3334 on campus) or come in some time before that date to find out when your first match will be.

Attention intramural ice hockey players: If you plan to play next semester you must register your team at the Intramural Office. Team roster, health forms, and $25.00 deposits due December 15, 1980

Huskies humiliate Harvard

BOSTON (AP) — Northeastern University erupted for six third-period goals and blasted Harvard University 11-5 in the Huskies' season-opener Monday night.

Scoring three times in a one-minute span in the final period, Northeastern freshman Randy Bucyk, nephew of Boston Bruin great John Bucyk, began the onslaught with a tally at 3:08 of the period.

Northeastern jumped on top of the visiting Crimson 2-0 in the opening 20 minutes, but goals by Harvard's Jim Turner and captain Tom Murray closed the lead to 3-2. A one-goal deficit was as close as Harvard, now 1-1-0, could get.

Other scoring for the Huskies, now 1-0-0, came from sophomore Sandy Beadle, junior Scot McKenney and freshman Brian Fahringer.

★Matmen

continued from page 12

match. Murphy came to within a micro-inch of pinning Traylor in the second period but was foiled by the buzzer. Murphy, who was ahead 14-0 at the time of the pin, exhibited his usual no-letting-up type of wrestling and totally dominated the match.

Co-captain Mike Carroll won a 16-4 superior decision over BU's Dave Frazier. 150 pound Carroll kept at Frazier for the duration of the match with his quick moves and slick wrestling.

Also winning for the Minutemen were 126 pound Dana Rasmussen and 134 pound Doug Johnson. Tied 1-1 with a minute left in the match, Gary Abbott of BU got penalized, giving Johnson a 2-1 edge. Then with 10 seconds left in the match Johnson inched Abbott, who was trying to escape off the mat, back onto the mat and took him down for another two points and a solid 4-1 win.

UM 23-BU-23; 118-Wade Genova BU 5, Rich Schiarizzi UM 4; 126-Rasmussen UM 8, Traylor BU 5; 134-Johnson UM 4, Abbott BU 1; 142-Greg Mahoney BU win by default; 150-Murphy UM, pin 7:47; 150-Carroll UM 16, Frazier BU 4; 158-Kevin Egleston BU pins Dave McEntee, UM 4:04; 167-Fred Wagoner BU 18, Joe Rigoglioso UM 4; 190-John Finnegan BU 7, Bob Clark UM 6; Hvwyt-Allen UM win by default.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO
MASTER OF ARTS IN PUBLIC POLICY STUDIES

CAREERS. The Committee on Public Policy Studies offers a two-year program preparing students for professional careers as policy analysts for both governmental agencies and private firms. Graduates of the program are employed by Committees of the U.S. Congress, various U.S. government agencies including the Office of Management and Budget, non-profit institutions, and consulting firms.

COURSES. The Master's program includes analytic courses in economics, political science, and statistics; applications courses in accounting, finance, and budgeting; and advanced seminars in Urban Policy, Medical Policy, Educational Policy, Foreign Economic Policy, Science Policy, Regulatory Policy, and Energy Policy. Many students take courses offered in other divisions and schools of the University.

APPLICATIONS. The Committee welcomes students with diverse undergraduate backgrounds, no prior coursework in public policy studies is required. Financial aid is available. For information and applications, write: Committee on Public Policy Studies, The University of Chicago, 1050 East 59th Street, Chicago, Illinois 60637

In keeping with its long-standing traditions and policies, the University of Chicago, in admissions, employment, and access to programs, considers students on the basis of individual merit and without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national or ethnic origin, handicap, or other factors irrelevant to fruitful participation in the programs of the University. The Affirmative Action Officer is the University official responsible for coordinating its adherence to this policy, and the related Federal and State laws and regulations (including Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended)

PREPARE FOR
MCAT · LSAT · GMAT
SAT · DAT · GRE
Our 42nd Year
• Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
• Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
• Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
• Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
• Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
• Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers experi in their field.
• Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Call Days, Eves & Weekends
in Amherst 253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For Information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782

NOEL
The Shopper Guide deadline is Dec. 3rd. Call now for space reservations at 545-3500.

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon Cash Happy
Fri • Sat 11-2 am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

PaperHouse
65 University Drive • Amherst
549-5656
25% off all Chartpak products in stock (and special orders over $10)
20% off all Stationery products (notebooks, pens, pads, etc...)
up to 15% Bulk discounts on our already low Paper prices.
*We carry over 60 different papers.
20% off Printing prices of runs over 2000 copies per original.
(With coupon only)
clip clip clip clip clip clip clip
20% OFF Printing runs over 2000
PaperHouse
Offer good thru December 1980

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST
NOW IN STOCK
Autry Mach III 24.95
(Rated 5 star ★★★★★ by Runners World magazine!)
Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6
175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

SUGARBUSH & STOWE
INTERSESSION SKI & PARTY WEEK
JANUARY 20 - 25
Condo - 144 - Sugarbush
Hotel - 169 - Sugarbush
Hotel - 189 - Stowe
Sign Up Now
Ski Club 430A S.U.

Interested in Law?
The UNIVERSITY JUDICIARY is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications can be picked up in the Student Senate Office, Room 420 or the Student Attorney General's Office, Room 434 of the Student Union.
Women and Third World People are encouraged to apply

Sports

UMass' Dana Rasmussen takes down Darrow Traylor in last night's wrestling meet against BU. Rasmussen won his match 8-5. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Wrestlers tie BU on a stalling call

By DONNA SULLIVAN
Collegian Staff

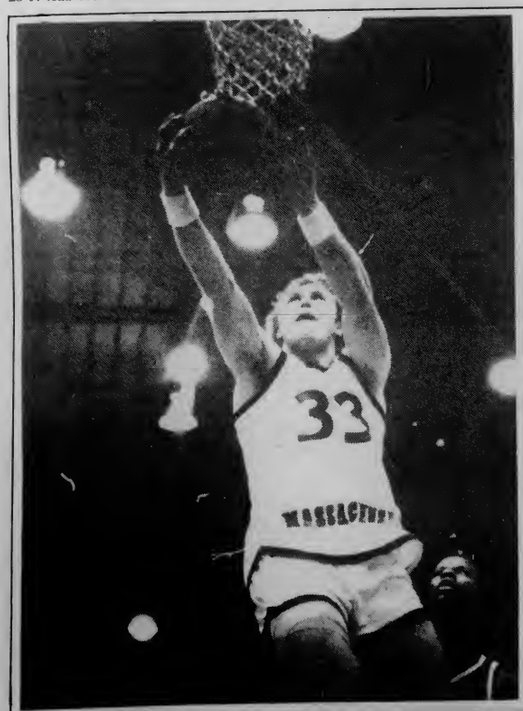
With two seconds left in the final match of the evening, Larry McCreary, Boston University's heavyweight wrestler was charged with stalling, a call that salvaged a tie for the University of Massachustts wrestlers in their season opener at Boyden last night.

With nine of ten matches completed, the Terriers had a 23-17 lead over the matmen. UMass' John Allen needed a six point pin for the Minutemen to walk away with a tie. Allen threatened throughout the match but could not quite pin McCreary. The final second stalling call, also worth six points for Mass. was as good as a pin for the final 23-23 score.

The home opener was wrestled in front of a standing-room-only crowd last night in Boyden's Auxillary gym. Five Mass. wrestlers chalked wins en route to the tie.

Kevin Murphy, wrestling in the 145 pound weight class pinned BU's Kenny Traylor with 13 seconds left in his

turn to page 11



Tom Witkos takes a shot during last year's basketball season. Co-captain Witkos and the University of Massachusetts men's hoop team will open their season Friday night at Providence College. They will be playing at home in the Curry Hicks Cage on Dec. 3 against Harvard.

(File photo by John Bunting)

A turkey day with Marvin

Kevin Cullen

Marvin almost knocked his friend over as he raced through the campus center last night.

"Wait a second, Marvin," his friend said, grabbing him by a shoulder. "What's the big rush?"

Marvin stood there, gym bag in hand, his black plastic glasses dangling off his nose. He had a Peter Pan bus ticket in the other hand and his boots were untied.

"I gotta get home. I gotta get home," Marvin said, as if repetition stressed the importance of it all.

Marvin is an accounting major. He works in the dining commons and spends most of his money on booze. Marvin's a pretty easy going guy. And he likes sports.

He loves sports.

"Why do you have to get home, Marvin?" the friend asked. "Is there anything wrong at home?"

"There sure is," Marvin said. "My little sister forgot to get me a ticket for the Thanksgiving Day game. I gotta get home. I don't have a ticket yet."

Marvin was upset and spoke very quickly.

"What's the big deal?" the friend asked. "You can pick one up before the game."

Marvin shook his head. "Can't risk it. There's no way I'm missing that game."

Marvin never missed that game. Seven months after Marvin was born, his old man dragged him off to the first Thanksgiving Day high school football game he ever saw. Marvin didn't really see it. He just cried and wet himself. But it was a beginning. For Marvin, it was a start.

"Jesus, Marvin, it's not the end of the world if you don't make the game. I mean, it's not a matter of life and death."

"No, you're wrong," Marvin said, with a pointed index finger bouncing on his friend's chest. "It is a matter of life and death. It's a way of life."

When Marvin was six years old he went to the Thanksgiving game. He was a little kid with a runny nose and a wiffle. He ran out onto the field when the game ended and went up to a player. The player was just 17 years old, but Marvin thought he was the biggest, oldest thing he ever saw in his life. The player looked down at him, through the mud caked on his face mask, then handed Marvin the chin strap from his helmet and walked away.

Marvin clutched it tightly, like some treasure, then ran all the way home.

"Marvin, you can't go tonight," the friend said. "We had plans."

Marvin was inching his way out toward the exit near the University Store as he spoke.

"Plans, plans. We all have plans," Marvin said. "All I know is that I have to get home and get two tickets."

"Two?" the friend asked. "Why two?"

"One for my buddy Ted," Marvin said, as if his friend should have known. "I go to the game with Ted every year. Ever since high school. Every year."

When Marvin was about 12 years old, the cops wouldn't let him in the high school games for free anymore, so he started hopping the fence. Marvin was a skinny kid with glasses and sometimes he got stuck at the top of the chain link fence and thought the points would go through his groin. He scraped his wrists and cut his hands a few times, but nothing serious. A few times the cops came over, so Marvin and all the rest of the kids that couldn't get in free because they were too big would go over by the train tracks and jump the fence there.

And Marvin never missed a Thanksgiving game.

"Me and Ted have the whole thing down to a routine," Marvin explained. "We get up pretty early and get to the stadium around 9 o'clock. Me and Ted still know a lot of the kids on the high school team. We know their brothers and sisters and stuff.

"Ted usually brings a pint of Southern Comfort along and we get a pretty good buzz on before the game starts. Then we go around and see all these people we know from high school and talk about old times. We even talk to people we don't like, because by halftime we're really drunk.

"After the game, me and Ted go to this bar that opens for a while after the game just for regulars. Me and Ted are regulars. We have a few more beers then go home and get yelled at by our mothers who tell us to get the hell back up to school because all we ever do when we come home is get drunk."

The friend was shaking his head in disbelief.

"Marvin, you're crazy," he said. "How can you do all that stuff on Thanksgiving?"

Marvin slung his bag over his shoulder, nearly knocking his glasses off, as he spoke.

"It's better than watching a goddam parade on TV," Marvin said over his shoulder, pushing his way out through the glass doors.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY

Collegian

Volume CX, Issue ♥ 61 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Monday, December 1, 1980

Kent State memorial destroyed at UMass

By CATHERINE CLARRY
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts police said last night they will investigate the destruction of a memorial commemorating the deaths of six Kent and Jackson State student demonstrators, which was located on the north side of the Campus pond.

Police said they are unsure when the destruction took place or if it was accidental or vandalism. Police discovered the destroyed memorial last night.

All that is left of the memorial, which stood roughly two feet high and resembled a tomb stone, is a small pile of pieces of granite. Its inscription, which read: Kent State/Jackson State 1970, is no longer visible.

The memorial was dedicated May 5, 1978 by the University's Student Mobilization Union, Students Against the Draft, and the Student Government Association at a rally held in honor of the tenth anniversary of the legendary Kent State slayings.

Student Government co-President Richard LaFlamme said last night the memorial was originally a gift to an organizer of the student strike from Kent/Jackson in 1977 by the United Native Students Association in recognition of his work for the third World student population locally and nationally. LaFlamme later donated the memorial to the UMass community. LaFlamme said.

LaFlamme said he expects the monument to be replaced by University funds, "on campus pond."

What remains of the Kent-Jackson State memorial. (Staff photo by Chris Grenet)

Instead of roaming sheep, graduate student Jay Rust spends a quiet night in the main library keeping count of students as they come and go. It's his job. (Staff photo by Chris Grenet)

The memorial will be found within the University community," LaFlamme said, "but is an important struggle so the memorial commemoration should not be forgotten easily."

Four students, one woman and three men, were killed on May 4, 1970 by the Ohio National Guardsmen while demonstrating against the invasion of the Vietnam War and the bombings in Cambodia. Five black students, both men, were killed by state police at Jackson State University on the same year, also at an anti-war demonstration.

Five hundred college campuses went on strike in 1970, opposing the Kent State killings.

Unions lobby actively in higher ed. reorg.

By STEPHEN BOKUS
Collegian Staff

[illegible]

News Analysis

[illegible]

Health Services freeze on 1978 pill

[illegible]

World and national news

Additional tremors jolt quake-stricken Italy

By ROBERT McCARTNEY
Associated Press

NAPLES, Italy—Two earth tremors yesterday jolted quake stricken southern Italy where snow and subfreezing temperatures added to the misery of thousands seeking shelter at the distant homes of friends or in government-provided hotel rooms.

The first shock, at about 3 a.m., damaged a clinic in Potenza, forcing the evacuation of patients being treated for injuries from last Sunday's first quake, which killed more than 3,000 people.

The second and stronger jolt came just before 9 a.m. Authorities said the after-shocks, among the strongest of nearly a hundred that have rumbled through the area with generally diminishing intensity, caused no deaths. But 62 year-old Giuseppe Fiorino died of a heart attack, officials said, after he rushed from his shaking house, saving two children, at Madonna del Arco near Naples.

"We're still scared, very scared," said an elderly woman who moved to her car after the pre dawn jolt.

The military command's latest casualty figures showed 2,915 people dead, 1,547 missing and 7,079 injured.

Snow, sleet and temperatures down to 23 degrees prevailed through the night. The survivors endured cold, wind and rains last week during more moderate temperatures that left them in ankle-deep mud.

Ahead of most of them was the decision of whether to become an earthquake refugee or remain in the tent camps set up on soccer fields and other open spaces in the stricken communities.

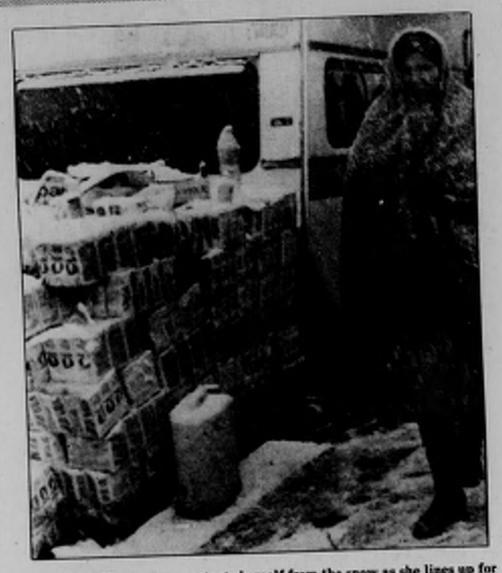
"For the old and the babies, the tents are a waiting room for death," said Dr. Vincenzo Palumbo at Calabritto.

Giuseppe Zamberletti, Italy's chief of government relief operations, ordered hotel owners along the Tyrrhenian, Ionian and Adriatic coasts to tell police how many rooms were available for survivors.

A statement from Zamberletti's office said the government would guarantee hotel owners that it would clear the quake victims out by April 30, when tourist season starts, and would pay standard rates.

Defense Minister Lelio Lagorio, a Socialist, has proposed that the government construct temporary housing for those now in crude shacks, autos, state railroad cars, and the 10- person tarp tents brought in by international relief workers. The luckier survivors received campers and mobile trailers donated by Italians and Europeans.

The military estimated there are 265,000 homeless and that shelter can be found for 170,000 of those. About 65,000 people are expected to leave for friends and family in northern Italy, Europe and the United States and 30,000, it is believed, will stick it out at home.



An unidentified woman protects herself from the snow as she lines up for emergency supplies in quake-stricken Sant'angelo Del Lombardi, Italy. (AP Laserphoto)

Digest

Associated Press

Iran battles for Iraq oil port

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Iran said its forces took Iraq's Mina al Bakr oil port yesterday in the biggest sea battle of the Persian Gulf war, but Iraq denied the Iranian victory and said it repulsed the attack.

Iran said its marine forces overran the giant Iraqi oil shipping port at the northwestern edge of the gulf and hoisted the red, white and green striped flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran "at the highest point" of a derrick at the facility.

Iraq said the Iranians were repulsed with a loss of three of their U.S.-made Phantom fighter-bombers and three war-ships in the 10 week-old war's heaviest sea clash.

Iran, also calling it the heaviest sea battle in the war, said the Iranian navy sank four Iraqi missile boats and seven other gunboats.

Holiday death toll over 400

CHICAGO — The number of deaths on the nation's highways rose to 401 yesterday, as travelers made their way home at the end of the four-day Thanksgiving holiday. By mid-evening 401 traffic fatalities had been reported since the beginning of the holiday.

Scattered rain and snow were reported over the Pacific Northwest and Plateau states during the final day of the holiday period. Snow showers were scattered throughout the East.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 500 and 600 people would die in the traffic accidents over the holiday weekend.

Congress to debate superfund

WASHINGTON—The 96th Congress will spend its final week concentrating on money bills and a proposed "superfund" to clean up toxic wastes. Lame-duck legislators may also make last-ditch pleas for pet projects before the new, more conservative 97th Congress begins in January.

The year-long battle over the so-called superfund could resume as early as today in the House with debate on a trimmed version of the bill passed by the Senate last week.

Supporters are expected to try to gain approval for the Senate version, rather than accept amendments that could sink the entire package, under a special parliamentary rule that would bar congressmen from offering amendments.

The Senate bill would create a $1.6 billion fund over five years to clean up active and inactive chemical waste dumps and toxic spills. Nearly 90 percent of the money would come from new taxes on the chemical industry.

The measure compares with the broader $4.2 billion fund originally proposed by the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee and a $1.95 billion package the House passed earlier this year.

State tries to save MBTA

BOSTON—Hoping to head off a transit shutdown that could strand 250,000 Boston commuters and sour the city's Christmas shopping season, the Massachusetts Legislature convenes in special session today.

"We feel we'll have something that will be acceptable to the Legislature," said House Majority Leader George Keverian, D-Everett, after a Saturday strategy session with Gov. Edward J. King.

The governor reportedly was ready to compromise on a bailout package including a tough "management rights" section stripping power from transit unions.

The session is the second in a month called to rescue the cash-strapped Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority. King issued the recall order Friday after the state Supreme Court ruled the governor's Nov. 18 takeover of the system was illegal.

The high court said the MBTA's trains, trolleys and buses must quit running at midnight next Friday unless more money is provided.

King took over the transit network after its annual budget of $302 million was spent and the Legislature refused to appropriate another $41 million to keep the trains rolling until the end of the year.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 331 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $33 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Interested in Law?

The UNIVERSITY JUDICIARY

is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications can be picked up in the Student Senate Office, Room 420 or the Student Attorney General's Office, Room 434 of the Student Union.

Women and Third World People are encouraged to apply

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST

NOW IN STOCK

Action Wear by Main Event
Moving Comfort
Bill Rodgers

Store Hours: Mon. 10-6 Tues. Thurs. Fri. 10-8 Wed. 12-8 Sat. 10-6
175 University Drive Amherst 253-3354

The flat cement in front of the Fine Arts Center provides an ideal spot for Bill Comeau, a senior majoring in English, to practice his skateboard technique. (Staff photo by Bill Harrold)

RSO groups band together

Editor's note: Almost 500 Recognized Student Organizations exist at the University of Massachusetts. The Collegian will run a series focusing on some of these groups over the next few weeks.

By ANNE AMOUR
Collegian Correspondent

Few organized groups would exist at the University of Massachusetts if there was no central Student Activities Office to coordinate and facilitate programs, said the office's business manager Leslie Bridges.

"Most of the smaller groups would be non-existant because they don't have the money or the support," said Bridges.

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Recognized Student Organization (RSO) groups range in size and significance. Some of the largest are the Union Program Council, the Distinguished Visitors Program, the Collegian, and the Student Senate. All dormitories, fraternities, sororities and cooperatives are RSO groups. There are also more obscure groups such as the UMass Coin Club.

Those are the ones that would be less likely to survive without the Student's Activities Office, Bridges said.

"To become a RSO group is relatively easy," said Bobby Parry, a staff employee. A RSO group needs 10 members with a certain activity or interest in mind. Together they sign a constitution. Blank constitutions are available in the office, she said.

"The group then elects four officers and chooses two persons for signature power. Usually they are the president and the treasurer," she said.

Nearly $3.4 million is handled by the Student's Activities Office which aid RSO groups on campus.

The Student's Activities Trust Fund (SATF) funds most of the organizations. Revenue and sales such as dues, student run businesses, movies and concerts make up $1.7 million of the fund. Another $1.5 million is from the Student Activities Tax, which is the $84 undergraduates pay each year. Other sources contributing to the fund are the Stockbridge Activities Fee, Summer School, and the Campus Center, Bridges said.

From the fund, $1.2 million goes out in payroll. More than half of that goes to students working in RSO groups. The rest is to full-time employees in the Student's Activities Office, legal services, housing, transportation, craft shop and such. The office receives $176,000 said Bridges.

The office, which is located in the Student Union Building, has a staff of 18 who assist all registered groups.

In the front of the office, financial transactions, business accounts, and purchase orders are handled. The benefit of the office to the groups is that they never have to handle cash, said Director David Bousquet. The office takes care of such things as telephone bills, maintenance contracts, and registration of motor vehicles, he said.

"The second half of the office works mostly like a travel agency," said Bousquet. The staff sells ideas and makes suggestions to the group's advantage. An example of this would be a movie selection and date if the group wanted to raise money.

Bousquet said groups usually know exactly what they want when they come into the office. The staff then performs all the necessary transactions involved.

"There are almost 2,000 accounts for all the registered groups," he said.

Students select teacher awards

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

This year's most distinguished teachers at the University of Massachusetts will be selected by their students instead of peers.

In the past, a 20 member committee composed mostly of faculty with a few student representatives, chose three faculty members and three student teachers to receive the annual distinguished teachers awards. But in mid-October the Provosts office, which oversaw the committee, turned over the responsibility to Graduate School Dean Samual Conti who, in turn, handed it over to the graduate and undergraduate student senates, according to Carole Counihan from the Graduate Student Senate.

"I don't know if the Provosts' office got tired of it (the awards) or what," Counihan last night. "But, its better that students choose the distinguished teachers. They (the faculty committee members) had all kinds of personal interests that had nothing to do with teaching. It turned into a popularity contest."

Counihan said the two student senates are jointly setting up two, new awards committees, one in charge of faculty awards and one in charge of student teacher awards. The faculty committee will be composed of one faculty member, two graduate students and five undergraduate students. The student teacher committee will be composed of two faculty members, two graduate students and one undergraduate student.

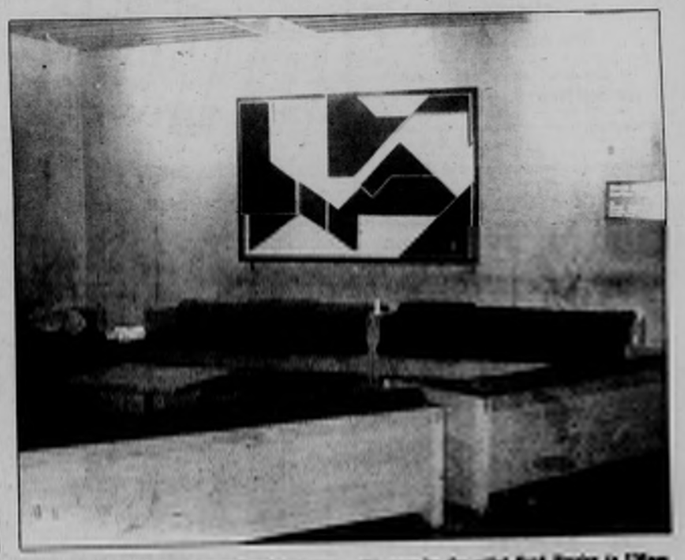
The undergraduate student representatives will be appointed by the Student Government Association president's office subject to confirmation by the senate.

Although neither committee has been established, nominations are now being accepted for the honorary awards. The deadline is December 5.

"We hope to have the nominations sorted and evaluations sent out by the end of the semester," said Peggy O'Neal, who is on the Undergraduate Student Senate Steering Committee. "We're a little behind because we didn't know about the switch (from Provosts' office to the students) until mid-October."

O'Neal said the predominately student committees would look at the nominees "differently" than the former faculty dominated committee.

"Students are looking for someone who keeps their interest, not necessarily someone is very knowledgeable in their field," she said.



This as-yet-untitled wooden wall sculpture was moved over the weekend from the Campus Center reading room to the wall across from the University Store, replacing a stolen moon sculpture.

This "wooden wonder," which was completed this year by the artist Fred Frazier is UMass Master of Fine Arts recipient, was an award honored as the preliminary design sketches in the First Annual Public Art Competition at the University in 1979. (Staff photo by Chris Greed)

Area Police Log

UM student injured in three-car accident

A three-car accident yesterday morning sent a Hamilton woman to Cooley Dickinson Hospital where she is listed in satisfactory condition.

Police said the accident occurred at the corner of College and East Pleasant Streets when two of the cars were stopped at a red light. A third car, operated by Lauri Tyszkowski, 21, of Northampton struck one of the cars, operated by John Brennan, 20, of Route Deerfield, which received extensive rear-end damage.

The other University of Massachusetts graduate student car, operated by Susan Tryder, 20, was also involved in the accident.

Tyszkowski and her passengers Carolyn LaFleur, 20, of Williamsburg and Susan Weiss, 19, of Goshen, and Deborah Varone, 19, of Hamilton, a passenger in the Brennan vehicle were taken to the Cooley Dickinson Hospital. Varone suffered contusions and the other three were treated for lacerations and released.

Tyszkowski was cited for driving to a shortage.

The UMass police spokesman said it was a very weekend on campus.

A two-car accident occured at the corner of Fearing and North Pleasant Streets at 8:30 p.m., Nov. 21.

Stella Nkaina, 22, of 40 North Prospect Haven, was operating a vehicle that was struck in the rear while stopped at a line of traffic, according to police.

Robert L. Cusick, 21, of Teaneck N.J. was cited following the rear-end collision.

Early Wednesday morning, Nov. 26, while the University Store was closed for the Thanksgiving holiday, a window was broken and a stolen moon sculpture was removed from the wall across from the store.

Police said the sculpture was valued at $400.

Seven hundred dollars worth of camera, cash, and checks were stolen from the Sigma Delta Tau sorority house early Wednesday morning according to Tau Sigma treasurer Jeanne Johnson. She said a window was pried open. The audio window was pried open.

Johnson said the items were taken from the main lobby of the house. The residents' individual rooms were not disturbed because the doors were locked, she said.

The camera and checks stolen are house property and the cash belong to house residents, Johnson said.

Four of the stolen items belong to Louise Rutkowski, 19, who estimates their value at $600.

Carla E. Lesh

live wire... goes to the movies

by Jim Moran

...THE SHORTHAND SYNDROME could be another title for Jane Fonda's new film Nine to Five, a political comedy about "real problems confronting office workers," scheduled to have its premiere in Boston December 15 at the Sack 57 cinema. The movie, which takes its title from the national organization for women office workers, co-stars Dolly Parton and Lily Tomlin.

Fonda will be on hand for the premiere and will be in attendance at a special reception benefit Nine to Five at Nick's Celebrity Room, 100 Warrenton St., Boston. The reception, followed by a press conference, begins at 6:30 p.m. and ten-dollar tickets are available by calling 423-5566.

...SEE THAT'S A PRINT — Other movies starring in the silver screen for the holiday season are Paul Gordon, due for release December 10, Star Crash, with Richard Pryor and Gene Wilder, due for release by Christmas, a new Bo Derek flick, 10 (just hinting) with Dudley Moore, also due for release at Xmas and, oh-boy, a sequel to Gene Kelly's Every Which Way But Loose, titled (you guessed it) Every Which Way But Loose. This ought to be a good one for all you sun-chair Wayne fanatics.

...MONEY FOR NOTHING — Rumor has it that Mick Jagger is set to sign week on The Little Tramp, a bio on the late, great comic actor Charlie Chaplin. The wrestling to a repeat in TV finals. It will be the first acting role for the Jagger-ster (if you don't count Ground Hog Shadow, Carburetor Blues or Justice and Conviction, The Rolling Stones). Jagger's other roles were Turner in the critically acclaimed Performance and the title character in the Nazsid-Kaz thriller, based on the life of the American outlaw. Methinks this is a perfect stunt for the 'ol boy, and remembering his agility in concert, he could do quite well at capturing the physical manifestations of the late outlaw great...

...LETS DO ANOTHER TAKE — Director Michael "The Deer Hunter" Cimino's new film, Heaven's Gate, has been sent back to the backing room due, reportedly, to the bad rages received after initial screenings in New York. We'll have to wait until February before we get a chance to see if the $36 million United Artists epic will shape up to be re-released item.

...SOME FLICKS — You can still catch the great double-bill at the Academy of Music in Northampton, Marilyn Monroe and Jack Lemmon in Some Like It Hot and Midnight Cowboy starring Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman. Both these films will show tonight and tomorrow night. At the Amherst Cinema, also through tomorrow night, are Jeanne and Gene Tierney in Paris, with Marlon Brando, the Fonz(), you can always catch the midnight showings of Rocky Horror Picture Show at Quadrangleplex at the Hampshire Mall cinemas in Hadley.

About 3,000 residents of Enfield, Ct. participate in a mock (funny) search yesterday to protest a proposal to build New England's first hazardous waste treatment facility on the town line. (UP Laserphoto)

Interested in Arts Administration?

The Fine Arts Center is now accepting applications for spring semester internships. Five full-time (12 credit) positions are available.

Interns will concentrate in one of the following areas:

1. CONCERT MANAGEMENT
(including programming and contracts)
2. PUBLICITY & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT
(including advertising and market research)
3. COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND FUNDING
4. BOX OFFICE & FRONT-OF-HOUSE
(including box office operations and ushering)
5. PRODUCTION SERVICES
(including backstage operations)

For Details, call the Internship Office at 545-0727

SOMETHING OF YOUR OWN

No woman need settle for someone else controlling her future today.

Financial independence and family protection are important for women wage earners. Your Fidelity Union Life insurance representative can help you create an affordable college plan which will meet your needs now, and grow along with your future.

Call the Fidelity Union Life Field Associate in your area.

Fidelity Union Life

Ronald J. Nathan Agency
20 Gatehouse Road
Amherst, Ma 01002
Tel. 256-8251

GIFTS

The FLOWER CART

fragrances in soaps, powders, oils and shampoos

rainbow prisms

visit the jewelry department casual wear for women & men • jewelry cosmetics • soaps (our) • accessories • gifts home furnishings • kitchen • housewares glass & china • prints • cards • totes & soft luggage

FACES

A Store-full of Ideas

gift

OPEN 'TIL 9:00

STUDENT DISCOUNT 10%

Downtown Amherst / Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

Editorial/Opinion

When old acquaintances are forgotten

The marching band sounds a little better than they used to, though they still break into that horrid Brentford High fight song the moment the great guys do something to bend its noisemaking. The players seem shorter and stockier, and many have those gawky teenage legs that appear ready to snap from the weight of their enormous shoulder pads and helmet. My favorite antigrav we'd never forget.

Mike's junior prom date wallows by, looking lovely in suede jacket and three-inch heels.

"My, she's matured well," I say.

"Let all good times run over. Remember her at the prom?"

"I seem to remember elevated friends and unforgettable shoes."

"Uh huh."

She spots Mike and offers a sorority sister wave. "Hello Angie! How's the Marine Corps?"

I turn away and try not to laugh too hard. "Angie too."

Mike is unfazed. "Oh, I just love the life," he chirps. "The low and the proud, you know? Great to see you again, dear. We must have lunch some time soon."

He grabs and nods and beams as Angie and her date disappear into the crowd. "Bet you're glad you're not in the Corps," I say.

"Hell, no. I'm a civilian now. Remember that at the prom?"

"Yeah, I remember that at the prom. Mike turns to me with an amused grin. 'I swear, if their pace got just half a beat faster she'd be a half mile from the ball before she'd be a half mile from the ball before she'd be a half mile. How the hell could I have gone out with her?"

"They say prom make very strange bedfellows."

"We never got quite that far, though Lord knows I tried. How about you? You were any of your old flames today?"

"Saw Sabata on the way in."

"Ah, Bob and Debbie. What couple most likely to split. What's she here to say?"

"She said hello, how are you? Don't you have to school? How's grad, you gonna graduate? She's good one but good luck now to see you make it more than."

"At least she didn't ask you to take lunch with her sometime."

"I joked her. I wouldn't think of anything else to say. I've always had trouble with pre-recorded conversations."

"That's what it comes to though. It has to. Remember graduation night when that whole group of us swore we'd always keep in touch...?"

"We were drunk as hell."

"We still mean it. Christ, you're the only one I've talked to in the past six months. I don't even know where half of them are or what they're doing. If they were here today, we'd probably talk about the same bullshit as you and Debra."

We sit in silence as the enemy scores the go-ahead touchdown. Mike's seventeen-year-old brother scrubs past, arm in arm with his pretty young lady, in a group of friends. Some score up at us. We smile back.

"You're not gonna tell him this, are you?" I ask.

"Come on. He wouldn't believe me if I did."

Bob Conte is a Collegian columnist.

Bob Conte

Letters

Apology from embarrassed majority

To the Editor:

I would like to extend an apology to the two HUNY women, the gentleman on crutches, the 6'4"inch(?) television crew, the UMass cheerleaders, and the UMass football team for the intolerable behavior displayed at Saturday's football game.

As a member of the marching band, I can sympathize with the conditions to which you were subjected. Nearly every member of the band was hit by at least one snowball during the course of the game. Still, we were among the fortunate who carried instruments and were heavy uniforms that served as some protection. The cheerleaders, farmers, and TV crews were not so lucky.

The sickest gesture of all was the barrage of snowballs directed at a man on crutches in the stands. What he learned to pelt an object throwing the snowballs. So was possible?

All of this was witnessed by television and radio announcers to and officials of the university, and state legislators from Boston. This immature behavior will have an effect on the university community in the future. As one legislator said, "If this is the way these kids behave, they don't deserve anything."

It is indeed unfortunate that this obscene spectacle occurred on one day that was not involved in this childish display, but who was so disgusted and embarrassed as the majority of those who witnessed it.

Linda Lawrence
Amherst

Snowballers tend to disagree

To the Editor:

We tend to disagree with your article of Nov. 24 entitled "Rioting with the snowball attack on the people at the Boston College-UMass game.

To begin with, any women who are willing to commit themselves to the frenzy, mud girl used to a little abuse. Blows will come before they are done with their service. When on the field they should receive rowdier treatment.

As far as cheerleaders go, they are definitely high-school material and should have stayed there. Being a cheerleader in college is just asking to be humiliated.

Our group takes special credit in stereotypically pelting out the administrator, who was foolish enough to perform in an obscenity. This is a classic example where the end justifies the means.

As far as we are concerned, Kevin Bannon should be taken out of the procedure and put into the field for target practice. We believe that he, not us, is a disgrace to the responsible of the school.

In conclusion, we believe that more should be made available at all future UMass sporting events. The result surely increase attendance and be an inspiration to the home teams.

Janet Welch
Brian Twomey
Jenny Wolbert
Dan Gibbin
Dawn Gibson
Jim Rogers

Angry UMass students send message to Trustees

To the Editor:

Last Wednesday, a group of angry UMass students went to Boston to protest the destruction of our university. What is being destroyed is the ability of the people of Massachusetts to attend their own public university. Every time tuition and fees go up, we realize that our state government is trying to flush out of its responsibility to ensure public higher education. We also realize that we as students will have to fight for our university and for the betterment of those who want to come here in the future.

Many students are skeptical of what we can accomplish by organizing a fightback, but the experience of the Coalition Against Tuition and Fee Increases shows us that we can win something. On Wednesday, the UMass Board of Trustees' Budget and Finance, and Student Affairs subcommittees unanimously voted down a tuition increase which had been recommended by the president of the university. They had been raising tuition yearly until the Reagan administration's pushing for more increases, but this year coupled with students they chose to mark the limit.

Although the trustees did recommend a large fee increase, it was only half of the full proposal we faced a week ago. We should take our share of credit for this, too. The Coalition has only been together for a month, but it is already proving that the many UMass students take these issues seriously and are ready to make their feelings known. The Trustees realize this and know that there will be opposition to any increase they implement. Students can remind them of this on December 8 by joining the Coalition at the full Board meeting at which the Trustees will vote on the budget and fee increases. Even if they pass it, we must insist that the $30 hours for alternative solutions, as well as lobbying for more financial aid.

In March, however, the bark will pass to the newly formed state-wide Board of Regents, which does not appear to be very friendly to our interests. It is entirely appointed by Gov. King and consists largely of corporate leaders who have never shown any interest in public higher education except as the source of part of their profits. The chairman of the Board of Regents is also head of the Massachusetts Business Roundtable, an influential organization which has long advocated cutbacks in social services, such as education. The new Board seems intent on making students shoulder a larger share of costs, while providing only educational programs which can be rationalized around the current structure of the job market. Of course students need jobs, but we also think that there is much more that goes into a worthy education.

We have to raise the issue with the entire public of what the purpose is of public higher education and whether the state is responsible for making it available for everyone.

The Board of Regents will have to formulate long-range goals for the state college system, and we must ensure the door open into the planning. So far, the Board has refused to allow any student representation. The Coalition is demanding that the current Board of Trustees publicly recommend that the incoming Board of Regents continue the policy of student representation which has been in effect for a decade. We have to continue to push to make real steps forward, especially when the impact of Proposition 2½ is felt, and the debates heat up over how to make ends meet in social service programs.

Our small success on Wednesday should encourage us to push forward. Its success in Boston can have a snowballing effect on other campuses. We have to take advantage of every opportunity to apply pressure to the university administration and state government. The Coalition seeks to bring together all students and organizations who are concerned with the quality of our education and how much we have to pay for it. Our needs are legitimate and we can make a difference.

Ben Shaw
Coalition Against Tuition and Fee Increases

Writing a letter? READ THIS!

Letters to the editor should be kept as brief as possible, and must be typed in 60-character per line, triple spaced.

All letters must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Open Sunday 9am-6pm 'til Christmas

Toys Toys Toys

SAVE 1.00 STOP & SHOP 2 lb. can Coffee

STOP & SHOP 5 lb bag Flour 49¢

FREE! STOP & SHOP Coffee Lightener

FREE! Stop & Shop Tuna

Stop & Shop

Four Pages of Savings in Our Store! Get our value-filled weekly circular when you come in!

Sirloin Steak Beef Loin Without Tenderloin 1.99 lb

Boneless Top Sirloin Steak 2.39
Porterhouse Steak Beef Loin 3.49
Strip Steak Beef Loin Bone In 3.89

Shoulder London Broil Beef Chuck 1.99 lb

Fresh Lean Ground Beef 1.89
Chuck Stewing Beef 1.99
Blade Steak Boneless 2.39

Corned Beef Brisket 1.49

Plump, White Seedless Grapefruit 27-5.99

Florida Temple Tangelos or Tangerines 8 for 1

Apples 49¢ Oranges 59¢ Bananas 39¢

Fresh Cod Fillets 2.99

Stop & Shop Cooked Sausage 1.99

Best Brand Pastrami 1.99

Extra Mild Franks 1.99

Plush Animals 1.99, 1.99, 1.99
2.99, 2.99, 2.99
3.99, 3.99, 3.99

Star Wars Figures 2.99

Apple Juice 89¢ · Potato Chips 69¢
16 oz can Peas 3 for 89¢ · Tomato Soup 5 for 1
Stewed Tomatoes 5 for 2 · Sun Glory Beverage 69¢
Yellow Cling Peaches 2 for 89¢ · Stop & Shop Tuna in Water 79¢
Whole Kernel Corn 3 for 1 · French Style Beans 3 for 1
Stop & Shop Cake Mix 59¢ · Stop & Shop Pasta 2 for 95¢
Bathroom Tissue 79¢ · Stop & Shop 2 Pack Towels 69¢
Mideast Pocket Bread 89¢ · Stop & Shop Variety Bread 59¢

Stop & Shop 67¢ · Orange 3.99
Stop & Shop 69¢ · 4 for 1
Stop & Shop 79¢ · 59¢
Stop & Shop 5 for 1 · 99¢

4 for 1 · 69¢
Stop & Shop 85¢ · 69¢
3 for 1 · 2 for 1
1.99 · 69¢
69¢ · 89¢

Prices in effect thru Sat. Dec. 6 at the Hadley, Amherst (Univ. Dr. & Rt. 9), Athol, Fall River stores. We reserve the right to limit quantities. Sorry, no rainchecks. We accept Food Stamps.

Irish guerilla hunger strike brings fear of renewed violence

Lisa Fedanzi, graduate student, looks over a bronze casting of hers at the UMass foundry. (Staff photo by Dan Swinney)

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press

LONDON—The British government is bracing for renewed sectarian violence in Northern Ireland and terrorist attacks in England this Christmas season as seven inmates start a hunger strike "to the death" by seven jailed Irish guerrillas demanding political prisoner status.

Three women, all members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army and convicted of terrorist offenses, are joining the hunger strike today from their prison at Armagh, beginning fasts of violence here and in Britain's mainland.

The men, six of them members of the IRA's "Provisional" wing and the seventh a member of the smaller Irish National Liberation Army, joined the fasts in the first day of a hunger strike at the top-security Maze prison near Belfast. The republicans, all of the men, three of them convicted killers, are expected to start becoming critical in the next few days. They have been taking liquids, but refuse food.

The Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has refused to give in to their demands that they be viewed as political prisoners engaged in a struggle to unite the Protestant-dominated British-ruled province of Northern Ireland with the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

RACO VILLA

Applications Being Accepted
by UMass Music Theater Guild
For the Production Staff of their Spring 1981 Musical Production of Jesus Christ Superstar
The completed staff positions which are open to anyone in the five College area include:

Producer · Director · Musical Director · Choreographer · Set Designer · Costume Designer · Lighting Director · Publicity Director · Stage Manager · Props Manager · Music Electrician · Master Carpenter

Anyone interested in applying for a staff position should prepare a resume of his theatre experience especially dealing with the desired position. Applicants will be contacted for an interview. For more info call: Scott Cunningham 546-9755

BILL BANSLABEN
"MAGICIAN"
"Star of the Catamaran Show"
is now doing shows, private parties & lounge.
Contact: B.J. Productions
at (413) 667-3388 (anytime)
or Ann Marquis (Jan)
at 546-7104 between 9am-5pm

The New ★★ FATS WALLER Musical Show
AIN'T ★ MISBEHAVIN'

EN·GI·NEERS

STEELY DAN
GAUCHO

List 9.98 · Sale Priced $5.99

Three Years of Waiting. Three Years of Honing, Writing, Rewriting, Production, Taping and Retaping.
The End Result is A Masterpiece of Recording

Featuring the Music Industries Best Talents
Everett Page at Maine Beck with Joe Kamen, Victor Feldman, Tom Scott, Ed Walter Brackett, Valerie Simpson, Elliot Randall, Steve Gadd, Rick Derringer and More Another of the Stars

Now Available At The Special Price of $5.99
in the Campus Center, University of Mass.
the University Store

Collegian Classifieds

CROSSWORD

Interested in a Career in Health Administration?

The Duke University Program in Health Administration is one of the nation's foremost graduate training courses leading to a Master in Health Administration (MHA).

Duke University graduates have chosen careers in hospital and clinic management, consulting, health planning, insurance, medical center administration, and numerous federal and state government agencies.

During the two-year Duke curriculum, MHA students take courses in financial and managerial accounting, quantitative methods, organizational theory, health economics, medical care systems, social dimensions of illness, health law and public policy, and field training in health institutions.

Campus interviews with a program representative will be held on Wednesday, December 3. Contact Placement Office for further information or contact Department of Health Administration, Box 3018, Durham, NC 27710, 919/684-4188.

Go Garber

No Hidden Charges
All Inclusive Prices
Includes the 15% tax and service charge

BERMUDA
FT. LAUDERDALE
BAHAMAS
MT. SNOW, VT.
WINTER PARK, COL.
ITALIAN ALPS

and much more. . .

Don't wait. Times running out. Call Campus Representatives for further information. Ask for Pam at 546-9592 or Andrea at 549-0032.

Distinguished Teaching Awards Committees Openings

Applications are now being accepted for positions on the Distinguished Teaching Awards Committee
open positions are as follows:
4 undergraduate students
to serve on the Faculty Awards Committee
1 undergraduate student
to serve on the Student Awards Committee
Committee work will consist of distribution and evaluation of surveys and ultimately choosing six award recipients. These awards will be given by each committee.
Applications are available at the SGA Co-Presidents Office in the Student Union Building.
Deadline for submission of applications is Tuesday, December 2, 1980
All undergraduate students are invited to apply.

The Distinguished Visitors' Program
in conjunction with the Labor Center Students' Caucus, with funding provided by the University Arts Council present:

SILKWOOD

A Professional One-Woman Play about the life of Karen Silkwood

Tuesday
December 2, 1980
8 P.M.
Student Union Ballroom
Free for Students Faculty & UMass Staff

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Do you know the seven signs of a

BRAKEDOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!

SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight Muffler
$19.95
installed

MacPherson STRUTS
~~$119.95~~
$99.95
FOR MOST SMALLER CARS

586-4840 MIDAS 143 King St., Northampton

Hypercurricula . . .

Mon., Dec. 1

YOUNG SOCIALIST ALLIANCE will hold an introductory class on "Feminism and Socialism," C.C. 901 at 8 p.m. This is mainly a question and answer session.

HUNGER TASK FORCE meeting, 4:30-5:30, in S.U. 428. Open to anyone interested in helping to solve the problems of World Hunger.

[illegible] MEETING at [illegible] office, S.U. 908, 4 p.m.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM general informational meeting for students interested in [illegible]. Memorial Hall lounge, 6 p.m. The National Student Exchange coordinator will be available to answer questions.

SPECTRUM—There will be an editorial meeting at 4 in the office.

Tues., Dec. 2

HUMAN SEXUALITY AND THE BIBLE, 8:00 p.m. in the Western Area Office, First Congregational Church in Amherst. Led by Chaplain Pete Gathje. If you plan to attend call C.F. 545-2361.

LATKE BAKING in celebration of the First Night of Chanukah, 6:30 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge, S.U., Chanukah Candlelighting and Coffeehouse with music, dance and readings, 7:30 in the Cape Cod Lounge. Free and open to all.

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL meeting, Dukes Room, S.U. 310, 6:30 p.m.

SPECTRUM—There will be a poetry staff meeting at 5. Staff members must be prepared to stay for an hour or so.

PIE PICNIC MEETING, at 7 p.m., in C.C. 911. Everyone will be there operating as various centers of financial aid. All are welcome.

CAREER WORKSHOP, the Student Development and Counseling Center is offering a career planning workshop on Psychological Testing Services, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Tobin 304. Information provided will assist career opportunities, general career trends, useful ideas for career planning and a description of career information and career counseling available. For more information contact the Student Development and Counseling Center (545-2337).

ONE WOMAN PERFORMANCE about the Life of Karen Silkwood, sponsored by Distinguished Visitors Program, 8 p.m., Student Union Ballroom, free admission.

SQUARE DANCING sponsored by The Heymakers, 8 p.m., Commonwealth Room, S.U., free admission.

UNDERGRADUATE BUSINESS CLUB meeting—in SBA room 1, 8 p.m. All members please attend. Due to the last meeting of the semester and several important announcements.

THE U.S. AND EL SALVADOR: LAND REFORM AND U.S. MILITARY POLICY—a discussion presented by Commuter Collective La Causa. The American Friend Service Committee, Students Against the Draft and the Latin American Solidarity Committee, 7 p.m. in C.C. 101. Two speakers from Washington D.C. will speak on the Land Reform in El Salvador. For more information call Laurie Kleinmann at 586-1597 or Paul Busch at 253-5883.

Wed., Dec. 3

THE UMASS UNDERGRADUATE BUSINESS CLUB will be holding a party for all members and all those interested in joining from 8:30-12:30 at Farley Lodge.

ISRAELI DANCING in the Commonwealth Room, S.U. 7:30 beginners, 8:30 advanced in Dukes Room 310 S.U.

SPECTRUM—There will be a news staff meeting at 5.

THE REPRESENTATIONAL ARTS IN THE GERMAN DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC—lecture by Prof. Berthing, C.C. 170, 8 p.m.

SPECTRUM—There will be a meeting of the art and photography staffs, 5:15 in the office, C.C. 104.

FILM: Up in Smoke, sponsored by Coolidge Upper, 7, 9, 11 p.m. Mahar Aud., $1.25 admission.

More notices will be run throughout the week.

Learn to Drive a Bus

Five College Transportation will sponsor a 3 week training program during January intersession for those interested in gaining a Class II Bus Drivers License.
For more information and an interview appointment – call the Transportation Office 256-8165
Deadline for applications is Dec. 10, 1980.

Paid Positions at the

Collegian

• Assistant Managing Editors • Copy Editors • Layout Technicians •
Experience helpful,
enthusiasm necessary.
Apply before DEC 9
to Fran Basche at the Collegian
for next semester

The Collegian is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

The 6th Annual Shopper Guide is coming. Call the Collegian Advertising Dept. for details. 545-3500

Hartford Ballet
Michael Uthoff, Artistic Director, presents

THE NUTCRACKER

A magical new production of the classic holiday dance spectacular

Tuesday, December 2, 8 pm Wednesday, December 3, 8 pm
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
UMASS, Amherst

TICKETS: $6.50, $7.50 and $8.50, available at the Fine Arts Center box office. DISCOUNTS: $2 UMASS Students, $1 Senior Citizens. For phone reservations and group sales call 545-2511.

HURRY! Two Performances ONLY!

Dec. 5 & 6 The rusty nail NRBQ

Dec. 12 & 13 THE AVERAGE WHITE BAND

Sports

Season opener spoiled

Friars frusrate hoopmen, 56-43

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

PROVIDENCE, RI — This was supposedly the Thanksgiving weekend. But, besides having a nice family, the University of Massachusetts' basketball coach Ray Wilson has to be wondering what he has to be thankful for. Wilson and his team came to the Providence Civic Center Saturday night, minus leading scorer Dan Wright, for their first game of the season. They left with a 56-43 loss to Providence College, the beginning of what could be yet another frustrating winter for UMass basketball.

Wright broke his ankle, ironically enough in practice on Thanksgiving day when he came down with a rebound on center Jim Mosier's foot. Wright will be out until at least January.

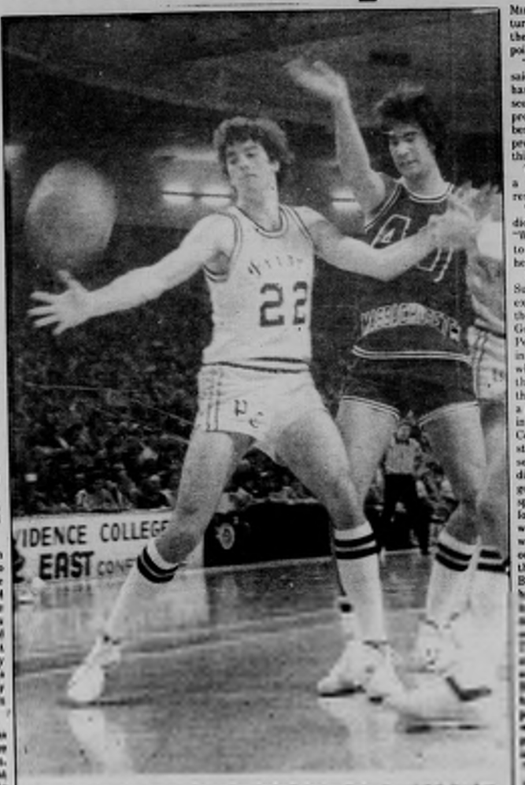
But actually, Wright's presence would not have made that much of a difference in this non league game which was showcase of early season sloppy play — as evidenced by 54 turnovers. Providence itself playing without its best player, Rudy Williams, who sidelined academically, although a weak team in the powerful Big East League, is a better squad than the Minutemen and proved it with a disciplined, aggressive zone defense and a full-court press which frustrated UMass to no end.

"I thought we handled the zone pretty well," said Wilson, whose team shot just 33 percent from the floor. "We just didn't attack offensively. I still think we're a better shooting team than we showed tonight."

Wilson could derive some comfort from the play of freshmen Edwin Green, who lead UMass with eight points and five rebounds, and Craig Smith who, in just 14 minutes of play, hit both jumpshots he attempted and two free throws for six points. What Wilson could not be pleased with was the play of Mosier. In a less that than auspicious debut, Mosier got into early foul trouble and contributed just two points and three rebounds and threw the ball away five times before fouling out six minutes into the second half.

Providence jumped out to a 6-0 lead as UMass didn't get off a shot against the Friars' zone for nearly three minutes. Green hit a 10 foot turnaround for the first Minuteman basket of the season 4:20 into the game, and UMass closed the gap to 8-6 after a Tom Wilcox jumper and a Connie Nappier follow up. But that was as close as UMass would ever get.

PC playmaker Jon Finnegan dished off to Jonny Scott and freshman Chris Sharpe at the two combined with game high scorer Herb Harper (22 points, 12 rebounds) for 20 of their team's 31 first half points. UMass, meanwhile was being outrebounded 23-16 in the half and could not penetrate the awakened by just one trip to the free throw line as the Friars pressed after basketsand took a 31-16 halftime lead.



Center Jim Mosier (40) fights for the ball during Saturday night's basketball game at the Providence Civic Center. UMass lost to Providence College 56-43. (Staff photo by Tarei Bellefleur)

Minutemen used the press, induced some turnovers and held the Friars scoreless for the last 4:26 of the game. So what was a 20 point game became a 13 point game.

"I empathize with Ray (Wilson)," Walters said. "He's coming off a tough season and has to play his first game without his best scorer. But we're concerned with our own problems, too. We're playing without our best scorer and I'm just not happy with our precision on offense. Scoring points with this team is like pulling teeth."

The Friars pulled enough teeth to throw a shadow around the prospects of a respectable UMass basketball season.

"This was our first game, and we just didn't know what to expect," Wilson said. "We've got to be more aggressive, baseline to baseline." A few more baskets would help, too.

NOTEBOOK: Former UMass standout Sue Peters, score four points in an exhibition game played in Salem between the New Orleans Pride and the New Jersey Gems of the Women's Basketball League. Peters, who was the all time leading scorer in UMass history, went in for running layup which put New Orleans up 42-40 in a game they went on to win 97-84. Peters, who is the first female athlete from UMass to play a professional sport added two free throws in a game played before 1700 at Salem State College.... Everyone is wondering how the story on Wright's injury hit the wire services. UMass sports information director Howie Davis doesn't know how it got out, nor does Wilson. Springfield Union sport writer Jerry Radding called UMass for more details on the story after seeing a wire service piece, and Davis was left to wonder aloud how the news got out...Wilson was particularly pleased with the play of Smith and freshman guard Bill Bayno. Bayno, showed some poise and ballhandling to go along with six points...The son of Wright makes the UMass height deficiency even worse. Wright, at 6'7", was one of just four players (Mosier, Green, and Tyrone Whitehead) over 6'6 ...UMass outrebounded PC 27-23 in the second half...Not only were the Minutemen cold from the floor, the free throw line was frosty. UMass hit just nine of 20 free throws for a 45 percent average...St. Bonaventure's all-world forward Bob Lanier bumped by 25 points against ASU Saturday night. Schuler and the Bonnies face UMass this Saturday.

Providence picked up where they left off and built a 39-16 lead after two-field-goal by Harper. The 6'8 star had scored around 20 points for most of the half until Providence coach Gary Walters threw in his subs. The 49ers on top of Pats, 21-17

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—The San Francisco 49ers made six pass interceptions, including two by cornerback Ricky Churchman to set up touchdowns and one by linebacker Keena Turner which killed New England's final threat, and upset the Patriots 21-17 yesterday.

The 49ers, who ended an 8-game National Football League losing streak a week earlier by shutting out the New York Giants 10-0, took a tight reward with the six interceptions of New England's Steve Grogan. San Francisco appeared to break it in the first half, getting only a 42-yard field goal by John Smith.

But Grogan connected with Stanley Morgan on a 75-yard completion late in the third quarter to set up 2-yard touchdown run by fullback Mike Haight. After the Patriots' Tim Fox intercepted a pass by Steve Ewbank, who filled in briefly for Montana, Tatupu made a 1-yard scoring run in the first minute of the final quarter.

New England Patriots back Mosi Tatupu tackles James Owens of the San Francisco 49ers in the football game played yesterday at Candlestick Park in San Francisco. The 49ers defeated the Patriots 21-17 (AP Laserphoto)

Troops line Jordan, Syria borders as tensions mount

By LOUIS FARES
Associated Press

DAMASCUS, Syria—Fears of a second war in the Middle East heightened yesterday on reports that Syria has 50,000 troops and 1,200 tanks on Jordan's border. Jordan moved up tanks and troops and said it would not shoot first but would defend the country against attack.

A top Soviet official was in Damascus to ratify a Syrian-Soviet treaty and the United States considered a Jordanian request for arms.

Tension between the Arab neighbors result from conflicting positions on the Iran-Iraq war and Syrian charges that Jordan supports Islamic fundamentalists trying to overthrow the Syrian government.

Conflict chances are better than 50-50

In Washington, the Carter administration was considering a shipment of military spare parts and ammunition to Jordan and one U.S. official rated the chances of a conflict at better than 50-50.

Jordan sent lists of arms and spare parts it wants from the United States and a decision may come soon on the requests.

Informed sources said Syria had 50,000 troops and 1,200 tanks on the border, with three divisions massed along the stretch that commands the main highway linking Jordan and Syria. The initial buildup of 25,000 men and 600 tanks began on Nov. 22, the sources said.

Jordan will not shoot first

Prime Minister Mudar Badran of Jordan told the parliament in Amman: "We shall not shoot first, but we shall defend our country against whatever attack or whichever enemy."

Saudi Arabia attempted mediation and U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim urged restraint in the confrontation that has arisen between Jordan and Syria following outbreak of the Iran-Iraq war on Sept. 22.

Jordan, whose King Hussein is considered among the most trusted Arab allies of the United States, said it would turn Jordan into a "flaming inferno to burn every aggressor." Jordan strengthened its forces on the border to counter the Syrian deployment.

Situation is dangerous

At Ramtha, the Jordanian border crossing post, a young Jordanian colonel told AP reporter Alex Efty yesterday, "the situation is very dangerous and anything might happen any minute." He said thousands of troops were massed on both sides of the border and "fighting may break out by accident in a situation like this."

Staff photo by Tamara Bellefle

Professors to keep grades from Whitmore

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

In order to speed up progress in contract negotiations, University of Massachusetts professors say they will issue full semester grades only to students, withholding the information from the administration.

According to a statement passed yesterday by the Ad Hoc Faculty-Administration Action Committee, the professors plan to release grades directly to students in "bypass the mismanagement of the administration."

The professors have been working without a contract since July 1 when their old pact expired. Recent negotiations have failed to produce an agreement and the professors have charged the University with being "either unwilling or unable to engage in effective negotiations with the faculty and librarians," according to yesterday's statement.

Key issues listed by the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the faculty union, include protections against layoffs, participation in University decision-making, and an increase in salaries.

According to the professors' statement, faculty members expressed "future grading" as their preference as a course of action in a recent poll. In addition, the professors also plan informational picketing and a one day cancellation on the contract issue. The faculty overwhelmingly voted against staging a sick out or a strike, sources said. Mixed grading was used two years ago, during the last contract negotiations, and was successful in forcing a settlement, a faculty member said.

While it is unclear how the future grading will affect students, Student Government Association Ombudsman Richard LaVoie said the SGA would probably support the action if certain provisions are made.

"We probably won't oppose it," LaVoie said. "If students are trying to graduate and can't get their grades, that can be a problem. We'll have to talk to the professors. They've let me realize that there are students who need transcripts and that could be an area of potential conflict."

MSP officials could not be reached for comment last night.

Chanukah illuminates Jewish heritage

By DIANE BUSSIA
Collegian Correspondent

The traditional Jewish holiday Chanukah begins tonight with the lighting of the first of eight candles which symbolizes the lighting of darkness with hope.

Chanukah is an eight day festival that takes place on the 25th day of the month of Kislev on the Hebrew calendar. It represents the darkest time of the year, said Rabbi Saul Berkowitz, advisor of Hillel, a Jewish students group at the University of Massachusetts.

Persecution and the traditional tale of Chanukah started when the Jews were fighting for freedom to worship and act as they pleased against the Seleucids headed by Antiochus in the year 168 before the common era.

Antiochus forbade the Jews from practicing their religion by desecrating their temples and destroying any article that was unique to Judaism, Berkowitz said. The Jews revolted against Antiochus' actions and after a long, bitter struggle, they won their battle to save their beliefs, said Berkowitz.

"The story of Chanukah also explains the celebration of the rededication of the temple and of the Jewish people. The Jews' struggle over Antiochus made it possible for them to rebuild and practice their religion the way they wanted, Perlmutter said.

During the rebuilding of their religion, it was necessary to rekindle the "eternal light" that had been put out by Antiochus. The specially prepared oil needed to relight the flame had been destroyed by Antiochus all but one days worth.

The late "Miracle of Miracles," is the story of how the little bit of oil burned for eight days, when it should have died out after one. The Jews had faith in the oil and decided to light it and eventually it made it's way.

Perlmutter said the keen contrast of the festival of lights and the victory against religious oppression on Chanukah, but they also celebrate the miracle of the oil burning for eight days.

Today, the lighting of the Menorah is the most common way Jews celebrate Chanukah. The Menorah is a candlestick holder that has places for eight candles and one helper candle called the shamas. A Candle is lit on every night of Chanukah until all eight candles are burned. Traditional prayers and hymns accompany the lighting of the candles, Perlmutter said.

Other traditions include the eating of potato latkes, which are potato pancakes fried in oil. Dreidle, a game of chance, is played by Jewish children at this time. The dreidle has four sides to it, each side containing a Hebrew letter. The letters spell "a great miracle happened there" and the children start spinning saying as it spins around.

UMass offers many opportunities for Jewish students to get involved with the festivities of Chanukah.

Tonight, there will be latkes making and here to page 9

World and national news

Earthquake aftershocks force evacuation of volatile Pompeii

By ROBERT McCARTNEY
Associated Press

NAPLES, Italy—Damage from new quake aftershocks yesterday forced the closure of southern Italy's famed Pompeii archeological site. Thousands living in the modern ruins of their quake-devasted towns were evacuated, many weeping in anger and sorrow, to hotels.

To keep warm, earthquake victims in Calabritto set fire to piles of donated clothes which poured into the disaster area.

The Nov. 23 quake that killed some 3,000 people dealt a serious blow to Pompeii, the bustling Roman city buried by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in A.D. 79. It was the first natural disaster to strike the ancient city since it was excavated in the 18th century.

Tremors yesterday prompted Prof. Fausto Zevi, superintendent of archeology in Naples, to order the site closed to the public indefinitely. Zevi said new cracks appeared in hundreds of buildings and monuments, weakened the foundations of others and undid earlier repairs in columns in the forum. Major damage was reported to Via dell'Abbondanza, the Stabian Baths and near the Lupanare brothel.

Although the government said nobody was being forced to move from the worst-hit towns, many evacuees vented their frustration and anger at the relief officials who showed up with convoys of buses.

While some screamed and shouted insults, others asked officials about job prospects and schools in towns where they were headed.

The freezing weather, after days of icy wind, rain and snow, sparked complaints from residents in tent camps. Health officials said the weather, while helping them contain the threat of epidemic disease, is causing pneumonia, bronchitis and other respiratory ailments.

In Washington, President Carter called this the worst natural disaster to strike Western Europe in half a century and urged Congress swiftly to appropriate as much as $50 million to relieve the "incalculable suffering" of the earthquake victims. The House Foreign Affairs Committee passed the bill quickly, signaling an absence of opposition.

Heavy snow fell yesterday in Sant Angelo dei Lombardi, Italy where an elderly woman carries a bag of clothes to a tent camp set up for earthquake victims. (AP Laserphoto)

High Court to decide on drafting women

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court said yesterday it will decide whether any U.S. military draft, or draft registration, must include women.

In a case likely to become the most closely watched controversy now before the high court, the justices will decide whether a male-only draft unlawfully discriminates against men.

Historically, young American men have been required to register for possible military service and to serve. Young women face no such obligations.

A three-judge federal court panel in Philadelphia last July struck down the system, citing unconstitutional sex bias.

If the Supreme Court were to uphold that ruling, Congress would have to amend the Military Selective Service Act to include women as potential draftees.

Despite the lower court's ruling, some 4 million men were required to register for the draft last July. If registration and the draft are ruled unconstitutional, the goverment might have to destroy all records of that registration.

There has been no military draft since 1973. Even if the male-only registration is upheld, Congress still would have to pass a new law before callups could be resumed.

While arguments before the Supreme Court likely will be limited to the validity of draft registration, the three-judge panel's decision struck down the entire Military Selective Service Act, which includes induction as well as registration.

The case does not involve the separate policy of not assigning female enlistees to combat duty.

The court's eventual decision will not be announced until next May or June. Oral arguments probably will be held sometime in March.

The legal challenge that led to the July 18 ruling was filed in 1971 by three Pennsylvania men as a protest to the Vietnam war. It had gone unnoticed in the federal courts for years but was revived last December when President Carter reinstituted draft registration in the wake of the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan.

Young soldiers march in El Salvador

Young guerillas make their way down a trail in an undisclosed area of El Salvador recently, carrying automatic rifles. Meanwhile, in San Salvador yesterday, leftist guerillas warned they would avenge the murders of six of their political leaders. (AP Laserphoto)

Digest

Associated Press

Reagan's advisers hush foreign policy

WASHINGTON—The incoming Reagan administration is discouraging its foreign affairs advisers from talking to reporters and foreign officials in an effort to stop a flow of news stories that have touched off at least one international incident over the policies the new president may pursue.

President-elect Ronald Reagan's chief foreign policy adviser, Richard V. Allen, said in a strongly worded memorandum to about 120 temporary advisers that they should consider postponing meetings with reporters and foreign visitors because of "the distortions that might result from your conversation."

The memo was dated Nov. 29, the day The New York Times reported that some Reagan advisers on Latin America assured a group of business representatives from El Salvador that the new administration will increase military aid, including combat equipment, to the U.S.-backed ruling junta there in its fight against leftist guerrillas.

Yesterday, another Reagan foreign policy adviser was denounced by China for statements about Taiwan that the Chinese said "crudely interfered" in their domestic affairs.

Israeli official indicted for taking bribes

TEL AVIV, Israel—Attorney General Yitzhak Zamir announced yesterday that he would indict Israel's minister of religious affairs, Aharon Abu Hatzeira, on charges of taking bribes.

Abu Hatzeira, 42, would be the first Israeli Cabinet minister ever to face criminal charges.

Zamir's announcement at a news conference in Jerusalem climaxed months of police investigation of alleged abuses in the funding of Jewish religious institutions by Abu-Hatzeira's office.

The scandal has rocked the religious establishment. While it is a severe blow to the prestige of the Israeli Cabinet, some observers said it is unlikely to weaken Prime Minister Menachem Begin politically, and may even strengthen his government.

Abu Hatzeira is a key figure in the National Religious Party, Begin's main coalition partner, which until recently was pressuring Begin to call early elections on economic policy. The NRP has dropped that demand since the Abu Hatzeira affair surfaced, clearly fearing the scandal would cost its votes.

'Last Call' comes later in N.H.

CONCORD, N.H.—"Last call" in New Hampshire bars and restaurants will come 15 minutes later starting Dec. 21 after unanimous approval yesterday by the state Liquor Commission.

Places where drinks are consumed will be allowed to serve liquor until 1 a.m., 15 minutes later than the current 12:45 p.m. Monday through Saturday and an hour and 15 minutes later than current Sundays.

On Sundays, bars will be allowed to open at 9 a.m. instead of the current 11 a.m. Opening hours during the week remain at 6 a.m.

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

NOEL

The Shopper Guide deadline is Dec. 3rd. Call now for space reservations at 545-3500.

Market offers ambiance, food to those who seek a change

Editor's note: The following article is a part of a series on recognized student organizations which will appear in the Collegian over the next couple of weeks.

By CATHY CEBULSKI
Collegian Correspondent

If preservatives and additives are really getting to you, and the impersonal atmosphere of the supermarket is too overpowering, why not try out the People's Market on the third floor of the Student Union building?

"It's for people, not for profit," states the sign above the door of the market.

The principle goal of the People's Market is to provide good, inexpensive food to the entire community at the University of Massachusetts, said employee Donna Blair.

The People's Market is run as a non-profit business. A Recognized Student Organization and a worker collective, the market is managed and staffed by 18 UMass students. They hold meetings on Monday evenings where they discuss everything from policy and procedure, to new products, nutrition, and political awareness, said Blaire.

One objective of the People's Market is to serve as a resource for community education. The market advocates that "people can control their own lives, and in the way which they obtain life's necessities—through cooperation," Blair said.

"There is a lot of cooperation and commitment among everyone here," Blair said.

Any money made by the market is used to cover expenses and the salaries of the workers, who receive minimum wage, Blair said.

The food which stocks the market is purchased wholesale by supporting local vendors. Western Mass. Coop, a major supplier of the market's food, distributes information on basic nutrition and health issues, which the People's Market displays for the college community.

"We try to educate the community, as well as ourselves on environmental issues, nutrition, racism, and also increase our awareness about economic democracy and Third World issues," said employee Karen Wells.

Since 1971, the People's Market has been developing an education committee which would sponsor a forum that deals with these issues.

"We also actively support boycotts by not purchasing food which is currently being boycotted," Wells said.

Blair said that in the past, people were more interested in finding out nutrition and health related topics. "Now, people seem so much busier. They just don't want to take the time for it anymore. It's a shame," said Blair.

Another aim of the People's Market is to foster a "renewed" interest in political awareness of these topics.

Mary Potts is one of the many students who drops by Peoples Market between classes to pick up a snack. (Staff photo by Robin Manoogian)

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Mushrooms germinate amidst decay

Beryl Bouchard, research assistant to Dr. Haim Gunner, shows the size of the mushroom growing from the floor in Marshall Hall, nicknamed "Fanny Fungus" by students, by holding a ruler next to it. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

By KATHLEEN HOWLEY
Collegian Staff

A clump of mushrooms identified as a species of the pleurotus genus, which is usually found on trees, has been growing for over a week on the floor of room 150, a soil microbiology lab, in Marshall Hall.

Professor Haim Gunner of the department of Environmental Sciences said the mushroom spores were probably brought into the lab three years ago on plywood which was used to repair the floor. He said a leak in the ceiling of the lab has caused the mushroom to germinate and a nearby wall to "literally crumble." Marshall Hall is over 60 years old, according to sources at Goodell Library.

"We have to conduct classes under intolerable conditions," Gunner said. "This is a microbiology lab where conditions are supposed to be antiseptic."

Sue Leschina, a research assistant for Gunner, said, "Students just walk around the mushroom."

"We decided to leave it there," she said, "because its a novelty."

According to Leschina a clump of mushrooms also grew on the floor last fall. She said the mushrooms cause the presence of fungal spores in the air, affecting laboratory conditions.

Edward Simson, an architectural planner for the Planning Office, said $2 million has been appropriated for the renovation of Marshall Hall. He said a designer would be selected sometime next fall and construction would be started a year from next September.

The designer will be selected by the Bureau of Building Construction, a state agency in Boston which oversees buildings constructed with state funds.

George Norton, director of the Physical Plant, said a study was completed three years ago which estimated $17 million is needed for the modernization of campus buildings. The Massachusetts Lesislature appropriated $3 million last year in addition to the $2 million appropriated for the work on Marshall Hall.

"We attempt to maintain campus buildings within our present budget," he said, "but we can't get involved in major renovations."

According to Simson, the renovation of Marshall Hall is the first step in an ongoing series of renovations to older buildings in the College of Food and Natural Resources. He said Fernald and Wilder Halls were planned to be renovated next, with possibly French and Clark Halls following.

Judge's conduct questioned: investigation will follow

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge who freed without bail a woman accused of killing her child and then invited her home for the night was criticized yesterday by Mayor Edward I. Koch for "stupid...inappropriate" action.

But Nicholas Coffinas, chief judge of the Criminal Court, while declining to comment on the controversy, praised Criminal Court Judge Alan Friess for his "excellent judicial temperament and integrity." He called Friess "extremely industrious, fair, tolerant, and very mindful of the responsibility of his office."

Coffinas said he would not comment further because Friess "has requested that the Commission on Judicial Conduct look into this matter."

The commission may mete out punishment ranging from admonition to removal if it finds misconduct. A decision on whether to investigate Friess probably won't come before its regular meeting Dec. 17, said Raymond Hack, the deputy administrator.

Koch, who appointed Friess to the bench last year, declared: "I think what he did was stupid...It's inapropriate for a judge to take a defendant home with him, no matter what the sex of the defendant."

Speaking briefly outside his home late Sunday night, Friess said: "It doesn't pay to be a nice guy." He said his girlfriend also was at the house and nothing happened between him and the defendant.

The Brooklyn district attorney's office announced yesterday that a grand jury has returned a murder indictment against the woman, Elisia Fominas, 24, and Anatolia Fominias, 32, her fourth husband, whom she reportedly met last summer by answering a classified ad for a mate.

This unidentified student put the unusually warm December weather to use by relaxing with the newspaper on the grass outside of Boyden Gym. (Staff photo by Dan Drollette)

Students to fund replacement of monument

By CATHERINE CLABBY
Collegian Staff

Funds have been donated by the Student Activities Office to replace the recently destroyed Kent State/Jackson State memorial it was announced yesterday.

David Bousquet, acting director of the Student Activities Office, said he will donate $250 to replace the memorial which was dedicated last May to six students who lost their lives during anti-war demonstrations in 1970.

"Let's strike when the time is hot," Bousquet said. "It is important for people to remember the changes that took place during the Vietnam War."

University police said last night the destruction of the monument is still under investigation.

Student Government Association co-President Richard LaVoice said yesterday he expects the monument will be replaced next semester and will not be put in the same location, on the north side of the Campus pond, as was the destroyed one.

"Near the pine trees by the pond may be a good idea," LaVoice said.

Segun Eubanks, a student senator from the Third World caucus, agreed yesterday to chair a committee to replace and rededicate the monument.

Eubanks said there is a relationship between the struggles of student activists in the sixties and seventies and "struggles within the Third World community today."

"Students have always led struggles in the Third World," he said.

The original tomb-stone shaped monument was dedicated May 5, 1980 in honor of four students who were killed at Ohio State University by the National Guard and two students killed at Jackson State University by state police. It was donated to the University by ex-Speaker of the Student Senate Brian DeLima.

Area Police Log

Theft and vandalism reported over quiet Thanksgiving break

The University police department had a slow Thanksgiving and weekend on campus, with only five reported crimes since Wednesday, Nov. 26.

In Kennedy Dormitory a black and white television set valued at about $50 and a chair were stolen from a student's room. Police are investigating the matter.

Two clock radios were reported stolen Sunday from Pierpont Dormitory in Southwest Residential Area, police said. One of the radios was valued at $100 while the other was valued at $50, police said. The case is under investigation, police said.

Across campus in Parking lot 65 located near the Graduate Research Towers a car was reported Sunday as vandalized. A 1964 Chevrolet was found with its newly redone car doors dented, resulting in about $200 worth of damage.

John McDonald, an employee of the University was arrested Wednesday. McDonald, 29, was served a default warrant from Leominster District Court. Police did not say for what crime the default warrant was issued.

—SAMUEL CHALFEN

Link suggested in Amherst thefts: Police to investigate possibility

Two Amherst residences broken into this weekend had more than $7,000 worth of silver stolen, Amherst police chief Donald Maia said. A Bay Road residence was apparently ransacked Friday afternoon Maia said. Several silver dishes, savings bonds, cash and jewelry were reported stolen. Maia said the value of the articles has not yet been determined.

Second hand merchants in the Amherst area have been told to keep a lookout for the stolen silver Maia said.

The following day a residence on Pomeroy Lane reported to police a theft of $5,000 worth of silver. A trophy, a 12 piece place setting and a camera valued at $1,000 were reported stolen, Maia said. He said there might be a connection between the two incidents.

The incidents are under investigation.

In an unrelated incident, a 1967 Ford Fairlane was reported stolen Sunday at 6:27 p.m. from a parking spot on University Drive near Genovese Drug. Maia said it was recovered in Springfield at 9:10 p.m. One of the alleged thieves was arrested by Springfield police while stripping the car Maia said.

In an unrelated incident, a two car accident occured in Plumbley's parking lot Saturday night. A vehicle driven by Gregory Ammons, 21, of Northampton, backed into a vehicle owned by Robert Lisciotti of Sunderland as it was leaving the lot Maia said.

A witness gave police a description of the vehicle and the car was located outside the Pub. Ammons was cited for leaving the scene of an accident, Maia said.

In other business Amherst police said from Dec. 1 to April 1, overnight parking on Amherst town streets is prohibited. Overnight parking is allowed in the Amity and Pray Streets parking lots.

—CARLA LESH

Late-afternoon shadows fall across the steps leading up to the Campus Center Terrace. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

READ
THE
COLLEGIAN

Collegian

Today's paper was brought to you by:

Andrea Atkins	Assistant Managing Editor
Abbe Bjorklund	Layout Technician
Sarah Schultz	Copy Editor
Nancy Nutile	Head Darkroom Technician
Jay Brightman	Ad Layout
Composing Room	Janet Milstein, Pam Dissinger

Edie Eppich, Donna Sullivan, Danny Guidera, Bob Carr

Learn to Drive a Bus

Five College Transportation will sponsor a 3 week training program during January interterm for those interested in getting a Class II Bus Drivers License.

For more information and an interview appointment - call the Transportation Office (256-8310)

Deadline for applications is Dec. 12, 1980.

DELANO'S

TONIGHT
Tues. Dec. 2
From Connecticut
MIKE BEAUDOIN
9 P.M. $1 cover

HAPPY HOUR
9-11 P.M.
75c Rail Drinks
2 for 1 Drafts

57 No. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

NOW AT
Time Out

2 TV's
37 N. Pleasant
256-0471
Beer, Free Popcorn,
Something New
Lunch served daily 11-2

Do you dream . . .

of sailing on a tall ship?
of studying whales?
of making a significant scientific contribution?

Join us. That's what we do.

Two ways you can participate:

Be a student:
Do your own discovering; sail and work with us.

Be a member:
Hear our news firsthand, before publication.

For details on changing the face of your world, contact,

Ocean Research and Education Society
Department CN
64 Commercial Wharf
Boston, MA 02110
(617) 523-3454/5

Editorial/Opinion

So many goodbyes in life

A man picked his way over stuble at a forest clearing, and as he went along, a November afternoon sun felt warm on his back. Dark clouds ran hard overhead, but there were not enough of them so as to obscure the sun fully, that came down in blotches, and formed patches in the field.

The man stopped his feet there. He stood silent for a moment. His hair was greying. He was 52 years old. He was a father to the last drop of blood in him. And he was reticent, to boot.

David Cole

His last, and now only child (because of a trick time plays) had been following just behind; they accidently bumped shoulders.

At that moment their eyes met, and held firm. Then both father and child looked down, as if there was something impressive about boot tops. After another moment: "Where are you going after you graduate?" The father looked up at his child again, and smiled. "Your mother and I hope you'll be with us for a while. We haven't seen enough of you, ya' know."

"I know you haven't." The child looked at his father, and smiled back. He wasn't much of a child.

"Well, you'll be back with us, won't you?"

"I don't think I will. I want to go to San Francisco, and I've already made some plans."

"Oh, well then," somewhat sadder. "But then you'll be with us a little while, to make arrangements and all. I mean good plans. A place to stay and everything?"

"I've already got them. I've been working on it for a while, now. And I feel I should go immediately."

"So. Nothing's soon enough?"

"Nothing."

Confidentially, as farewells go, this wasn't such a very impressive one. Literarily speaking, I mean, I don't think it will ever hold water, or cause impact or stir the heart as perhaps Ishmael does whenever he says "It is a damp drizzly November in my soul...I account it high time to get to sea." And I don't think it quite makes the cut, at least not in the manner, or rather, the ballpark, in which Jake and Brett wave adieu.

"Oh, Jake," Brett said, "we could have had such a damned good time together..."

"Yes," I said. "Isn't it pretty to think so."

But even still, it has its poignant moments. Certainly it is a pressing little affair between a father and his child who has grown up suddenly and without warning, and now in a field says goodbye.

There are so many goodbyes in life. Sometimes the goodbye that breaks the home is harder than others. It can hurt more than others too, but at least, not intentionally so.

David Cole is a Collegian columnist

Letters

All letters must contain the writer's name, address, and phone number. Only names will be printed. All letters are subject to editing for space and clarity.

Designer jeans—for those who can

To the Editor:

Bob Coute, your article was very stereotyped and screamed of ignorance. What young America wears is a position of individual choice and is not concerned with your or anyone else's opinion. Why does it upset you if my mother wears designer jeans? Why are you so interested in a football player's posterior? Jeans are not predominantly female, they are predominantly expensive and predominantly attractive, if you have the body for them. Those who can, do, those who can't, watch, or write about it.

Shawn McBride
Southwest

Murders emphasize need for unity

To the Editor:

The recent acquittal of six Ku Klux Klansmen and Neo-Nazis in North Carolina of five murders during an anti-Klan rally demonstrates an important point for all minorities in the United States, particularly Blacks and Jews. It is now, more than ever, the time for these groups to come together in a united effort to wipe out the currently rising trend of irrational bigotry and hatred sweeping this country.

Blacks and Jews have seen a split in their traditionally supportive relationship the past two years, but the North Carolina trial makes evident the need to mend these wounds and work as a cohesive group once again. The large percentage of UMass Irish Catholics should also remember that the Klan was first organized with as much malice and hatred towards their ethnic group as towards blacks. I doubt Jews will ever forget the genocide inflicted upon them by the Nazis. Blacks cannot forget that the murders of fifteen black children in Atlanta remain unsolved.

There is enough hate and bigotry beyond the borders of the United States. It is time we all make a strong, united stand against all such injustices here at home.

Jeffrey A. Zaluda
Southwest

Fast for World Harvest a success

To the Editor:

The Fast for a World Harvest on November 20th, was a great success due to the concern and efforts of the UMass community. The $4,300 donated by students in the dining commons, and the $1,300 donated by commuters and other groups to OXFAM will be used for creative, self-reliance projects in underdeveloped countries.

Many people who chose to fast, participated in a Hunger Educational Night which increased awareness of the complexity of hunger. Robert Hohler of OXFAM began the evening with a description of OXFAM's philosophy and of its projects throughout the world. Carol Counihan, Carmen Deere and Ralph Faulkingham spoke on hunger in America, Nicaragua and Niger, respectively.

People at UMass have contributed greatly to the self-development of the poorest peoples in the world by providing food, seeds, farm equipment, medical supplies and technical assistance. OXFAM operates in Peru, Tanzania, Zimbabwe, Brazil, South Africa and some of the most repressive places on earth, as well as some hopeful places, such as Sri Lanka and Nicaragua.

One student summed up the fast when he said, "Fasting is a good thing to do, but we will only begin to alleviate the pain of chronic hunger that so many endure when we bring about a more just and equal distribution of the world's resources."

The UMass Hunger Task Force would like to thank the Graduate Student Senate, the People's Market, EarthFoods, the Director of Food Services, the dining commons managers and cashiers, WMUA, and the Campus Center Food Service. Other area groups that donated money are the First Congregational Church, the First Baptist Church, Immanuel Lutheran, the Unitarian Church and the Newman Club. Six sororities and two fraternities participated in the fast: Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Tau Gamma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sigma Delta Tau, Sigma Sigma Sigma, Iota Gamma Upsilon, Sigma Kappa and Lambda Chi Alpha. Donations were also received from the Yellow Sun and the Belchertown Food Co-op.

Special thanks goes to the forty people who leafletted and the twenty people who tended the various information tables, and especially to Judy O'Neill, Nancy Arnold and Reverend Peter Sabey of UCF.

Persons or groups who have not yet sent in their donations can bring them to Room 428 in the Student Union or send them to the Hunger Task Force, Box 167, Student Union.

Paula Serafino
Dan Noyes
Hunger Task Force Members

Zionism tool against anti-Semitism

To the Editor:

In response to Shirly Kempinski's misguided editorial "Zionism and Anti-Semitism" (Collegian 11/25), I should like to comment.

Zionism is the right of the Jewish people to self determination and a national homeland. Being a Zionist does not mean defending Begin's government and it's policies, with which I and many other Zionists disagree (as can be seen from his recent, narrow victory over a vote of no confidence in Israel's parliament).

The Zionist political spectrum is wide, from capitalism to socialism to communism. It is foolish to equate Zionism with Begin's hardline right-wing policies.

To say that Zionists organizations and the Israeli government ignore anti-semitism is equally absurd. The Israeli's are ready to go to the extreme measure of stationing former soldiers in Europe to protect Jewish schools from anti-semitic violence.

Dick Gregory summed up anti-semitism fairly well when he said, "America doesn't, and never has cared about the Jews." This is true for the rest of the world as well. The increase in anti-semitism worldwide and the silence of the world's governments in condemning it proves this.

To be a Zionist is in the Jewish people's best interest because, as has been proven time and time again, no one, except the Jews, not even the "Progressive Left," really gives a damn what happens to Jews.

David Jacobs
Southwest

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS

ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRAN T. RASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFF FREY P. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSSEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES MAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KENNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF

KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RAILEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.

USPS 333-220

Play to review life of Karen Silkwood

Tonight, in the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Massachusetts, a one-woman drama about the tumultuous life of Karen Silkwood will be presented.

Sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program, "Silkwood" will begin at 8 p.m. with Jehane Dyllan playing the leading role of Silkwood.

Silkwood, who died in 1974, allegedly the victim of a government conspiracy is considered a martyr by many and was a union activist most of her working life.

The event is co-sponsored by the Labor Center Student's Caucus and has had funding provided by the Fine Arts Council.

The play is open to all University staff, faculty and students.

★ Chanukah

continued from page 1

candlelighting ceremony followed by a coffeehouse in the Student Union Building Cape Cod Lounge. On Saturday Dec. 6, there will be a Five College Chanukah Party at Hampshire College and on Dec. 7, there will be a Celebration of Light and Cycles in the Campus Center which signifies the coming of a new moon at the darkest part of the year.

Anyone interested in writing sports for the Collegian, stop by the office in room 113 in the Campus Center.

For your holiday advertising needs, call the Collegian Advertising Dept. at 545-3500.

Extra Income Opportunity

Looking for an easy way to earn some extra money? Turn your spare time into cash by submitting names for mailing list of persons potentially qualified to fill position openings with our member corporations. Receive generous appreciation bonuses. For details, fill out and return coupon.

I am interested in learning more about your extra income opportunity. Please furnish me with all the details.

Please Type or Print Legibly

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

College or University _____

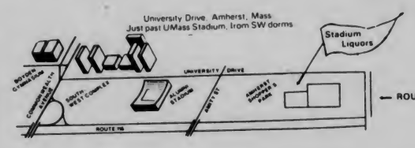
Name of Publication in Which This Ad Appeared _____

The Bonus Referral Plan, Inc.
P.O. Box 19722, Dept. P-2
Dallas, Texas 75219

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Ornaments - Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items - CARDS
Daily 10 am - 6 pm Sunday 12 - 5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

STADIUM
KEGS— U. Mass. Amherst —WINE—
BEER— —LIQUORS
LIQUORS

Miller & Miller Lite	12 oz. bot & can.	7.99 case
Pabst	12 oz. bot.	6.90
Weidemann	12 oz. bot.	5.49
Lowenbrau		9.50
Molson (Golden)		9.90
Castillo Rum	1.75 litre.	9.39
Jim Beam	1.75 litre.	10.59
Cossack Vodka	1.75 litre.	7.99



Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. — 253-5595 — til 11 p.m.

26.99 20.00 special
• waterproof
• warm
• pile lining
• green • burgundy • navy
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Brandeis University
JACOB HIATT INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL
What does it offer you?
- a semester of study in Israel in the Fall term
- coursework in English on the political, economic and social development of Israel and in its language, history and archaeology
- a strong program of Hebrew language study
- important internship opportunities in social service agencies in Jerusalem
- field trips, study trips, interviews with prominent Israelis, a kibbutz visit
- financial aid is available

Application deadline: March 15
For further information, see your Study Abroad advisor or write
Office of International Programs
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02254
(617) 647-2422
Brandeis University admits students of any race, color, national or ethnic origin, sex, age or handicap to all its programs and activities.

The rusty nail Inn
Dec. 5 & 6
NRBQ
Dec. 12 & 13
THE AVERAGE WHITE BAND
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

Conference promotes foreign language study

Youth involvement in foreign languages will be discussed at an informal conference tonight at the University of Massachusetts. The conference, sponsored by the American Youth Lanuguage Association, invites all people interested in foreign languages and cultures.

Karen Hermann, president of AYLA and a UMass student, will speak about her organization, its history and goals. Also speaking will be Judy Banks, a Russian teacher at Amherst Regional High School, on the difficulties of teaching unpopular languages, and UMass French Professor and Interpreter, Daniel Martin, who will discuss the profession of interpreting.

AYLA is a nation-wide organization, dedicated to promoting foreign language study among young Americans. Those interested in foreign languages or foreign studies are especially encouraged to attend.

Following the conference will be an hour of music and socializing. Free refreshments will be served.

Interested students and faculty are invited to attend tonight at 7:00, 3rd floor lounge, Herter Hall.

Michael Del Tergo

TONIGHT
163 Campus Center
7 & 9 pm
FREE
UMass Arts Council & Governors Program Council

The Collegian is looking for an
ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER
Persons applying should be able to continue with this position next fall semester. Apply in person at the Collegian Office.

Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
All Mixed Drinks • 9 til 11
NO COVER CHARGE
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St. AMHERST

Great Expectations Promises:

Excellence~
The finest professional cutters consult with you to give you a precision hai. cut that fits your personality, features and lifestyle perfectly.
Economy~
Great Expectations offers professional services at affordable prices.
Extras~
A haircut consultation, shampoo and blower styling with each precision haircut.
GREAT EXPECTATIONS® PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS
Shampoo, cut & blow-dry only $10.00 with student I.D.
Hampshire Mall
Hadley, MA
10-9:30
No Appointment Ever!

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
Coins & Stamps

Do yourself a favor
See me before you sell
Professional Buyer since 1976
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
6 days a week
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

COLLEGE BOWL®
The Varsity Sport of the Mind

College Bowl is the question-and-answer game in which teams of four players each compete against each other to score points by answering Toss-up and Bonus questions.

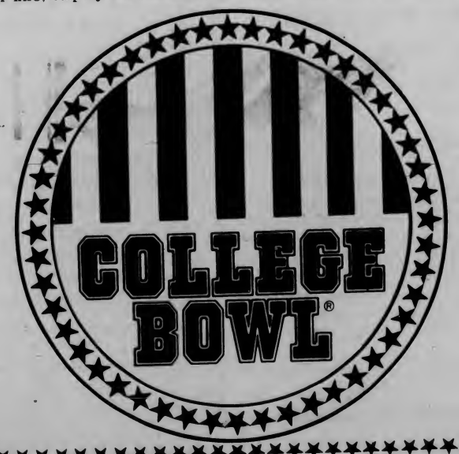
UMass is hosting this year's Association of College Unions International Recreation Tournament. We need a college bowl team to represent this University. Any full-time undergraduate is eligible to compete in the run-offs and participate in the tournament.

An informational and recruitment meeting will be held Tuesday, December 9 at 7:30 in Campus Center, Room 168.

When College Bowl was on National TV in the 1960's, UMass retired the title. We were one of only ten teams to ever do so.

Let's do it again! It's time to break the Zoo Mass image and give the other schools a team to beat.

For further info, stop by the Games Room opposite the Hatch and come to the meeting.



Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication date • 15¢ per word • Student rate 10¢ per word if paid in advance • 3 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number 5422

AUDIO

Large Advent Speakers excellent condition with screen 586-3438 Mark 549-5986

AUTO FOR SALE

'74 Impala 4-T, a/c, as new inside, rte hull, asks can 549-4037

Ford Galaxie 500 optimum conditions asks or b/o 549-4676

'76 Camaro V8 4 sp. 101,000 H.W. rebuilt trans. needs ½ paint $1,600 549-2620

BUSINESS CLUB

The Undergraduate Business Club will be holding a party on Wednesday Dec 3 from 8:30-12:30 at Farley Lodge for all members

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Assistant and staff wanted at home Earnings controlled Offer valid 11:30 (plus) date on Tuesday "D" 16262 F 30 Cazon, Hesperia, CA 92345

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian appointing a Co-News Editor. Must have extensive daily news reporting experience in several areas as well as editing skills. Extensive knowledge of University system required. Apply to Rob Erwin at the Collegian

Collegian appointing a Women's Editor to fill vacancy. Must have newspaper experience and knowledge of women's issues. Apply to Rob Erwin at the Collegian

Collegian Positions: Assistant Managing Editor, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians. Past Experience helpful, interest is even more important. Apply to Fran Beeche for Dec. 9 at the Collegian

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire parties for band parties comprehensive from 586-4159

Expert Magician Damon Regan currently available for professional services call 256-6748

FOR SALE

Girls bikes: Raleigh Grandeur, call Dennis (413) 665-2511

Nine Queens in Ring size assembled never opened, 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, black, polished marbles, linen fabric. Originally $595.00 now offer under $200 or b/o Matt Shampoo with VW Rabbit's good running condition must sell $750 evenings 586-2511

FOUND

Woolrich Bottom High Chess Ring in Lot 25 call Michael 6-7122

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 256-8547 ext 346 8-5 or 4-9 pm

Overseas Jobs - Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia. All Fields. $500-2,000 monthly. Sightseeing. Free info, write: IJC Box 52-MA1 Lovelia Del Mar, Ca 92625

Interested in the Music Business? Get it from the inside out! Administrative assistants, UPC Productions Work Study or extra PER duties. Duties: music sales, promotions recording, answering phone, copying etc. Excellent typing and clerical skills, organization and responsibility required. Positive self-motivation and initiative sought. Position available immediately. Box #4, CJE or apply in person UPC Productions 308 SU 545-2882 Ask for Marion

Summer Work local & cam (Q5) weekly. Send address, phone to Box 213, Amherst, MA 01004

Experienced Contract Bridgework need not answer. Must be available for interview soon. Apply after 6 Wheaton's Cafe Northampton

HELP WANTED, MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Any age no limit! Earnings unlimited! Send self-addr Business Opportunities Triple "D"

INSTRUCTION

LSAT/GRE Three professional courses call 665-4122 & Fill in for the examination time!

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Fieldhouse 549-4878

Wanted to speak Italian, Spanish or Sw Gals. Present call Lynn 549-3857

NEW Nikon zoom lens reference number on lens REWARD call 5-5883

Lost silver framed glasses in hard brown case in vicinity of stadium, reward, please call 549-5182

Lost silver pendal frame eyeglasses in light blue case. Call 549-5483

Small dark brown leather jacket CR Union Army 1122 good sentimental value. Will trade for another but real generous reward 549-0438

Tan women's wallet in Arts Bldg mornings, would like the cash. Call 546-4762 Please

Gringham Mens Watch on Quad morning Nov 12 please call Alice 549-2716 or 584-1982

Girl who threw snow packed in coffee grinder at Bus the SO CLUB SALE! Call 545-7825

PERSONALS

Interested in Law? The University Archives is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications and information in room 308-309 of Student Union.

To a Sigma Kappa Thanks for the rose last fall again Love Christopher

Donna – Happy Birthday from the darlings on the 7th

Walter Auditorium will be "Up in Smoke" every!!! Fred out Dec. 5 1, 2, 3!!!

Fall Season Bible Study CC 802 Tues Dec. 2 8 to 9:30

Tutor needed to help student preparing for GRE exam Please call 549-5486

Where will you be when the lights go out? Find out in the pyramids in Erie Dec 5th at 9:30!

Study 96 to share this after reading! Lots do some cookie dough. Shira

Undergraduate Business Club Meeting Tonight @ 8:00 in SBA Room 1. Last meeting of the semester. All members please attend!

Wanted: Washing Machine must be reasonable duration apply in South Deerfield

ANY A. Saxon Schwinn – Engineering Building East 11:30 – Thursday 9:00, 10:30 – Friday 10:30, 12:30

Utilities Rate Campaign Tonight in the right direction Theatre on Southeast – Utilities starts at 8, brought to you by JCA-IM and SUR Assembly

Kathleen's permanent address is gone on 30-579

ROOM WANTED

Quiet, studious female wants own room in 4 bedroom apt for Jan 1 prefer Hot Amherst not anything 253-9670

HELP! Female needs room for Jan 1 Call Terri collect after 5:00 (401) 624-5286

Male looking for room in quiet apt. or house from 12-15 or 1-1-81 thru summer prefer S. Amherst 256-8906

Five females willing to share room in quiet apartment on bus route 9 bus

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share fireplace and available (in) immediately $130/+ – call 586-9136

1 or 2 females wanted to exhibit 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm Townhouse Apt. 256-8816 morning after 7 PM Pat

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Fast, neat work, reasonable rates 549-5439

SONGWRITERS

Rob Grogan, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my research... call Jon at 665-2940 10 pm-11:30 pm or weekends anytime

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 2 bdrm apt close to UMass available Jan 1/ call Cindy or Wendy 549-5054 after 5 PM

Available immediately two bedroom apt in Northampton on bus route two $98.50 a

1 bedroom apt Riverglade Jan 1 - Aug 253-7971

1 bdrm in 4 bdrm apt Phillips St Jan only 549-1088

A woman looking for 2-3 bedroom apt on bus rt 586-7107 549-1612 549-1288

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 26 North Pleasant St. Amherst (next to Lagos, Antonio Bar-Be-Que) call 256-0710.

Ring: Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Jewelry Co! Convenient, fairly priced & approved by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith, 26 North Pleasant St. between ATO House & Lincoln. Jewelry Mon-Sat 10-5. Licensed by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-0710

Females to share room in apartment for remainder and spring 665-2607

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Students seeks each room in apt house on bus line for spring sem. call 549-4878 keep trying

Wanted 2 bedroom apt on bus route for Jan 1 will assist call Tom 586-9600 or 549-9697

If woman looking for 2 bedroom apt in South Amherst - Townhouse? Jan 1st on 549-1088

WANTED 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 549-9620

Wanted 2 or 3 bedroom apartment for Jan to Aug call 549-9620

DESPERATE! Need 2 bedroom apt for spring someone near campus 253-9675

Wanted 1 bdrm apt Jan 1 call Sharon 665-2607

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

Abnormal Psychology J. Dennery

CROSSWORD

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Open Face Roast Beef Sandwich
Broccoli Royale

BASICS LUNCH
Pita Salad Sandwich
Broccoli Cauliflower Casserole

DINNER
Meatballs with Tomato Sauce/Spaghetti
Fried Cod Fillet au Gratin
Bread Buffet

BASICS DINNER
Cheese Stuffed Meatloaf with Sauce
Fried Cod Fillet au Gratin
Bread Buffet

Hartford Ballet
Michael Uthoff, Artistic Director, presents
THE NUTCRACKER
A magical new production of the classic holiday dance spectacular
Tuesday, December 2, 8 pm. Wednesday, December 3, 8 pm.
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
UMASS, Amherst
TICKETS: $8.50, $7.50 and $6.50, available at the Fine Arts Center box office.
DISCOUNTS: $2 UMASS Students, $2 Senior Citizens. For phone reservations and group sales call 545-2511.
HURRY! Two Performances ONLY!

Interested in Arts Administration?
The Fine Arts Center is now accepting applications for spring semester internships. Four full-time (20 credit) positions are available.
Interns will concentrate in one of the following areas:
1. CONCERT MANAGEMENT
(including programming and contracts)
2. PUBLICITY & AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT
(including advertising and market research)
3. COMMUNITY RELATIONS AND FUNDING
4. BOX OFFICE & FRONT OF HOUSE
(including box office operations and ushering)
5. PRODUCTION SERVICES
(including backstage operations)
For Details, call the Internship Office at 545-0727

Paid Positions at the
Collegian
• Assistant Managing Editors • Copy Editors • Layout Technicians • Experience helpful, enthusiasm necessary. Apply before DEC 9 to Fran Beeche at the Collegian for next semester
The Collegian is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

DISCO ON DOWN TO...
Poor Richard's
TUESDAY
BEER NIGHT
25¢ Drafts 10c Bottles
WILD, WILD GYRUS
Monday
Happy Hour all night

TONIGHT!
3rd Annual
UMass Folk Concert
Featuring the Best of UMass
Hampden Theatre - Southwest
8 P.M. - 1 A.M.
FREE (What a Deal!)
A JQA-Middle/SW Assembly Presentation
For more info call Wayne - H.R. JQA-Middle 6-4523

Interested in Law?

The UNIVERSITY JUDICIARY is looking for interested students to serve as judges. Applications can be picked up in the Student Senate Office, Room 420 or the Student Attorney General's Office, Room 434 of the Student Union.

Women and Third World People are encouraged to apply

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN

SOPHOMORE YEAR IN PARIS

Hypercurricula . . .

Thurs.

Fri.

Say.

Sun.

The Distinguished Visitors' Program
in conjunction with the Labor Center Students' Caucus, with funding provided by the University Arts Council
present:

SILKWOOD

A Professional One Woman Play about the life of Karen Silkwood

TONIGHT
Tuesday
December 2, 1980
8 P.M.

Student Union
Ballroom

Free for Students
Faculty & UMass Staff

Sports

Trackmen ready for upcoming season

By JANE WOLFSON
Collegian Staff

Tomorrow afternoon the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team will open its season at the Dartmouth Invitational at Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H.

The Minutemen will be looking to improve their winless record last season (0-6).

"This year's team is a different team," co-captain Rick Trunfio said.

"We're a better quality team. The freshmen we have are top athletes and the returning varsity is in better shape, they're starting to reach for their potential," Trunfio said.

Additional strength in the field events should add depth to the Minutemen.

In the throwing events sophomore Stephen Hyder and junior Kirk Skinner are returning from last year and the addition of Tom Parro in both the weight and shot put should make Umass slightly stronger in the throwing events, according to Coach Ken O'Brien.

O'Brien also sees the jumps as a good event for the Minutemen. They will depend heavily on junior Mark Grasso. Grasso was the Yankee Conference indoor champion in the triple jump and finished second in the long jump. Returning to the Minutemen after a year-long absence will be long jumper Mike O'Neal. During his freshman year, O'Neal was the runner-up in the long jump at the New Englands.

Also to bolster points in the long jump, quartermiler Rick Cady will return to the event he has not competed in since high school.

An apparent weakness for UMass will be the pole vault where only freshman Dennis Buckley (third in the high school New Englands) is likely to compete.

Co-captain Rick Trunfio and the rest of the UMass men's track team will compete in the Dartmouth Invitational tomorrow. (Staff photo by Ben Marsden)

In the dash, the Minutemen will depend on veteran Bill DeVarney. DeVarney, last year's winner at the New England AAU's will be joined by freshman Paul Faust. Faust has shown good early season potential, according to O'Brien.

A major strength for UMass in the hurdles will be John Wright. "John can run with anyone in New England," O'Brien said. Last spring as a freshman, Wright ran undefeated until he finished second in the Conference meet to Boston University's Bob Danville. Wright captured both the Boston College (beating Danville) and UMass relays. Added strength to the hurdles should be sophomore Gregg Mader.

In the middle distance events returnees Cady, Trunfio and Bob Pearson will be carrying the brunt of responsibility at least early on, but freshman additions Brian Osborne, Mike Stead, and Jerry Espenosa look promising.

Tom Lawrence and John Marr will compete in the 800 and the 1000 for the Minutemen.

As in the past years, the distance events should be promising events for Umass. Junior Paul Beaulieu, a 4:08 miler, will lead a crew of milers that should include Rick Doiron and John Caffrey.

Mike Doiron, Chris Onseitchenko, and Kevin Corcoran all placed in last years indoor Conference meet and are expected to do well in the longer distances.

"We'll be strong in the distance events," Beaulieu said. "We'll have a really solid two mile relay with good recruits to help out."

The Minutemen will be able to compete in both the IC4A's and the New Englands this winter after a year's absence due to conflicts with the ECAC. However with the dissolving of the Yankee Conference they will no longer be competing in the Yankee Conference Championships.

Senior Chris Fraser of the UMass women's ski team passes through the gate of the slalom course at Saddleback Valley last winter.

Women skiers seek sixth straight

By ANTONY KUNDERT
Collegian Staff

"Without question this is the strongest women's ski team the University has ever had. (We have) exceptional depth and high quality," so says women's ski team coach Bill MacConnell of this year's team.

Last year the team was made up of 14 women, nine will be returning. Four decided not to ski this year and the 50th was senior captain Barbara

Sue Gaudy (pictured) and Fraser are two of this winter's co-captains. (Photos courtesy of Dale Raymond)

Zoo Disc misses championships...once again

Joel Zuckerman

Zoo Disc, the University of Massachusetts ultimate team, has completed its 1980 schedule and for the second consecutive season they placed a substantially poor third in the Western New England section.

Two seasons is a new one, they have placed for the championship of the section, and lost the decisive game to Loyola. Last season and this season, coming off the championship loss, they found Middlebury in the consolation game, the winner of which also advanced on to the regional tournament. Both times, the Panthers blew off the first.

Insiders could say that Zoo Disc was doomed out of the championship for the second season in a row. Last year, when squaring off against Hampshire in the deciding game, Zoo Disc had played three games, compared to Hampshire's two. This year, while Zoo Disc was sweeping the early rounds of the tournament, the eventual champions, W.P.I., had a much easier time at things. First, they received a forfeit win, then they wiped out the UMass women's team.

W.P.I. and Middlebury couldn't make their championship dreams come true, either. They were axed out in the New Great Regional tournament by defending New England Championship Boston Astrolite. B.A.D. will meet the Atlantic title and meet up with Glassboro State College of New Jersey, the Mid-Atlantic region (and defending national) champs, southern champs Duke University, and Mid West and West Coast champs Michigan St., and the Santa Barbara Condors, respectively.

The 1980 fall season was a mixed bag for Zoo Disc, full of highs and lows. It saw them surge to a mid-season mark of 10-0, only to lose 9 of their last 10 games, finishing with a moderate 11-9 regular season record. (They were 9-5 in just seven play.) They hosted the largest tournament ever, and came close to finishing remarkably high, considering the quality of the competition but then, as now, they couldn't win the big one and ended up 5th in a field of 24. The attendance numbers of the Purple Valley Classic was quite a high, but lacked out to be the beginning of the end. The final second placings taken over the Blue Demons of Central Conn. was a high, but the losses immediately following to Tufts and Boston were lows.

The fall of 1980 was a season that saw the frustration of long-term injury. Co-captain Russ Ellsworth (and four season statistician Gary Rotstein just couldn't do their thing this year, they were both bitten by the injuries.

Fall of 1980 saw the addition of two future hopes of Zoo Disc. New Jerseyan Dean Crabangor, and Long Islander Lenny Jovino both made names for themselves this season, and should be heard from for years to come.

Hoopswomen third in tourney

The women's basketball team finished third in a four-team tournament this past weekend at the University of Connecticut. UMass lost to the University of Rhode Island 89-69 on Saturday then bounced back to defeat UConn 91-79 Sunday evening.

Julie Brady scored 31 points in two games including 20 points in the win over UConn. Sherry Collins contributed 19 points against Connecticut.

Tomorrow at 4 p.m. the women host Harvard at the Cage.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Volume CX, Issue 63 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Wednesday, December 3, 1980

UMass-Boston

Classes held despite stalled contract talks

BOSTON (AP) — Classes at the Boston campus of the University of Massachusetts were held without incident yesterday despite the threat of a sickout by teachers and librarians protesting stalled contract talks.

University spokeswoman Carole Cohen said 70 percent of the faculty showed up for morning classes after the state Labor Relations Commission warned teachers not to call in sick to protest the lack of progress in negotiations.

Meanwhile, here at the Amherst campus, professors who have also been working without a contract said Monday they plan to institute a "direct grading" system and issue grades to students, by passing the administration. In a recent poll of faculty members, professors voted against staging a strike or a sickout and instead opted for direct grading, informational picketing, and a one day teach-in, Dec. 10.

It is unclear, however, how the UMass-Boston action will affect the Amherst campus.

Cohen, who noted that the flu has reduced attendance at the school, said it was not certain how many of the teachers who did not conduct classes were actually sick.

"There is always some percentage of faculty that cannot meet with a class," she said. "We feel some people just didn't get the word about the ruling who might have come in if they had known."

The commission ruled Monday that the union could not support a movement encouraging teachers to call in sick today and yesterday and today.

The ruling came after pamphlets distributed on the campus by a Committee for a Fair Contract had urged faculty members to call in sick on yesterday.

The state commission ordered the union to "desist from inducing, encouraging, condoning or engaging in any withholding of service," including a sickout.

"The commission finds the union is threatening to engage in a strike or work stoppage," it ruled after a hearing requested by the university management.

Yesterday, Charles Bowen, president of the Massachusetts Society of

turn to page 12

Union activist Karen Silkwood, portrayed by actress Jehane Dyllan, mulls over union problems in a scene from "Silkwood," a one-woman play performed in the Student Union Ballroom last night. See story, page 3. (Staff photo by Darcy Merritt)

Human rights speaker criticizes American view of El Salvador

By LILLIAN ATHER
Collegian Staff

"The U.S. has done a very good job of short-playing the human rights crisis in El Salvador," said human rights worker Cynthia Buhl at the Latin American Solidarity Committee Meeting last night in the Campus Center.

Buhl, a member of The Coalition for a New Foreign and Military Policy, spoke of the fact that both the State Department and the media in this country have been promoting El Salvador as a moderate, "centrist" country caught between the extremist violence of the right and the left.

Cynthia Buhl discusses the U.S. role in the problems of El Salvador during a meeting of the Latin American Solidarity Committee last night. (Staff photo by Darcy Merritt)

"I can tell that relatively little gets in El Salvador in American mass media," said Buhl. "I have so many clippings which merely say '50 deaths in El Salvador today,' '70 deaths in El Salvador today.' That's all they say — nothing more."

The U.S. has served as architect and financier of the agrarian reform, which the state Department refers to as 'one of the most progressive land redistribution programs ever implemented in a non-socialist country.' (In reality however, the program, according to Buhl, had affected little more than 7 percent of the agricultural lands in the country and has a discriminate clause, for the most part, in favor peasants supporting and cooperating with the junta's policies. Designed by a U.S. advisor who championed a similar land reform for South Vietnam during the Indochinese war, the land reform has been effectively seized as a instrument for the subjugation of the countryside, she charged.

"I must say at this time, however, that the Carter/Mondale victory over the election of the pro-junta right-wing ex-Ambassador Duarte and El Salvador is 'victory,' Buhl said. 'In the level of repression continues to escalate, the propaganda campaign of the Carter administration intensifies."

According to numerous reports, extremist bombings of areas suspected to be guerilla-dominated are now occurring on a regular basis, Buhl said. With the election of Duarte imminent, the right wing in El Salvador hopes to massively 'do war on the people of El Salvador,' she said.

In all, the prospects of greater U.S. intervention in El Salvador, and possibly even direct military arms, were likely, Buhl said.

Union reaches settlement in five month old contract dispute

By STEPHEN ROHAN
Collegian Staff

Union officials for the 1200 technicians and clerical workers have announced a settlement in their five month old contract dispute with University of Massachusetts administration. The settlement is most significant in that union officials intend to pursue their legal battle to collect a day's pay for employees, withheld from paychecks in the wake of last month's sickout.

Lynn Washburn, University Staff Association president, said the three year contract calls for an increase in wages, changes in contract language and a phase out of the four pay scale.

Employees will receive a one job upgrading retroactive to July 1, 1980, in addition to a 6 percent annual increase on Jan. 1, 1980, a $100 increase on July 1, 1981, and a 7 percent annual increase on July 1, 1982.

Washburn said the Massachusetts Teachers Association, the parent organization of the USA, will continue to pursue the complaint before the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission. The complaint charges that the UMass administration, in withholding a day's pay from employees who called in sick last month, did not use the available legal mechanism for determining whether a sickout had occured. Washburn said any judgement that a sickout has occured must only come after an investigation has taken place by the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission.

Washburn said the contract is more favorable to the union members in the following areas: Protection against involuntary transfers, layoff by inverse seniority, pro-rated distribution of personal days to benefit first year employees, protection for probationary employees within the evaluation system, seniority extension for grant and trust funded employees, language on sexual harassment and personal work, and tuition waivers for part-time employees at the bargaining unit.

World and national news

Soviets move on Polish border

BERLIN — A flurry of fresh reports of Soviet military moves on Poland's eastern and western borders erupted yesterday as Poland's Communist Party Central Committee met in Warsaw to deal with labor turmoil that has alarmed the country's Warsaw Pact allies.

Moscow "categorically" denied reports that Red Army troops on Poland's eastern border had been put on the highest state of alert or that there had been any mobilization of Soviet forces.

The reports renewed concern that the Soviet Union might be considering military action in Poland to quell unrest and halt moves that the Kremlin sees as undermining Communist Party rule.

The Central Committee meeting in Warsaw opened with a warning from Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania that Poland's independent labor leaders must "sober up" and cooperate with the party. There were reports that the party leadership was divided on how to cope with militant union leaders and the Polish economic crisis.

In Washington, U.S. defense officials said they were notified that the Soviet Union planned to close an area in East Germany along the Polish border and dismissed the action as routine. Maj. Gen. Jerry Curry, a Pentagon spokesman, sidestepped comments on the Soviet Polish situation. "There's nothing new there," he said.

Western sources in Berlin reported that the Soviet Union had declared East German areas along the Polish border off limits to staff from the American, British and French military missions in Potsdam, East Germany.

The British Broadcasting Corp. reported from West Berlin that Soviet troops on Poland's eastern border have had their alert status raised by four points to level six, the highest in the Soviet army.

Asked about the reports, the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow said, "We categorically deny all these rumors. Troops in the trans-Carpathian area as well as in other areas are living a normal life. There is no urgent or non-urgent mobilization or draft of reservists. All inventions about this are on the conscience of those who circulate them."

Italian family living on a city bus after their homes were destroyed in the November 23rd earthquake. (AP Laserphoto)

House debates MBTA bail-out

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — A bill bailing out public transportation in and around Boston passed the House and went to the Senate last night, easing the threat of an end to service for some 260,000 riders Friday.

Final House action came on an 85-58 roll call vote at 9:30 p.m., about 3½ hours after the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority's bail-out bill received its first round of approval in the House and 10⅛ hours after the debate began.

It had been expected that the Senate also would try to push the bill through last night. But the Senate, on standby all day, adjourned at 10:30 p.m. until 11 a.m. today after debating whether to take immediate action for half an hour.

Syria and Jordan ease tensions

turn to page 11

AMMAN, Jordan AP — Syria and Jordan agreed on terms easing the tense situation between the two countries yesterday and Syria immediately withdrew some of its troops from the border.

Jordanian officials, who declined to be identified, said Syria withdrew as a gesture of good faith an unspecified number of troops from the 50,000 it reportedly had deployed at the border. Jordan was reported earlier to have sent 30,000 troops to the border.

The officials said the terms, proposed by Syria, were:

—A written statement by Jordan saying it was not aiding the Moslem Brotherhood, a fanatical group engaged in anti-government activities in Syria.

—Jordan's continued recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization as the sole representative of the Palestinian people.

The terms were relayed by Saudi Arabia's deputy premier, Prince Abdullah bin Abdel Aziz, who conferred with Hussein in Amman on Tuesday following two days of talks in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The officials said Hussein had no trouble accepting the terms because he had denied publicly Syrian allegations that he was supporting the Moslem Brotherhood. He also had never withdrawn his recognition of the PLO as the sole representative of the Palestinian people since he accepted it at the 1976 Arab summit in Rabat, they said.

Political observers in Amman saw the submission of the conditions as a face-saving device by the Syrians, to facilitate the defusing of the crisis they started last month with a massive troop buildup on the border.

The observers saw Hussein's acceptance as a goodwill gesture toward Syria, since they were merely a restatement of positions he had expressed previously.

Earlier in the day, Syria ratified a 20-year friendship treaty with the Soviet Union that makes Syria the closest Soviet ally in the Middle East. The treaty calls for consultation between the two nations if either is threatened and for cooperation to consolidate their defense capabilities.

The Syrian president is known to fear a breakaway move by Hussein, who plans an early meeting with U.S. President elect Ronald Reagan, to join the United States in fashioning a Mideast peace settlement that will exclude Syria and the Soviet Union.

Digest

Associated Press

U.S. replies to Iran's terms

ALGIERS, Algeria — Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, on his second hostage mission here in three weeks, yesterday gave Algerian intermediaries a new U.S. reply to Iran's terms for releasing the 52 American captives held nearly 13 months.

Christopher delivered the U.S. clarification to Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia and also gave him a "technical explanation and details concerning the reply to be forwarded to the Iranian government," the official Algerian news agency reported.

It said Benyahia met with Christopher at the Jenan elMufti government guest house. Reporters were not allowed to approach the villa and neither delegation made any comment on the talks. Algeria has been acting as a go-between at the request of Tehran, which has repeatedly refused direct talks with the United States.

U.S. officials in Washington said Christopher was ready to caution that President-elect Ronald Reagan would not be bound by steps taken by President Jimmy Carter if the hostages, held 394 days, were still not freed by the Jan. 20 inauguration.

City Councilor to reverse stand

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — A Springfield city councilor who voted to approve a measure slashing members' salaries from $5,000 to $250 a year said yesterday he'll reverse his stand at the next meeting.

Councilor Robert Markel was one of five members to vote in favor of the reduction effective January 1982. Four councilors voted against the cut Monday.

Markel said he voted for the drastic cut to protest Councilor Peter Jurzynski's efforts to eliminate a $2,500 raise councilors are scheduled to receive in 1981.

Jurzynski's proposal, and an ammended version that would have delayed the raises until 1982, was tabled Monday night.

Markel said Tuesday he will vote against the cuts when the council next meets Dec. 15 and also will oppose efforts to delay or eliminate next year's scheduled raise.

Kennedy to join new committee

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has decided to serve as the senior minority member of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee in the next Congress, a spokesman said yesterday.

Kennedy decided to accept that post rather than serve as ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, which he has headed the past two years.

Kennedy spokesman Bob Shrum said the Massachusetts Democrat made the decision because the issues to be considered by the Labor and Human Resources Committee are important to Kennedy.

"He's been very concerned about these issues during the campaign and all his life," Shrum said.

Shrum said Kennedy made the decision during the Thanksgiving recess.

"The labor issues and the human resources issues are going to be the cutting edges of the next few years," Shrum said.

The "Solar Challenger," a 175-pound solar-powered airplane, completes a test flight over Marana, Arizona yesterday. The craft's 15,000 solar cells generate electricity to turn the plane's propellor. Aeronautics specialist Paul MacCready, who designed the plane, said he hoped a 63-mile test flight could be made today. (AP Laserphoto)

Today's edition was cheerfully brought to you by:

Ed Levine	Night Editor
Rhonda King	Copy Editor
Suzette Courtmanche	Layout Technician
Scott Burke	Head Darkroom Technician
Jay Brightman	Ad Layout Technician
Composing Room	Lise Zeiger, Mary Kinneavy, Donna Levine, Pamela Dissinger, Michele Bedard, Edie Eppich, Carla Lesh

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

the rusty nail Inn
Dec. 5 & 6
NRBQ
Dec. 12 & 13
THE AVERAGE WHITE BAND
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

Play portrays life of union activist

By MARIANNE E. SAVAGE
Collegian Staff

Silkwood, a one-woman performance based on the life of Karen Silkwood, a union activist in the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union who died while fighting to improve the safety conditions in her plant, was presented to about 300 people in the Student Union Ballroom last night.

Jehane Dyllan portrayed Silkwood in the drama which she wrote in collaboration with Susan Holleran and was directed by Bobbi Ausubel.

The play takes place in the union hall where Silkwood had her last meeting with other union members before she was killed in a car accident, that was called accidental.

The play began with a slide presentation consisting of photographs of Silkwood as a young child and continued through to shortly before her death.

Silkwood arrives prepared to recount the events that led to negotiations for a new health and safety clause in the union contract, only to find her fellow union members have failed to appear on time for the meeting. She takes this time to rehearse her speech and remember the events that led her to become a union activist fighting for safer working conditions.

She recounts the events that led to her own contamination by the dangerous element, plutonium. When no one could find the source of the radiation, she asked health physicians to check her car and locker. The results proved negative.

When Silkwood reported for work the following morning, she was contaminated before even entering the plant. The source of the radiation was in her apartment which was completely contaminated. The "hot" spot, where the highest level of contamination was found, was coming from the bologna and cheese stored in the refrigerator.

Her speech contained information proving that reports of contamination in the plant had been falsified. Silkwood stressed that the plutonium the workers handled every day was cancer-causing and the management of the plant attempted to keep this information from the workers.

In a question and answer period after the play, Dyllan said she felt the play was important because "this happens at other places all over the country."

"It is up to us to see to it that working conditions improve. Workers deserve a safe and healthy workplace," said Dyllan.

Student senate seeks to modify fee increases

The Undergraduate Student Senate Coordinating Committee last night outlined plans to modify a proposed $266 fee increase for next fall that will be brought before the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees this afternoon.

The $266 increase was passed by the Trustees' Budget and Finance Committee November 19 and will be put before the trustees for approval today. About 13 representatives from the UMass campus will attend the meeting and present modifications to the increases.

Among those students who will be making presentations to the Trustees will be Student Government Association Treasurer Al Wallace.

Wallace said he objects to a $46 student fee increase because of loss in summer conference service revenues.

The Summer Conference Service is an organization which brings in and accomodates conference groups who wish to use the University's facilities over the summer.

The loss was a result of the Transcendental Meditation group, which used the University's facilities last summer, not returning again this summer, Wallace said. The University realized a profit of $245,000 from that conference and projected that amount into this years budget. When it was discovered the the TM group would not be returning in the summer, the anticipated $245,000 became a deficit and was passed on through student residence hall fees, he said.

Wallace is proposing that residence halls be able to decide the rates that will be charged conferences in order to offset this deficit, thus reducing the residential fee increases. Currently the Summer Conference Service pays a flat rate for use of the facilities.

"Conceivably, it could result in a $24 decrease in student fees over the next year," Wallace said. "The conference services are not a student benefiting trust fund."

Among other presentations to be made will be a Rents and Fees Committee proposal that students review how trust fund monies are allocated.

Trust Funds are the total amount of student fees put towards a particular area. For example, the cumulative amount of student residential fees constitutes the UMass residential trust fund.

"Management at the University has no incentive to cut costs," said Bill Fitzgerald, who will address the trustees today. "Students should have a stake in deciding how money is allocated because they're paying the bills."

Legal services office offers counsel and representation

By MARIE MEALY and JANICE LEONARD
Collegian Correspondents

Editor's note: The following article is part of the series on recognized student organizations which will be appearing until the end of the semester in the Collegian.

The University of Massachusetts Legal Services Office (LSO) is the most beneficial avenue for legal counsel and representation for university students, according to research by LSO and private lawyers in the area.

Since the office cannot handle all student's legal and educational needs, it refers them to approximately 100 other lawyers in the area.

LSO will, however, advise students on all legal matters.

Managing attorney Charles J. DiMare said, while "lit[le] staff" of three lawyers and 10 paralegals have about 25,800 potential clients, the LSO serviced 1,577 students in the 1979-80 academic year.

Of these student cases, 550 went to trial and 1027 were advice only. Of their cases, 9.4 percent were consumer protection problems, 26 percent were tenant landlord disputes, 4.2 percent were divorce cases, 18.1 percent were criminal and 31.9 percent were University related legal problems, DiMare said.

The LSO does not handle real estate, profit making business concerns, fee generating cases or disputes between students, but they are very happy to mediate these disputes, said DiMare. LSO will advise all divorces, but will handle only uncontested ones.

The services LSO offers are free to fee-paying students. Students are only charged for extra phone calls or extraordinary postage costs, DiMare said, but 95 percent of students pay nothing and 5 percent pay only nominal court expenses.

Should the LSO be unable to handle your case, they will refer you to a private lawyer, who will offer various types of legal help, said DiMare.

Hadley attorney Jason Rosenthal, is a civil lawyer who handles some criminal cases. Rosenthal said larceny, disorderly conduct and drunk driving are the "vast majority" of cases from UMass students he handles. Rosenthal does get some referals from the LSO and he said they are primarily will and divorce cases.

Rosenthal said that he charges on an ability to pay basis for students.

Thomas Whitney, a South Amherst attorney who handles both criminal and civil cases, estimates he receives three students a month on referal from LSO.

He said he often offers representation for no fee and this "pro bono work is done where clearly the person is losing a right for no reason." Initial consultation is free and his charges are usually based on income and the merit of the case, Whitney said.

Attorneys Sally Chalfant and Mark Eckstein of the Legal Services Office discuss case strategy. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Luzio Pozzi poses in a hole which is part of his show, Orange Wall, on display now, until December 21 at the University Gallery at the Fine Arts Center. The Orange Wall was created specifically with the University in mind; Pozzi included photographs which are of area interest. (Staff photo by Paul Price)

Unchanged p/f gains support

By RUTH RAMBERG
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate last night voted to support the Undergraduate Student Senate's efforts to keep the pass/fail option from being changed.

The Academic Matters Council of the Faculty Senate has proposed a change in the present pass/fail system. The Council wishes to have only grades C and above translated as a P. Grades C-, D, and F would be considered as such.

The present pass/fail system awards all grades above an F or F-.

Bart Cottman of the Undergraduate Student Senate appeared at last night's meeting. After much debate, the GSS voted 15 to 10 to agree with Cottman's assertion that the pass/fail option allows students to be more adventuresome in choosing courses.

Also discussed at last night's meeting was the upcoming Distinguished Teacher Awards. Nominations for the awards must be turned in by Friday, December 5, to room 804 in the Campus Center.

Six awards of $1000 each will be given out this spring. Three of the awards will be for faculty, and three will be for student Teaching Assistants. Any part or per- son enrolled may nominate faculty or students teachers. Faculty and graduate students may also nominate T.A.'s and T.O.'s.

The nominations must include a brief description of why the nominee deserves the award. Evaluations by his- and non-students, along with two committees consisting mostly of students, will determine the recipients of the awards.

The GSS also announced that Town of Graduate Students Sam Gallo is considering more awards. Gallo would like to give three $1000 awards to Graduate Students for research excellence and creativity.

Joanne Szymanski aligns a leather frame with a little help from a close friend in the Student Union Crafts shop. Staff photo by Scott Barker

Audit finds abuse of federal funds

BOSTON (AP) — Selected state college teachers were paid several thousand dollars from federal grants for teaching state welfare workers, Auditor Thaddeus Buczkowski said yesterday.

Questionable program expenses, Buczko said, included a staff luncheon for eight that cost $264 — more than $30 for each participant.

Buczko complained that the additional salary was earned during state paid hours in a few instances, the auditor pointed, errors help lead to the fraud to convict for double-dipping professors who were collecting two salaries at the same time.

The audit gave examples of 19 teachers sharing in the federal grant and receiving an average of $6,864 above their $26,116 average state salaries. The top extra was $13,120 and the minimum, in the cases cited, was $1,000.

The grants involved courses for social workers from the Department of Public Welfare, the administering agency for the federal grant.

The expenditures were defended by the office of James J. Hammond, the chancellor of the state college system. A statement included in the audit concluded that the faculty reviews were "almost universally over and above their regularly contracted duties specified under the collective bargaining agreement."

Buczko did not provide details on the luncheon cost, down a separate comment, and which cost more than $30 per person.

He disputed other federal grant expenditures. He said that 31 hours of supervision were charged for what appeared to be a six-hour school period. "There was no explanation of additional five hours of supervision," the audit said.

Preparation necessary to enter the world

Editor's note: This is the first of a three part series on job hunting skills.

By JANE PUSKAS
Collegian Correspondent

Graduation time, or entering the real world, means up front to many scary and anxious points and matters.

Before realizing it, the time comes when students must find, locate and visit companies. In order to be prepared and give themselves as many choices as possible, it is important to begin the job search process by the second semester of the junior year said Alice Smith, assistant director of the University of Massachusetts Placement Office.

A job search is a three-fold process involving a resume, credential file and interviews.

The resume

The Placement Manual, distributed by the Placement Office, states, "A resume is a capsule of significant aspects of your background which qualifies you for consideration by an employer."

A resume includes three major areas of consideration, Smith said. Education includes higher attained and any honors, graduate level, or extra courses taken during the undergraduate years.

Work-related experiences show how you perform as an employee in a given situation, Smith said. This includes summer, part-time and volunteer work, as well as internships.

Contained in the Placement Manual are the following hints for completing a resume:

1. Confine all information to one page.
2. The text should be arranged for the best total appearance and readability.
3. Balance the material on the page.
4. Be consistent in the graphic design.
5. Edit all the material.
6. Make sure the meaning is clear.
7. Do not use personal pronouns.
8. Use the present tense for activities currently engaged in.
9. Avoid slang and abbreviations.
10. Consult the dictionary for spelling.
11. Before typing the final copy, lay out a draft and ask them if they would

The Cover

A cover letter must accompany [illegible] Placement Manual. Its purpose is [illegible] attract the employer's attention, arouse his curiosity [illegible] motivate action [illegible].

The letter should be short, [illegible] pending the resume, "sell" yo[illegible] for an interview, the manual

The First Step

In the f[illegible] initiate or terminate the entire posting and [illegible] first and this. It takes about [illegible]

Further Information

Information on preparing [illegible] available to the Placement [illegible] Career Development and [illegible] Week Workshops sponsored [illegible] available.

Information on the [illegible] cross, two other major [illegible] to continued to further [illegible]

UPS

Student should list jobs which entail [illegible] Smith said. It is important that a potential employer finds the applicant is employable.

When listing activities students should include clubs, memberships, offices held, intramural sports and community activities.

"Those people related skills should be undergraduate activities, unless high school activities directly relate to your field of study," Smith said. "Activities should remain active or take the junior in."

The first section in the structure of a resume is the job objective. This is the most important part of the resume, Smith said.

"Those resumes are tossed in employers, this is the first part they see," Smith said. If the objective is not stated clearly, concisely, and shows serious thought on what the person wants to do in the next two or three years, the employer will not continue reading the resume, she said.

BLUE WALL campus center
UMASS
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Notch Bar
Thursday Dec. 4th
BLUEMOON
FREE
Rock and Roll
Friday, Dec. 5th
DILLINGS GAP
$4.00 cover charge
Brings Mungrain to the Notch bar

Learn to Drive a Bus
Five College Transportation will sponsor a [illegible] training program during January or [illegible] persons, by those interested in getting a Class 6 Bus (Driver License.
For more information and an interview appointment call the Transportation Office [illegible]
Deadline for applications is Dec. 12, 1980.

NOW AT
Time Cafe
Sun. Aug. Augusts
Something for
Lunch served daily 11-2

Black Affairs

BALTIMORE, MD., HOSPITAL STRIKE—Workers at Sinai Hospital are shown here on the picket line Tuesday, the first day of a strike there. About 1,000 health care workers at Sinai and Johns Hopkins Hospital are idled by walkouts. Hospital officials say the week stoppage has not hindered patient care. (AP Laserphoto)

Handicapped mother attempts suicide

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In a failed emotional four years ago, Catherine Tate vowed her breath to undress her infant daughter gently, praying that a woman with no arms could care for a baby.

Photographs and stories of the fast-dropped young mother's day in court drew wide attention and brought her 11,000 letters from "people all over the world," Miss Tate said.

People would tell me how much I was an inspiration to them," she said. "It's a support, I was stroked."

On Tuesday, Miss Tate, 23, was released from St. Joseph's Hospital, after being treated over the weekend for an emotional ailment.

The city Department of Welfare had questioned whether her handicap would prevent her from being a suitable mother.

Miss Tate, who is unmarried, has a birth defect that left her arms and her legs underdeveloped and deformed. Both her children are normal.

Miss Tate said that recently her life has been frustrating and depressing. She said she has failed in her efforts to find a place of her own where she could live with her children.

Bad weather agrees, she charged, "don't want the responsibility of her damaged in their building."

Miss Tate said she had saved earlier [illegible] to buy a second stereo for a [illegible]

Immigrant policy — unfair?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The basic policy of U.S. immigration policy say it is unfair: the toughest say it is literally murderous. But with an estimated 6.2 million legal and illegal newcomers expected to enter American borders this year, the most commonly heard reference is that immigration is "out of control."

"When Ellis Island was the ideal for the United States, immigration is definitely out of control," said Lawrence Fuchs, executive director of Congressional Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy.

Federal immigration laws are unwieldy and unfair, Fuchs said, and are to themselves a major cause why the United States has been unable to slow the flow of newcomers.

Some 750,000 immigrants and refugees will enter the United States legally this year, their visas unexpectedly swollen by hundreds of Cubans and Haitians granted special refugee status.

In addition, thousands of illegal aliens are entering U.S. borders. Estimates place their numbers anywhere between 500,000 and 900,000, bringing the annual immigration total to its highest level since the first decade of this century.

The Immigration Laws provide a ceiling of 20,000 immigrants a year from each country. In reality, that means upstart of American citizens in a country like Mexico, where there is a long list of people hoping to immigrate, have to wait as long as nine years to be legally reunited with their relatives, while a proud chief from Norway with no relatives here can be admitted in a matter of months.

The select commission — made up of four cabinet secretaries, four members of the House and Senate and four presidential appointees — was established in 1978 to propose new immigration laws. With final recommendations to Congress and the president due on March 1, the commission staff is working beginning Wednesday, joined by the commissioners on the weekend, to review two years of findings.

In greetings sessions the commission heard from a number of voices, including activist clergymen, governor Rick Perry who says that U.S. government policy led to the death of scores of Haitian refugees who were sent back to Haiti because they were not qualified to receive under U.S. refugee laws.

Touring the United administration, several Cuban-born Dade County officials say that U.S. government policy has encouraged thousands of Cubans to flee, usually outside the law, without access to property, money and women of their persons. "I am not [illegible] yet dead today," he said, backing his claim with many testimony about mistreatment and repression in Cuba.

On the other side of the debate is the Federation of American for Immigration Reform, whose executive director, Dugal Cramer, argues for severe reductions in the number of immigrants.

"In every other industrialized nation on Earth, it is illegal to hire a foreigner who does not have the legal right to work in that country," said Cramer.

Alcohol problems differentiate the sexes

By CARLA R. LESH
Collegian Staff

Female alcoholics suffer a "double stigma," not only from the disease of alcoholism but also the increased guilt that society places on them, according to a panel discussion on women's alcoholism held at Mt. Holyoke College yesterday.

"When a man drinks he is seen as being macho, when a woman drinks she is viewed as a fallen woman. It is considered all right by society for a man to go to the bar to get away from the house and the kids and his nagging wife, but when a woman gets drunk she is an unfit mother. A drunk man is 'drinking like a man' while a drunk woman isn't 'drinking like a lady,'" said Laura Schilling of the Women's Division of Alcoholism Services of Greater Springfield, Inc. during the four member panel.

The sanctity of a woman is threatened by women alcoholics and she feels the need to hide her drinking more than a man with the same problem, Schilling said. Because she hides her drinking she builds up a wall of denial that other alcoholics do not have and it is harder for the woman to face her alcoholism. Society has created these ideals and women have a low self image when they feel they fall short of them, Schilling added.

Women need special facilities to treat their alcoholism, facilities that are run by women who realize the problems created by the double stigma, Schilling said.

"There are many barriers that can prevent a woman from receiving treatment. Finding someone to care for the children while the mother is in treatment can be a major problem," said Schilling.

The lack of family support can also be a problem facing the woman alcoholic. Nine out of ten women stay with an alcoholic husband while nine out of ten men leave their alcoholic wives, Schilling said.

She suggested treatment centers that provide child care to help solve this problem.

Dr. Ruth MacLean, director of the medical department for the New York Telephone Company, described the facilities that are provided for employees.

"The New York Telephone Company is interested in treating alcoholism because it is the only illness with chronic relapses. I don't see the patients as men or women, I see them as individuals. We try to meet their individual needs," MacLean said.

She said all treatment is confidential and many times the patient's supervisor doesn't know the patient is receiving treatment.

After the panel discussion in the morning, the audience of about 30 women broke into smaller groups to discuss ways to approach the problem of women alcoholics.

Educating the public about the symptoms of alcoholism and places to go for help was seen as the most crucial need.

The panel discussion was sponsored by the Alcohol Awareness Program of Mt. Holyoke College.

Paid Positions at the

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY Collegian Telephone (413) 545-3500

• Assistant Managing Editors • Copy Editors • Layout Technicians • Experience helpful, enthusiasm necessary. Apply before DEC 9 to Fran Basche at the Collegian for next semester

The Collegian is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

TURF DOCTOR

New England's largest Lawn Care Company will be conducting interviews for Sales & Service positions on December 11 at the Hampshire House.

An introduction to Turf Doctor & the Lawn Care Industry will be held Dec. 10 at 7 p.m., CC 165-169.

Appointments for interviews must be made at the Hampshire House.

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.
• Weight control • Nail biting • Improve concentration • Insomnia • Bed wetting • Improve study habits • Relaxation • Fear of heights • Memory improvement • Stop smoking • Self confidence • Sexual problems • Improve sports ability • Fear of lying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building Rte. 9 Hadley, Mass
3/10 mile Hamp. Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt. Only

TACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon-Thurs 11-9
Fri-Sat 11-12 pm
Sun 11-9

OPEN TONIGHT 'til 9:00 P.M. in the Campus Center UMASS
the University Store

DELANO'S
WEDNESDAY
2 FOR 1 BOTTLED BEER
(6-9 pm)
ALSO
Our Regular HAPPY HOUR
3-6 pm Mon-Sat 9-11 pm Sun-Thurs
75c RAIL DRINKS
2 FOR 1 DRINKS
(Free Hors D'oeuvres 3-6)
57 North Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton, Mass.
Double Feature
Now, Ends Tues
On Screen 9:00
Stardust Memories
Woody Allen
Charlotte Rampling
United Artists PG
Plus at 7:00
WOODY ALLEN'S
INTERIORS
"A MASTERPIECE." —Gene Shalit, NBC-TV
"AMAZINGLY BRILLIANT." —William Wolf, Cue Magazine
DIANE KEATON
E.G. MARSHALL
GERALDINE PAGE
MAUREEN STAPLETON
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Sale-On-Tires
ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA.
MICHELIN - CONTINENTAL - DAYTON - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - GOODYEAR - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS
SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS
CASH & CARRY TIRE SALE CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the Public.
We can arrange to have your tires mounted.
BIAS PLY SNOWS

SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE	SIZE	MFG. BY	PRICE
600x12	BFG	27.95	G78x14	Seib.	36.95
A78x13	BFG	27.95	H78x14	Seib.	38.95
B78x13	Seiberling	28.95	560x15	Seib.	28.95
C78x14	BFG	33.95	G78x15	Seib.	36.95
E78x14	Seib.	33.95	H78x15	Seib.	38.95
F78x14	Seib.	34.95	L78x15	Seib. Wt.	43.95

All Prices Plus F.E. Tax & Sales Tax.
RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS, ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.
VISA OR MASTER CHARGE
OPEN 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3
586-2544

A is for Apple.
It's the first thing you should know about personal computers.
Discover the special thrill of personal computing—with Apple! It's a home computer, a business computer, a classroom computer, your computer. No wonder tens of thousands have already chosen Apple. Join the excitement in your local computer store.
OPEN MON-FRI 9-5
(413) 545-2619
Apple Demo Today!!
12/3/80 10am-2pm
apple computer
VISA MASTERCHARGE AMERICAN EXPRESS ACCEPTED in the campus center at UMass
the UNIVERSITY STORE

Editorial/Opinion

Give yourself a break

Eric Janszen

In the course or your life you will endure numerous hardships. More likely than not, you will eventually graduate and have to support yourself and the bank that put you through school and, later, more likely than not, you will get married and later still, or perhaps before, you will find yourself with a couple of brats hanging off your sleeves; a boring job, no money and the rent due. And then there is The War, of course, in which you will die.

But this is all moot, as they say, and not because these things might not come to pass but because they are not going to happen for a long time, not for several years, and because there are more important things at hand.

There are finals.

And not just finals. There are take-home exams and late papers and incompletes, too.

It happens over just a few days, then in a single gripping moment you realize how much work going to school really is, and you sit glaring at an agenda of last minute assignments which, for your paralyzing depression, anxiousness, fatigue and dispair, might as well be carved into stone.

And it happens to everyone, happens to them all, and they fall to it day by day as the end approaches, until by the week before finals a doom tension settles over campus like a shit-mist, choking breathless gasps from the youth of college idylls hanging out their windows into the cold drifting stench of disillusionment and impending failure that pervades the barren, godless, expansive concrete edifice they have made their home. Or they watch television.

As the semester gets down to the wire, it is important to put your academic troubles into perspective before packing yourself off to the cookie house, although a visit with the local counselling talent may be in order.

Some people take it better than others, and the way I take it, which works for me, is to view school as but a small part in building up the grand joke that is life, toward the eternal punchline that is death; and, clowning in the eye of God, if I may appear at times solemn, it is to Him repentance, and the blessing of the Spirit, for together He and I know a good joke when we hear one, or see one as the case may be. And that is His word.

If it doesn't look like you are going to be able to get the stuff done, look to the words of the Great Thinkers for legitimization of your biannual distain for academia. (What the following men said, although grammatically male, applies equally for women, of course.)

There is George Bernard Shaw, who said of education: "When a man teaches something he does not know to somebody who has no aptitude for it, and gives him a certificate of proficiency, the latter has completed the education of a gentleman." He also condemned the learned man: "an idler who kills time with study. Beware his false knowledge; it is more dangerous than ignorance." Henry Kissinger comes to mind.

A lot of instructors come to mind with Ambrose Bierce's definition of the lecturer: "One with his hand in your pocket, his tongue in your ear and his faith in your patience."

The most important thing to remember, though, is not to be too hard on yourself.

So you put things off too long and have disappointed yourself. Admit it, but don't brood on it. Go by Auden's advise: "The same rules apply to self-examination as apply to confession to a priest: be brief, be blunt, be gone. Be brief, be blunt, forget. The scrupuland is a nasty specimen."

Eric Janszen is the Collegian executive editor

Letters

Physical Plant 'offs' memorial

To the Editor:

I do not profess to be a top-notch private eye, or even a bottom notch one for that matter, but I do believe I have solved the riddle of the Jackson/Kent State Memorial "vandals."

The mysterious monument mashing menace is not a neo-fascist activist nor is it a midnight ROTC demolitions team, but rather those diligent do-gooders of ours, the Physical Plant workers! And the weapon: the snow plow! Take note that the damage was not noticed until after the snow receded. And note also that the monument is where two trails come together. And yes, there was a pile of snow there.

The plundering plows pushed by the planters can also take credit for redesigning the landscape on campus. The boring, straight-edge curbing has been reshaped into exotic angles of varying degrees. Just look at the parking lot between F.A.C. and Fernald Hall, by Thompson Hall, Franklin D.C.—the list goes on and on.

In many spots (e.g. Webster Dorm) they did an excellent job of stripping the sod off, which is difficult to do when camouflaged by eight inches of snow.

Gentlemen of the Physical Plant Snow Removal Crew, my hat's off to you. No one else could have made the front page of the Collegian performing in the line of duty under the guise of "vandals."

Tom Maeder
Orchard Hill

Snowball throwers injure lobbying

To the Editor:

It is almost impossible for me to express my disgust towards the six people who wrote in defending their snowball throwing activities at the UMass-Boston College football game (Collegian 11/22).

At first I wrote the incident off in my mind as a display of a few drunken fools who care little about their University or those students who put in their time to make something out of it. Upon reading Monday's letter, however, something hit me and I found it almost impossible to fathom: you're actually proud of what you did?

It didn't matter to you that you were venting your insults at some of the most dedicated members of the student body who put in countless hours at what they do and are among the finest representatives this institution can put forth. It didn't matter to you that you were displaying your foolishness before channel 27's viewing audience who now see you as examples of the entire student body. It didn't matter to you that a substantial delegation of the Massachusetts state legislature was present to witness the "true character" of UMass students.

As a student who spends a great deal of time dealing with the legislature on student-related legislation along with such issues as funding for higher education, I would like to thank you for making the jobs of the people who try and fight for you in this area all the more difficult. I am sure that when I sit down with a legislator who witnessed your actions, he or she will ask why they should give state tax dollars to an institution that supports idiots such as yourselves. I hope you are proud of what you did now.

Ken Moore
Chairman, Public Policy Committee
Undergraduate Student Senate

Crusader for Christ puts her foot in the door

Letter to the Editor:

"Excuse me...Hi. I'm doing a survey of as many women in Southwest as I can. Would you be willing to participate? If you have a few minutes, of course." The dark-haired, rather short, well dressed woman of about 22 stood at my door, peering in, seemingly timid, but strangely not.

"What is the survey about?" I asked, looking up from my Chemistry 111 textbook, glad for the interruption.

"Well, I'm from the Campus Crusaders for Christ, and we're interested in the views and opinions of University women. It would take only about 5 or 10 minutes..." She had now moved from the doorway to the first section of my Z-room, a friendly smile on her face.

A clear picture formed in my mind as her smile drifted from my focus. A memory. (It was a literature class my first semester, freshman year. Another woman, neatly dressed, maybe 23 years old, stood at the head of the class. She was not the same woman as the one in my room, she was a guest speaker. Her topic: the Bible. Yet, none of the words she said had anything to do with the Bible. Rather, they were praises of Christ and all that he represented to her. She spoke of how she had found Christ and her life had new meaning and value. She, too, was from the Campus Crusaders for Christ, and I remember feeling uncomfortable...no, I was angry, but I could not recall why.)

"...and it really shouldn't take too long. That is, if you have the time." The smile was disappearing and she was beginning to look curious and frustrated. I was startled, having been pulled back into the reality of this situation. "I'm sorry. Come in. I've been trying to avoid this Chemistry all day and this is as good an excuse as any. Sit down." I wasn't purely interested in avoiding Chemistry, although it was a nice opportunity. I was more curious to see what she had to say.

The first few questions were basic: Name, Age, Major, etc. The next set involved my views on certain issues, such as the "problems of the human race," and my "philosophy of life." I answered sincerely and honestly and she seemed pleased with all that I said, nodding incessantly as I spoke.

Then, she asked me a question that bothered me. Her tone was the same as with all of the other questions, direct and mechanical, giving an air of objectivity. She looked at me and asked, "If you could know Christ personally, would you be interested?"

If I could know Christ personally, would I be interested. WOULD I BE INTERESTED??? I asked her what she meant by "interested," and without looking at me this time, she said, "Would you be interest?" Well, of course I would be interested! What Kind of a question was this?

The kind of question that this was is very clear to me now as I look back on it, and I remember my anger before. She was attempting to trick me into proclaiming my interest in knowing Christ "personally," which can best be done in the way those in this group feel they have. (They have "found" Christ and they "know" him personally.)

The Campus Crusaders for Christ are a group of "enlightened" individuals who feel that they have a personal relationship with God. That is fine for them. If they are happy with their relationship with God and their lives are filled with new meaning and value, then that is all well and good. But to use tactics such as allegedly objective surveys in order to lure others into their world is, in my opinion, a brutal exploitation of the meaning of the realm of faith. A need to resort to such forms of indoctrination is evidence of the aversion on the part of the public, or "lay-people," to having anything to do with this sort of group.

When I answered her question with a bewildered, "Of course I would be interested," this Crusader anwsered, smiling pleasantly, "Not many people answer 'no' to that question." Not surprising, in light of the fact that her question lacks any meaning and requires interpretation and assumption, which in this case would undoubtedly be the same. Virtually anyone who believes in Christ would be "interested" in Him as a being, and the possibility that He could anser so many of the unanswered questions that we all harbor.

At best, this type of prosyletism is a direct invasion of privacy and an intrusion into human and cultural rights. It could be argued that I invited it when I agreed to participate in the survey, but the actual intent of it was kept from my knowledge. It was an insult to my intelligence as an adult.

The Campus Crusaders for Christ are merely a clean and cleverly concealed cult, wanting only to capture the innocent mind and conform it to their beliefs.

Christ did not want unbelievers to be tricked into faithfulness. He desired men would hear his word and, by their own free will, follow him. Maybe the Crusade should be re-evaluated, at least by those on campus, to discover the true meaning and underlying purpose of its existence. The Campus Crusade for Christ are, in my opinion, The Campus Crusaders for Themselves—C/O Christ.

Sheila Curran
Southwest

NOTICE

The Chinese Student Club is sponsoring an "Italian Red Dragon Boat Festival Party" to being celebrated at the main office in the Newman Center, room 414 of Herter Hall, Worcester and Hampden Dorm Bars, and Franklin, Worcester and Hampden Mumble Rooms.

In addition, donations are being accepted at the recreation department of the Bangs Community Center in Amherst and the Amherst Savings Bank.

More information is available from Mary Ellen Smith at 549-4600 or Christine Poole at 549-3189.

QUIET'S PARADISE
LUNCHEON SPECIALS & DINNER
DINE IN FULL TAKE OUT SERVICE CALL 253-3481

READ THE COLLEGIAN

Our Drink Specials from nine until closing
Wednesday Night: Bummer Night
As the night goes on the prices go down

Night	9-10	10-11	11-12	12-1
Mixed Drinks	$1.75	1.50	90c	65c
Draught Beer	75c	65c	50	40c
Glass Of Wine	$1.00	90c	80c	70c

all night long!
Kahlua Sombrero $1
Two Liquor Drinks $1.50
All "Top Shelf" Liquor $1.25
We serve our full menu until 10 p.m.
Sunday through Wednesday,
until midnight Thursday, Friday and Saturday!

the Hungry U

Area Police Log

Students arrested

Two Amherst College students were arrested in connection with the theft of a sign from the Low Beltgian Dish Center on Amherst on Monday night, police said.

Alan Irving, accused of theft, one of the students, Jose H. Flegel, 20, of New Zealand, was arraigned in Hampshire District Court yesterday morning.

Irving and Flegel were arrested a short time after the sign was stolen, police said.

Flegel was released on personal recognizance and Irving was released on $100 bail, police said.

Probe continues

University Police said yesterday the destruction of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity mechanical room, discovered Monday, is still under investigation.

George Nichols, superintendent of the physical plant, stated yesterday the mechanical room where smoke was discovered showing the path over the campus pond, police said.

Student Activities director David Bourgeois said Monday $250 would be donated to replace the material, which was destroyed in fire.

In other news, the University Police had three harassment cases Monday night.

An accidental burglar alarm, valued at $100, was reported stolen yesterday from the Graduate Research Center. The burglar committed telephones to computers, police said.

Two copper window screens were stolen from Goessman Laboratory yesterday, police said.

A fire alarm was registered from Patterson Dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area yesterday, authorities said, apparently set off by burnt popcorn.

A pocketbook of unknown value was taken from Berkshire House yesterday between 1 and 1:15 p.m., police said.

Two automobile antennas were vandalized Monday night in Maple Hall, near the Whitmore Administration building. The antennas was completely broken off, police said.

SAMUEL CHALFEN

THE $74.95 DIPLOMA.
(Save up to $20 on Hamilton College Rings)

ARTCARVED
The University Store

amc THEATRES
HAMPSHIRE 4
Fatso

Records

Pepper can play in new release

ART PEPPER
Landscape (Galleon)

By MICHAEL KOSHOCK
Collegian Correspondent

Art Pepper came out of the 1950's as a promising young tenor sax saxophone player. Part of a group that included Jackie Brown and Chamblind Addeley, he recorded Charlie Parker at his most influential. Pepper was noted for his clean, almost "classical" sound, distinctive precision, great lyric, and ability to wail at tempos that left most others far behind.

Unfortunately, life's circumstances would not allow Pepper to live up to expectations, as he spent most of the next decade either in jail or fighting various illnesses, all related to his heroin addiction (another Parker influence). In 1968, he made a comeback with Buddy Rich, but this was short-lived as he soon checked into a Synanon clinic, in 1972 he did another who album has disappeared shortly after that. Moreover, within the past few years Pepper has made a comeback that he was always expected to enjoy. He was featured in a recent December article, released an autobiography (about his years more than his music), and a whole slew of records, which reminds us...

There is a new Art Pepper album out titled Landscape on Galaxy Records. Recorded live in Tokyo, it features the saxophonist in a quartet setting that includes George Cables on piano, Tony Dumas on bass, and Billy Higgins on drums.

The music begins with "True Blues," a fast paced, twelve bar swinger. Cables opens with the introductory choruses, as Pepper joins in for the melody and first solo. He runs through his solo well, although shows after chorus, leaving no doubt from the very beginning that he can still play. Cables follows, and quickly establishes his own claim to soloing excellence (and in this a trio format, who can do this more by page 6)

'Autoamerican;' Blondie's album offering for the 80s

Blondie
Autoamerican (Chrysalis Records)

By STEPHEN BUSHEY
Collegian Staff

Blondie's third album, Parallel Lines (1978), brought the band into the spotlight of American music. It was a fortunate powerful album from the previous two, both exceptionally neat in Mike Chapman's sharp production.

Dealing with non-literary lyrics (as in all the gaining and losing of love, Parallel Lines reflected Blondie's struggle toward popularity and mainstream acceptance. It was a promising fulfilled through the mass appeal of "Heart of Glass" and "One Way Or Another." With Debbie Harry singing lines such as "One way or another/I'm gonna win/I'm gonna getcha," what could the future do except fall in love with the group? For Blondie's sound was fresh and new just like a fresh beau.

The lyrics to "Dreaming Baby" states "Long live innocence," a hopeful gesture but unfortunately unrealistic. Just as a first love usually fades away so does innocence. This happens to all of us, and it happened to Blondie.

With the band's truly post sudden popularity came some somewhat success and FOTR's Eat To The Beat. It also brought about a different view of things. Having achieved the accomplishments asked for on Parallel Lines the group's lyrical outlook changed. Love and success having been gained, innocence was lost. Blondie entered the realm of the "jet-set" and a rare citizen. The band ignored its struggling past and viewed its current success through detached "Dreaming" eyes. Their new lifestyle, electronic banter and more expensive, also brought an underlying cynicism in the form of lines like, "No, I don't believe in fairytales; I don't believe in circumstance/ or secret/Accidents never happen in a perfect world." This may be true in their new found world but certainly not in the real world.

Blondie, although musically still enjoyable, began to get a lyrical distance between themselves and their audience. The lyrics to "Do Anything You Wanna" show much more cynical tone a trite girl's problem. Same song the best lyrical "I'm the man of love it was the best love [illegible] we could all identify with (post which many the "dreamy" have behind

The Student Government Association is accepting applications for Attorney General.
Applications and interviews about this position are available in Room 420 Student Union Building (Student Senate Office) or please call 545-0561. Women and third world students are strongly encouraged to apply.

MUSIC GALLERY
Guitars, Basses, Keyboards, Drums, and accessories. Lessons for the Professionals.

Part-Time!

PRECISION
ALL FOR $6.50
HAIRCUTS
Styles by Deborah I & II

BILL BANSLABEN
"MAGICIAN"
"Star of the 'Choreomagic' Show"
is now doing shows, private parties & lounges
Contact: B. J. Productions
at (413) 667-3288 (anytime)
or Area Manager (Jim)
at 546-7539 between 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

UMass Ski Club
Sugarbush Ski & Party Week
Jan 25-30
Last Chance
for Sign Up
Full Payment Due Dec. 10th
Hotel - $159 - 5½ ski pass
- 5 nights lodging
Condo - $144 - free beer parties
Raffle for Free Trip
Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

"Look, Muffy, a book for us."

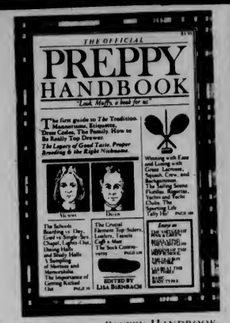
In a democracy everyone can be upper class and live in Connecticut. It's only fair.

That's why a little madras book, now on sale, is the a.t.d. manual and gift. It is packed with tips for admission to the current national craze.

Read selected excerpts from The Official Preppy Handbook in this Official Preppy Newspaper. And watch for Official Preppies on television and radio, and in your local newspaper.

Preppy is here, now. It's outstanding. Really.

Just one of the thousands of books available at your University Store.



The Official Preppy Handbook
Edited by Lisa Birnbach
Workman Publishing, New York

Buy this book!!
On sale now: $3.95!

in the
Campus Center
Univ. of Mass.

Mon,Tues, Thurs, Fri 9am - 5pm
Wed 9am - 9pm
Sat 11am - 4pm

the University Store

A CUT ABOVE.
(Presenting our Designer Diamond Collection.)*

This week only, ArtCarved presents its dramatic new college ring concept for women in 10K and 14K gold. On display only while the ArtCarved representative is on campus.

The new Designer Diamond Collection, reflecting the importance, value, and rare beauty of genuine diamonds, is an ArtCarved innovation.

This collection is also available with a new diamond substitute. Cubic Zirconia, which creates the same dazzling elegance for less.

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
Symbolizing your ability to achieve.

DESIGNER DIAMOND COLLECTION

Dec. 3, 4, 5 10 a.m.-3 p.m.
Date

Campus Center
Location

the University Store

*also available with Cubic Zirconia, a diamond substitute. Deposit required. Master Charge or Visa accepted.

©1980 ArtCarved College Rings

PREPARE FOR
MCAT·LSAT·GMAT
SAT·DAT·GRE
Our 42nd Year

- Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
- Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
- Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
- Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
- Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
- Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers expert in their field.
- Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.

GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP

Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Call Days, Eves & Weekends
in Amherst
253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For information About Other Centers Outside NY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-223-1782

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$

CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
Coins & Stamps

Do yourself a favor
See me before you sell
Professional Buyer since 1976

DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
6 days a week
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM

MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS.

★MBTA

continued from page 2

The House, where an earlier attempt to rescue the MBTA failed, was viewed as the key chamber in ending the transit crisis.

Senate amendments, once a bill clears that chamber, would require concurrence in the House. Failing that, a conference committee between the chambers would have to meet to settle differences. That action would not take place until late Wednesday at the earliest.

Following the first favorable vote in the House, a spokesman for acting MBTA Chairman Barry M. Locke said tentative plans to suspend commuter rail service tonight at midnight had been dropped.

Susan Myers, the spokesman, said the rail suspension affecting some 35,000 commuters would have to come then in order for locomotives to be drained and stored by the court-ordered shutdown of the entire transit system by Friday midnight.

She said late yesterday, however, that there was "a sense that things are changing," where the transit crisis is concerned, and the governor ordered that all service continue until the deadline.

The commuter rail service is contracted with the Boston & Maine Railroad, and Myers said the railroad had requested the early suspension if it appeared relief would not be forthcoming from the Legislature.

The state Supreme Court last Friday declared Gov. Edward J. King's takeover of the MBTA illegal and ordered a shutdown Friday unless the Legislature bails the system out. The MBTA's Advisory Board had refused to appropriate $41 million needed for the last six weeks of the year, and King claimed emergency powers to order continued spending once the $302 million budget for 1980 was exhausted.

James Stoetzel, vice president and general manager of B&M's commuter service, said some 1,000 employees had been notified of possible layoffs starting tonight. Ms. Myers said the decision on when to start curtailing service is Locke's, and it depended on progress in the Legislature.

Myers said private bus companies would be asked to help take up the slack if the B&M is forced into an early shutdown.

Orchard Hill to provide study space

By PAUL BASKEN
Collegian Correspondent

In response to increasing student need for study area during the finals, the Orchard Hill Area Government (OHAG) voted to request the use of a room in Webster dormitory from the house council.

OHAG president Andy Szendy said the unused room would be equipped with chairs, tables, and lights and will be ready for student by the beginning of finals.

OHAG is also in the process of obtaining permission for flooding the Orchard Hill bowl by the Physical Plant. Vice president Alix Turner said, "in the past a skating rink has been made by students. Last year was the first year it was done by the physical plant. We're going to see if we can get students to do it too."

Due to the water crisis, the University has not agreed to send workers to flood it, she said.

Szendy also proposed that a current University rule allowing student rooms to be entered and legal action taken against the student by police and administrators be eliminated. OHAG voted to send representatives to a residential group meeting with the proposal.

OHAG also voted to survey students concerning the possible purchase of a Cathode Ray terminal for the computer room. Turner said a C.R.T. would be less expensive then the printer-types currently used.

The sinking sun momentarily "lights" up these telephone wires on South Street in Northampton. (Staff photo by Vince DeWitt)

Learning Center™
Help them discover the world of learning with the marvels of today's electronics.
Texas Instruments Incorporated

Special Prices on Learning Center Aids From Texas Instruments
Buy now for the Holidays

	List Price	Special Price		List Price	Special Price
Little Professor	$15.00	$10.95	Speak & Spell	$75.00	$54.95
Dataman	$25.00	$17.95	Speak & Math	$85.00	$59.95
Math Marvel	$35.00	$25.95	Speak & Read	$95.00	$69.95
Spelling B	$40.00	$29.95	Lang. Tutor	$200.00	$149.95
TI35	$25.00	$21.95*

*Everyday Low Price

Open
Mon., Tues., Thurs., Fri. 9-5;
Wed. 9-9; Sat. 11-4

in the Campus Center, University of Mass.
the University Store

Hand-Knit Socks

Comfortable, cozy, and casual . . . Our knee-length socks, hand knit in a cheerful array of colors, are so thick and warm you can wear them as slippers. Tie tops are an interesting detail. Moderately priced at 9.95

EVERY NIGHT 'TIL 9
SUNDAY 12-5
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-5:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication date • Rates: words • Student rate: 10¢ per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Room(s) experienced or two more females to share furnished 4-bdrm + utilities 537-9620.

AUDIO

Large Advent Speakers excellent condition some boxes. $80.00 ea. Mark 546-3965.

Electric Car Stereo sound cassette deck system. 4 months old. $70 obo/trade. Call Chris 546-9742.

AUTO FOR SALE

'74 Impala w/T, A/C, p.s. new clutch, new muffler, $850 o.b.o. 546-8057.

Ford Galaxie 1966 optimum condition $400 or 843-5645.

'80 Camaro SS 5.0 ac, 327-360 hp 4 speed, cassette, ½ paint & pstrn 5000 miles 232-5385.

1975 Audi 100LS four transmission, w/body, and clutch. Just new stereo, sunroof. $1,200 Jon 546-9767.

Subaru Station Wagon 1978. Subaru Seiko 1978 excellent condition 4 speed 4WD wheel drive 36 mpg excellent! 4 speed 4WD call 842-5885 M-F 9-5 pm 4 pm-10 pm.

1974 VW Fastback good condition $700 or $50 546-3911.

BUSINESS CLUB

The Undergraduate Business Club will be holding a party on Wednesday Dec. 3 from 4:30-12:30 in Farm Lodge for all members.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and mail envelopes at home. Earnings unlimited. Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16262 N 7th Cave, Hesperia, CA 92345.

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian Personnel: Advisory Managing Editors, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians, Pan: Experience helpful, interest is even more important. Apply in Pan Handle by Dec. 5 at the Collegian.

ELECTRIC GUITAR

Gibson E.G. Tune-o-Matic bridge, hard shell case, excellent condition $280 negotiable! Chris 546-7665 or 546-8019.

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystem and DJ for hire perfect for band parties, conferences Rick 546-8105.

Expert Magician Denise Siegel currently available for professional services call 258-5758.

Dancers Workshop Monday Dec 8, 1980 7:30 P.M. NOPE Gymnasium Admission FREE

FOR RENT

House to sublet 3-4 bedroom 2 full bath 2 kitchens fireplace to share 3 Deerfield for Jan 1/1 - mid. 846-7729.

Live in Brittany Manor immediately! $180 month inclusive of 257-3767.

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Persian Drawings, call Dennis Kelso 546-3412.

Water Queen or King size waterbed mirror approx. 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, plastic mattress, new, never used. Originally $400.00 now asking $180.00 537-9648 Shannon.

'80 Yamaha 80 Riva good running condition must sell $750 o.b.o.g. 546-3911.

For Sale — Cuisinart Gifts! Hand full specs, excellent brands, rates, insured asset, reasonable prices, also one Mobile Home on actual lot 252-3146 evenings.

Twin Bed excellent condition, mattress, boxspring, frame, sale after Dec 546-8967.

Basketball Tickets for sale Purdue 12/13 call for price 546-3077.

AUTOHAWK BRAND NEW CONDITION, warm comfortable

HELP WANTED

Warmest part-time weddings technicians for major specialty garage planning please call 256-4047 and 246-9161 5 pm-9 pm.

Overseas jobs - Summer and round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia. All fields. $500-$1000 monthly. Sightseeing. Free info, write: Int. Box 52-NW1 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625.

Interested in the Music Business? See it from the inside out. Announcement meeting for Promotions Work Study to add to your resume. Duties include taking promotions recording, answering phones, signing on. Excellent typing and clerical skills organization and responsibility required. Persons in professional and interested in music sought. Positions available for winter quarter. Interviews will be conducted this Wed 3rd 7:45 pm in CP 207 and CP3. Applications are still available for March.

Summer Work travel & earn $2000 assists. Send address, phone to Box 210, Somerset, MA 02726.

Experienced Cocktail Waitresses needed at once. Must be available for interviews. Apply after 6 Sheehan's Cafe Bar Hampton.

Collegian Advertising Dept has openings for Spring Semester. Hardworking, dedicated students of any major may apply in person in either Suite 314 Student Union or Annex #3 in the Ice Pavilion. Apply before Dec. 10.

HELP WANTED MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home. Any age or location. Earnings unlimited. Not an ad. Genuine opportunity. Rush 25¢ and self-addressed stamped envelope to: Associated Enterprises, 1720 Sunset Blvd., Suite 202, Los Angeles, CA 90026.

INSTRUCTION

CYBER: Free computational experience call 865-1723 & 546-1 to be reminded later!

JOBS

Summer Work can be done at more than one location, with times you can't take off from school. Make $ and have fun!

Student working now & some comfy spots they live in Fraternity.

Student Wages & Bus. for taste on Public Rel. for Non Profit Student Self-Help at Affordable Rates (Local Biz).

Are you over 30 yrs. male or fem. don't have to interrupt the living room. Have a Happy Birthday! Jim

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Engineering 546-4272.

$50 R Sun Glass Reg prescr w/black on grey Wednesday 11-26-80.

Lost silver pencil Case Engineers in Chemistry Lec Hall.

Lost silver pencil Case Engineers in Chemistry Lec Hall.

Gregory Hall Room 21 Lost something from 12 noon meeting. Item for return please call Alice 546-2700 or 546-1040.

WARSIN BAZARNICK WITH URGAN LOSE KEEP PACK? PLEASE RETURN BOSRA PAUL DEUCH 845-3574.

Reward! For return of maroon scarf last seen hanging on shoulder from 3rd no questions asked Barry 546-4295.

Size Cardigan Sweater was now Sunday reward call 367-2170.

Green backpack and contents at Amherst Green Building Rewards for questions, 549-3046 Stephanie.

A pair of silver wings on a chain. Please call Susan or Ann at 546-7570 the wings mean alot to us!

PERSONALS

Make Auditorium set for "Up in Smoke" event!

Find out Dec. 11 1, 9, 11

Tutor needed to help student presently for 546 exam Please call 546-4268.

Where will you be when the lights go out? Find out on the pyramids in 1999. Dec. 31 at 9:00.

Jan. 9, Spring Educator - Engineering Building East - 8:30 - Thursday 9:30, 10:30 & 11:30, 12:30.

Library Talk Concert Tonight's the night! Impression - Theatre in Southwest - 7:45 Doors at 8. Brought to you by JDA Mi and Arts Association.

Hey you, you cute ASM - How does it feel to be 22 - older, better looking, smarter, hey! Whatever you're now not in a fraud degree B-day and only friends.

Tom, Go out dancing tonight, you deserve it! Have fun with someone, and if the band doesn't last forever in the evening. Just know I love you. Happy birthday. E.J.

"C. Rabbit, I'll kill. Dave

Craig E. Lamb is forever

Tom - Happy Birthday - the start of another great year Jeff

Who are the new cute girls working with at Bangsters DC?

Happy Birthday Lauren you are a special friend

South Shea you are such a sweetie! I sure hope you have a nice day. And today. Now guess the fact that can prove the fact - what fact we'll have. Love Dan.

Congratulations new sweetheart! We're proud to have one as tall as us! Happiness Engineers of Lambda Chi.

C.H. - you have the best times and moves! A great sister. T.J. Georges.

Hey Diane - A quest of a contract! Wow you are a Pure Gold or a Silver Queen.

Happy Birthday DJ Kenny! Congrats to have 21 candles!

Happy Birthday Doug! Have a great day! Dave.

Today - From the bowels of history to the love house in Watertown, your origin is no longer found. Happy Birthday! I will want to see more - Chapter Cohen.

THE BIRD is my Queen 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10-11-12-13-14-15-16-17-18-19-20-21-22-23-24-25-26-27-28-29-30-31

Happy Birthday gal! To the bravest on parties! Good Luck tonight!

Happy Birthday to an avid user with a penchant for drinking! Have a great one. P.J. Mine pillow!

RICK'S BIRTHDAY

Happy 18th Birthday Rick! The years are to be full!

Rick, Mike Birthday on the snow, Lots of basketball, and snacks, Love Sue

Happy Birthday Rick! Hope each of you! Love Diane

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to San Francisco area within 2 weeks after finals call 546-5439.

ROOM WANTED

Live weekend female wants own room. Call Jeanne 546-3165.

Male looking for room in quiet apt. in house from 12 on or 1-1-81 any summer period. Is summer 256-9958.

Two women looking for household in Amherst on the round call Amy S. 7108 or Debbie S. 1268.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share fabulous apt available immediately $180 + util 549-5134.

1 or 2 females wanted to sublet 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm Southwood Apt. 256-8376 evenings after 3 PM for.

Male to share bdrm/apt - Colonial Village $80 per month. Call Junior after 5:30 256-6795, 6-8 AM.

Room in Sunderland house male prefer and 1/80 January 1st room $80-4814.

Roommate wanted 5/6 to share 2 bdrm apt on bus route Single $85 1/2 utilities.

Room available for 1 or 2 females Jan 1 in 4 person call 549-5146.

Room closer to Green Village Multi Jan to Aug or 9 mo. can include Thru-May more negt. after 6PM

SERVICES

Experienced typist available Cost, rush work, reasonable rates 549-1908.

SONGWRITERS

Folk Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk or country music I would like to interview you and possibly cover work in my research - call Joe at 545-2940 10 am 11:30 am or weekends anytime.

SPRINGSTEEN TICKETS

Springsteen tickets available. Boston garden dec. 15 and 16 only call 549-4347.

TO SUBLET

1 bdrm in 4 bdrm apt Phillips St. Jan w/lo 549-1908.

4 women looking for 3-4 bedroom apt on bus 1-1981 + 2? 549-1412 549-1056.

studio located apt for rent in center of town available Jan 1 call now 256-0106.

One bedroom apt on University Park apt in new complex 5280 month utilities incl. beginning 1-15 call Bob 256-8385.

Apt. Immediate Subsle furnished low rent call Bob at 549-1...

TYPING

Typing Done Fast & Accurate Call Jean 549-1...

WORK WANTED

Will do typing in my home. Call Sue 549-1...

CROSSWORD

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

Abnormal Psychology J. Dunsky

Wednesday
Jim Plunkett
PUB MUG NIGHT
$1.00
Miller Pub
AMHERST
MOTHERS' SURGICAL SCRUB SUITS & PANTS
SCRUB TOPS $9.95 each
PANTS $9.95 each
MISTRESS INSTITUTIONAL TEXTILES CO.

D.C. Menu

LUNCH

DINNER

The Collegian is looking for an

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Applications available in CC 113 or contact Ann Lee at 545-3500 for more information. Applications due by Dec. 5.

★ Mass Notice

★Art Pepper

continued from page 9

high momentum of his predecessors, adding his own original improvisations, which is the name of the game in this kind of blowing session. A trade of choruses between drums and piano close out the soloing, with the sax returning for the restatement of the melody. And this is only the first song.

Next is another original, "Sometime," a slower funky sixteen bar blues. Pepper takes this one on clarinet (the only song where it is used), and sounds as clear and pure as on sax. He cavorts and swings as if someone should remind him that he is not Benny Goodman. This solo is more evidence that the clarinet is an instrument that sorely needs to be rediscovered as the soprano saxophone was in the early sixties.

The side closes with the alto back in the limelight on "Landscape," a medium paced blues that is recognizable only by its twelve bar form ("modern" is as good a description as any, but what's a label between friends?). More solo space is allotted to all, with Pepper leading the way and followed by Cables, Dumas, and trade of fours between alto and drums.

Having their say on the blues, the band changes direction on the second side to explore the ways and means of the thirty two bar form. Opening the side is "Avalon," another fast swinger that gives enough room for all to show off their chops.

Next is "(Somewhere) Over The Rainbow," performed most appropriately as a slow ballad. Pepper opens a cappella, and is followed by the band as he discovers the melody. The soloing is allotted to Pepper and Cables, and they both show a particular affinity toward its melodic nuances and delicate harmonies.

All good things must come to an end, though no one ever explains why, and this album is no exception. The closer is a real smoker that Pepper originally wrote and recorded in his youth. True to his bop roots, he takes it at an outrageous tempo that would have left the Yardbird himself at his limit. It is ironically called "Straight Life." More lines from the sax and piano, and some fours between Pepper and Higgins round things out as the melody returns and the applause dies out and you wonder how forty-nine minutes and thirty seconds of music can go by so fast. And when was the last time you bought an album that was nearly fifty minutes long, and has only two sides? Maybe I'll put it on again..

★Blondie

continued from page 9

background as a demure Debbie gently sings about having a good time through drinking. Its not a speech about alcoholism but is instead about the good life and partying.

Two other tunes spotlight Debbie's vocals. "Faces" and "Follow Me" are two beautiful ballads sung in a languid tone uncharacteristic of the singer, conveying innocence and love. "Faces"contains some fantastic sax work by Tom Scott accompanied by a smooth, drifting piano. Again something unlike what we've come to expect.

The song currently receiving the most airplay is "The Tide Is High," a reggae-latino style piece. This at least sounds like Blondie—it's danceable and fun. The album's disco tune is "Live It Up," which features some opening guitarwork very similar to that of the Talking Heads.

Just as Eht To The Beat contained a parody on disco with "Atomic," Autoamerican has a parody on the "Rapper's Delight" craze with "Rapture." "Atomic" broke disco down to its two simplist forms, a basic unencumbered beat and minimal lyrics. "Rapture" takes the somewhat ridiculous "rap" and turns it into a totally inane tale; "A man from Mars/And you try to run but he's got a gun/And he shoots you dead and he eats your head."

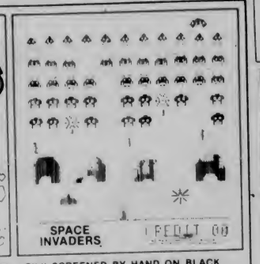
"Angels on the Balcony" and "Walk Like Me" are two songs written by keyboardist Jimmy Destri. Both are powerfully arranged (Mike Chapman is still producing the group) and nicely harmonized. And, like the overall album, totally enjoyable.

The band seems to be over its cynicism and appears comfortable in its success. All the themes are light and fantasy-like in approach—tales of the good life. Because of its lyrical detachment and lightness (and versatility of material) Autoamerican transcends the dichotomies of good and bad and is instead "nice." Sit back and enjoy it.



OFFICIAL T-SHIRTS SILK SCREENED BY HAND ON BLACK HIGH QUALITY 50-50 T-SHIRTS

• Sizes Available CHILDRENS 10-12 and 14-16 ADULTS S-M-L-XL • $5.95 + 80¢

Send your Personal Check M.O. or VISA/Master Charge (Number & Expiration Date) Postage & Handling

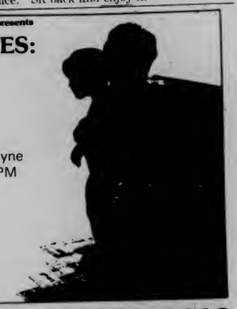
To the WIZ KIDS, Post Office Box 1074, Brewster, MA 02631

Prompt Delivery • A Great Christmas Present • "Distributor Inquiries Welcome"

T.M. of ATARI CORP. T.M. of TAITO AMER CORP.

The Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration presents

EXPRESSIVE THERAPIES:
An Exploration Through Film



December 3, Wednesday
Magic Mirror of Eloyse
Art Therapy: Beginnings
Gestalt Art Experience with Jane Rhyne
Wednesday Night in SBA 120 @ 8 PM
@ University of Mass.
Simon Keochakian, Moderator

FREE

****

Yugoslavian Film Festival

Five short films:

1) "Messengers from the Stars"
Alien visitors are surprised by life on Earth.
- Animated -

2) "Ecce Home"
Man in his infinite variety.
- Animated -

3) "The Mill"
A depiction of a primitive rural abortion

4) "The Parting"
Traditional Yugoslavian views of the meaning of death.

5) "Let's Rejoice"
An old peoples' home that is far from our expectations.

Tonight Dec. 3
Thompson 102
8 pm

Presented by the UMass Arts Council and Governors Program Council, with assistance from Dr. Joel Halpern and the Department of Anthropology.

Sports notices

It's not too late to sign up for Blue Water Diving courses offered by Project DEEP during Wintersession. DEEP is offering two Sport Diving courses, one in Key Largo, Florida Jan. 3-10 ($300) and another to Cozumel, Mexico Jan. 4-11 ($775 including air fare). These courses are worth 2 GPE credits each. Also offered Jan. 11-18 in Key Largo is a Coral Reef Biology course worth one grad/undergrad Botany credit ($320). For more information contact Mary Ann Ryan 584-0456 or the GPE and Botany offices.

Attention intramural ice hockey players: If you plan to play next semester you must register your team at the Intramural Office. Team roster, health forms, and $25 deposits due Dec. 15, 1980.

Hang Gliding Club meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in CC 803. All club members urged to attend. Club Christmas party (Dec. 6) to be discussed, also, Valentine's Day fund-raising event. New club members welcome.

Intramural basketball managers must attend one of the following meetings in order to pick up their schedule for next semester's play: Wed., Dec. 10 at 6 p.m. in room 249 Boyden; Thurs., Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. in room 249 Boyden. If the manager is unable to attend either of these meetings, another authorized representative for the team must attend.

There will be meetings for intramural basketball referees in room 249 Boyden at 7 p.m. on Mon., Dec. 8; Tues., Dec. 9 and Wed., Dec. 10. All referees should attend one of these meetings.

★Awards

continued from page 16

Honorable mention: the drunken fools who pelted each other with snowballs at the BC game...BIGGEST SLIGHTS BY POST-SEASON SELECTION COMMITTEES—Dan Petrie being named just second team Yankee Conference, and Scott Crowell being ignored all together. It makes you wonder...MOST ATROCIOUS WEATHER CONDITIONS—The BU Monsoon...CLASS MOVES OF THE YEAR—Garry Pearson saying his offensive line deserved the UConn game ball; the team giving the Holy Cross game ball to injured quarterback Tim Fontaine; defensive coordinator Jim Reid taking the blame for the Delaware loss...LEAST CLASSY QUOTE OF THE YEAR—Selected BU players: "UMass sucks."...MVP (DEFENSE)—The entire starting team and their substitutes. "There are no individuals in team defense." (Jim Reid)...MVP (OFFENSE)—Garry Pearson, and his offensive line ("They make the holes, I just run through 'em."—Pearson)...MOST UNPLEASANT THOUGHT—Bob Manning, Mike Barbiasz, Brian Heyworth, Frank DiTommaso, Jim Mullins, John Allen, Tim Fonatine, Fred Read, and Bill Schipani are all graduating... MOST PLEASANT THOUGHT—Everyone else is back.

UPC PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS Duke Ellington Committee

A REGGAE DANCE with

MONYAKA
AND LOOSE CABOOSE
DECEMBER 6, 1980
AT THE STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

Tickets on sale Now
$2.50 UMass Students $4.00 General Public
Available at
Tix, Union Records Unlimited, and For the Record at Faces
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions

Women's Monogrammed Sweaters

Style 1
Style 31
Style N51 Caps
Style N51 Names in Script
Style 4

(similar to picture)

Special Offer on Women's Monogrammed Crewneck Sweater
Four Colors To Choose From:
Grey, Tan, Green, Light Blue
Five Lettering Styles

Reg. $23.95 INTRODUCTORY OFFER $19.95

(please allow two weeks for delivery)
Obtain details in the clothing department

Mon, Tues, Thurs, Fri 9 am-5pm
Wed 9am-9pm
Sat 11am-4pm

in the Campus Center Univ of Mass

the University Store

BARSELOTTI'S
Whoop & Holler Night
nine till closing
16 oz. Knick & Shot $1.25
Downtown Amherst

Holiday Gift Books

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize
Godel, Escher, Bach: An External Golden Braid
by Douglas R. Hofstadter
A surprise literary sensation. The book seeks to explain Godel's seminal contribution to modern mathematics by comparing it to the paintings of Escher and the music of Bach and to Abbey Dodes' parallels to the human mind. It was named one of the best books of the year by the N.Y. Times Book Review, and "the Odyssey of [self-science books]" by the Village Voice
$8.95 from Vantage Books

The Covenant
by James A. Michener
This towering saga of South Africa is a magnificent successor to James A. Michener's Chesapeake, which sold over 900,000 copies in hardcover. Once again, America's best-selling storyteller combined real and fictional characters in a factual historical setting, weaving an enthralling drama of exotic adventure and brute heroism, of love and loyalty and cruel betrayal.
The turbulent story begins 15,000 years ago with a clan of small brown bush people moving across a feeble African desert in search of water. Then descendants in the 15th century are slaves—gold miners under the supervision of the powerful and fascinating Koumalo—who is an ancestor of one of the three principal families in The Covenant a centuries long epic.
In the mid-1600s, one of the original Dutch settlers at the Cape of Good Hope is Willem van Doorn, first of ten generations who dominate this vast novel, and contributor to a racial mixture that will later be despised and repressed. For 150 years, the van Doorns and their countrymen take over the land, destroying or pushing aside the original inhabitants as their God given right.
In the early 19th century, the English arrive in large numbers, now the Sallvestis of Salisbury share the stage as a new era of violent conflict begins—devastating Boer War, and Mr. Michener's tremendous story surges forward to the strife torn present. For literally millions of readers, The Covenant will be fresh confirmation that James A. Michener is without peer as a historical novelist. Chesapeake remained on the New York Times best seller list for more than a year in hardcover. The Covenant is clearly destined for similar success

List $13.95 15.95 from Random House

Cosmos
by Carl Sagan

This visually stunning book with over 250 full-color illustrations, many of them never before published, is based on Carl Sagan's 13 part television series. Told with Sagan's remarkable ability to make science both comprehensible and exciting, Cosmos retraces the 15 billion years of cosmic evolution that have transformed matter into life and consciousness, enabling the Cosmos to wonder about itself. It considers the latest findings on life elsewhere and how we might communicate with the beings of other worlds. It also explores spacecraft missions of discovery to the nearby planets, the research in the Library of ancient Alexandria, the human brain, the origin of life, the death of the Sun, the evolution of galaxies, and the origins of matter, suns, and worlds.
Cosmos is the story of our long journey of discovery and of the forces and individuals who helped to shape modern science. Sagan looks at our planet from an extraterrestrial vantage point and sees a blue jewel-like world, inhabited by a life form that is just beginning to discover its own unity and to venture forth into the vast ocean of space.
David Duncan Professor of Astronomy and Space Sciences at Cornell University, Carl Sagan has played a leading role in the Mariner, Viking, Voyager missions, won the Pulitzer Prize for literature for The Dragons of Eden and NASA Medals for Exceptional Scientific Achievement and Distinguished Public Service.
List $17.95 19.95 from Random House

The Next Whole Earth Catalog
Access to Tools
edited by Stewart Brand

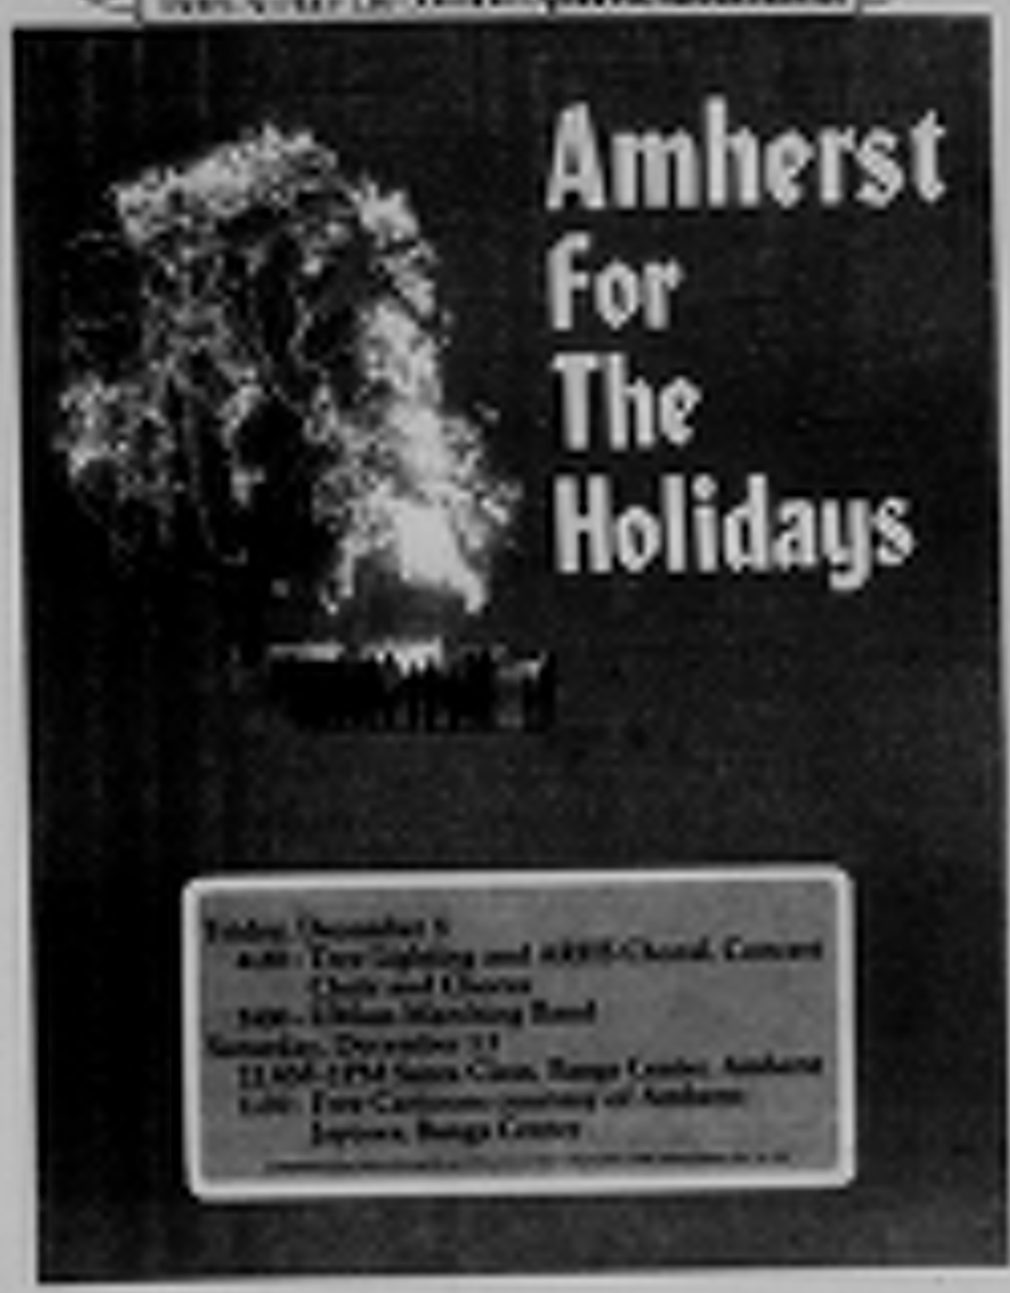
The phenomenal best seller of the 1970s is now bigger and better than ever—completely revised, updated, and redesigned to help us survive the economic, ecological, and political perils of the eighties.
This comprehensive, how-to-do-it, where-to-get-it reference manual is expanded by more than 150 pages. Stressing self-reliance as the better way (indeed, nowadays for most of us the only way), it ventures boldly and authoritatively into areas of particular concern for this decade: home computers, the latest in medical self-care, seed home tools and suppliers, an evaluation of nursing and assorted books, hologram for the dying, birth-control systems, farm supply catalogs, solar energy and alternative technology, how to be an entrepreneur without going to business school, plus much more specific information that will help anyone—from the innovative young to the determined elderly—to cope successfully with the vagaries of our times.
The new or revised listings meet the same stringent criteria for inclusion (as the old): an item only appears if it is 1) useful as a tool, 2) relevant to independent education, 3) of high quality or low cost, 4) easily available by mail. The original Catalog (1968) was a National Book Award winner went through several revised editions, with total sales of 1.6 million copies.
$12.50 from Random House

in the Campus Center, University of Mass.
M,T, Th, Fri 9-5 Wed 9-9 Sat 11-4
the University Store

Sports

Hoopmen host Harvard in UM home opener

McHale, Celtics down Pistons

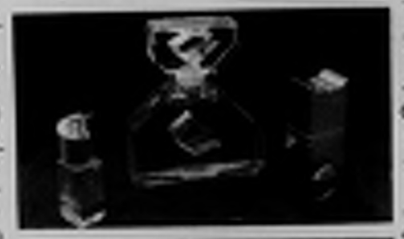


What do

Halston
Gardain
Caron
Caralin
Opium
Diane von Furstenberg
Chanel
Christian Dior
Gucci
Paloma
Aprege
Ralph Lauren
Calvin Klein
Nina Ricci
Bal à Versailles
Molyneux
4711
Chloe

have in common?

College Drug, of course!



COLLEGE DRUG

IN AMHERST CENTER FOR 75 YEARS

4 Main St., Amherst 253-2523

Bolles Shoes... for the holidays

A large selection of:

Men's & Women's Boots & Shoes
Men's & Women's Slippers
Etienne Aigner Handbags
Sweaters and Small Leather Goods

Choose a gift from such quality names as — BOOKPORT, CLARKS, REA, DEXTER, OLD MAINE TROTTERS, MANISTEE

Bolles Shoes

8 Main St., Amherst
Daily 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

THE SALT BOX

56 Main St., Amherst
253-9000
Christmas Room
Starting Dec. 7 - Nov. 15
Extra Hrs. 11-15 10-5 P.M.

AT THE SALT BOX

the ambience is comfort and warmth.
To match the history of a winter woodland stroll.

Our casual sweaters a replica with the essentials

Skirts, Jackets and Vests
Winter Wonderland of Sweaters
Classic Corduroy Pants

Ask, the proper accessories to complete the picture...

Hats, Scarves, Mittens & Gloves, Pocketbooks and Totes.

Plumbley's

of the common

Free Glass of Wine with each dinner purchase of Chicken, Veal, Burgundy

Plumbley's

54 Belmont Park
Amherst Center
253-5555

December* Dinner for Two $10.95

Choice of

- London Broil with baked potato
- Shrimp Parisian with rice pilaf
- Stuffed Sole Florentine with tomato sauce with baked potato
- Broiled Boneless Breast of Chicken Marsala with rice pilaf

Sunday thru Thursday 5 p.m. 'til...

*Not Good Monday, Dec. 1st thru Tues., Dec. 30th

CHRISTMAS 1980

Make it merrier with cards, gift wrap, decorations, stocking stuffers and gifts from...

The Paper Clip Ltd.

25 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

DECEMBER STORE HOURS

For your convenience, many Downtown stores will be open MONDAYS through FRIDAYS Dec. 12 - 23, 'till 8 p.m.

SUNDAYS, December 7, 14, 21, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Check with your favorite store!

Amherst
Massachusetts
Center of Distinction

Special holidays deserve special desserts.

Like Baskin-Robbins Christmas Tree Ice Cream Cake.

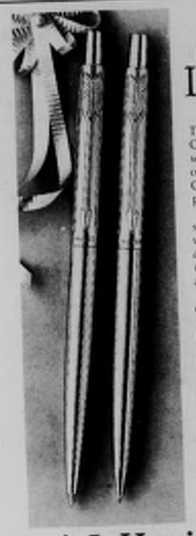
Ice Cream Gift Certificates

Don't get stuck... at the last minute.

BASKIN-ROBBINS ICE CREAM STORE

28 Main St., Amherst 253-9774

Town Hall Bus Stop, 8th & Bird Rts.



Christmas Impressions

The best possible Christmas gift—one that will be enjoyed every day of the year—a Parker Classic ball pen and pencil set.

The design is impressively slender. The weight beautifully balanced. The clip, the world-famous Parker arrow.

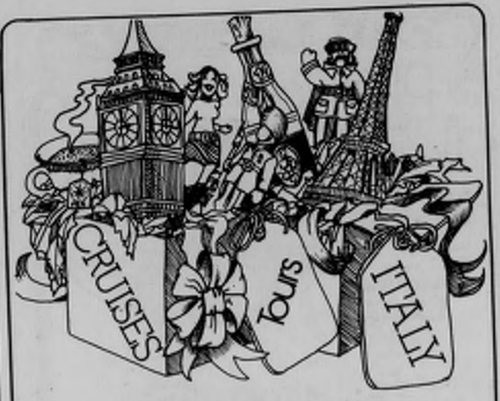
Parker Classic sets for everyone on your gift list, in four distinctive metal finishes: solid sterling silver, gleaming 18K heavy gold electroplate, luxurious heavy silver plate, handsome brushed stainless steel.

$15.00

Make an impression with Parker

PARKER

A.J. Hastings, Inc.
Newsdealer—Stationer
45 South Pleasant Street



Give Travel For Christmas ...

Amherst Travel Consultants, Inc.

27 South Pleasant Street
Amherst, Massachusetts

256-6704

"I'm a special agent."

Since I'm a real estate agent working for myself, there's no company retirement plan. But I have something better.

It's a retirement plan for self-employed people that let's me put up to 15% of my income, or $7500 (whichever is smaller), in Amherst Savings Bank each year.

The money is free of current Federal income taxes. Pretty nice, for someone who may not have a boss, but has a great bank behind her.

Amherst Savings Bank
It feels good to have a great bank behind you.

When you think of Christmas,
Think of Thompson's-
House of warm, ultrafashionable clothes.

Hampshire County's oldest men's and women's clothing store!

We know how to please.

FREE GIFT WRAPPING

THOMPSON'S
13 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

Silverplated GNOMES by TOWLE

PEWTER MUGS Reg. 19.75 $16.75

LENOX BAR CRYSTAL

20% OFF

Let us help you select gifts which show you care!

Fred J. Houtk Jeweler

65 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-7615

Heartfelt Leather
103 Pleasant St., Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon.-Sat. • Open 'til 9 p.m. Fridays
253-[illegible]

Finest in Leather Gifts
by
Bass, Frye, Tory Lama

Justin, Timberland &
Bick Sheepskin Coats

Gift Certificates Available.

Holiday Hours Starting December 1
Mon. - Fri. 10-9, Sat. 10-6

WAX N WANE
Holiday Sale

20% OFF

- Blouses
- Sweaters
- Skirts
- Dresses

Chic Jeans $22.95

Chic Cords $24.95

WAX N WANE

Downtown Amherst

Chicopee Fairfield Mall

GIFTS

rainbow prisms

The FLOWER CART

FACES

A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6 Mon-Sat

DOWN IN THE VALLEY

SAVE 35% to 60%

DOWN OUTERWEAR FOR THE FAMILY

WE'RE OPEN!

GRAND OPENING IN DOWNTOWN AMHERST!

Ladies Downy Coats 90.00

Children's Parkas 20.00/30.00

Women's Parkas 50.00

Unisex Vests 20.00/30.00

Unisex Parkas 30.00/60.00

Mens Vests 25.00/40.00

Thermal Ski Socks 2.00

OPENING SPECIAL

MEN'S ALL DOWN VESTS 30.00

197 N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST

AND MAIN ST., NORTHAMPTON, MA.

SOPHIA bookshop

Ingenious, Durable

TOYS

for the "pixies in your life"

All run on Childpower

Furry Folk Wild-Life Puppets
Flipperdingers
& Whimmy Diddles
Wooden Folk Toys
Swings, Climbing Ropes
Rope Ladders and of course
Books

FOR CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

102 North Pleasant Street
Amherst 253-5576

A Great Gift

Nylon Napsack
Waterproof Carry-alls
16.99 - 25.99

the SHOE BIN

187 n. pleasant st., amherst, ma.

Happy Holidays!

We wish to take this opportunity to wish all of our customers and friends a very joyous holiday season.

Jones-Neylon
Insurance Agency Inc.
"Service Beyond the Obligation"
P.O. Box L 185 North Pleasant Street Amherst, 256-6401

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Let FLOORTRENDS add the Holiday Spirit to your Home Personally...

AREA RUGS • WALL TO WALL
FLOOR TILES • CERAMICS
DESIGNER RUGS
Featuring
FAMOUS BRAND QUALITY
at
PRICES YOU CAN AFFORD!

FLOORTRENDS

322 COLLEGE ST., AMHERST

GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES

Stocking Stuffers • Gifts (Mostly 25¢ to $25)
Jewelry • Blouses • Skirts
Tree Ornaments • Cards • Posters
Crystals • Boxes • Tins • Vases
Wallets • Mugs • Tea Sets
Imported Soaps • Framed Prints
Calendars • Totes • Mobiles
Memos • Combs • Pins

Many Unadvertised Specials!

THE MERCANTILE

AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS - 11 EAST PLEASANT ST. 549-1396

SUNDAY 12-5 P.M.
DAILY 10 A.M. - 6 P.M.
8:30 P.M. WEEKNIGHTS
DEC. 10-23

THE PUB
Amherst Massachusetts
Corner of Univeristy
EATING & DRINKING
Happy Holidays!
LUNCH from 11:30 a.m. daily...
DINNER from 4:30 'til 9 p.m.

Insurance is service
...and service is people.

Over the years our customers have come to us and stayed with us because we have put them first. We give our customers what they are looking for in insurance — solid protection, security and peace of mind. We offer sound and prudent insurance advice, to help you protect your home, your automobile, your business and your personal needs. We'll be glad to serve you, too.

Blair, Cutting & Smith
Insurance Agency, Inc.

A full service, locally involved, independent insurance agency.

71 South Pleasant Street, Amherst • 256-8541

Stanley H. KAPLAN
Educational Center
Call Days Evenings & Weekends

Prepare during intersession for:

FEB. — LSAT
FEB. — GRE
APRIL — GMAT
APRIL — SAT

Call now to reserve your space.
IN AMHERST
264 N. Pleasant St.
253-5100, 253-5263
IN BOSTON
617-482-7420

DECEMBER STORE HOURS

For your convenience, many Downtown stores will be open
MONDAYS through FRIDAYS
Dec. 12 - 23, 'till 8 p.m.
SUNDAYS, December 7, 14, 21, from 1 to 5 p.m.
Check with your favorite store!

Amherst Massachusetts
Corner of Univeristy

This message sponsored by The Amherst Record
and
The Daily Hampshire Gazette

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian

Volume CX, Issue 68 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA Thursday, December 4, 1980

Trustees hike student fees despite protest

Trustees vote against in-state tuition increase

By KATIE SIMMS
Collegian Staff

BOSTON - University of Massachusetts trustees followed a committee recommendation yesterday and hiked student fees by $266 despite protests from students that the amount was unjustified.

The trustees also voted down a proposal to raise tuition for in-state students by $75 during a Board meeting held yesterday in the University's executive offices on Broad Street.

Student Trustee Richard LaVoie, co-president of the student Government Association on the Amherst campus, said trustees took all the student fee hike was to cover $385,000 that the University expected to make in another underpayment from the campus last year but didn't.

"The students are paying for the University's mistakes," he said.

However, trustees voted almost unanimously in favor of the increase as recommended by the Committee on Student Affairs and Committee on Budget and Finance which reviewed the proposal November 11. The fee hike will mean a $100 increase in room, $101 in board, a $2 increase for health services and a $4 increase for athletics.

A bid by Board student representatives from the Amherst campus attended the meeting in support but did not address the trustees. Trustee James Kennedy, who reported the fee proposal out of committee, complained at one point that the students were appealing directly to the trustees without going through proper administrative channels. Chairman Joseph P. Healy agreed but allowed the students to register their complaints.

Trustees defeated a $75 tuition hike proposal, which is also what the two committees recommended. Several trustees questioned the wisdom of "skipping a year" of tuition hikes, which would eventually have to be made up in future years.

UMass President David C. Knapp said "a $3 per cent increase would be justified but the financial aid situation in Washington is very cloudy."

Dale Knapp of the Board of Regents, which will take control of state higher education in March, "it is fair to say our 50% may look small compared to what some of them may be thinking. It could be a rewarding process. We agree tuition...then they raise tuition even more."

In a separate action, trustees passed a resolution generally supporting the idea of student representation on educational boards and specifically citing how the UMass Board has benefitted from student trustees. The resolution is aimed at the state legislature, which will consider several bills next year proposing that a student representative be appointed to the Board of Regents with full voting power.

The trustees stood away from a resolution actually calling for a student regent, stating they were "premature about it, not attempting to tell the legislature they should be considered."

In other action, the trustees voted to build a greenhouse and a UMass-Worcester resource Development Laboratory in the Central Residential Area at UMass-Amherst, to cook the entering fee waiver, tuition waivers and assigned tuition to UMass-Amherst professors Elizabeth Bryant and George H. Hollowell.

In executive session, trustees awarded honorary degrees for 1981. The names will be released later next year.

The students are paying for the University's mistakes.
– Richard LaVoie, Student Trustee and SGA Co-president

UM Boston profs stage 'sick-out'

By SUSAN SIMMS
Collegian Staff

BOSTON - Picket with canes and a two day sick out where all but three of the University of Massachusetts at Boston members of the campus Faculty Staff Union and the Massachusetts Society of Professors first picketed then addressed the UMass Board of Trustees yesterday.

The 60 union members and student supporters of the Board meeting, held in the University's fifth floor of boiler, were protesting stalled contract negotiations that have been going three weeks months.

Spokesman Howard Cohen, chief of the philosophy department at UMass-Boston, told trustees the faculty viewed the University administration as "inactive, administrative and substitute corps" in collective bargaining.

Cohen said a sick out, staged Tuesday and yesterday with "90 percent effective." The said only six out of 230 classes at UMass-Boston were held Tuesday.

"In this job action is a measure of the anger of the faculty and its support the contract has," he said.

In a written statement, UMass President David C. Knapp urged the Boston faculty and staff to "meet their commitment to students during this 'critical' point of the academic year."

He stated, "We have focused on those items which were left unresolved at the end of the last contract and those parts of the previous contract which have proven difficult to implement. We believe that our offer of economical approach could have led to an early settlement."

Contractual Cohen: "They offered us a 12 percent (wage) increase across the board as their first and final offer. To present an offer as first and final is unnecessary. It is the administration that is unnerving."

Later, during the report to the trustees, Knapp said it is illegal for public employees to engage in sick-out, and that the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission is holding an investigation into the sick-out. He said participants will be docked pay for those days.

The picket coincided with meeting of a trustee ad hoc committee on collective bargaining held behind closed doors before the full board meeting, but procedure were unaware of the meeting.

Before the full board met in a closed session to discuss contract negotiations, they gave power of veto-proof approval to the ad hoc committee since the full board will not meet again until February. Usually, the full board votes on contracts.

Because of the closing of the glassblowing class at UMass, students like Stephen Ramos will have to find other ways of participating in this unique and traditional art. (Staff photo by Kris Craig)

Raytheon awards grant to School of Engineering

The Raytheon Company has awarded the University of Massachusetts school of Engineering $600,000 as part of the school's drive to collect $2 million dollars in funding.

The grant which provides stipends for 15 graduate students in the electrical engineering masters program, will run through the next five years. Students who are selected to receive the stipends will be able to continue their thesis studies while working for Raytheon, said Dean of Engineering Harold C. Jones.

The flow of graduates from the universities and the radar technology programs are quickly drying up Jones said. The new funding will allow the school to update and upgrade its equipment. Included in the grant is $600,000 a year for equipment to expand the UMass microwave department, he said.

The grant, a part of an entire six University capital fund drive to $2 in for the lack of state support, Jones said. The monies will be used to purchase laboratory equipment installed in the labs during UMass' expansion in the sixties. Jones said through the intervening years and the constant use from students, much of the original equipment has worn out. He added that rapidly changing technology has left much of the present equipment in what is considered the "archaic" age, and students leaving the University are not familiar with the tools and devices used in industry.

Jones said the funding received from Raytheon has brought the campaign funds to nearly $2 million which added to $1 million already received from contributions from alumni and students along with other companies.

Jones, along with the head of the Electrical and Computer Engineering Department Dr. Charles G. Hutchinson, said the grants from Raytheon will be used as the model for future funding drives and this is the first grant which gives students an opportunity to step directly into a company from the school.

Carter warns Soviets against invading Poland

By MARK S. SMITH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Carter expressed concern yesterday at the buildup of Soviet forces along the Polish border and warned the Russians that military action against Poland "would have the most negative consequences."

Carter, in a terse written statement issued by the White House, warned that U.S. policies and attitudes "toward the Soviet Union would be directly and very adversely affected by any Soviet use of force in Poland."

The president's statement referred to the Russian military buildup on the Polish border as "unprecedented" and added: "Foreign military intervention in Poland would have most negative consequences for East-West relations in general and U.S. Soviet relations in particular."

Other U.S. officials had said yesterday there is no evidence that the Soviet Union has decided to move troops across the Polish border but one Carter aide told reporters "there has been indication of growing Soviet readiness to engage" in military intervention. This aide, who asked anonymity, said there were no signs that such action was imminent.

In his statement, Carter said: "The United States is watching with growing concern the unprecedented buildup of Soviet forces along the Polish border and the closing of certain frontier regions along the border. The United States has also taken note of Soviet references to alleged 'anti-socialist' forces within Poland. We know from postwar

turn to page 7

Array of messages flies over Syrian, Jordan border

By LOUIS FARES
Associated Press

DAMASCUS, Syria—A Saudi Arabian mediator shuttled between Amman and Damascus on yesterday to try to head off a Syrian-Jordan war. Jordan's information minister denied that King Hussein had accepted Syrian conditions for ending the border crisis.

Prince Abdullah Bin Abdul-Aziz, a deputy premier of the oil-rich nation that finances arms purchases by both Syria and Jordan, arrived from Amman for talks with President Hafez Assad after meeting Hussein in the Jordanian capital.

As Abdullah met with Assad, Syrian officials warned that war between the two Arab states would be inevitable if Jordan failed to meet Syria's terms for ending the crisis.

Syria, charging that Jordan was backing a fundamentalist Islamic group trying to overthrow Assad and was changing its stance toward the Palestine Liberation Organization, moved 50,000 troops and 1,200 tanks to the border with Jordan. Hussein responded by rushing 30,000 Jordanian troops to the tense frontier.

The crisis appeared to ease when Jordanian officials said Tuesday that Jordan had agreed to Syria's demands for a written statement that Jordan was not aiding terrorists of the Moslem Brotherhood and that Jordan recognized the PLO as the sole representative of Palestinians. Syria also pulled back some troops from the border, according to reports from Damascus and Amman.

State Senate gives approval of bill to bail out MBTA

BOSTON—The Massachusetts Senate, faced with a shutdown tomorrow of the insolvent Boston transit system, approved its own version of a $41 million bail-out for the agency yesterday, proposing that the state would pick up the entire bill.

The action set the stage for a shutdown with the House that is expected to focus on who should pay the $41 million needed to keep trains and buses rolling the rest of the month. The House version would require Boston and its suburbs to pay part of that expense.

The Senate vote was 26-10 and the leadership of both branches immediately sought to work out a compromise.

Digest

Associated Press

Widow of Mao Tse-tung admits framing former leader

PEKING—Mao Tse-tung's widow admitted in court yesterday that she led a group in rigging up false evidence against then Chinese President Liu Shao-chi and ordered the arrest of his glamorous, U.S.-born wife on charges she was an American spy, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

Peking Radio reported earlier that Jiang Qing quibbled and evaded questions in response to charges that she led "the nation's greatest frame-up" — the seizure of Liu, who died in jail in 1969, and his wife Wang Guangmei.

Chinese sources had said Jiang Qing, leader of the Gang of Four, appeared self-assured before the Supreme People's Court

Truck digs through rubble of buildings in Teora, Italy, yesterday, as rescue and clean-up operations continue following the major earthquake that hit Italy Nov. 3. No new casualties were reported yesterday despite nearly a dozen aftershocks. (AP Laserphoto)

SUNDAY 12-5
FAGES
Downtown Amherst

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 331 220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003

Spirit Haus

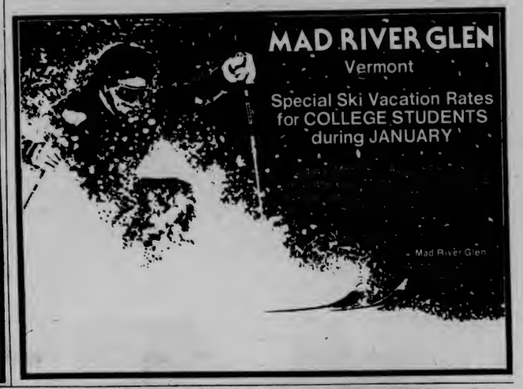
The full-line liquor store that's close - and has convenient free parking.

WEEKLY SPECIALS
ON BEERS, LIQUORS AND WINE
THAT HELP KEEP ENTERTAINING AFFORDABLE!

Largest selection of wines in Amherst - and a friendly, knowledgeable sales staff.

KEGS - ICE - CUPS - SNACKS

338 College Street (rte 9 East) Amherst
Open till 11 p.m. Telephone 253-5384



The Distinguished Visitors Program
presents

TOZAMILE BOTHA

Topic: Black Worker's Struggle and the Role of U.S. Corporations in South Africa.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5
2:30 PM THOMPSON 104

Co-sponsored by
Center for Racial Studies
Commuter Collective
Scera Anti-Racism Team

LaVoice lashes at Senate for 'lack of input'

By KEN ROSS
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association Co-President Richard LaVoice last night lashed out at the Undergraduate Student Senate body for what he termed its "lack of input" into student and campus issues.

LaVoice was referring specifically to yesterday afternoon's Trustees' meeting in which a $266 student fee increase was approved. In the meeting, SGA Treasurer Al Wallace was to make a presentation protesting a $46 increase in student fees because of a $245,000 overestimate in the budget on the part of the Board of Regents, but the presentation was never given because the Treasurer had been given the wrong information by the Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee, LaVoice said.

LaVoice said the overestimate was due to the Transcendental Meditation Group, which occupied University facilities last summer, not returning this summer. The University had realized a $245,000 profit from the TM conference and had projected it into this year's budget. When it was found that the group would not be returning, the $245,000 became a deficit and was passed on to students through residence hall fees.

Rents and fees Committee member Bob Cleary said that he had received these figures from University Vice-Chancellor George Beatty at the Board of Trustees Budget Committee meeting on November 19.

LaVoice also criticized the Senate for not appearing at the Trustees meeting yesterday. About eight students from the campus were present, said LaVoice.

"The presentations at the meeting never materialized, and it was both frustrating and disappointing for me," said LaVoice. "A $266 unnecessary increase was passed at that meeting, and we could have sliced maybe $40 off if we had been prepared, and if we had had some student support."

In other business, the Senate passed a motion to revise the Course and Teacher Evaluation booklets put out by the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee each semester.

This spring, the Committee will draw course and teacher evaluations directly from students through a mailing system. Formerly, the evaluations were drawn from questionnaires students filled out in classes at the end of the semester.

The Committee has had trouble in the past gaining access to these evaluations, and this semester's booklet contained only about 500 of a possible 1400 course evaluations in compiling its booklet.

Nursing division awaits decision on school status

By DIANE ROMELL
Collegian Correspondent

The question of where the Nursing Division of the tri-campus system of the University of Massachusetts should be located has been undecided for almost 10 years, and instructors in the Amherst Campus division say they want it resolved now.

The ambiguity that exists in the Division of Nursing dates back to the early 70's said Nursing Instructor Sally Tripp.

She said questions exist about whether the division should be again granted school status, as it had before 1973 what kinds of programs should be initiated, and whether the Nursing Program should be confined to the Amherst Campus or the Worcester Campus, which houses the medical school, or both.

In recent interviews Tripp and Nursing Instructor Ellen Cole related the history of the problems in the nursing division:

In 1973, the School of Nursing became a division in the School of Health Sciences. By Fall 1978, the nursing faculty proposed a request for the return of school status. The Faculty Senate approved the request, but the administrators of the University still have not made a decision regarding this matter.

The Undergraduate program was overenrolled in the mid 70's which led the division to close admissions to incoming students. By January 1978, admissions reopened again to undergraduates because the program was no longer overenrolled.

While Undergraduate admissions were closed, the Graduate Nursing Program also closed and suspended their admissions. Cole said that was done so that administrative decisions could be made about where the school would reopen.

It was at this time when the University President's office and the chancellors of the Amherst and Worcester campuses appointed an outside committee to recommend where and how the nursing program should be initiated. This committee spent time on both campuses and filed a paper summarizing their findings Tripp said.

They recommended the nursing division stay on the Amherst campus and that it be re-established as the School of Nursing. The committee also suggested that both the Undergraduate and Gradute programs be reopened, but that priority be given to the Graduate Program. These recommendations have been considered but no decision has been reached yet, Cole said.

The faculty of the nursing division have made various recommendations over the years, regarding health related programs on the Amherst and Worcester campuses. No reponse has been made to those reports yet.

The lack of action and distraught feelings among the faculty of the Division of Nursing led to a meeting held last Monday, Nov. 24 attended by both Provost Loren Baritz and Associate Provost Robert C. Sleigh. Cole said the faculty members told Baritz they thought their faculty rights and governance might have been violated.

Ruth Smith, acting director of the Division of Nursing, said neither the directors nor the instructors have had any direct input into the negotiations and the decision making process. She said they want the issue of the two proposals to be acted on immediately.

As a result of the meeting, Cole and Tripp said they feel Chancellor Henry Koffler and Provost Baritz are interested in keeping the Nursing Program on the Amherst Campus. Tripp said Baritz has described it as a "political decision" that must be made at the Presidents office in Boston and not here. Cole said Baritz is anxious to get a program of higher caliber moving in the School of Nursing.

Tripp said Baritz assured the faculty they would have a chance to respond and participate in the programming of the school, once decisions were made on the future of the division.

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

RSO's offer preparation, support

Veterinary club readies students for careers

Editor's Note: The following articles are part of the series on Recognized Student Organizations which will be appearing until the end of the semester in the Collegian.

By JUDI JASUREK
Collegian Staff

Applying to veterinary schools? Are you wondering what your chances are of getting in, and what your alternatives are if you are rejected? There is a club at the University of Massachusetts that may be able to help you.

The pre-veterinary club organizes people who are interested in becoming veterinarians and provides services for its members.

Tips on how to prepare and apply to veterinary schools are just a couple of the services they offer.

The club has lecturers schedules for most of the meetings and also has plans to go on several field trips. Last year the club went to Angell Memorial Animal Hospital in Boston.

"Its been a lot of fun," said Amy Wood, secretary of the club. Fred Giuftrida, president of the club, said they try to provide an outlet for students other than their pre-veterinary advisor. "People are more on your level here," said Giuftrida.

Students from Stockbridge, University of Massachusetts, and the 5-college system are eligible to join, and new members are always welcome.

Because membership dues are only a dollar, the club must find other means of attaining funds Giuftrida said, so the club is planning to sponser a movie next semester and run a consession stand at the Livestock Classic to get money.

The club is currently soliciting in formation on Tufts University of Veterinary Medicine, the only veterinary school in New England, to promote donations to the school.

Another opportunity the club provides is a chance to subscribe to "Intervet," a newspaper put out by veterinary students which gives tips on how to study for exams and other animal science information.

They also make available current pamphlets and brochures on topics of interest to members.

The club meets every other Monday at 7 p.m. in room 202 Paige Laboratory.

Pre-vet. major Walter Breau.
(Staff photos by Vince DeWitt)

Myra Hindus, coordinator of direct services and training against violence against women, at the Everywomen's Center.

Group provides outlet for victimized women

By JUDI JASUREK
Collegian Staff

Have you been raped? Are you a victim of incest? You're not alone. There are groups and people that care and want to help you.

"You need not suffer from isolation any longer," said Myrah Hindus, coordinator of direct services and training against violence against women, at the University of Massachusetts. Hindus urges women to join the sexual assault support groups that are offered through the Everywoman's center.

There are two groups. One is for women who have been raped and the other is for women over 35 who have been victims of incest when they were children.

The groups are free and confidential. They are run by trained advocates that care, and the woman running the group for women sexually abused as children is a victim herself.

turn to page 11

Job hunting begins with files

Editor's Note: this is the second of a three part series on job hunting strategies.

By JANE FORD
Collegian Correspondent

Initiating a credential file within a year of graduation is one of the first steps students should take when looking for a job.

The credential file contains a registration form, three letters of recommendation, and an optional transcript of grades.

"Most universities that have placement services have credential files," said Director of the UMass Placement Service, Arthur Bilotti.

An employer uses the file to obtain information about students. A file is also necessary before students obtain on-campus interviews with employers, states the Placement Manual.

The first step for beginning a credential file is filling out the registration form enclosed in the Manual, and obtaining three letters of recommendation.

Alice Smith, Assistant Director of the Placement Service, suggests letters from a faculty member, employer and a character reference telling how you interact with people.

The next step in setting up a credential file is a "blanket release form," a consent form the student signs enabling copies of the file to be sent to prospective employers. A verbal as well as written agreement by the student must accompany the sending of each copy of the file.

Finally, a transcript may be placed in the file if the student requests it.

"The credential file is a service for life," said Bilotti. As students advance professionally, they are advised to keep their files updated because they will remain at the Placement Office and be accessible at any time in the future, he said.

A student credential file may be forwarded in four ways:

1. A student is entitled to one free and open copy of the file.

2. An employer or graduate school may also request the file by contacting the Credential Office. In this case, there is no charge for reproducing or sending a copy of the file. Also, a signature, or "blanket release form," as well as verbal consent is required before being able to send the file.

3. A student may personally request sending the file. There is a $5 fee for undergraduates, and the request must be in writing.

4. An employer or graduate school may request credentials through the student. If the student sends the Credential Office a copy of the letter, there is no charge for sending the file.

For more information on initiating a credential file, call 545-2314, or visit Hampshire House.

Information on the final step of the job search process, the interview, will appear tomorrow.

Connecticut's paraphernalia law unclear

By DAN HALL
Associated Press

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — A federal judge's decision upholding Connecticut's new "head shop" law against sale of drug paraphernalia has caused confusion among shop owners.

U.S. District Judge Warren Eginton ruled Tuesday that the Oct. 1 law banning sale of implements designed for use with illegal drugs such as marijuana and cocaine was constitutional with one exception.

The judge ordered elimination of a provision specifying that merchants should "reasonably know" whether their

turn to page 11

SALE 20%
Fri & Sat only Dec. 5 & 6
savings storewide!
the SHOE BIN

GIFTS GIFTS GIFTS
a unique collection for men and women
Wool Sweaters
Cardigans & Pullovers
Turtle Necks
T-shirts
SIENNA

DONANZA
COMPLETE TREAT!
RIB-EYE DINNER
3.49

Editorial/Opinion

Hunger in Long Kesh

Due to the poor media coverage of the Irish liberation struggle, many of us have heard very little about the current hunger strike in the Long Kesh prison of Northern Ireland and the injustice that have compelled the prisoners to use this dramatic form of protest.

We are not used to thinking of whole fighting strikes as a national liberation struggle, but the struggle in Ireland is very similar to struggles in India, Cyprus, Zimbabwe, Kenya, the U.S. and many other countries that were once under British colonialist control.

Brian Flaherty

Today in British jails in Northern Ireland there are over 4,000 Irish political prisoners. These prisoners were "convicted" in political courts in Northern Ireland in which the rules of evidence are reversed. In these Diplock courts, suspected political dissidents are convicted on the basis of a confession alone, without any circumstantial evidence. There is no right to cross-examination by the defense. In 1978 the British Government's Bennett Commission found that over 80 percent of the Diplock court "convictions" are based on confessions alone, and that these "confessions" are the rule more than the exception.

Britain has been found guilty of torturing political prisoners by three separate international organizations: Amnesty International, the European Court of Human Rights, and the European Commission of Human Rights.

Between 1972 and 1976, the British Government gave Irish nationalist prisoners political status, which meant the prisoners had the right to wear their own

Letters

Warm up to Winter!

Dec. 7th through Dec. 13th

Snow, slush, ice and freezing cold. We've already had a sampling – with promises of more to come.
Whatever the weather's dishing out, EMS has the gear to keep you prepared. And now, Saturday the 7th – Sunday the 13th, some of our brand name merchandise is at reduced prices.
Talk to our experts. We'll show you a great selection of top quality Down clothing. Like our EMS Expedition Parka – illustrated below – it provides warmth you can count on.
Trust EMS for quality Down, with a construction built to last.

QUALITY, TESTED AND GUARANTEED.

EMS has a gift for everyone on your Christmas list!

Down and Synthetic Parkas • Skis
Knickers • Cook Sets • Packs
Comforters • Running Shoes
Tents • Sleeping Bags • Gloves and Mitts • Knives • Sweaters
Books • Binoculars • Boots

SUPER UNDER A DOWN VEST; IDEAL FOR ACTIVE WEAR. The mid-weight Shaker Knit Sweater comes in bright colors of soft, 100% wool. Cuffs and waistband are wide ribbed knit and crew neck edge is double ribbed. Good looking, versatile and comfortable.
reg. [illegible] SALE $29.95

TAILORED SHIRT OF BLENDED LIGHT MATERIAL. Wear the Woolrich Alaskan Shirt as a jacket, shirt, under a down vest – it's versatile. 60% wool/ 40% nylon blend (and more goodies). Extra long sleeves and tails to tuck warm in or out.
reg. [illegible] SALE $36.95

CLASSIC OUTDOOR FAVORITE FOR RUGGED USE. The soft, durable 100% combed cotton, of the Woolrich Chamois Shirt, becomes softer with each washing. Two front button-flap pockets, button cuffs, tucks in tails and button-adjustable sleeves.
reg. [illegible] SALE $19.95

LIGHT, CROMPETS, PEELSTER knitted with a blend of 70% New Zealand wool/30% acrylic, that is now blind washable. The mature lightweight Sweater is great for everyday use indoors or out.
reg. [illegible] SALE $15.95

EVERLOFT-FILLED WITH THERMALOFT™ INSULATION. The EMS Ski Runner effectively traps native air pockets that will keep you comfortable down to [illegible]. Exclusive outer shell quilts for extra comfort and long wear. Tough, 65% polyester/35% cotton shell and nylon taffeta lining.
reg. [illegible] SALE $64.95

WATER-REPELLANT, DURABLE, BREATHABLE. The EMS Timberline Parka has a shell of 65% polyester/35% cotton and is fully lined with polyester cotton poplin. Lots of pockets and protective features snap and zip-close to keep out wind and snow: snapped storm flap, drawstrings at hood and waist, big bellows patch pockets, and cargo/hand-warmer pockets.
reg. $59.95 SALE $49.50

POLARGUARD INSULATION™ AND HANDSOME WOOL LININGS in contrasting tartans add up to warmth. Our EMS Arctic Wool Vest features cotton quilt construction to cut out cold spots, insulated kidney extension, waist zip collar, snapped storm flap over zipper, pick handwarmer cargo pockets and convenience are combined. (Everything you're looking for in a warm vest.)
reg. [illegible] SALE $47.95

LIGHTWEIGHT DOWN AND SUPPORTIVE WIND RESISTANCE. The very light and very versatile groundcover North Face Sierra Parka is suitable for the active skier and climber. Its rich outer shell provides wind resistance and durability. Plenty of warm fine goose down baffle with snaps, down-filled collar, cuff with elastic and snap-closure system.
reg. [illegible] SALE $87.95

HORIZONTAL STRIPES, FOR A CHANGE OF PACE. Our Engineer Stripe Turtleneck is made of 50% polyester/50% cotton interlock to fit just right. Keeps its shape and colors through countless washings. Elastic-reinforced shoulders. Spandex-reinforced collar and cuffs for snug fit.
reg. $14.00 SALE $11.95

OUR WARMEST PARKA FOR HIGH PERFORMANCE on expeditions, ice fishing, football games, or other severe conditions. Design features, excellent workmanship, and duck down all combined to offer the EMS Expedition Parka a [illegible] rating. Baffle construction with differential cut gives you loads of all-out strength.
reg. [illegible] SALE $99.95

Cross-Country Ski Packages

Downhill Ski Package

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc. guarantees satisfaction with each and every product we sell. If you are not fully satisfied with an item since you have received it, simply return it to us immediately with proof of purchase for exchange, refund or credit.

We Accept:

EMS Amherst
RT 9 Amherst/Hadley Line
413-253-9504
Mon-Fri 9:30-9:00
Sat 9-5:30 Sun 12-5

Open daily Sunday from Nov. until Christmas

'Babbles' aids children at clinic

By EILEEN GALLIGAN
Collegian Correspondent

Children entering the UMass Communication Disorders Clinic for therapy for the first time, may encounter "Babbles," a talking bear, instead of a clinic professional.

The bear is a large stuffed animal with a concealed intercom system that allows the staff to speak to the children with a microphone. The idea has proved useful in the evaluation and treatment of children who come to the clinic in Arnold House on campus for help with speech, language, and hearing problems.

"It is basically used for diagnostic meetings, since most children feel shy and reluctant to speak with the clinic professionals," Ruth Peaper, Clinic Coordinator said. The bear not only puts the children at ease in overcoming their shyness, but makes the therapy sessions more fun, she said.

"It helps to prolong their motivation and interest in the activities they are engaged in at the time," Peaper said. "I think it's the nicest way to help kids feel comfortable with the setting. His presence makes them a little more relaxed," she said.

The device was donated by the Trico Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America. Harold Lively, a Pioneer member, invented the idea and presented the bear to the clinic earlier in the semester.

The Trico Council is a chapter of the national association of long service telephone employees, both active and retired, living in the United States and Canada. It has members from Northampton, Greenfield, Holyoke, and Springfield.

Speech pathology, language pathology, and audiological services are provided at the clinic for a variety of problems including those associated with laryngectomies, cerebral vascular accidents such as strokes, and training in speech reading.

These services are requested directly by clients, or as referrals from schools and other agencies that are concerned with the speech problems of children and adults.

Babbles the Talking Bear
Toby Susse, 4, preschool Amherst resident, is getting acquainted with Babbles. (Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Donations sought for quake victims

Donations for the Italian earthquake victims are being collected at the following locations. At UMass: The Newman Center Main Office, The Italian and French Dept. office in room 314 Herter Hall, The Worcester and Hampden Dining Commons Snack Bars, and the Franklin, Worcester, and Hampden Dining Commons Munchy Stores.

In the Amherst Area: At the Recreation Dept. office in the Bangs Community Center and The Amherst Savings Bank. Amherst Savings will only accept checks.

The collection is sponsored by the UMass Italian Club. For more information contact Celestino Basile at 546-7540 or Mary Generelli at 549-5515.

Abortion debate set for tonight

A debate titled "Should the State Fund Abortions?" has been rescheduled for this evening, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. The debate features Boston attorney Nancy Gertner. Gertner, vice president of the Civil Liberties Union Project, will be arguing in favor of state-funded abortions. Arguing against the question will be Joseph Reily, director of Massachusetts Citizens for Life.

The debate is co-sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program and the Coalition for Equal Rights and Reproductive Freedom.

★ Poland

continued from page 2

history that such allegations have sometimes preceded military intervention."

A senior White House official, asking that he not be identified by name, said later that "it is important there be no ambiguity on the subject: the use of force would have far-reaching international consequences."

The official said the administration sought to make two points clear: that the United States did not seek to exploit the events taking place in Poland and that the use of force would have a "far reaching and lasting impact" on all U.S.-Soviet relations."

He said Soviet military intervention in Poland would have "more far-reaching" consequences than the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Earlier U.S. officials said they had no evidence that the Soviet Union has decided to move troops across the Polish border.

"There's no evidence that a decision to intervene has been made," Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said during a news conference.

But Muskie said Russian military preparations on the Polish frontier are continuing.

"Whether or not what they are indulging in is in the form of exercises or the form of pressure upon the participants in the Polish political and economic struggle, one can only speculate," he said. "The fact is that military preparations have proceeded and are proceeding."

Asked whether the United States had ruled out a military response to an invasion of Poland, Muskie replied, "That's a good question to which we ought to leave the Russians in doubt."

UMass Ski Club

Sugarbush Ski & Party Week
Jan 25-30

Last Chance
for Sign Up in Rm 430A SU
Full Payment Due Dec. 10th

Hotel - $159 - $\frac{1}{2}$ ski pass
- 5 nights lodging,

Condo - $144 - four here pattern

Raffle for Free Trip

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Ornaments - Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items - CARDS
Daily 10 am - 6 pm Sunday 12 - 5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

SUNDAY 12-5
FACES
Downtown Amherst

Photographic Posters
Classics by the Great Photographers
of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries
Open Tues-Sat 10:3-5:30
Print Gallery 37 So. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002

TURF DOCTOR

New England's largest Lawn Care Company will be conducting interviews for Sales & Service positions on December 11 at the Hampshire House.

An introduction to Turf Doctor & the Lawn Care industry will be held Dec. 10 at 7 p.m., CC 160-169.

Appointments for interviews must be made at the Hampshire House.

BLUE WALL campus center at UMass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hearth Bar

Thursday Dec. 4th
BLUEHOOK
Rock and Roll

Friday, Dec. 5th
DILLINGS GAP
$1.00 cover charge

Saturday, Dec. 6th
Mercury Recording Artists

CAR
70's to Billboard's top 100
$3.00 Cover Charge

This above shows in association with UPC Productions
TDC sticker is valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:30-5:30 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 2:45 two days prior to publication date • The per word • Student rate 10¢ per word • Centsible alliance • 3 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number 5168

APARTMENT FOR RENT

5 room apartment on two levels for four town Common $300 + utilities 527-9620

AUDIO

Quality Car Stereo. Some cassette deck with Ambed and EPI speakers left. Chris 549-4756

AUTO FOR SALE

'74 Impala A/T, A/C, no rust/ runs/, no road, $600 call 549-5057

Ford Galaxie 1966 automatic conditions $400 or B/O 549-3626

'80 Datsun 5/5 5 spd. 42/ 000 m/f rebuilt very reliable. ½ gallon to gallon 10000 miles 253-5486

1975 Audi 100LS new comprehensive vehicle, good shape. Just new exhaust. Call Jon 549-5167

Subaru Station Wagon 1978. Subaru Sedan 1972 excellent conditions. Have school since 80. may exchange 4 speed 80 call 253-9481 5-7 pm or 2 pm 4 pm 10 pm

1974 VW Karmann ghia/ condition $750 or 413-586-2511

'80 Toyota Corona runs fine 760-8614 (413) 2676

1972 Plymouth Duster 340/2 motor, no rust good mechanically sound system must sell $700 or B/O call 665-3816 after 5 PM

BUSINESS WANTED

Business Wanted at Grass Cre Townsville for investment or partial ownership Tel details call 413/584 2521 ICF

BRANDS

Wayne Wet Wet Driving closer to wheelchair and save time. Better mobile lots of spots to take pass the pain. Love, your Mommie, Lori, Ron and Sandy

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and mail envelopes at home. Earnings unlimited. Offer send $1.00 (refundable) to: Triple "S" 10263 P.W. Cairo, Pasadena, CA 91040

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian Production Assistant Managing Editors, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians, Photographers, Typesetters, Graphic Artists, Business Manager, Ad Salespeople, Circulation Manager, Typesetter, Graphic Artists, Layout Technicians, Copy Editors, Managing Editors, Production Assistant. Apply in person to Dec. 9 in the Collegian

ELECTRIC GUITAR

Gibson S.G. Extra in Worn, bridge, back and case excellent condition! $300 negotiable! Chris 549-7809 or 538-8070

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundstream and DJ for hire perfect for band parties, conferences 584-7555, 5155

Expert Magician Darren Siegel currently available for professional services call 253-5708

Electronic Workshop Monday Dec 8, 1980 7:00 P.M. NOW! Gymnasium Admission FREE

FOR RENT

Rooms for rent 3 bedrooms 2 full bath 2 kitchens furnished or not 5 Deerfield for fall 575 / mo. 665-7726

Live in Amherst Manor immediately $180 month rooms at 253-5497

Apartment Rooms for rent 665-7663

FOR SALE

Gift Idea: Framed Drawings call Donna Bailey 665-3613

Nice Queen or King size waterbed mattress, approx. 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame, deck pedestal, materials, liner, heater. Originally $300.00 now only $199.00 (413) 467-7640 Thompson

For Sale — Stainless Steel hand tool items, sweaters, scarves, hats, imported gloves, reasonable prices. Also one White Dog on period call 253-7765 evenings

Springsteen Tickets for sale Hartford 12-13 see for price 546-8977

ASTRONOMY BRAND NEW CONDITION, MUST COVER $1800.

Springsteen Tickets available for 12-13 phone in Boston. Cost means $40-75?? 1971 Plymouth Valiant 35,000 miles, some work needed, new shocks & electric points, 1/2 rotor! $175 549-7458

Amherst Ham Amateur Radio Instructor's rack and sales with handset case $240 734-5121

Remington 336 competition stock 308 cal. Tasco 3X9 racing bindings both 1980 models excellent condition only one use price at $240 bindings at $125 picture your price at $240 contact Laurie 586-7404

Bodacian — Shopping guidebook for sale $3.00 group discounts available

Lisa Marie! Have a nice day!

Packed-sized lasagna from JGB, have a nice day! your 5:00 advisor P.S. I'm not afraid of you! ... well maybe a little

Kevin Malcolm BEWARE! Next time the snow flies you're gonna get it! — The Snowball brigade

ATTENTION! Improve your snowball-throwing arm at the Kevin Bellotti school of snowball-throwing. Next snowfall. Maximum tie down. RSVP

Ruth: Happy 20th birthday! It was good fun, as usual.

2001 A Space Odyssey Tonight - 1st AC - Engineering Auditorium - 8:30, 10:30

Carol Mary Christmas love you - Mike

Happy 20th Birthday Bonnie with love from Mr.Norman '58

Leaves the ambassy a phone gone artist are a, cow-artist-boss-mouse, you'll still go on Good Luck to you! Stephanie

Christopher: You're welcome for the case I'll talk anytime any name time and place love is Sophie Tucker

Debbie your room I gave 14 be ours for one Love Eliot

Debbie One day at a time — This is enough. Do not look back and grieve over the past. Do not look forward and fear the future for it is yet to come. Live in the present and make it so beautiful that it will be worth remembering. Happy Anniversary and many, many more. Love, Dave

UPC Pick of the Week — Last chance to cut loose and party before finals come to the reggae dance at the Student Union Ballroom Dec.6 & 7 9PM-2AM at 2.50 for non-UMass students $3.00 for general public

Meeting of the UMass Reggae Dance Club Saturday December 6 new bands 8 PM on The S.U.B. $2.00 for UMass students $4.00 for General Public

Lynn — So, for the most lovely Lisa for the wonderful time — we love you two! Ron & Lori

Ron and Josh — Take to wife Missed. We Luv You! Pat and Li

Michelle Ann Lois from Mountain have we have the happiest Birthday ever! Love always, Puppy

THE BOOB for HIRE $

Ask you who I think? — B

Kami - are you evil or (Mean) Happy Birthday Love, Steve

LANNIE, I love you all, you're the prince and I love in my heart. Thanks for many wonderful bathtime shows, kisses, laughs and memories. Love always, Mandi

To all my friends here at UMass. Thank you so much for a wonderful two years I will miss you very badly. Love, Mandi

HEY, what the countries, roommates? Sorry

Happy Birthday Tonto. Love ya.

A hug and smile to Robin with much love from the chosen few.

Jodi will you marry me? Love ya! 'Ed

AUTO WANTED

Auto wanted in San Francisco area some 2 weeks share expenses call 549-5236

BACK AT THE RATCH

Bob Rock is Back at the Ranch - Blue moon and Special appearance by Tempest Thursday 12 a

ROOM WANTED

WSFI Female needs room for Jan. 1 Call Terri collect after 5:00 (781) 5280

Male wanting for room to share apt. on house from 12-15 or 1-1-81 thru summer prefer S. Amherst 256-8909

Two women looking for household in Amherst or sun room call Amy 5-7108 in Sunderland

Room available Dec 1 or 2 females (no 1 or 2 Pulliam unit 549-0136

Own room in Swiss Village Apts (on bus) $ 1/2 — unit includes 252-2662 evenings, after 5PM

Female wanted to share townhouse for Jan only. Brittany Manor 253-2286

Approximate weekend house on Fearing St call me 546-8580

Room to sublet to share with four other students Location in Northampton on weekends 586-7169 or 323-8529

Responsible wanted to share Morningside townhouse starting January 1 Call after 5 256-6952

SERVICES

Need a haircut? Only $3.50 call 5-8600 for appointment

Free Body Composition Measurement to scientifically find your optimal body weight. Need help to manage weight for health reasons. Call Debbie at 5-1507 anytime, 549-3547 extra

Randy's Masonry experienced local help chimneys fire rates call evenings 549-1139

EDUCATION

Rob Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk or country music I would like to interview you and another your work in my research. Call after 6pm (545) 10 pm 11:30 pm or weekends anytime

EMERGENCY

Need ride to Springsteen Providence 4:00 pm call Paul 5-7176

SPRINGSTEEN TICKETS

Springsteen tickets available Boston Garden dec. 10 and 12 2:00 call 549-4041

TO SUBLET

1 bedroom in 3 bedroom apt Phillips St. rent only 549-1606

4 bedroom townhouse for 3-4 bedrooms apt on bus to 586-1412 549-1606

One bedroom apt on Greenwich Park Apts on bus route 5280 month utilities incl. beginning 1/81 call Mitch 256-6365

Apt - Amherst/Hadley Bridges furnished one bedroom 253-9873 call 5pm 2 - 10pm

1 bedroom apt Pulliam available Dec 26, new furniture everything and heat included reasonable price call 549-4251 after 5

1 bedroom in 4 bedroom apt 4 brickens on bus 10 256-0210

One room in two room apartment available month January Townhome call 5-2958

1 large bedroom furnished for rent available for immediate owner 665-8240

Available immediately one bedroom in 3 bedroom apt on South Amherst bus or one or two call 549-5407

Bedrooms to rent available Dec 24 - Jan 31 252-5261 leave number

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me before you sell. Daniel Smith, 35 North Pleasant St (behind Amherst and Logan. Amherst 253-5744 call 256-0210

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling at Wendy's 111 Commonwealth, Amherst. a week appointed by UMass Board of Governors

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold and silver jewelry. See me when you sell. Daniel Smith, 35 North Pleasant St. (behind Amherst and Logan). Amherst 253-5744 call 256-0210 Amherst & town of Massachusetts call 256-0210

Needed Stenotypy Typist 2-3 P.M. during three week call 549-2160 ask for Mr. Kelly

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

Abnormal Psychology J. Dunakey

CROSSWORD

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Spinach Frittata

BASICS LUNCH
Grilled Cheese on Whole Wheat
Spinach Frittata

DINNER
Cheese Lasagna/Tomato Sauce
Chopped Sandwich Special

BASICS DINNER
Polynesian Vegetables
Cheese Lasagna/Tomato Sauce

50¢ Mon-Sat 10-5

50¢ Next to the Ratch

Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley
50¢ off any album
on any Saturday in December
with this coupon
(excluding in store specials)
"Your Student Run Record Store"
50¢ coupon 50¢

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
ALL INCLUSIVE $624.00
Bermuda!
Jan. 12, 1981 to Jan. 20, 1981
*Round trip air transportation Delta Airlines
Shelley Peninsula Shelley
7 (2 nights) hotel accommodations Sherwood Beach Club (double on the ocean)
*Breakfast and dinner daily
*Round trip transfers - Airport/Hotel/Airport
(Taxes and miscellaneous/baggage handling)
CAMPUS CENTER 545-0800
AMHERST, MA
GREY OF MAIN 413-586-4000

TONIGHT
TWO WAY STREET
PIZZA PUB
AMHERST

Great Expectations Promises:

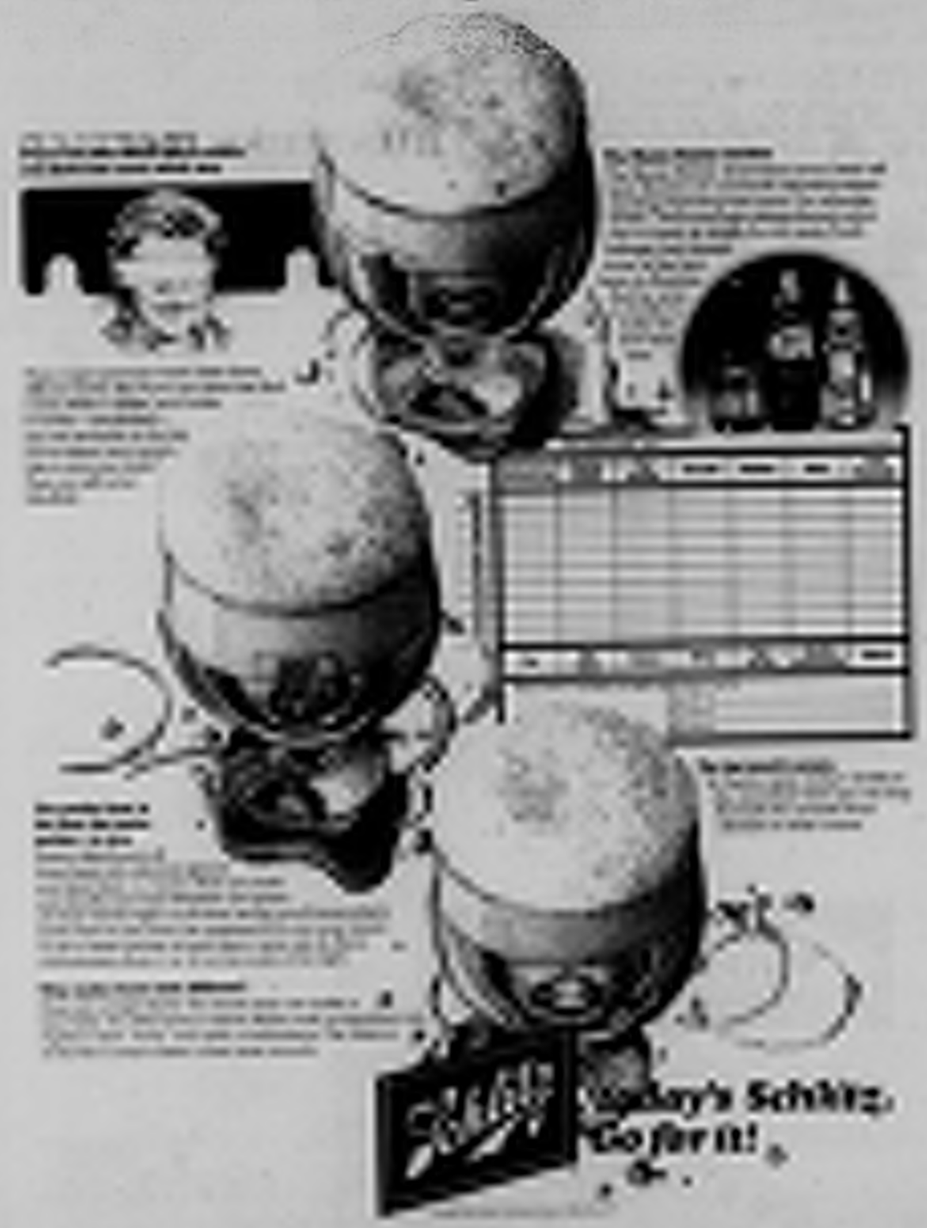
Excellence-
Use finest professional custom consult with one to plan into a personal haircut that fits your personality, features and lifestyle perfectly.

Economy-
Great Expectations offers professional service at affordable prices.

Extras-
A haircut consultation, shampoo and blower styling with each precision haircut.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Very few beer drinkers can pass this test. Can you?



Today's Schlitz. Go for it!

Kennedy hopes female staffers a Support group

a Paraphernalia

Tufts sinks mermen

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

Last Chance
Nominate Your Teacher
Distinguished Teacher Award

$1,500 Awards to reward excellence in teaching
2 for Faculty
3 for TA's, TG's or other students teaching courses with departmental approval
DEADLINE
Friday December 5th

BARSELOTTI'S

THURSDAY SPECIAL

FREE DRINK

Sports

Cagers taketh and giveth away

Lilvia Green, freshman of the UK hoop team, goes up for a dunk in last night's game at the Cage. (Staff photo by Dan Drabicki)

Cynthia Chase takes a shot during last night's game versus Harvard. (Staff photo by Lisa Hirel)

Ready racks up 33, women down Harvard

By NANCE PARRY
Collegian Staff

Everyone loves to play basketball and everyone loves to watch a good basketball game. Trivia Cameron proved that great game against Harvard's best sight, defensively bringing the women to a 79-58 victory over the Crimson.

A remember playing Cameron in high school and if nothing else, she's improved. Cameron is the type with natural athletic ability made better by constant practice and dedication to the sport.

When I was 2 played against her, it's more like she was circles around me, perpetually driving the ball to the hoop. Cameron plays a dyed basketball game with her eyes peeled to the ball at all times. She never lets her opposing offensive player get too far, and if, by chance, the offense gets by, Cameron makes a quick recovery never being far away.

As assistant coach Dana deHonnet said at Cameron, "The best girl that played against this (Harvard's) guard couldn't get her out of the game, but Trivia took her out of the game early."

Head coach Kay Ann Dukelski, along with Jefferson, thought the women could have played better, but many offensive errors, and easy lay-ups that the women couldn't win.

"They were watching the basketball, not playing basketball," Dukelski said.

UMass was off to a good start, taking an early lead and beating Harvard down court with a beautiful full court press that the Crimson players just couldn't break.

Racking up 33 points for the Minutewomen was senior Harvard Julie Ready who played on the openings in the key and was kept fed by guards Annalee Gray and Stacey Lubkin.

Also playing a great offensive game was freshman forward Nadine Jackson who pumped 14 points on the board for the women. Jackson plays a great seven foot game with a lot of natural moves that would make your knee jump.

Other leading scorers for UMass were Cameron and junior Laguan, both contributing 10 points to bring the Harvard losses down.

Well seven seconds left to play, the Minutewomen were in control within two points after surviving a free throw by Harvard's Mark Epstein, had a desperation chance of tying the contest. But Harris's 25-foot jumper collapsed in front and the Crimson survived UMass' second half comeback to raise their record to 3-0. UMass dropped to 4-2.

The Minutewomen trailed throughout the entire game, by as many as 16 points at times, but charged back late in the contest. Freshman Nadine Jackson led the UMass scorers with 20 points, 14 in the second half alone.

However, the Minutewomen's second half heroics would not overshadow their performance in the first half. UMass got off to early foul trouble and were big hindrance that seemed to give deeper each time a foul was called.

Harvard connected on 46 of 86 field shots in the first half and created a 14-10 halftime advantage. Even though they led all scorers with 10 points, netted 10-for-10 from the free throw line throughout the first-period contest, and was perfect from the field, hitting nine shots in nine attempts. Seven of Fleming's first eight shots came in the first half.

Freshman center Sue Fleming, who scored 10 points, started the Crimson right off the opening tap with a three-point play. Tony Digna quickly countered with two free throws of her own, but Fleming added another basket and a free throw to give Harvard a 6-2 lead. Jackson's jumper from the left side tied the margin at 8-8, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 10-8.

Harvard's lead grew to 14-10 on Fleming's free throw with 10:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 14-12, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 16-12.

Harvard's lead grew to 18-12 on Fleming's free throw with 8:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 18-14, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 20-14.

Harvard's lead grew to 22-14 on Fleming's free throw with 6:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 22-16, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 24-16.

Harvard's lead grew to 26-16 on Fleming's free throw with 4:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 26-18, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 28-18.

Harvard's lead grew to 30-18 on Fleming's free throw with 2:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 30-20, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 32-20.

Harvard's lead grew to 34-20 on Fleming's free throw with 0:30 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 34-22, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 36-22.

Harvard's lead grew to 38-22 on Fleming's free throw with 0:10 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 38-24, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 40-24.

Harvard's lead grew to 42-24 on Fleming's free throw with 0:05 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 42-26, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 44-26.

Harvard's lead grew to 46-26 on Fleming's free throw with 0:01 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 46-28, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 48-28.

Harvard's lead grew to 50-28 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 50-30, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 52-30.

Harvard's lead grew to 54-30 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 54-32, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 56-32.

Harvard's lead grew to 58-32 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 58-34, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 60-34.

Harvard's lead grew to 62-34 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 62-36, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 64-36.

Harvard's lead grew to 66-36 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 66-38, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 68-38.

Harvard's lead grew to 70-38 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 70-40, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 72-40.

Harvard's lead grew to 74-40 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 74-42, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 76-42.

Harvard's lead grew to 78-42 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 78-44, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 80-44.

Harvard's lead grew to 82-44 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 82-46, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 84-46.

Harvard's lead grew to 86-46 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 86-48, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 88-48.

Harvard's lead grew to 90-48 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 90-50, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 92-50.

Harvard's lead grew to 94-50 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 94-52, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 96-52.

Harvard's lead grew to 98-52 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 98-54, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 100-54.

Harvard's lead grew to 102-54 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 102-56, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 104-56.

Harvard's lead grew to 106-56 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 106-58, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 108-58.

Harvard's lead grew to 110-58 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 110-60, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 112-60.

Harvard's lead grew to 114-60 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 114-62, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 116-62.

Harvard's lead grew to 118-62 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 118-64, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 120-64.

Harvard's lead grew to 122-64 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 122-66, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 124-66.

Harvard's lead grew to 126-66 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 126-68, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 128-68.

Harvard's lead grew to 130-68 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 130-70, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 132-70.

Harvard's lead grew to 134-70 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 134-72, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 136-72.

Harvard's lead grew to 138-72 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 138-74, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 140-74.

Harvard's lead grew to 142-74 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 142-76, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 144-76.

Harvard's lead grew to 146-76 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 146-78, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 148-78.

Harvard's lead grew to 150-78 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 150-80, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 152-80.

Harvard's lead grew to 154-80 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 154-82, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 156-82.

Harvard's lead grew to 158-82 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 158-84, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 160-84.

Harvard's lead grew to 162-84 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 162-86, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 164-86.

Harvard's lead grew to 166-86 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 166-88, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 168-88.

Harvard's lead grew to 170-88 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 170-90, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 172-90.

Harvard's lead grew to 174-90 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 174-92, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 176-92.

Harvard's lead grew to 178-92 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 178-94, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 180-94.

Harvard's lead grew to 182-94 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 182-96, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 184-96.

Harvard's lead grew to 186-96 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 186-98, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 188-98.

Harvard's lead grew to 190-98 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 190-100, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 192-100.

Harvard's lead grew to 194-100 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 194-102, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 196-102.

Harvard's lead grew to 198-102 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 198-104, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 200-104.

Harvard's lead grew to 202-104 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 202-106, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 204-106.

Harvard's lead grew to 206-106 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 206-108, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 208-108.

Harvard's lead grew to 210-108 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 210-110, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 212-110.

Harvard's lead grew to 214-110 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 214-112, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 216-112.

Harvard's lead grew to 218-112 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 218-114, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 220-114.

Harvard's lead grew to 222-114 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 222-116, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 224-116.

Harvard's lead grew to 226-116 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 226-118, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 228-118.

Harvard's lead grew to 230-118 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 230-120, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 232-120.

Harvard's lead grew to 234-120 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 234-122, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 236-122.

Harvard's lead grew to 238-122 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 238-124, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 240-124.

Harvard's lead grew to 242-124 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 242-126, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 244-126.

Harvard's lead grew to 246-126 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 246-128, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 248-128.

Harvard's lead grew to 250-128 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 250-130, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 252-130.

Harvard's lead grew to 254-130 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 254-132, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 256-132.

Harvard's lead grew to 258-132 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 258-134, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 260-134.

Harvard's lead grew to 262-134 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 262-136, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 264-136.

Harvard's lead grew to 266-136 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 266-138, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 268-138.

Harvard's lead grew to 270-138 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 270-140, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 272-140.

Harvard's lead grew to 274-140 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 274-142, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 276-142.

Harvard's lead grew to 278-142 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 278-144, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 280-144.

Harvard's lead grew to 282-144 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 282-146, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 284-146.

Harvard's lead grew to 286-146 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 286-148, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 288-148.

Harvard's lead grew to 290-148 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 290-150, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 292-150.

Harvard's lead grew to 294-150 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 294-152, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 296-152.

Harvard's lead grew to 298-152 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 298-154, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 300-154.

Harvard's lead grew to 302-154 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 302-156, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 304-156.

Harvard's lead grew to 306-156 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 306-158, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 308-158.

Harvard's lead grew to 310-158 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 310-160, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 312-160.

Harvard's lead grew to 314-160 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 314-162, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 316-162.

Harvard's lead grew to 318-162 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 318-164, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 320-164.

Harvard's lead grew to 322-164 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 322-166, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 324-166.

Harvard's lead grew to 326-166 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 326-168, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 328-168.

Harvard's lead grew to 330-168 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 330-170, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 332-170.

Harvard's lead grew to 334-170 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 334-172, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 336-172.

Harvard's lead grew to 338-172 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 338-174, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 340-174.

Harvard's lead grew to 342-174 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 342-176, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 344-176.

Harvard's lead grew to 346-176 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 346-178, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 348-178.

Harvard's lead grew to 350-178 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 350-180, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 352-180.

Harvard's lead grew to 354-180 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 354-182, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 356-182.

Harvard's lead grew to 358-182 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 358-184, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 360-184.

Harvard's lead grew to 362-184 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 362-186, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 364-186.

Harvard's lead grew to 366-186 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 366-188, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 368-188.

Harvard's lead grew to 370-188 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 370-190, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 372-190.

Harvard's lead grew to 374-190 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 374-192, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 376-192.

Harvard's lead grew to 378-192 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 378-194, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 380-194.

Harvard's lead grew to 382-194 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 382-196, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 384-196.

Harvard's lead grew to 386-196 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 386-198, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 388-198.

Harvard's lead grew to 390-198 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 390-200, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 392-200.

Harvard's lead grew to 394-200 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 394-202, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 396-202.

Harvard's lead grew to 398-202 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 398-204, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 400-204.

Harvard's lead grew to 402-204 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 402-206, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 404-206.

Harvard's lead grew to 406-206 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 406-208, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 408-208.

Harvard's lead grew to 410-208 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 410-210, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 412-210.

Harvard's lead grew to 414-210 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 414-212, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 416-212.

Harvard's lead grew to 418-212 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 418-214, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 420-214.

Harvard's lead grew to 422-214 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 422-216, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 424-216.

Harvard's lead grew to 426-216 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 426-218, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 428-218.

Harvard's lead grew to 430-218 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 430-220, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 432-220.

Harvard's lead grew to 434-220 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 434-222, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 436-222.

Harvard's lead grew to 438-222 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 438-224, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 440-224.

Harvard's lead grew to 442-224 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 442-226, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 444-226.

Harvard's lead grew to 446-226 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 446-228, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 448-228.

Harvard's lead grew to 450-228 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 450-230, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 452-230.

Harvard's lead grew to 454-230 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 454-232, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 456-232.

Harvard's lead grew to 458-232 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 458-234, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 460-234.

Harvard's lead grew to 462-234 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 462-236, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 464-236.

Harvard's lead grew to 466-236 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 466-238, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 468-238.

Harvard's lead grew to 470-238 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 470-240, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 472-240.

Harvard's lead grew to 474-240 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 474-242, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 476-242.

Harvard's lead grew to 478-242 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 478-244, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 480-244.

Harvard's lead grew to 482-244 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 482-246, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 484-246.

Harvard's lead grew to 486-246 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 486-248, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 488-248.

Harvard's lead grew to 490-248 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 490-250, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 492-250.

Harvard's lead grew to 494-250 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 494-252, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 496-252.

Harvard's lead grew to 498-252 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 498-254, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 500-254.

Harvard's lead grew to 502-254 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 502-256, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 504-256.

Harvard's lead grew to 506-256 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 506-258, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 508-258.

Harvard's lead grew to 510-258 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 510-260, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 512-260.

Harvard's lead grew to 514-260 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 514-262, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 516-262.

Harvard's lead grew to 518-262 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 518-264, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 520-264.

Harvard's lead grew to 522-264 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 522-266, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 524-266.

Harvard's lead grew to 526-266 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 526-268, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 528-268.

Harvard's lead grew to 530-268 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 530-270, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 532-270.

Harvard's lead grew to 534-270 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 534-272, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 536-272.

Harvard's lead grew to 538-272 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 538-274, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 540-274.

Harvard's lead grew to 542-274 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 542-276, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 544-276.

Harvard's lead grew to 546-276 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 546-278, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 548-278.

Harvard's lead grew to 550-278 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 550-280, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 552-280.

Harvard's lead grew to 554-280 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 554-282, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 556-282.

Harvard's lead grew to 558-282 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 558-284, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 560-284.

Harvard's lead grew to 562-284 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 562-286, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 564-286.

Harvard's lead grew to 566-286 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 566-288, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 568-288.

Harvard's lead grew to 570-288 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 570-290, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 572-290.

Harvard's lead grew to 574-290 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 574-292, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 576-292.

Harvard's lead grew to 578-292 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 578-294, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 580-294.

Harvard's lead grew to 582-294 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 582-296, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 584-296.

Harvard's lead grew to 586-296 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 586-298, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 588-298.

Harvard's lead grew to 590-298 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 590-300, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 592-300.

Harvard's lead grew to 594-300 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 594-302, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 596-302.

Harvard's lead grew to 598-302 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 598-304, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 600-304.

Harvard's lead grew to 602-304 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 602-306, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 604-306.

Harvard's lead grew to 606-306 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 606-308, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 608-308.

Harvard's lead grew to 610-308 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 610-310, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 612-310.

Harvard's lead grew to 614-310 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 614-312, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 616-312.

Harvard's lead grew to 618-312 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 618-314, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 620-314.

Harvard's lead grew to 622-314 on Fleming's free throw with 0:00 left in the first half. Jackson's jumper from the left side cut the deficit to 622-316, but Fleming's 10-foot jumper from the left side regained the lead for Harvard, 624-316.

Harvard's lead grew to 626-316 on Fleming's free throw

World and national news

Tensions mount in Poland

Soviet help may be sought

By ROLAND PRINZ
Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — A Communist Party Central Committee member raised for the first time yesterday the possibility of a request for Soviet assistance in the Polish crisis, and Western nations warned the Soviet Union against military intervention.

Josef Klasa, head of Central Committee's press department, told a news conference the Polish leadership would ask for Soviet and Warsaw Pact help if authority "slipped into the hands of anti-socialist elements" or if "socialism became endangered." But he said it would be imprudent to try to solve the country's problems "with the help of military forces," and he believed Poland would resolve the crisis by itself.

Klasa said, "I think such endangering would occur only when authority would slip from the hands of democracy into the hands of anti-socialist elements. Then the Polish Communists would have the right and duty to ask for assistance from the communists of other countries."

In Moscow, there were accusations that the West was attempting to increase tension in Poland. There have been mounting fears in some Western capitals that the Soviets might intervene because of widespread worker discontent and pressures on the Polish Communist Party leadership for liberal reforms.

Poland's controlled newspapers prominently displayed a speech by a new Politburo member rejecting the use of force against militant members of the new independent unions and a deputy premier told a French newspaper that threats of Soviet intervention were exaggerated.

A day after President Carter spoke of an "unprecedented buildup" of Soviet forces along the Polish border, the Carter administration cautioned Moscow that Americans were united in their concern over the possibility of a Soviet intervention.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie described the situation as "very delicate and sensitive" and that the Soviets have launched "an unprecedented amount of military activity" at the Polish border.

U.S. warns Soviet Union

BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials said yesterday that the Polish crisis remains "very delicate and sensitive" and again warned the Soviet Union that Americans are united in a concern over the possibility of Russian intervention.

Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie told reporters in Topeka, Kan., that the administration believes the Soviets have launched "an unprecedented amount of military activity" along the Polish border and added: "It continues to be a very delicate and sensitive situation. The military activities continue to concern us and all countries in the West."

In Washington, the State Department warned the Soviet Union that Americans are united in their concern about any attempt to intervene in Poland. And U.S. military officials said the Soviets seem to have done the ground work required to move quickly if the Kremlin decides to take action against its Warsaw Pact partner.

At a State Department briefing, spokesman John Trattner said the Soviets should be aware that "we are one on this matter in this country, not only is this administration but in the next one."

It was the third straight day that the Carter administration had issued warnings to the Soviets that the United States is greatly concerned that there be no outside interference in Polish affairs.

President Carter declared Wednesday that the United States was watching with growing concern what he called an "unprecedented buildup" of Soviet forces along the Polish border and pointedly warned that "the attitude and future policies of the United States toward the Soviet Union would be directly and very adversely affected by any Soviet use of force in Poland."

Other administration officials, including Muskie, have qualified this concern by saying there is no evidence that the Soviets have decided to intervene militarily in Poland.

Grasso decision saddens N.E.

HARTFORD — Bipartisan praise for resigning Gov. Ella Grasso casts her as a "brilliant woman" whose love for Connecticut motivated both her political life and her decision to cut it short.

Figures from Connecticut and the New England region, all of them surprised, expressed a mixture of sorrow and admiration over the extreme concession she was forced to make to cancer.

Several praised her for caring especially for the poor and disabled.

As a result of newly detected cancer in her liver, the 61-yearold governor said yesterday she would resign Dec. 31, halfway through her second four-year term.

FBI authority is broadened

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department issued guidelines yesterday for FBI investigations which would in some cases allow informants to participate in crimes and would widen the bureau's authority to follow and photograph certain Americans.

The guidelines were issued by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, who told a news conference at FBI headquarters that they pull together policies and practices which previously had been scattered in various government manuals and policy statements but had never been presented in such detail in one place.

The guidelines say that an FBI informant in a criminal case shall be warned that his work for the FBI will not protect him from prosecution for federal, state or local crimes except under specified circumstances.

Digest

Associated Press

Bodies identified in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — The Bodies of three missing American nuns and a Roman Catholic social worker were found near a highway yesterday afternoon, searchers reported.

They said the bodies were identified by a justice of the peace in an area near the town of Santiago Nonualco, about 30 miles south of the capital.

Further details were not immediately available.

Their van was found earlier burned on the road between San Salvador's airport and the capital, officials reported.

The four women disappeared Tuesday night.

Right-wing terrorists have killed Catholic priests and missionaries in El Salvador before because of their work among the peasants and advocacy of social and political reforms.

Rescue workers carry a body from the Stouffer's Inn of Westchester N.Y. after a fire yesterday morning claimed 26 lives. The fire is believed to have started in a room where a corporate meeting was taking place. (AP Laserphoto)

Electrical fire kills 26 in NY

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — An electrical fire flashed through the conference rooms of a suburban inn yesterday, killing 26 people and injuring 40. Authorities said the area where the fire spread was not equipped with sprinklers.

"It appears it flashed up suddenly and these people didn't have a chance," said Purchase Fire Chief Robert Makowski at the scene of the fire at Stouffer's Inn of Westchester, about 20 miles north of mid-Manhattan.

Westchester County Executive Alfred DelBello said there was computer equipment in the room where the fire started, but he said there was "no foundation" to reports that the fire may have been caused by an explosion of that equipment.

HOLD IT!

What you'll have is a real, fine offer. Hold onto it. . .Could be worth a whole lotta money, good times & peace of mind. All you gotta do now is tear off this ad an' then tear off to

Stereo Lab North
14 Elm St., Amherst, Mass. 01002 549-4184

with your sick stereo.

We'll give you a FREE estimate (worth $20!). Then you & your stereo'll be ready for those hearty parties as well as those quiet times. You can rest easy, too, knowing the work was done right. The 30 day guarantee proves it!

If you don't appreciate getting more, maybe you'll get more 'cause what you're getting now!

Stereo Lab North

Did You Know? At one of the nicest places in Town on a Sunday afternoon you can

1. Make your own sandwich (that Dagwood you dream of)
2. Drink 2 12 oz. bottles of Old Mil Beer
3. Watch the Pats Football game on Two TV's and relax all for $1.00 - That's Incredible!

Good Things Remain Great
Friday Afternoon Happy Hour - Free Smorgy w/Hot Dishes

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (ISSN 335-2269) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays, for $15 or $110 per year. University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. Postmaster: Send address changes to Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

State Reps to file bills for UM students

State Representative James Collins, D-Amherst

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Four bills filed by Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst and Rep. Barbara Grey, D-Framingham on behalf of students at the University of Massachusetts will be heard by lawmakers on Beacon Hill when the state legislature begins its next session in January.

Ken Moore, chair of the Undergraduate Student Senate Public Policy Committee, who helped draft the legislation, said the bills deal with funding for energy conservation, and student representation on the UMass Building Authority and in collective bargaining negotiations.

Three bills will be filed by Collins.

The first bill, drafted by Larry Koest, a student senator and chair of the Energy Committee, would amend a current law pertaining to energy funding, allowing the University to keep excess funds instead of returning them to the state, as is currently done, Moore said.

Unspent monies in the University's "08," or energy account, would be retained by the University under the proposed law, with half the funds going to further energy conservation programs and half going to general University accounts, Moore said. The money could then be used to fund educational programs, he added.

The second bill, drafted by Ed Constadine of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocady Academic Affairs Team, would provide for an increase in student representation on University collective bargaining teams. Currently, three students sit on the teams and the bill would raise the number to five, Moore said.

Collective bargaining is the process by which the University settles contract issues with its unions, where small groups of individuals negotiate representing each side.

The third bill, which is similar to one which failed two years ago, would place an undergraduate and a graduate student on the UMass Building Authority, which is responsible for the construction of more than $80 million of University buildings. The UMBA now finances repairs and renovations of those buildings.

A fourth bill, to be filed by Grey, if passed, would prohibit sexual harrassment in the classroom and in the workplace. The bill, drawn up by Beth Benton was presented last year and defeated by the legislature.

Moore said no bill filed by UMass students has ever been passed by the House, but he is hopeful this time.

"I'm most encouraged about the energy bill," he said. "The other bills have an excellent chance, too. They're all good bills."

Moore said the measures were filed with House clerk on Wednesday and will be heard when the House begins its next session in January. The building authority and collective bargaining bills will be first heard by the Education Committee before being passed on to the full House, he said. The energy measure will be heard by the Education Committee and probably by the Ways and Means Committee, since it involves funding, Moore said.

After committees, the bills go to the full House and then, if approved, on to the Committee on Bills in the Third Reading for polishing.

EPA rep urges student action

By MARI WISEMAN
Special to the Collegian

A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency representative yesterday challenged University of Massachusetts students to get politically and professionally involved in the nationwide problem of hazardous wastes.

"Some people think that (the regulations) are blowing taps for American industry. I don't think that's true," Susan Sladek said. "Waste disposal is a tremendous challenge and an opportunity for students to get involved on the ground floor of a new field."

"Chemicals are an important part of our lives. Yet, if wastes were not put in your back yard, they will be put in someone else's," she said.

She told a room full of students in Marston hall that a law is on the way to President Carter's desk which would give the EPA more clout in the clean up of illegal waste sites.

"The Super Fund grants $1.6 billion to the EPA, which would allow it to locate threats to public health, clean them up, and still have the option to sue the producers and recover some of the cost," she said. Eighty-seven percent of that figure would come from a tax on chemical companies. Twelve percent would come from general appropriations by the federal government, she said.

Sladek said, due to Reagan's stand on deregulation of big business, "we have the Super Fund Bill on the way to President Carter now. But Ronald Reagan can not and will not ignore the hazardous waste problem. Too many citizens are aware," she said.

There are 556 uncontrolled waste sites in New England and the United States produces 57 metric tons of hazardous waste annually, she said. The EPA estimated (properly) many years ago, it would have cost $4 million (instead of the $39 million New York owned) to fix special.

Ten years ago, when the EPA was started, no one knew what doing it properly was," she said.

The Clean Water Act of 1972 and 1977, the Clean Air Act of 1970, and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) of 1976 set up agencies to control environmental pollution.

story to page 17

Two UMass police cruisers are parked in front of the Fine Arts Center where police detained a suspect of an attempted armed assault last night at 8 p.m.

An armed robbery was averted thanks to the quick thinking of a would-be victim, Amherst police said. Three males wearing ski masks approached a house on North Whitney Street at 7:10 p.m. Amherst police said. When the would-be victim opened the door and saw the shotgun carried by the man he slammed the door in their faces and ran for the phone to call the police. Police said the car was described as a light blue Chevrolet or Ford, an early 1970's model. Amherst police sent out a couple of cruisers to look for the car. UMass police set up a roadblock and stopped a car matching the description police said. The car was checked and had a rifle in the trunk. UMass police released the suspects after they explained they were deer hunters, Amherst police said. (Staff photo by Cheryl Sumara)

Fulfa Lewa and John Scott co-chairpersons of the Union Program Council Advisory Committee discuss upcoming concerts. (Staff photo by Robin Massoglia)

UPC provides free services

Helps groups line up entertainment

By GRACE BOBELL
Collegian Correspondent

Editor's note: The following article is part of a series on unrecognized student organizations which will be appearing until the end of the semester.

If any University group or dormitory needs entertainment for an upcoming function, the Union Program Council Advisory Committee can provide free assistance.

RSO

REGISTERED STUDENT ORGANIZATION

The committee, co-chaired by Fulfa Lewa and John Scott, sets up concerts, lectures, mini-fairs and any other Recognized Student Organization school and funds. They will also advise groups concerning publicity, stage requirements, hospitality, and other information pertinent to the success of a show, said Lewa.

The UPC advisory committee acts as an intermediary in negotiations with stage crews, security people, lighting, sound systems, and bands.

The committee will attempt to find a band to fit the desired musical need and budget of the group, Lewa said. Since it has direct access to bands, the committee can get them cheaper and cheaper than student groups can.

Lewa said with the UPC name backing them up, she can negotiate with bands and obtain better prices than representatives from elsewhere would.

In the past the council has assisted in organizing home concerts, parties, and coffee houses.

The biggest events the UPC Advisory Committee handles are the Spring Concerts in all the residential areas.

"We want to do more shows similar to the Spring Concerts—ones which can happen jobs among the Spring and we would like to be just as busy all year round," Lewa said.

In order for the advisory committee to assist groups, a group must be chosen through the RSO office and liaison (the person assigned with the office) six months in advance, Lewa said. A list must be selected by the group and the advisory committee must know from the RSO office how much money they can work with.

Lewa said the organization, based in room 406 of the Student Union Building, welcomes anyone who is interested in getting involved with the committee.

"It is a great opportunity for students to get involved with the music business world. We will train students about what is involved in booking a band, stage crew, etc." she said.

In addition to their list of major bands, the Advisory Committee is also always looking for new local bands to add to their files, she said.

DELANO'S

Gateway to the WEEKEND

Our Regular HAPPY HOUR
3-6 pm Mon-Sat 9-11 pm Sun-Thurs

75c RAIL DRINKS
2 FOR 1 DRINKS
(Free Hors D'oeuvres 3-6)
57 North Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

Koffler criticizes sick-out; Refers to as unproductive

By DEBORAH COUGHLIN
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts Chancellor Henry Koffler told the Faculty Senate yesterday that the sick-out staged by professors at the UMass/Boston campus last week was unproductive and may hamper contract negotiations.

Koffler said the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission has said the sick-out violates state law. He said when faced with work stoppages and slowdowns, the University is required by state law to deduct pay from those individuals.

"I recognize that the current stage of uncertainty in contract negotiations is unsettling," Koffler said. "What matters, of course, is the final contract."

"The University is committed to a fair economic settlement for our faculty and librarians," Koffler said, adding the University is also committed to the maintenance of high academic standards.

Professors both here and at the Boston campus have been working without a contract for several months. Negotiations between the administration and faculty union have failed to reach a settlement. An ad-hoc committee of professors has proposed direct grading, issuing grades to students and bypassing the administration, in an effort to speed up contract talks.

An attempt by one professor to oppose the direct grading action, planned by the ad-hoc committee, was voted down by the senate by a vote of 32 to 28.

Some professors said withholding grades will threaten the graduation and employment of students.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE A FREE POSTER OF THESE GUYS HANGING AROUND YOUR ROOM?

Who would ever guess that an unruly bunch of famous Lite Beer drinkers would someday pose for a classic photograph? This precious moment has been captured in a big (38" by 24") beautiful color Lite Beer Alumni Poster that's yours for free.

Just cut out the coupon, being sure to include your name and address, and send it to: Lite Beer Alumni Poster, Box 1973, Milwaukee, WI 53201.

LITE BEER FROM MILLER. EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

The Collegian will experiment with new styles all next week

The Collegian will begin its annual "Experiment Week" on Monday, giving staff members a chance to try new styles of writing and design throughout the week. The nightly staff can choose to model itself after another newspaper, such as The New York Times, or the New York Daily News, or create an entirely new paper.

The tradition was started several years ago to give staff members a chance to use the skills they have acquired during the semester, as well as to give Collegian editors and staff members ideas that might be incorporated into the regular daily paper.

Stress workshops offered

"Managing Holiday Stress" in the Office of the upcoming Community Stress workshop sponsored by University Mental Health Services Monday, Dec. 8, 7-8:30 p.m. Campus Center Room 174-76. Open to students, faculty, and staff without charge, this informal program will look at the stressors and problems that can go along with holiday festivities. David Kroll, M.D., Director of the Mental Health Division will discuss several stressful aspects of the holiday season which may be anticipated and perhaps lessened. Pre-registration NOT required, but call Health Education, 545-2077, as turnout can be estimated.

University Health Services is offering another three-hour workshop, "Understanding and Coping with Stress," for students and their families. The goal of the workshop is to help people recognize and manage the stress they have in their everyday life.

The workshop will be co-facilitated by Susan Matson of the Health Education staff and by Lydia Kirk of Mental Health. It is scheduled on the Tuesday, Dec. 9 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Pre-registration is required by contacting the Health Education office at 545-2077.

Black Affairs

Charged with Violating McDuffies' Civil Rights

By MACK SISK
Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — The trial of Charles Veverka is a legal and political hot potato that has been tossed all over the South by four cities trying not to get burned.

San Antonio is still juggling, but it looks likely the trial will begin here on Monday.

It was that testimony — during which Veverka admitted taking part in the beating, involving fists, nightsticks and flashlights — which led to his indictment by a federal grand jury on civil rights charges.

Veverka, 29, is a former Dade County, Fla., policeman granted immunity in exchange for testimony against fellow officers, all of them white, who were charged in the beating death of Arthur McDuffie, a black insurance executive.

The indictment came July 28, two months after the acquittals of four other former Dade County officers on charges of murder, manslaughter and being accessories after the fact that set off bloody race rioting in Miami. Eighteen people died.

Veverka normally would have been tried in Miami, but racial tensions there remain high. So the trial was moved to Atlanta, but that city, too, is troubled, especially by the slayings or disappearances of 15 black children.

The trial was shifted to New Orleans, but when four blacks were killed in a police shootout, Mayor Ernest Morial asked that the trial be moved again.

It then traveled west to San Antonio, where, to no surprise, some city leaders are not thrilled either.

Two local black leaders personally protested to Chief U.S. District Judge William Sessions, who nevertheless set the case for the trial.

"I asked Sessions not to accept the trial in San Antonio," said city councilman Joe Webb. "There is a great potential that this trial will disrupt the generally good relations between races in San Antonio."

"The racial climate in San Antonio is, to say least, good," added Charles Hudspeth, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"We are getting along fine and we don't need to bring in outsiders from Florida to get this riled up. This has the potential of turning San Antonio into another Miami."

However, San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell said she feels her city is mature enough to take the trial in stride. "I am very unhappy at getting the trial here, but it's something we can handle."

"All indications are that the trial will begin in San Antonio on the 9th," said Bryan McDonald, local assistant U.S. attorney in Miami and one of three Justice Department lawyers who will prosecute Veverka.

He is charged with violating McDuffie's civil rights by using false criminal charges, conspiring to violate his civil rights, conspiring to falsify reports and having or procuring false testimony.

U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler of Miami will preside. Conviction on all counts could carry a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and fines of $40,000.

The charges arise from a federal grand jury probe ordered by U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti after he ordered the Miami riot cases. Five previous juries had acquitted defendants in the case.

Charles Veverka

Black Girl — a sneak peek

By PATRICIA CASSELL
Black Affairs Staff

"Black Girl" is a play in two acts by J.E. Franklin. It was first presented by the Henry Street Settlement's New Federal Theatre at the Theater de Lys in New York City on June 24, 1971. "The play is set in a small town in Texas. The time is the present. According to Miss Franklin the "Black Girl" of the title refers to the character of Billie Jean. Billie is seventeen, has turned to life in a system of bullet dancing on the wooden tile of her two married stepsisters, Norma Faye and Ruth Ann.

But the story is not solely about Billie Jean. It's about all of the actors and their conflicts with the question of "becoming". Billie is an "actor, the pearl in Rose's background which Rosie could not see, and her struggle involved accepting that fact, recognizing and breaking through all those forces outside herself which threatened to become permanent barriers to her becoming."

The author denotes the opening of the drama towards the Jamerson family in their day to day encounters. The family experiences tension, as each member strives to gain the mother's affection. Sofia, an almost adopted daughter of Mother Rose's, returns from college for Mother's Day; however, the three prime adults have devised an insidious plot to wrap Sofia in from the family.

Author Franklin sees the motif of the "Cinderella" story as the framework for "Black Girl." She says, "Cinderella introduced me to the themes of the wrong parents, the stepparents and the siblings who were not whole objects of loveliness." Miss Franklin has expressed the theme with her work and came to the conclusion that in truth it was a realistic theme in the scene of most Black families.

"I understand the extended family concept in cultural terms. Black children belonged to everyone in general and no one in particular," she said.

The classic drama will be performed tonight in Hampden Dining Commons, University of Massachusetts at Amherst under the direction of Laura Covington. It will also be performed Dec. 6, 7 and 12, 13, and 14. The cast is as follows:

Linda Haskell — Billie Jean, "Black Girl," the main character and counterpart to Norma Faye and Ruth Ann.

Leslie Harrison — Ma'Dear, Mama Rosie's mother.

Sylvia Battle — Norma Faye the stepdaughter of the two stepsisters and mother of Sherry, aged four.

Sandra Grant — Mama Rose, mother of Billie Jean, Ruth Ann and Norma Faye, and step-mother to Sofia.

Maria Camacho — Ruth Ann, the youngest of the two stepsisters and mother of Little Earl, aged five.

Black families harassed

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP) — The NAACP has been ordered to investigate attacks on black families living in a predominantly white blue-collar neighborhood near San Francisco, authorities said Wednesday.

The residents in Contra Costa County about 15 miles northeast of San Francisco have complained during the last two weeks, Wilbur Wheeler, Contra Costa district attorney, said.

Three black families were the target of the most recent attacks Early Tuesday, vandals gained entrance to the room home of Mary Hall in Tara Hills near here and set it afire. Firefighters extinguished the blaze before it damaged the home.

Later Tuesday, Mr. Hardy received a threatening letter from a group calling itself "White Fury of Pinole," warning the woman that she "ain't seen nothing yet."

No material loss other property damage, beyond you or someone in your family experiences physical pain, the letter said.

Three weeks ago, a white man tried to burn Mr. Hardy's car with a gas can before forcefully entering a black neighbor, authorities said. Harris and his two sons later found shoes in Mr. Ireland's home and a car was burned at the side of it.

A shotgun was fired at one of the homes, and the driver of a car tried to run down Mr. Hardy's son.

The incidents have charged that the Contra Costa County sheriff's department has been lax in investigating the attacks, but the sheriff's office denies the charge.

The local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has threatened to file a lawsuit against the sheriff's department unless it steps up its investigation.

Sheriffs Ass. Sheriff Dwayne Dillon said the sheriff is taking steps to protect the black families' homes.

Announcements

Bake Sale

The Black World Cultural Center at Coolidge will be having a bake sale on Friday, Dec. 5 in the Coolidge Multistory Lobby. The proceeds will enable the center to provide workshops, films, etc. for the community. For further info please contact the Black World Cultural Center in Coolidge.

Gym Night

Hampshire College presents gym night on Dec. 12. For further info please check Wednesday's edition of Black Affairs.

Fashion Show

The Center for Women of Color invites all to an international Dinner and Fashion Show.

A gala event, featuring food, fashion and entertainment representing all Peoples of Color on December 7, 1980 at 5:00 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

Tickets will be available at the Campus Center concourse during the week of December 1st. Hurry, tickets are limited!

For more information, contact Sharon Shallcross (545-2511) or Cheryl Watkins (665-3703).

Black Girl

The final production presented by the Third World Theatre takes for the semester, "Black Girl" will be held at Hampden Theater at 8 p.m. on Dec. 5, 6, and Dec. 12, 13, 14. Tickets will be $2 for students and $3 for general public. For further info contact Roberta Cox 545-3555.

Concert

Linda Calvano and Shoyaka will be appearing at the Student Union Ballroom December 6, 1980 at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at Union Records located at the Student Union. General admission is $4.00 and $3.50 for students.

Dots

Juvenile Boys will be opening Friday, December 5 at 7 p.m. in the Pompeian Hall on "Black Worker's struggle and The Role of U.S. Corporations in South Africa." The event is being co-sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program, the Center for Social Studies, the Committee for Africa, and the WCRA Anti-Racism Team.

ETC.

Smith College presents Christmas Weekend

Smith College presents Christmas Weekend Dec. 5, 6 and 7. On Friday, Dec. 5 in the Wurtele Publication Center at Smith College, there will be a jazz band, games, fun and dues. Saturday is organized, Saturday, Dec. 6 at 3 p.m. there will be Children's Creative Workshop Presentation and at 4 p.m. a Kwanza Celebration, including Soul Reboso and Sabrina Gospel Choir. Sunday, Dec. 7 at 2:30 p.m. a "Cool Sail." Games, refreshments and conference tours will be available. For further information contact Lydia Rivera 584-2300 Ext. 2300 Black Students' Alliance Chairperson.

You've worked hard all week - this day's for you.

ATTITUDE READJUSTMENT PERIOD

60 oz Old Mil Pitchers

MENS BOOT SALE

REG $87.50

GREAT GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Annual Collection Ski Weeks

Travel Cheap

$169 $143

Spirit Haus

SALE 20%

the SHOE BIN

FAST, FREE DELIVERY

266-8587

Hair Fashion Accessories

FACES

NOVEMBER 29: A TRAGIC DAY IN HISTORY FOR THE PALESTINIANS.

NOVEMBER 29, 1937

The Arabs have rejected a British report calling for dividing Palestine into two states, one Jewish and one Arab. Arab revolts against the British continue, killing many Jews and Arab moderates.

NOVEMBER 29, 1947

The U.N. Security Council votes to divide Palestine into two states, one Jewish and one Arab, but the Arabs reject partition and launch a war to claim all of Palestine. Jordan and Egypt annex much of proposed Palestinian homeland.

NOVEMBER 29, 1977

After President Sadat's visit to Israel and in spite of President Carter's entreaties, the PLO refuses to change its National Covenant calling for the destruction of Israel; therefore, the Palestinians remain outside the peace process.

NOVEMBER 29, 1980

The PLO leadership recently reaffirms its intent to destroy Israel, its support for the Soviet Union and places the U.S. "at the top of the enemies of our people." (Damascus) Intransigence still keeps the Palestinians out of the peace process.

THE TRUE TRAGEDY OF THE PALESTINIANS: 43 YEARS OF OPPORTUNITIES FOR A PALESTINIAN HOMELAND LOST THROUGH ARAB REFUSALS TO COMPROMISE

YOUTH INSTITUTE FOR PEACE IN THE MIDDLE EAST
LOS ANGELES, CA 90048

☐ Send me more information on the tragedy of the Palestinians

Name _____
Address _____
_____
School _____

Night Editor
Catherine Clabby
Copy Editor
Laurel Barncore
Layout Technician
Amy Jenzen
Composing Room
Daney Guidera
Liz Kantouzis
Michael Krampe
Mary Kinneavy
L.L. Bean Bianca Lanie

SUNDAY 12-5
FACES
Downtown Amherst

Adult Entertainment
Majestic Cinema
84 Cottage St
(Rte 141)
Easthampton, Mass
Tel. 527-7346
Dec. 4-9
October Silk 7:30
Airport Girls 9:00
Under 21
not admitted
Mat Thurs & Fri 1:30

KACO VILLA
Wholesome Inexpensive Wedding Cheer

visit our Secret Santa corner gifts for under $10.00

J. Austin Jeweler on the common Amherst 253-3866

Editorial/Opinion

Editorials

Fire safety

With the start of the holiday season, we would like to urge all students to exercise caution in using candles and decorations in apartments and dormitories.

What should be a joyful and festive time can literally explode into a horror of smoke and fire unless safety precautions are followed. UMass fire marshall Keith Hoyle reminds us that in Dec. 1977, 10 women were killed at Providence College when a fire burned fiercely down a dormitory corridor filled with flammable Christmas decorations.

Only materials labeled "Fire Retardant" or "Fire Proof" are allowed in state and public buildings, as well as artificial Christmas trees similarly designed. Metal type trees should not be used, due to the electrocution hazard they pose.

Candles may be used if a glass shield is put over the candle, if it is anchored in a sturdy base and if candles are not placed near combustible materials. Most importantly, candles should be extinguished before you leave the room.

Holiday lighting is allowed if it meets the following conditions: Lights must be approved by a recognized testing agency, such as Underwriters Labs (UL); should be checked for frayed cords, lamps or loose sockets; heavy duty extension cords should be used; other appliances in the room should be unplugged if necessary to avoid overloading the building's electrical system; and lights should be turned off before leaving for the evening or going to sleep.

Lest you think you are safe in the concrete, brick and steel buildings on this campus, recall that only two weeks ago 84 people died in a similar 26-floor fire-resistive high rise in Las Vegas. Most of those deaths were caused by smoke inhalation due to burning plastic materials. Fire doors should not be propped open, as they block the smoke from traveling throughout a building, and to the stairwells necessary for escape from the building.

Last year, the fire marshall reports, there were 46 fires on this campus. Fortunately, none of them resulted in deaths.

Take the time to check holiday decoration regulations and, while you're at it, familiarize yourself with emergency procedures in case of a fire.

Have a happy and fire-safe holiday.

Sanity safety

If you have three term papers, four finals, 15 Christmas presents left to buy, applications for jobs or internships to complete and you have too much semester left at the end of your money and your patience, you and almost every student here are prime candidates for "holiday stress."

The holiday season, by definition, should be a time to relax and for religious and cultural celebrations. The pressures of holiday stress are often rooted in unrealistic expectations about family or friends, or the feeling that one should be happy. For some the holidays create feelings of anxiety, loneliness and tension. Coupled with term papers and final exams, students are under a double-barreled gun, causing stressful situations to become distraught or overwhelming.

The only "cure" for this annual occurence is to plan your schedule to allow some time for relaxation with friends, to be alone and to take care of yourself by eating well and getting enough rest. Evaluating your expectations about the holiday season and planning it realistically will help to preserve your mental well being during the next few weeks.

Collegian

NO MORE TAXES! CUT OFF WELFARE!
NO RIGHTS FOR GAYS! NO RIGHTS FOR BLACKS, EITHER!
—AND TO HELL WITH ERA!
WE NEED M... POLICE DOWN HERE
AND LESS FREEDOM
WE NEED TO GO BACK

Letters

The individual's position on and in designer jeans

To the Editor:

In response to Shawn McBride's letter to the editor of Collegian, Dec. 2 I would like to bring out a very urgent point. Mr. McBride states that "what young America wears is a problem of individual choice." This may be true to an extent, but to neglected to mention that what young America (in fact, all of America) wears is also a matter of one's individual financial situation. It is my understanding that one of the prime Bob Cratchit was that even the other, well-designer manufacturers (Gant, Dingee, Wrangler, Levi's) are closing their doors to the point where they are no longer affordable by everyone.

Jeans are a garment worn by people who need practical clothing (construction workers, factory workers, and farmers, just to name a few) because they are durable and, up to now at least, inexpensive. As Mr. McBride stated, however, "Jeans . . . are predominantly expensive," which is true. . . . and predominantly attractive, if you have the body for them."

which is also true. Unfortunately, neither of these ideas embodies the original intent of jeans, which was to provide an inexpensive, easy-maintain article of clothing. Whether or not I have the body for them is scarcely the point in question. It would seem, therefore, that the advent of "designer" jeans may be a detriment to us all. At least for those of us who can't.

Jamie Paulin
Amherst

Careers to snowball . . . with the proper resume

To the Editor:

To Janet Wade's and her fellow snowballers: I found your letter (Collegian, Dec. 1) befuddling (your actions quite annoying). If any of you graduate, be sure to include a copy of the letter in your resume. It demonstrates an intelligence and depth of feeling that is truly rare in the average college student of today.

Carl E. Rodney
Sunderland

For the seasoned toddler

When I was a great deal younger I could always tell Hanukkah was approaching by the odor of potato pancakes frying on the stove which would linger in my bedroom, and the reflection of my neighbor's Christmas lights would blink incessantly in our livingroom.

Each year I would compose my carefully thought out list of the presents I wanted, one present for each of the eight days, always saving the biggest and best for last.

Deborah Wayne

Why back then when life was so carefree, all I needed was Candyland, Spirograph, and a Barbie doll to keep myself amused.

Sometimes I wish I were growing up now, because there are so many more games to choose from. Rather than a plastic Barbie doll that looks as if it's been out on overpass, a child can get a doll that walks, talks, laughs, cooks its dinner, eats, drinks, and sleeps. The child can dress it, undress it, do its hair, scold it, spank it, feed it emotionally, and send it off to bed without any support, just like a real mother.

But that's only the beginning! Now toys are not competition-harmony oriented anymore (myself excluded) wonders of the space age. The glory days of the simple board game complete with dice and plastic pieces are over. Today you can buy cars that crash, computers that beat your dexterity and timed manners, challenging you to anything from stability to football and war, video games, video tickets — you name it.

What's in line for today's toddlers, except that's not what I'm here to talk about. I'm not concerned with some spoiled brat's Hanukkah list, after all, I am a perpetual student, not a preschooler, so my needs have shifted from games to other things. Here are my requests for this year.

Day one — A non-work study job other than slaving at the dining commons.

Day two — The power to change all my grades below a "B" to a "Pass" after the course is completed.

Day three — A dorm bed comfortably wide enough for two.

Day four — A box of concern, brides, and warmth for curious repairs the University can't seem to get to, such as the Campus Center that leaks, a library that's collapsing, and showers without water.

Day five — Have to Cumberland, Bow about Passover, Thanksgiving and Kingston, Connie Wingood, and a Holiday?

Day six — A boyfriend with a rich father, a car, and who's at least twenty so we can drink at Four Richards together.

Day seven — A cheap UMass parking sticker good for every lot on campus, so that boyfriend's rich father to pay my phone bills.

Day eight — A fairy godmother to write and type my papers, take my finals, and finish my investigation for me, so I can spend finals week laughing at everybody else's work load.

I can't wait to write my list of New Year's Resolutions!

Deborah Wayne is a Collegian Associate Editor

The interview: Vital, final step of search

Editor's note: this is the last of a Monogram series on job hunting strategies.

By JADE FURAS
Collegian Correspondent

To help with interviews, the final step of the three-part job search, the University Placement Office offers workshops, pamphlets, the Placement Manual, and counselors.

"Job major corporations are involved in the campus recruiting program," said Arthur Hillock, director of the UMass Placement Services. "Career Notes," put out once a week by the Placement Service, and the Placement Manual contain lists of companies and what they will visit campus.

A student should know all about a company, including: how old it is, its products, and where its plants are located, a UPS pamphlet says. Students should also know the nature of an interview to make them to be relaxed.

Lastly, the pamphlet stresses, it is important to make sure the interviewer knows all about the student; complete answers are essential.

UPS gives interview hints

The following tips and possible questions likely to crop up in an interview are given in a pamphlet on the interviewing process:

1. Take cues from the interviewer.
2. Wait until a chair is offered before sitting.
3. When answering questions, frankness is important. Be informative without boasting.
4. Remember that judgment is based on reactions, attitudes, sympathetics, and intelligence.
5. Your job is to sell yourself.
6. Possible questions are: What can I do for you? Tell me about yourself. What do you plan to be doing ten years from now? Why are you interested in this company? and "What can you offer me?"

A student should know all about a company, including: how old it is, its products, and where its plants are located, a UPS manual says.

Some of the don'ts included in the pamphlet are:

1. Don't act. Be yourself.
2. Don't start a quarrel in the interview.
3. Don't answer by saying yes or no.
4. Don't talk too much.
5. Resist the temptation to follow the interviewer.
6. Don't smoke unless invited to do so.
7. Don't chew gum.
8. Don't take notes during the interview.

Appearance and ambition are important

The pamphlet says students should give as many facts about themselves as possible in the time given. Usually 30-45 minutes. Interviews should show what you are like, what you want, what qualifications you have, and what you might do to benefit a company in the future, the pamphlet states.

A student's appearance is important for the interview. "Dress the way the recruiters dress," Hillock said. "Women should dress conservatively in a business suit and men should wear a three-piece suit. You must also have a positive mental attitude and believe in yourself," he said.

During the interview the pamphlet suggests students show interest in the company by asking the recruiter two or three questions about the company.

Remember, the two open-ended questions in the recruiter's mind are: "Why are you interested in my company?" and "What can you offer me?"

Many services available

The Placement Service is located in Hampshire House and provides individuals career counseling, arranges interviews with on-campus recruiters, holds placement credentials, and invites students of specific job vacancies.

"We will go anywhere where there is a handful of students concerned with a job search," Hillock said. "We're prepared to do all we can.

The Placement facility includes the Resource room, which has staff members to answer general questions; a weekly job listing; a job-bank containing information on specific companies; and "walk-in" counselors, so students will not have to wait for an appointment with full-time counselors.

The Placement Services, facilities, and counselors are located in Hampshire House at 545-2224.

UPS

Fountain Pen Sets for Calligraphy...

FROM PLAYBOOM

The University Store

Amherst Garden Restaurant
"The Best Chinese Food"
Luncheon Specials
Take-Out Service
Dinner Specials
Full Cocktail Menu
256-0201

Academy of Music
Now: Double Feature Program, Ends Tues
On Screen 7:00 On Screen 9:00
HIDDEN AGENTS
INTRUDERS

The IRON HORSE
Coffeehouse

Breakfast Special
2 eggs
2 pancakes
2 links sausage
2 strips bacon
1.75 till 10 PM
James H McManus eating place
Page Shopping Center Rte. 9 Amherst/Hadley line
256-0809

UMass Ski Club
Sugarbush Ski & Party Week
Jan 25-30
LAST CHANCE
to Sign Up in Rm 430A SU
Full Payment Due Dec. 10th
Hotel - $159 - lift ski pass - 5 nights lodging
Condo - $144 - four to a room
Raffle for Free Trip
Name
Address
Phone

Holiday party coming to SW

By JOHN DiPALAZZO
Collegian Staff

The Southwest Assembly (SWA) last night approved $600 for next week's Holiday Festival to be held Tuesday in the Hampshire Student Union.

The festival, co-sponsored by the SWA and Southwest's Residential Council, will include an ice festival, a craft show, a video house and an appearance by the UMass chorus. The 5 p.m. lighting of a "holiday tree" will highlight the festival. Proceeds from admissions sold at the festival will be donated to the Globe Santa Fund, a charity sponsored by the Boston Globe, which gives toys to needy children. Co-Pre-sident Heidi Barrett said.

In other business, the assembly voted down a proposal to sponsor a backgammon tournament which was to be held next Friday. Most assembly members boycotted holding the tournament next semester.

Richard Cohen of the University judiciary spoke on the judiciary's efforts to receive original jurisdiction over on-campus law violations. Violations are presently handled by either District Court, or heads of residence and residential area directors in cases of violations of moratoriums.

"There seems to be a lot of abuses in the system," said Cohen, who wants students on the University judiciary to review student cases.

The assembly tabled a request for $200 by the UMass chess team for partial funding of the three team's participation in the Pan-American intercollegiate Chess Team Championships in Atlanta, Georgia later this month.

The assembly also tabled a proposed purchase of $450 so as presently members for extended break living expenses. The money would enable an assembly executive to stay on campus and work with University administrators.

Sylvan Area gov't elections today

Elections for officers of the area government in the Sylvan Residential Area will be held from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. today in the lobbies of Cashin, Brown and Hamlin dormitories.

Duane Shaffer, chairperson of the Undergraduate Student Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, who is coordinating the elections, said two candidates are on the ballot for president, one for vice-president, and two for treasurer.

Running for the presidency are Lawrence W. Shadow, a Cashin resident, and Ronald Eckhard, also from Cashin, Shaffer said.

Competing for the treasurer's position are Joe Gaines, from Cashin, and Paul Carney, from Brown. Shaffer said openers will also be available on the ballot for write-in candidates.

Following the the officers will be held in the lobbies of the dormitories and students should vote in the building they reside in, Shaffer said.

Elections held several weeks ago were invalidated due to scheduling problems and the absence of a ballot box in Cashin, said current Sylvan President Chris Petrucci.

"Those elected will take office immediately following the election," he said.

— Ed Levine

'Golem 100': a smart read

Bookin

The Student Government Association is accepting applications for Attorney General.
Applications and information about this position are available in Room 320 Student Union Building (Student Senate Office) or please call 491-5217. Women and Third World students are strongly encouraged to apply.

Medieval Grill
Auto Parts
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
220-0939

STADIUM LIQUORS
BEER
GIN
WINE
RUM
WHISKEY

Book analyzes election cycles

Bookin

CARBUR'S
Restaurant & Lounge

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5
3:30 PM THOMPSON 104

FOUR SEASONS
Wines Liquors

GREAT GIFTS : GREAT PRICES
MERCANTILE

Hatch: Musical variety

By RON MILLER
Collegian Staff

There will be no shortage of live music on campus this Friday and Saturday night to provide some relief from those pre-final blues.

On Friday night the Hatch will host local bluegrass band Billings Gap. Their sound spans a wide range of material from traditional bluegrass and country to progressive newgrass.

Billings Gap consists of: Bear Acker, guitar and vocals; Ken Alexander, mandolin and vocals; Dan Cohen, fiddle and vocals; John "Hal" Halstead, bass and vocals; and Keith Hillyard on banjo and vocals.

The show begins at 9 p.m.

On Saturday you'll have a choice. There will be rock and roll in the Hatch with Oak and Reggae in the Student Union Ballroom.

Oak is a Boston-based rock and roll band. They've just released their second album, Set the Night on Fire, on Mercury, and they've cut a single from that featuring the title track backed with "She's an 11."

Oak is lead vocalist Rick Pinette; Scott Grover Weatherspoon on lead guitar and vocals; Danny Carron, drums; John Foster, bass and vocals; and David Stone, keyboards and vocals.

That starts at 9 p.m.

Local reggae favorite Loose Caboose will be opening for Mercury recording artists Monyaka at a reggae dance to be held in the SUB Sat., Dec. 6 at 8 p.m.

50c Mon-Sat 10-5 — 50c Next to the Hatch

Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley
50c off any album
on any Saturday in December
with this coupon
(excluding in store specials)
"Your Student-Run Record Store"
50c coupon 50c

STANLEY KUBRICK'S
2001
A SPACE ODYSSEY
FILMS INCORPORATED TONIGHT ENGINEERING EAST
AUDITORIUM
8 & 10:30 $1.00

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLCS Offers:
Reasonable expenses * Travel
* Concentrated study in Taiwan
* Extensive course listing
* Full university credit
Accepting applications for all quarters
For Free Pamphlet and Counseling:
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 15663, Long Beach, CA 90815
Telephone: (213) 597-3361

Cut Class

Today's Your Last Chance

Pick your favorite ArtCarved class ring. Cut it out. Keep it with you for a while. Get an idea what it's like to own the ring that says, "I did it!"

Then have the genuine article fitted by the ArtCarved representative visiting campus today. You'll have our newest selection of ring styles to choose from — and a specialist who will make sure the fit is perfect. Plus, there are some incredible ArtCarved offers to cut the cost of your class ring . . .

CUT your ties with the past during our "Great Ring Exchange!" Trading your old 10K gold high school ring for a new ArtCarved college ring could save you as much as $90.

CUT the cost of a traditional or contemporary Siladium ring to just $74.95 — a special ArtCarved "Ring Week" discount up to $20.

CUT a smashing figure with a women's class ring from our exciting new "Designer Diamond Collection."

Any way you cut it, today is the best day to select your ArtCarved class ring!

ARTCARVED COLLEGE RINGS
SYMBOLIZING YOUR ABILITY TO ACHIEVE

University Store — Dec. 3, 4, 5 — 10 - 3 — Campus Center

Deposit required. MasterCharge or VISA accepted. © ArtCarved College Rings

Paid Positions at the
Collegian

• Assistant Managing Editors • Copy Editors • Layout Technicians •
Experience helpful, enthusiasm necessary.
Apply before DEC 9
to Fran Basche at the Collegian
for next semester

The Collegian is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer

FOR DAY OR NIGHT

...IT'S STAGELIGHT

STAGELIGHT the new cosmetics
FACES A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst

COSMIC WIMPOUT®

$6.99

TRAVEL'N GAME

THE COSMIC WIMPOUT® TRAVEL'N GAME — COMPLETE WITH A LEATHER TRAVELING POUCH TO KEEP THE DICE, AND A BANDANA PLAYING SURFACE, THE TRAVELING GAME IS AS SPONTANEOUS AS WIMPOUT® PLAYERS THEMSELVES

M-T-Th-Fri 9-5
Wed 9-9
Sat 11-4

In the Campus Center
the University Store

Amherst Deli
Sandwiches, salads, bagels & lox
Amherst Carriage Shops
549-6314
Monday-Saturday 9 AM - 8 PM
Sunday 9 AM - 6 PM

Give something deliciously different for the holidays:
Rusty Scupper gift certificates!

This season, give a delicious afternoon or evening to someone special. A gift filled with spirited beverages, fresh seafood, prime rib, an overflowing salad bar, soup, bread and much more. All wrapped in a joyous atmosphere. Give a Scupper gift certificate. Who knows, maybe there'll be one under your tree.

The Scupper has holiday party facilities that are cause for celebration on any day. Be sure to ask us. Reservations, or come for the fun of the moment.

AMHERST: 520 Belchertown Road, one mile east of Amherst Center on Route 9.
256-8552

The Rusty Scupper
Outrageously good cocktails and supper

Visa • MasterCard
American Express

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
UMass Favorite Pizza

10 & 16 INCH PIZZAS
ALL COMBINATIONS - LARGE & SMALL
DAILY 11 A.M. TILL
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
STEAK GRINDERS
SPAGHETTI · LASAGNA · RAVIOLI
MANICOTTI · STUFFED SHELLS
GREEK SALAD
COMPLETE TAKE OUT SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY
NEXT TO THE NORTH AMHERST POST OFFICE
Help Wanted - Delivery Persons.
Must have own car. Apply in person.
FOR FAST SERVICE
Call 549-0626
17 B MONTAGUE RD AMHERST

The Hungry U
will be open until ONE AM
Monday through Saturday!
(Sundays until eleven p.m.)
Our Drink Specials,
from Nine until Closing
MONDAY
Cold, Cold Night Special:
All of our hot drinks only 99c
TUESDAY
Pizza Party:
A free small cheese and tomato pizza with every pitcher of beer or carafe of wine
WEDNESDAY
Bummer Night:
As the night goes on, the prices go down!
THURSDAY:
Stiff Stuff Specials:
Buy one "Stiff Stuff" drink, get one free!
We serve our full menu until 10 p.m.
Sunday through Wednesday,
until midnight Thursday, Friday and Saturday!
the Hungry U
15 UNIVERSITY DRIVE · 549-5713

HOLIDAY BOOK SPECIALS

Special 4.98
Creative Wok Cooking
The secrets of Chinese cookery with the wok.

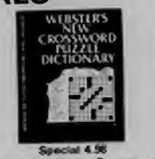
Special 3.98
Vegetarian Cookbook by Anna Lee Offers an alternative to the normal family diet.

Org. 6.95 Sale 4.98
Beardsley by Simon Wilson
A carefully chosen selection of his drawings and designs for book covers.

Org. 12.95 Sale 7.98
Heritage Cook Book by Jean Hewitt This book captures the amazing variety and full flavor of authentic American cooking.

Special 4.98
New England 64 pages of color photography capturing the true beauty of New England.

Special 9.98
The Treasured Writings of Kahlil Gibran This book represents the most comprehensive volume of works of the Lebanese poet ever published.



Special 4.98
Webster's New Crossword Puzzle Dictionary An excellent tool for quick and easy access to words and their synonyms.

Special 15.95
The Complete Encyclopedia of Illustration by J.G. Heck An illustrated document of man's vast and varied cultural and scientific accomplishments through the ages.

Special 8.98
The Art Institute of Chicago Favorite Impressionist Paintings A collection of 60 famous impressionist paintings.

And Hundreds More. . .
All Great Values They Make Ideal Holiday Gifts

THE UNIVERSITY STORE
"The bookstore" Campus Center/UMass Amherst
Open 'til 9 P.M. Wednesday, Dec. 10, 17
Park in the Campus Center Garage for easy access

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

APARTMENT FOR RENT

5-room apartment on bus route Belchertown Common $330 + utilities 323-5833

AUDIO

Sony TC-366 reel to reel great cond $175 nego sharp B&W TV $30 plus more Jan grad must sell! 549-1157

AUTO FOR SALE

'74 Impala AT, AC, ex mech cond, no rust, $800 call 546-6037

70 Camaro SS 4 sp. 327/350 H.P. rebuilt eng. needs ¼ panel & paint 1400$ Louis 253-5385

1973 Audi 100LS new transmission, valves, and clutch, AM-FM stereo, sunroof. Call Joe 549-4187

Subaru Station Wagen 1974 Subaru Sedan 1973 excellent conditions front wheel drive 35 mpg standard 4 speed BO call 253-3481 11 am-2 pm 4 pm-10 pm

1971 VW Fastback good condition $750 or BO 586-2811

72 Toyota Corona runs fine 750.00 527-3975

1972 Plymouth Cricket 56000 miles no rust good mechanically sound system must sell $1700 or BO call 665-4816 after 6 PM

VW Squareback 1969 25-30 mpg $300 call 253-3134 moving West

BETH

Welcome to UMass! Glad you could make it. Missed ya, Pal! See ya soon Gregg

BOARDERS WANTED

Boarders Wanted at Delta Chi fraternity for intersession or spring semester for details call Kimble 253-9230

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 refundable to: Triple "S" 16243-Y-7B Cajon, Hesperia, CA 92345

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian Positions: Assistant Managing Editors, Copy Editors, Layout Technicians. Pay: Experience helpful, interest is even more important. Apply in Hist Basmt by Dec. 9 at the Collegian.

ELECTRIC GUITAR

Ibanez S.S. Tune-o-Matic bridge hipshot, steel case excellent condition! $240 negotiable Chris 549-7826 or 538-8015

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundstream and DJ for hire perfect for band parties conferences thru 584-4185

Dancers Workshop Monday Dec 8, 1980 7:30 P.M. NOPE Commission Administration Office

FOR RENT

Room to sublet 1 bedroom 2 full bath 3 MILE/MILE Townhouse 1/4 private D. Deerfield no bus/$75 + 1/3 549-7126

Live in Britany Manor immediately! $100 month covers all 253-5497

Furnished Rooms for rent 665-7552

1 bedroom in house in South Amherst Jan 1 fireplace on bus rte $130 + 252-5781

FOR SALE

Quilt Ideas Kestrel Drawings call Dennis Dalton 665-7977

Steve Durand in Wing also assorted name repeats), 10 year warranty, walnut stained pine frame desk, postpaid, materials, time, meter. Originally $126.00 now online $109.00 521-5075 Brandon

For Sale — Crossman Pellet pistol with mans, sweaters, scarves, hats, imported wool, reasonable prices. Also one Atlanta Wing ski jacket call 256-3146 evenings

AUTOGRAPH signed NEW CONDITION WOLF DAVICH-9-0624

Springsteen Tickets available for 12/19 show in Boston. Good seats 546-7979

Alvarez Yairi dreadnaught Guitar hshcase, case good tones with hardshell case $350 549-8121

Snowboard Ski combination skis 205 cm Tyrolia 360 racing bindings both $340 excellent condition very little use sells priced at $280 bindings at $120 asking total price of $250 contact Laura 549-7484

14 K white gold sapphire ring $300 or best offer call Lynn after 4 PM at 253-5758

Springsteen Tickets 12-13-5-6256

Springsteen tickets Boston Dec. 9/good floor seats 549-4281

Molitor Hiking Boots sz. 12 never used $50.00 or BO 6-7779

Snowtire D78-14 good cond. incl. rim Dave 253-2215

Women's Ten Leather Boots new, size 8 546-6772 great Christmas gift!

Yamaha G-130 Classical/Folk guitar excellent condition w/case $100 call Karen 253-2883

Membership at Nautilus at Mountain Farms Mall 10 months left on membership $175 or best offer call Steve 546-4901

[illegible] $60 or best offer call Steve 549-4901

[illegible] $4.25 plus $1.50 postage & handling with instruction manual. Creative Designs P.O. Box 1018 Dept E, Kingston, MA 02364

76 Gibson LG6 excellent condition must sell $400 plus 1976 Peavey Studio 'A' amp 80 watt in mint condition with extra EQ with guitar call 549-2701 ask for Hal

Stereo Warm electric frontier guarantee with sheets Ask owners 413-367-7408

1982 Gibson SG walnut finish mercedes tailpiece $375 549-1515

Great Speakers Cerwin Vega! 12W total RMS per unit $700 call 549-6702

Women's Intensive Ski Boots size 7 Rst in BC like new! $65 4575

Cheap Stereo electronic, low spring, and bronze $65 3535

Elan K-2 combo skis for 5' 180cm, 200cm with bindings, poles $80 each 256-8670

Kenwood KA-5700 Stereo Amp rms 40 w/ch 8 Ohm Public with volume Booster EC Fischer Subwoofer 100 240watt ea/ch area 5 00 549-4860 ask for LK, stereo exp.

FOUND

Wallet red and black found ground inside found on campus/call 256-6256

Black Cat found in coffee shop Queen Adhesive tape, nice owner 256-8256

Man's pair of glasses with brown frame near Bowditch found on Wednesday Nov 26 Brown leather case see Ed and found information desk Campus Center

GEESE

Geese available? Call 549-[illegible] Gardens Against Geese to apply call 6-4911

HELP WANTED

Wanted part time radiology technician for multispecialty group practice phone call 256-8551 ext 248 for 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

Overseas Jobs — Summer/year round. Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, etc. Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free info, write: UC Box 52-MA6 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Summer Work travel 9 open 4,000 weekly. Send address, phone to Box 210, Amherst, MA 01004

Experienced Cocktail Waitresses needed at once, must be available for interview. Apply after 4 Sheehan's Cafe Northampton

Collegian Advertising Staff has openings for Spring Semester. Hardworking, motivated students of any major may apply in person to either Kellie or Michelle. A car or access to a car is needed. Apply before Dec. 10

Graphic Technician needed at Collegian now operation. 8 to 10 hours per week during the day. No experience necessary, will train student preferred. Apply morning Room 108 Campus Center.

Help wanted Bartender Hostess's Prep Cook Roast Beef Waiters interviews Tues & Sundays after 4:30 pm

Passion to do task processing for local firm. Computer experience desired. Evening hours. 4-8 nmp. +40hours week! Will train/data, detailing experience, sales aptitudes, and hours available to:

Barry Ferrigno
Anthem Associates Inc.
210 Old Plains Road
Amherst, MA 01002
No calls Please!

Early Collegian Assistant Business Manager for next semester. Interesting job with growth potential for the right person. Apply now Jon Wash 110 Campus Center UC Mail

HELP WANTED: MALE OR FEMALE

Address and stuff envelopes at home Easy sign on location Earnings unlimited Send self addr Business Opportunities Triple "S"

INSTRUCTION

COBOL Tutor professional experience call 665-4722 6 PM to 10 PM reasonable rates!

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of CC and Hasbrouck 549-4875

MAROON BACKPACK WITH UMASS LOGO. KEEP PACK!! PLEASE RETURN BOOKS PAUL DELUCA 665-3024

Grey Cardigan Sweater lost near Boyden reward call 367-2105

Green backpack and containing an Abstract Global Business Research for economics 665-4364, telephone

Lost in Bartlett 205, a white University Store bag with three shirts. If found please call Debbie at 5-8286

If anyone found a large walking bag of clothes outside Cance Bunker night please call 5-8668 ask for Larry

UK Record for any information leading to the return of a 26 mm Canon still 1 camera and an f/2 zoom lens at 4:30 pm Tues Dec 2 PLEASE CALL ISAAC at 5-2366 days or eve and save reigns

Lost Green Nuna Pack please return call, sorry to Annie 710 Dickinson 546-6668 no questions

Found I was one notebook a Engin Econ find in line at box below from the computer center space. Call collect 1-598-8926

META

Lynette — Happy 22nd Birthday Q.T. I love ya like best birthdayever! Love Marilyn

MUSIC YOU CAN EAT

The Munchy Brothers Harper Valley's musical entertainers will perform at the Hampden Elementary School Auditorium, Fun and Refreshments provided — we have Elvis's Birthday night at Hampden Snack Bar in Southwick, too cool!

NO-WAY CAFE

It couldn't be over over already. Or is it! Shall someone else the time to learn the best love yo. Jer

PERSONALS

Hiking with you be when the lights go and I find out at the pyramids in Giza Dec 20 at 5:30

Lauren the semester is almost gone and then I live will have however, you it will go on Good Luck 5/4/81 Stephen

Debbie even were I sure I'd be even for you Love Dave

UFC Pick of the Week - Can chance to not know and party before finals come to the rescue before or the Student Union Ballroom December 6, 1980 a that or to sit for the UMass students 18.00 for general public

Meeting of the UMass Reagan Bonzo Club Saturday 6 December 8 then lunch at the Ale Ale 8 U.S. 10.00 for UMass students 14.00 for General Public 986-9982

LORENE I love you all, you to the power and close to my heart. Thanks for many wonderful traditional events, soon! Mom!

To all my friends here at UMass. There you so much for a wonderful last four years I will miss you very badly. Love Mom!

Dear Ben, Mom's sorry I'll with love on, Mom. If you ally someone your lovely Deb Undergraduate Business Club A job search symposium available with Gulf and Westinghouse December 10 @ 7:30 in 164. room. 1 A. wine & cheese reception will follow. All welcome!

Cookie pond Sisters are long something better for you. Last of love - Christopher Robin

To the Kid in a series of Spanish I's I owe you. Come home. Lisa

Ah New Balkal boys come Reid my Dec 10th, 10th Yes C.C. some my shoes

Alex Bella Pazo Egmont Mac you remember not when I'm dating apple juice. Fast fellow. Jen

Big get sore feet, we've got some good medicine for the head - Lauren Tums and Lysol

Judy Bailey - Hey over on the cold home line

Bette Deliberate have a great 20th B-Day, and your friends always Karen, Laura, Julie & Donna

Jean Paul Congrats Fusion! P.E. romp was Hallo. Let's P.A.R.T.

Lorna Tasmanian Weasel 28th Birthday from your UMass buddy Barb

Dec 6 SWA presents the Battle of the Bands Contest $100 prize 1PM to 8PM in Southwest Hampden Student Center Blarney, Tempest, Black Lightning, Portable-ity, Total Electric Living Begin 1 PM Sat exit, Total Electric Living Begin 1 PM Sat

Dear Jill (JP) — Happy 19th Birthday! I love ya, AP

Beauty and intelligence are a prequisite at 57 Southwood

Eileen if you try hard enough you could become schnuppo Bunny - I love you Tim

Steve F. Ox Summer you didn't make the 90's on Turkey day 79?

Word to Teddie again? Dad up a storage another orange adience S.T. Patton 4th Hour Hilton

Grad, How about Nose Flute in a person? Sounds like an outstanding way to ring in 1981! Carol Cuddles

Blue Eyes - It was that color sunburned of a morning! Love Nancy/Nose

Hey Ed, Happy Birthday! How about a hug from us, including Carol Smith? Love ya always! Sandy and Nancy (and Smith) Love Ted

To Stevie Wiggins, and all, Thanks for helping fill a void a being. Cotton's sake as cookies. I made it up the stairs - just one more flat to

Happy Birthday Marilyn you are almost normal! I love you forever - Susan PUPPY This time it means you. Thanks for the meals, you always can't me to surprise. All my love, Piggy!

Christopher - who are you? Love a Signe Kappa

Jean C — Really your very own personal "Love B.B." to go with it! MANY! Love your cousins

Welcome to UMass Amy We're going to have a good time

Will A. Bosco Cervera tonight - 7:30 Engineering bar - Bob, Dick

Ahhh - have a good XC Florida here we come! Lin

Catch Fish Report Tune in Charlie Tuna Fishes from 10pm to 2AM on WMUA 91.1 FM!

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to San Francisco area before 2 weeks share expenses call 546-5256

Is anyone taking Portable Service Exam in Tufts well in going please contact me at 549-0798 will share $

RIDING WANTED

To Los Angeles Leave December 20 return January 20 call Drew 323-7779

ROOM WANTED

HELP! Female needs room for Jan. 1-31st 1 can subsist prior $ 25 1-461-5246

Male looking for room to sublet apt. in house from 12/15 on 1/31/81 any location prefer S. Amherst 256-8868

Quiet male graduate needs room in house or apt. call Jenny 546-6376

Friendly, responsible female looking for room room for Spring semester Please call 253-3416

Two bedroom apartment needed for Spring semester on bus route call Bobbi 6-4377 or Jenny 6-7599

3 people need to sublet apt for interim call Matt 546-6617

Need room near Campus for 2h Jan 26 reservation across Call 616-546-7466

ROOMMATE WANTED

Two 2 females wanted to sublet 1 bdrm in 2 bdrm Townhouse Apt. 256-8370 mornings after 7 PM Pat

Female to share bdrm - Colonial Village $80 per month Call Janice after 5:30 256-8264 JOAP

Roommate wanted 2F to share 2 bdrm apt on bus route Starts $80.-75% rights.

Room available for 1 or 2 females Jan 1 in Puffton call 549-8186

Open room in Sunset Village Apts Jan to May 31 $100 - call includes 250-283 evenings, after 5PM

Female wanted to share bedroom in Jan only Brittany Manor 253-5786

Room in house to share with four other students Location in Belchertown on bus rte 9 $80 7788 or 323-7529

Female to share 2 bdrm apt in Leverett On 116 bus rte Call 549-1 or Sue Hale 256-8535

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day • 15c per word • Student rate 10c per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number FREE

SERVICES

Free Body Composition Measurement to scientifically find your optimal body weight. Need 'thin to average' females for thesis project. Call Debbie at 5-1337 eves. 586-5941 eves

Randy's Movers experienced local long distance low rates call mornings 546-5728

SONGWRITERS

Folk-Singer, song writer researching song writing at UMass. If you write original folk, or country music I would like to interview you and profile your work in my [illegible] call me at 545-2680 10 pm 11:30 pm on weekends anytime

SPRINGFIELD

Need ride to Springfield/ Providence area 9-5 call Paul 6-7126

SUNFEST

If you haven't seen us yet, you haven't seen us. Sunfest power on us at Southwest's Hampden Student Center 10-5 5:30 stop in Hampden Student Center 256-8371 ext 9

TO SUBLET

1 share to 4 bdrm apt Amherst Dr Jan only $90 549-1976

4 responsible looking for 2-4 bedrooms apt on bus 5 546-7135 1256 5472 546-7766

Ideally located apt for rent in center of town available Jan 1 call eves 256-0109

One bedroom apt at University Park Apt on bus route $280 month utilities inc. beginning 1/81 call Rich 256-6365

Apt - Intersession Brittany furnished low rates 253-9815 call late S. option

1 bedroom in 4 bedrosm apt in Amherst on bus rte 256-0375

One room in two room apartment available month January Brandywine call 6-5458

1 large bedroom furnished for two available for intersession/ Jan/ 256-6362

Available immediately one bedroom in 3 bedroom apt in North Amherst for one or two call 549-0497

Bedroom in apt available Dec 30 - Jan 31 $90 per room negotiable

2 bdrm apt on bus route available for Spring and /or Jan call 546-7466 ask for Ed

TRAVEL

To your favorite vacation spot now on Make it to your best B-day ever! Catherine and Margaret

TRAVELING

Basketball Painting Auditorium will be used Wednesday Dec 10 for more info call Wendy 546-5078

3 spaces available January 1 in Central Amherst 5 person household 1 for January only and 2 through August 81 reasonable rent call Geoff Tom or Ann 253-7685

Third person needed for 3 bedroom apt Puffton rent $122.00 549-0861

Roommate needed for large 2 bedrm apt in Northampton call 584-6584

Female non-smoker 22+ own bedroom bus route Jan 1 665-4807

WANTED

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. Top dollar paid for silver dollars, 90 Nourth Pleasant St. between Amherst and Logos, Amherst or 549-0143 and 256-6716

Top Dollars paid for class rings, gold, sterling, or Watches by Gruen, Bulova or watch appraised by Gruen Master of Greenwich

Highest prices paid for class rings, gold, and silver jewelry. Top dollar paid for silver dollars 90 North Pleasant St. between Amherst and Logos, Amherst or 549-0143 and 256-6716 Located by Town of Amherst & State of Massachusetts call 256-6716

Needed Chemistry Tutor [illegible] Anne Swan call 586-5782 on or 12 PM Kathy

I Want Your. . . small refridgerator, TV, Couch, or sweing machine call 253-9974 Bob

Are you a professor or student leaving your house or apartment alone during intersession? Wouldn't you feel more secure if someone stayed and looked after things? Responsible student familiar with area is looking to do just that. References available. Call 546-8041

Complete laundry system must have multile loading positions and ability to handle all size loads prefer attachable hand winger tint screen a must will not discriminate apply 55 Grason over 18 apply 55 Grayson no coin-ops

WANTED TO RENT

Serious Student needs own room in an house or one bed rm for Spring semester call 546-4618 keep trying

DESPERATE Need 2 bedroom apt for Spring semester Will consider $$$$$

HELP I'm looking for a two bedroom apartment to sublet for second semester with Bob

Wanted one or two bedroom apartment or just room in apartment or house near campus call Cheryl 549-5856

WOO WHO'S HERE

Assistant T Bone won't come back next semester. Hurry to the consume before they're gone

CROSSWORD

★EPA

continued from page 1

RCRA regulations have been in the works for four years and as of December 31, is based every company which produces hazardous wastes to prove that is goes to a government approved disposal facility.

New England's unique problem is that it has no waste disposal plant. Until the RCRA, we garbaged all New England's toxic waste was treated in New York plants. Newly passed was disposed illegally. Now York has voted closed its plants to in state disposal only.

A Boston, Texas firm, Browning-Ferris, wants to site a hazardous waste treatment center in Rehobt, Mass., but, Dukis said people are hostile to a chemical disposal plant in their town more than to a dump site.

Dukis said she felt the federal government would not step into the conflict between Rehobt residents and the Texas company proposing the site. Recent legislation gives the power for site approval from town officials and gives it to state officials. But, "historically, it has been a town problem, and the town's choice," she said. Dukis said if the government step out in it all, it would be less convenient and not with disincentives, such as the withdrawal of federal funds from the town.

The lecture was wound in a series for an engineering seminar, "Topics in Hazardous Wastes." The series was organized by Jon Bale, an assistant professor of civil engineering.

LUNCH
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich
Meatloaf/Mushroom Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Garbanzo Beans and Rice Pilaf/Pilaf
Chicken Cutlet Sandwich

DINNER
Stir Fry Beef and Vegetables
Fried Shrimp Dinner/Tartar Sauce
Cocktail Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Sweet and Sour Tofu
Fried Shrimp Dinner/Tartar Sauce
Cocktail Sauce

Ballet is holiday treat

By SARAH SCHULTZ
Collegian Staff

Watching the Hartford Ballet's Nutcracker Suite at the Fine Arts Center was like unwrapping a glittering Christmas present. Wide-eyed, we watched with heart-pounding anticipation as the dazzling wrappings were removed and the gift was revealed in a nutshell (nutcracker?)

The gift is a return to childhood: a journey into that fantastic realm where anything is possible. We follow Clara down a staircase into the sumptuous quiet of a livingroom, still pulsating with the excitement of recently-parted guests, and into the misty sleep worlds of her mind where magical things begin to happen. Clara and her Nutcracker Prince dance through enchanted Kingdoms inhabited by kings and queens, spirits and fairies, and a host of other magical beings. Nutcracker Suite is a child's dream come true.

Speaking in more adult terms, the Nutcracker Suite is "an orgy of color and movement." This is an apt description of the lavish Hartford Ballet production. Their bold costumes, sets, and astonishing technical effects dazzled children and adults alike and added new spice to a ballet which has been performed so many times by so many companies that it has almost become a cliche.

The spectacular and polished visual settings were a perfect backdrop for this gem of ballets. While their glittering, shimmery appeal created a huge sensation (as judged by the many "ooh" and "ahhs" among the audience), they did not overwhelm the magic of the dancers. Artistic director Michael Uthoff should be commended for the clear narrative style of his innovative choreography.

The Soldier Doll in the Hartford Ballet's production of The Nutcracker Suite at the Fine Arts Center last Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

★ Politics

continued from page 13

ty, seeks a president they can like.

Barber's book begins with the presidential election of 1900. This campaign, in which William McKinely faced William Jennings Bryan, was an example of an election of conflict, Barber says. This was followed by an election of conscience in 1904 (Teddy Roosevelt vs. Alton Parker), and an election of conciliation in 1908 (William Taft vs. Bryan).

Thus, the following elections in this century would be considered elections of conflict: 1912 (Woodrow Wilson vs. Taft); 1924 (Calvin Coolidge vs. John Davis); 1936 (Roosevelt vs. Alf Landon); 1948 (Truman vs. Dewey); 1960 (Kennedy vs. Richard Nixon); and 1972 (McGovern vs. Nixon).

The elections of 1916 (Wilson vs. Charles Hughes); 1928 (Herbert Hoover vs. Al Smith); 1940 (Franklin Roosevelt vs. Wendell Wilkie); 1952 (Dwight Eisenhower vs. Adlai Stevenson); 1964 (Lyndon Johnson vs. Barry Goldwater); and 1976 (Gerald Ford vs. Jimmy Carter) would be called elections of conscience.

And the elections of 1920 (Warren Harding vs. James Cox); 1932 (Roosevelt vs. Hoover); 1944 (Roosevelt vs. Thomas Dewey); 1956 (Eisenhower vs. Stevenson) 1968 (Nixon vs. Hubert Humphrey); and 1980 (Carter vs. Rnald Reagan) would be considered elections of conciliation.

Although some political scientists may argue with Barber's theory, The Pulse of Politics is still well worth reading. Barber's writing is vivid and fast-paced, and the book provides an excellent summary of elections in this century.

And, if Barber is correct, we can be prepared for another hot policy battle in 1984.

The rusty nail Inn
Dec. 5 & 6
NRBQ
Dec. 12 & 13
THE AVERAGE WHITE BAND
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

PRESENTS
Duke Ellington Committee
A Reggae Dance
with MONYAKA
and Loose Caboose
December 6, 1980
at the Student Union Ballroom
Last Chance Dance - Pre Finals - Two Fine Bands
10 Monyaka Albums give away the night of the show
Tickets on sale Now
$2.50 UMass Students $4.00 General Public
All tickets an additional 50c at the door
Available at
Tix, Union Records Unlimited, and For the Record at Faces
No food, drink or smoke please
Thanks, U.P.C. Productions
In conjuction with the UMass Arts Council
UPC Productions

The Stables
Best Breakfast In Town — Specials Still Only 99c
Rt. 9 Hadley Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

WANTED:
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Assistant Business Manager
Pick up application now for the position of Assistant Business Manager for next term. A weekly salary is paid. Qualifications sought are:
*business background
*interest in newspaper work
*a sincere, hard-working individual
Responsibilities will include:
*payroll *accounts payable
*advertising layout *office supply inventory
Contact: Jonathan Klein, Business Manager
Mass. Daily Collegian 113 Campus Center 545-3500

MECHANICAL & INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS
On campus interviews Thursday Dec. 11, 1980
We have full time positions available starting in January in our Springfield, Mass. headquarters for graduates who have concentrated in tool engineering & mechanical processing who are interested in new equipment & automation.
This is an opportunity for dynamic growth with the technology expansion of one of the world's largest manufacturers of quality mechanic's hand tools.
Responsibilities would initially include the troubleshooting of gages, jigs, fixtures, automated mechanisms, & tools related to cutting, grinding, finishing & assembly. This would then lead to equipment automation.
Starting salaries are competitive & variable depending upon individual qualifications. An attractive company paid benefit package is provided.
Interviews may be scheduled at the Hampshire House Placement Office.
Esco Hand Tools
The Moore Company
Springfield, Mass.
An Equal Opportunity Employer

Skiers to start season

By JOHN GARDINIER
Collegian Correspondent

The University of Massachusetts ski team has captured the championship in the Osborne Division of the New England Inter-Collegiate Ski Conference for the past 11 years in a row, and will be looking to extend the championship to an even dozen with the upcoming season.

"The team lacks the solid depth that's been enjoyed in the past five years," head coach Bill MacConnell said. "Junior co-captain Brian Prindle is returning after missing last season with an ankle injury but we've lost two of our top competitors in Keven Nolan (graduation) and Patrick Downes (transfer to Cornell).

"At this point the season depends on our January training session which I think is one of the best around," he said.

Returning to the team after a three year absence will be senior Dan Fisk. Seniors Chris Wakefield, Scott Broadhurst, Tony Kundert and junior Scott Billings will contribute to this year's team with their experience and consistency. Senior co-captain and number one skier, Bob Grout, will return as well.

Final selections for the team will be made tomorrow at Berkshire East in Charlemont.

Scott Broadhurst is one of four seniors returning to the UMass men's ski team. First meet for the skiers is Jan. 17 at Berkshire East.

Ya can't bring Witkos down

Brian Murphy

As most of the upperclassmen already know, and many of the freshmen are beginning to find out, UMass basketball has had two very rough seasons the last two years and things are not projected to get much better.

But don't tell Tom Witkos that. He doesn't buy it.

"We're going to surprise a lot of teams this year when they play us, and I honestly think that we're going to be better than .500 this year," he said.

Ahh, shades of the '67 Red Sox manager, Dick Williams. Gotta like the attitude.

Tom is a local boy made good, he hails from nearby Hadley and has played UMass basketball for the last three seasons. Coming out of high school, Tom was recruited by two Division-1 schools, UMass and Boston College. The decision wasn't that hard.

"I'd been watching basketball at UMass since I was a kid, I'd seen a lot of good basketball played here, I saw the teams that had (Alex) Eldridge, (Mike) Pyatt and (Mark Haymore, I wanted to be part of the UMa basketball heritage, and I could hardly wait to play in the infamous Cage. Also, we'd just entered into a new conference, the Eastern Eight. All this, plus I wanted to be near my family and friends, so the decision wasn't all that hard."

Case closed.

However, everything isn't all rosy for Tom or any of the basketball players. The demands put on them are much more than the demands put on the average students. First of all, the players go to classes then practice for at least three hours in the afternoon, then eat and go home to study. On weekends, much time is spent sleeping and catching up on studies.

Most of the team only goes out one night a week. (That's definitely not your average UMass student!)

While most students get six weeks off for intersession, these guys only go home for five days.

The road life is no bargain either, Tom says that boredom is their next best friend on the road. If they have no homework they kill time sitting in the hotel room watching TV or playing pool.

Because Tom is the lone senior on the team, he has seen more than most of the guys on the team. He has tasted the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat.

"Too much defeat," he adds.

"Last year is out of my mind, it is in the past and I'm looking towards the future. I think this year's team has a super attitude, the best team attitude I've seen since I've been here. We're also playing good team basketball, whereas prior teams have relied too much on individual play."

Having gone through what Tom has the past two years, many people would have packed their bags and gone elsewhere. Any regrets Tom?

"No way, I'm real happy here. UMass has been good to me. They've given me a good education and I've met some super people here. Coach (Jack) Leaman and Coach (Ray) Wilson have taught me some invaluable lessons. Because of them, I've learned to be poised and become a leader."

"I know it's going to be an exciting season," said Witkos, who along with sophomore Ron Washington, was elected this year's captain. I'll do anything to win.

Tom entertains the idea of playing pro ball in either Hawaii or Sweden upon graduation.

In his case, it goes to show that dedication and patience pay off.

ALIEN
In space no one can hear you scream
S. U. B.
Sun. Dec. 7th
7, 9 and 11
$1.50
Sponsored by John Adams Upper

SUNDAY 12-5
FACES
Downtown Amherst

LUNCHEON SPECIALS & DINNER
DINE IN FULL TAKE-OUT SERVICE CALL 253-3481
Mon Sat 11am 2pm & 4pm 10pm
Sun 4pm 10pm
N. Pleasant St. Downtown Amherst

WINE BUYERS:
Mix or match
6 corked 5th size bottles and get a 10% discount!*
— Cash only —
C & C LIQUORS
61 Main Street Amherst
* Wines on special not included

Learn to Drive a Bus
Five College Transportation will sponsor a 3 week training program during January interterm for those interested in getting a Class II Bus Drivers License.
For more information and an interview appointment - call the Transportation Office (256-8310)
Deadline for applications is Dec. 12, 1980.

BILL BANSLABEN
"MAGICIAN"
"Star of the 'Choreomagic' Show"
is now doing shows, private parties & lounges
Contact: B. J. Productions
at (413) 667-3288 (anytime)
or Area Manager (Jim)
at 546-7539 between 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

TURF DOCTOR
New England's largest Lawn Care Company will be conducting interviews for Sales & Service positions on December 11 at the Hampshire House.
An introduction to Turf Doctor & the Lawn Care Industry will be held Dec. 10 at 7 p.m., CC 165-169.
Appointments for interviews must be made at the Hampshire House.

STEEPLE JACKS
Home Cooked Food at its Finest
Breakfast-Lunch 6-2 pm
Located in the Belly of Sunderland

THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
presents
THE BEST MUSICAL*
A CHORUS LINE
Sunday, December 14 3 & 8 PM
For information about ticket availability, call the Box Office (open M-F, noon-4 p.m., 545-2511

Sports

UPI awards snub football team

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

Despite leading the nation in Division I-AA in total defense this year, only one member of the 1999 University of Massachusetts football team was named to the United Press International All-New England team yesterday.

Senior safety Rob Manning, who was also named to the Kodak All-America team earlier this week, was the sole member from UMass on the UPI All-Star team.

UMass head coach Bob Pickett admits he was surprised by the UPI staff.

"I'm not saying they (UPI) are wrong," Pickett said yesterday. "But I had some of our players were deserving."

Pickett, along with UMass tri-captain Fred Reed, Frank DiDonnaso and Rusty Jay, attended a Captain's Night dinner/banquet Wednesday night at Pizzeria's restaurant in Cambridge. At the banquet, Pickett spoke with UPI sports editor Peter Bliss, who organized the all-New England balloting of all Div. I-based coaches in New England.

"He (Bliss) told me Manning had made the team and that (UMass halfback) Garry Pearson had come very close," Pickett said. "Like I said, I'm not saying he (Bliss) is wrong, but I expected to hear after I thought deserved some recognition."

Bliss could not be reached for comment in Boston yesterday but UPI sportswriter Pete Jordan said he made "sympathetic noises" with the people up at UMass." Jordan added that Bruchon "barely missed" making the UPI team.

Running backs on the UPI team were Maine's Gennaro Brazzi, Holy Cross's Joe Boston College, and Yale's Rich Diana. Diana was named player of the year.

Pickett said he was particularly surprised at the omission of junior defensive tackle Dan Potvin, whom Pickett said has nearly been named to an All-America team earlier in the week.

"I feel bad for Dan Potvin," Pickett said. "I suppose he was one of the finest, if not the best, defensive lineman in New England."

"I'm sure that is something we all think about up here," Pickett said. "I can't deny that it exists."

The biggest surprise of the year's Yankee Conference selections was the second team selection of Potvin and the total omission of linebacker Scott Crowell, who led UMass in total defensive points (tackles, assists, intercepted passes and fumble recoveries).

Twelve UMass players were named to the Yankee Conference All-Star roster this week, eight of them coming from the defensive unit.

First team selections included Manning, cornerback Dwayne Lopes, linebacker Pete DiGennaro, defensive ends George Lewis and Frank DiFrancesco, and tackle Eric Lingua. Potvin, who was a first team selection last year and cornerback Mac Jones were named to the second team.

Pearson, who rushed for 1068 yards and 11 touchdowns this year, was selected to the first team on offense. Senior center Errol, who suffered a broken ankle against Connecticut and played in just six full games, was named to the second team offense, as were guards Jerry Gordon and Scott LaFond.

Pickett added that, in a display of pride, Boston University did not attend the awards banquet in Cambridge Wednesday night. The BU absence was in protest of their quarterback, Jim Jensen, not receiving the Colt Belmar award, given to the New England player of the year as selected by the Boston Gridiron Club. Charlesmith's Dave Wade, son of Miami Dolphins head coach Don Shula, won the Colt Belmar this year.

Gymwomen host three teams in Invitational

Kathy Mathews, who will compete in the all-around tonight, prearises her beam routine at Hayden gym. Staff photo by Stacey Moriarty

Hoopmen host Earl, Bonnies

By KEVIN CULLEN
Collegian Staff

For a couple of hours this weekend, the Curry Hicks Cage will be in Bethlehem, not Amherst.

The East is coming.

The University of Massachusetts basketball team will open their Eastern Eight season Saturday night at 7:30 when they play host to St. Bonaventure, led by high-scoring Earl Belcher.

The Minutemen, coming off two non-league losses to Providence and Harvard, will have to deal with Mr. Belcher, who was the nation's fifth leading scorer last year with a 26.3 points per game average.

The Bonnies enter the game with an even record, sweeping ASC in their opener last week 79-63 (Belcher had 24) and in turn being bounced by Pittsburgh-scribe Belcher had "only" 222 in an Eastern Eight game Tuesday night.

"Each Bonnie's a playing well," says Bonnie coach Jim Satalin. "But as a team, we've got to play better than we did against Pitt. They kicked our butts all over the floor."

Satalin will use a straight man-to-man defense against UMass, and start Belcher and fellow Bonnie of the Year starter, 6'8" Eric Mosser. The squad's leading rebounder at center Inglorious guard Mark Jones (6'4") will try to Allenscreate the offense and is a lefty ballhandler. Freshman Kevin Clarke will start at the other guard spot.

As for the Bonnie and Belcher, UMass head coach Tim Wilson has no tricks in store.

"Trying to defend Belcher is a big challenge," says Wilson. "They've not going to stop the man from scoring. The best you can do is try to control him. We'll do everything [with people on him, make him work for everything he gets."

Although heavy favorites, Satalin refuses to rest UMass lightly.

"Our scouts were really impressed with the way they (UMass) played Harvard the other night," Satalin said. "They've got the kind of a team that wants the ball out of your hands, you know they'll be looking for the quick. And besides, when you lose by 16 points on your home court, as we did the other night against Pitt, you can't be over confident."

Wilson will throw a man-to-man defense at St. Bonaventure and hope a pair of forwards can keep Belcher's damage to a minimum. He also says Wednesday's last-point loss to Harvard is a lesson for his team.

"They've also learn got a better idea of what they can do when they play hard, and when they play as a team," Wilson said.

Trackmen win six first-places

DAILY COLLEGIAN
Editorial: Fairness Not enough
AMHERST, MONDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1900
Clear, mild, nice weather today

REDS SET TO MOVE

U.S. watches Polish drama

Page Two

Auxiliary Firefighters

Koffler OK in coronary unit

Page Three

Controversy clouds Sylvan election

Page Three

Reporter goes inside KKK

Page Two

It's pie for sure!

Page Five

Reds are ready to roll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has complete preparations "for possible...intervention in Poland," the White House announced yesterday.

"It is our hope that no such intervention will take place," the White House said in a brief statement. A senior White House official said the Soviet activities led President Carter to meet with a special committee of advisers in the morning and then to chair a meeting of the National Security Council in the afternoon.

The White House official said the United States had been "monitoring carefully" the Soviet preparations, but he refused to describe them in any detail, stating that they involved the "logistical and deployment activities" a major power would undertake before a military intervention.

"They are ready to move," he said, although he stated that he was not in a position to judge what action the Soviets would take.

"We can't ignore the fact that preparations for a possible military move have been completed," he said, adding that the preparations continued after the Wednesday statement was issued by Carter.

He said the White House had an estimate of the number of divisions involved, but he would not disclose it.

The official said no change has been made in the status or positioning of U.S. forces as a result of the Soviet activities.

He also said that President-elect Ronald Reagan's transition team has been kept up to date on the reports about the Soviet activities.

Meanwhile, Reagan's chief foreign policy adviser, Richard Allen, was asked about the possibility of a Polish invasion in a broadcast interview yesterday. He said Reagan would support Carter in foreign policy moves made before Jan. 20, when Reagan becomes president.

"The president of the United States is in full charge of the conduct of our foreign relations during this interregnum period," Allen said. "The president-elect has indicated he does not want to interfere in any way, shape or form with the conduct of foreign policy and will back the initiatives taken by President Carter in the defense of our foreign policy issues."

Allen also said he did not believe the United States and its western allies would be able to conduct "business as usual" with the Soviets in the event of a Polish invasion.

"There will be just profound repercussions that would last for a long, long time," he said on the ABC News' program "Issues and Answers."

The White House official said the United States government had not been in touch with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin yesterday but he said contacts over Poland had been continuing for weeks. ■

Probe nun murder

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A U.S. presidential commission arranged meetings with Salvadoran leaders yesterday in an attempt to determine whether the military was involved in murdering three American nuns and a social worker.

El Salvador's Roman Catholic Church blamed the ruling junta for the deaths.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the commission was scheduled to meet with military officials and church leaders, but declined to elaborate because of security surrounding the mission to this violence-torn Central American country.

The church statement, read at Sunday Mass in San Salvador's Metropolitan Cathedral and broadcast throughout the country on radio, came from Apostolic Administrator Arturo Rivera y Damas.

Americans last week were "the culmination of four years of persecution of the church, that has increased in quantity and quality in 1980, coinciding with the new political construction of the country by the military and the Christian Democratic Party."

The bodies of Ita Ford and Maura Clarke, both of the Maryknoll Order from New York City; Dorothy Kazel, of the Ursaline Order from Cleveland, Ohio, and Jean Donovan, a lay religious worker also from Cleveland, were found shot to death by the side of a rural road Wednesday. Authorities said they were murdered the day before.

No one has claimed responsibility. The ruling civilian-military junta has said the killings were the work of extreme rightists, and the murders follow a pattern of rightist assassination squads that work in El Salvador at will. ■

Bogus bill scheme bagged

BALTIMORE (AP) — A sharp-eyed Pennsylvanian hospital purchasing agent and a postal inspector in Boston apparently have ended a scheme where thousands of hospitals around the country were mailed bills for services never delivered.

The scheme, according to postal officials, involved a direct mailing to virtually every hospital in the nation and could have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars in payments.

So far, three Maryland institutions have received the bogus bills over the last several months.

According to the Maryland Hospital Association, each of the hospitals — and others around the country — received bills for $89 from General Diagnostics Industries Inc., a nonexistent company with a return address to what turned out to be a vacant apartment in Boston.

The name of the company is very close to that of a legitimate medical supplier, General Diagnostics. ■

AP

Hostage father raises flag

Richard Hermending, father of Iranian hostage Kevin Hermending, raises a flag commemorating the 400th day of hostage captivity as Teresa Lodeski, mother of hostage Bruce German, looks on during a ceremony in Hermitage, Pa.

AP

Tennessean reporter Jerry Thompson, left, participates in a Ku Klux Klan rally in Tennessee last summer.

Behind the sheets KKK an ugly sight

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For one and a half years, Jerry Thompson led a double life, burning crosses, collecting donations at Ku Klux Klan roadblocks and taking notes for The Tennessean.

The KKK "grows more dangerous each day," and should be disarmed, warns the 40- year-old veteran reporter, who infiltrated two Klan groups, including the militant Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan. Among his Klan assignments were picketing President Carter and demonstrating in white robes.

In a copyright story in Sunday's editions, Thompson said he joined the Klan by posing as a retired Army sergeant and cabinet maker and using the name J.W. Thompson.

"For years I sought to condition my thinking to be aware and sensitive to a changing society," he wrote. "Suddenly, in the Klan, I found myself submerged in a cauldron of racism and intolerance. It was necessary and important for me to undergo an immediate reconditioning. With a sense of guilt I would find myself engaging in the same sort of 'nigger and Jew talk' that offends decency."

"I have fired Klan crosses, collected contributions at Klan roadblocks, marched in Klan street demonstrations and helped disrupt order at a public meeting where men armed with pistols and automatic rifles mouthed that routine racist rhetoric, 'the niggers and Jews are ruining the country,'" he wrote.

The 20-year veteran reporter made up a military background for his new identity. He described an encounter in a deserted parking lot in Birmingham, Ala., with a Klan leader:

"He quizzed me sternly, seriously and thoroughly. I was glad I had spent a month preparing for that ordeal. But when ... (he) finished with me and I stood there in the chilly evening, sweat dripping from my face, I wasn't certain I had passed the test .... Only when he took my Klan initiation fee that night did I know I could say AKIA."

AKIA, he said, means "A Klansman I Am."

Thompson wrote that the Klan should be disarmed, and that the Invisible Empire "grows more dangerous each day with a paramilitary training camp near Cullman, Ala. This militant faction of the Klan, of which I am a member, bears close scrutiny by authorities." ■

Daily Collegian, Monday, December 8, 1980

Koffler's condition stable

By ED LEVINE

University of Massachusetts Chancellor Henry Koffler was reported to be in stable condition last night in the Cardiac Care Unit of the Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton after suffering a heart attack Thursday evening.

Daniel Melley, UMass director of Public Affairs, said Koffler was in "good spirits" yesterday and sat up in a chair briefly on Saturday. If the chancellor's condition continues to improve, he may soon be transferred to a regular hospital room, Melley said.

On Friday, UMass President David C. Knapp named Loren Baritz, vice chancellor for Academic Affairs and Provost, as acting chancellor while Koffler is recovering. It is not known how long Koffler will be recuperating, but Melley said he expects the chancellor to be in the hospital at least two or three weeks.

Peter D'Errico, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the faculty union, said the group cancelled a planned Convocation on the State of the University, scheduled for this Wednesday, when they learned of the Chancellor's attack. D'Errico said the union's executive board will meet this morning to decide what course of action to pursue next.

"As soon as we heard the chancellor was in the hospital, it seemed reasonable to call off an action designed to increase awareness of contract and social issues which would also point the finger at various administrators on campus," D'Errico said last night.

D'Errico said Koffler was scheduled to appear at the convocation, designed to demonstrate the faculty's concern at the lack of progress in recent contract negotiations. The union, which represents professors and librarians on campus, has been working without a contract since July.

Koffler, 58, was attending an annual Madrigal Dinner in the Campus Center Auditorium Thursday night when he walked out of the hall complaining of chest pains. He was taken by Melley to UMass Health Services and then transferred to Cooley Dickinson by ambulance, Melley said.

Baritz could not be reached for comment. ■

Chancellor Henry Koffler

Ballots staffed by sis may nix Sylvan vote

By ED LEVINE

For the second time in six weeks the Sylvan Residential Area has held an election for officers to its area government which has been beset by problems and possible violations of election rules.

On Friday, 453 area residents, or about 38 percent, cast ballots electing Ronald Eckhardt to the presidency, Sam Jeffries as vice-president and Paul Carney treasurer, according to current Sylvan President Chris Ferretti. But, Ferretti said, reports that ballot boxes were closed early, that ballots were counted in public in dormitory lobbies and allegations that a candidate's sister staffed a ballot box may endanger the results.

On October 28, Sylvan held elections which were invalidated the following day by Ferretti who cited the failure of Cashin Dormitory to provide a ballot box and a low voter turnout. An earlier attempt at an election last May was also put off, due to a lack of candidates, he said.

According to Ferretti, Diane Mueller, chair of the Undergraduate Student Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, who coordinated the elections, apparently closed the ballot boxes early and proceeded to count the votes in the dorm lobbies. The polling places were supposed to remain open until 7 p.m. but, Ferretti said, they closed at about 6 p.m. in Cashin and about 6:15 p.m. in Brown dormitory. Ferretti was unsure what time they were closed in McNamara dormitory.

Mueller was out of town for the weekend and could not be reached for comment.

Susan Chalifour, an assistant head of residence and former House Council president in Cashin, said the sister of winning presidential candidate Ronald Eckhardt staffed a ballot box in Brown, in violation of election rules. Chalifour said she plans to file a protest of the elections with the Student Govenment Assocation.

"Eckhardt knew the results early. He knew the results even before they were official," Chalifour said. "I intend to file a protest."

Neither Eckhardt or his sister, Raina, could be reached for comment last night. ■

Amputee to run with God

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP)—Terry Fox, the amputee whose bid to run across Canada on one leg was halted when cancer spread to his lungs, says he still hopes to resume the run to raise money for cancer research.

Fox, 22, also says his new-found religious convictions have given him relief from pain. He said he was unable to eat because of pain three weeks ago, but now has gained seven pounds.

"I get strength now through believing in God and believing in myself," Fosx said at a news conference on Friday.

Plans for a $1 million cancer research center in Vancouver also were announced at the news conference.

Cheryl Senter DAILY COLLEGIAN

Here comes Santa!

Santa and his helper relaxing for a moment while there are no kiddies in sight.

That 'Midas touch' picks many pockets

By MALCOLM CAMPBELL

If you have the spirit and ambition of a gambler then an investment in gold may be just what the broker ordered.

"Gold is a very volatile investment, not necessarily as safe an investment as people believe," said University of Massachusetts business professor Thomas Schneeweiss.

Since gold prices do fluctuate, gold buyers may lose if they buy gold at a high price and it falls thereafter, he said.

A year ago gold was priced at about $800. Today it is below $700.

Yet many investors believe gold prices will continue to rise, Schneeweiss said. The rise in gold prices has eclipsed inflation considerably—published reports state that through the past six years the cost of living has risen 80 percent while the cost of gold has jumped more than 425 percent.

The price of gold is high now because foreign investors are spending their American oil dollars on gold, which is not subject, as the dollar has been, to devaluation, Schneeweiss said.

Many foreign governments change often and do not honor contracts made with previous governments, he said. This makes foreign investors wary of investing in anything less reliable than gold.

The price of gold could decelerate, Schneeweiss said, if there is a slowdown in the rate of inflation and if the U.S. gets its economic house in order.

To do this he suggests a revitalization of productivity, conservation of oil, less consumption of foreign oil, and the establishment of a favorable balance of trade.

UMass economics Professor Leonard Rapping said the price of gold acts as a "barometer of international political conditions." That is, the price tends to go up with increases in international tensions, he said.

For instance, when Iranian militants seized the U.S. embassy in Teheran the price of gold shot up to over $800 an ounce, Rapping said. Its price "measures confidence." When people lose confidence they seek gold as a safe asset, he said.

Virtually any one can invest in gold, but the type of investment depends on how much an individual wants, or has, to invest.

Buying gold jewelry is perhaps the least cost effective approach to investing in gold, said UMass finance Professor Ben Branch. "There are high markups when you buy, big discounts when you sell, and high insurance rates while you hold," he said.

One might seek investment in gold bullion but this requires buying large quantities to avoid the considerable markup on small amounts, he said.

A five kilogram ingot, a bar of gold, would today cost well over $100,000, while gold coins should probably be left to the collector, he said.

Branch said speculation on the commodities market for gold futures is an extremely risky affair, although it bears the possibility of ample reward.

With as little as 10 percent down, investors can speculate on gold's future price as far as two years off, he said. If the investor guesses right the payoff could be substantial, if not the losses considerable, he said.

The purchase of stock in companies which mine gold is another option for investors which can yield a large return over the initial outlay, but not without a sizable risk factor, he said.

Because mining companies pay dividends on the base of their profits and since their per ounce cost of mining gold is relatively fixed, price rises for the sale of their output tends to disproportionately influence the share's earnings, he said.

However, Branch said, this same mechanism can push earnings in the opposite direction.

Gold mutual funds, organizations which bring investors together and facilitate the purchases of bullion, shares, or both, provide another avenue of investment, Branch said. Buying into mutuals offer their holders advantages in scale economics, diversification, and convenience. But would, however, take expenses and fees "off the top," he said.

Gold bullion coins such as the Canadian Maple Leaf, the Mexican Peso, or the Franklin Mint's Gold Eagle are attractive to the small investor because they are easily bought and sold at values only slightly different from bullion, Branch said.

"Although there is no shortage of opinion on gold's future direction, reliable predictive knowledge is scarce to non existent," said Branch.

"I would not invest in gold," Branch said, adding that if he did have any inside knowledge of gold's future price he certainly would not share that information. ■

Daily Collegian, Monday, December 8, 1980

PVTA bussing out all over

By JUDY GALLANT

With the approaching snow season, buses have been a bit more crowded on students opt to ride instead of walk to their classes.

The University of Massachusetts Transit Service system, a subsidiary of the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority (PVTA), is one of the world's largest free transit systems, with 250 Ramskill, coordinator of safety and training, and UMass graduates from the civil engineering department, Bill Goss and Paul Shaltenis, started the system with three school buses because a transport system was needed at the University. The number of vehicles has now risen to 80.

Ramskill said it was first supported solely by student senate money which included $2.50 per year from each student's fees. In 1975 the service was expanded with a $331,421 Roosevelt and Transportation Grant from the Urban Mass Transit Administration.

Jill Ramskill, coordinator of Safety and Training for the UMass transit system and two of her charges.

UMass Transit now employs 100 part-time students, six student staff workers, and three full-time mechanics.

Ramskill said that makes the system unique because it is run entirely by students. "We try to support student employment and train people to go into the transit field," she said.

Future Essentials

The PVTA is funded 50 percent by the federal government, 35 percent locally and 15 percent by the state. The local funding includes 12 percent from the Graduate Student Senate, 7% percent from the Undergraduate Senate and 15 percent from the parking system.

Annual operating costs are $350,000, although the system is now living from month, said Ramskill. "There is no way to project if federal aid will be cut next by how much. The future is uncertain," she said.

Ramskill said that at the beginning of each semester a recruitment meeting for drivers is held, and drivers are chosen from the first 100 people who apply. The applicants are trained and tested for driv-

See PVTA Page 9

MBTA: Back on the track once again

BOSTON (AP) — After a one-day interruption that left downtown streets and commuter-rail city and suburban residents, Boston's public transit system was operating normally yesterday, but with a promise of future service cuts.

The budgetary impasse that grounded trains, buses and subways the what should have been a big Christmas shopping Saturday, was broken at midnight, 24 hours after service stopped, with enactment of legislation reorganizing the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

The compromise authorized the MBTA to spend an additional $31 million this year, enough to keep it operating. Legislators had agreed earlier that $10 million of that could come from an earlier fare increase.

The dispute had been over who would pay how much of the other $21 million in losses incurred last year, and November and the end of the year. Senators wanted the state to pay all of it; representatives wanted the state to pay half and the 78 communities in the MBTA to pay the rest.

The compromise calls that the MBTA running again calls for the state to pay 75 percent of the $21 million and the communities to pay 25 percent. It also imposes a fuel payment, spending cap on the MBTA, and an safety assessment for the next few years on the 78 communities.

The reform was bitterly opposed by the MBTA-governed Carmen's Union, which — unless court, appeals are successful — will lose several benefits, including severance assignments by seniority, inclusion of overtime in pension calculations and a guard for every two subway trains.

Gov. Edward J. King declared it an emergency last after signing it at 2:40 a.m., and the first bus of the day left the Cabot Yard in South Boston two hours later.

King said passage of the law was a victory and expressed that a "workday shutdown was averted." The system ran into an estimated 200,000 riders on weekdays and about 1 million more per day before Christmas.

Subscription Rates

Christmas Cards and Stationary
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
43 E. Pleasant, Amherst

TURF DOCTOR
New England's largest Lawn Care Company will be conducting interviews for Sales & Service positions on December 11 at the Hampshire House.
An introduction to Turf Doctor & the Lawn Care Industry will be held Dec. 10 at 7 p.m., [illegible]
Appointments for interviews must be made at the Hampshire House.

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

The Wilma Project of Philadelphia
PEOPLE ENERGY THEATRE

VALLEY BOOK SHOP

That burning desire to be a firefighter

By SCOTT BURKE

It is one o'clock on a Saturday morning in Amherst. The town's two fire stations appear quiet, with only lights illuminating the hallways and the massive fire apparatus parked in the garages.

Suddenly, without warning, a late blaster used radio monitors throughout the engines, the morning hum of electronic "pagers" breaks the early morning silence, and a dispatcher says "Attention all Amherst units, Box Alarm. Respond ( ) to 100 High Street for a suspected building fire."

Six on-duty firefighters "suit out" of bed within minutes, dress as they hurry to their engines, and respond to the fire in under a minute.

This scene would be typical in many locations, but not in Amherst. At the town's Fire Station, eight University of Massachusetts students also prepare to fight the fire.

Six climb into Engine Three, two more telephone the dispatcher and report that the ambulance is in service and available to respond if needed.

The students are members of the Auxiliary Force of the town's Fire Department who are assigned a $10,000, 1971 Ward LaFrance fire engine. They are an integral part of the town's fire protection service, an Engine Company Officer, according to Capt. John Adsit said.

He said the town of Amherst has a simple fire fighting system composed of three farms under the direction of Acting Chief Gaston E. Zemek. The persons in Zone Two (6 members who work

Members of Engine Co. 3 conduct a late night training session on the roof of an Amherst College building.

See FIREFIGHTERS Page 8

Days of yore aren't just lore

By HENRY GEITZ
Collegian Correspondent

Cluster heads to RA's: Bake-off

MSP

CONVOCATION

State of the University II

December 10 Student Union Ballroom 9:30-3:00

9:30 am — The University Knapping: Education asHostage Peter D'Errico, President, MSP

9:45 am — Unity in the Face of Austerity Johnetta Cole, MSP Executive Board

10:00 am — State of Bargaining: Memb[illegible] of the MSP/FSU Negotiating Tean: Bruce La[illegible]n Kendall, William Wilson, James Boylan, Lucy[illegible]SU), Janet Stewart (FSU) Short presentatio[illegible]d by questions and discussion

10:30 am — Administration Res[illegible]

11:00 am — Up Against [illegible]r Board: Reorganization and Relations v[illegible]egislature, panel discussion
Greg Tarp[illegible]ents United for Public Education)
Professo[illegible] Dolbeare (Political Science)
Profes[illegible] Dyer (MTA Observer on Special Commission[illegible]anization of Public Higher Education in the Co[illegible]ulth of Massachusetts)
[illegible]e (Chairperson, Student Senate Public Policy [illegible].ee)

12:00 N — [illegible]ier Fees, High Tech, and Who is Caught: State of [illegible]iancing of Higher Education, panel discussion
Robert Cleary (Student Senate)
Professor Leonard Rapping (Economics)
Larry Kocot (Committee on Rents and Fees)

1:00 pm — Closing Remarks:
Karen Fitzpatrick (Students United for Public Education)
Jules Chametzky (MSP Executive Board and past president , MSP)

1:30-3:00 — Informal Discussion Groups on:
Contract Issues
Tuition and Fees
Affirmative Action
Grievance and Grievance Process
Further Action

CANCELLED

★★★

PVTA

FROM PAGE FOUR

ing episodes and to make sure they can handle unusual shift cutbacks.

"We look for a good positive attitude," said Kenneth. "Ninety percent of the people can learn. It's whether they want to drive and are willing to learn and work."

All potential transit drivers must hold a valid driver's license for at least one year and must go through a one semester training program, she said. First, they must get a class 2 license, then complete 16 hours of classroom training, and 36 hours on the route driving a street bus, she said.

They must be available 24 hours per week, must have at least a high school education and must agree to hold a contract to drive for Hilltown Drive for at least two semesters, Kenneth said.

Retains bus skills

Every spring the drivers compete in a "Roadeo"—a mandatory session that tests their skills against each other. First the drivers are examined to go through a standard safety check and pick out the pre-determined defects on the bus. Then they are tested in all road maneuvers and must complete a safety turn, said Kenneth.

Most of the drivers seem to enjoy their jobs, and attract full professionals. "For those are serious and responsible, it's the best job on campus. I strongly recommend it," he said.

The greatest discipline is common sense while driving," Rothenstein said. "One problem is that people don't understand it's dangerous to stop at an intersection. Drivers can only make scheduled, authorized stops."

Safety data about the frequency and locations of bus stops are done by the Upper Pioneer Valley Regional Planning Commission. Decisions regarding bus routes are made by the Amherst town management, the Transit management, and the PVTA, said Kenneth.

The UMass Transit unit has 12 bus drop boxes and is in the process of preparing for handicapped access by training drivers, said Kenneth.

As driver Brad Webber said, "The only way driving is difficult is that it requires attention—the shifts don't change as long as you don't slack off. Then the traffic patterns changes with the drivers and the weather."

Witnesses arrested in rape case

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) — Two Provincetown hotel guests, arrested on rape charges while being issued as material witnesses in a murder case, have caused a flap involving the Cape Cod district attorney, the town police chief and the board of selectmen.

The men at the center of the controversy, Stanley Travis, 35, and Delvin Shapiro, 34, both of Stockport, were arrested on rape charges in Nov. 1, a few days after they had been issued as the Provincetown Inn under orders from Phillip A. Bolton, District Attorney for Cape Cod and the Islands.

The two Stockport men allegedly witnessed the murder of Dwayne Bragg, 18, at Falmouth, on Sept. 29. Both had been ordered on charges of assaulting and robbing Bragg earlier on the day of his drowning death in a Stockport strawberry bog. Falmouth's brothers, Richard and William Jackson, 18 and 17, respectively, were charged with killing Bragg and have been in jail awaiting trial.

FIREFIGHTER FROM PAGE SIX

Engine Company. Their is headed by Amherst and Lt. James Fall, both seniors at the University. The engine is manned by pump operators William Flint and Mark Severson, and firefighters Edward Connors, Russell Bonanno, Douglas Hubbard, and Richard Gerstle.

Their college majors range from business to engineering, but their hobby is the same, firefighting.

"I would probably feel different if I were in Boston or New York where they have a lot of fires and arson. I know what I'm risking my life, but I'm not trying to be a hero. We're also the lightest-used safety volunteers. We never approach training and act macho," Underwood said.

The students spent the first two months of the fall semester training in various aspects of firefighting including the use of hoses, ladders, breathing apparatus, rescue specialists, and rescue procedures, Underwood said. Engine Company Three work who assist service on October 15 and the mode which the responses, six substitute runs, and one mutual call.

Many runs" were on Friday and Saturday nights when alarms sounded as the college campuses linger. There is called whenever the hall court room is unavailable to respond or when an actual fire is reported in a building.

Should two or more calls occur simultaneously, the back up engines and personnel are utilized to ensure sufficient manpower and equipment on the fire scene.

Seven of the Auxiliary members are Registered Emergency Medical Technicians and one is a Respiratory Therapist, Underwood said. They all work as Amherst's paramedics which cover the area towns.

The students also have the opportunity to work with the full-time firefighters at Stock Station gain further experience. Each member takes an average of one hour a week with the crew.

DELANO'S
MONDAY
General Hospital
Mixed B's 60c (3-6)
Monday Night Football
Plus regular Happy Hour prices
HAPPY HOUR
3-6 PM Mon-Sat 9-11 P.M. Sun-Thurs
75c Rail Drinks 2 for 1 Drafts
(Free Hors D'oeuvres 3-6)
© No. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Ornaments - Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25¢ to $10 Items GARNER
Daily 10 am - 9 pm Sunday 12-5
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

TOYS & GAMES

FACES
A DIVISION OF [illegible]

MECHANICAL & INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS
[illegible]

The Student Government Association is accepting applications for Attorney General.
Applications and information about this position are available in Room 420 Student Union Building (Student Senate Office) or please call 545-2407. Women and Third World students are strongly encouraged to apply.

Battle with stupid ancient Greek league

My Secret Santa gave me three zeroes this morning. I was populed. I've never gotten zeroes before.

BOB CONTE

A SCARCE TIME OF YEAR is December. On the one hand, it is ridiculously cold, awfully lonely, totally horrible. It is 9:45 Friday night and I sit hunched over a small stack of notes my teammates at the cold-freezing confines of the Cordell basement. My friends are at present screaming their frat heads off at a concert in Springfield that I would have very much liked to attend.

Another friend is at dinner with a lovely woman with a wonderful name, Calvinka or something, and my beloved Capri, which animates mine gas and even now anti-freeze, will promptly be entombed in the subterrene morning keeping from the back end of a wrecker.

My time is limited, though, because my bald Pallbearer professor has an entire ten decibie speech pages on the Amphictyonic League, a stupid little ancient Greek league that will be totally irrelevant to my life in two weeks, yet one that will occupy most of my waking weekend hours. I have perhaps two pages of original information, the other eight are dependent on parroting insights ("The Bad Sea could never have won consistently in the Amphictyonic League. Too many Zeus-lovin' sub-philosophers . . . I can't see") "The Amphictyonic League is a fascinating, awe-inspiring topic, one that will not even fade from the memory of this researcher . . .).

Of course, this is but the tip of the iceberg, what with all those finals and take-homes and mini-presentations. I am here dull and angry and starving and in desperate need of sugar in my drinks.

On the other hand, it's almost Christmas, and there is a definite buzz in here indeed off at the world one can be when it's almost Christmas. Thankfully, the fear has encouraged me that the most horrible, blood-spitting wretch of the academic calendar is also the most satisfying and unpopular months of the real-life year, like a month, a strange middleman of mind-destroys in students.

How so not? Cry for finals? Laugh for the holidays? Many, at least those who have their academic pursuits in perspective, choose the latter. Christmas being a wonderful excuse to relax and get sacred and be nice to people.

My Secret Santa gave me three zeroes this morning. I was populed. I've never gotten zeroes before. Nice people were, people. They're only there for a dollar in the Coop on Campus and they pack an emotional wallop that rarely comes at popcorn-balls just can't touch.

I was so pleased with my zeroes that I decided to put my Alvin and the Chipmunks Sing the Best of Christmas album on the turntable, inhale the Amazing cat until lunch.

"Really Terrible"

"Really Dumb"

"Well, a lot to go, boys . . ."

The familiar strains of the unpronounceable yuletide carol of "Jingle Bell Rock" surge through the first floor of "Jingle Bell Rock" surge through the first floor of my warm, safe world my room is full of hopping singing chipmunks. Then comes the phone call. My brother in Hartford.

"Bob, I got you a Springsteen ticket."

"Wow! How much?"

"Great deal. Only $10.00."

"Wow! Where's the seat?"

"Way back, behind the stage, behind the amps. You won't be able to see or hear a thing."

"Wow! Who opens? The Boss? Friend I'm there baby!"

In celebration, we break out my Secret Santa's already swapped bottle of Harvey's Bristol Cream and decide to render the afternoon useless as well.

"It's downright upright," my friend shouts, Harvey Adamsian, and we all toast ourselves and the holidays and now not to be overly stupid about anything or antagonize and prized on finals.

When comes the capper, the Big Haul of the Day, when someone scrolls in with a copy of the day's Collegian.

"Hey, Bob, there's another letter to the Editor about you."

I sink to my seat. "Not another militant designer jeans assault . . ."

"No, not at all. This kid actually likes you. Says you made a good point or two last week. I think you got a fan."

I slowly crawl toward rug and approach the window, staring my hand to shield my eyes from the sardonic beaming sunlight. "Do you really mean . . . I have . . . a . . . fan?"

"Uh, shrinks the ball out of the fan."

My friends sense the magnitude of the moment and offer their congratulations. "Hey, golly, your first fan . . . Two points higher than Spiros on your undergrowth? . . . You can now eat it gin."

My fan stinks her head in the door. "Say Bob, one grandchildren on that fan."

"Thanks. Merry Christmas."

"Merry Christmas."

Sing on, Chipmunks.

Bob Conte is a Daily Collegian columnist

A cup of java at Bonducci's buy an apple pastry and a cup of hot cider . . .

Northampton is undergoing something of a renaissance as concerned citizens, shop owners and town officials try to revitalize the city. One of the products of these efforts, Bonducci's, a small cafe located on Main Street, is doing a booming business with pastry afficienados and coffee lovers as its main customers. College professors, town employees, students, and townspeople meander in to grab a sweet snack, socialize, or just relax and enjoy the European-flavored ambience. Full length glass windows allow customers to look out onto the activities of Main Street while listening to taped classical music.

Vince DeWitt/DAILY COLLEGIAN

. . . watch the passers-by . . .

. . . read . . .

Vince DeWitt/DAILY COLLEGIAN

. . . relax in their own thoughts.

WE CARE FOR YOUR FUTURE

A DIPLOMA SCHOOL WITH OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE IN NURSING EDUCATION

- Extensive nurse-patient care
- Early and on-going clinical experience
- Opportunity for individual development

AND

- Association with Boston's newest medical center.

PETER BENT BRIGHAM SCHOOL OF NURSING

Brigham and Women's Hospital
A Teaching Affiliate of Harvard Medical School
75 Francis Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115

FOR COMPLETE INFORMATION CLIP THIS COUPON AND MAIL TO PETER BENT BRIGHAM SCHOOL OF NURSING 75 FRANCIS STREET, BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02115

NAME _____

STREET _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

SCHOOL _____

COLLEGE BOWL®

The Varsity Sport of the Mind

College Bowl is the question-and-answer game in which teams of four players each compete against each other to score points by answering Toss-up and Bonus questions.

UMass is hosting this year's Association of College Unions International Recreation Tournament. We need a college bowl team to represent this University. Any full-time undergraduate is eligible to compete in the run-offs and participate in the tournament.

An informational and recruitment meeting will be held Tuesday, December 9 at 7:30 in Campus Center, Room 168.

When College Bowl was on National TV in the 1960's, UMass retired the title. We were one of only ten teams to ever do so.

Let's do it again! It's time to break the Zoo Mass image and give the other schools a team to beat.

For further info, stop by the Games Room opposite the Hatch and come to the meeting.

COLLEGE BOWL®

IT PAYS TO MIDASIZE

Do you know the seven signs of a BRAKEDOWN

Come to Midas for your free brake inspection and find out!

SUPER SAVER
Silver Knight* Muffler
$19.95
Installed

* Silver Knight mufflers fit most U.S. cars and are unconditionally guaranteed for one year at this MIDAS shop.

MacPherson STRUTS
~~$119.95~~
$99.95 per pair
*Except Datsun Z Cars

FOR TODAY'S SMALLER CARS

midas

586-4840 MIDAS® 143 King St., Northampton

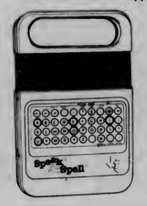
MON.-FRI. 8:00-5:30 SATURDAY 8:00-2:00

Texas Instruments Learning Center

New! Ear phone jack, and three more word modules, plus optional AC adapter

Texas Instruments
SPEAK & SPELL™
The remarkable talking learning aid with electronic voice and brain.

List Price $75.00
Special Price $54.95



- Talks to your youngster through Solid State Speech™ technology, with no pull-strings or tapes to wear out.
- Adds fun and excitement and builds interest by involving students in hearing the word, spelling the word, seeing the word.
- Designed with the aid of leading educators to focus on two hundred common words often misspelled and misread.
- APD™ automatic power down feature turns unit off after about 4 minutes of non-use to prevent battery drain.
- Comes with earphone for privacy and 32-page illustrated book, "Fun with Words," filled with stimulating spelling games and activities.

Plug-in word modules expand the power of Speak & Spell. Only $ each.

Begin building a broad home study program simply by adding Plug-in Modules to your Speak & Spell. Designed in cooperation with leading educators, each kit also includes activities booklet which works with all Speak & Spell quiz and activity keys.

Super Stumpers™ Grades 7 & 8 Zeros in on the words students use often — and often misspell. Helps prepare them for the more difficult writing assignments in high school.

Vowel Power™ Grades 2-3-4 Helps students recognize and manage different vowel patterns that form the English building blocks

Super Stumpers™ Grades 4-5-6 Tackles the problem words that frequently stump students: irregular spellings, silent letters, double consonants and much more.

Mighty Verbs™ Grades 4-5-6 Focuses on verb endings, changes in verb spellings with different verb endings, troublesome verb forms. And changes in spellings with regard to tense

Similar Savings On Other Products From Texas Instruments Learning Center™

Mon, Tues, Thurs, Fri 9am - 5pm | Wed 9am - 9pm | Sat 11am - 4pm

in the Campus Center, Univ of Mass — the University Store

Daily Collegian, Monday, December 8, 1980

Lowie's
FINE FOODS

Free

Free

89¢

1.59

69¢

Lowie Foods Makes
The Difference

1.29

99¢

1.99

BAKE-OFF

SUPERIOR PLUMBING

Le Casino di
PINOCCHIO

We Feature:

Take weeks special

FAST, FREE DELIVERY
549-3669

Hot Fashion Accessories

FACES

Open Sunday 9am-6pm 'til Christmas

Genuine Diamond 14 Karat Gold Filled Jewelry

9.99

Sun Glory Beverages 49¢ ea. 1st

Jiffy Muffin Mix Corn 10¢ 1st

FREE! Orange Juice Minute Maid 1st

FREE! English Muffins 1st

Stop & Shop

TRIPLE MFG. COUPONS

see store for details

Hadley-Amherst

Special values to stretch your meat budget!

Boneless Beef Chuck Roast 1.69 lb

Boneless Beef Chuck Steak 1.89
Chuck Stewing Beef 1.99
Chuck Cube Steak 2.39
Shoulder London Broil 2.19
Fresh Lean Ground Beef 1.79
Boneless Blade Steak 2.49

Chicken Leg Quarters 55¢ lb

Chicken Breast Quarters 69¢

Fresh Pork Shoulder 89¢

Bananas 4 lbs 1

Pineapples 1.09

Cauliflower 2.

Cabbage Plate 1.

Broccoli Bunches 1.

Potatoes Plate 1.

Corsage Valuers

Corsage Tuxedo 59¢

Corsage Supreme 1.79

Corsage Bouquet 2.39

Purex Valuers

Purex Bleach 59¢ Gallon Container

Purex Liquid Laundry 2.39

Purex Powdered Laundry 1.19

Purex Toss 'n Soft 1.49

Self Service Deli Items

Chicken Hot Dogs 99¢

Meat Bologna 1.79
Extra Wall Franks 1.19
Beef Knockwurst 1.49
Cotto Salami 1.39
Bubbly Wieners .89

Sunshine Hi Ho Crackers 89¢

Ruffles Potato Chips 79¢

Downy Fabric Softener 1.89

Red Pack Tomatoes 3 for 2

Red Pack Tomato Puree 59¢

Taster's Choice Coffee 4.69

Diet Delight Peaches 2 for 1

Stop & Shop Pasta 2 for 95¢

Table Talk Variety Pies 1.09

Rice Krispies 99¢

Very Fine Apple Sauce 89¢

Stop & Shop Apple Juice 89¢

Diet Delight Fruit Cocktail 3 for 2

Mushroom Pieces 5 for 2

Tetley Tea Bags 1.59

Bumble Bee Tuna Solid White 1.09

Scottkins Facial Tissues 59¢

English Muffins 2 for 79¢

HYPERCURRICULA...

Mon., Dec. 8

FIRST ORGANIZE TOPIC MEETING FOR INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK — discuss theme for upcoming conference, 7 p.m., CC 903.

HUMAN TAPE FORCE MEETING, 8:30 p.m., S.U. Jim Rapp from Boston DEMT will speak about recent developments in the Nixon Report and related areas.

HARMONIC CHORAL of UMass, SING! during 4:30 p.m. in STAT. 426.

S.A.M.E. paper airplane contest on the campus today.

TEXAS SOCIAL CHANGE MEETING, 4 p.m. in the Hillel office, S.U. 304.

LESBIAN/GAY RAP GROUP, 8:30 p.m., S.U. 174. Come share our ideas, needs, concerns. New members welcome.

PROSPECTS FOR SOCIALISM IN AMERICA—Is the import of economics, culture, values or complacent? Dynamics of class struggle, role of blacks, women, revolutionary socialists' position, labor party? 8 p.m., CC 163.

FORUM SPONSORED by Graduate Collective, 7 p.m., CC 163, 165.

SPECTRUM—editorial meeting at 8 p.m., CC 101. There will also be a party and meeting at 8 p.m., CC 168.

SGRAD COUNCIL MEETING, to be up and hoppin, and start planning for spring. See bike at 7 p.m. in the Grad Student Lounge, CC 163.

UNIVERSITY DANCE ENSEMBLE THEATER auditions for Dancers, Dialogue, and Gary Gibson's Lost will be held 8-11 p.m. in room 204 of the Fine Arts Center. Actors need to sign up for an audition spot on the sign-up sheets posted on the graduation and outreach outside of the main office of the Department of Theater in the Fine Arts Center. Those who particularly sign up for an audition time slot will GUARANTEE and have their name placed on the list.

FOOD COOP—general meeting of all members, 7:30 p.m., CC 168.

URBAN PROJECT SEMINAR—a medium of organization, helping local's distressed areas and your conscience will present a radio media to immediate issues, re: making a slide show, 7:30 p.m. in CC 803.

Tues., Dec. 9

ARTIST GORDON ORIANNE will be speaking about his work as part of the Hurst Gallery Visiting Artist Lecture Series at 8 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium. Mr. Theme, who is the director of Hurst's Studies in Manchester, will be discussing his work of the past 12 years, 1968-1981, including his wood and steel constructions and his recent drawings. A reception for the artist will be held at the Gallery following the talk.

THE CHESS CLUB will meet at 7:30 p.m. in CC 903.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 7:30 p.m. in CC 803.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 7:30 p.m. in CC 803.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION will meet at 7:30 p.m. in CC 803.

Amherst Gulf

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Fiat

(formerly O & M Service)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
256-6939

LUNCHEON SPECIALS & DINNERS
DINE IN - FULL TAKE OUT

AMHERST DOES HAVE ONE BANK THAT'S OPEN ON SUNDAYS

256-0567

Collegian Classifieds

• Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-5:00 Monday-Friday • Deadline is 2:45 two days prior to publication day • 25¢ per word • Student rate 15¢ per word • Cash in advance • 5 consecutive days 5% discount • Phone number 1153

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Rooms addressing on the more Bonner Main Common 4/30 • utilities 323-5403

AUDIO

Harmon Kardon A401 Amplifier 475.00 or 3/0 Advance 546-0366 late evening

AUTO FOR SALE

'80 Camaro SE 4 sp. 3/1 350 S.P. silver/ gray, needs ¼ panel & paint 16800 Louis 323-6385

'80 Audi 1980 low transmission, cylinder, and clutch. 546-0797 essay, summer. Call Joe 546-0797

'80 Plymouth Cricket 38000 miles no rust good mechanically sound system must sell 2 kids or 3/0 call 546-9644 after 6 PM

F-VW Super Bug 1600 or 3/0 call Sandee or Peter at 546-4178 keep trying

BOARDING WANTED

Boarders Wanted at Delta Chi looking for interaction or spring semester Tall smiles call Kevin 323-8230

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

Address and stuff envelopes at home Earnings unlimited Offer send $1.00 short... refer to: Trade "D" 16040-N 78 travis, Hesperia, CA 92345

COLLEGIAN POSITIONS

Collegian Positions Available: Managing Editors, News Editors, Layout Technicians, Past Experience helpful. Interest is more than important. Apply to Pam Baierle by Dec. 5 at the Collegian

ELECTRIC GUITAR

Gibson E.D. Tune-o-Matic bridge, humbucker, case excellent condition $290 negotiable Chris 546-7909 or 539-3615

ENTERTAINMENT

Soundsystems and DJ for hire-perfect for small parties collaborations 323-5835

Dynamic Workshop Monday Dec 8, 1980 7:30 P.M. ACPE Gymnastics Admission FREE

HOUSE RENT

House to sublet 3-4 bedroom 2 full bath 2 ½ baths 2 car garage 2 fireplaces on 1/2 acre lot 2 miles to town & South Asbury Park $600 per month 1 year lease 449-1117

LOST

Lost Brown Wallet with Drivers License and Checks Reward 546-8000

Lost Glasses 7/8 Downtown Bookings Another's condition $100 250-0686

TV $5.00 25" console black/G wood 3 pictures from $75 546-9977

Twin Beds Sealy solid wood headboards mattress and 50 or $10 546-9977

Waterbed complete with frame, mattress, liner, heater fluorescent only $100 also a 5'6" bed complete in good condition with all the extra pairings like call Dave or Joe at 546-4526

Bookcase-desk black maple, rock, wire cubes $125, Interior Joint Instrument Colonial solid bunk for $125 Table 546-0258 evenings

Nikon manual 80-200 zoom lens like all with case 432 Fast 294-4288

B/W Television 204 Radio—work repair's to 3 Kidneypipe sometimes 350 or call 1365 am for Mike

FOUND

Woman out and blue, navy glove inside found on campus 294-4208

Black Cap found in coffee shop Cook fundamen type, not mine 294-4208

Man's pair of glasses with brown frames near bus stop by Mount found on Wednesday Nov 26 Brown leather case we but and found information desk Campus Center

Sunglasses in yellow case found outside Brown coffee from Collegian Office

Found BOOKS 800 Take your stuff back call 294-4288 Dog chow

Found: Pair of brown and glasses in blue case small dog in frame found in front of Rec only 10-2 call them 546-3627

HELP WANTED

Wanted part-time radiology technician for multi-specialty group practice please call 246-6600 ext 246 M-F 8 am-4 pm

Wanted: John—Summer/year round Europe, S. Amer., Australia, Asia, All Fields. $500-$1200 monthly. Sightseeing. Free info, write: UC Box 52-NJ0 Corona Del Mar, Ca 92625

Male Nonsmoker Language Instructor Brain to Nonsmoker 546-2966

LOST

Pair of glasses on Monday 11-10 area of LC and Hutchinson 546-4975

Grey Cardigan Sweater we love Bubbs reward call 963-2116

Green backpack and contents at Antonio Green Tuesday Reward No questions 466-3494 Stephanie

If anyone found a beige white bag of clothes outside Delhi Sunday night please call 6-5665 ask for Larry

$$ Reward for any information leading to the return of a Black Lacoste AD jacket we lost Wednesday last night at 9:45 pm 7 pm Dec 3 PLEASE CALL MARK at 6-2286 store or 546-1916 nights

All black 5 mos old kitten Yellow tag We are anxious to have owners 546-8977

Keys on a ring Reward call Dave 6-8901

Reward offered for gray and blue book some lost at Dr. Dee 7-10 546-5171

Reward for new bicycle engraves if found call 6-7445 evenings

MESSAGES

To Karen and Mo: I hope you have a fun filled Christmas in your familys' surroundings of Livingston and Bute Montana. To Ingrid and Bettina: We will be with you from Chinese in America, make it good one.

To Nancy and Chris from an excellent Christmas. do not lose your sanity and turn out all dry ice Debbie

MISS RIDDLE HOSE

Happy Hanukkah to the smartest nose-out campus. We hope that snow falls over your little state for the holidays. Good credit on your next career as a gainesse. Yo mister. Love and Lewis

MUSIC YOU CAN EAT

The Mystic Brothers—Classic Valley's most alternative where's bluegrass-bordering. Rock music, fun, and romance for under $10—an hour. Every Sunday night at Hampton Snack Bar in Southeast. No cover!

PERSONALS

Independent Women Over 21 ask for... [illegible]

Happy Birthday Mom—Hope you have a great day. Love Jeff

Happy Birthday Mom—Hope you have a great day. Love Jeff

Happy Birthday Mom—Hope you have a great day. Love Jeff

Football, diapers and post season awards

CULLEN FROM BACK PAGE

Or, take the case of Dan Petrie.

Petrie, who anchored the UMass defense from his tackle position, was a first team Yankee Conference selection last year. This year Petrie played even better.

This year, Dan Petrie was named to the second team Yankee Conference and UPI ignored him.

"Dan Petrie just missed being named to an All-America team (the Kodak team, which Manning was named to)," Pickett said. "And yet, he isn't first team Yankee Conference. Ob viously, we didn't agree with that."

There is also something which smacks of a Boston-bias in last week's all-star teams. Of the 22 UPI selections, 10 were Boston-based players (BC-5; BU-4; Harvard-1).

Pickett admits there is a possibility of a Boston-bias in the balloting.

"It (the bias) is something we all think about up here," Pickett said. "I can't deny that it exists. I will say this, though: I think that there are strong jealousies within the Yankee Conference, directed at UMass. A lot of people were happy when we didn't win the Yankee Conference this year. We don't mind, though. Actually, it's a compliment."

Perhaps the biggest compliment that can be paid to UMass is that they remain unflustered by the whole series of snumbs. They recognize the politics, egos and jealousies tied up in the whole process and, consequently, there is little complaining and certainly no babyisms being thrown around down at the Boyden football offices.

Not so at Boston University, this year's Yankee Conference champions.

At last Wednesday's Night awards banquet in Cambridge, BU boycotted the proceedings in protest of their quarterback, Jim Jensen, not receiving the Gold Helmet award, given to the New England players of the year as selected by the Boston Gridiron Club. The BU captains were not allowed to attend the banquet to receiv awards. The boycott was ordered by BU head coach Rick Taylor.

Last Thursday, the day after the banquet, UPI named Taylor the New England coach of the year.

It's a good year for the diaper business. ■

Today's edition of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian is modeled after the New York Daily News as part of an experiment week for the paper. Other papers used as models will be the New York Times, the Washington Post, and the Village Voice.

ACTION Volunteers
help build bridges in Nepal, block associations in Chicago's Southside, and a lot more. Check it out. Wed., 10 Dec. 80, 7:30 p.m. Campus Center, Rm. 81408.

Hampshire Ethical Hypnosis Center
Milton H. Askinoss A.A.E.H.
• Weight control • Nail biting • Improve concentration • Insomnia • Bed wetting
• Improve study habits • Relaxation • Fear of heights • Memory improvement
• Stop smoking • Self confidence • Sexual problems • Improve sports ability • Fear of flying
Call or write for free brochure
• On-going classes for self-hypnosis
Special Fees • College Students & Senior Citizens
Lecture demonstrations
The Farrick Building, Rte 9 Hadley Mass
3/10 mile Hamp Mall (Next to Rocky's Hardware)
584-1919 By Appt. Only

STOCKING STUFFERS FROM
Make Your X-mas dollars go a long way
SAVE NOW
on these new releases
sound economy
5.49 Neil Young Hawks & Doves
5.49 Outlaws Ghost Riders
5.49 Blondie Auto American
4.99 Dave Edmonds/Nick Lowe Rockpile Seasons of Pleasure
Repeated by Popular Demand
5.49 Stevie Wonder Hotter than July
A MERRY -X- MASS FROM
THE RECORD STORE within a store
Mon-Fri 9-5
Sat 11-4
Wed 9-9
the University Store

Chowda!
OPEN Wednesday Night 'til 9:00 P.M.
in the Campus Center UMASS
the University Store

STILL BUYING AT HIGHEST CA$H PRICE$
CLASS RINGS
Gold & Silver Jewelry
Coins & Stamps
Do yourself a favor
See me before you sell
Professional Buyer since 1976
DANIEL SMITH
Permanently located between Fotomat and Logos
25 North Pleasant St.
Amherst
256-0710
6 days a week
Monday thru Saturday
10 AM to 6 PM
MEMBER AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LICENSED BY TOWN OF AMHERST AND STATE OF MASS

Daily Collegian, Monday, December 8, 1980

HOOP FROM BACK PAGE

"In the second half we played an eight minute stretch the way we should play the entire 40. We played with a great deal more intensity. Experience was a big factor in the game."

Overall St. Bonaventure shot 52 percent from the floor and 77 percent from the free throw line, while UMass shot an improved 52 eprcent in the second half but shot an overall 45 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the free throw line.

UMASS — Craig Smith 6-1-13, Edwin Green 7-0-14, Bob Thomas 5-0-10, Tony DePina 2-0-4, Tom Witkos 7-2-16, Bill Bayno 4-1-9, Dave Genis 0-0-0, Jim Mosier 0-0-0, Connie Nappier 3-1-7, Ron Washington 1-2-4, Tyrone Whitehead 1-0-2. Totals 36-7-79.

ST. BONAVENTURE — Earl Belcher 11-8-30, Alfonza Jones 3-12-18, Eric Stover 6-0-12, Norman Clarke 4-1-9, Mark Jones 2-3-7, Mark Spencer 1-0-2, Eric Franz 1-0-2, Eric Crawford 3-2-8, Elgin Riggins 1-0-2, Dan Burns 0-2-2, John Benbrook 2-0-4. Totals 34-28-96.

Vince DeWitt/DAILY COLLEGIAN

Anne Whitlock swimming in the 50 meter breaststroke event against BU. UMass went on to lose the swim meet to BU.

NFL/Week 14

Atlanta 20, Philly 17
Cinc. 34, Balt. 33
Buff 10, L.A. 7, OT
Minn. 21, Tam Bay 10
Cleve 17, Jets 14
Wash 40 San Diego 17
Giants 27, Seattle 21
St.L. 24, Det. 23
Chicago 61, G. Bay 7
Dallas 19, Oakland 13
K.C. 31, Denver 14
S.F. 39, New Orl. 35,

AFC EAST			NFC East
Buff	10	4 0	Dallas	11	3 0
N.E.	8	5 0	Philly	11	3 0
Balt	7	7 0	St. Louis	5	9 0
Miami	6	7 0	N.Y.	4	10 0
N.Y.	3	11 0	Wash	4	10 0
Central			Central
Cleve	10	4 0	Minn.	8	6 0
Houston	9	5 0	Detroit	7	7 0
Pitt	8	6 0	Chicago	6	8 0
Cinc	5	9 0	G Bay	5	8 1
			Tam Bay	5	8 1
West			West
Oakland	9	5 0	Atlanta	11	3 0
San Diego	9	5 0	L.A.	9	5 0
Denver	7	7 0	San Fran	6	8 0
K.C.	7	7 0	New Or	0	14 0
Seattle	4	10 0

Gymwomen third of four

By SHARON PANNOZZA

The University of New Hampshire, sparked by the performance of Lucia Cancelmo, captured the second University of Massachusetts Invitational with a team score of 130.55. Cancelmo was the all-around champion scoring 33.15.

In the women's gymnastics meet held Friday at Boyden, the University of West Virginia's Dana Sills and Lisa Neutze collared the second and third positions behind Cancelmo, scoring 32.95 and 32.45 respectively. Leading all-around for UMass was Kathy Mathews with a 30.00. Coach Virginia Evans is expecting a better performance from Mathews in their next meet. "She had a rough first time out," Evans said.

As a team, UMass' strongest event was the vault. Five of the six competitors; Heidi Milender, Kathy Mathews, Karen Clemente, Robin Lowe and Karen Ginsberg, scored an 8.0 or better for a 32.95 total. Ginsberg's vaulting score was the highest for a UMass competitor. Her handspring full scored an 8.55.

Specialist Chris Paul had the best bar routine for the gymwomen with an 8.25. Paul jammed her right knee during the pre-meet warm-up session and had to change her dismount. Had she been able to do her original set, Evans felt that her score would have been higher.

"Our point total is lower than what it should be at this stage of the season. The loss of Robin Lowe as an all-around made a considerable difference," Evans said. ■

Matmen 3rd, Rasmussen wins wrestling honors

By SUE BRIDGMAN

Dana Rasmussen, 126 pounds, was named "outstanding wrestler" at the Coast Guard Invitational held over the weekend. Rasmussen displayed fine style and form in his matches, to capture the prestigious award.

The UMass wrestling squad finished a strong third place, finishing behind Trenton (1st) and Columbia (2nd).

"I was really impressed with them as a team" UMass Coach Dave Amato said. "If we keep wrestling this well we should have a good season."

The tournament consisted of 17 teams such as John Carroll of Ohio, St. Lawrence of N.Y., Rhode Island College, Columbia and Trenton.

Two other top wrestlers for UMass were Mike Carroll, and Dave McEntee, who finished fourth.

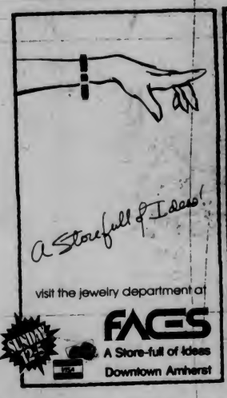
The wrestlers take part in seven matches, with the winners going on to the finals.

Rasmussen topped Trenton wrestler Mike Jacouot 9-4 in the finals. Jacouot is a three-time all American in Division 3.

Carroll, at 158, beat Mike Thomas of Columbia 8-4 in his final match.

Rasmussen's award was the highlight of the weekend. "Being named outstanding wrestler is quite and honor" stressed Amato, "Dana really did an outstanding job." ■

WANTED:
The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Assistant Business Manager
Pick up application now for the position of Assistant Business Manager for next term. A weekly salary is paid. Qualifications sought are:
*business background
*interest in newspaper work
*a sincere, hard-working individual
Responsibilities will include:
*payroll *accounts payable
*advertising layout *office supply inventory
Contact: Jonathan Klein, Business Manager
Mass. Daily Collegian 113 Campus Center 545-3500



visit the jewelry department at
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst

The FLOWER CART

fragrances in soaps, creams, oils and shampoos
EVERY NIGHT TV
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas

UMass Arts Council Funding Deadline
Applications for Arts Council Funding of arts related events to be presented during the months of February/March '81 must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10th. The UMAC Office is located in 125 Herter Hall (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.
Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.

SOUTHWEST IS AGAIN THE BEST WITH THE FIRST ANNUAL HOLIDAY FEST DEC 9TH

DAILY COLLEGIAN

Amherst's Picture Newspaper

★★★ FREE: Free Beyond 200 miles from Amherst — AMHERST, MONDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1980 — Largest circulation of any college paper in New England

Earl belts 30 at hoopsters

By JANE WOLFSON

Led by high scorer Earl Belcher's 30 points St. Bonaventure handed the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team its third consecutive loss this season, trouncing the Minutemen 96-79 at the Cage on Saturday night.

Belcher, last year's Eastern Eight player of the year showed why he is "one outstanding talent," according to Minuteman head coach Ray Wilson. In his 31 minutes of playing time Belcher averaged 69 percent from the floor (11-16) as well as 8 for 10 from the free throwline.

High scorer for the Minutemen was senior co-captain Tom Witkos with 16 points 48 seconds into the game. Guard Tony DePina gave UMass the only lead they would hold over the Bonnies (2-1 and 1-1 in league play) all night with a layup to put them up 2-0.

The Minutemen were their own worst enemies during the first half, shooting 32 percent from the floor while committing 15 turnovers. in the last seven minutes of the half UMass could only muster five points in it most sustained scoring drought of the night.

The Minutemen found themselves down 41-19 with 5:18 remaining in the first half and at halftime trailed St. Bonaventure 45-24.

The second half was a different matter. UMass came out strong early in the second half and for the first eight minutes were controlling the boards, scoring 33 points, and bringing the game within ten at 67-57. However four well timed baskets by Belcher within a five minute span gave the Bonnies the push they needed. Additional scoring by Alfonza Jones (18 points) and Mark Spencer put St. Bonaventure up 82-61 with 4:40 minutes remaining in the game,

"Belcher got the two or three baskets we really needed when UMass came close," Bonnie's head coach Jim Satalin said.

Freshman forward Edwin Green came alive for UMass in the second half scoring 12 points (14 overall) and was instrumental in the Minutemen's second half scoring surge.

"We played poorly in spots as a team, Wilson said.

See BASKETBALL Page 19

Lisa Meade DAILY COLLEGIAN

Ty goes for two

Freshman forward Tyrone Whitehead puts the ball up in Saturday's basketball game at the Curry Hicks Cage. 6'6" Whitehead got one field goal on the evening, in the 96-79 St. Bonaventure win over the Minutemen.

Post season awards: jealousies prevail

This is a story of football coaches and diapers.

College football in New England is over. As usual, there is no local team involved in post-season play, no bowl bids, no nothing. Unlike most parts of the country, where there lingers an interest in some local team, the New Englander is left to search the scoreboard pages of the sports section to see the post-season all-star team selections.

The New England selections were announced last week, and served as a reminder that the selection process is often one where baby-like jealousies, not fair appraisals of talent, prevail.

KEVIN CULLEN

Here at the University of Massachusetts, we were witness to what can be commonly called the Royal Snub.

While UMass placed no less than six players on the first team Yankee Conference All-Star defensive unit, a unit which led the nation (Div. 1-AA) in total defense), just one (senior safety Bob Manning) was named to United Press International's All New England team, announced two days later. UMass tailback Garry Pearson was also snubbed by the UPI selections.

There is nothing new, nor surprising, about all this. Least surprised by all of it is UMass head coach Bob Pickett, who has seen it all before.

"This sort of thing is going to happen with the selection process," Pickett said last week.

The selection process used for both the Yankee Conference and UPI teams involves each coach being sent a ballot with 22 blank lines which he fills in with the name of the player he believes deserving of the honor. Naturally enough, some coaches will fill the majority of blank spaces with the names of their own players. This is understandable in many cases where the coach has not seen anyone better than his own player. What is not understandable is when a coach, or groups of coaches, purposesly ignores an opposing player out of spite or plain petty jealousy.

This is probably what happened in last week's balloting. There is simply no objective way to state (as the UPI All New England team did) that Maine's Phil Ferrari and Boston University's Reggie Robinson are better defensive ends that the UMass tandem of Frank DiTommaso and George Lewis, both of whom were first team Yankee Conference selections. There is no objective way to state, as UPI did, that Pearson did not deserve to be on the All New England team. Nor is it objective to omit UMass linebacker Scott Crowell from both first and second Yankee Conference teams.

See FOOTBALL Page 18

Rasmussen outstanding wrestler

See SUE BRIDGMAN Page 19

TOZAMILE BOTHA: The Black workers struggle and the role of U.S. corporations in South Africa

On Friday December 5, activist Tozamile Botha, of South Africa spoke on the topic of the Black worker's struggle and the role of U.S. corporations in South Africa.

Tozamile Botha has led and organized strikes and boycotts against such major U.S. corporations in South Africa as Ford and General Motors. His actions have led to pay increases and better benefits for the much abused black workers in South Africa, where the pay ratio between blacks and whites is 5 to 1. As a result of his fight against the multinational corporations, he has been fired, jailed and banned. He is at present in exile. The following is the text of the speech that he gave.

The present Prime Minister of South Africa, is busy with the implementation of his "total strategy."

Total strategy means the Constellation of Southern African states, the imposition of community councils, the coming into being of the Urban Foundation and the opening of international hotels, restaurants, and cinemas to blacks who have all along been denied access to these public amenities. In imposing these cosmetic changes he uses some of our people as window dressings, in some instances he uses force where blacks are totally refusing to participate in his reforms. He has two strong lieutenants P. Koornhof and Magnus Malan, the Minister of Bantu Administration and Development and the Min. of Defense respectively. Their major task is to alienate all blacks from the so called white South Africa which constitutes 87. of the total land to the bantustans that constitute 13. of the land. This was categorically stated by Koornhof when he said: "African males from the homelands have no rights whatsoever in South Africa- they are only in South Africa to sell their labour."

The proof of this statement is that technically no blacks belong to south Africa. Today all are citizens of one or more of the bantustans and our land has been taken over by force by a government that rules by force. We are foreigners in our land. Twenty-one to twenty-three million blacks are sharing 13 of barren land. 29,3. of Africans live in the so-called white urban areas, 24,3. on white farms and 46,4 in African bantustans (special reserves) (S.A.B.F.) Blacks have no right to vote, only whites have votes.

Blacks in South Africa still earn below the poverty datum line or the Household Subsistence Level based on the family of six. In 1978 the Financial Mail revealed that more than 89. of African household were earning less than $92 a month, with the poverty datum line set at $127 a month. In 1978 the number of Africans unemployed was estimated at 2,3 million while that of other black groups combined, remained at 30,229. Note that this survey was based on the Africans who live partly permanent in the urban areas or cities, no statistics of the unemployed blacks in the Bantustans was given here. Also, the subsistence level which is put at $127 a month does not include rent, clothing and education.

The majority of the black people who are working in the cities are migrant labourers who are needed only for their labour power, Mr. Friedman, the then minister of labour said: "We are trying to introduce the migrant labour pattern as far as possible in every sphere, this is in fact the entire basis of our policy as far as the white economy is concerned."

This is true of all people who are doing business in South Africa. Their profits are based on cheap labour. The multinational companies who claim to be creating job opportunities for blacks, are in fact benefiting from cheap labour. Blacks are doing some of the jobs that were done by whites at a quarter of the income earned by whites who are doing similar jobs.

They are implementing the policy of the government by demanding trade union registration under the existing racist labour legislation, they are paying slave wages and when workers complain they expel and send them to the bantustans. Goodyear in Uitenhage expelled more than 1,000 workers in May this year because they were demanding wage increase. Thirty-three British companies have been exposed to be paying blacks less than the poverty datum line. The multinational corporations are practicing racism by creating separate training facilities for black and white in South Africa. They are following Dr. Verwoerd's policy which says: "We want to ensure that natives are taught from childhood that equality with Europeans is not for them."

The problem in South Africa is that of dispossession of a majority of black population and the total usurpation of all economic, political and social power by white minority. The problem is a system - the apartheid system - deliberately designed to use blacks for the creation of the wealth and then guarantee the exclusive benefits of that wealth to the whites.

The primary purpose of the whole network of South African law and administration is the protection of this system which produces for the whites, who benefit from it, the highest average standard of living in the world and for the blacks who suffer, under it, a life of perpetual poverty, violence and humiliation. The changes that they talk about are not intended to alter the pyramidal structure in which blacks, the majority stand always at the bottom, supporting the whole society at their backs.

The landless, voteless, rightless non-person status of the black people remains unchanged. Blacks are now given pseudo rights to form trade unions, but are not allowed to form nonracial trade unions. In terms of the language of the foreign investors, their task is to improve the quality of life of the urban blacks, and all this will be done within the apartheid system, yet they hope to change the system. The Afrikaners, i.e. the Boers are determined not to change the system. Mr. T.N.H. Janson, deputy minister of Banut Education was quoted as saying: "The government would train the blacks, but it would not train them to be destroyers of the way of life in South Africa."

While working hard to build powerful friendship in the world, South Africa has also sought to achieve three ends in Africa:

-to colonize and control the front-line states;

-to acquire support economically and militarily to invade and starve the people of these countries and;

-to threaten their sovereignty.

South Africa is fast in imposing 'independence' of the bantustans so as to create a buffer between the fighting forces and the racist regime. Military budget doubles annually while the price of staple food goes up six monthly. This expenditure represents something of the 18. of the entire budget and per capita expenditure of R237. This money is obviously being used by whites against blacks to defend racism. In addition, after this year's wave of student boycott, workers strikes and guerrilla attacks, Pretoria's South African Defense Force has asked large foreign companies to organize corporate militias among white workers and to foot the bills for arms and communications gear to be kept on company premises.

The corporations who claim to be traying to alleviate or to change the system in South Africa by investing in a racist and facist government employ blacks to do the most menial jobs within the plant.

They claim to be concerned about human rights and yet, in 1971, Firestone closed its Fall River plant, laying off 770 workers, while it employs 2,451 in South Africa. In 1976, Goodyear laid off 300 workers in New Bedford and employs 2,534 workers in South Africa under the cheap labour system.

I wish to advise those who advocate human rights, those charity corporations and governments who wish to alleviate the problems of the black people of South Africa that charity begins at home. If they are concerned abour human rights, they must first resolve their domestic problems by feeding those millions of people who are out of work. This is easy to achieve by withdrawing their investments from the South African cheap labour system.

Some people have an excuse that if they disinvest from South Africa blacks will starve. I wish to say to those: Blacks will starve but not worse than they are starving now, they have stayed out of work for three months at Ford Motor company, without pay. In 1976 and 1977 more than 2,000 blacks died throughout the country for a meaningful change. People have sacrificed even with their lives for a change in South Africa, what else does the world want to show that blacks are determined to move forward to a people's government.

The struggle in South Africa is two-fold, we are fighting a national struggle, because we are oppressed as a nation and also a class struggle. The workers are no longer making economic demands only, they are also making political demands. We want to be liberated politically and economically.

The most dangerous people in our struggle are those who appear to be sympathetic when in fact they are apathetic. Their investment is to feed their stomachs and leave the producers of that wealth in the hands of a criminal government founded on injustice. If they take their investment from South Africa and their military aid we will know that we are dealing with one government.

It was strange that when workers went on strike in South Africa they did not receive any foreign aid at a time when they were so much in need of help, but when workers went on strike in Poland, a lot of support came from trade unions in the U.S.A.

My conclusion would be that some unions tend to take decisions to support their government's policies at the expense of the workers.

A worker remains a worker wherever he is, a worker knows no colour and a worker is fighting against monopoly capitalism and imperialism. On behalf of the workers of South Africa, I call for international unity of all the workers of the world. Strike is the only language the employer understands, Because he delights in exploitation.

The Sullivan and the E.E.C. Codes are just an excuse for the perpetuation of the oppressive and exploitative system of South Africa. The Sullivan Principles are aimed at deflecting criticism rather than producing a change. To quote Henry Ford on his return from South Africa: "I think Reverend Sullivan has a better idea..." Today, the Ford Company has big signs or advertisements that "Ford has a better idea..."

Yes, Ford has a better idea to exploit the blacks by paying them slave wages and build them expensive poorly built houses, that could not be maintained by his employers.

They have a better idea in building commercial and military vehicles for the South Africa police and army. GM Motors has made tremendous improvements in implementing the racial laws; particularly the contingency plen. If this is how to improve the quality of life of the black people in South Africa, I wish to encourage the withdrawal of that 'improvement'.

Ford is regarded as number one in improving the quality of life of workers in South Africa and yet, the demands at Ford during the 1979 - 1980 strike were equal pay for equal work, scrapping of job reservation, integration of training facilities and promotion of blacks to senior positions.

Ford still has a limited number of black employees which was increased from 165 Africans in 1968 to 1,863 in 1978.

If these corporations are vital now for the implementation of the racist laws they would be more effective and dangerous in times of war. Such was the case during the world war II when Ford and GM in South Africa assemblied 60,000 vehicles and other important items of equipment for military use. The Financial Mail noted in 1977 at the passage of the National Supplies Procurement Act which empowers the racist regime to dicate production to any company in times of national emergency: It is the general impression that foreign controlled firms supplying the department of Defense could be commandeered if their parent instructed them to stop supplying goods which the government needs." The Financial Gazette commented in 1967 that "in times of emergency or war each motor plant could be turned over rapidly to the production of weapons and other strategic requirements for the defence of South Africa."

These motor corporations expanded business in South Africa fully aware of the stringent laws. Ford opened the Cortina Plant in 1972 knowing that it could be converted into an arms manufacturing factory in times of war; being aware that war is inevitable in South Africa under the racist minority regime, a criminal government that robbed over 21 million blacks of 87. of fertile land and industrialized land and shoved them in concentration camps, in reserves that are headed by so-called leaders like puppet Gatsha Buthelezi, Matanzima brothers and the Sebe brothers.

Today workers cannot complain or protest against low wages lest they are sent to these bantutans where there are no prospects of work. They have to live in these camps and patiently wait for their death. These puppet leaders are boasting that they have a pool of labour.

When we crash the fascist government we shall crash it with all its puppet leaders and all its allies. South Africa shall be returned to the people as one undivided entity. All its improvements which are built on the blood and sweat of our people shall be inherited by those who will survive bloody struggle that lies ahead. We have been mourning the death of the black people talking about peaceful change

NEWS BRIEFS

STATE BAR OF TEXAS:

Tours to South Africa

The State Bar of Texas is offering its members a February group tour to the racist country of South Africa, described as a "vital and progressive democratic country."

"South African Adventure," the title of a brochure sent to all lawyers in the state, promised participants an opportunity to visit "an amazing collection of spectacular and sophisticated cities with bright skyscrapers, fine superhighways and beautifully landscaped residences." They were given the opportunity of making friends with "the friendly hardworking people whose major language is English," and all this for a mere $2963.

When asked if there had been any complaints about the trip, Jack Reynolds, associate executive director of the State Bar said: "No. There have been a couple who have inquired about why we are doing it." Reynolds said that the South Africa trip was one of 10 tours being offered to its members and said: "It's just a service to the membership,"

FREEDOM OF SPEECH:

Firing of Blacks upheld

If a labor arbitrator's ruling is allowed to stand, companies will now have the right to fire union employees for making "disloyal" statements about their bosses.

The recent decision involves seven black workers at a Los Angeles plant of the Zellerbach Paper Co. The black workers wrote a public letter criticizing the company and citing discrimination charges that had been brought against it. The letter protested an award from a local school board praising the company for its work with third world students.

A few weeks later the seven were fired. The United Paper Wokers Union filed a grievance on their behalf, charging the firing was without just cause. Last month, the arbitrator said the company could punish workers for "disloyal conduct," but that in this case, firing was too harsh a penalty. The workers were ordered suspended without pay for four months.

The decision affects all unionized workers, since the arbitrator's ruling becomes a prcedent for future cases filed under union grievance procedures. The seven, supported by their union, civil liberties and black groups, are appealing the ruling to the courts.

THE POVERTY OF CURRENT BLACK PROTEST REVISITED: A CRITIQUE

Steve Coons

This article is a response to and critique of Winston Smith's article, "The Poverty of Current Black Protest" which appeared in the September 22 issue of Nummo News.

Firstly, I have waited so long before preparing a response because I was awaiting to read any follow-up article(s) to what I believed to be a controversial article and because of certain time constraints. Secondly, I think it is good that there is concern enough over political issues as to warrant articles in efforts to raise political awareness and consciousness, and applaud such efforts. Thirdly, I feel Winston Smith "does" contribute to this enterprise by viture of his provocative article of which can provide the pivot for a dialogue, debate, or forum.

Nevertheless, I feel his article suffers from several serious pitfalls and misconceptions and hence shold be opposed or discussed for clarification and the benefit of all.

Smith's article focuses on the most recent activities (the sixties and the past decade) in the struggle for Black Liberation. In passing he mentions such groups and political currents as: CORE, The NAACP, the Pan-Africanists, Jesse Jackso, Vernon Jordan, Ron Karenga's "Cultural Nationalism", and Imamu Baraka's "Magic Marxism". I basically agree--though with some reservation--with his opening sentence that "during the years of the late sixties and early seventies, Black Protest Politics has observed a breakdown in its revolutionary and confrontist character." I have "some" reservations, because Black Protest Politics during the period indicated was certainly: militant, confrontationist, radical, and progressive. However, it was not "revolutionary". This is crucial to realize. In fact, the ostensibly current "lull" in Black Protest Politics, its "poverty" which Smith is so disaffected with, is a result of not outlining and engaging a revolutionary politics; that is a theory and practice that was thoroughly revolutionary.

Regardless, it is obvious that the militant Black Protest Politics of the late sixties and early seventies will definitely go down as a progressive and positive contribution to, not only, American Culture, but International and Global relations as well. The role of Black Protest Politics, then, has certainly and fundamentally been a progressive role in American and World History.

Smith's article seems to (dialectically) move between a sometimes brilliant and penetrating insight on contemporary Black Protest Politics, and a confounded notion of Black Protest Politics expressed from what seems to be the angle of the left-over by-products of Cultural Nationalism of the sixties. As a result we are left with a mesh of interesting and provocative commentary coupled with gross and erroneous misgivings and misconceptions.

Smith opens with a short lambast of Capitalism, but only in a phrase or two, and never followed through. Regardless, he "at least" mentions "the corrosive capitalist mentality" which is an advance. Nevertheless, as we move on we soon see that Smith's greatest tirade is not against Capitalism, but against Marxism. At least half perhaps three-fourths of this article is criticism directed against Marxism. Smith's dismissal of Marxism as having any relevancy for Black Liberation is that we do not need to follow "European categories of protest" (an old claim and argument by Cultural Nationalists). Towards the end of the article Smith adamantly rejects Marxism, Socialism, and Communism outright. He asserts that "of course, Socialism and Communism are unacceptable since they originate from a uniquely European social context." What is most interesting and unique about this assertion is not its anti-communist caliber; for this is often flowing from the strictures of the unreflective, dogmatic, and lecherous Bourgeois press, and various Capitalist institutions, their ideology, distortion, confusion in order to foment fear, hatred, ignorance, etc.; what is "most" interesting and unique in the Smith assertion is that Marxism, Socialism and Communism are not to be rejected because they are intrinsically "bad"; but rather, and get this, because they are European! I would like to briefly ennumerate several problems with Smith's analysis:

(I) Firstly, Smith's analysis offers the innuendo of a genetic-biological assumption of "Human Nature". It peculiarly assumes a geneological foundation of human nature. Hence, we can simplistically, outright or through extrapolation, claim that war, exploitation, and hatred is the very "nature" of the Anglo-European Tradition (regardless of the fact that these have existed in some form with and among "all" peoples throughout the annals of history), and conversely we can also erroneously assert that communalism, unity, love, and coooperation have been the most marked features of Third World Peoples and especially peoples out of the African and Afro-American Traditions (regardless of the fact that these features have also existed in some form with and among "all" peoples throughout the annals of history). What is most ironic, remarkable, and strange about these assumptions is the close affinity they bear to historical forms of Social Darwinism, contemporary Sociobiology, and other forms of pseudo-science. It is clear that these ides emerge out of and are a product of the Capitalist Mode of Production and Capitalist Social Formation (vis out of the Bourgeois Period). They are thoroughly "undialectical" and "unscientific" (which exhibits that "we" can be just as wrong, incorrect, mythical, outlandish, and mystical as "they" can be!) (Along with these brief notes I would like to suggest the short pamphlet by Kwame Nkrumah entitled Two Myths).

(2) Secondly, Socialism and Communism have a long history and by no means belongs exclusively to one single individual (vis Karl Marx). Marx should certainly not be glorified and aggrandized in deistic fashion, though revolutionary contributions are appreciated in that and where they benefit humanity. Though Marx's contribution to The History of Socialism and Communism has certainly been most significant (to say the least), Marx did not at all "invent" Socialism or Communism, nor does he have monopolistic hold or reign over these currents. In fact, there have been many contributors to the history of this movement: St. Simon, Fourier, Blanque, Moses Hess, Marx, Engels, Lenin, Luxemburg, Mao, Fanoh, Cabral, Nkrumah, Castro, and many many others. What Marx did in his Dialectical/Material opposition to the Bourgeois rise was make an historical assessment of significant interactions and activities. Summing-up the theoretical and practical lessons of predecessors (individuals, classes, nations, etc.) and of the age(s), in "The Materialist Conception of History" and/or via "Dialectical and Historical Motion". Hence, the historical data and information that has provided the (historical) tissue germane to the theoretical and practical expressions of the International Communist Movement.

Briefly, what is most key here is that the individual(s) in the Western egotistic, individualistic, narcissistic, and atomistic sense) are "almost" incidental to the historical and material processes. For it is the objective and material conditions of existence which are most cardinal (and of course, individuals/relations are not divorced from this). To the extent that individuals are (role) agents and bearers of ideas, consciousness, etc. there is significant impact. However, the reflection of ideas and consciousness from the objective/material conditions of existence through theoretical expression dialectically involves the proponents of the individual subject to objective conditions (with history, production, association of producers, and material conditions being most key). The goals, ideas/praxis, of Socialism has been toward the elimination of oppression and exploitation. And it is this historical project and process that is "most" paramount not individual subjectivisms of myriad sorts. As such the struggles move beyond categories, fraternities, nationalities, crusades, ideologies, etc. This struggle (the struggle for Human Freedom!) which "everybody" knows about, is a "World-Historical" struggle. The struggle for Black Liberation is not divorced from this rational and logical historical struggle, but is a part of the Global (Class) Struggles for Human Freedom. Attacking Marxism or Europeanism does no good! It is simply irrational that's all. It is irrational and illogical, and ultimately masochistic. (I would like to suggest a short article by Walter Rodney entitled The Relevance of Marxism to Africa).

(3) Lastly, and this is the most ridiculous aspect resulting from the Smith article; in rejecting something, anything, that can "possibly" be beneficial to (our) peoples makes no sense at all. Thus anything conducive to and helpful in bringing about Black Liberation should not be counted out. I don't care if its: Marxism, Disneyland, ZANU, New Zealand, Popovers, NAACP, Hollywood, Martians, National Organization of Women (NOW), Bell Telephone, radical art, National Black United Front (NBUF), or the Girl Scouts of America, etc. It is our task and struggle, our theory and practice, to identify and detect which of these (or anything) are beneficial and contributory, which non-antagonistic, which hostile, and which simploy meaningless to the struggle for Black Liberation, emancipation, and freedom should be engaged just for those obvious merits (vis that they are conducive and contributive to a peoples' struggle). Both the above mentioned Nkrumah article and the Rodney article are instructive on this point too.

In addition to these critical exceptions taken to the Smith contentions it is interesting that he ends his article with an obvious contradiction. His prescription is that "...ours should be a politics articulating the desires of W.E.B. Dubois, Marcus Garvey, Malcolm Little, and all those others enshrined in our struggle for freedom." With the exception of Garvey, Socialism was not anathema to these men; Dubois being practically a life-long Socialist and in later life even being a member of the Communist Party, while Malcolm X was also strongly Anti-Imperialist, quite consistently critical of Capitalism, and had often flirted with Socialism and especially toward the end of his life(on the eve of his assassination)apparently having embraced Socialism and/or gravitated towards Socialism's conclusions.

Smith's implied suggestion of a "Third Force", independent, or middle-way between the two ("European"-rather than Economic) systems, Capitalism and Socialism, in the final analysis is a pretention and voluntarism unless we are to return to Feudalism or some other archaic mode of production. It does not acknowledge the material and dialectical changes, interactions, and processes in the Global Economy.

In closing I would like to suggest that we be open enough to study "everything" from a "revolutionary perspective", (but first being clear on what is meant by "revolutionary"), learning from many philosophies, fields, peoples, places, conditions, in theory and practice, learning and applying, building unity where we can and forgoing a struggle that will eliminate racism, sexism, and class oppression.

Photos by Barron Roland

ZIONISM IS NOT THE ANSWER TO ANTI-SEMITISM

Palestine Solidarity Committee

What is anti-semitism?

Anti-semitism is racism, an ugly form of oppression directed against those of semitic origin. In the Western World (the U.S. and Europe), it has been used primarily against the Jewish people, in the forms of extreme segregation, discrimination and violence (from the bloody programs in the „Jewish ghettos, villages and communities of Czarist Russia and Eastern Europe to the 20th century culmination of Nazi genocide). In 19th century United States, anti-semitism was part of the general "anti-foreigner" sentiments encouraged to keep new immigrants from uniting with other oppressed workers to oppose the sweatshop conditions and low wages of American industry. In the U.S. and Western European countries, anti-semitism has been continuously used, particularly in times of economic crises, to direct the anger of the poor majority against the minorities, and away from the real causes of economic pressures and frustrations. Today, anti-Jewish anti-semitism and anti-black, anti-Latino racism form the basis of Ku Klux Klan and neo-Nazi ideology and violence.

There is another side to anti-semitism. It is also anti-Arab (because the Arabian peninsula is the birthplace of all semitic peoples) --which plays very conveniently into the hands of those who would like to blame all the economic woes onto another scapegoat, rather than the real causes of inflation and unemployment. Incidentally, in Hitler's classification lists of undesirable peoples, the Arabs were in line directly next to the category "Jews". It is not coincidental that the same forces who are prejudiced against Blacks and Jews are also the most prejudiced against "foreigners", Muslems and 3rd World peoples in general, the biggest opponents of equal rights for women, and the most opposed to social change.

Zionism - how the movement was used by anti-Semites

The alternative to Zionism among many Jewish intellectuals was socialism, the fight against Tzarist oppression and against all the exploitation faced by all the peoples of Europe and by the oppressed colonial peoples. The Zionist movement was seized upon by the Western European powers as an anti-socialist alternative to channel the expectation of the Jewish people along another line. For two decades the British government was stringing along the Zionist movement with one hope after another for the establishment of a Jewish state somewhere in the British colonial empire. The very wealthy and influential Count Rothschild of France had no desire either for the immigration of Jewish peasants and workers from Eastern Europe into France, England or Germany, or for the continued radicalization of the Jewish masses into the anti-capitalism movements of the late 19th century. As a leader of the (western) European Jewish community, he negotiated and pushed for a concession from the British. Ironically, his family is still the titular head of the Jewish community in France, and the Rothchilds have shown no desire to go to the "promised land".

The British government saw the establishment of Jewish colonies within Palestine and the conflict which was bound to erupt as Arab farmers were kicked off their lands, as one more divide-and-conquer scheme by which they could achieve their own colonial aims. When Britain was weakened by World War II, the establishment of an "independent" Jewish state was finally put on the agenda by both the British and the U.S. who saw such a state, which by nature would be totally economically and militarily dependent on an imperial power for its existence, as an excellent opportunity for a military base and power for use against the anti-colonial Arab peoples, and as an additional strength in overseeing the rapidly developing oil interests in the region.

Neither the British nor the U.S. would allow immigration by the Jewish masses escaping Nazi horror. The big-power governments along with the Zionist leadership insisted that Palestine was the place for the dispossessed Jewish people of Europe.

Zionsim - the illusion

The Zionist movement arose in Eastern Europe as a movement to encompass the Jewish masses who were beginning to radicalize against the oppression of Tzarism & the Cossacks, and it gained in popularity the, as today, on the basis of an idea: that it would be possible to escape the world of anti-semitism by the establishment of an exclusively Jewish state. Some sectors of the movement believed that a Jewish state anywhere could accomplish the goal; others thought that a Biblical quote would win support for the establishment of the state in Palestine; others thought that a secular state before the coming of the messiah would go against the tenets of the theology which to that time had been a unifying force in the oppressed Jewish communities. The fundamental illusion which brought people into the movement was the idea of building a better world for themselves, of somehow alleviating the paid of prejudice and violence they faced in Europe, by establishing a Jewish state.

Zionism - the reality of colonization

Rather than being a "land without people for a people without land" (a very popular slogan put forward by the leadership of the Zionist movement and believed by many until they faced the realities of colonization), Palestine was a land of a half million Arabs - Muslem, Christian and Jewish Arabs with the non-Jewish 91 percent of the population aroudn 490,000 in 1895. By 1946, about 678,000 were Jewish and 1,269,000 of the population, Christian and Muslem.

Colonial settlerism is a process by which the colonizer must force off the land the native population in order to settle it. The immigration of more and more Jews to Palestine was the most important means of furthering the dream of Jewish statehood. This process involved active collaboration with anti-semitism, manipulation of the Jewish population and, as is perhaps more well-known, the oppression of the Palestinian people.

The entire phenomenon of colonialism, and settler colonialism in particular, cannot be reduced to a moral evaluation of the colonist. Colonialism did not grow out of the free and malicious choice of masses of people to oppress the third world. The logical implications and directions of Zionist ideology are expansionist, ever more dependent on the political and economic crisis of its primarily U.S. sponsors. The establishment of the state of Israel was not for the imperialist countries a humanitarian gesture, nor an attempt to fight anti-Semitism. It was a cynical use of an oppressed minority in Europe to carry out other aims in the Middle East. It is urgent that we get rid of the notion that Zionism is or ever was or ever will be a movement for "national liberation" committed to freedom and equality. The actions of history, and present, speak louder than any rhetoric and wishful ignorance.

The facts of Palestinian oppression:

3/4 of a million driven by terror (massacres of whole villages, rape and robbery) from their homes and (already blooming) farms in 1948; occupation of the West Bank and another half million Palestinian Arabs in 1967 with settlements, forcible evictions, taking of water supplies, and military occupation and suppression of democratic rights;

annexation of Syrian and Egyptian lands;

taking of Arab Jerusalem;

cooperation between Israel and King Hussein of Jordan to massacre 10-15,000 Palestinians in 1970; arming and fighting alongside the Christian Falangists (a sector of the Lebanese Christian population with fascist ideology and crucifixes on their tanks) in the Lebanese Civil War to exterminate the Palestinians.

Collaboration with anti-Semites: "using", rather than opposing, anti-Semitism

Herzl, one of the major founders of the Zionist movement, hoped that "anti-semitism would serve as the driving force which would be conducive to the influx of Jews to the Promised Land". To this end, he reached an agreement with Von Plehve, the Czarist Minister of the interior, on getting moral and material support for furthering Jewish immigration to Palestine, and getting Russian support in the pressuring of the Turkish Ottoman empire in relation to the Jewish colonization of Palestine. VonPlehve was a viscious anti-Semite who had helped organize the horrible Kishinev program of 1903 - one of the worst Russian programs in which 45 men, women and children was massacred.

In 1933, as Hitler came to power in Germany, the Jewish Agency signed the Haavara Agreement with the Nazi regime, to enable Jewish Germans to transfer their capital to Palestine in the form of German goods. As late as 1944, Rudolf Kastner, the Jewish Agency representative in Hungary made an agreement with Adolf Eichmann, the Nazi occupation authority representative, thast allowed for the extermination of the bulk of the Jewish people of Hungary in exchange for 600 prominent Zionists. Official Zionist policy even tried to justify this agreement on the grounds that "selectivity is an inescapable factor in dealing with the problem of immigration to Palestine".

In the early 1950s the trial of Malchiel Greenwald (sued by the Israeli government for libel), many conspiracies and secret arrangements between the Zionist leadership and the Nazi regime were brought to light. And we cannot forget the sight of Weizmann and others being chauffered in limousines with Nazi flags into the concentration camps, a fact documented on film for the judgement of history.

Lest it be thought that these truths about Zionist practices have been "taken out of context" and do not really express the reality of Zionist ideology and practice toward anti-Semitism, we quote none other than the knowledgable and "liberal" David Ben Gurion on how to increase Jewish immigration to Palestine, "I shall not be ashamed to confess that if I had the power, as I have the will, I would select a score of efficient young men - intelligent, decent, devoted to our idea and burning with the desire to help redeem Jews - and I would send them to the countries where Jews are absorbed in sinful self-satisfaction. The task of these young men would be to disguise themselves as non-Jews and plague Jews with anti-Semitic slogans such as 'Bloody Jews', 'Jews, go to Palestine' and similar intimacies. I can vouch that the results in terms of a considerable immigration to Israel from these countries would be ten thousand times larger than the results brought by thousands of emissaries who have been preaching to decades to deaf ears." - Kemper, July 11, 1952 (a New York Jewish newspaper). originally published in Davar, (an Israeli daily).

Today, we find that the massive response by the French "left" and labor movement of hundreds of thousands of people against the recent bombing attempt by neo-Nazis also did not have the support of the section of the Jewish community led by Rothschild and other Zionist leaders. Rather, they had a separate little demonstration complete with Israeli flags, visibly counterposing the idea of a Jewish state to massive opposition to anti-Semitism.

What is the answer here and in the Middle East

The Palestinians have called for a democratic, secular state for people of all religions. The support for this just demand by the Israeli people is the only true solution which can bring peace to the area. Only when the displaced Palestinian people are allowed to return to their homes (if they so choose) can the "Palestinian problem" be alleviated.

When anti-semitism raises its ugly head, it must be confronted by all forces for justice and equality. Jewish people in the U.S. and Europe must united with other who have a direct interest in opposing activities of the KKK, neo-Nazis and other anti-labor, anti-women, anti-black forces.

photo by Barron Roland

Colombians Denounce Regime

Colombia is often referred to in the U.S. media as "one of the few Western-style democracies in Latin America." If "Western-style democracy" means a government which represses the rich and confronts a two-party contest with murderous repression of the opposition, then this label is accurate.

The Colombian regime is becoming increasingly militarized and the Nation's right-wing violence is becoming steadily worse, resulting in a regime of terror and repression.

In Mexico, from September 3 to 10 this year, organizations mobilized in solidarity with the Colombian people from Europe and the Americas held a conference in which the situation and the modern strategies for change, the following is an extract of the documents produced by the conference.

The social base of the Colombian oligarchical regime is a privileged minority tied to foreign (U.S.) capital. Militarism and the two-party system are the basic instruments of domination of this oligarchy. Colombia is thus under a constitutional dictatorship.

The violent military regime, headed by President John Cesar Turbay Ayala and General Luis Carlos Camacho Leyva, have used the anti-democratic statute (state of siege) to brutally repress the population.

The most elementary human rights are being abused. Arbitrary raids and detentions, torture, genocidal bombing campaigns against Indian and peasant communities, military occupation of the universities, the extermination of Colombian workers are some examples of this repression.

Imperialism's solidarity is necessary for the isolation of the desperate regime and to block attempts by the military high command to stage a total military takeover. This conference therefore commits itself to begin the construction of an international Coordinating Body for the solidarity committees outside of Colombia. This is a vital necessity forming an international front in Solidarity with Colombia.

Among the immediate tasks of the Coordinating Body are:

Joining the campaign of the democratic forces in Colombia for a general 'un conditional' and 'total' AMNESTY for political prisoners and exiles.

Among the campaign for the holding of a second general strike in Colombia.

To condemn the criminal bombing of the peasant communities at Uribe, El Pato and Gramalote by the Colombian Air Force. To condemn the military occupation of the universities and increasing militarization of Colombian society in general. To condemn the attacks on the Guambiano Indian community which is waging a just struggle for land and autonomy.

To energize Colombian migrants in our solidarity efforts and to denounce the conditions they are now living in. The economic conditions in Colombia were responsible for their leaving and they are now one of the largest national groups outside of the country.

To widely denounce the increase of political refugees and exiles, a phenomenon which is increasing at an alarming rate.

To support all the peoples of the world which are struggling against external tyranny and national domination, particularly our brothers and sisters in El Salvador, Guatemala, Bolivia, Argentina, Chile and Ethiopia. To salute the Irish liberation movement and stand in solidarity with their just struggle.

To plan for a second conference in September 1981, with the goal of maintaining and expanding the work which the International Coordinating Body is today initiating.

UNITY IN THE STRUGGLE FOR A FREE AND DEMOCRATIC COLOMBIA!

Latin America: The Wretched Continent

by Food Vafaei

Since the rule of the century, with the rise of the monopolies and later the multinational corporations, the United States of America became a truly imperialist power in the modern sense of the term. American big business began to penetrate Latin America, China, the Caribbean, etc., in search of low markets and cheap labor to exploit.

The first military intervention by the U.S. for that purpose was 1898-1901 for the invasion of the Philippines. Then the American big business started to consider all the territories to the South of the Mexican-American border as their own turf.

The hegemony of Wall Street and the Pentagon has been preserved through the "Big Stick Policy" (As Theodore Roosevelt put it) i.e. covert CIA activity, overt and blatant military intervention, political and military aid to murderous fascist dictatorships, etc. The consequence of this hegemony has been the creation of lucrative investment fields for U.S. big business and a "stable" atmosphere.

American imperialism has provided Latin America wretched various such: the U.S. foreign policy with regard to Latin America was in the case of Iran and Ethiopia has been one of consistently blatant support for right-wing repressive regimes. In many cases the U.S. has been involved in writing down up in p. Pinochet in Chile, the Shah of Iran, etc.)

In 1973 in Chile the CIA was involved in overthrowing the democratically elected regime of Salvador Allende and putting at the head dictatorship of Gen. Pinochet. That led to the creation of "triple" social and economic code with one of the highest records of torture, repression and human rights violations. The result of that was higher profits for the US corporations. A handful of other cases could be cited as examples.

The result of the general trend has been nothing but misery of the Latin American continent as a whole. In most of these countries, high unemployment rates, outrageous inflation rates, right-wing repression through torture and extreme poverty and social inequality are the common features.

In Central America, a wave of crises has already begun. The overthrow of Somoza's dictatorship in Nicaragua has set afire to spread the historic struggle of the peoples of Central America for liberation from imperialist subjugation, oligarchic rule, foreign military force and social injustice.

By Food V afaei

The balance of forces in Central America, between reactionary and revolutionary forces, will be highly determined by the results of the current civil war in El Salvador. The right-wing regime (an alliance of the "moderate" military with the Christian Democratic Party--backed by secret death squads) is besieged by a mass revolutionary movement of workers, peasants and students.

Repression and Resistance in El Salvador

AP photo: Young freedom-fighters of the Farabundo Marti Liberation Front (FMLN) of El Salvador.

After this article was written, several scores of persons' importance occurred in El Salvador. On November 27 six of the top leaders of the Revolutionary Democratic Front (the political wing of the FMLN) were murdered by a government spokesman. Death squad Last Friday three Americans were killed by the same forces and the U.S. government announced that it would terminate the end of economic and military aid to the Salvadorean dictatorship.

Revolutions are the most democratic social processes: The important feature of a revolution is the direct interference of the masses in the historic events.

Usually the state, be a Western-style "democracy" or military right-wing regime, elevates itself above the society and returns to reside by the specialists in that line of business: politicians, generalissimo, congressmen, journalists, government bureaucrats, etc.

However at those crucial times, when the old order becomes no longer durable to the masses, the masses break into the scene, thus exclude them from the arena of real political action, sweep aside the traditional rulers, and create for their own, overthrow the social groundwork for a new social order. The masses start a revolution totally spontaneously, i.e. without any preconceived plan. They do that simply and merely because they cannot take the old repressive oppressive social order any more!

THE CRISIS IN CENTRAL AMERICA

In Nicaragua the U.S. backed brutal dictator Somoza was overthrown by the revolutionary forces of the Sandinistas on July 19, 1979. However, today Central America is gripped by deep economic and social crisis.

In Guatemala, backed by the U.S. and the industrial-agricultural oligarchy, the right-wing bonapartist dictatorial and repressive as been imposed on a social reality upon the oppressed masses since 1954 when the CIA overthrew the democratically elected regime of Arbenz to preserve the United Fruit Company's interests. In Guatemala today an average of 20 people "disappear" or are assassinated.

In Honduras, where similar developments have been occurring, and finally in Costa Rica and Panama where a certain polarization between the right and left is going on which will lead toward more repressive governments in the short run, especially with the rise of a "Reagan-type foreign policy". The balance of forces between the reactionary forces of the agro-industrial oligarchies backed by Wall Street, the Pentagon and the CIA, on the one hand, and the mass movements struggling for social justice, democratic human rights, and emancipation from imperialist subjugation, on the other, is highly determined by the results of the upcoming final confrontation which is going to take place in El Salvador.

In El Salvador where the social conflicts are today the sharpest, against the background of an economic and social order riddled in crisis, the oppressed masses have started to organize in worker, student and peasant organizations to defend themselves against the bloody repression and to struggle for democracy.

In the small Central American country the size of Massachusetts, with a population of 4.5 million (the most densely populated nation in the area), the U.S.-backed regressive, ultra-rightist Christian Democratic junta is now besieged by a powerful army of popular forces. The masses of people are determined to free themselves from the eighty-year old brutal subjugation by American imperialism and from the Salvadorean oligarchs which has dominated every aspects of economic and political life.

THE MAKING OF SALVADORIAN SOCIETY

In El Salvador, which remains a highly agricultural society, the main portion of the agricultural sector is in the hands of a small number of families. The expansion of the export sector has been reducing the agricultural land that remains for the small peasants since the number of jobs in rural area has been declining. At the same time the number of inexpensive landless peasants has been increasing. The industrial sector has proven unable to absorb the surplus labor power from the rural areas. But in the late 60's the urban working class grew rapidly as their wages declined drastically. On the other hand there has been a substantial growth in the number of slum-dwellers, unemployed, street vendors, petty traffickers, etc.

The most important product of El Salvador is coffee. El Salvador is the eighth largest producer of coffee in the world. But it is difficult to find any type of coffee in the market in El Salvador (except instant coffee!) The other important agricultural products are cotton and sugar. There is no several exceptions of significance but the 1960's witnessed a growth in industrial processing by the multinationals and certain sections of the 14 family oligarchy.

BACKGROUND TO THE CRISIS 50 years of military rule

Since 1931 when General Martinez massacred 2000 peasants in the insurrection of the country, the 14 family oligarchy has been ruling the country with the help of the military. After a repressive period, a "moderate" section of the army took over the state and proposed to hold free elections. But the right wing of the army overtook with a coup in 1961.

The new regime attempted to impose some reforms to gain the support of some sections in the urban areas, while still following repressive policies against the revolutionary forces. While a certain degree of trade union activity was tolerated in the urban area, any attempt to organize by the peasantry in the countryside was brutally crushed by the army.

The regime created a huge secret police apparatus in the rural areas. However after 12 years of a relatively "stable" military regime in 1972 the right wing of the military won the election through an electoral fraud and against the liberal opposition.

A coup was staged by the civil-administration faction of the army to give the power to the liberals but it was unsuccessful. The right wing regained the power. Gen. Molina became the new military dictator of El Salvador. But in period of political crisis began.

FASCISM AND REPRESSION

The early 1970's witnessed the emergence of many revolutionary organizations. The army was politically split into many factions by 1979, M. Molina cautiously tried to defuse the critical situation through an agrarian reform.

The rural oligarchs of landowners raised a storm against that. The right wing stepped up the campaign of repression, murder and violence against the masses.

Through an electoral fraud the right wing faction of the army led by Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero "won" the elections. Only a few days after Romero's "electoral victory" the army massacred demonstrators in San Salvador in December.

The masses organized to defend themselves against the right wing violence, terror and murder. Just in the first four months of 1980, around 3000 people have been murdered, "disappeared", tortured or mutilated by the fascist gangs connected to the army and the U.S.-backed military and civilian-Democratic junta.

However, the military junta in El Salvador of October 15, 1979 provoked a new and comparable terror in the bloody events which have received world-wide attention. "Genocide Republic" as he was known in El Salvador, Gen. Romero was overthrown by a coup organized by sixth or thirdbrigade's strategy for preserving the multi-nationals' high profits.

CARTER'S POLICY "REFORMS" WITH REPRESSION

According to the new strategy there was a need for a policy of repression integrated with some reforms i.e. a coalition of Salvadorean liberals and the conservative factions of the army was arranged for Washington to stage a coup and form a new government. This was in contrast with Washington's usual coverage toward Central America which was one of support for outright fascists.

So through a coup in October 15, 1979, a new junta took over and announced its readiness for a dialogue with the opposition. A new government was formed under which both the popular revolutionary organizations and the right wing were excluded.

The new regime was to be made up of moderate, conservative, social democrats and liberals. The new regime attempted to initiate some reforms to break off the crisis. However, all the attempts have been stopped and opposed by the most right wing industrial oligarchy who backed the right wing in stepping up the campaign of violence and murder against the left. The executioners who exercise the right wing's policies are in general led by the army officers who have said that "to do away with communist subversion in El Salvador, between 500 and 700 thousand people must be physically eliminated."

THE MAKING OF A REVOLUTION

The polarization of forces between the ultra-right ruling oligarchs and the popular revolutionary organizations of workers, peasants and students led to most dramatic and more intensely conflicts. The social basis of the junta shrank more and more.

By January 1980 all the civilian members of the junta resigned. Some of them were replaced by the right-wing Christian Democrats. Thus the right wing was strengthened inside the regime. Now any "middle road" solution was impossible. The country was moving toward a civil war.

A new coalition of the popular revolutionary organizations and left social democrats was formed in January. The Revolutionary Democratic Front As the leader of the FDR, Henrique Alvarez, said, "If 1979 was the year of liberation for Nicaragua, 1980 will be the year of liberation for El Salvador."

U.S. SALVADOR HEROISM

The current U.S. backed military and Christian Democratic junta has some dangerous signs of its collapse ahead. The "victory" of Ronald Reagan has nothing but exacerbation the conflicts. In other words, the junta is increasingly moving to the right, i.e. toward an even more repressive policy.

Right now a fascistoid repressive regime backed by Wall Street, Pentagon and CIA is arising to crush and physically destroy the popular democratic revolutionary organizations.

In the revolutionary camp, a new stage, a new coalition of all political military organizations was formed: the UNIDAD Farabundo Marti Liberation Front (Farabundo Marti was the leader of the peasant insurrection in 1932).

We are approaching a decisive period in the history of the Americas. The peoples of Central America are carefully watching the events of El Salvador. The results of the current class struggle in El Salvador will be extremely decisive for Central America in the short run and all of Latin America in the long run.

It is true that Salvadorean FMLN deserves all the possible support from progressive forces in the U.S. The FMLN has not started a civil war in El Salvador. This has been imposed on them.

There is a crucial need for international solidarity with the Salvadorean revolution.

Oppose all the insane Reagan's attempts for possible military intervention in El Salvador!

No more U.S. workers are to die junta!

The people of El Salvador will win!

The Making of the Resistance in El Salvador

by Food Vafaei

During a profound political crisis wracking the entire Central American region, a democratization is now taking place in El Salvador. Salvador, that ruling military-Christian Democratic Junta and the more moderate for democratic rights and social progress.

Since the 1960's many political groupings have been formed in opposition to the extraordinary dictatorships. In 1960 the Christian Democratic Party, one bourgeois opposition was formed. Also many social-democratic tendencies grew during those years: The National Revolutionary Movement (MNR) in 1960, and The Democratic Nationalist Union (UDN) in 1968. The UDN encountered a range of tendencies, from left-liberals and social democrats to the Communist Party (PCS).

In May 1972 a massive insurrection by civilian workers was led by the PCS. It was brutally crushed with the help of the US, by the military dictatorship.

The heroic leader of the PCS, Farabundo Marti, was assassinated by the right-wing junta that also declared that the PCS could not participate in trade-union work and banning the work of democratic activists and basic democratic activities until the 1970's.

In the early 1970's the broad base process of radicalization began, which led to the emergence of new revolutionary organizations. For the first time after decades, the organized movements arose among in the agricultural sector. A crisis started to develop.

In 1972 the general living standards of the rural and urban wage workers declined considerably. In 1972 the Christian Democrats, the MNR, and the UDN combined for the presidential elections. Through an electoral fraud the military right-wing won.

But a constitutionalist wing of the army staged a coup to enforce the real results of the elections. However, after a few days the right wing regained its power and Colonel Molina became the new dictator. A new wave of repression began.

But the masses started to organize a resistance to these new savage violations of basic democratic and human rights. In 1975 the People's Liberation Forces (FPL) was the People's Liberation Forces (FPL) was founded, from the radical wing of the Communist Party. Because of the growing violence and repression of the government against the workers and peasants, the FPL started to organize armed defense groups.

In 1972 People's Revolutionary Army (ERP) was formed. Unfortunately, this attempted political lines to armed struggle. Over this question a split occurred in 1975, which led to the formation of the Armed Forces for National Resistance (FARN). But the ERP maintained many of its mass organizations. In 1977 when it founded a political party along with its wing: the Party of the Salvadorean Revolution (PRS).

In 1974, ROTARIO, a peasant federation created originally by the Catholic Church and the Christian Democrats in 1986, combined with a new leftist urban organization (UPD), mass student groups. PCS re-founded the Front for Popular United Action (FAPU). FAPU's main concern was the struggle against the rules in the core of living, and against the repression.

The latest factions including ROTARIO split from FAPU to form the Farabundo Marti (FPL) established closed connection with the FPL. The FPL was mainly a mass political force, but EPL was an armed organization.

Asian Affairs

The Human Cost of U.S. Policy in Asia

By
Don Luce

Smokestacks, tall buildings, and traffic jams symbolize a kind of economic miracle in Asia. Statistical reports from the governments of South Korea, Taiwan and the Philippines, as well as slick brochures from the factories, the U.S. Embassies, and the American Chambers of Commerce all overflow with evidence of this miracle. Behind the stage, there is an ever-widening gap between the rich and the poor. American businessmen, enchanted by the miracle, dwell there with the United States in benefiting from all the progress.

It sounds good! But a closer look makes it clear that the "economic miracle" of Asia is built, literally, on the blood, sweat and tears of the children of Asia. The exploitation does not stop with Taiwan or South Korea; it also is an exploitation of American workers, too. American taxpayers protect the "right" of the multinational businessmen and the ruling elite to carry out this exploitation.

Thousands of twelve to fifteen year-old Taiwanese girls work in the American and Japanese multinational assembly-line of Kaohsiung, a city of more than a million people in southern Taiwan. They maintain the pace of consistently which are so small that the girls must work through microscopes. They produce televisions, new shoes, and put their noses to the tasks of Barbie dolls. At night, after hazardous fourteen-hours of work, they return to crowded, dirty-room dormitories.

"Why do you have only girls?" I asked Frank Tyree, personnel manager of Microelectronics, a U.S. firm multinational in New York City.

"Well, we used to have boys," Mr. Tyree said. "But then we tried girls and found they were more docile and obedient. And besides, they don't cost as much money."

Barrels of Chlorophene-like were piled up against one wall. One Chemical had printed labels on them in English, warning "Caution: Fumes from this chemical, if breathed, will cause death." There was no translation in Chinese or Taiwanese.

Combining the microscopic work through monotonous exercise, the eyesight of the girls is lost in eight years. Then they are sent back to the homes from whence they came. But with new "needs" for Coca-Cola and other items produced in the factories. Not only do the girls provide cheap labor but they become a market for the goods produced by the multinationals.

An example of this is the use of artificial baby formula for new born babies. There is not time off for maternity care in the factories, and "nurses" in white uniforms visit the rural areas urging women to use the "modern, sophisticated way". Advertisements proclaim that infant formula are even better than mother's milk. Some mothers have used up their funds to purchase the world's best baby food, the result is malnutrition because the mothers cannot afford enough formula, diluted what the first do, aren't properly sterilized, and some nutrition for the whole family because so much money is spent on the formula.

But it's all great for the multinational. First of all, there is a tremendous saving because wages are so low. The average labor cost in Ireland, the Philippines, and South Korea is still per month, comparable wages in the U.S. would cost $800 month. Fringe benefits (are $300 or more) company, the monthly labor bill is thus about $400,000 (USD a week) workers in the U.S. to spend for $1,600,000 ($800 x 2000 workers). The profits come from all cultural programs, or $80 million a year in labor bills alone! Workers are numerous. Overhead costs for safety guarantees are practically non-existent and there are no costly litigation suits from workers injured on the job.

There is an even more basic goal. The Taiwan Export Processing Zone advertises "a Maximum Freedom of Capital" and "a Minimum supply for employment at any one time. The law provides for a seven-day week with one day off per, for each employee. Minimum wage (NT$ or U.S. $1.21 per day."

In Taiwan, when there was a labor shortage, the government closed the authorized to say that the school children could go to work in the factories. Ambassador Kirsch, President of the American Chamber of Commerce in Taiwan fondly recalled that event in an article on the "Miracle Year of 1973."

Taiwan American Chamber Rapist:

"I've always had a warm spot in my heart for Taiwan. In 1973, we had an acute labor shortage, the local electronic and textile industries were recovering strongly from a recession and employees that had been laid off were not anxious to return from the farms. The government was petitioned and a negotiation with schools, concrete help, a media campaign was initiated to urge the students back. Selected schools cooperated with early graduations to increase the work force. Overtime and unscheduled wage escalation that could not be a long range accommodation were tolerated."

Many of the workers are brought directly from the farms by labor recruiters. By contract "needs" for the factory and the cost of mechanical advertising, agents "go" factory on certain days. Most are hard-working, honest people. But some are lured to Taipei to be cheated and brutalized by the factory owners. Sometimes a mother or father will sell a daughter to a contract and he is sold and the girl is simply "disappeared" in Taipei. In addition to contracts, there are "runaways" — girls who escape from the factories and are forced to work in the streets as prostitutes.

Child labor in Taiwanese factory

Many of the girls are brought from the rural areas by labor recruiters. By contract the factory will provide room and board for the girls and pay them a small salary. Most are hard-working, honest people. But some are lured to Taipei to be cheated and brutalized by the factory owners. Sometimes a mother or father will sell a daughter to a contractor and he is sold and the girl is simply "disappeared" in Taipei. In addition to contracts, there are "runaways" — girls who escape from the factories and are forced to work in the streets as prostitutes.

In one case, Miss Tzai-lung and the people are the sea and my guardian soldiers are the fish. Instead of being hailed as heroes for Foreigners, try to drain the sea to get the fish and help ensure and the fish will help ensure and the sea will be safe. Miss Tzai-lung was best remembered during the Viet Cong Tet offensive when she said, "We are now fighting a war in the war through the communists in the government. Last year, there was a struggle in the politburo over the issue of Taiwan. The Thai government refused to send food and the pro-Soviet wing won out. In Hanoi from the Northeast to bring rice available on the world at Bangkok prevailing prices. Here for the Soviet Union.

There is growing anger in the countryside of Thailand as the Thai government sells rice to Russia, South Korea, the Philippines and Japan. Government officials have been caught red-handed selling rice stolen from the farmers with farmers at harvest time. Thailand with prices that are three times as much as the farmer in the country. A bill to increase the price of rice to the farmers was defeated by the senate. Many farmers are now losing their land because they are not able to pay the exorbitant interest charged by the moneylenders. The women do get a job in a factory, but are then under the control of the police department. Government police use U.S. weapons now used on students in front of the Seoul Factory to make sure no "subversive" arise.

The Korean Industrial Mission, a church-related group, has tried to help workers in South Korea. They have been brutally beaten by the government. One pastor, active in the Young Christian Worker movement, was tortured and died in prison. What is the answer to the Asian problem? Many, but we have given great work to the Thai government to assassinate or isolate its prime enemy, the

And American tax money protects these dictators from their own people. During fiscal year 1971, $268,700,000 worth of weapons and parts to South Korea, $40,400,000 to Thailand, and $98,100,000 to the Philippines. The corporations have benefited from the martial law, and labor unrest and strike laws, and the imprisonment of the brave people who have dared to protest this exploitation. But the American tax payer, not the corporations, pays the bill for an ever increasing Pentagon budget that has no basis except the interests of the military-industrial complex.

U.S. Taxpayers Pay the Bill

Americans are told that Asian workers are cheaper to get the jobs and are better off than before. But we, many of them poor, are having a spiral of their own families structure as increasing numbers of people are forced off the farms and into the city slums.

In long, long ago, Mao Tse-tung said the people are the sea and the guerrilla soldiers are the fish. Instead of being hailed as heroes for Foreigners, try to drain the sea to get the fish and help ensure and the fish will help ensure and the sea will be safe. Miss Tzai-lung was best remembered during the Viet Cong Tet offensive when she said, "We are now fighting a war in the war through the communists in the government. Last year, there was a struggle in the politburo over the issue of Taiwan. The Thai government refused to send food and the pro-Soviet wing won out. In Hanoi from the Northeast to bring rice available on the world at Bangkok prevailing prices. Here for the Soviet Union.

There is growing anger in the countryside of Thailand as the Thai government sells rice to Russia, South Korea, the Philippines and Japan. Government officials have been caught red-handed selling rice stolen from the farmers with farmers at harvest time. Thailand with prices that are three times as much as the farmer in the country. A bill to increase the price of rice to the farmers was defeated by the senate. Many farmers are now losing their land because they are not able to pay the exorbitant interest charged by the moneylenders. The women do get a job in a factory, but are then under the control of the police department. Government police use U.S. weapons now used on students in front of the Seoul Factory to make sure no "subversive" arise.

The Korean Industrial Mission, a church-related group, has tried to help workers in South Korea. They have been brutally beaten by the government. One pastor, active in the Young Christian Worker movement, was tortured and died in prison. What is the answer to the Asian problem? Many, but we have given great work to the Thai government to assassinate or isolate its prime enemy, the

KKK: PENNSYLVANIA OOPS?

Indications that the Ku Klux Klan has infiltrated the police departments have been recently unfolded investigations by local and state agencies and raised concern among Pennsylvania blacks.

The residents of Harrisburg, however, were not too surprised at recent reports that six Klan members, including several that the Harrisburg police department, or that one of their policemen had been seen wearing a Klan regalation while on duty. The Klan Cut long been active in Pennsylvania, with rallies held in Lewisburg and Gettysburg both between 20 and 30 miles from Harrisburg, recently and another rally in New Holland last week.

In demanding an inquiry by the state Justice Department, state Rep. Mark Schweiker (R-Philadelphia) said that at least one Harrisburg cop had been seen wearing a Klan button while in uniform. Schweiker is chairman of the Legislative Black Caucus and a leader of the Philadelphia Black United Front. An inquiry by the mayor's office found that an employee in the local district justice office may also have had Klan affiliations.

The state's Human Relations Commission is also looking into charges that a city employee was one of the 31 members of a recently exposed Klan organization and that city police officers were involved in a confrontation where the Harrisburg police officers used nine epithets in front of black officers, arrest racial profiles in the police station and sent racial literature to black officers.

After conducting his own internal probe, Harrisburg Police Chief Earl Schweitzer concluded there was no KKK activity in the Harrisburg police department. He said that the presence of a Klan membership, which went through on a five-vote tie vote of its men, was merely the result of "poor judgement on the part of two officers."

The officer who bought the membership and the one who was seen wearing one with his uniform face disciplinary action and will possibly be fired.

LANCASTER INDEPENDENT PRESS

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Also, the people of color must stand together in order to successfully combat all forms of racism and oppression, here in the Americas as well as in Africa, and in our native countries. We must not overlook the fact that we are disappointed and hated the same struggle on our hands, however we are the variety of color we call only Blacks, we are THIRD WORLD PEOPLE, which includes Hispanics, Asians, etc.

On October "November 8th, what BLACK HOMECOMING FINANCE was very successful and well provided, in one article on November 17th on the Black Homecoming Parade, one overlooked the fact that the parade was not only intended for, and provided by Afro-Americans, but also by Hispanics, Asians, etc., in once people are violent, I thought how unfortunate it is to hold an many educated African Americans in one area and with one purpose: to celebrate pride in our African race." We understanding was that the word 'Black' in Black Homecoming was used as tradition, but more and would be all people of color.

Yours Sincerely Peoples

(During the parade I felt a part of the people and the marching it had behind it. Reading over article gave me the impression that non Blacks were guests in an event for Black people.

(A point of information: The march to New Africa House was very significant to effort as not only to Afro-Americans. The also stated in your article. The group of organizers, proud Afro-American people who took this building in 1968. I don't want to overstate if you were present during the television, but if you were, I was question your ability to observe because you carefully maintained the fact that also in the television there were responses recollect.

I would also like you to look at your photo collage and see if you can find a picture of a non-Black person. Let us have confidence and our story from multinational television journalists is complete.

BLACK LEGACY

NUMMO

1,500 BLACKS LAUNCH INDEPENDENT PARTY

SET NATIONAL CONVENTION FOR 1980

Kwanza Celebration

Nummo News Meeting

"All the News That Fits, We Print"

Massachusetts Daily Collegian

AMHERST EDITION

Amherst area weather: Partial clearing today; chance of rain tonight. Cloudy tomorrow. Temperature range: Today: 36-43; yesterday 38-42. Details on page 9.

VOL. CX . . . No. 66 —AMHERST, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1980— NO CENTS

FRED AT CIVIL COURTHOUSE FRIDAY. Lynn and Dale Cross leave the Plymouth, Mn. County courthouse yesterday after being freed of charges of civil contempt.

Cancer Victim's Parents Turn Themselves In Are Freed

NO AFFRONT

Christian Duty Calls Them Back to Mass.

Watergate Haunts Haig's Chances For Position

POLISH PRESS SAYS 'UNREST' GROWS

U.S.S.R Charges Groups With Threats To Communist Rule in Poland

ELECTIONS FRAY SYLVAN

Koffler Remains Stable After Transfer To Room

Iranian Response Raises Release Hopes

STUDENTS PLAN WOMEN'S WEEK

John Lennon

John Lennon Shot To Death; No Motive Seen

INSIDE

Following draft registration, approximately 50 to 60 area college students marched in front of the Amherst post office yesterday.

60 Protest Registration at Post Office

News Summary

WARSAW — Poland's army newspaper warns of mounting reports in the Polish military that "social unrest" is getting out of hand. The Soviet Union and hardline Warsaw Pact members level new charges that "counter-revolutionary groups" are endangering communist rule in Poland.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The latest American response in the U.S.-Iranian hostage crisis hinges a solution closer, says the speaker of Iran's Parliament, a hardliner whose optimistic statement raised hopes that his country generally accepted the U.S. position.

WASHINGTON — The bottom line on Ronald Reagan's possible selection of Gen. Alexander Haig as secretary of state is whether he is willing to begin his presidency estranging the same Watergate issues that doomed Richard Nixon's, sources say.

WASHINGTON — House Republicans elected to the 97th Congress select Rep. Robert A. Michel of Illinois as their leader.

ALBANY, Ga. — Several hundreds blacks march through Albany for the second straight school day to demand that a white teacher be fired for forcing a 7-year-old black girl to wash her mouth out with soap.

Snow and freezing rain leaves a glaze of ice an inch thick that is expected to "glaciate" on the highways and rips down power lines in many towns and cities from Oklahoma to Minnesota.

PLYMOUTH, Mass. — Clutching a Bible, Dana Green and her husband Gerald are freed after facing contempt charges for fleeing Massachusetts nearly two years ago to obtain Mexican Laetrile treatments for their leukemia stricken son Chad.

NEWTON, Mass. — A program allowing homeowners who convert from oil to gas heat to donate their leftover oil to charity is announced by Ethel Kennedy, wife of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

BOSTON — The mass transit shutdown lasted only one day and service is back on schedule. But patrons of the MBTA fare more rerises in the months ahead.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 — Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y. introduces Rep. Robert Michel after a House Republican conference yesterday. Rep. Michel is the new House Minority Leader for the 97th Congress.

New Leaders On Right

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—House Republicans elected Rep. Robert H. Michel of Illinois as their leader in the next Congress and Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi to the No. 2 leadership position.

Meanwhile, House Democrats began the process of re-electing their current leaders, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts and Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas. With both men unopposed for re-election, the only question mark on the Democratic side was who would be appointed majority whip.

Brademan is Defeated

The current majority whip, Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, was defeated for re-election.

Rep. Michel is expected to be minority leader in the next session since the full House selects the speaker and Democrats will retain control of the House in the next two years. But Republicans were publicly optimistic that Rep. Michel could become speaker in 1982.

Continued on Page 8, Column 1

Too Much Reading Getting You Down?

Well, maybe it should. Today, our knowledge is exploding so fast that people who want to keep ahead are in a rush falling behind. There's simply too much to read. Too much homework. Too many books. Too many reports and memos.

What's the solution? Learn how to read faster and better.

You can do it, too. So far over 1,000,000 other people have done it. People with different jobs, different IQ's, different interests, different educations. Students, businessmen, housewives.

These people have all taken a course developed by Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. They have at least tripled their reading speed with equal or better comprehension. Most have increased it even more. Some increased it 10, even 20 times.

Think for a moment what that means.

Our average graduate can read the typical novel in less than two hours. They can read this ad in 20 seconds. They can read an entire issue of Time in 35 minutes.

They don't skip or skim either. They read every single word. Nor do they use machines. Instead, they let the material they're reading determine how fast they read.

And mark this well: they actually understand more and remember more and enjoy more than when they read like you. That's right. They understand more, they remember more, they enjoy more.

This is the same course President Kennedy had his joint Chiefs of Staff take. the same one Senators and Congressmen have taken, and the same course successfully completed by thousands of persons in Boston and New England over the past 19 years.

It's seven weeks long, 2½ hours a week, with classes held regularly in Boston, and suburbs.

The next classes are forming for the January period. The classes will meet twice weekly for 3 weeks, 3 hours each meeting.

At a greatly reduced rate, you will receive the regular Reading dynamics course and the nationwide return privileges.

Special Class for Independent Activities Period
January 6-22, 1981
Students from M.I.T., Wellesley & all Boston students from the 5-College Area
Classes at 380/402 Massachusetts Avenue
(3 minute walk from Student Center)

Outstanding Student and Faculty Group Rates for information call 536-6380

Evelyn Wood READING DYNAMICS INSTITUTE
17 Arlington Street • Boston Massachusetts

!!! A FREE MOVIE !!!

Love Affair
or
The Case of the Missing Switchboard Operator
Part of the Yugoslavian Film Festival
December 10 8 p.m.
Thompson 102
In Serbian with English Subtitles
Presented by the Fine Arts Council & Governor's Program Council with assistance from the Anthropology Dept. and Pub. Relpons

Union Records Unlimited

proudly presents

HOLIDAY SPECIALS

2-RECORD SET
BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN THE RIVER
Including Hungry Heart, The River, Cadillac Ranch, Sherry Darling, The Ties That Bind
PC2 36854 "The River" is 20 Springsteen songs on four sides. It's the ultimate Bruce.

list price $15.98 on sale at $9.59

Specially Priced 2-RECORD SET
KENNY LOGGINS ALIVE
Includes five versions of "This Knight's Too Is It"
Whenever I Call You "Friend" (Plus 10 more)
CZX 36738 His first live solo album is a must for everyone who has sung along at Kenny's concerts. Get your's now!

Specially Priced 2-RECORD SET
EARTH, WIND & FIRE GREATEST HITS/LIVE
Including "Let's Talk About It" On The Road Back/Let's Turn It Into Something Good And/Love Don't Live Here Anymore
KC2 36795 Just look at them, and you can feel how great it sounds.

Specially Priced 2-RECORD SET
heart GREATEST HITS/LIVE
Including Heart's Greatest Hits and Heart Live. Both on this double album!
KE2 36888 The ultimate Heart! Heart's Greatest Hits and Heart Live. Both on this double album!

list price $11.98 on sale at $7.39

list price $13.98 on sale at $8.59

COLUMBIA RECORDS

Sale runs to Saturday Dec. 13 We close for the semester on that day. Come by and check out our many other in-store specials. Thank you for your patronage and enjoy your holidays!

AEROSMITH'S GREATEST HITS
Including Dream On/Walk This Way/Sweet Emotion/Come Together/Back In The Saddle
FC 36865 Ten of the hits that have made Aerosmith one of America's favorite rock and roll bands.

MOLLY HATCHET BEATIN' THE ODDS
Including Satisfy The Rambler/Dead Giveaway/Some Part/Bounce Passport/Beatin' The Odds
FC 36572 When all about you are losing their heads . . . reach for Molly Hatchet's new album, "Beatin' The Odds."

list price $8.98 on sale at $5.59

ELVIS COSTELLO TAKING LIBERTIES
Including Clean Money/Girls Talk/Radio Sweetheart/Getting Mighty Crowded/I Don't Want To Go Too Chelsea
JC 36839 Elvis Costello clears the decks and presents 20 songs considered by some to be too precious for previous EC LPs.

THE PSYCHEDELIC FURS
Including Sister Europe/Pulse/Imitation Of Christ/Mr. Jones/Into You Like A Train/Fall/Pretty In Pink/She Is Mine/Dumb Waiters/Soap Commercial PC 36844 The Psychedelic Furs' debut album is now seven years old!

list price $8.98 on sale at $5.89

"YOUR STUDENT-RUN RECORD STORE"

Teach-in Postponed Due to Koffler Illness; Actions Planned

By STEPHEN MORAN

Amherst, Dec. 8—The faculty union's teach-in will be postponed to the first day of next semester's classes, Massachusetts Society of Professors president Peter D'Errico announced today.

Also, Mr. D'Errico will recommend that professors refrain from direct grading, a faculty job action that seemed almost certain last week.

Members Want to Demonstrate

The announcement came after a meeting of the MSP Executive Board, where board members decided not to cancel the convocation, or teach-in, because of pressure from the general membership to visibly demonstrate against the slow pace of contract negotiations. The professors have worked without a contract since July 1.

"I haven't heard one professor say the convocation should take place on Wednesday," Mr. D'Errico said. "Everyone agreed it would be inappropriate after hearing the bad news about Chancellor Koffler."

Faculty Wants Postponement

But Mr. D'Errico said the professors only want to postpone, not cancel, the convocation. He has called a general membership meeting for tomorrow to discuss alternative actions the union will pursue.

Any decision to cancel the direct grading job action must come by majority vote at Wednesday's general membership meeting.

Professors to Picket

Mr. D'Errico disclosed that professors would picket the offices of James Krumsiek, chairman of the Board of Trustee's ad hoc Labor Negotiation Committee. The committee oversees faculty negotiations and the full board meets its February session.

"Krumsiek is the Springfield police union's attorney. We will appeal to the policemen not to hire a person who is trying to bust or union," said Mr. D'Errico.

Elections Disrupt Sylvan Government

Continued from Page 1

Judiciary if he had a complaint. Atkinson said Miss Mueller later told him students would still be able to vote while she was counting the ballots.

'Boxes were Closed on Time'

"The ballot boxes were closed on time," Miss Mueller reiterated last night. "I closed all the ballot boxes personally, beginning at 7 p.m. There s witnesses to everything, but I don't know their names."

Miss Mueller said the ballots were counted in a private room in Brown and McNamara and only counted in the lobby of Cashin because no other location could be found.

In addition, Mr. Atkinson also charged that the Brown ballots were not counted until Saturday morning because the key to the box could not be located. This was confirmed by Mr. Ferretti and Miss Mueller.

Eckhardt 'Knew He Won'

Mr. Atkinson also charged that Mr. Eckhardt, the winning candidate, had said to him and to others on Friday evening that he knew he had won the election.

"I heard him say that he had won around 7:30 on Friday," Mr. Atkinson charged. "But the results were not posted until Saturday."

Mr. Eckhardt denied saying he had won and said that as far as he knew on Friday, he was leading in Cashin and McNamara.

SGA Attorney General Selection To Take Place Tomorrow

By PAUL BASKEN

Amherst, Dec. 8—Candidates for the position of Student Government Association Attorney General will be selected by Wednesday morning for consideration by the SGA re presidents said chairman of the SGA's search committee.

Chairman Scott Cashman said the committee met tonight to discuss applicants, and will hold interviews for the position today.

Three candidates will be presented by the committee to SGA re-Presidents Richard LaVaire and Richard Moran, who will then submit one for final approval at Wednesday night's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting.

Cashman refused to reveal the number or names of candidates which applied. He said it was desire of the committee to keep all information concerning candidates confidential until the completion of the selection process. Cashman also said he contacted Legal Services, through which he was advised of the committee's right to either release or withhold any information concerning candidates and procedures of such a selection committee.

Court releases Greens

Continued from Page 1

"The court accepts their apology," Judge Keating said. He found the couple guilty of criminal contempt but decided to impose a fine or jail sentence.

"This matter will be brought to a close," Keating said.

The state was represented by assistant attorney general Jonathan Brant, who had obtained the original order in 1978 requiring the Greens to treat the child with conventional therapy.

Child might have lived

"There is no doubt in my mind that if the Greens had remained in Massachusetts, Chad would be alive and well today and about to celebrate his fifth birthday," Brant said after the court session.

"I would hope the tragedy of this case would show all parents that no one our children all the love, nurturing and medical attention they require."

The Greens were represented by John McLaurin of Monsonteer Falls, Wis., attorney for a group called Christian Legal Defense.

Love was "compelling"

"Their love for their child was so compelling that they pursued a course of action that they thought would be beneficial to their child," McLaurin told the judge. "They believed that their child could be spared from this dread disease. Only God has control over life and death and he chose to take Chad home."

Fled to Tijuana

After fleeing Massachusetts in January 1979, the Greens took Chad to Tijuana, Mexico, where he underwent treatment that included Laetrile. He died, shortly before his fourth birthday, in October 1979.

The federal government has banned interstate shipment of Laetrile, a chemical derived from bitter almonds and peach and apricot pits, on grounds that it contains cyanide and has not been proven to be of any therapeutic value.

Chad was buried in Hastings, Neb., home of Dana's mother, Betty Barton.

The Greens have been staying at undisclosed sites in northern New England in recent weeks.

Responding to Brant, Mrs. Goen said at a news conference "only God knows" whether Chad could be alive today if his medical treatment had been different.

"It's unfair to reason one way or the other. Some parents have been more fortunate and we are happy for them," she said.

Christian responsibility

"They came back because they wanted to exercise their Christian responsibility to the court regardless of the consequences," said McLaric.

"They plan to settle down, gain their roots, become active in a local church and serve the Lord."

Moon Church Group On Campus Only To Present Ideas

By CATHY CLABBY

Amherst, Dec. 8—The Collegiate Association for Research and Principles (CARP), a national student organization often associated with the Unification Church of Rev. Sun Myung Moon, is at the University of Massachusetts only to "present ideas" said Martha Crocker.

Although the group believes much of Rev. Moon's philosophy, they do not plan to recruit University students to the Unification Church or their organization, Crocker said.

Efforts Met With Controversy

CARP's recruitment efforts last spring were met with controversy. The organization was accused of being a "front" for the Unification Church by a Board of Governors member.

CARP will sponsor a talk by Richard Panzer, advertised as a former anti-war activist, on "New Ideas For Change" at 4 p.m. today in the Campus Center.

CARP member Karen Stanley, who reserved the room for the session, said she could not say specifically what Mr. Panzer would speak on. She said the talk will have a "personal dimension on how we can bring about positive change." Mr. Panzer was unavailable for comment on his speech.

Talk is Third in Series

Ms. Stanley said the talk is a third in a series sponsored by CARP in efforts to "get people thinking about problems in the world." The first speech, held two weeks ago was on "Historical Jesus" and last week's session also featured Mr. Panzer Ms. Stanley said.

CARP Seeking RSO Status

CARP is not a Recognized Student Organization at the University but members are looking into how to become one, Ms. Stanley said.

Ms. Stanley said CARP advocates social change and the group "is unhappy with the status quo but does not agree with leftist ways such as violent revolutions."

Ms. Crocker said the organization is not a part of the Unification Church but that "people who join CARP believe many of Rev. Moon's idea."

American Response To Iran Brings Hopeful Response

Continued from Page 1

said the Carter administration is still waiting to hear officially from Iran.

The U.S. clarification of its first answer "has come closer to solving the problem," Hashemi Rafsanjani told a news conference in Tehran on the 401st day of captivity for the 52 Americans.

U.S. Takes Clear Steps

"In the past the U.S. has accepted our demands in principle," he told reporters. "But this time it has taken more clear steps to executing them."

One prominent Iranian legislator who said he had not seen the American letter but had heard about it took a different view, saying the second reply was less positive than the first one. Mohammad Khamenei, in a telephone interview from Tehran, also said he thought Mr. Rafsanjani was referring to his news conference, not the second.

Comments Directed at Reply

But Mr. Rafsanjani's comments seemed clearly directed at the new American reply, delivered to Tehran on Thursday by Algerian diplomatic intermediaries.

The Parliamentary leader's assessment came just one day after Behzad Nabavi, head of the Iranian commission studying the hostage issue, said the new word from Washington was favorable to Iran.

Rafsanjani Replies

Asked about a Nabavi statement that the issue would be returned to the Majlis if the United States accepted some of the four conditions and rejected others, Mr. Rafsanjani replied:

"We the Majlis have given our final opinion about the hostages. I do not think that the subject will return. If the U.S. meets our demands, and it seems that they want to, the problem will be settled."

U.S. Reply is Vague

Mr. Rafsanjani stressed that the original U.S. reply was vague in meeting the conditions adopted Nov.2 by the Parliament, or Majlis. But there were few unanswered questions in the new message which has been under study for several days, he said.

"The U.S. has moved forward in executing our demands and the rights that we have claimed," he said.

Watergate Haunts Haig

Continued from Page 1

trarter, said last week he had not yet received any offers from Mr. Reagan.

Senate Would Be 'Irresponsible'

"I've always been willing to bend over backward a little bit on a new president's Cabinet choices," Mr. Byrd said at his weekly news conference Saturday. "However, it would be irresponsible of the Senate if General Haig's name is submitted not to take a very close look at his Watergate role. I think the questions raised are serious enough that it is possible he would not be confirmed."

But Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., who becomes majority leader Jan. 3, told reporters in Las Vegas that he felt Mr. Haig would be confirmed if Reagan picked him.

'High Regard' For Mr. Haig

"I have a high regard for General Haig. I have known him for a long time and he's qualified. I think he would be confirmed," Baker said.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, also told reporters he "would not be embarrassed at all defending Haig's role as Watergate."

Choice Is Questioned

But Mr. Stevens said some people have questioned putting a former general in the nation's top diplomatic post. The last career military officer to hold the job was Gen. George Marshall, who served under President Harry S. Truman.

A Reagan transition team spokesman, who asked not to be identified, refused to speculate on who Mr. Reagan will pick for the State Department.

But asked about Mr. Byrd's objections and their affect on Mr. Haig's chances, the spokesman said, "I don't think it affects that one way or the other."

Chances Are Lessened

There have been published reports quoting other undersulted transition team members as saying Haig's chances for the post have been lessened.

Appearing Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program, Reagan foreign policy adviser Richard V. Allen, said he had no inside information on who Reagan would pick for State.

But Mr. Allen said he did not feel Mr. Haig's role in Watergate would disqualify him.

Mr. Haig has never been linked to any Watergate wrong-doing, but some reports have questioned whether he played a role in the scandal that led to Mr. Nixon's downfall and his possible involvement in arranging for Mr. Ford to pardon Mr. Nixon.

Students protest draft registration outside post office

Continued from Page 1

Amherst resident Elaine Jones.

The group was concerned that 18-year-olds would start to register for the draft out of habit, Sloss said that they want to make eligible males aware that they have alternatives other than registering.

Statement Read

The 20-year-old Urban Studies major read a statement of why the protesters were at the post office. Included in the statement as an urge for all people who know 18-year-old males to approach them, talk to them and make them aware of what the results of registering could be.

Mr. Sloss said the act of registering is just complying with the system, and that by complying the chances of doing away with the draft are lessened. He did not register last summer because he said he felt strongly enough about trying to stop the United States' policy of foreign intervention.

"We (the individuals who did not register) had a greater chance of stopping induction," Mr. Sloss said.

He added that 3 million males did register last summer and if President Carter wanted to stop foreign aggression, he had the available manpower to do it.

"All the News That's Fit to Print"

This replica of the New York Times was produced by:

City Desk	Andrea Atkins
Page Design	Suzelle Fouelmache
Headlines	Sarah Schahi
Photo	Scott Burke
Special Assistants	Fran Bayrle
	Carol Rosenberg

Composing Room — Mary Kinneavy, Janet Milstein, Danny Guidera, Bob Carr and Andra Armstrong.

Based on an idea familiar to Adolph S. Ochs

Got something on your mind? Let people know in a letter to the Editor

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!

Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

Amherst Gulf

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW

(formerly D & M Sunoco)
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
call
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst
catering to the Campus Area

The Student Government Association is accepting applications for Attorney General.

Applications and information about this position are available in Room 420 Student Union Building (Student Senate Office) or please call 545-0341. Women and Third World students are strongly encouraged to apply.

Applications due today at 5 p.m. in Student Union 420

GIFTS

rainbow prisms

The Flower Cart

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst

Among some of its activities, the Afro Pic Group serves lunch one and outside the "Afro Booth" found at the ground level of the Student Activities Performing a traditional dance are (l to r) Ruth Ann Fraser, Kim Lockett and Alan Cowan. Students and Ed Pinto. (Staff Photo) Find out the relationship of the booth, sociologist that project, its size talent that history when song sells and singers at its fourth.

8:00
TONIGHT!
IF YOU ARE
LOOKING FOR FOOD,
ACTIVITIES, MUSIC, AND
AN ALL ROUND EXCELLENT TIME ATTEND HOLIDAY FEST
AT THE ONE AND ONLY
SOUTHWEST

Finals Bring Colds and Flu, University Health Official Says: Button Up Your Overcoat

By VICKIE BATES

University Police Arrest Five, Four Taken into Custody

By DANIEL CHALEFF

Alarms Cost University

Students Arrested Soliciting Stranger To Buy Liquor

By CARLA LANE

"So Who Needs Peace Corps?"
A good question ... with only 800,000,000 citizens ... That's how many Americans are too poor to be developing world volunteers.
Information Meeting
Wednesday, 10 Dec. at 7:30 pm
Campus Center, Rm 8-408
Movie Slides Former Volunteers

skyscope
Natural Foods
Juice
Coffee

Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
CLASS OFFER
• Intermediate and advanced "Cantonese"
• Intermediate Reading in Chinese
• Intermediate Writing
• Conversation Practice
Accepting applications for all courses
For more information and Counseling
Chinese Language and Cultural Studies
P.O. Box 1486, Cambridge, MA 02142
Tel. 617-547-6370

The $69
FACE LIFT.
Visit Bausch & Lomb Soflens Contacts
Save on Soflens Vision Center

presents
The Wilma Project of Philadelphia
PEOPLE ENERGY THEATRE

COME SEE WHAT
The Hatch has hatched
IT'S FIESTA TIME
at the
Hatch Fiesta Cantina

Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Students Are Third Party

How to avoid the sting

Letters

Memorial more than just stone

Justice at Greensboro?

Red baiting

Hillel Open To Everyone; Provides Social Function As Well As Support System

By JUDI JASUREK

Editor's Note: the following article is a part of a series on recognized student organizations which will appearing until the end of semester.

Hillel, a part of B'Nai B'rith Hillel, which means children of the covenenth, a registered state organization at the University of Massachusetts that provides a way for students and members of the community to practice the Jewish religion in any way they desire.

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

"The club provides a way for Jewish people to exercise their Judaism through social, cultural, or any other means they want," said Mark Mendel, president of the organization.

Judaism is not a Pre-requisite

However, people don't have to be Jewish or religious to join Hillel Mr. Mendel said. The club sponsors several activities that are not Jewish orientated such as dances and films," he said.

There's no way everyone is Jewish," said Mr. Mendel.

Some people attend Sabbath, others do not, so the club is there to let people practice by their choice, he said.

Club has Social Functions

He said the club has social functions, dances, coffee houses, speakers, free films, and two services a week.

Wendy Spivak, off campus student, said that even though she has only attended a few functions, she has enjoyed them.

Hillel sponsors women's week

Hillel Sponsors Women's Week

Amond the activities Hillel sponsors is Women's Week, held each year in the fall.

The activites this year highlighted a performance by the Rabbi Mime and Dancer, Lynn Gottlieb, a performance of Jewish involvement theatre by the actress Sally Fox, and a celebration of the women's Rosh Hodesh, a Jewish new moon ceremony celebrating cycles, renewal and rebirth.

"Women's week is held to celebrate the existence of Jewish women and their connection with women's culture," said Elizabeth Dworan, administrative assistant and secretary for Hillel.

Culture can Strengthen Feminism

"During the week we explore the connections between feminism and anti semitism. Jewish culture can strengthen feminism, and through this anti-semitism can be fought," she said.

The group advisor, Saul Perlmutter, is both a rabbi and a social worker who conducts some of the services and holds rap sessions.

Some of the sessions they offer include a Jewish identity group, a groups for people who have suffered a death in a family, a session for people out of interfaith relationships, and a session for children of Holocaust survivors, Perlmutter said.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian/S. Rosenblatt

Mark Mendel, president of Hillel, reads over some memos in his office.

Flying Club Opens Horizons

BY KEN ROSS

Editor's Note: The following article is part of a series on recognized student organizations which will be appearing until the end of the semester.

For 15 years, Five college students have had the opportunity to get out of the classroom and into the sky.

The University of Massachusetts Flying Club was started in 1965 by Jim O'Connell to give students and faculty a chance to learn to fly.

Mr. O'Connell, of the University Accounting Department, said the club contracted a plane for members until 1974, when it purchased a 1978 Cessna two-seater.

Members Receive Cut Rate

Andrew Gibson, treasurer of the club, said members receive a cut rate for flying time. Instructors are not supplied by the club but there are instructors available at Franklin Airways, Turners Falls, where the club flies from, Mr. Gibson said.

"Going rates at private airports for flying time go from $30 to $40 per flight hour. We just increased ours to $16 (from $15)," said Mr. Gibson.

Group Meets Once a Month

The club's president, Joel Shapero said that the group meets once a month to see films and listen to speakers.

Mr. Gibson said the idea of the meetins to to "update the members in current events related to flying, show informative films and, above all, stress safety."

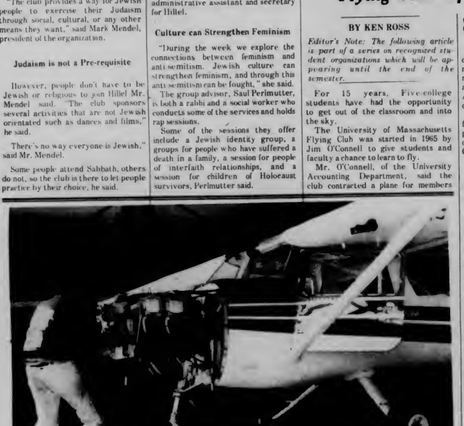
Speakers in the past have included memers of the Federal Aviation Association, veteran war pilots and past members of the Flying Club.

Students Get Flying Experience

By joining the club students get to experience flying. The first sense of airlessness when taking off comes as a complete surprise, Gibson said. After becoming airborn, the sights below gain full attention. At nightfall, the streets are a maze of lights and the mountains seem to roll on forever.

Sounds are Non-existent

The sounds below are non-existent; all that is heard is the wind and the steady humm of the airplane's engine, Gibson said. While at the controls, the pilot can rise or drop two thousand feet in a matter of seconds.



The Massachusetts Daily Collegian/D. Harrold

The UMass Flying Club plane receives some routine maintenance from Gary Bohonowicz, mechanic and flight instructor at Turners Falls airport.

Second 'Blue Monday' in Two Weeks On Wall Street, Despite Active Trading

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 8—Rising interest rates and mounting international tensions sent the stock market into its second "blue Monday" in as many weeks in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks tumbled 22.53 points to 933.70 today. That was the third biggest drop for a singled day in the blue chip average so far this year.

It fell 23.89 points only a week earlier, on Dec. 1 and dropped 23.04 points on March 17, the Monday following announcement of last spring's tough credit control measures.

Interest Rates Mar Confidence

Analysts said rising interest rates, which make interest bearing investments increasingly attractive and increase the costs of margin accounts for stocks, abd undermined investor confidence.

And developments in Poland and heightened tensions between the United States and Soviet Union, threw in "a wild card" that aggravated the pessimistic mood of the market, said Monte Gordon, a stock analyst at Dreyfus Corp.

The market's broad decline hit most market secotrs and by the close of New York Stock Exchange trading, losing issues outnumbered gainers by a7 to 1 margin.

Big Board Action is Active

Big Board volume was a fairly active 55.39 million shares, up from 51.99 million in the previous session.

Among actively traded issues, Storage Technology dropped 1 1/2 to 22 1/4; K mart fell 1/2 to 16 1/8; International Business Machines lost 1 1/8 to 6 3/8; and Eastman Kodak dropped 2 to 65.

Gold and Silver is Lower

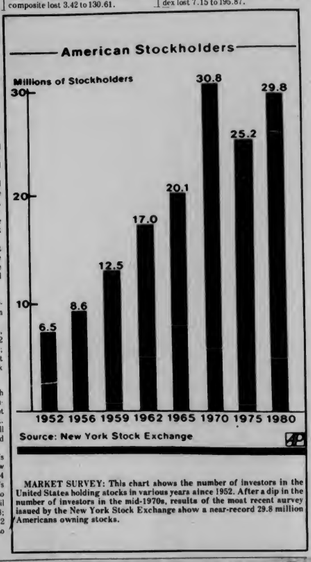
Gold and silver stocks, which often rise when international tensions increase, were also swept lower in today's galloping retreat. ASA Ltd. feel 2 1/2 to 76; Campbell Red Lake Mines fell 2 1/4 to 61 and Dome Mines lost 3 3/4 to100.

Oil stocks, which led Friday's market into a broad decline that saw the blue chip fall by more than 14 points, continued to lose in today's trading. Superior Oil fell 11 1/2 to 206 1/2. Among actively traded oil stocks, Texaco lost 1 1/2 to 45 3/8; Gulf lost 3/4 to 44 1/4; Mobil fell 2 3/8 to 80 and Exxon lost 1a 5/8 to 78 1/2.

Composite Index Loses

The NYSE composite index lost 2.04 to 75.12. Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks dropped 4.02 to 149.17. The S&P 500 stock composite lost 3.42 to 130.61.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index tumbled 12.90 to 342.27. In over the-counter trading, the NASDAQ composite index lost 7.15 to 195.87.



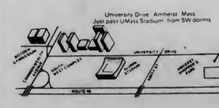
MARKET SURVEY: This chart shows the number of investors in the United States holding stocks in various years since 1952. After a dip in the number of investors in the mid-1970s, results of the most recent survey issued by the New York Stock Exchange show a near-record 29.8 million Americans owning stocks.

FIRST TIME SHOWN ON CAMPUS
BRUCE LEE
GAME of DEATH
S.U.B.
Wed. Dec 10 7, 9, 11

VALLEY BOOK SHOP
Thousands of Used Books
in good to new condition
at fabulously
low prices
Carriage Shops Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Daily Friday 'til 8
Sunday 12-5

TURF DOCTOR
New England's largest Lawn Care Company will be conducting interviews for Sales & Service positions on December 11 at the Hampshire House.
An introduction to Turf Doctor & the Lawn Care Industry will be held Dec. 10 at 7 p.m., CC 165-169.
Appointments for interviews must be made at the Hampshire House.

STADIUM
U. Mass. Amherst
KEGS— WINE—
BEER— LIQUORS
LIQUORS
Miller & Miller Lite 12 oz. bot & can. 7.99 case
Pabst 12 oz. bot. 6.90
Weidemann 12 oz. bot. 5.49
Lowenbrau 9.50
Molson (Golden) 9.90
Castillo Rum 1.75 litre. 9.39
Jim Beam 1.75 litre. 10.59
Cossack Vodka 1.75 litre. 7.99



Save money—Save gas—Save time
10 a.m. – 253-5595 – til 11 p.m.

Photographic Posters
Classics by the Great Photographers
of the Nineteenth & Twentieth Centuries
Open Tues-Sat 10-5:30
Pratt Gallery 37 So. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002

Come and visit our world!
discover why DUNGEONS & DRAGONS has become the most popular game on college campuses throughout America!

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS
The original game of fantasy role playing.
in the Campus Center UMASS
the University Store

Arts & Leisure

Play Brings History to Life Entertainingly: Performed in Style of Greek Drama

By KEVIN DOUGHERTY
Special to the Collegian

"The Liberty Dance of Ilenry Sparrow," a dramatized journey through the years surrounding the American Revolution, played at the Rand Theater this weekend. I have always found history to be somewhat boring, yet this play, written by Edward Emmanuel, brough the Revolutionary era to life in a very interesting form.

Ancient Greek Drama Format

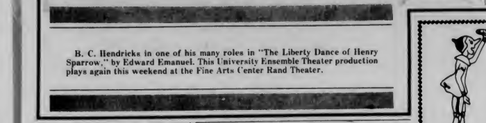
The play was reminiscent of the ancient Greek plays with the chorus, and a thespian, who usually acted as a narrator. During the course of the play, each of the chorus members portrayed several important characters of the Revolutionary period. The famous people were depicted as people with honest-to-goodness personalities; they were sensitive, imperfect, thoughtful and even funny. The atmosphere of each of the segments in the play was aided by slides of the period displayed upon the different sized rectangular boards suspended in the background.

Although the play follows a chronological course, it is a bit in consistent at times. These in consistences are quietly cleared up, and they do not distract greatly from the production. For the most part, the unification of the show is achieved successfully by the narrator, Ilenry Sparrow, portrayed by the guest artist, Mr. James Huston.

Having the chorus echo certain words and phrases is very effective in creating an ambiance of the unity of the peole, as well as singling out Henry Sparrow. A drummer, flutist, and guitarist remain in the rear of the stage throughout the production, and they add to the mood of the era and accentuate the action on stage.

Play Invites Imagination

Every member of the chorus performs admirably and entertainingly. Their characterizations are nothing short of marvelous. Even though the set is simple, props are non existent, and the costumes are not especially bright or creative, the actors bring the stage to life. Through their words, one is able to see red coats, guns, and...blood. In other words, the play puts your imagination to work.



B. C. Ilendricks in one of his many roles in "The Liberty Dance of Ilenry Sparrow," by Edward Emanuel. This University Ensemble Theater production plays again this weekend at the Fine Arts Center Rand Theater.

Poor Acting, Bad Script Shadow Dismal Opening of Amherst Festival

By JULIA SYKES

The opening of the December Festival of One Act Plays was presented Friday night by the Department of Dramatic Arts of Amherst College at the Fayerweather Theatre. The Festival began with "The Collection" by Harold Pinter, "The Twelve Pound Look" by Sir James Barrie, and "A Message From Cougar" by Jean Malleau.

"The Collection" is a psychological drama which parallels two domestic situations — one homosexual, the other heterosexual, and examines the consequences which arise when one infringes upon the other. The natural tension of the play was somewhat undermined at the outset by some unidentifiable technical clangings but the sympathetic audience was soon willing to overlook the matter. Unfortunately, however, the poor actors never seemed to overcome their initial nervousness which proved to be rather detrimental to the pace of the play as it went on.

Elizabeth Dillof who played Stella, the supposedly unfaithful wife, seemed to be reading her lines off her chest since she rarely showed her face to the audience and spoke her lines with all the syllabic stress of one reciting part of an epic poem in high school.

Michael Gardiner who played the "wronged" husband gave us moments of insight into the character through his subtle facial expressions but for the most part allowed his lines to tumble out one after another thus preventing any climactic points in his speeches. Ezra Barnes as the middle-aged, well-to-do homosexual looked suspiciously like a mannequin at times and shouted rather loudly when off-stage while Jon Larson, the bright young thing often fell into the trap of appearing over effeminate.

It is a great pity that the most impressive part of the performance was its conclusion. The four actors managed to bring the play to the emotional climax it deserves where the two couples stand juxtaposed in a transfixed pose on the verge of hysteria. Whether this was the genuine state of the actors or not, one could not tell.

By contrast, "The Twelve Pound Look" was a delight to watch. Rastically ironic look at the rise of feminism in an atmosphere of British pomp and circumstance, J.M. Barrie translates his meaning beautifully in that essential pun, which is the title of the play. As successful men gain twelve pounds in weight around the stomach, so it takes twelve pounds (money) for a woman to become successfully liberated from her husband.

The performance had conviction and panache and was sensitively directed by Katie Pretwell who managed to steer the characters away from falling into stereotypes. Costume and set were used imaginitively, and convincingly evoked the early Twentieth Century period they were supposed to.

The third play, "A Message From Cougar," was a bizarre piece about an obscene phone caller who created his own special code to transmit smutty messages. The meaning of the play which was well hidden behind a barrage of superfluous language, seemed to lie in the fact that sexual desire is repressed and perverted by pressures of convention. Yes, very cliched I agree, but not as much as the pitiful punch lines incorporated into the dialogue. Both script and action were sadly lacking in direction and coherence, and one couldn't help wondering whether or not there had been any blocking during rehearsal (or any rehearsal at all) since half of the time the actors ended on top of each other for no apparent reason.

Cougar, played by Andre Luger seemed to be actually playing a student showing off to a student audience rather than a credible character. Mark Jones who played is "sensitive" brother-in-law had, at times, some graceful body movements, but at others was tragically gauche, especially in the handling of props.

Right Actress in Wrong Play

Sarah Bloom as Tracy, the failed femme fatale, really was the right actress in the wrong play. After a point there was little her talent as an actress could do with such a redundant script and two co-actors who didn't know their right foot from their left.

LaPeste Captivates Boston Audience

By JIM MORAN

By JIM MORAN

La Peste, a three man punk outfit from Boston, played to an enthusiastic legion of fans gathered for a concert by Boston's 1980 Rock and Roll Rumble winners Pastiche, who were cancelled after promotional advertisements announcing the gig were published.

But it didn't really matter. The trio more then captivated the crowd, kept people on their feet virtually every number they did, and offered a nice contrast to the opening act, the local Paper Dolls.

Three Chord Politics

La Peste opened their 23 song set with the fast-moving "Sing-along," kept up the pace of three-chord rock through several rousing numbers, including "Bourne," "Takado Road," and "I Know You." Two more melodic numbers were "Moscow" (perhaps a precursor to the planned gig by the Soviet Union in some Warsaw pub) and "Crisis" (perhaps a statement on how Jimmy Carter conducts his political forays).

Evening Provides Contrast

As I've said, the evening provided contrast, and there's no doubt that La Peste was a hard-line "punk" band. Completing and compliment ting, then, the night's entertainment in every way was the more melodic, bordering on mid sounds of Paper Dolls.

A Nice Dance Band

The groups did two sets, of about a dozen songs each, including "I Shouldn't Do This to Me" and "I Thought You Knew," from their recently released single, "No Cause," "Don't Play Fair," and a new ditty called "Nightlife," among others. Vocals were shared between guitarists Johnny Steele and Peter Pen and keyboardist Dave Wildman.

The bass work, supplied by Ramones influenced Lisa Paparazzo was especially effective on tunes like "APB" and "I Shouldn't Do This." Drummer David Doll (could this be his real name?) kept a solid, though not overwhelming backbeat to the repertoire. All in all, a nice dance band that we should be hearing more from on a larger scale one day soon.

New Leaders On Right

Continued from Page 2

Republicans Pick Up 33 Seats

Republicans riding the conservative tide that swept Ronald Reagan to the presidency, picked up 33 seats in the November elections, cutting the Democratic margin to 243 192. And with congressional reapportionment moving nearly a dozen Democratic seats from the North to the more conservative Sun Belt area of the South and West, they are optimistic about taking control of the House in 1982.

Rep. Michel was selected over Rep. Guy Vander Jagt of Michigan by a vote of 103-87 as House Republican members of the upcoming Congress met for the first time as a group.

Lott Surprises Shuster

Rep. Lott surprised Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa. by a vote of 96-90 to take the No. 2 slot. Rep. Shuster blamed his defeat in part on a feeling among Republicans that one leader should be from the North and another from the South.

Rep. Michel immediately served notice that Republicans would be on the offensive when the next Congress convenes in January and that he would battle the Democratic leadership over the ratio of Republicans to Democrats on key committees.

O'Neill Wants to Keep 2-1 Majorities

Rep. O'Neill said last week he wants to keep the 2-1 Democratic majority on the three most important committees—Rules, Ways and Means and Appropriations.

Rep. Michel said by r[illegible] the majority ought to be 5-4, considering the size of the Republican bloc in the House.

Republicans to Protest

"We've got every responsibility to go to bat for that kind of ratio," he said, terming a 2-1 ratio "exorbitant majorities."

He told the Republicans who had just elected him their leader, "We're going to be on the offensive. We've got to be affirmative in our position and forward-looking. And the bottom-line is enactment of the Reagan program."

say it with a cookie...
THE COOKIE HUT
Happy Birthday to one sweet cookie give a 1 lb chocolate chip cookie decorated to order with your personalized message. call 586-8570 to place your order.
Hampshire Mall Hadley, MA.

UMass Rugby Club
Raffle Winners
$50. - Daniel Goldstein
Mystic Valley Parkway,
Medford, MA
$100. - Katherine Howard
366 Puffton
$200 - Beth Aaron
1203 Coolidge

BILL BANSLABEN
"MAGICIAN"
"Star of the 'Choromagic' Show"
is now doing shows, private parties & lounges
Contact: B. J. Productions
at (413) 667-3288 (anytime)
or Area Manager (Jim)
at 546-7539 between 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO
Amherst
Harvard Square
Home of the only authentic Italian pizza in Amherst
We Feature
12" and 16" pizzas
Foot-long grinders
This weeks special
For every small pizza 2 free coca cola cans
For every large pizza 3 free coca cola cans
This offer good up to and including
Friday, December 12
FAST, FREE DELIVERY
549-3669
Open from 11 a.m. until 3 a.m.
1177 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

!!! A FREE MOVIE !!!

Love Affair
or
The Case of the Missing Switchboard Operator
Part of the Yugoslavian Film Festival
December 10 8 p.m.
Thompson 102
In Serbian with English Subtitles
Presented by the U.Mass Arts Council & Governor's Program Council with assistance from the Anthropology Dept. and Prof. Halpern

the rusty nail Inn
Dec. 12 & 13
Wednesday & Thursday
MARTIAN HIGHWAY
no cover 25c Drafts Wednesday
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

WEEKLY GUIDE

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

Saturday

Sunday

Holiday

Anytime

NRBQ Remains True to Heritage

Seconds of Pleasure: Doldrums Dispelled

Tuesday
OLDIES
TWO FOR ONE
MIC PUB
AMHERST

SUPERIOR PIZZERIA
Offers Favorite Pizza
FREE DELIVERY
546-0630

Poor Richards
Thursday Special
Beat The Clock
All Drinks
All Drinks

amc THEATRES

Every Wednesday and Friday
ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Howard Johnsons
Rt. 9, Hadley

SPECIAL PRICE
on staedtler-mars pen sets

The Collegian is looking for an
ASSISTANT FINANCE MANGER
Duties include assisting Finance Manager in collection of account receivables. Good communication skills needed. Experience with customer relations helpful. (Approximately 8-10 hrs. weekly) Contact Vicki or Lori at the Collegian 545-3500

UMass Arts Council Funding Deadline
Applications for Arts Council Funding of arts related events to be presented during the months of February/March '81 must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10th. The UMAC Office is located in 125 Herter Hall (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.
Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.

DINING OUT

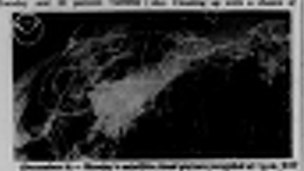
LUNCH
Barbecued Beef on Bun
Egg Roll Fan Tan's

BASICS LUNCH
Barbecued Frankfurter
Egg Roll Fan Tan's

DINNER
Fish Fan Tan Fried Chicken
Roast Pork Egg Foo Yung
Roast Duck Lo Mein

BASICS DINNER
Spiced Casserole
Fan Tan Fried Fried Rice

Weather



Crossword Puzzle

Annual Collegiates Ski Weeks
6 Days 5 Nights
Jan. 4-9
Jan. 11-16
Jan. 18-23
Jan. 25-30
Mount Snow
Vermont
$169 $143
Includes
• Deluxe Accommodations
• 5 Day Lift Tickets
• All Breakfasts
• All Dinners
• All Taxes, Services and Gratuities
Collegiate Ambassador
GALA REGISTRATION WELCOME PARTY
SIGN UP NOW
DEBRA JOHNSON
545-0120

Collegian Classifieds

• Copy is Collegian Office (G 113) • 8:45-4:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 2:00 two days before publication (for the next issue) • Cancellations must be made before 2:00 deadline • Corrections must be made before 12 noon the first day of publication • Phone 545-3500

FOOTBALL

BASKETBALL

Hoopmen tangle with Bryant

See Stories Below

Dolphins Defeat Patriots in OT, 16-13 See Story Below

Sports Tuesday

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1980

Clay Berglund

Cleveland's Found a True Winner

Dexter captures Eagle's ball perfection at the parallel bars. The gymnast took Gymnastics Saturday.

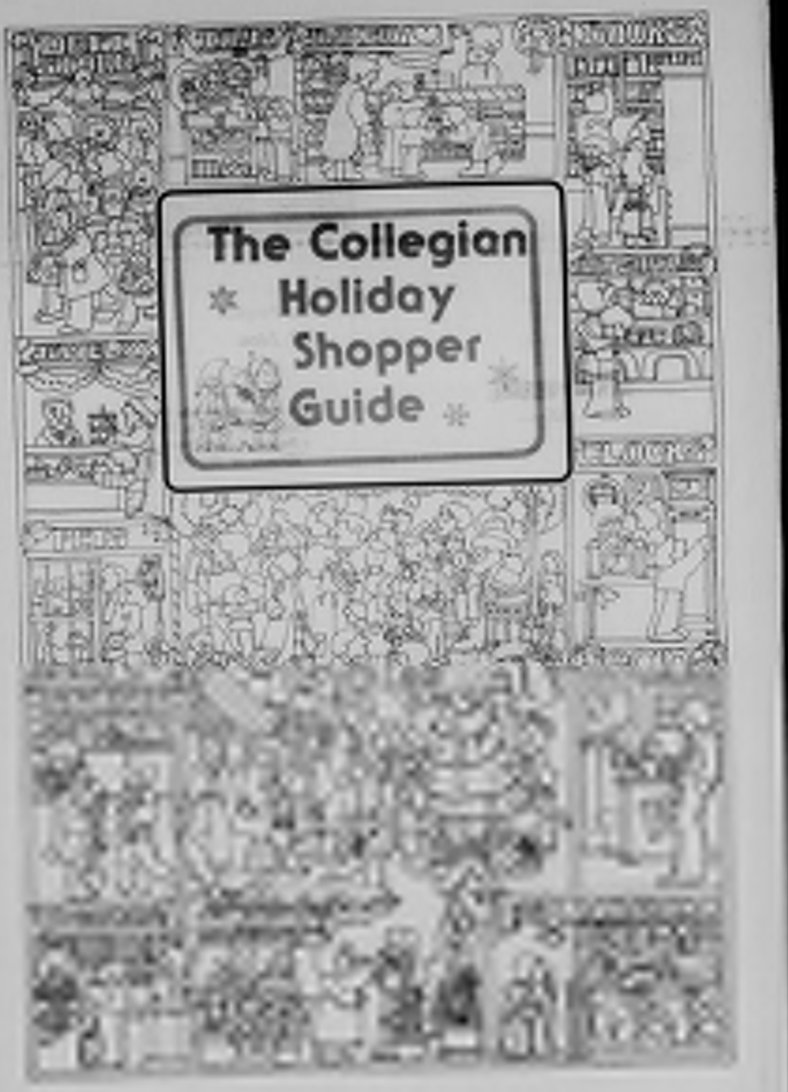
Cagers Battle Bryant College

O'Neill, Gauthier qualify, Gymmen Sixth Overall

Miami jinx continues, 16-13 OT

Minuteman Notebook

The Collegian
Holiday
Shopper
Guide



WAX N WANE

Holiday Sale

20% off

- Blouses
- Sweaters
- Skirts
- Dresses

Chic Jeans $22.95

Chic Cords $24.95

WAX N WANE

Downtown Amherst

Chicopee Fairfield Mall

The Collegian and its advertisers wish you a very safe and happy holiday season.

Styles by Deborah

The Perfect Gift Idea

A personalized Gift Certificate

Treat Your Favorite Person to a Total New Look in Style or to a Deluxe Facial Treatment or Manicure Haircut or Design Perming

Styles by Deborah

I

II

COSMIC WIMPOUT

BASIC GAME

$1.99

THE COSMIC WIMPOUT BASIC GAME — EVERYTHING NEEDED TO LEARN AND PLAY ONE OF THE MOST ENJOYABLE AND UNIQUE GAMES AROUND!

$5.95

HOME COURT GAME

The University Store

Come meet the new addition to your collection of

Lang of Sudbury

Our signature print granny gown has a pretty hearts and flowers design.

100% Cotton flanelette available in: XS, S, M, L sizes

CEMA

HO HO HO! ... The ideal treat for those with a holiday sweet tooth, chocolate fantasy pops.

(Staff photo by Cheryl Senter)

Holiday Treats

Sugar Cookies

½ cup shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 egg
4 tsp. milk
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt

Cream shortening, sugar and vanilla. Add egg and milk. Beat till light and fluffy. Sift together dry ingredients and blend into creamed mixture. Divide dough in half and chill at least one hour.* Roll on lightly floured surface to 1/8 inch thickness and cut desired shape with cookie cutter. Bake at 375 degrees on ungreased cookie sheets for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool and remove. Makes about three dozen.

*Until what half is really for me?

Sugar cookies are good but giving an inexpensive pleasure. Colored sugar on the tops when the cookies are cool adds all the more will make them more festive. This recipe was taken from The Better Home and Gardens New Cookbook, available at most stores and I.M.

Fruit Cake

3 cups Jiffy mix
1 28 oz. can ready to use mincemeat
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
2 tbsps. vegetable oil
2 cups mixed candied fruit small jar red and green candied cherries
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 tbsp. rum or sherry

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease and flour bottom pan. Combine baking mix, mincemeat, eggs, milk, [illegible]

Carrot Cake

1 cup butter, softened
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
4 eggs
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained well
2 cups (about 1 pound) carrots, shredded
1 cup raisins
2 tsps. vanilla
3 cups flour
2 tsps. baking soda
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. ground ginger
½ tsp. salt

Cream pineapple with pressing out excess syrup with the back of a spoon. Cream butter and sugars until fluffy and light. Beat in eggs until blended. Stir in pineapple, carrots, raisins and vanilla. Combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon, ginger and salt. Add flour mixture to the mixture one cup at a time, beating well after each addition. Pour into a greased and floured tube pan. Bake at 350 F. about 80 to 90 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool and frost. Cream Cheese Frosting

Cream Frosting

1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
½ cup butter, softened
1 tbl. fresh lemon juice
1 tsp. freshly grated lemon peel
1½ cups sifted powdered sugar

Cream together cream cheese and butter until light and fluffy. Beat in lemon juice and peel. Gradually beat in powdered sugar until well blended and smooth.

HOLIDAY SPECIAL

30% OFF DIAMOND EARRINGS

A place with character presents

J. Austin Jewelers on the common Amherst 253-7986

More treats. . .

Pecan Lushes

Shrimp Butter Dip

final photo by Cheryl Seaton

Toyland

Bells Pizza House

Do the words "Good Taste" ring a bell?

Bell's Pizza

Sun.-Thurs. 11-1 am
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 am
65 University Drive
253-9051 549-1311

- Small & Large Pizzas
- Grinders
- Spaghetti
- Tossed & Green Salads

LUNCHEON SPECIALS & DINNER

Area's Largest Selection of Prints, Wall Hangings, Jewelry, Jewelry Boxes, Bake Sets, Asian Antiques (Great Wrapping Stuffers) Across from K Mart

It's time to send our FTD Holiday Glow Bouquet

What do these names have in common?

DIOR

CHLOE

OPIUM

MALSTON

COLLECTIBLES

Customs characterize Christmas

When It Comes to Color We Have A Rainbow

Posters • Flyers • Programs
Hamilton L. Stowell, Inc. Printing
65 University Drive, Amherst

549-5000

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

suggests:

Fine Arts Center Tickets Make GREAT Holiday Gifts!

INSTANT CASH

For your unwanted Gold & Silver
We buy anything marked 10K, 14K, 18K, or sterling because of the weight!

CLASS RINGS

bring big bucks
For appt. call Ralph 546-6477

We Pay In Cash

SKI MAPLE VALLEY VT.

- Student Season Pass $150
- Less than 1 hour from UMass
- Fridays excluding Holiday Weeks $5
- Season Pass good all 5 Friday $35
- Holidays & Weekends $10 with a Student ID

Rte. 30 W. Dummerston VT
800-334-6060

WINE BUYERS!

Mix or match
6 corked 5th size bottles and get a 10% discount!*

C & C LIQUORS

Holiday Happenings

Men's Nite Holiday Fashion Show

Entertainment

Brewster Gloucester

FREE FRYE BOOTS

2 pairs of Frye Boots will be given away each week in December.
No purchase necessary
Drawings are held on Friday nights.
Over 50 styles to choose from.

HOLIDAY HOURS
Mon - Fri 10 AM - 9
Sat 10 - 6 Sun 1 - 5

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst
Open 10-6 Mon - Sat
Open Fridays til 8
253-9126

THE SWEATER STOP

57 King Street, Northampton
(Next to Friendly's)
Telephone 413-586-5447

LARGEST & FINEST SELECTION of SWEATERS for Men, Women and Teens at DISCOUNT PRICES

Also:
Free Parking available in front of store

Christmas Hours
OPEN
Monday thru Saturday
10 to 9
Sunday
12:30 to 5

SAC-ON-TIRES

ROUTE 9 HADLEY, MA

TIRE SALE

BIAS PLY SNOWS

	WHITE	BLACK

RADIAL ALL SEASON AND SNOWS.
ALSO AVAILABLE AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

586-2244

The Stables

Opposite Mt. Farms Mall

Stop in After Shopping and join us for Homemade Soups, Deserts, and Daily Specials

Open Nightly till 9 pm

DOWN IN THE VALLEY

SAVE 35% 60%

DOWN OUTERWEAR FOR THE FAMILY

WE'RE OPEN!
GRAND OPENING
IN DOWNTOWN AMHERST!

Ladies Down Coats (X-Large, Limited Colors/Styles)	90.00
Children's Parkas	20.00/30.00
Women's Parkas	50.00
Men's Down Vests	20.00/30.00
Men's Parkas	30.00/60.00
Men's Down Coats	25.00/40.00
2nd Quality Ski Suits	2.00

OPENING SPECIAL
MEN'S ALL DOWN VESTS (Value to Sell $50.00) 30.00

197 N. PLEASANT ST., AMHERST
AND MAIN ST., WILLIMANSETT, MA.

GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES

Secret Santa Gifts
Stocking Stuffers & Gifts (Mostly 25¢ to $5)
Jewelry & Blouses & Skirts
Tree Ornaments & Cards & Posters
Crystals & Boxes & Tins & Vases
Wallets & Mugs & Tee Sets
Imported Soaps & Framed Prints
Calendars & Totes & Mobiles
Memos & Combs & Pins

Many Goodwritten Specials!
SUNDAY 12-5 P.M.
DAILY 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
5:30 P.M. WEEKNIGHTS
DEC. 13-23

THE MERCANTILE

CARBUR'S

Restaurant & Lounge

Famous Since 1978

Elmwood Shops
Rt. 9 Hadley 586-1978

THE GREAT-ES-SKATE

DOWNTOWN AMHERST / 256-6004 (across from the fire station)

SKATE SALES & RENTALS

10% Off With This Ad

GROUP RATES & PARTIES • OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK...10-5

Amherst Golf

Trouble Shooting
Disc Brakes
Tune-Ups
Fuel-Injection
Exhaust Systems
Electrical
Suspension

FIAT SPECIALIST

Honda
Volvo
Datsun
Toyota
Subaru
Saab
VW
Capri
Fiat

Formerly D & M Sunoco
Skilled Auto Mechanics
Foreign & Domestic Auto Repair
Open 7 Days a Week
256-8936
48 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Center of Amherst

catering to the Campus Area

DELANO'S

TONIGHT

from Connecticut
MIKE BEAUDOIN on guitar
9 PM till Dollar Cover

HAPPY HOUR
3-6 PM Mon-Sat 9-11PM Sun-Thurs
75¢ RAIL DRINKS
2 for 1 DRAFTS
(free hors d'oeuvres 3-6)
57 North Pleasant St.
Downtown Amherst

MUSIC GALLERY

Check out our Christmas Red Tag Sale!
40% off on all Red Tag items now through Christmas
Rte. 9 Hadley
586-6228
Mon-Sat 10am-6pm Tues-Fri 10am-8pm

AFTER CHRISTMAS COUPON
Good for 20% off on all merchandise
Dec. 29 - Feb. 28

Some musical plastic disks

By ROB HUFFMAN
Collegian Music Editor

These are a few of the records that I recommend for this holiday season:

The Specials — More Specials, (Chrysalis): More two tone tidbits from England's best known ska band. Strides a suitable balance between angry social commentary and sing along party music.

Oak — Set The Night On Fire, (Mercury): No longer confused with Black Oak Arkansas, Oak polishes the sound of their second album at Alabama's Muscle Shoals recording studio. Bo Derek fans will especially like "She's An 11".

Father Guido Sarducci — I Won't Be Hosting This Christmas, (Warner Bros.): This holiness makes a poignant yuletide statement which approaches Sparks' "Thank God It's Not Christmas". The flipside of this single is a version of MacArthur Park" sung in Italian.

Dolly Parton — 9 to 5 Odd Jobs, (RCA): You haven't lived until you've experienced Ms. Parton's rendition of "House of the Rising Sun."

Levon Helm — Levon Helm (MCA): No surprises from this former member of The Band. America's friendliest drummer gives us a few funk offerings and a few special guests, but mostly just straight ahead, fun music.

Mellow Bert — Great Big House, (Viggh Industries): Featuring pedal steel virtuoso Hayley Rising, this one's destined to become a classic period piece.

Sadao Watanabe — How's Everything? (Columbia): Japan's foremost tenor sax stylist in recital at Budokan with an all star American back up band. This two record set sparkels, swings, and satisfies.

Creedence Clearwater Revival — The Royal Albert Hall Concert, (Fantasy): No kidding! These gents did "The Mid night Special" long before Wolfman Jack. This specially priced disc makes available a previously unreleased concert from 1970, and once again proves the curative powers of this consummate American band's unadulterated rock 'n' roll.

John Hartford — You and Me At Home, (Flying Fish): Best known for penning Glen Campbell's hit "Gentle On My Mind", Hartford is a superb fiddler and banjo picker. He's also blessed with a deep, rich, voice, and a lot of nifty friends, who help him out on this fine record.

The Tim Ware Group — The Tim Ware Group, (Kaleidoscope): Led by mandolinist composer Ware, this acoustic string quintet plays marvelous, indescribable music somewhere in between David Grisman and Bela Bartok.

The English Beat — I Just Can't Stop It, (Sire): The members of this group range in age from 19-50. Songs inlcude a remake of Smokey Robinson's "Tears Of A Clown", and the beautiful, though melancholy "Can't Get Used To Losing You".

Magazine — The Correct Use of Soap, (Virgin): Under the direction of ex Buzzcock Howard Devoto, Magazine is one of the most exciting, thought provoking bands to come out of Britain in years. They use synthesizers to great advantage in creating their dark, disturbing, sound.

ONLY four more Collegian advertising days. Advertise now!

John & Rudy's AG Store
Rt. 116 Sunderland 665-2010
"at the center of town"
All types of Beers, Wines & Champagnes
Full line of Fresh Fish, Lobsters, Steaming Clams, Oysters and Custom Cut Meats
We Accept Food Stamps
OPEN 8A.M.-6P.M. DAILY
'Til 8P.M. Fri. 8A.M.-11A.M. Sun.

Gifts with Style
Gift Certificates
curling irons
and many more special products for your kind of hair
Regency Hairstylists
189 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, MA

DAVID Northampton

Mt. Katadin . . . water resistant, warm and cozy. Molded sole and lined shank with laced top for super comfort. In natural and wine. By Sporto

33.00

DAVID BOOT SHOP and THE BOOTERY
221-227 Main st., Northampton 584-3272 or 584-9011

Read the Collegian

The Sheep Shop
Fine Yarns & Needlepoint Supplies
YARN SALE
All Wool
$1.89
Reg. $2.50
Many Christmas Gift Items
Gift Certificates
549-6106

The Old Mill
Your one stop
Christmas Shop
Gifts % Crafts % Cards
Save at the Mill not the Mall
Located on Rt 63
100 ft north of
North Amherst Post Office

For the Holidays
Here to Compliment
You Both

MYSTIQUE & MOUSTACHE
THE ULTIMATE IN HAIR DESIGN
233 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
telephone 253-2540

Make it Special™
BURGER KING
Buy one WHOPPER JUNIOR sandwich, get another WHOPPER JUNIOR free.
Please present this coupon before ordering. Limit one coupon per customer
Void where prohibited by law
This offer expires 12/15/80
Good only at
Mtn. Farms Mall, Rt. 9, Hadley

Spirit Haus
YOUR HEADQUARTERS FOR HOLIDAY SPIRITS
LARGEST SELECTION OF IMPORTED BEERS, FINE WINES, CORDIALS AND CHAMPAGNE
GREAT GIFT SETS
338 COLLEGE STREET (RTE 9 EAST) AMHERST
OPEN TILL 11 P.M. TEL. 253-5384

A blazing fire and a good book

By SUSAN RING
Collegian Book Editor

This Christmas there is a sleigh full of books to give, recieve, and curl up by the fire with. In case of a blizzard be sure to have a copy of James A. Michener's latest epic on hand. The Covenant is 874 engrossing pages of the history of three families in South Africa. Michener has once again expertly fused historic research and lucid narrative.

Carl Sagan offers some insight into those "glorious start(s) of old," in Cosmos, his current best seller.

Speaking of glorious stars, Ingrid Bergman's My Story has recently been released. Bergman takes a candid look at her love affair with Hollywood and the scorn with which she was treated because of her personal life. She discusses it and the struggle to regain the ability to work in the U.S.

Lauren Bacall's By Myself is out in paperback. Admirers of classy writing and acting on your Christmas gift list will treasure this book which is complete with photos of the stunning Bacall and her adored friends (naturally including late husband Bogie).

Classy bag lady Mary Kathleen O'Looney is a character certain to reaffirm the faith of staunch Vonnegut fans and endear him to newcomers who read Jailbird, available in paperback.

Book sets of classic paperbacks by writers such as Kurt Vonnegut Jr. are sure fire gifts. The authors' works available in these sets appeal to a great number of audiences. Everything from Judy Bloom for the younger folks you shop for, to Tolkein and Erma Bombeck is prominently displayed in the book stores.

For the creative child on your list Hallmark has come out with The Book About Me and My Christmas Fun, which has spaces for drawings and notes dealing with Christmas traditions. Hallmark also publishes an attractive pop up edition of The Night Before Christmas.

Christmas stories and illustrations to be enjoyed by the whole family are bound beautifully in the Saturday Evening Post Christmas Stories, and the Norman Rockwell Christmas Book. Bring on the snow!

UMass offers counseling

Between exams, final papers and the hecticness of the holiday season, you may find yourself under more stress than usual. Here is a list of counseling agencies on campus to help you deal with this:

*Bilingual Collegiate Program — Wilder Hall, 5-1987. General/academic personal counseling for Hispanic students.

*Committee for Collegiate Education of Black Students — New Africa House, 5-0031. Personal/academic counseling for minority, low income.

*Student Dev. & Counseling Ctr. — Berkshire House, 5-0333. Psychological/career counseling.

*Everywoman's Center — Wilder Hall, 5-0883. Career/vocational/personal counseling, for women's issues.

*Placement Service — 201 Hampshire, 5-2224; Credentials & Career Library 5-2226. Career placement/counseling.

*Older Student Service Network — 309 Berkshire; E-27 Machmer; DDB 5-1555 for basic referrals & staff hours. Support, advocacy & referrals for older students.

*Foreign Students Office — 239 Whitmore, 5-2843. General counseling/information/migration for foreign students.

*Gay Hotline — 1130 Student Union, 5-0151. General counseling for gay students.

*Handicapped Student Affairs — 227 Whitmore, 5-2685. General counseling for handicapped students.

*Hillel — 302 Student Union, 5-2526. General/Jewish counseling/info. on work study in Israel.

*Mental Health — Hills North, 5-2337. Psychological therapy, crisis consultation for all students and dependents if health fee paid.

*Newman Center — 472 North Pleasant, 549-0300. General/sacramental counseling ministry for Catholic students.

*Psychological Services — Tobin Hall, 5-0011. Lab and training facilities/psychological counseling.

*United Christian Foundation — 428 Student Union, 5-2661. Ecumenical approach general counseling ministry

*Veteran's Affairs Office — 238 Whitmore, 5-1346. General/group coun. in to. job bank for vets.

Monday-Saturday
10:00 AM-5:00 PM
Next to the Hatch
545-0400

Last day of Business:
Saturday, Dec. 13

FINAL SALE

50c Off All Albums In Stock*

Thank you for your semester-long patronage and enjoy your holidays.
* Excluding in-store specials

"Your Student-Run Record Store"

Ready for the ski season?
(Staff phot by Cheryl Senter)

To mall or to mail? A buyer's dilemna

By SUSSANNE SAVOIE
Collegian Staff

SUNSPOT

Gift Certificates
Available

DAVID Hardy

33.00

DAVID BOOT SHOP
and THE BOOTERY

ONLY FOUR MORE DAYS LEFT!

Offered in the Collegian to the Campus Center
University of Massachusetts

Photo Lab I
Mr. Fanny Mall
Phone 413 584-4400

FUJI COLOR FILM
INTRODUCTORY OFFER
110 12 Exposure Color Print
ONLY $1.99
with this ad
REGULAR PRICE 2.95

SUPER LENSE SPECIAL
TOYA ONE-TOUCH AUTO ZOOM
XS - MACRO
80-200mm
Reg $14.95
$179.95
KODAK
KODACOLOR
DEVELOPING AND PRINTING SPECIAL
12 Exp Roll 2.49
20 Exp Roll 3.49
24 Exp Roll 3.99

Start the Season off Right with Quality and Value

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS

We Want to be Your Ski Shop

EMS has a gift for everyone on your holiday list!

You've Waited Long Enough!

Get Ready to Ski!

$67.50

Down & Synthetic Parkas
• Skis • Knickers
• Running Shoes
Tents • Sleeping Bags
Gloves & Mittens
• Knives • Sweaters
• Books • Binoculars • Boots

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc. guarantees satisfaction with each and every product we sell. If you are not fully satisfied with an item ever purchased, return it, simply return it to us immediately with proof of purchase for exchange, refund or credit.

WE HAVE YOUR NEXT PAIR OF SKIS!

$21.50

EASTERN MOUNTAIN SPORTS

413-253-9004

Rte. 9
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
VISA-MASTER CHARGE-AMERICAN EXPRESS WELCOME

Store hours 9:30-5:30
SAT 9-5:00
SUN 12-5

Open Every Sunday From Now Until Christmas

OVERSEAS AUTO PARTS

Famous Name Christmas Gifts
For the Automotive Enthusiast
Cibie, Accemark, Amco, Ansa, Supersprint, Weber, Koni, Bilstein, Recaro, Mahuteau, VDO, Hella, Bosch, Lucas.
10% off thru Dec. 31, 1980
with this ad
Zayre Shopping Plaza
Rt 9 Hadley, MA 01035
Tel 253 3483

API
authorized API distributor

Happy Holidates

December

9	13	16	21
10		17
11		18	22
12	14	19	23
		20
	15		24

Open thru Dec. 23, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. December 24 'til 5 p.m.

THE EARTHWARES COLLECTION

Luscious Colors
Sensational Textures
Beautiful YARNS & FABRIC

HOLIDAY HOURS

EARTHWARES

LOOKING FOR THAT SPECIAL HOLIDAY GIFT? There's something for everyone at the Fine Arts Center. . .

OSCAR PETERSON

Sunday Feb. 1, 1981 8 PM
$9, 8, 7 (General Public) $8, 7, 6 (Senior Citizens) $4.50, 4, 3.50 (UMass Students)

LES GRANDS BALLETS CANADIENS

Sunday Feb. 8, 1981 8 PM
$8, 7, 6 (General Public) $7, 6, 5 (Senior Citizens) $4, 3.50, 3 (UMass Students)

THE NATIONAL THEATRE OF THE DEAF

Tuesday, Feb. 10, 1981 8 PM
$7, 6, 5 (General Public) $6, 5, 4 (Senior Citizens) $3.50, 3, 2.50 (UMass Students)

AIN'T MISDEHAVIN

Thursday, Feb. 12, 1981 8 PM
Good seats still available

Tickets, gift certificates, phone reservations available at the Box Office (M-F, noon - 4 p.m. through Dec. 19 and after Jan. 19) For more information call 413-545-2511.

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

Hallmark & Gordon Fraser and Caspari Christmas Cards
Cranes and Eatons Stationary
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

ALL YOU CAN EAT
Barbecued Spareribs
SERVED DAILY 'TIL 10 P.M.
Includes:
• Barbecued Spareribs
• Potato & Coleslaw
• Rolls & Butter
ALL YOU CAN EAT $3.95
An outstanding lunch or dinner value — Try this new addition to our daily features.
James H. McManus eating place
Zayre Shopping Center
Rte. 9
Amherst/Hadley line
256-6889
Open 7 a.m./'til 3 a.m. Sunday-Thursday
Friday & Saturday - All Nite

International Galleries
CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEAS

frame your own artwork or Choose a print by a favorite artist Largest Selection Lowest Prices
Many framed prints on SALE
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1398
Thornes Market 586-3964

The Perfect Christmas Gift
Nylon All-Weather Running Suits from Nike. Bill Rodgers Frank Shorter and New Balance New Shoe Arrivals From Tiger and Nike
Great Assortment of Stocking Stuffers
Runner's Shop
Athletic Clothing & Footwear
(behind Faces)

FLYING FEET OF AMHERST
THE STORE FOR ACTIVE PEOPLE

CLOTHING
actionwear warm-ups
swimsuits

SKATES
hockey
and figure

SHOES running basketball tennis

... and much, much more.

Mon. & Sat. 10-6
Tues., Thurs. & Fri. 10-8
Wed. 12-8

Open Sundays 12-5

175 University Dr.
Amherst
253-3354

Massachusetts
Daily Collegian

Volume CX, Issue 67 | Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA | Wednesday, December 10, 1980

INSIDE...

NATO requests surveillance planes

North Atlantic alliance sources said yesterday that NATO defense ministers requested the dispatch to Western Europe of four sophisticated U.S. surveillance aircraft in connection with the Polish crisis.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union has sharpened communications with its military forces, and has moved trucks toward the border in preparation for possible intervention in Poland, U.S. officials said yesterday.

Page 3

Iran, Iraq trade heavy blows

Iraq and Iran, in some of the heaviest fighting of the Persian Gulf war, yesterday claimed that fighting at the besieged Iranian oil refining city of Abadan killed a total of 620 soldiers.

Page 3

Board of Regents tackles bonus pay

The new Massachusetts Board of Regents is wondering whether it can convince the legislature to let it hand out more bonus pay to faculty and administrators.

Page 3

Moran delays naming Attorney General

SGA co-President Richard Moran last night said he will not name a new student Attorney General at tonight's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting.

Page 6

Sylvan elections declared invalid

The election of Officers to the Sylvan Area Government, held last Friday, was declared invalid last night by the Undergraduate Student Senate Coordinating Committee.

Page 6

Knapp outlines amendments

University of Massachusetts President David C. Knapp has outlined his plan for amendments to the reorganization bill. He made his remarks at a press conference held at the faculty club on the Amherst campus.

Page 2

Rain and snow cause slick roads

A mixture of snow and rain fell on the Amherst area last night, causing hazardous driving conditions, but apparently not causing any serious auto accidents.

At press time last night, Amherst police reported no weather related accidents in the area.

Weather reports predicted snow and sleet turning to snow last night, with light accumulation. It will be clear, windy, and cold tomorrow, with the highs in the twenties.

This picture is from the cover of Double Fantasy, the recently released album by John Lennon, featuring his wife Yoko Ono. Behind them is the Dakota apartment building where Lennon was fatally shot Monday night. (AP Laserphoto)

Lennon's death produces varied reactions

By J. ADAM BAILEY
Collegian Staff

The sudden shooting death of ex-Beatle John Lennon produced reactions varying from tears to indifference in students at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

A Pierpont resident said her roommate cried for two hours after she heard the news.

"I was surprised and a little upset," said Susan Gamer, Liberal Arts major from Brookline.

"It was very sad, an end of an era," said Nancy Jane Bailey, 23, an electrical engineering major from Sunderland.

That was the mood across the country. "I really feel a part of me is gone," Manhattan resident Jane Dzielak said.

"It's a drag," said Ralph Pearsall, 19, a mechanical engineering major from Boxford.

The sales of Lennon's and Beatles records skyrocketed in the Amherst area and around the world.

"We sold out of John Lennon within 10 minutes of opening," said Larry Conn, manager of Union Records in the Student Union at UMass. "The people just came in and grabbed the records," he said.

"Sales definitely increased 10 to 20 times normal," said Ken Reed the owner of Main Street Records in Northampton.

In New York, Sam Goody's record store sold out of 500 copies of Lennon's last album, Double Fantasy, yesterday morning, Bernard Bornstein the manager of the store said.

President-elect Ronald Reagan called the death "tragic."

The man arrested for the shooting, Mark David Chapman, is being held without bail, in New York City's Bellevue Hospital for psychiatric examination.

Reactions from students to Lennons death were similar to those around the world.

In Liverpool, England where Lennon was born, John Chambers, head of the local Beatles fan club said, "It's bloody terrible, bloody terrible."

The other ex-Beatles, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr were all shocked and dismayed when they heard of his death.

McCartney will mourn privately, Harrison was reported to be deeply upset and Starr with his fiancee, actress Barbara Bach, arrived at the Dakota the late stars New York City home, under heavy guard yesterday to visit Yoko Ono, Lennon's widow, the A.P. said.

Outside the building on 72nd street, a crowd of about 500 people sang Beatles and Lennon songs, lit candles and prayed.

Yoko Ono said there would be no funeral and asked that his fans all over the world take part in a silent vigil "to pray for his soul." She said that an exact time would be announced later.

La Cucina di
PINOCCHIO

Amherst
Harvard Square

Home of the only authentic Italian pizza in Amherst

We Feature

12" and 16" pizzas

Foot-long grinders

We now feature pineapple pizza

This weeks special

For every small pizza 2 free coca cola cans

For every large pizza 3 free coca cola cans

This offer good up to and including

Friday, December 12

FAST, FREE DELIVERY

549-3669

Open from 11 a.m. until 3 a.m.

1177 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

Knapp outlines amendment plans for Reorganization Bill

By STEPHEN MORAN
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts President David C. Knapp has outlined his plans for amendments to the Reorganization Bill. He made his remarks at a press conference held at the Faculty Club on the Amherst campus.

The amendments will affect the Reorganization Bill, the state standard in the Fiscal Year 1982 State Budget that, unless acted on March 31 and provides for a single "superboard" to replace the numerous boards of trustees.

"The bill's original language is vague," said Knapp. The amendments will clarify the bill's language.

He said the amendments will aim at defining the composition of the Board of Regents, the property rights of the Regents, and the flexibility of fund management rights.

Knapp said the role of the Regents is not clear on collective bargaining language. He wants to make certain the Trustees retain a large portion of negotiating responsibilities.

Knapp said private contributions must increasingly supplement the tight state education budget if quality higher education is to be maintained.

Though education received a high priority in the recent and early session, demographic changes and inflation have led to tight education budgets and even budget cuts, Knapp said. The "golden years are over," he said. Nevertheless, increasing amounts of alumni funds and corporate gifts must all not just to state support.

Knapp vowed to withhold pay from the paychecks of all Boston professors who participated in last weeks school at the UMass-Boston campus, but refused to indicate which paychecks would be affected.

University of Massachusetts President David C. Knapp speaking at a press conference at the Faculty Club. (Staff photo by Nancy Hanley)

"The bill's original language is vague...the amendments will clarify the bill's language."

The president has not decided whether to challenge the job actions of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the faculty union on the Boston campus. He said if he decided the planned concessions and direct grading were an illegal interruption of services to the student community, then he would ask the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission to make an investigation. The MLRC is the state agency which is empowered to intervene in such labor disputes.

!!! A FREE MOVIE !!!

Love Affair

or

The Case of the Missing Switchboard Operator

Part of the [illegible] Film Festival

[illegible]

UMass Arts Council Funding Deadline

Applications for Arts Council funding of arts related events to be presented during the months of February/March [illegible] must be submitted no later than 4 P.M. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER [illegible]. The UMAC Office is located in [illegible] (545-0202). Proposal forms can be obtained there.

Only applications submitted on UMAC proposal forms will be considered for funding.

Too Much Reading Going?[illegible]

Our 11th year of special classes for [illegible] comprehension activities period.

Classes at 380-402 Massachusetts Ave. [illegible]

[illegible]

WORLD AND NATIONAL REPORT

Soviets improve communications on Polish border

By ISAAC SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has sharpened communications with its military forces and has moved tanks toward the border in preparation for possible intervention in Poland, U.S. officials said yesterday.

The officials said improvements in communications in the border area, the increase in truck traffic and the addition of tanks processed to the military network could speed up the carrying out of a command from Moscow to move the border.

The officials also said some military exercises were called up in the Soviet Union, East Germany and Czechoslovakia, and a number of forces units usually in garrison were engaged in field exercises.

This was cited by the officials, who asked not to be quoted by name, as further explanation of the White

(story continues on page 5)

NATO requests dispatch of U.S. surveillance aircraft

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — North Atlantic alliance sources said yesterday that NATO defense ministers requested the dispatch to Western Europe of four sophisticated U.S. surveillance aircraft in connection with the Polish crisis.

The sources, who refused to be further identified, said the request to the United States was expected to be honored and that the airplanes probably would be on their way within 24 hours. There was no immediate Pentagon comment.

The airplanes are known as AWACS, Airborne Warning and Control Systems.

In addition to the four AWACS, there would be two refueling tanker airplanes and they would operate out of U.S. facilities at Rammstein Air Force Base, West Germany, the sources said.

The sources said that the AWACS would be on an "exercise" and accepted speculation that the planes would be sent here in the context of fears that the Soviet Union may intervene militarily in Poland.

The sources said that the request was made initially by Gen. Bernard Rogers, supreme allied commander for Europe, and that it was discussed and approved by NATO defense ministers.

It was stressed by the sources that the AWACS, which are unarmed aircraft, play a purely defensive role. In their presence overhead the planes would merely be used for detection of any unusual movement of forces or Warsaw Pact planes.

The AWACS are stationed Boeing 707 jets equipped with a Westinghouse radar system. The sources said that upwards of 400 U.S. support personnel would be involved to keep the planes flying over an indefinite period of the "exercise."

The operation would be financed by the United States, the sources said.

Two AWACS were sent to Saudi Arabia to monitor the Iran-Iraq war, to help keep the Saudis informed of military movements in the Persian Gulf region.

Large number reported killed in heavy Persian Gulf fighting

By FARIS N. NAHAR
Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iran and Iraq, in some of the bloodiest combat of the Persian Gulf war, on yesterday claimed that fighting at the besieged Iranian oil refining city of Abadan had left a total of 9,000 soldiers.

Iran also said its war planes bombed and burned the major oil loading terminals at Mina al Bakr and Khor al Amaya, which handled most of Iraq's pre-war exports of 2.5 million barrels a day through the gulf.

Baghdad Radio said Iranian gunboats attacked the main supply center of the Iraqi economic forces at Nasiriyah, south of Baghdad. Iraq claimed five Iranian planes were shot down.

The broadcast said Iranian planes struck Iraqi oil installations in Kirkuk, in the north, and at Shaiba, near the southern tip of the disputed Shatt al-Arab, indicating that despite the two countries' pre-war pledges not to strike [illegible]

The [illegible] of Kirkuk [illegible] the oil pipeline [illegible] through Turkey and Syria [illegible] Iraq resumed using recently.

Iraq said its helicopter gunships captured Abadan's giant refining complex that provided 60 percent of Iran's pre-war fuel needs, putting Iran in new parts of the Middle East's largest refinery.

A communique from the Iraqi military command said 420 Iranian troops were killed while Iraqi forces "crushed" a counterattack by the Abadan garrison in an attempt to break a nine-week siege ring.

Iran's official news agency Pars said 200 Iraqis were killed as the Abadan defenders thwarted a tank-led assault on the city's northwestern outskirts.

Amidst in Iran's last major stronghold on the Shatt al-Arab, Iraq has been saying its does not intend to occupy the city, but would rather maintain a siege and bombard it into surrender.

Independent verification of war claims was impossible as the two nations barred reporters from both sides of the 400 mile long battlefront, allowing only [illegible]

Board of Regents to seek house pay for employees

King supports bill to impose boat purchase regulations

proudly presents

HOLIDAY SPECIALS

ON COLUMBIA AND EPIC RECORDS

"YOUR STUDENT-RUN RECORD STORE"

Black Affairs

Love Is You

Is there a conspiracy?

Announcements

News from Student Government

Sylvan elections invalidated as result of long debate

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

The election of officers to the Sylvan Area Government, held last Friday, was declared invalid last night by the Undergraduate Student Senate Coordinating Committee.

Following more than two and one-half hours of sometimes heated debate, the committee vote 7-1 to invalidate the elections after it was determined that the ballot boxes in Coshin Dormitory had been opened 15 minutes before the advertised closing time.

Residents of the Sylvan area had complained earlier this week that the balloting had ended early in the dorms and that the voter of area government Presidential candidate Ronald Eckhardt had staffed a ballot box in Brown Dormitory.

The coordinating committee, based on testimony from residents and senate Governmental Affairs Committee Chair Diane Mueller, decided that no election rules had been violated by Eckhardt's sister staffing a ballot box. But, the committee said, Mueller's opening of the Cashin ballot box at 6:45 p.m. was in violation of the election rules and the Student Government Association constitution.

Last night's actions stemmed from two protests filed with the committee, one by losing presidential candidate Lawrence Madden and a second filed by

turn to page 15

Co-President Moran postpones Attorney General appointment

By ED LEVINE
Collegian Staff

Student Government Association co-President Richard Moran last night said he will not name a new student Attorney General at tonight's Undergraduate Student Senate meeting, as had been previously expected by the senate.

Moran said he received a recommendation early yesterday evening from a nine-member search committee which was formed to deliver possible choices to the presidents. Only one name was submitted to the presidents, from a pool of two applicants, which Moran said was insufficient.

Committee Chairman Scott Cashman said he could not comment on the decision because of a committee vote prohibiting members from discussing the search.

"We fulfilled our charge. Our report has been given to the presidents and they do what they want with it," said committee member Robert Cleary.

Cleary would not comment further on Moran's decision.

Moran also said the committee, which was formed at last Wednesday's senate meeting, did not provide enough time for applications to be submitted. He said the deadline was 5 p.m. Monday, allowing only two days for people to file applications.

"I don't feel all the members of the campus community were given an ample amount of time to apply for the position," Moran said. "We wanted to use as many

turn to page 15

Geary to chair senate committee

By JOSEPH BARRETT
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate Coordinating Committee voted last night to re-elect Senate Speaker Linda Geary chairperson of the committee. The committee also discussed the Co-op Collective hiring policy, plans for intersession, and heard debate on the Sylvan Area Government elections controversy (see related story on page 6).

After Geary was unanimously elected to the chairperson position, the committee decided to make an appointment to the Campus Center Board of Governors, in order to fill a student vacancy on the board. Sandy Greco was approved by the committee to fill the vacancy. Greco has served on the board in the past, and received the support of both the Board of Governors and SGA President Rich Moran.

The Coordinating Committee made arrangements to transfer returning SATF funds into other accounts to hire students for intersession positions to maintain operation over this period.

After allocations had been made for positions discussed, the committee voted to freeze "SATF funds until all the returning funds had been accounted for. This was to insure against overspending.

50c Mon-Sat 10-5 50c Next to the Hatch
Lowest Everyday Prices In The Valley
50c off any album
on any Saturday in December
with this coupon
(excluding in store specials)
"Your Student-Run Record Store"
50c coupon 50c

Butterfield Arts Group
* Facilities will be open to Central, Th, 7-10, Sat 12-4
*Invites everyone to help paint a Subway mural, Sat Dec. 13
*Wishes to thank the following sponsors
— UMass Fine Arts Council
— Central Area Govt.

UMass Ski Club
LAST CHANCE for SUGARBUSH trip. 100 HOTEL SPACES LEFT.
SIGN-UP ON CONCOURSE OR SU, 430 A

Christmas Cards and Stationary at A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant, Amherst

Cosmic Wimpout, Santa Pens, Candy Canes, Pompets, UMass Key Rings, Novelty Pencils, Candy Canes, Pens, Address Books, Snowman Pens, I Love UMass Stickers
Cards, Smuffs, Buttons, Books, Christmas Candy, UMass Stick Pins, Puzzels and Games, Illumination Buttons, Woo Fits, Snow Brushes, Pocket Combs, Posters, Rainbow Designs, Calendars
Secret Santa Suggestions
Open Mon., Tues., Thurs., Fri. 9-5 Wed. 9-9; Sat. 11-4
in the Campus Center, University of Mass.
the University Store

BLUE WALL campus center at u mass
ALL AGES WELCOME
At The Hatch Bar
Wednesday Dec. 10th
TOTAL ELECTIC LIVING
FREE
Thursday, Dec. 11th
HUMAN'S RESPONSE.
$2.50 cover charge
Friday, Dec. 12th
FOUNTAINHEAD
Northern Rock and Roll
$3.00 Cover Charge
TOC sticker & valid ID required to purchase alcohol.

Emily Dickinson

Dickinson's birthday celebrated with poetry reading

By ROB STEIN
Collegian Staff

SOUTH HADLEY—Students and faculty at Mount Holyoke College launched a 24-hour marathon reading of all of Emily Dickinson's poems yesterday in honor of the poet's 150th birthday today.

The first of 150 readers, Elizabeth Kennan, president of the college, read Dickinson's first poem (an unnamed poem referred to as the Valentine poem) to about 80 students, faculty and visitors in a small reading room in the college's library at 4 p.m.

Susan Snively, an English professor and organizer of the marathon said the college is hosting the event because Dickinson attended there from September 1847 to August 1848.

"As long as there have been students at Mount Holyoke there has been an interest in Emily Dickinson," she said.

Dickinson's 1775 poems will be read in chronological order in ten-minute shifts until today at 4 p.m., she said.

Snively said she began organizing the event last spring with two other faculty members and two students.

"The response was very enthusiastic from the very beginning," she said. "People couldn't believe that the reading could last 24 hours, not knowing there were so many poems. It was a crazy idea that caught," she said.

Mary Masi, a 21-year old senior said she volunteered to read because, "I enjoyed reading some of her poems and I think it is important to pay tribute to a woman who was not very well known in her lifetime."

Except for her stay at Mount Holyoke, Emily Dickinson lived all her life in Amherst and died at age 56 on May 15,

turn to page 15

Help Prevent Birth Defects — The Nation's Number One Child Health Problem. Support the March of Dimes BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

SECRET SANTA
Great Gifts - Great Prices
Ornaments - Stocking Stuffers
Hundreds of 25c to $10 items - CARDS
Daily 10 am - 6 pm Sunday 12 - 5 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS

the rusty nail Inn
Dec. 12 & 13
Wednesday & Thursday
MARTIAN HIGHWAY
no cover 25c Drafts Wednesday
Rt. 47 Sunderland, MA 665-4937

BRYN MAWR COLLEGE
GRADUATE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK AND SOCIAL RESEARCH
Master of Social Service leading to practice in Clinical Social Work, Social Service Management, or Social Policy and Program Development Master of Law and Social Policy a post-master's program designed for professionals in Social Work, Administration and Public Policy
For information contact:
Director of Admissions
300 Airdale Road, 107
Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania 19010

American Greetings
Creative Excellence is an American Tradition . . .
CHRISTMAS GIFT TRIMS
OPEN Mon., Tues., Thur., Fri. 9-5 Wed. 9-9; Sat. 11-4
the University Store

GREAT GIFT SUGGESTIONS
Genuine Leather Attache Case
Burgundy or Black * 17½"x13"x3" * Brass Combination Locks * Adjustable Accordian-File Inside Reg. $99.95 Special $79.95
Vinyl Styles from $49.95
Quantities Limited
M-T-Th-Fri 9 am-5 pm Wed 9am - 9 pm Sat 11 am - 4 pm
in the Campus Center Univ of Mass
the University Store

Outing Club provides study diversion

By HANNAH HOSOM
Collegian Correspondent

Editor's note: The following article is part of a series on Recognized Student Organizations which will be appearing until the end of the semester.

RSO
RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Thanks to the UMass Outing Club (UMOC) for the past 53 years, University of Massachusetts students have been able to leave their books behind and go rock climbing, canoeing, and cross country skiing.

Associated with the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association, the club was officially started in 1927. Fifty members drew up the constitution, elected officers, and engaged in many of the same activities as today's UMOC, said club treasurer Ed McGlew. Membership doubled in ten years, and has been growing ever since.

The officers: president Dave LeBlanc, vice-president Hal Halstead, secretary Barbara Bartlett, and McGlew lead a group of approximately 250 members.

Besides the basic organization of the club, they also arrange activities with outing clubs from other colleges, such as hikes, long trips or fall get-togethers, McGlew said.

Club members announce trips which they have planned at weekly meetings, and anyone interested may sign up, said McGlew. These trips are lead by the member who did the planning, and there are usually trips for people of all skill levels, he said.

The outing can be for a single day, a weekend, or up to a week, said McGlew. The equipment for the trip is owned by the club. Boots, skis, or whatever equipment is needed is provided free for members and may be rented by non-members, he said.

turn to page 15

The UMass Outing Club participates in many activities such as canoeing, hiking, and cross country skiing. Pictured here are several UMass students as they launch a canoe and get ready to enjoy the great outdoors. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

Local merchants report good sales despite inflation

By MALCOLM CAMPBELL
Collegian Correspondent

Inflation may have people buying tofu instead of steak but for local merchants it's business as usual.

"Today money is hard to make and harder to keep, and people are trying to make their dollars go farther," said Ted Cosmos, General Manager of Hampshire Mall.

"People are no longer buying what they want. Rather, they are buying what they need," Cosmos said. The "things" business is not doing as well as it has in the past, Cosmos said.

"Price increases have not really reached most consumer items yet," Cosmos said. Some new items are more expensive because of development and marketing costs which have been added into the price of those items, Cosmos said.

"Sales of higher priced goods such as video recorders have not been affected by inflation because people who can afford them aren't concerned by an increase in price," he said.

"Overall, business is superb. Mallwide business this month is up 22 percent over last November," Cosmos said.

Despite some inflated prices, this seems the general consensus of business people within the mall.

"Sales are excellent—better than last year," said Bob Roy of Kay Bee Toy and Hobby. "We've been very busy and expect more of the same," Roy said as he restocked a shelf while directing a mother with two children to a long sought after item.

"Prices are about the same today as last year," he said.

"Business is good now and I expect it to get better. It always does," said Adrienne Lights of Walden Books.

"Prices are up about 10 percent this year," she said. Since people are looking for gift books, the higher priced hardcovers sell well, Lights said. Lights said the store doesn't need to have many storewide sales, although we offer some sales on "remainders" and paperbacks, she said.

Richard Alves, assistant manager of Johnathan Reid Ltd., does not expect this year's six percent price hike on his goods to hurt his company's sales. "At first it looks like its going to be a slow season, then business picks up as we approach Christmas," said Alves.

"These days the public is more aware of quality and is willing to pay more for that quality because it will save them money in the long run," Alves said.

"Business is fine," said Sherry Inamaka, owner of Asian Accent—a fledgling business specializing in oriental art and collectables.

"The initial response has been good, but people are no longer impulsive buyers. They have to come back a couple of times before they decide to buy," said Inamaka.

When asked why he thought business was doing so well, mall manager Cosmos said, "People are buying to escape the doldrums of inflation. Everyone keeps on hearing how troubled the economy is so they go out and consume to console themselves."

Perhaps if the media would stop telling everyone how bad inflation is, the problem of inflation would disappear, Cosmos said.

FIRST TIME SHOWN ON CAMPUS
BRUCE LEE
GAME of DEATH
S.U.B.
Wed. Dec 10 7, 9, 11

Challenge Travel Adventure
Peace Corps/VISTA
Info Meeting
Wednesday, 10 Dec. 80
7:30 pm CC Rm 8 /0408

"So Who Needs Peace Corps?"
A good question. . .with only 800,000,000 answers . That's how many destitute people live in the developing world.
Information Meeting
Wednesday, 10 Dec. 80, 7:30 pm
Campus Center, Rm 8/408
Movie Slides Former Volunteers

Drive to FLORIDA
For Christmas
We Supply A FREE CAR & A FULL TANK OF GAS $20-30 Extra At Delivery you pay for the rest of the Gas & Tolls! ONE WAY ONLY (sorry) Many Cars Now Available to Fla., Calif., & Many Other Cities. (not under 500 miles) Beat the Holiday Rush By Calling Now. Sorry no collect calls.
AAACON AUTO
236-0843 In Hartford

VALLEY BOOK SHOP
Thousands of Used Books
in good to new condition
at fabulously
low prices
Carriage Shops Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Daily Friday 'til 8
Sunday 12-5

PREPARE FOR
MCAT·LSAT·GMAT
SAT·DAT·GRE
Our 42nd Year
• Permanent Centers open days, evenings and weekends.
• Low hourly cost. Dedicated full-time staff.
• Complete TEST-n-TAPE™ facilities for review of class lessons and supplementary materials.
• Small classes taught by skilled instructors.
• Opportunity to make up missed lessons.
• Voluminous home-study materials constantly updated by researchers expert in their field.
• Opportunity to transfer to and continue study at any of our over 80 centers.
GRE PSYCH • GRE BIO • MAT • PCAT • OCAT • VAT • TOEFL • NMB • VQE • ECFMG • FLEX • NDB • NLE • CPA • MSKP
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
Call Days, Eves & weekends
in Amherst
253-5108
264 N. Pleasant St
For information About Other Centers Outside MY State
CALL TOLL FREE: 800-225-1782

BARSELOTTI'S
Whoop & Holler Night
nine till closing
16 oz. Knick & Shot $1.25
Downtown Amherst

Anyone going on the
Sugarbush Trip
There is a
MANDATORY MEETING
TONIGHT ONLY
8:00 P.M.
Bartlett Aud. or call 545-3437

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Hockey happy

Winter is back with its crisp air and cast iron sky, hot soup, snowflakes and high mortality. Mankind, not appreciating what winter already does for the death rate, has invented yet another way to die. One of the more recent inventions is a virus called Stick and Puck, which literally puts many American youths on ice.

Stick and Puck Disease usually strikes young people between the ages of ten and twenty. It is a virulent disease, attacking the brain and obsessing the victim with early hours, sportsmanship delusions and fits of gratuitous violence. Few people understand the effects of the dread disease more than mothers who must drag into the kitchen at three o'clock in the morning to muster up a first breakfast, or fathers who must pick up the whole gang of afflicted team members. Or of course, the doctors who must stitch up uncounted gaping wounds, extricate numerous pucks and stick fragments and assorted muscles and bones, and stitch on an occasional mangled arm, leg or ear.

Ah, the expense of sickness! Stick and Puck Disease requires only the best of medical supplies, which of course means the most expensive. It starts with a special shoe that has a meat cleaver blade for a sole. Then there are sticks shaped like elongated boomerangs, and the miles of friction tape that must accompany them. We're also talking pads, gloves, socks (oh, the best socks with the most stripes!), face masks and sometimes helmets.

Most people who have children or friends afflicted with this ailment of Stick and Puck are understanding. In fact, they may be more understanding than most people who have children or friends handicapped in other ways. Perhaps they see safety in numbers, though epidemiologists might not agree. Most people figure it best to let the wintertime seizure run its course, and do not generally interfere except when the most dire of symptoms arise.

General primary symptoms include the desire to play hockey, the purchasing of zillions of dollars worth of equipment, conspiring with afflicted friends to rent rinks, conspiring with one parent to set ridiculous hours on the alarm clock, and the threat of joining a team.

Secondary symptoms include the actual participation in the derby called "playing hockey." This involves racing about on frozen water in the special shoes with meat cleaver soles, and chasing a black disk with the main purpose of hitting it with an elongated boomerang and making it go into a box made out of chain-link string.

The more dire tertiary symptoms involve broken teeth, missing eyes, broken or missing bones, internal bleeding and occasionally, imbedded pucks. Since it is impossible to play hockey and not get into serious combat, the S and P victim will often spend extra time sharpening up his methods of inflicting tertiary symptoms on other players. This is often called "offensive play." This offensive play, sometimes called "brawling" or "rioting" in archaic times, is one of the most necessary and important aspects of the game of hockey.

Without broken heads and smashed faces, what would the end result of the hockey match be? Nothing but a mere score! Just as the person with mononucleosis needs extended rest, the person with Stick and Puck Disease needs the hockey game. Though scoring is important, prevention of scoring and violence are far more vital to the proper course of Stick and Puck Disease. For, if there were no outlet for the poor young Americans stricken with this woeful winter handicap, how else would these souls get over their sickness?

There are a good number of famous people devoting time on television to good social causes. Every winter, the Big Hockey Teams hold their annual Murderthon. The Murderthon benefits hockey players and fans alike. It teaches Americans to give of themselves on ice. Give of yourself by stick, puck, skate or fist, the professional players teach. The professional players have Stick and Puck Disease really bad. Some are downright terminal.

And what better way to recover from a severe hockey injury, than to spend time in a hospital bed watching hockey games on television?

Steve Masse is a Collegian columnist

Letters

Experimental issue trashed by readers

To the Editor:

I found Monday's experimental issue of the Collegian to be another extraordinarily graphic example of the irresponsible nature that has come to typify this paper. Last week I saw the notices concerning this week's display of alternative formats for the Collegian, but nothing could have prepared me for "Reds Set To Move."

I'm sure if you folks are perhaps missing the point, but whatever your motive is, a point I'd like to bring to your attention is that the issue at hand is war, and the fact that you are willing to make a parody of that issue is almost inconceivable.

I think it is important for you to realize that we as students must become educated, informed and hence powerful in terms of this issue. As a university community who will clearly be affected by war, we need access to an intelligent presentation of information. The posters you see about draft counseling are not just touchy feely Happy Valley sessions—they are for real, as are the threats to ourselves, to the people we care about, and to our very survivial.

Your use of sensationalism is a misguided, frightening and ignorant expression of a horribly serious situation that speaks to us all. Start listening.

Laury J. True
Dana Collier
Martha Casey

To the Editor:

We are sympathetic to the needs of writers and editors to experiment with styles of writing and ideas, but are appalled at the result of these efforts in your December 8, 1980 issue.

The objective of a college newspaper is to inform students, the staff and faculty, of relevant current, local and world events. This objective should not be met through the use of sensationalism. The headline "Reds Set to Move" evokes memories of McCarthyism and the proliferation of yellow journalism. This type of journalistic rhetoric should be relegated to history and is unacceptable today, particularly in an academic environment.

We admire your efforts at innovation and experimentation. However, we feel that models such as the New York Times, the Washington Post, or the Christian Science Monitor would be more appropriate for a university newspaper to follow, rather than a style similar to that of the National Enquirer.

Anne L. Grauer
Michael Schellhardt
Valmyer, Illinois
Debra L. Schindler
Hope R. Wittenberg
(Department of Anthropology)

Editor's Note: The newspaper style emulated in Monday's experiment was that of the New York Daily News, not the National Enquirer. The News is the most widely circulated newspaper in America. We thought there might be something to that and felt it was worthy of imitation.

To the Editor:

The Collegian of Dec. 8, 1980 held a headline that caught my attention and refused to let go for some minutes. The headline read "REDS SET TO MOVE." This immediately conjured up in my mind several thoughts. What, I pondered, could the Collegian mean by the term "red"?

The first idea I had was of the Cincinnati Reds. I'd heard rumors that they were moving to Cleveland, but who wants to play in Cleveland? The Indians certainly don't. Besides, it's football season. This just couldn't be. Then I noticed that there was a subtitle along with this headline. I turned to page two and read.

The article began with a White House quote on Soviet movements around Poland. This brought to mind another possibility. Could the word "red" be referring to the USSR? Or to communism as a whole? But this created thoughts of McCarthyism. Besides, wouldn't that be sensationalism? I looked up the word "red" in Webster's Dictionary. Indeed, one definition of "red" referred to the USSR and Communism. But the term, when used in this sense, is still derogatory to the Russian people and the USSR as a nation. I couldn't believe that my school's student paper would partake in such shoddy journalism.

So the question still remains in my mind. What is a "RED?"

Jack Merrill
Southwest

Collegian

BOARD OF EDITORS
ROBERT E. STEIN, Editor-in-Chief; FRAN T. BASCHE, Managing Editor; JEFFREY F. BIANCHI, Graphics Manager; JONATHAN KLEIN, Business Manager; ERIC H. JANSZEN, Executive Editor; RICHARD NAGLE and JAMES RAHONEY, News Editors; JANE DeVIRGILIO, Women's Editor; JIM MORAN, Arts Editor; KAREN THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; DONNA SULLIVAN and JONATHAN HAMILTON, Sports Editors; PAUL PRICE, Photo Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
ANDREA ATKINS, CATHERINE CLABBY, JIM KANE, ED LEVINE, GAYLE YOUNG, Associate Managing Editors; BOB CARR, Associate Graphics Manager; JOE GANNON, Associate Executive Editor; NANCY ANDERSON, Associate News Editor; LILLIAN SINGER, Associate Women's Editor; MARY KINNEAVY, Associate Arts Editor; JOYCE McLAURIN, Associate Black Affairs Editor; NANCY NUTILE, Associate Photo Editor.

BUSINESS STAFF
KATHRYN KRESS, Advertising Manager; VICKI EGGERT, Finance Manager; JOSEPH RADLEY, Circulation Manager; MICHELLE SILVERSTEIN and JAY N. LUSTIG, Assistant Advertising Managers.

The Collegian is the newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons and letters represent the personal views of the authors.
The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.
The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertisements lies with the individual advertisers.
USPS 333 220

Cheating; it just never pays

To the Editor:

This letter might rid my conscience of guilt, but that is not important. What happened, happened. What's done, is done.

It was my birthday and unfortunately I had a big exam, for a course in my major. Not taking it was out of the question, but I was disappointed because I was psyched to go out and get wasted.

The test began as usual with the exception that the professor was giving two exams simultaneously that evening; that, in addition to the other test being given made things hectic. My teacher had three classrooms to cover, and an honor society meeting to attend. He was busy. As a matter of fact he was gone.

My performance so far in the class had been less than medicore and the test was crucial. Do I cheat? Do I dare? I looked around the class and saw a number of students with class notes, textbooks, and crib notes out. Competition? You know it!

I went up to the front of the class to get more work sheet paper and saw a completed exam. I returned to my seat and said to myself, You need an A, go for it.

I did and I'm sorry.

I was shaking nervously as I tried to copy it onto my paper, but almost couldn't. Fear and guilt made my hands quiver. Suddenly our professor walked in the room and stared. He knew.

Eventually I stuffed the exam into my bookbag, handed in my copy and walked out the door. I ran up to his office, stuck the other exam under his door and remained in disbelief as to what had happend. Was I in trouble? Will he accuse me? Will I be kicked out of school?

Attending the class from there on was impossible since I could not face him. He was not only an excellent teacher, but he was fair. It was not until the next exam that he informed me that he knew. Although he was not willing to take the steps necessary to kick a student out of school, I would fail the class active immediately. I got off lightly.

Everything happened so quickly and, believe me, it is not worth it. Cheating is worthless and will get a student nowhere. I know students that pretend to breeze through school on cheating and their marks and habits reflect their attitudes.

In conclusion, I apologize to the student whose exam I took, and to my professor who was most gracious in his actions towards me. I intend to take the course over with him next semester. This time I will do it right, beginning with homework, class attendance and exam performance. It will be difficult but it will be worth it. Learn from my mistake.

Name withheld by request

The Homecoming Queen is a great American tradition like war, CIA involvement, big bombs, political prisoners, Richard Nixon, Anita Bryant, Richard Helms
Mr. Goodbar, Coal Whipt
UMOC

SOUNDS GREAT℠
OPENS IN SPRINGFIELD.

Introducing Sounds Great.
Springfield's first Discount Warehouse of Stereo Components, Video and car stereo systems.
YOU'VE GOT TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

LOWEST TAPE PRICES IN SPRINGFIELD

TDK DC 60 - ALL PURPOSE HIGH BIAS NORMAL CASSETTE 60 MIN
$.79

SAC 90 - HIGH BIAS PREMIUM CASSETTE 90 MIN
$2.49

maxell UD C 90 - BEST ALL-WAY STANDARD BIAS CASSETTE
$1.99 LIMIT 6

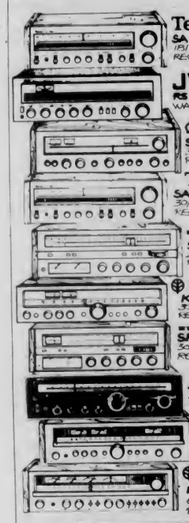
ACCESSORIES

maxell TAPE CARE KIT - INCLUDES HEAD CLEANING FLUID, APPLICATOR, LENS, AUDIO INSPECTION MIRROR
$3.88

TDK HD01 - CASSETTE TYPE ELECTRONIC DEMAGNETIZER
$18.89

HEADPHONE EXTENSION CORD - 25 FOOT COILED CORD
$3.98

RECEIVERS
GUARANTEED LOWEST PRICES ON NATIONAL BRAND NAME RECEIVERS.



Technics SA 101 - 15/18 WATTS RMS RECEIVER
$119.

JVC RS 5 - 25/25 WATT RMS
$129.

PIONEER SX 680 - 30/30 WATT RMS RECEIVER
$139.

Technics SA 202 - 30/30 WATT RMS RECEIVER
$149.

SR 1000 - 25/30 WATTS RMS RECEIVER
$169.

KENWOOD KR 3010 - 35/35 WATT RMS RECEIVER
$179.

SR 2000 - 50/50 WATTS RMS RECEIVER
$199.

OPTONICA SA 5105 - 25/25 WATTS RMS RECEIVER
$219.

KENWOOD KR 5010 - 60/60 WATTS RMS
$259.

KENWOOD KR 6050 - 80/80 WATTS RMS RECEIVER
$329.

WHY PAY MORE!

VIDEO
SEE OUR SELECTION OF VCR's, CAMERAS, AND PROJECTION T.V.'s.

MAGNAVOX VK 8310 - MOST VCR CASSETTE RECORDER THAT RECORDS AND PLAYS UP TO 4 HOURS OF A SINGLE 4" VIDEO CASSETTE. FEATURES 24 HOUR AUTOMATIC TIMER FOR WATCHING OR RECORDING TV PROGRAMS $649.

MAGNAVOX VH 8000 - IT'S HERE! THE VIDEO EQUIVALENT OF THE CD AUDIO LASER DISC. THAT ENABLES YOU TO WATCH A VARIETY OF BLOCK BUSTER MOVIES AND EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS IN FULL COLOR AND SOUND THRU YOUR TV SET $649.

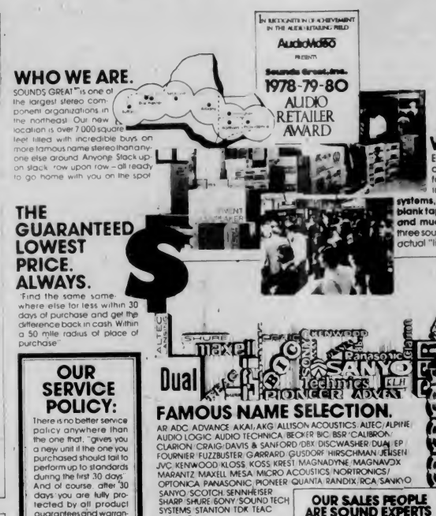
VK 250 - VHS VIDEO CASSETTE, 2 + 6 HOUR RECORDING + TIMER
LIMIT 5 TO A CUSTOMER.
$11.99



WHO WE ARE.
SOUNDS GREAT™ is one of the largest stereo component organizations in the northeast. Our new location is over 7,000 square feet filled with incredible buys on more famous name stereo/home/any-one else around. Anyone. Stack up on stack, row upon row – all ready to go home with you on the spot.

THE GUARANTEED LOWEST PRICE. ALWAYS.
Find the same same where else for less within 30 days of purchase and get the difference back in cash. Within a 50 mile radius of place of purchase.

OUR SERVICE POLICY:
There is no better service policy anywhere than the one that "gives you a new unit if the one you purchased should fail to perform up to standards during the first 30 days. And of course, after 30 days you are fully protected by all product guarantees and warranties. Sounds Great" will even give you a loaner to use until yours is ready, if an unusual period of time is required for servicing.

In electronics in the audio/video equipment in the audio retailing field
AudioMart50
presents
Sounds Great, Inc.
1978-79-80
AUDIO RETAILER AWARD

WHAT YOU'LL FIND.
Enter through the doors of the warehouse and find thousands upon thousands of famous name stereo components including stereo receivers, turntables, speaker systems, amps, tuners, tape decks, headphones, blank tape by the case, compact sound systems and much more. Hear and compare in any of three sound rooms designed to let you select under actual "living room acoustic conditions"

FAMOUS NAME SELECTION.
AR/ADC/ADVANCE/AKAI/AKG/ALLISON ACOUSTICS/AUTEC/ALPINE/AUDIO LOGIC/AUDIO TECHNICA/BECKER/BIC/BSR/CALIBRON/CLARION/CRAIG/DAVIS & SANFORD/DBX/DISCWASHER/DUAL/EP/FOURIER/FUZZBUSTER/GARRARD/GUSDORF/HIRSCHMAN-JEISEN/JVC/KENWOOD/KLOSS/KOSS/KREST/MAGNADYNE/MAGNAVOX/MARANTZ/MAXELL/MESA/MICRO ACOUSTICS/NORTRONICS/OPTONICA/PANASONIC/PIONEER/QUANTA/RANDIX/RCA/SANYO/SCOTCH/SENNHEISER/SHARP/SHURE/SONY/SOUND TECH SYSTEMS/STANTON/TDK/TEAC/TECHNICS

The 10 Point Audio Policy
WRITTEN PROTECTION YOU TAKE HOME
1. Price Protection Policy
2. Trade-In Policy
3. Speaker Trade-In Advantage Policy
4. Custom Design and Installation Policy
5. Selection and Display Facilities Policy
6. Payment Policy
7. Thirty (30) Day Satisfaction Guarantee
8. Ninety (90) Day Exchange
9. Limited Service Warranty
10. Extended Speaker Guarantee

OUR SALES PEOPLE ARE SOUND EXPERTS
This is the place where you will find sales people who know their business, who understand sound. People who own and enjoy stereo everyday. They'll answer your questions on-the-spot. And make sound recommendations, if you like.

How To Find Us
1267 Riverdale Road, West Springfield, MA

SPEAKERS
SAVE ON TOP RATED SPEAKERS.

Randix MX 650 - 3-WAY 5 WAY MOUNTED SIDE SPEAKER
$29

PIONEER PRO MUSICA 80 - 2 WAY SPEAKER
$39.

18" - 3 WAY
$59.

EPI 100V - TWO WAY ACOUSTIC SUSPENSION
$66.

ADVENT UTILITY - MOST SELLING 3 1/2 WAY
$79.

Krest 6698 - THREE WAY SPEAKER SYSTEM
$129.

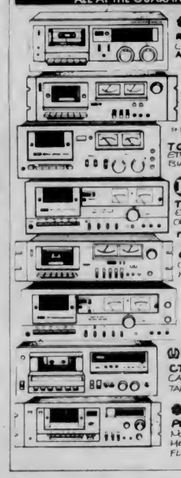
EPI 180 - TWO 8" WOOFERS, TWO 3" TWEETERS IN A SEALED CABINET
$179.

FURNITURE

Technics SH 940 A 3 SHELF CABINET WITH GLASS DOOR AND RECORD STORAGE
$69.

GUSDORF 0140 - TWO SPEAKER STANDS
$6.88

TAPE DECKS
CHOOSE FROM ALMOST 50 DIFFERENT TAPE DECKS – ALL AT THE GUARANTEED LOWEST PRICE



SANYO RD 5009 - 3 PEAK LED METER, METAL CAPABILITY
$99.

TEAC DOLBY CASSETTE DECK
$113

BIC TDS - DOLBY CASSETTE W/ POSITION BIAS AND EQ
$129. Reconditioned

BIC T1 - DOLBY CASS. DECK, 2 SPEED OPERATION
$149. Reconditioned

TEAC CX 370 - HIGH QUALITY CASSETTE, METAL COMPATIBLE
$189.

BIC T3 - TWO SPEED, DOLBY CASSETTE DECK
$239. Reconditioned

PIONEER CT F750 - DOLBY CASSETTE, METAL TAPE COMPATIBILITY
$259.

SANYO PLUS D62 - DOLBY NOISE REDUCTION, METAL CAPABILITY, FLUORESCENT METERS $299.

TURNTABLES
SAVE ON THE AREAS LARGEST SELECTION OF TURNTABLES – ALL AT REDUCED PRICES.

BSR 255 - BELT DRIVE TURNTABLE WITH MAGNETIC CARTRIDGE
$39.

KENWOOD KD 1500 - BELT DRIVE, AUTOMATIC W/ LIFT-OFF TURNTABLE
$59.

JVC LA II
$69.

Garrard GT 250 - BELT DRIVE, SEMI AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE
$89.

Technics SL D2 - DIRECT DRIVE, SEMI AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE
$99.

JVC LA 55 - DIRECT DRIVE, SEMI AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE
$109.

OPTONICA RP 4705 - DIRECT DRIVE, FULLY AUTOMATIC, STEREO AND QUADRAPHONIC
$179.

CAR STEREO
GET THE LOWEST PRICES ON THE BIGGEST SELECTION IN THE AREA.

Clarion AM-FM IN-DASH CASSETTE WITH FAST FORWARD, REWIND AND ADJUSTABLE SHAFTS FOR EASY FIT $59.

Panasonic CQ 6800 - AM-FM IN-DASH CASSETTE PLAYER MADE TO FIT SMALL SIZE CARS.
$99.

JENSEN J 1065 - FAMOUS 6X9 TRIAXIAL SPEAKERS WITH 20 OZ MAGNET
$49. PAIR.

Randix FM CJ 10 - FM CONVERTER ADAPTS ANY RADIO TO FM RECEPTION. EASY TO INSTALL!
$8.88

HEADPHONES

audio-technica ATH1 - CLOSED TYPE DYNAMIC HEADPHONE
$9.88

DYNA 25 - LIGHT WEIGHT OPEN AIR HEADPHONE
$18.88

SENNHEISER HD 414 - ULTRA HIGH COMFORT HEAVY FOAM EAR HEADPHONES
$39.88

LIMIT ONE TO A CUSTOMER

Master Card and Visa Accepted.

Financing Available To Qualified Buyers.

SPRINGFIELD'S NEWEST STEREO/VIDEO PLACE.

Sounds Great, inc.℠
1267 Riverdale Road, West Springfield, MA. (413) 736-6317
(Across From The New Burger King) Mon. thru Fri.
10AM-9PM, Sat. 10AM-5:30 PM

©Sounds Great Inc., 1980

A DEPOSIT AS SMALL AS 10% WILL HOLD YOUR PURCHASE AT THESE SPECIAL PRICES FOR UP TO 30 DAYS

Two students find a moment for togetherness. (Staff photo by Nancy Nutile)

XTC: New album not diverse enough

By Mark Wharton

Looking at the cover seems to be the most intriguing adventure of the album. When removing the appropriately colored green sleeve you are apparently raising the band from the depths of the sea (in this case the Black Sea) only to discover the lack of head head gear. This contradiction in art and genetics seeps through the whole project.

Returning from last year's highly successful album Drums and Wires, XTC appeared on their way to setting new standards in English pop. But after spending just 5 weeks in the British top thirty, Black Sea has already sunk from the charts.

XTC's third and latest album shows the band experimenting with thick wedges of sound, held together by Andy Partridges' repetitious voice.

XTC, whose members call Swindon, England home, were formed four years ago by the guitar of Andy Partridge, the bass of Colin Moulding, the drum of Terry Chambers, and the piano of Barry Andrews. Andrews, who influenced their first album to the point of almost sounding gothic, left after disasterous reviews. He now plays in Robert Fripps' League of Gentlemen, who have surprisingly released a single.

Musically reformed, XTC released its second album Drums and Wires, easily one of the best records of '79, and their first gold. Dave Gregory came aboard to handle the keys. Though Black Sea is held together conceptually and the group's songwriting ability is proven to be good, the new album isn't diverse enough. Listening to Black Sea lyrics you find yourself wading through socially irrevelant mysticism. Drums and Wires' lyrics were not only relevant, but showed a great deal of wit as well. Phrasing like "When you're near me,/I have difficulty" can't miss.

Face A opens with what I thought was a defected record that turns into a scratchy old shanty, and then cuts into thick guitar chords as the band hits "Respectable Streets," a song about social disorders which could be in anyone's neighborhood. With slick casualness, they go whistling through "Generals and Majors' like they were bopping on their second album, but after a few spins the initial stimulus quickly wears away. "Living Through Another Cuba" and "No Language in our Lungs" shows a more serious side of the band, though Partridge sings about conflict and war with the same intensity as a mockingbird swooping through poppy fields. "It's 1961 again and we are piggy in the middle/while war is polishing up it's drum/and peace plays second fiddle."

"Towers of London" opens face B. It, too, wears away early but the strength of this record is within the next three songs. The heavy handed sound is a formula I hope XTC extends to the future. Credit for this must go to Steve Lillywhite, who in working with Peter Gabriel last year undoubtedly came away cymbaless in his drum sound. This wedge of sound has been a Genesis trademark for years, though XTC doesn't meander in the mainstream like the latter.

Looking at the cover—within-the-cover, you'll notice band members Partridge, Moulding, Gregory, and Chambers preparing to depart on a long voyage. But judging from the helm the ship's heading is set for standby. Which is exactly where this record leaves you.

3 hr. night sale

1.00 OFF Rock Album T-Shirts

Coupon valid Dec 10 6-9 PM

$1.00 OFF Daypacks and Mon-Sacs

Coupon valid Dec. 10 6-9 PM

50c OFF All Boxed X-mas Cards all rolled X-mas Wrap

Coupon valid Dec 10 6-9 PM

In the Campus Center Univ of Mass

the University Store

Open
Mon., Tue., Thur., Fri 9-5
Wed. 9-9; Sat. 11-4

Academy of Music
Northampton, Mass.
Only Area Showing
Now, Ends Tues.
At 7:00 and 9:15
"A BRILLIANT FILM. NOT TO BE MISSED!" -Harper's Bazaar

3 ACADEMY AWARDS
JOSEPH E. LEVINE presents AN AVCO EMBASSY FILM
PETER O'TOOLE KATHARINE HEPBURN
THE LION IN WINTER
AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE

Taco Villa
Wholesome Inexpensive Refreshing Change
Downtown Amherst
Mon Tues CASH Anyone
Fri + Sat 11-1 am
Sun-Thurs 11-9

60 bucks to ski & stay for 4 days.
4 days lift tickets.
Ski our 7 miles of well groomed alpine trails without the hassles of long lift lines.
3 nights lodging.
After your exhilarating days, return to comfortable lodgings at the Bretton Woods Motor Inn.
At Darby's Tavern, Febyans Station and the Base Lodge you'll find delicious food, apres ski refreshments and nightly activities.
For reservations and information on other college specials call 1-800-258-0330 or in N.H. 603-278-1000
The place to come back to Midweek - Non-Holiday Period
Ski Bretton Woods

Police

Iranian student is arrested for immigration law violations

By SAMUEL CHALFEN
Collegian Staff

An Iranian student was arrested yesterday for violation of immigration laws by the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the University police department.

The student, Mohammed Reza Ali Hosseini Pournoughi, 22, had remained in the country after his visa had expired, a department of Justice official said last night.

Pournoughi was taken to the Department of Justice in Boston to await a hearing before a federal Immigration Service Judge. If he is found guilty he will be deported to Iran, the Justice department official said.

Further information was not available at press time.

turn to page 15

Ceramics sale offers gift ideas

The fall semester is quickly coming to a close bringing with it masses of perplexed students trying to find good, reasonably priced gifts to bring home with them for Christmas.

"Instead of putting it off until you end up in a frantic search for that last minute Christmas gift, students should come to the Student Ceramic and Glass Sale tomorrow and Friday," said University of Massachusetts Ceramics student, Karen Green.

The sale is being held in the Munson Annex (behind Munson Hall at the end of the ramp behind Whitmore) from 9-6 both days.

